The inauguration of William McKinley means a renewal of confidence, an awakening of business energy, a revival of agricultural interest, and the enlivening of all things that contribute to better times. The man who cannot see such a result has some visual weakness, and should go at once to Collier's and have his eyes examined. Relief guaranteed.

bers. It had been the convention year and this had taken a great deal of effort and time. He suggested that in the coming year the members do more personal work for the Master.

George F. Brown, for nominating committee, then presented the list of nominees for the various offices, and they were elected as follows:

President, L. H. Biglow, Jr.; vice president, S. P. Case; recording secretary, W. O. Chapman; corresponding secretary, Miss Alice Woodland; treasurer, Miss Susie D. Woodland. The chairman of the various committees were chosen as follows: Prayer meeting, Willard Case; lookout, George F. Brown; social, Miss Margaret Harold; music, Miss Florence Marsh; missionary, Miss Julia Shinn; welcome and press, J. G. McLoughlin; flower, Mrs. W. O. Chapman.

Mr. Biglow then took the chair and in a few words thanked the members for the honor bestowed in electing him president. He said that he could not promise anything. He knew that the outgoing president had met with many discouragements and he was inclined to sympathize with him. He did not know how the members would treat him but he hoped it would be with a kindly feeling. In response to a request there were twenty members who promised to bring in at least one new member during the coming year.

After a vote of thanks had been extended to the retiring officers the meeting adjourned and Rev. Dr. Yerkes pronounced the benediction.

The officers-elect were given an informal reception after the meeting, and all resolved to do more the coming year for the society.

PASSING COMMENT.

It is superflous to comment upon the power of the press in any of the things that go to make up this mundane sphere, for either the proposal and propogation of things that are right or the detection and suppression of things that are wrong, but it may be pardonable for this paper now and then, as the circumstances seem to warrant, to refer to its part in affairs out of the ordinary routine of life when credit is reflected to its worth as a medium for reaching the people. To begin with, last November a little summer lodge on the mountain, near Johnston's Drive, was broken into and looted of several valuable articles. The property was that of Mrs. F. O. Herring, and though diligent investigation was made, it was impossible for the owner to get trace of it until last Tuesday night. That morning Thomas H. Keller, of East Front street, had found a bundle secreted under his front porch containing a silver mounted clock and a leather-covered writing set. Mr. Keller was mystified as to how it came there and as to whom its owner might be. A firm believer in the efficacy of printer's ink, he caused a six line notice to be inserted in The Press that night making mention of the fact and asking for information as to where the articles belonged. The item caught the eye of Mrs. Herring, in whose home The Press is a valued visitor each afternoon, and prompted an investigation which resulted in Mrs. Herring proving that the property found by Mr. Keller was the same articles stolen from the lodge four months ago. Mrs. Herring is high in her praise of The Press for having served as a medium through which she regained her lost articles, valuable for their associations. As a token of appreciation she presented The Press office with a beautiful and fragrant hyacinthe, which adds a charm and sweet aroma to quiet the nerves of the editor and make his lot as near a "bed of roses" as a flower not a rose can.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Mattie Barry is visiting friends in New York.

Oscar Runyon visited friends in Somerville, yesterday.

Walter Fleet has rented a house on Front street, and possession will be given on April 1st.

Miss Dunning, of Deckertown, N. J., who has been visiting North avenue friends, returned home yesterday.

William Wilhelm has leased Kathrina Maier's new house on Front street, and will take possession of the same on or about April 1st.

The remains of the late Rev. S. F. Custard were taken to Easton, Pa., today, and deposited in a beautiful plot in the Easton Heights cemetery.

Charles Dineen hasn't heard or seen his watch which was stolen a few nights ago. Charley wouldn't object to paying a reasonable reward for its return.

The last words uttered by the late and lamented Rev. S. F. Custard, only a short time before his death were: "It's a glorious victory; I'm going home to Heaven."

Dunellen's burglar scare has subsided, but the residents do not sleep near so sound as they did a week ago, and besides the dealers report increased sales in powder and shot.

A dozen or so more of the "Wandering Willies" were routed from the sand house at the Greenbrook tanks, late yesterday afternoon. The men are invariably put off of coal and freight trains and the tanks seems to be a general meeting place for them.

Bicyclists complain of the heavy condition of the old New Market road. The sand is very deep, and it is an utter impossibility to propel a wheel through it. Most riders going this way take to the sidewalk, and at night this practice is especially dangerous to pedestrians.

Rev. Mr. Kinzie, a former pastor of the M. E. church here and now of Newark, sent a letter of regrets to the bereaved family announcing his sorrow at the death of Rev. S. F. Custard, and stating also that owing to sickness in his own family, he would be unable to attend the funeral obsequies.

Fireman James Touzeau and Conductor Charles Dinneen have gone in partnership in the chicken breeding business, and they have purchased an incubator with a capacity of 100 eggs. Their first instalment of spring chicks is due early next week, but the market will not be flooded so early in the season.

The Building and Loan Association which has been holding its meeting since the association was organized in April, 1887, in the W. C. T. U., held its last meeting in these rooms on Monday evening. The association will probably hereafter meet in the Town Hall, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made with the borough authorities.

Seventy one members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. turned out in a body at the funeral of their late brother, Rev. S. F. Custard, yesterday afternoon, and besides there were delegations present from Pioneer Council, of Bound Brook; Friendship Council, of New Market; Franklin Council, of Plainfield; Twilight Council, of Scotch Plains and Lakeside Council, Daughters of Liberty, of New Market.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Eight persons will be baptized at the Baptist Church, to-morrow evening.

Goodwill Lodge, K. of P., met last evening. There was no business of importance transacted.

On Thursday evening Twilight Council, J. O. U. A. M., held a meeting and transacted routine business.

The Board of Health also met last evening and organized as follows: Thomas Y. Nichols, chairman; C. H. French, secretary; F. W. Westcott, physician and inspector.

Now that the new officers have taken their seats the residents of the township hope that some good work will be accomplished. There is much that needs attention and speedy action will be very gratifying to all.

SCHOOL ELECTION NEXT.

CONSIDERABLE COMMENT ABOUT WESTFIELD'S PRESENT BOARD.

Several Aspirants for Members of the Board, but it is Conceded That Charles Foster Will Represent Mountainside.

There is considerable advance interest shown over the coming election of four school trusrees, which takes place next Tuesday evening at the Prospect street school. The present School Board or a part of it is not much more popular than the late Town Committee. The voters intend to demand an itemized report, and if they issue such a garbled and unintelligible report as the last report of the Town Committee not one of the present Board need hope for re election. The people simply will not stand it hereafter. They insist that from now on they shall demand to know for what and why each and every cent is spent. There are four trustees to be elected next Tuesday evening and already there are quite a number of aspirants for the places. The borough of Mountainside is entitled to one and it is conceded that Charles Foster will be the one. Lawyer John B. Green is a candidate for re-election, and there are others.

Quite a number of interested citizens came to the town committee meeting last evening to be present at the first meeting of the new year and celebrate the seating of a Democratic member Christopher H. Harden. Charles G. Endicott, Republican, was chosen chairman. The following newly elected officers were sworn in, J. J. Coger, commissioner of appeal; J. M. C. Marsh, assessor; Addison H. Clark, collector, bonds fixed at $15,000; Dr. Sherman Cooper, surveyor of highways. W. Moorehouse, defeated Republican candidate for assessor, was elected treasurer and his bonds were fixed at $5,000. The committee adjourned and organized the Board of Health. John M. C. Marsh was chosen secretary, and Dr. J. B. Harrison was retained as health inspector. There were six bad cases of diphtheria reported to the Board in the families of Samuel Moffett and Mr. Edwards, of Picton street and Central avenue. There are no less than four families in the one building, which consist of twenty-nine persons, of which twenty-one are children.

Mrs. Decker and Miss Loughlin returned from Washington last evening.

Miss Margaret Baker, of Pougkeepsie, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baker, of Broad street.

Mrs. J. B. Harrison returned yesterday from Mobile, Ala., where she has been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown, of New York avenue, are happy over the addition of a boy to the family.

Dr. A. J. C. Skeene, of Brooklyn, has rented Mrs. Stitt's mansion and will open a sanitarium here soon.

Justice Hart gave his decision in the Monroe against Gunn case. The suit was for $14. Judgment was rendered for $9 and costs.

Mrs. L. E. Wooley was in Westfield early yesterday morning, the first time since her illness. They have been in Plainfield awhile, and will go to Elizabeth Sunday to visit Mr. Wooley's parents and return here Monday. Mr. Wooley and the child are both indisposed.

Mrs. Melvin died suddenly at her home on the Folsom farm on Rahway road yesterday morning. Mrs. Melvin was subject to fainting spells. The one she had yesterday proved fatal, she never regaining consciousness. Her funeral will probably be held to-morrow.

Chicken thieves made an unsuccessful raid at Col. Morrow's Thursday night. The Colonel keeps some valuable chickens and two valuable dogs. The would-be thieves poisoned one dog and tried to get at the chickens, but before they could make the haul the other dog gave the alarm and the men were scared away.

There is a little boy here by the name of McIntyre, a step son of McDonald, the harness maker, that bids fair to become an inmate of the Reform School. A few weeks ago while the commuters were in line buying their monthly tickets he picked $10 out of one man's pocket but was detected and caught before he could get out of the depot and the money recovered. His latest escapade consist of going to Walker's grocery and getting raisins and pickels and such things as he could eat, telling Mr. Walker that Messrs. Archbold & Scudder, who run a meat market on the opposite side of Broad street, desired them for one of their customers. The little fellow is full of such tricks and some of the merchants propose to make complaint against him.

The new town committee consisting of T. Y. Nichols, W. H. Terry and Theodore Bruchman met last evening and organized by electing Mr. Nichols chairman, and Theodore Bruchman treasurer. The new officers qualified as follows: Collector, J. L. Darby; Assessor, C. H. French; Constables, Wm. Traynor and Robert Walpool; Surveyor of Highways, C. W. Brown.

—Eggs, twenty for 25 cents. Warranted fresh. At MacDonald's.

Dangers of the Grip.

THEATRICAL.

Hi. Henry's minstrels, numbering fifty performers, will appear at Music Hall on Wednesday, March 17. The bright comedians, Arthur Deming and Chas. Kenna, head the list of eight fun makers; their eight accomplished vocalists are headed by the popular Harry Leighton; among the specialties are the celebrated Patrol Quartet, the Mirellas, the Albions, the Spanish Dansuese Conchita, the world's buck dancer, Mr. Ed. Swan, Deming and Kenna in amusing specialties, a solo orchestra of fifteen, and Hi. Henry in cornet solos, supported by his military band of 25 instrumentalists. Matinee for children.

DRESS REFORM CLUB.

THE PRESIDENT BALKS AT SHORT SKIRTS IN FAIR WEATHER.

Several Smart Raps are Dealt the Men During a Discussion in Which Quotations from the Bible and Shakespeare Get Very Much Mixed.

Biblical quotations, bicycles, saddles, short skirts, experiences of married life, Delsarte movements, and horrible men were the subjects discussed simultaneously and in a potpourri of argument at the last meeting of the Health Culture Club, at 53 Orange Street, Brooklyn, the residence of Dr. O. F. McCune.

About forty women were present when Mrs. Lumsten, President of the club, opened the meeting with an address on dress reform. By way of prelude she quoted the verse, St. John iii., 2: "Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayst prosper and be in health."

"A serious mistake," said Mrs. Lumsten, " is made by those who adopt the reform in length of dress even in the fullest extent, but make no reform in other respects. Do you advocate the short dress, bloomer, or American costume?

"We advocate no particular style of dress. We simply state the principles which should be regarded in clothing the body from a medical standpoint, leaving each to decide for herself. Of all women of the earth, we of this nation suffer most from the cruel tyrannies of dress. None needs a serviceable costume so much as we, and none has one so bad.

"The young lady who may tower perhaps head and shoulders above her senior does not shock the supersensitive world by the shortness of her gown and the exposure of her feet and ankles. But let her grow in years, though not in stature, and she becomes a monster in the eyes of the public if she insists upon retaining the freedom of movement her short dress formerly permitted There really seems to be no prescribed limit to the height to which skirts may be lifted in walking, if only the wearer is hung around with clogged folds, from which she can never free her hands. Holding on to the draperies as if for dear life, she may raise them to her knees and her style of clothing is tolerated with complacency. But let it be known or seen that the dress is hung so as never to come below the tops of the boots, and the limbs properly clad wth leggins, and fears are harbored for the appearance and morals of the woman. Instead of such an attire being ugly, it can be made tasteful and becoming."

The speech was received with genuine applause, but a young lady sitting in a corner asked her mother, who was the last one to stop clapping her hands: "Well, mother, why don't all these women wear short skirts? The rule of the club is that they are to wear them three inches from the ground in fair weather, and six inches in wet, and look, there's only one woman here who is wearing a short skirt." The mother would not reply, but merely looked at the one short-skirted woman with a pitiful smile.

A pale-looking little woman in a remote corner here ventured the remark that public opinion was against any radical reform in woman's dress, and the men did not like it, either. Mrs. Lumsten heartily indorsed this statement. "Yes," said she. "Just think, ladies; I went out one fine day with my rainy-day skirt on, and a lot of horrible men laughed at me and ridiculed me so that I had to fly back in a hurry. No more short skirts for me on fine days."

The woman with the short skirt rose to her feet in an instant.

"Ladies," said she, "this is all bosh. There are two commandments in the Bible, one is "Honor thy father and thy mother," and the other is "Parents, provoke not your children to wrath." The latter may be from Shakespeare, but that doesn't make any difference. Now, I want to tell you that much of the disrespect shown us by men is due to the fact that we haven't sufficient self-respect. If we assert ourselves and insist upon our rights we will get them. We can wear any kind of clothes we want to wear, and if it does us good what do we care for the men?"

"Yes, indeed," chimed in Dr. McCune, an old lady of over sixty, "men have it their own way too much, anyhow. They don't know any more than we do, and still they think they can rule us with a rod of iron. It is about time this thing should stop."

Mrs. Cockran, the expert on parliamentary law, saw an opportunity here for a talk on married life and she took advantage of it. "I have a husband," she remarked, "who is the best man in the world, the prince of his fellows, and all my life I have had my own sweet will when it did not interfere with his. The ridicule of the press is what hurt us!"

General laughter followed, indulged in by all except one old lady who got up and announced that while she was a woman suffragist and an admirer of Susan B. Anthony she could also tell something of married life. Some of the women present showed signs of weariness, the younger ones especially making signs of distress, but the married-life experience question was fairly launched and no one dared stop it.

The toast of the accomplished Judge Story, at a dinner in honor of Mr. Everett's appointment as ambassador to the Court of St. James, was very graceful. "Genius—sure to be welcomed where Everett goes!" The neat response to this was—"Law, equity and jurisprudence—no efforts can raise them above one Story!"

NOT SO CRAZY AS HE SEEMED.

A Lunatic's Reason for Pushing a Wheelbarrow With the Wrong Side Up.

At Bloomingdale Asylum they have among the assembled lunatics many who are not too violent or too mischievous to be allowed to roam about the grounds. Recently the superintendent has given occupation to some of these "trustees," by utilizing them in carrying on the improvements about the asylum grounds. Some of them have been set to trudging bricks in wheelbarrows.

A few days ago one of the attendants saw a gray-bearded wheelbarrow man promenading solemnly through a side path, pushing before him a wheelbarrow turned upside down.

"Here, you," cried the attendant, "hold on."

The lunatic stopped with a weary sigh.

"Well," he said, "what is it?"

"What are you doing with that wheelbarrow?"

"Friend," replied the crazy man, with patient courtesy, "if you had watched me carefully you would have seen what I was doing with the wheelbarrow. I was pushing it, friend. I will now push it some more."

He started on.

"Hold up a minute," protested the attendant. "Don't you know that it is foolish to push a wheelbarrow that is wrong side up?"

"Foolish?" said the lunatic. "Not on your life is it foolish! I am not so crazy as I look, friend. Yesterday I kept my wheelbarrow right side up and a pie-faced Irishman came along and filled it full of bricks. I know better, now."

A SENATOR'S STRIPED UNDERWEAR.

Taken for a Convict While Traveling in a Sleeping Car.

A western senator, who has always been addicted to the habit of wearing striped underwear, had a narrow escape recently on that very account. The striped underwear worn by the distinguished senator looked for all the world like a prisoner's garb, but of course, that aspect of the case did not suggest itself to the senator. While en route to Washington last month, after he had been re-elected for another six years, the fact came to him in a striking way. It was on a sleeping car at night. The car pitched and threw him out of the lower berth onto the floor, clad in his striped underwear.

The lurch of the car startled other folks, too, and two ladies on the opposite side of from the senator stuck their heads out to see what the commotion was all about. When they saw the senator crawling under cover in his striped garb, thinking he was an escaped convict, they screamed, and pandemonium reigned. The porter was summoned, whereupon the ladies commanded him to remove the "convict."

It took all the "senatorial courtesy" the senator could rake up to prove an alibi, and he was finally able to demonstrate who he was; but he has since abandoned the idea of wearing striped underwear, having reached the conclusion that plain flannels without stripes are much better and far safer.—Washington Post.

Stuck in a Bog.

An Irishman one day went running into a farm yard and cried for a spade. The farmer, coming out, demanded what he wanted with it, when Pat replied that his friend had stuck in a bog, and he wanted to dig him out.

"How far in is he?" inquired the farmer.

"Up to the ankles," said Pat.

"Is that all?" said the farmer. "Then he can pull himself out again. You'll get no spade here'"

Pat, scratching his head, whilst his face bore evident signs of grief, blurted out:

"Och! but, be jabers, he's in head first!"—From Answers.

A Mixed Citizenship.

An old man named Whittaker, in Geneva County, Ala., has lived in the same place for fifty years, and yet he has been a citizen of two states and four different counties. At first he voted and paid taxes in Jackson County, Fla.; then a readjustment of county lines showed that he was in Holmes County, to which his duties as a citizen were transferred. Later a survey of the boundary line between Alabama and Florida showed Mr. Whittaker that he was an Alabamian, and a resident of Dale County, in which he continued until Geneva County was created, when he found himself a citizen of that county.—New York Tribune.

Unable to Climb Mushrooms.

A short time ago a young Londoner, who had never been out of London in his life, received an invitation from an acquaintance in the country, asking him to have a run out over to his place for a few days and give him a lift at gathering mushrooms. This is the reply he sent:

"Dear Jack: I'm very glad to hear as how you and the missus is all right, but I can't come over and see you, becos I'm afraid I would be no use at gathering mushrooms, for you know very well I can't climb."—Up-to-Date.

Remarkable Bulls of a Professor.

A very absent-minded German professor named Johannes Amer lately died at Vienna, and the following are specimens of his remarkable bulls: "Julius Caesar, disguised as a slave, swam naked across the Tiber." "Covered with innumerable wounds, Caesar fell dead near Pompey's statue. With one hand he covered his face with his toga, and with the other he called for help."—Cincinnati Inquirer.

RED IN MILLINERY.

(By Special Arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.)

If color can sound the note of the new millinery, red bids fair to reign supreme in this branch of fashion. The first display of spring hats and bonnets is always a jumble of startling colors and shapes altogether discouraging to the women who prefer elegant and not conspicuous head gear, but as the season advances the popinjay style of hat disappears and good taste and moderation have an inning. Just at present red straw, red tulle, and red flowers, in more shades than nature can produce, are combined in one hat. Poppies and geraniums have the lead in red blossoms, but there

Tulle, with narrow satin straw sewn on in many rows, is used for bows, and sequined net will be much employed. Aigrettes of all sorts and kinds are in order, as are black and white paradise plumes, and ostrich feathers curled round the top in a sort of fringe. Every kind of ornament in gold, pearl, steel, jet, and rhine stones will be used, and a great deal of horse hair lace which is well spangled. Moire, glace, and gauze ribbons are the special kinds in favor, and white, in ribbon, flowers, lace and tulle, will be very much worn when the warm days come.

With most kinds of flowers foliage will have a very important place, and lilies of the valley, sweet peas, Scotch thistles, and both white and colored violets are choice selections. Yellow flowers are to be much worn, and cowslips arranged to stand up in a sort of fringe or comb at the back of the hat are a novel fancy.

The fashion of wearing the hats well tilted over the eye promises to continue throughout the summer, and certainly the shade given to the eyes is very acceptable, even though it is not always becoming. The shapes in hats are legion, since so many are made to order out of the pretty soft braids by the milliners to suit the wearer, but the sailor shape with the pretty straight brim and medium low crown, will not be ousted.

A Timely Warning.

A Georgia judge warned his people with regard to coming into court intoxicated, and used these words—"I wish to put everybody on notice that, if they come into this court-room while I am sitting on this bench drunk, they had better look out!"

Why is there always a moral influence associated with a piano?—Because if it isn't upright, it's square.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the True King Of Medicines.

More Powerful Than the Most Absolute Monarch, for It Creates Health and Strength. Dr. Greene's Nervura the Greatest Cure Known to Man.

At this season of the year you need a spring medicine for your blood and nerves, for your nerves are weak, your blood impure and your system is run down in vitality and vigor. You need toning up, strengthening, vitalizing. While not exactly sick, you are out of order, feel languid, tire easily, do not eat or sleep well, have headache, stomach trouble, neuralgia, rheumatism or liver and kidney complaint. You are feeling nervous, out of sorts, and without your usual strength, vim, energy and vigor, and you need Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, which is exactly what will set you right again—the best spring medicine you can possibly take.

The only sure way to enrich and purify your blood is by taking Dr. Greene's Nervura, the greatest blood and nerve remedy in the world. There is nothing equals this sovereign remedy. It is simply infallible. It sweeps out all impurities, vitalizes the blood, enriches the life-giving stream, strengthens the nerves, regulates all the organs, invigorates the entire system, in fact, eliminates every vestige of weakness and disease and makes you strong and well.

Get Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to-day. You need it now, and now is the best and easiest time of year to be cured. Don't sit and fret over your weakness, troubles and pain, but get this sovereign remedy and be cured.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is unlike any other remedy in the world. Don't, therefore, be persuaded to take something else claimed to be "just as good." There is nothing else as good and as sure to cure as Dr. Greene's Nervura. Call for it and see that you get it.

Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills should be kept in the house, for they are the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Sugar coated, easy to take, certain and pleasant to act.

Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, who has the largest and most successful practice in the world, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. There is nothing to pay for consultation, examination and advice, and the low price of his wonderfully curative medicines places them within reach of everybody.

Union County Orphan's Court.

On the Application of Edward Nugent, Administrator with the will annexed &c., of Mary Manning, deceased, for sale of lands to pay debts. } Order to Show Cause.

Edward Nugent, Administrator with the will annexed, &c., of Mary Manning deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay her debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises. It is, on this twenty-seventh day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Mary Manning, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the thirty-first day of March next, at 10 a. m., to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Mary Manning deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay her debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require.

FITZ GIVES IN.

Finally Accepts Siler's Interpretation of the Queensberry Rules.

Carson, Nev., March 13.—Several minor difficulty problems in connection with the big fight have been discussed and solved, principally among them being the agreement between the fighters as to the Queensberry rules and Dan Sturat's compromise with the kinetoscope company. Martin Julian, representing Fitzsimmons, and W. A. Brady, acting for Corbett, met George Siler and Dan Stuart in the latter's office and took up the question of rules. Each clause of Siler's instructions were taken up and worked over. The first eleven rules of Queensberry were passed upon without a hitch. Rule 12 touching upon the London prize ring regulations brought Julian to a white heat and he protested strongly but ineffectually against Siler's judgment which allowed hitting in clinches with a free hand and also on breakaways. "Bob is essentiall a puncher and not a wrestler," he said. "At long range he is invincible. I thought this fight was to be the most scientific ever fought. Now, why does Corbet want to mix matters up so?" Julian found nobody ready to agree with him. Brady came to the scratch and informed all present that Corbett would agree to anything reasonable. Siler, he said, was not Corbett's preference for a referee, but Jim had faith in the gentleman's discretion and honesty and would not squabble over any ruling which was not downright unfair. When Julian realized that he was alone in the controversy, he gave way and agreed to accept the rules. Mr. Rector, who represents the Edison Kinetoscope company, got to Stuart's later and concluded his business arrangements. The most delicate and improved apparatus for reproducing motion on paper will be set up in a box seventeen feet distant from the ringside. It will project no higher than the sides of the private boxes and will not obstruct any views from the rear. Stuart will receive a cash consideration from the company and a per centage of the receipts from such exhibitions. Neither Corbett nor Fitzsimmons will figure in the deal at all.

KAISER MURDER TRIAL.

Increasing in Interest as It Proceeds—Will Last Several Days Yet.

Norristown, Pa., March 13.—The trial of Charles C. Kaiser, jr., for the alleged murder of his wife Emma P. Kaiser, near here on October 28 last, is increasing in interest as it proceeds. It will be in progress for several days more at least. Kaiser claims that his wife was murdered by highwaymen, but the commonwealth contends that the tragedy was the outcome of a conspiracy on the part of Kaiser, James A. Clemmer and Lizzie DeKalk to obtain $10,000 insurance which Mrs. Kaiser had upon her life. The whereabouts of Clemmer and the DeKalb woman are not known. Chief of Police Rodenbaugh of Norristown was called as a witness and produced a purse which he found on Kaiser's person. In the purse, he said, wrapped in paper, was a shirt stud and a diamond. These, the prosecution assumes, constitute the diamond stud which Kaiser said was torn from his shirt front by a highwayman. Attorneys Holland, for commonwealth, and Larzelere, for the defense argued at length upon an endeavor of the former to prove certain declarations made by Clemmer as corroborative of the conspiracy theory. Judge Swartz decided to admit Clemmer's declaration, but stated that the commonwealth had not thus far located the man in question at the scene of the murder.

Refused Relicense.

Columbus, O., March 13.—State Insurance Commissioner Matthews has refused to relicense the Guarantors Liability Indemnity company of Philadelphia to do business in this state. He states in his letter to the general manager of the company that the action is taken because of the reduced financial condition of the company as shown by its reports and other official papers filed in his office.

Illicit Still Raided in New York.

New York, March 13.—United States internal revenue officers last night raided an illicit still in the basement of a tenement on Pitt street. They arrested a man named Friedland, who is alleged to be one of the parties operating the still. The officers found two complete stills in operation.

OUTLOOK OF BUSINESS

No Unfavorable Symptoms Have Appeared This Week.

THE IMPROVEMENT CONTINUES SLOW

The Number of Works Resumed or Increased Force Greater This Week Than in Any Week Since November—Prices Still Low.

New York, March 13.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just closing will, to-day, say: The increase of productive industries and of legitimate business steadily grows. No genuine or lasting improvement could come otherwise than slowly and step by step after such a depression as the past four years have witnessed, and the most hopeful feature of the situation is that the gain is so nearly devoid of elements which involve unsoundness and probable reaction. The first step toward prosperity is to get the wheels started and the hands employed, and the number of works which have resumed or increased force during the past week is greater than in any week since November. While the start has been secured in many cases by contracts at extremely low prices, the hands are earning more and aid more the general recovery than if not working at all, and thus far important strikes have been avoided in most cases, though some are still threatened. The money markets continue especially favorable to industrial recovery, and there is no such speculative epidemic as to lock up an excessive share of available capital. The annual statements of wheat in farmers' hands on March 1 have not in the least stimulated speculation. Those commonly considered worthy of attention indicate that farmers' and commercial supplies exceed the outside estimate of home demand by much more than the quantity likely to be wanted for export in view of the continued outgo of corn.

Cotton, Wool, Boots, Shoes and Iron.

Cotton is not active, though a sixteenth higher, for the curtailment of consumption by many mills does not yet help prices in the least, nor the suspension of print cloth reports, and dealers so generally hold back orders for other goods that the tone is weak. The speculation in wool continues. While there is much trade between dealers, manufacturers show by purchasing far beyond their present wants the belief that larger business is coming. More mills have resumed, and in higher grades the demand for goods visibly increases, although for cheap goods buyers appear to have satisfied their present wants. More boot and shoe factories have found enough orders to start, in spite of reluctance of jobbers to pay higher prices asked, and though some in order to start have taken orders which are said to promise no profit, the dealers are becoming less expectant that prices will decline, and are buying more freely. The demand for finished iron and steel products still lags behind the supply of pig iron, except in the great steel works whose stocks are not reported, but their orders without doubt cover full production for several months. Bessemer pig is a shade lower, but no other change in quotations appears, and there is gradual increase in the demand for plates, sheets and all the wire family of products. With the advent of spring weather and out door work much more business is expected. The starting of the Maryland rail works under contract with the Carnegie company, in order to make shipments by water more cheaply, is significant.

In the Railroad World.

The chief events in the railroad world have been encouraging. The transfer of the Lehigh Valley to the control of the Morgan and Drexl houses promises important relief, and tends towards greater harmony of coal interests for the future. The effects of the Lake Shore bond transaction are still felt, giving increased encouragement, and the trip of Mr. Morgan to London is expected to result in negotiations of large influence upon the money market. The reports made to date of railroad earnings in February cover 45 per cent. of the total mileage in this country, and the United States roads alone show earnings in that month of only a tenth of 1 per cent. less than last year. March earnings thus far reported show an increase of 3.0 per cent. over last year, and the tonnage westbound, as well as the better class of eastbound tonnage, is gradually gaining. The volume of business shown by clearing house is but 1.8 per cent. smaller than last year. The sudden change in the movement of money away from New York is partly in preparation for unusually large April settlements, but also to supply currency for movement of crops remaining in producers' hands. There is a better demand due to preparation for removal of goods from bonded warehouses in case of an advance of duties.

Canal Contract Awarded.

Albany March 13.—Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge has awarded a contract for furnishing the lumber needed for the canals the present season to the Laycock Lumber company of Buffalo for $32,665.

For Stealing Postoffice Funds.

New Haven, Conn., March 13.—J. F. Bradley, son of Postmaster Bradley of Sandy Hook, has been bound over to the United States court for stealing $489 of the office funds while he was in charge of the office.

Decrease in Immigration.

Washington, March 13.—There has been a decrease in immigration during the past seven months, compared with the same period of last year, of 45,525.

THREE VERY DESIRABLE HOUSES.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. WHITECAPS AFTER JOHNSON

Handsome Grocer's Clerk Threatened with Death if He Doesn't Leave Town.

Alexander Johnson, a clerk in the grocery of Lehman & Co., Elizabeth has lost several pounds of flesh and has been unable to sleep nights during the past ten days. He is a prepossesing young man and went to Elizabeth from Plainfield recently.

He became at once a great favorite with the young ladies of Elizabeth, and ten days ago he received a letter signed "White Caps," demanding that he leave town. The letter was smeared with real blood, and was decorated with a skull, coffin and crossbones. It threatened Johnson with death if he did not obey. He thought it a joke, but two other letters followed, and he became thoroughly frightened. He has placed the matter in the hands of the police. It is believed that a suitor of one of the young women Johnson has visited is the author of the letters.

Old Borough Resident Dead.

John C. Berry, one of the oldest citizens in North Plainfield, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Bailey, of Craig place, this morning at 11:30 o'clock. He had been sick with pneumonia. He was 90 years of age. He leaves two daughters beside Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Shotwell and Mrs. Sutton.

Mr. Berry way born in Dover, Morris county, 1807, and came to this city in 1865. He was engaged with his brother, Alfred Berry, in the hardware business at the corner of Front street and Park avenue.

Francis J. Blatz, of Somerset street, has been appointed chairman of a committee at the University of New York to arrange a debate with the students of Georgetown University at Washington. The debaters from New York will consist of Messrs. Zimmerman, Stearn and Fitzgerald.

—The death of Mrs. Winafred Ward aged fifty years, occurred at her home in this city today.

Rev. Father Murphy will deliver a sermon in St. Mary's church on the evening of St. Patrick's Day.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

Don't take our word for it that we can accurately fit your eyes with the glasses you ought to have—try them yourself. You will find that you will see better and that that headache you haven't been able to account for, and which is really caused by an undue strain on the optic nerve, has disappeared as if by magic.

Grace M. E. Social.

An entertainment and social was held at Grace M. E. Church last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. The programme included a piano solo by Bert Simpson, recitations by Mr. Whitehead, of Westfield, a selection entitled "Whistling John," by Charles Powell and a chorus of boys and a piano duett by Mrs. Powell and Mrs. H. J. Johnston. Each number was received and the balance of the evening was devoted to sociability and the serving of coffee and cake by the women of the society.

AN ORDINANCE

Vacating an unopened portion of Regent Street.

Whereas, application in writing describing the nature, kind and extent of the work and improvements desired, signed by the owner of at least one-quarter of the lineal feet of land fronting on the street proposed to be vacated, to wit signed by the person owning all of such land, has been presented to the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield asking for the vacation of all that certain part of the Easterly and unopened end of Regent Street hereinafter particularly described:

And Whereas, The Mayor and Council upon receiving said application did cause the Borough Clerk to give notice of the intention of the Mayor and Council to vacate said portion of said street and requiring such persons as might object thereto to present their objections in writing to said clerk on or before a certain day therein named, not less than ten days after the date of such notice, which said notice was duly published and posted according to law, and no objections have been filed by any person or persons:

And Whereas, The Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that said portion of Regent Street hereinafter particularly described be vacated:

Therefore:

Sec. 1. That all that certain part of the easterly end of Regent Street as shown on map entitled "Map of the property in North Plainfield belonging to White, Stone and Hillman," on file in the office of the Clerk of Somerset County, which is not actually opened and which lies easterly of the street known as Whitewood Avenue, and more particularly described as follows: The centre line thereof beginning at a point in the easterly side line of Whitewood avenue said point being distant along said side line twenty-five feet Northwesterly from the northwesterly corner of lot number 22 in Block F as shown on aforesaid map; running thence easterly along said centre line of Regent street one hundred and forty feet to a point in the centre of the easterly end of said Regent street as shown on the said map, and there ending including the full width of said street, twenty-five feet on each side of said described centre line for the full one hundred and forty feet as laid out, be and the same is hereby vacated and all rights and easments of the public in or to the lands occupied by said portion of Regent Street, surrendered.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect on the twenty-sixth day of March, 1897.

ATHLETICS NOW TALKED.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PREPARING FOR ADVENT OF SUMMER.

The Winter Features of School Life Are Beginning to Lose Interest and Out-of-Door Pastimes Will Take Their Place.

With the sign of the approaching spring on every side there comes the added interest among the students of the Plainfield High School in the natural sciences, for there are prospects of trips of investigation afield. Interest in athletic sports has also grown apace. The cadets are looking forward to the time when they will be able to leave the Cycle Academy and drill out of doors again.

The studies at the High School are pregressing steadily. All the classes are advancing in their work with no holiday to interrupt. With the departure of winter seems to go the interest in the glee club and rehearsals are few. There will probably be an attempt to start work in that line for the spring in a few weeks.

The cadets are hard at work and are rapidly learning the bugle calls so that they will be able to manœvre directed by the bugle alone. More intricate movements are being taken up and the company will be able to make an excellent appearance when they take part in any parades or exercises this spring.

Even while the thoughts of many of the boys of the school are turned o the athletic and baseball field, interest in the Kappa Delta Phi has by no means lessened. If anything, it has increased. The regular weekly meeting of that society was held Friday afternoon in the High School building. Vice President Charles Noble presided in the absence of President Henry W. Brower. William Fisher acted as secretary pro tem in the absence of Secretary Sydney R. Titsworth.

The programme consisted of a debate on the subject, "Does the small college offer greater advantages to the student than the large university?" The speakers for the affirmative were Charles Noble and N. Stanley Peck. Arthur W. Lederer and George P. Smith were the debaters on the negative side. A committee composed of William A. Fisher, William DeLong, and William B. VanAlstyne decided the debate in favor of the negative. The fraternity committee made its report and its recommendations were adopted. It was decided to elect a committee, composed of two members of the alumni and one member of the High School, to revise the constitution according to the recommendations. The alumni members chosen were Henry Eggerding and Charles B. Morse, and the High School member W. A. Fisher.

The programme was arranged for the meeting two weeks from yesterday. It will be a debate on the question "Should the arbitration treaty between the United States and England be ratified?"

There are two important projects with which the Athletic Club is struggling at present. One is the concert which the association, or rather which the friends of the association, are to give for the benefit of the treasury, which is sadly in need of help from somewhere. The concert will be held on Saturday evening of next week and will really be worth attending. Some of the best musical talent, vocal and instrumental, in the city, are to take part, and Jere M. Cobb, the well-known reader, is to assist. It is to be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall and tickets may be obtained from any member of the association for twenty-five cents. It is hoped the friends of the association and the High School will liberally patronize the entertainment.

The other thing which is worrying the members of the association is the baseball team which is to represent the High School on the diamond this season. It has been several years since the High School has had a baseball team worthy of the name, but all the clubs in the New Jersey Interscholastic Association are expected to have a team on the field and the Plainfield High School will be up with the rest. There is an unusual amount of good material from which to draw and a good nine is predicted.

Arthur W. Lederer is the manager of the team, and, at a recent meeting of the association, was elected captain of the nine. Besides him there are ten other candidates who are anxious to make a pace on the team. Lederer is the only capable catcher in the school, but there are two candidates for the position of pitcher. Charles Noble and Carman P. Sutphen are both trying for the place. The other candidates for the nine are Walter Long, Roy T. Phillips, S. R. Craig, Irving Stewart, William A. Fisher, A. Egan, George Proctor Smith and Harry Cuming.

KINDERGARTEN SCHOOLS

ONE TO BE ESTABLISHED AND OTHERS TALKED OF.

The Need of Suitable Instruction, With Ample Facilities, Recognized by the Board of Education, and Quarters Rented.

According to a recent decision of the Board of Education the building on West Fifth street, formerly occupied by Rogers, the cycle dealer, is now being fitted up for the purpose of establishing a kindergarten which is needed very much. It is the intention to have the place ready for opening in April when the spring term of school begins. Miss Agnes Blair has been secured as teacher of this department.

In connection with this march of improvement for the accommodation of the children of this city, the Board is also considering the advisability of leasing the old Seventh-Day Baptist church or the Olympia building on Sycamore street. The large increase in the number of children makes it imperative that something should be done to provide for them proper school facilities.

A Plainfield Director.

The Associated Colonies of New York City was incorporated at Albany on Saturday with the Secretary of State. The company is formed to colonize arid, irrigable, desert or uninhabited vacant or wooded tracts located west of the Mississippi and in other countries. The capital is $100,000. The directors are William E. Smythe, Willard Brown, Charles H. Botsford, Thaddeus B. Wakeman, B. H. Pounds, W. W. Hazen, of New York city; Charles B. Holmes, of Plainfield; Smith M. Weed, of Plattsburg, and Ervine D. York, of Flushing.

SPRINGTIDE OFFENDERS.

SEVERAL PRISONERS ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT TODAY.

A Fat Man Who Was Lifted Off of a Train by Three Men and Carried to Jail by Two Policemen—Sentence Suspended.

There were a number of offenders in the lockup this morning, and the City Judge had more to do than he has had for some time. The first man was a French glove-cutter, who is in the employ of Chapot & Co. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He came home from New York last evening, and being a heavy man, it took the conductor of the train and two brakemen to remove him from the train.

The Frenchman explained through Mr. Chapot, who came to the hearing, that he was merely asleep but Patrolman Higgins, who arrested him, and Sergeant Kiely, who assisted in the removal of the man to the lockup, thought that the man was drunk. Adria Revoux, as the man called himself, explained that he had been drinking a little bit, but that this was the first time he had ever been arrested. He had started to walk home on the railroad tracks when the officer had arrested him. Captain Grant said that the officer had rendered his prisoner a great service by removing him from the track, as he probably would have been struck by a train had he remained on the track long in his condition. The Frenchman had nothing to say, and Judge DeMeza suspended sentence as it was the first offence.

Two "coal commuters" were next brought before the Judge. They said that they were railroad men and were working their way through to Jersey City in search of a job. Their appearance seemed to confirm their words. Their names were Thomas Smith and William Jones. The Judge gave them their choice between ten days in the county jail and paying a fine of $3. One paid the fine and the other went to Elizabeth.

James J. Day was arraigned on the charge of using profane and indecent language on West Third street. He pleaded and was held in $100 bond for trial on Saturday morning. He was arrested by Patrolman Lunger.

Miss Yates' Lectures.

On March 24th and 31st, Miss Elizabeth U. Yates, of Maine, will deliver two lectures in the Y. M. C. A. assembly hall, on the subjects, "United States Congress," and "British Parliament." The Atlanta Constitution, Georgia, in speaking about Miss Yates says, "Miss Yates charmed her audience with her bright original ideas, and the beauty of chaste language, that seemed to fall like pearls from her lips."

Jack's Fiery Troubles.

Ensign and Mrs. Parsons will give an interesting service of song on Tuesday night, entitled "Poor Jack and His Fiery Trials."

BUT ONE G. A. R. POST.

The Decision Make at the Meeting of the Former Post Saturday Night—Very Gratifying to All the Old Veterans in this City

At last the fondest hopes of the majority of the members of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., have been realized, for they decided on Saturday last at their meeting to surrender their charter and accept transfer cards to unite with Post No. 73. This action is one of the most important that has ever taken place in Grand Army circles in Plainfield, and with this step there is attached a great deal of significance.

There were twenty-four members at the meeting and of that number only six voted to hold the charter. There was no opposition worth speaking of, for no one took the opportunity of arguing against the change. At previous meetings the detail work was arranged so that all that remained to be done was to take a final vote.

Post No. 109 was organized several years ago by the required number of veterans, who, for some reason, were dissatisfied with Post 93, of which they were members. For some time they were very strong and seemed to prosper, but as the members grew older they felt the need of union. This fact has been growing on them for some time. There always seemed to be something in the way of a union, but finally the members of Post No. 109 took the matter up in a thorough business-like manner. The division of support accorded the two Posts was a strong factor in bringing them together. They realized they were not growing younger, and felt that to be a strong and influential body they must unite.

On the other hand Post No. 73 was willing to accept the members of the other Post if they were desirous of coming with them. But they, being the oldest Post, did not feel like giving up their name and whatever else they might have gained during their existence as a Post. They made several propositions to the other members, but the last seemed to be the one that pleased them the most. It was that they would accept the members of the other Post on transfer cards if they would give up their charter. This proposition was submitted to the members of Post No. 109 and they discussed it at length at a number of their meetings, and finally agreed to bring the matter up for final action last Saturday evening. This was done with the above result.

All books, records, etc., were ordered returned to the Department officers of New Jersey. The flag, Bible and swords which were gifts of the members of Garfield League, an auxiliary to the Post, were returned to the donors by a unanimous vote. The members will take the rest of this month to close up their affairs and they will then be prepared to unite with Post No. 73 at their first meeting in April.

In consequence of the above action there is great rejoicing among the Grand Army men of the city. They now feel as though they can work with united effort in their patriotic labors. The union will make one of the strongest Posts in New Jersey and as Post No. 73 ranks high in the Department this added strength and influence will bring to her many desirable things worth having.

A Visiting Minister.

Rev. Dr. W. F. Junkin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Montclair, preached in the Congregational church yesterday morning His sermon was a very excellent one. In the afternoon, he took charge of Rev. Mr. Goodrich's class in the Sunday-school. Rev. Mr. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, preached in the Montclair church.

Men Will Tell How to Earn Money.

On Thursday evening, April 1st, the men of Grace M. E. church will hold a social for the benefit of the women as well as the church. The men will earn a dollar and then tell how they secured it. All men will be admitted free, but the women will have to pay. The men will present a pleasing programme and will have full charge of the affair.

Sumner F. Dudley Dead.

Sumner F. Dudley, formerly general secretary of the Orange Y. M. C. A. and well-known all over New Jersey in Association circles, died last Wednesday morning at the residence of his father, Francis D. Dudley, in East Orange. He was forty-three years old and unmarried.

A Liberal Contribution.

Rev. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent avenue church, made an appeal yesterday for funds for foreign missions and $1,300 was subscribed for that purpose by the congregation.

STOLE MEAT AND MONEY

J. M. SMALLEY'S MEAT MARKET BROKEN INTO AND ROBBED.

Gained an Entrance by a Back Window and Departed With Hams, Capons and $3 in Pennies and Nickels.

After a visit to the borough, the burglars have returned to this side of the brook as a field for operations. Last night one of them paid a visit to the butcher shop of Jedediah M. Smalley on Park avenue, near Fourth street. Now Mr. Smalley misses about $3 in small change, six hams and six capons.

When he visited the shop this morning, Mr. Smalley found the window in the rear of the store open and footprints in the snow outside. No noise had been heard by those occupying the flats overhead during the night and the only clue to the thief was the footprint, which was of a small wide shoe with a square toe. An investigation of the store proved that someone had been there during the night.

On closing, Saturday night, Mr. Smalley had left a cigar box, nearly full of pennies and nickels in the store. He had picked the larger coins out of his change and taken them them home and left the rest, intending to take it home to day. The hams and capons were also missed, and there is no doubt but that the thief took them with him.

The police were notified of the robbery this morning but no trace of the thief has been found.

THREATENED LABOR TROUBLE.

Elizabeth Masons to Demand Better Pay for Their Labor.

The boss masons of Elizabeth are greatly worried over a notification they received to the effect that a big strike of masons, bricklayers, and masons' helpers would begin March 22. Nearly all the bosses have made dozens of contracts and Elizabeth is experiencing a building boom. The strike will be felt severely and be disastrous in the extreme. For some months the labor unions have been moving quietly, and Saturday the result of their conferences became known. The masons and bricklayers have decided to demand that eight hours shall constitute a day's work, and the masons' helpers ask a standard scale of $2 a day instead of the $1.75 and $1.85 they now receive. As all of the contracts are based on the old scale of wages, to accede to the demads of the men would bankrupt many bosses, and if they do not grant the request building interests will be paralyzed. Several leading contractors said today that they would pay the extra money nor allow the time scale. Many employees said that they were determined to get what they asked for.

A Florida Emigrant Succumbed.

The famous alligator, which F. L. C. Martin brought home with him from his trip to Florida this winter, has departed to alligator heaven, if one exists. The chilliness of the Jersey weather was too much for the constitution of the native of Florida, and the alligator finally gave up the struggle to the sorrow of its owner. Mr Martine is now having the creature stuffed by Hedden & Welch, the taxadermists, of this city, and will place it in his room to remind him of his pleasant trip to the sunny south.

Not a Burglar.

An attempted burglary was reported to the police by Samuel Ayres, one of the conductors of the Plainfield Street Railway, Saturday evening. Mrs. Ayres had thought that she had heard a man trying to get into the house, and when she moved around she had seen some one run away. The police investigated and found that there had been no attempt but that the man seen running was one of the neighbor's boys running down the street on some simple purpose.

Lehigh's "Suburban Homes."

"Suburban Homes" is the title of a little book issued by Shreve Ackley, the industrial agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, that commends itself for prettiness, pointedness and attractiveness. It is filled with matter-of-fact information concerning the suburban territory that the Lehigh Valley traverses. Each town has a page devoted to its advantages and illustrated with handsome local views.

Red Men to Dance.

At the meeting of Miantonomoh tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men, Friday evening, a committee was appointed to arrange for an entertainment and dance in the near future. The committee has now met and organized with A. J. Stiglitz as chairman. They have decided to give the dance in Red Men's hall on the evening of March 31st. The other members of the committee are C. L. Holdstein, J. A. Karet and D. C. Allen.

NEW PLACE OF WORSHIP

FILLMORE AVENUE BAPTISTS IN THEIR NEW QUARTERS.

Rev. P. S. Gibson Deprecated the Fact That Some Colorod People Had Their Names on Two Church Rolls in This City

The members of the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church dedicated their new place of worship on Madison avenue, yesterday, by holding special services. In the morning and evening the pastor, Rev. Mr. Johnson, preached, and the afternoon service was in charge of Rev. P. S. Gibson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. The later gave a most excellent talk on "Unity."

In regard to a recent statement made by Mr. Gibson about his people making the rounds of the churches, he said that what he does object to is that the people have their names attached to the membership roll of two churches, and then they hope to get all the benefits from both churches. He urged that the members of the Baptist churches be united in their efforts to build up the cause of Christ and their denomination. Mr. Gibson also said that there were some people in town trying to "do him," but he intended to stay until he got ready to go.

Following the above remarks of Mr. Gibson a collection was taken to advance the cause, and nearly $5 was realized. The attendance at all of the services was large and a gratifying amount was received therefrom.

The meeting room has been nicely arranged for the members of this church and they will have a pleasant place to worship. A series of special services will be held for sometime to come under the direction of Rev. Mr. Johnson.

THE BOROUGH SOLONS.

MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN HELD A CONFERENCE ABOUT THE WORK.

Appointment of Heads of Departments Practically Decided on—No Trouble Anticipated Between Mayor and Councilmen

Mayor-elect Wilson and the members of the borough council held a meeting Saturday evening for the purpose of planning for this year's work and deciding about the appointments to be made. The meeting was in every way a harmonious one and the best of feeling prevailed. Judging from the way the new members take hold some excellent work will be done this year.

There did not seem to be any disposition on the part of the Mayor and Council to make any sweeping changes and it is safe to say that there will be no changes in the various heads. Some of the members expressed themselves as being in favor of bringing the police department up to a higher standard of efficiency. There was no inclination to find fault with the head of this department, for on the contrary he was complimimented for his work. The other departments were all reported to be in good hands

Regarding a change in the office of borough magistrate, which has been talked of, it seemed to be the desire to give that office to J. H. Cooley, but it has been learned that a man cannot hold two salaried offices. Justice of the Peace H. S. Thomas has been a possible candidate, but it is doubtful if he receives the appointment.

The slate has been fixed, however, and everything is liable to be adopted as suggested at the meeting.

It was reported on the streets today that an attempt has been made to displace Chief Fairchild, of the fire department. It appears that at the meeting when Mr. Fairchild received the popular vote for chief another candidate appeared in the race. Mr. Fairchild received the support of the members of his company, while the other man was left. The latter did not like this and he sought other methods to beat Mr. Fairchild. He went to the several Councilmen and sought their support, but they said that Mr. Fairchild had been elected as chief by the company and that they were duty bound to respect their vote. There is every probability that Mr. Fairchild will be retained in his same position.

Justice Newcorn Busy.

There were four cases tried before Justice Newcorn and three more to be tried this afternoon. In the contract case of Linke vs. Carson, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in full. In the contract cases of Linke vs. Wallace and Nichols et als vs. Thickston the result was the same. The contract case of Lane vs. Gilby was settled in court.

GAMBLING THE OFFENSE.

POLICE WONDERFULLY RETICENT ABOUT THE ARREST THEY MADE.

It is Thought That Barry is Implicated in a Gambling Raid in the West End—Mum is the Word on all Sides.

The police of this city have a mystery on their hands. There was a batch of offenders in the city court this morning and the City Judge was kept busy for some time giving judgment in the different cases. The last man to come up for trial was a little old man, who gave his name as James Barry. He trembled all over as he was arraigned in front of the Judge. The trial was suddenly brought to a standstill and there was a whispered conference between the City Judge and the Chief of Police. The Judge announced that the trial would be continued at his office. The crowd had shown a look of interest at the appearance of Barry, but they now wandered away.

Barry was taken to the Judge's office under the care of Roundsman Frederickson and there a secret exemination was held to which only the officers of the police force were admitted. Chief Grant absolutely refused to give any information regarding the arrest and trial, other than that the man was charged with being drunk. He refused to tell what sentence the court had imposed on him. As this is not the usual method in the ordinary drunk and disorderly cases, it was evident that there was something in the wind.

The other members of the police force also refused to give any information concerning the case. It was learned, however, that there were several others implicated in the matter, whatever it is.

Later.—It has been learned on good authority that the real trouble last night in which Barry was implicated was gambling and that the police raided a gambling den in the West End making several arrests. There were a number of others at the raided place at the time, many of them men of supposed reputable character, and the police are considering the matter of securing them all if sufficient evidence can be secured. Whether Barry was one ef the gamblers or merely an important witness, it was impossilbe to learn.

The house that was raided is said to be in the vicinity of Third street and Plainfield avenue. The gamblers were making such a noise in swearing over the game that a nearby resident made a complaint, but refused to push it his morning.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Rev. Father Kelly Lectures to a Large Audience in St. Mary's.

As was expected, a large congregation assembled in St. Mary's church last evening at 8 o'clock to hear Rev. Father Charles J. Kelly, of Hoboken, give an illustrated lecture on "Christ, the Beloved."

The lecturer is a gifted speaker, and from the start to the close of his remarks he held the attention of his hearers. He described in an interesting manner the incidents in the life of our Lord, from His birth in the stable at Bethlehem to His crucifixion on Mount Calvary, views of which were thrown on the canvas. In all about one hundred views were shown, including the cities of Nazareth, Samaria, and Jerusalem, places that were closely identified with the life of Christ. The speaker told of the trials and hardships endured by our Saviour during His thirty-three years on earth, His mission being to save all, of His rejection by the Jews, and of His death on the cross.

The scenes were very fine ones, and the lecture was successful in every particular. A number of Protestants were present.

WINNERS AT EUCHRE.

The Saturday Evening Club Entertained by Mrs. Kampman.

The members of the Saturday Evening Euchre Club were entertained last Saturday evening by Mrs. Kampman, of Sandford avenue, who was assisted in entertaining by her brother, Mr. Salkeld. The usual delightful time was enjoyed by all.

The prizes were all gold and consisted of a belt buckle as first ladies' prize, which was received by Mrs. Longman. Nicholas Terhune won the first honors for the men which was a necktie clasp. The second ladies prize, a hat pin, was received by Mrs. Nightingale, and the second prize for the men, a stick pin, was presented to Robert Dryden.

Miss DeCamp, of Chester, was a guest of the club. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden will entertain the club at their next meeting.

THE 55TH CONGRESS

Both Branches Convened in Extra Session at Noon To-day.

TARIFF BILL THE PRINCIPAL WORK

Organization and Drawing for Seats Will Occupy This Afternoon. President's Message To Be Sent in To-morrow.

Washington, March 15.—To-day at noon both houses of the Fifty-fifth congress convened in extraordinary session. It is not likely that the senate will remain in continuous session during the week unless the president is much more expeditious than he has been in making nominations. There is nothing before the senate, and there will be nothing to require close application to business until the committee on foreign relations reports the arbitration treaty with Great Britain. A special meeting for the further consideration of this subject has been called for this afternoon. When Senator Davis' motion to refer the treaty back to the committee was discussed during the recent special session, there was a general expression of opinion that the designation of the judges of the United States supreme court as members of the tribunal should be eliminated. It was thought that as jurists sitting in the court of last resort in this country the judges might be called upon to pass upon questions similar to those that might arise under this treaty of arbitration, and should this prove to be the case the situation would be more than embarrassing, as the opinion of the judge as a member of our own court might act as an estoppel in the exercise of his rights as an independent member of the tribunal.

Republicans Playing a Waiting Game.

It is almost a certainty that the treaty will be amended along the lines of the Turpie amendment of the last session, so as to provide that every case or question intended to be submitted to arbitration under this general treaty shall first be submitted to the senate for its ratification. It seems to be a general impression that when the senator appointed by the governor of Florida to succeed Mr. Call arrives he will be seated. The legislature of Florida does not convene until April 7, and six years ago the senate ad interim under precisely similar circumstances. The appointee from Oregon in place of Mr. Mitchell has not yet arrived. His claims to a seat is regarded as res adjudicata by the decision of the senate in Montana, Washington and Wyoming cases in the last congress. His credentials will undoubtedty be sent to the committee on privileges and elections, as were those of Major Wood, the appointee of Gov. Bradley of Kentucky. Meanwhile the republicans in the matter of organization of committees are playing a waiting game. They will make no effort to do more than fill ther own vacancies until the legislatures of these two states elect. It is understood an agreement has about been reached with the democrats to this end. The proposition to consolidate all elements opposed to the republicans for the purpose of capturing the organization and the committees appears to have fallen through on account of the inability of these elements to come together. The republican majority of the house having adopted in caucus with unanimity the old ticket the organization of that body will take little time.

The New Tariff Bill.

The new tariff bill will be introduced in the house as soon as the organization is perfected and will be referred to the ways and means committee, by whom it was prepared. It is still incomplete. The committee spent the better part of yesterday revising the schedules. Many details require careful consideration and are liable to change at the last moment. A meeting of the full committee will doubtless be called for to-morrow at which time the democratic members who have had no connection with the preparation of the measure will be present. Full committee meetings will continue during the remainder of the week in order that the various schedules may be fully considered and an opportunity afforded the minority to offer their amendments. It is Mr. Dingley's desire to report the bill to the house the first of this week, probably to-morrow, and to have it passed through that body at the earliest practical moment. No satisfactory explanation has been given by the committee as to why incomplete and inaccurate drafts of the proposed bill have been permitted to be published.

The President's Message.

President McKinley put the finishing touches on his message to the Fifty-fifth congress this morning, but, in view of the necessity for the organization of the house before the joint committee of the two houses can be appointed to wait upon him and inform him that congress is ready to receive the communication, it has been decided not to undertake to send the message to congress before to-morrow. While but little time will probably be occupied in organizing the house, the greater part of this afternoon will be necessary for the drawing of seats by members. It is expected that the president's communication will be laid before the respective houses by 1 o'clock to-morrow.

W. W. Astor's Daughter To Wed.

London, March 15.—A report is current in society that the young Duke of Manchester will eventually marry the eldest daughter of William Waldorf Astor. The duke was born in 1877. His mother was formerly Miss Consuelo Yznaga of New York.

BRITISH CRAFTINESS

Her Policy in the Cretan Crisis Repugnant to Europe.

A SYSTEM OF DOUBLE DEALING USED

As a Result, in the Event of a General European War, the Initial Blaze Will Fall Upon England---Russia Alone Holds the Dogs of War in Leash.

Berlin, March 15.—Should the coercive measures taken by the powers against Greece result in a general European war, the initial blaze, according to public and official opinion here, will fall upon England. Every step in the critical negotiations which have been and are still proceeding has been rendered uncertain by the vacillating, if not opposing, course of action taken by Lord Salisbury. If the proposals of the Russian and German governments, made three weeks ago, to blockade the coast of Greece had been acceded to by the English premier, the dangerous developments of the present time could never have occurred. So the officials papers in Berlin reason and liberal politicians in full sympathy with Greece think likewise. The simultaneous presence of the allied squadrons in the Piraeus and their control of the movements of Greek warships in the Aegean sea and on the coast of Crete would have restrained the popular demonstrations at Athens and elsewhere which have done so much to force the hands of King George's government. There are those behind the scenes who say that from the outset of the Greco-Cretan crisis the pretended participation of the Salisbury government has been a blind, and that King George up to a late point in the diplomatic contest was led to believe that eventually the influence of Great Britain would square the situation in favor of Greece. This is the plain language of well-informed papers like the Post and the Kreuz Zeitung.

Distrust of England.

In a recent cable dispatch it was shown that family considerations have never had any weight with either the czar or the kaizer, whose main aim was the maintenance of the peace of Europe. But the influence of the Danish royal family, with its offshoots in England and Russia, is known to have been at work and it is believed to have operated with success where least suspected. The dowager czarina, who got credit for almost supreme power in the czar's councils, has failed to alter the understanding between the kaiser and the czar, though she has had the active co-operation of Queen Victoria, who has strong sympathies with Greece and an ardent detestation of the Turks. Neither the hand of the ex-czarina nor that of the queen can be made visible in the game of diplomacy which is now being played, but it is known here that both have been supporting King George. and it is believed that to the queen's interference much of Lord Salisbury's hesitating policy is due. That the queen does still exercise an oversight of foreign affairs is perhaps better known at the German court than it is in England. Meanwhile utter distrust of England is the dominant feeling at the foreign office here, while the entente with Russia is complete. But for Russia the Balkan peninsula would now be in a blaze and Austria and Russia would be mobilizing their troops for war. There is absolutely reliable information that the three Balkan states—Servia, Bulgaria and Montenegro—have concluded an alliance which affects not only Turkey, but the claims of Greece and the aspirations of Austria.

All Depends Upon Russia.

The prince of Montenegro was recently at Belgrade holding private conferences with King Alexander and the Servian minister of war, and making arrangements for a concerted movement of troops, and the visit of the king of Servia to Sofia was a result of Prince Nicholas' visit to Belgrade. Undoubtedly the whole of the triple understanding is perfectly well known to the Russian government and was connived at, if not inspired, by Russia. Montenegro is financed by Russia and gets her armaments supplied or paid for chiefly by the St. Petersburg government. Servia, like Greece, has defaulted in her debt, and since the campaign against Bulgaria, which terminated with the Servian disaster at Slivnitza, has made no such progress as Bulgaria in reforming her army. The Servian government clearly think they can get more under the aegis of Russia than from Austria, whose occupation of Bosnia the Servians resent. With the reconciliation of Prince Ferdinand to the czar and the return of Bulgaria to Panslavism, the obstacles in the way of an alliance of the Balkan states, under Russian protection, have disappeared and the entente has been achieved. It depends upon Russia to let the dogs of war slip from the leash. Up to the present time the policy of the czar is to restrain them, and if they are let loose, the profound conviction here is that the consequent general embroilment of the powers will be largely due to England's policy.

Birds and Animals Burned to Death.

Allentown, Pa., March 15.—The road house of the Rittersville Hotel company, three miles from here, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire started from a stove used to warm the rooms in which the pet animals and birds of Central park are kept during the winter months. All the birds and animals in the place were burned. The loss is $25,000.

THE MINISTER'S PRESENT.

Our town of Milkville comes nearer to having the meanest man alive than any other town, hamlet or Ophelia on this unfortunate earth. I will call him Smith, because his name is not Smith, and by making that statement I shall work myself into the good graces of a large and growing portion of our population.

Smith proposed a collection for the minister's Christmas present. As mover of the proposition he was of course made chairman of the committee and appointed his wife treasurer. Then all the women in town went to work and begged of all the other women contributions to the fund and turned over their collections to Mrs. Smith. In this way my wife was enabled to contribute five separate times. She put her name down on the list of every woman who had done likewise for her until I stopped her. There are some sixty women in the town and as near as I can figure out the facts every one of them kept contributing to different lists until their husbands stopped them. You see that was part of Smith's scheme. And before he was through he had most of the money in town, and wouldn't tell how much he had because he said he was afraid of burglars. He said he would spend all the money, however, for a beautiful piano lamp, and that the ladies could take it over to the minister on Christmas Eve.

You've probably seen, in the course of your long and otherwise upright career, the advertisements of certain firms that give you a box containing seventy kinds of soap, sufficient to last you for a year—thirty-five that you can use and thirty-five that are only fit to give to the poor, with a piano lamp thrown in (the piano lamp for yourself, of course, and not the poor). Well, Smith had bought one of those boxes of soap and he sold the piano lamp to himself as chairman for the hundred odd dollars the women collected. And that was the present those women took down to the minister last Christmas Eve.

Of course the women did not know anything about it, but the minister's wife is pretty well up in the ways of the world, and when the spokesman of these fool women had made her address the minister's wife answered for him (he was, of course, overcome with emotion, as is proper on such occasions):

"We thank you very much," said the minister's wife. "Now we shall have two piano lamps just alike. You see, we bought one of those boxes of soap, too."

When the situation dawned on my little lady's mind she said she could have gone straight through the floor to China.

The women have made Smith resign as Superintendent of the Sunday School and the men are talking of lynching him. But, like all mean men, he will probably escape.—Tom Hall in Truth.

Good Advice.

Theodore Roosevelt, president of the board of police commissioners of New York, was not always the fluent orator and ready extemporaneous speaker that he is to-day, says the Times-Herald, but this is not a matter of surprise, as precocity is never proof of greatness, although it has in many instances characterized those who afterward became great. Theodore Roosevelt was a wide-awake, bustling youth, good at his books, but better at his sports, a lover of all out-doors, and a healthy, hearty, sturdy American boy. At school he was required to write essays, deliver orations, "speak pieces," just as are all schoolboys in these modern days, and his old playmates still delight to relate how "Ted" brought the house down by his methods of rendering that old stand-by, Marco-Bozzaris.

"'At midnight in his guarded tent
The Turk lay dreaming of the hour
When Greece, her knees in suppliance bent,
Should tremble at his power.'"

When young Roosevelt's turn came speak he rose with all confidence, and began,—

When Greece, her knees—'"

Then his memory failed him, and he repeated,—

"'Greece, her knees—'"

In vain; his memory stubbornly refused to work. Once more he shouted desperately,—

"'Greece, her knees—'"

The old professor looked over his spectacles and encouragingly remarked,—

Joak—True; but the trouble is it's generally hard on somebody else.—Truth.

"Which would you rather be, Willie, a monkey or a giraffe?"

"Giraffe every time. It would be bully in summer time for lookin' over the base-ball grounds fence."

Shake it off

The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a back ache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50c and $1. Get a bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

AGAIN IN JAIL FOR BIGAMY.

Matthias' Numerous Matrimonal Ventures and the Trouble They Caused Him.

Baltimore, March 15. — Richard Matthias, 35 years old, is locked up at Central station on the charge of bigamy. It is alleged that on April 7, 1890, Matthias married in Philadelphia a Miss Sealer. In September, 1893, he disappeared. A few weeks later it became known to Mrs. Matthias that her husband had married Miss Julia Birchner of Flushing, L. I. Mrs. Matthias prosecuted her truant husband, and as a result he was convicted of bigamy and sentenced in Queens county, N. Y., to three years in the Kings county penitentiary. After his release from prison a reconciliation took place. Wife No. 1 was placated and the recreant husband was forgiven. They lived together only a short while when Matthias again disappeared from his Philadelphia home. He was traced to Baltimore by wife No. 1 where it was found that, under the name of Richard Van Hagen, he had, on November 10, of last year, married a Mrs. Amelia Schoeppe of this city. The police located him at Annapolis Junction, Md., where he was employed as a clerk, and his arrest followed. Mrs. Schoeppe was a widow with three children and a snug income. She had been acquainted with Matthias only a week when he led her to the altar.

Highest Water Ever Known at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., March 15.—The Mississippi river now registers a higher stage of water here than ever known. Two Arkansas towns, Marion and West Memphis, across from this city, are submerged. Marion is under four feet of water, due to a break of its protection levee. The break occurred before many of the inhabitants had left their beds, and their was a great hustle to escape. There was no loss of life.

New York Insurance Report.

Albany, March 15.—Supt. Louis F. Payn has made public the report of the state insurance department for the year ending Dec. 31 last, on the business of fire and marine insurance companies transacting business in this state. The aggregate assets of these companies doing business in this state on Dec. 31 last were $19,558,096. The aggregate receipts for the year were $92,010,012. The net excess of receipts over disbursements were $10,251,254.

Overdue Mail Steamer Arrives.

St. Johns, N. F., March 15.—The Colonial steamer Grand Lake, with the English, American and Canadian mails and passengers, bound for Halifax, broke her tail shaft off St. Pierre on Thursday night. She has at last reached Harbor Breton. Her passengers and mails will be transferred to her sister ship, Virginia Lake, and be forwarded this afternoon.

The Next Papal Consistory.

Rome, March 15.—It appears to have been definitely settled that the next papal consistory shall be held at the end of April. It was reported some time ago that it was regarded as probable that Archbishop Corrigan of New York would be elevated to the cardinalate at the coming consistory, but the matter has now ceased to be discussed.

Two Men Killed by a Train.

Tunkhannock, Pa., March 15.—A wagon containing two men, Lea Chatker and E. Carson, was struck by a train on the Lehigh Valley railroad at a crossing west of Wyalusing yesterday, and both their bodies were so badly mangled that they died within two hours.

Probably Fratricide.

Oxford, Pa., March 15.—Harry Watson, after a quarrel with his brother Peter, poured a load of shot from a shotgun into Peter's body. He was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia, where 200 shot were picked from his body. His recovery is doubtful.

Immigration to Brazil.

Panama, March 15.—According to official returns, something like 105,000 immigrants arrived at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, during the year 1896, principally from Italy. This is the best record since the year 1890.

Creamery Destroyed by Fire.

Willow Grove, Pa., March 15.—The works of the Willow Grove Creamery company were destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is $18,000.

BLOCKADE TO-DAY

Reported That the Powers Have Reached an Agreement.

PLUCKY GREECE TO BE COERCED

Insurgents Continue Their Bombardment of Spinalonga — Kissamo Also Bombarded and Set on Fire in Several Places.

Athens, March 15.—Advices received here this morning from Canea show that the insurgents are continuing their bombardment of the town of Spinalonga. The Turkish garrison is still holding out, though the cannonading has now been going on for nearly three days. A dispatch from Canea says the town is full of rumors that the powers are about to send troops to the island, but no official intimation to this effect has been received. The belief prevails among the foreign fleets that the powers have finally decided to make no reply to the answer of Greece to their identical note, but to put their threat of a blockade into effect. It is thought that the blockade of Crete and the Piraeus will begin to-day. It is stated that the Italians have shelled the insurgents at Kissamo Kastelli, but nothing further can be learned.

Kissamo on Fire.

Canea, March 15.—A Russian warship which has been cruising to westward has returned here, bringing news of the situation at Kissamo She reports that the insurgents were bombarding the place, and that the town was on fire in several places.

Proclamation to Insurgents.

Canea, March 15.—As has before been stated in these dispatches, the fact that the powers have decided to establish an autonomous government in Crete is not generally known to the insurgent leaders. Great Britain has now taken steps to have the Christian leaders informed of what it is intended to do, in the belief that as soon as the information spreads it will have the result of stopping the fighting. The praclamation will give no details of the scheme, but it will declare as a cardinal point that Turkey shall have nothing whatever to do with the internal affairs of Crete.

SYMPATHY FOR GREECE.

Another Great Demonstration in London. The Government Denounced.

London, March 15.—Another radical manifestation to express sympathy for Greece in her efforts in behalf of the Cretan Christians was held in Trafalgar square last evening. There were 20,000 persons present. Greek flags were numerously displayed, and many of those comprising the huge crowd wore rosettes made of the national colors of Greece. Six platforms had been erected for the use of the speakers, who included Messrs. Davitt, Channing, Wilson and Dalziel, all members of the house of commons, and several Nonconformist ministers. The speakers maintained the right of the Cretans to settle their political differences themselves without intervention on the part of the powers, and denounced Prime Minister Salisbury for the part he has taken, in connection with Russia, Germany, Austria, France and Italy, to compel Greece to abandon her attempts to liberate Crete and to save the Christian population of the island from Turkish misrule, oppression and massacre.

No New Troubles in Asia Minor.

Washington, March 15.—The Turkish legation gives out the following: "There has been published a telegram dated Constantinople the 12th inst., saying that fresh atrocities are threatened in Asia Minor, that Christians there are in a deplorable condition and asserting that the situation in Fayes is extremely critical and bloodshed has occurred at Everek. The Turkish minister is authorized by his government to officially declare these reports as absolutely false and unfounded."

Tow Boat Blown Over by the Wind.

Pittsburg, March 15.—The tow boat Hawk, owned by the McKinley Coal company, was overturned by high wind on the Ohio river yesterday afternoon at Bellevue, six miles below Pittsburg. William Denvers, the pilot on watch, was drowned, but the balance of the crew managed to reach the shore in safety.

Bayard Eulogized.

London, March 15.—Ambassador Bayard yesterday attended services at St. Paul's cathedral. The Archdeacon of London preached the sermon. He alluded to the presence of Mr. Bayard and paid a tribute to him as an able and sincere contributor to results of the highest kind.

Extra Session of Arkansas Legislature.

Little Rock, Ark., March 15.—Gov. Jones has decided to issue a call for a special session of the state legislature. He said the appropriation bills have not been passed, and there is no money to run the state government.

Resigns His Pastorate.

Boston, March 15.—Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. Hamilton yesterday read his resignation of the pastorate of the Eliot Congregational church in Roxbury, after twenty-five years of service.

A Marvelous Electric Rifle.

Rio Janeiro, March 15.—A native of Ovalie, Chili, it is claimed, has invented an electric rifle which is capable of throwing a projectile a distance of 12,000 metres.

FREEHOLDERS MAY REMAIN.

It looks very much as though the Boards of Freeholders throughout the State would remain in existence for a considerable time. They are not, at all events, to be abolished this year. Senator Parry has discovered that he cannot pass his bill providing for county commissioners unless it contains a clause submitting the freeholder question to the popular vote. In Union county the Board of Freeholders is the cheapest and best way of managing county affairs, because the members of the Board have acted honestly, honorably and with the best interests of the county in view. If the people were appealed to they would continue the Board, rather than establish a costlier commission, which would be an experiment at best. There are counties, however, in which the people only wait for an opportunity to drive the Freeholders out of power. This is because of official corruption and dishonor. If Senator Parry's bill is amended and passed there would be a rattling of dry bones in some sections, but not in the county of Union. —Elizabeth Journal.

BOROUGH COUNCIL

A meeting of the Mayor and the Borough Council will be held this evening at which time the new officers will be installed by Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., who retires after tonight. The appointments by Mayor-elect Wilson will also be made and other matters pertaining to organization will transacted. The first regular meeting of the Council will be held next Friday evening.

AN INDEX TO POPULARITY.

There is no truer index to the popularity of a paper with the people than the number of cent-a-word advertisements. Last Saturday The Press published nearly three times as many advertisements of this class than any other paper in Plainfield. The showing was one that The Press feels proud of.

A QUESTION OF SALARY AND WORK.

Officers of a Hoboken church informed their pastor on a recent Sunday morning that they had voted him an increase in his salary of $100. The pastor declined, on the ground that it took him half his time to collect his present salary, to say nothing of an increase.

ARE SIDEWALKS FOR SALE?

A Clinton Avenue Residence Draws Some Pertinent Conclusions.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Are Clinton Avenue sidewalks for sale? A number of indignant citizens who are so unfortunate as to live in the West end of the city, and who are compelled to go to and from their homes by the way of Clinton avenue, have been asking all sorts of questions in relation to the work which has been going on for sometime past at the corner of Clinton avenue and Third street.

I have seen no signs exposed advertising, "Clinton Avenue sidewalks for sale at so much a load," but the material of which this particular side walk is excellent for building purposes, and there seems to be no doubt that this is the kind of business that is being carried on. Every day or two during the past winter a fresh pit has been dug right in the middle of the walk, compelling passersby to wade out into the avenue through mud or slush, as the conditions happen to be at the time. It is but to say, however, that this pit is usually filled up, or partly filled up, before night fall, so that in case any unsuspecting citizen happens along who is unaware of the improvement, and suddenly feels the bottom of the walk drop from under him, as it were, he finds a soft place to tumble into.

Would this nuisance be tolerated on any other thoroughfare in the city? If not, why should it be permitted here? Are the residence on Clinton Avenue beyond the reach of the blessings of our progressive City Government?

Yours respectfully,

A Tax Payer.

A Golden Opportunity.

When an opportunity for benefiting yourself is presented to you, seize it. This is good philosopy. THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

S. Stites is about to engage in the milk business.

The new Board of borough commissioners will meet for organization this evening.

Chas. Wyhusky has returned home from High Bridge, Hunterdon county, where he has been visiting for several days.

John Wyhusky, of Flemington, who has been here taking his brother's place, during the latter's illness, was stricken down with the grip, and was obliged to return to his home in Flemington.

The Dunellen Building and Loan Association will meet for the last time in the W. C. T. U. rooms this evening. Tomorrow work will begin in converting the rooms into a grocery store for George Schenck.

Some of the farmers about here still have their last season's crop of cabbage in the ground. They are keeping remarkably well and most of them dug up Saturday did not show any signs of hurt from frost.

Dunellen is up and doing in the matter of out-door sports. The subject of putting a ball team in the field the coming season is being daily discussed by the advocates of the game, and by importing a battery and utilizing the home material, a good nine could be secured.

The annual school meeting which takes place in the Whittier school building, Thursday evening, promises to be a most interesting affair. The polls will only be open for one hour, from 8 to 9 o'clock, and besides the election of five members to the Board of Education, an appropriation of $3,000, the amount thought necessary to properly run the schools and make repairs, will be voted for or against.

A two-year-old daughter of George Johnson has been dangerously ill with convulsions, but the little one is doing nicely at present.

Mrs. J. W. McGloin and daughter, Miss Daisy McGloin, of New York city, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Blimm, returning home today.

Rev. Mr. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, preached a forcible sermon to a large congregation last evening, and at its close some half a dozen converts were baptized.

It is said that the baseball advocates are arranging for a meeting to be held some evening this week, probably in Excelsior Hall, to start the ball a rolling for a nine this season.

It seems very odd to see so many men, women and children tramping through the streets in search of well water. No less than a half dozen was seen on the streets at one time yesterday.

A half dozen or more sports in this vicinity had their fishing tackle all ready for a day's outing along the mountain streams yesterday, but the snow put a damper on their arrangements.

John Marsh's well was originally forty-one feet deep and has always had a bountiful supply of water. But of late the supply ran out and he has been obliged to drill down to a depth of 123 feet further in order to get any water at all.

H. DeC. Richards is expecting new machinery and an entire new outfit for his stone crushing plant on the mountain back of here today. Capt. William Hand & Son, of Plainfield, have been engaged to remove the machinery from the cars to the crusher.

The annual election for school trustees and appropriations to be raised for school purposes will take place tomorrow evening. The village has a school building which its citizens and taxpayers are justly proud of, but the building, especially the roof, is sadly in need of repairs, and this too at an early date.

The roadbed on Terrill road is said to have been in a horrible condition on Saturday night. A Fanwood hackman secured a load of passengers at the Fanwood station that wanted to be taken to a house on Terrill road about a mile south of the station. Half way out the rig became stuck in the mud or yellow clay and the driver and passengers had to alight and walk for a considerable distance until better traveling was reached.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues

Lecture by Mrs. Blackwell.

The study class of the Alliance of All Souls's church will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the church. Subject, "The Law of Forgiveness and Self-Sacrifice." A paper will be given by Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, of New York. All women interested are cordially invited to be present.

Jerseymen After Appointments.

Secretary Gage has received from F. W. Marshall, of Trenton, his application for Assistant Appraiser of New York., W. B. Howell's friends in New Jersey are making a strong fight for him for Assistant Secretary of the Treasurer. Mr. Howell is now Assistant Secretary Hamlin's private secretary.

SOME CHURCH EVENTS.

WESTFIELD CHRISTIAN WORKERS ACTIVE IN SEVERAL WAYS.

Union Endeavor Service Held Last Night—Baptist Society Elect New Officers—A Small Fire at Garwood.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Woolley and daughter returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gildersleeve returned from Lakewood Saturday evening.

The Rev. W. H. Ruth began a series of Easter sermons in the Methodist church yesterday morning.

The Christian Endeavor Societies held a union service last evening in the Congregational church.

You can secure your tickets for the W. C. T. U. entertainment of Trenchard & Derval, the druggists.

The Westfield Gun Club held a target shoot, Saturday afternoon. They will have a live bird shoot this week.

The mid-monthly prayer meeting of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church was held this afternoon.

There will be a birthday party in the Congregational church this evening. The folks will be entertained by magic lantern views.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth A Melvin took place yesterday afternoon at her late residence on the Rahway road. The interment was in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacMonier, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bogert. Mr. MacMonier is the sculptor of the famous World's Fair MacMonier fountain.

There was a union missionary meeting of the churches last evening at the Presbyterian, which was addressed by the Rev. W. S. Bannerman, a returned missionary to Africa.

About midnight Saturday the fire department responded to an alarm of fire which had broken out in Garwood. By the time the department arrived the local company had it under control. Having nothing else to do the men turned the hose on each other and a scramble for sticks began, which nearly resulted in a free fight. The fire was in a barn belonging to Mr. Decker, and the damage amounted to about $50.

The following have been elected to fill the offices in the Baptist Christian Endeavor Society for the ensuing six months: Mrs. R. M. French, president; Rev. George A. Francis, vice-president; L G Venn, corresponding secretary; Miss Minnie Gardner, treasurer. The chairmen of the committees are: C. L. Dominick, prayer meeting; R. P. Grant, lookout; Miss Ida Decker, social; Miss Louise Mason, missionary; Walter Neafie, Sunday school; Miss Luella Bennett, relief; Mrs. C. F. Conant, junior.

THEATRICAL.

A strictly first-class, high-grade, up-to-date, large, expensive attraction is promised at Music Hall on Wednesday, March 17th, when Hi Henry's minstrels will hold the boards. Hi Henry, the proprietor, is a man of ripe experience—one of the most successful in minstrelsy; his list of talent embraces the best performers known to minstrel fame, among whom are the bright star comedian, Arthur Deming; the popular Chas. Kenna; Woody Van, in all eight up-to-date comedians. They offer two distiuct vocal quartettes. Matinee for children.

The success of "My Friend From India," which will be at Music Hall Friday evening, is truly an instance where an author has made a ten strike by hitting the popular chord. The gentleman of the yellow robe is certainly the most entertaining individual seen on the stage. Theosophy has advanced so far in popular notice that a play founded on it is most possible. In this instance, who through three acts masquerades as a Mohatma is merely an honest tonsorial artist, who, as he often explains, is a victim of circumstances. He becomes acquainted during a night's spree with a lively boy, Charles Underholt, who takes him home minus his clothes. A yellow bedspread is extemporized into a robe, and in the morning when young Underholt is called upon for an explanation, he introduces the innocent barber as an accomplished pundit from India Messrs. Donnelly and Girard, who head the cast, have a capable supporting company, including Miss Maude Granger.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues. Plainfield.

T. F. Swayze, of East Ninth street, left Saturday evening for Washington, D. C, on business. He will return this evening or tomorrow.

FACTS ABOUT BLOTTING PAPER.

And Something About the Sand Boxes of of Not So Very Long Ago.

Blotting paper is not new, but it was first made in this country only about forty years ago. Before that time we used some of the thin English blotting paper, imported; but, more commonly, to prevent ink from blotting, we used sand, which was poured upon the written sheet out of a sand box. The sand box was a common article of desk furniture, and almost as commonly seen as the inkstand. It was made sometimes of tin, sometimes of wood. It was, perhaps, three inches in height, and maybe two and a half inches across the top, where its diameter was greatest. It was something like a pepper box in the manner of its use; but as to shape, instead of having a convex top it had a concave top, like a little saucer. The bottom of this saucer was perforated. The box was filled with sand through these perforations. When the box was used sand was poured from it upon the writing. A little of the sand adhered to the fresh ink and kept it from blotting. Very much the greater part of the sand poured out lay scattered upon the paper. Lifting the book or paper, the surplus sand was poured back into the box.

Many of the wooden sand boxes were handsomely turned articles. The sand used was a peculiar fine black sand of uniform grain, brought from Lake George in this state.

The very best blotting paper is made wholly of cotton rags. Some poorer grades are made partly of wood pulp. —New York Sun.

Bad Luck Confederate Gold.

When Richmond was deserted by the Confederate Government there was in the treasury and the banks gold coin amounting possibly to several millions of dollars. Much of it was carried off by surviving heads of the Southern Government, with a view to paying off the troops of Joseph Johnston's army. For a long time there was a general impression that a large amount of this treasure had been placed in a coffin and deposited in a vault in Hollywood Cemetery. So strong was this supposition that the vault was searched, but without success.

The gold seems to have a dread fatality attached to it. A reference to this money in the editorials of one of the Richmond papers was the cause of a duel, in which one of the participants fell badly wounded at the first fire. A leading State official, who had carried off some of this gold for safe keeping, came near being drowned in crossing a stream with the money in a pouch around his waist. What was left was paid out as salaries to the various Confederate officials stationed here, some of whom after the war returned what they had received to the Federal Government.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There was a very unique wedding ceremony performed down in the Dolomite mine, Colorado, which is 160 feet deep. Sixteen miners were present, and Mr. and Mrs Andrae, friends of the contracting parties, to witness the service. The mine was illuminated with candles and Chinese lanterns, which were not so brilliant as the electric lights in some grand old church in New York City, but the ceremony was just as impressive and binding.

It was the planning of Mr. and Mrs. Andrae, as the young couple had met the first time in the mine. The arrangements were highly approved by the miners, of whom the groom was one. Mr. Andrae, the manager of the mine, had one of the men spend a half day in decorating the tunnel, which was over 300 feet in. The shaft to the lower level down which the bridal party climbed by means of ladders, was 160 feet deep, and at the bottom the ceremony took place.—New York Tribune.

Trained Chameleons.

Much has been written about the beauty, stupidity and viciousness of the lizard tribe, and I want to say a word about the intelligence of the chameleon, a little reptile belonging to the lizard family, and the antipode in size of the alligator, its big brother. A young girl living in Philadelphia was presented with two Florida chameleons, and she at once began instructing them. By kindness she won their confidence, and at her call they would raise their heads and listen, and then come running to her. Soon they responded to their names—Briton and Baby, and nodded their little heads knowingly. She then taught them to stand up on their hind legs and put their little forepaws together and stand in the attitude of prayer, looking solemn and closing their eyes. At a signal they would quickly prostrate themselves, roll over on their backs, and pretend to be dead, lying without motion until told to rise and embrace, which they did with every sign of joy.

A Chicken Hatched Terrapins.

The Louisiana tale of the Cow Island hen which hatched out a brood of young alligators and nursed them with a mother's care finds its parallel in the exploit of a North Carolina fowl which has brought triumphantly forth from her nest twelve lively young terrapins, which look up to her with filial respect and tenderness.—New York Tribune.

"Mister," said the small boy to the druggist, "gimme another bottle of them patent pills you sold father day before yesterday." "Are they doing him good?" asked the clerk, looking pleased. "I d'no whether they're doin' father good or not, but they're doin' me good. They jis' fit my new sling shot."—Detroit Free Press.

NOTES OF THE WHEEL.

The L. A. W. Will Endeavor to Increase Its Membership to 150,000.

It is the intention of the officers of the L. A. W. in the different sections of the country to introduce new methods in the League in order to recruit the membership. The organization now has a membership of over 74,000 and it is predicted by the conservative workers that this figure will be increased to 150,000 by next fall. In this state the membership has grown from 3,000 to 20,000 in less than two years, and the division officials are sanguine that next December the roll will include fully 40,000 names. In Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts remarkable activity is shown, and new members are being constantly enrolled. In Connecticut and throughout the South and West, where there are thousands of wheelmen, the percentage of riders in the L. A. W. is small. This condition of affairs is attributed to the indifference of the division officers. President Potter is planning to create a revival of interest in the League, and proposes to communicate with all the divisions, as well as to suggest and direct movements calculated to benefit the organization.

Electric lamps for bicycles have for the most part been dead failures. They were too heavy, or too inefficient, or too troublesome and the bicyclist, as a rule, felt that he had thrown the purchase money away. The latest electric wheel lamp, however, is of an entirely different order. It is a clean, powerful illuminator, which can not be blown out, jarred out, or extinguished by the ordinary accidents which affect other lights. It consists of two parts, the battery, or source of power, which is carried in a compact leather case hung from the top bar of the diamond frame, or from the handle bars of the drop-frame machine. The lamp proper is very small, heavily plated with silver reflector, mounted on a swivel support, and connected by a slender cord with the battery. Within this is the small incandescent lamp which gives the light. The whole outfit is almost as useful in a carriage as it is on a bicycle. The most striking thing about it is the power of the light, which the rider can instantly deflect in any desired direction. It is more like a miniature search-light than like an ordinary lamp, and it throws a strong beam of light for fifty or seventy-five yards ahead. This increase of the light of a one candle-power lamp to over 100 candle-power simply by a scientifically made reflector will probably suggest to some thoughtful people that they may cut down their bills for electric light fully 50 per cent or more by going the right way about it. The battery will run for eight hours on one charge, and can be recharged at any incandescent lamp socket, or by the special appliances which are provided to save trouble in the process. Many bicycle clubs now keep a charging outfit for the use of their members.

The riding of the bicyclette has become a pronounced fad among Parisian women. The tendency of French society to keep women at home and to discourage athletics was hard to overcome; but it is now apparent, even to a casual observer, that the steel steed is winning its way in all circles of Parisian life.

In 1818, when the "celeriferes" were brought out, is is not recorded that any woman had the hardihood to try one of them in public. The bicycle, introduced in 1820, failed utterly, so far as women were concerned, and even the velocipede of the Second Empire days had little vogue, except among men. This was, however, the forerunner of the bicyclette.

Many different styles of dress for the wheel are to be seen on the Paris boulevards, but a fair majority of women riders have decided in favor of the zouave trousers, ending at the knees. The comfort of this costume cannot be improved upon. With the trousers are worn a bolero jacket and a straw or russet sailor hat.

It is stated that the British war office has already under serious consideration the motor cycle, or auto car, as a defensive and offensive assistant in the event of war. The shape being experimented with is oval, with a platform enclosed with a breastwork of steel, and is designed to carry two Maxims, with ample supplies of ammunition.

A Christiana, Norway, firm that sells American bicycles writes to "Hardware" saying that Norwegians consider the saddle of most American bicycles less comfortable than those of English wheels.

AN ELEPHANT A DEFENDANT.

On Trial for Murdering a Man and Acquitted After a Legal Battle.

An elephant accused of murder has been exonerated by a Coroner's jury. The occasion was the inquest on the body of a man who had been killed by the animal. It took place in London and is probably the most remarkable event in natural history on record.

The elephant is of Asiatic birth, is known as Charley, and is the star performer in Sanger's Circus. He held that position before the tragedy in which he recently became involved, and will continue to do so, thanks to a jury of liberal-minded Englishmen.

Charley was eating his supper when he saw his old enemy. He immediately seized the man with his trunk, pushed him against the wall and crushed him to death.

Sanger, the owner of the circus, was the great witness in Charley's favor at the inquest. He said he was the kindest elephant ever known. He added:

"Elephants do not forget injuries or kindnesses. I remember several remarkable instances. On one occasion, when I had been separated from an elephant for two years, the elephant, on seeing me, seized me round the waist with his trunk and would not let me go until he had hugged and caressed me for a long time. Tears of pleasure ran down the brute's cheeks.

"Some years ago a nephew of mine, a child of three, was playing around Charley and climbing up his legs. Charley gently resented this, but the child continued. Charley then took the child up, shook him gently and put him down some yards away."

Others testified to the good character of Charley and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death without blaming the elephant.

The Independent Stage Driver.

Eastern tourists who base their ideas about stage drivers upon their knowledge of Eastern coachmen, are apt to meet with a rude shock.

There is an old driver at Monterey, who is determined that his patrons shall make no mistake concerning his exact status, and in a quiet way he checks all attempts to make a servant of him. A short time ago he was driving a party of tourists about, when one querulous old lady, who had annoyed him not a little by her airs of superiority, asked:

"My man, do you know the name of that wild flower?"

"Yep," he replied, and flicked one of his leaders with his whip.

She paused a moment for him to give the name, but he merely clucked to the wheelers.

"Driver, do you know the name of that flower?" she repeated, in an imperious tone.

"Yep. Get up there, Bally!"

Again she waited, and again demanded:

"Man, don't you know the name of that flower?"

"Yep. G'long there, Pete!"

"Then why don't you tell me?"

"Oh, you want to know, too, do you? That's a wild poppy."—Golden Days.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S CHURCH

Revival of the Story That He Will Worship in the Metropolitan Methodist Edifice.

Washington, March 15.—President McKinley having again attended service at the Metropolitan Methodist church yesterday, where President Grant was a communicant during his residence in the White House, the report is revived that he intends to become a member of that church. While serving Ohio in the house of representatives, Maj. McKinley attended the Foundry Methodist church, and it was understood that he would again become a pewholder there, his visit to the Metropolitan church last week being construed as merely a compliment to an old friend, Bishop Newman of California, who occupied the pulpit of his old church on that day. The reasons for the president's change of intention, if a change has really been made, are not now known. When the president arrived at the church yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Abner McKinley, John Addison Porter and George E. Morse of California, he found a large crowd of people awaiting the opportunity of seeing him. A squad of policemen kept the pavement in front of the church clear. The president bowed right and left to those who saluted him and passed into the building guided by an usher, who made the mistake of putting the party in Mrs. John A. Logan's pew, directly behind the one known as the "president's pew," which Gen. Grant had occupied and which had been reserved for President McKinley. Bishop Hurst made the opening prayer. He invoked the blessing of God on the struggling Cubans and called upon the Almighty to strike the shackles from them. He also prayed for the protection of the Christians in Crete.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Every Important Question Except One Ready for Consideration.

Albany, March 15.—Every important question upon which legislation is expected this session by the republican leaders is about ready for legislative consideration. There is but one exception. As yet no bill has been prepared to carry out Gov. Black's determination, as expressed in his annual message, relative to the civil service. The Greater New York bill will be reported favorably in each house to-morrow or Wednesday and its speedy passage is assured. It has not yet been decided that supplemental charter legislation will be necessary this session. The amendments to the Raines liquor tax law, including those wiping out the Raines law hotels and fake clubs, will not be finally considered until after the charter has been disposed of. Trust legislation will be discussed in the senate to-morrow when the report of the Lexow trust investigating committee will be considered as a special order.

Death of Sumner F. Dudley.

Orange, N. J., March 15.—Sumner F. Dudley, formerly general secretary of the Orange Y. M. C. A. and well known all over the country in association circles, died of Bright's disease at the residence of his father, Francis D. Dudley, yesterday, after an illness of four years and confinement to the house of three months. He was born in Worcester, Mass., in 1854 and was a member of the firm of Shepard & Dudley, surgical instrument makers, New York. He was the first organizer of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. in this country, in 1883. Mr. Dudley was unmarried.

Veteran of Three Wars Dead.

Philadelphia, March 15.—Col. Alexander E. Drake, a retired army officer, who is dead at his home here, was born in Kentucky in 1818, and in June, 1834, was appointed midshipman in the United States navy by Gen. Jackson, and served with the land forces during the Seminole war. He served with distinction during the Mexican war, and in 1850 was assistant engineer of the Southern Pacific railroad. During the civil war he was with Rousseau's brigade, and was promoted several times for meritorious and gallant services.

Stole £5,000 in Gold.

San Francisco, March 15.—The steamer Zealandia, from Australia, brings news of the robbery from the steamer Oceanic of thousands of dollars' worth of gold. Before leaving Melbourne for Sydney gold to the amount of £262,000 was placed on board for shipment to America. Cracksmen obtained access to the vaults and abstracted one box containing £5,000. The theft was discovered before the Oceanic left port, but the robbers left no clue.

Ex-Gov. Boies on Bimetallism.

San Diego, Cal., March 15.—Ex-Gov. Horace Boies of Iowa while here, speaking of national affairs, said: "The cause of bimetallism never looked brighter than it does to-day. The defeat of Bryan was, of course, a sore blow, especially to those who knew him and understood his great fitness for the position. We must readjust a little along some lines, but in the end everything will come out right.

Funeral of James Shanahan.

Tribes Hill, N. Y., March 15.—Many telegrams of sympathy are being received by the family of the late Hon. James Shanahan. Among those who have sent messages are: Senator Murphy, Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Maxwell and ex-United States Senator Hill. Mr. Shanahan's funeral will be held to-morrow morning from St. Mary's church, Amsterdam.

To Exclude Our Products from Germany.

Berlin, March 15.—The Berlin newspapers, in editorials commenting upon the McKinley sugar tariff, express fear that further developments of McKinleyism will render it necessary to look out American products from Germany.

CUBAN INSURRECTION

Reports on the Losses Incurred by Spaniards and the Rebels.

MANY LIVES HAVE BEEN SACRIFICED

During the Past Two Years the Losses in the Spanish Army Are Placed at Over 45,000 Killed in Battle or Dead from Disease.

Paris, March 15.—Le Temps says that since the war in Cuba began Spain has sent to that island 40 generals, 564 commissioned officers, 6,185 non-commissioned officers, and 179,174 men, making all told an army of 185,963 soldiers. Up to the end of January the Spanish army had lost men wounded in battle to the number of 40 commissioned officers, 401 non-commissioned officers and 7,631 men. Dead on the battlefield or from the effects of their wounds, 1 general, 12 commissioned officers, 107 non-commissioned officers and 10,475 men. Killed by yellow fever, 1 general, 30 commissioned officers, 287 non-commissioned officers and 10,475 soldiers. Killed by ordinary sickness or accidents, 2 generals, 24 commissioned officers, 89 non-commissioned officers. Notwithstanding the silence of the official reports in regard to the number of soldiers that have died from the effects of ordinary sickness or accidents, it is believed that over 10,000 soldiers have perished. The ocean liners and transport ships have taken back to Spain over 20,000 sick and crippled soldiers, many of whom died enroute or after having reached home. The losses of the Spanish army during the last two years of war in Cuba must be over 45,000 men. The Spanish official reports place the loss of the Cuban army at: Dead, 212 officers and 13,091 men; wounded, 41 officers and 3,522 men; prisoners, 34 officers and 941 men; surrendered, 22 officers and 2,594 men. Total, 20,457. The number of Cubans now in the field is placed at 2,000 men in Pinar del Rio, 3,000 in the province of Havana, 1,500 in Matanzas, 5,000 to 10,000 in Santa Clara and from 8,000 to 10,000 in the eastern provinces of Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba.

SPAIN'S OTHER TROUBLE.

Dispatches from Manila Do Not Bear Out Government Statements.

Madrid, March 15.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Manila does not bear out the statements issued by the government respecting the situation in the Philippine islands. Instead of the Spanish troops winning successive victories over the insurgents, the Imparcials correspondent declares that the campaign is almost paralyzed owing to the lack of reinforcements. Owing to the scarcity of troops it is impossible for the Spaniards to carry on an offensive. Captain-General Polavieja, who, it is reported, was about to resign because of ill health, has cabled that he will retain his command in the islands.

Affairs in Cuba.

Havana, March 14, via Key West, Fla., March 15.—Gen. Melquizo, who was responsible for the Delgado and many other atrocities in Pinar del Rio province, resentful at not being promoted, has decided to return to Spain on the sick plea, it is said, and will sail on the 20th inst. Gen. Solano will also leave on the same date. It is reported that Col. Nestor Aranguren, the Cuban leader who captured the Spanish officers on the Guanabacoa train some time ago, has been summoned to Gen. Gomez's presence to explain the reason why he released them without waiting for orders. Col. Tort, of the civil guards, who was in command of the Guires, when the rebels entered the town, has been indicted on the charge of neglect of duty and cowardice, and will soon be court martialed. Further details of the attack on Bejucal have been received. The insurgents carried away in carts all the effects taken from the stores three days ago. There were sixteen houses still burning in the outskirts. Two fine horses belonging to the military commander were also taken. Secret orders have been given by Weyler that whenever an attack is made on a town or city all the female residents on the simple suspicion of having connections with the insurgents shall also be arrested as enemies of Spain. This order has also been carried into effect, for on the day following the entry of rebels nine women with fifteen children, the majority of the latter being babies, were arrested and brought to Havana. Persons visiting the palace Thursday night were shocked at the sight of poor, forlorn human beings all huddled on the floor with their babies in their arms, all crying for want of food. From the palace orders were given to send them all to the Casa de Recogidas, or house for degraded women, and later on to be banished to Puerto Principe.

Weyler May Return to Spain.

Havana, March 15.—It is said in Havana by well informed persons that Gen. Weyler has received a dispatch from the Madrid government requesting him to forward his resignation, but the report lacks confirmation from official sources.

Gen. Lee's Family Coming Home.

Havana, March 15.—The family of Consul-General Lee will return to the United States within two weeks. This is thought to be preparatory to a change in the consulship.

Carlist Agitation Spreading.

Madrid, March 15.—Carlist agitation is spreading rapidly in the northern part of Spain. Armed bands of Carlists are being pursued by troops in the province of Teruel.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Harry Lister has secured his new Fowler racer. It weighs about twenty pounds and is certainly a beauty.

Membership, March 12, League of American Wheelmen: New, 702; total, 75,605. N. J. Division, new, 64; total, 4,947.

The county roads were in good condition Saturday afternoon but the heavy wind from the northwest prevented many cyclists from going out A few of the more venturesome were out, however, and enjoyed a little spin. The chilly wind also kept many of the horsemen home. The road to Elizabeth was in good condition. The road to New Brunswick, via Metuchen, was a trifle rough in places beyond Holly's corners, on account of the unusual amount of mud on the road. The new Stelton road was better, but a little rough. The roads west of Dunellen, towards Bound Brook, were almost impassable on account of the mud, which was very deep in places.

While Plainfield's roads are under a thick layer of mud and her far-famed streets have lost something of their excellent condition, the other cities of New Jersey are equally afflicted. New Brunswick is almost impassable off the few roads that are paved with cobble stones. Her principal thoroughfare for driving, Livingston avenue, is in passable condition. The roads in the vicinity of the college buildings are beds of nice soft Jersey mud. Elizabeth has quite a number of macadamized streets and they are in fair condition. Her unpaved streets are terrible, however. All the cities and towns along the line of the Jersey Central Railroad are in the same condition so Plainfield is not alone in her misery of muddy streets.

With the 31st of the present month the period of renewal closes for all members of the League of American Wheelmen whose annual membership expires on that date, and all cyclers in this State who belong to the organization should see that their $1 is remitted to the Secretary-Treasurer, James C. Tattersall, Trenton, before that time. The advantages of membership this coming year will be far greater than in former years, and it is hoped that every old member will renew. It is not only the duty of every wheelman to be a member of this organization, but such as are not enrolled for this present year will, before the season closes, undoubtedly have cause for regret, because being unabled to receive all the benefits which fall to those who remain within the ranks. If you want a '97 Road Book send twenty-cents with your renewal. This book will be ready about May 1 and will be the best of the series issued by the New Jersey Division, which is saying a good deal in its praise.

Mrs. Laura Peiteway, colored, aged 23 years, of Red Bank, died yesterday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Bateson, on Somerset street.

The regular quartette at Trinity Reformed Church, was assisted yesterday by Miss Olive Newell, Mrs. J. S. Cutter and Mrs. Johnson.

Lawyer Arthur Miller, of this city, left on Saturday for New Orleans, where he will remain for an indefinite period. He sailed from Pier 9, North river, by Steamer Hudson, of the Cromwell Line.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

ATHLETICS NOW TALKED

team are good. The high school will probably be better represented there than for several years. George Proctor Smith has been chosen captain of the track team and he intends to bring the candidates up to the mark in good shape. The cycling squad promises to be heard from in future. Lindley M. Hillman and Carroll L. Runyon are both good men. They have the experience of several years on the track and will make a powerful pair when in condition. Harry Cuming is not unknown and is looked upon as one of the pluckiest young riders in the city. A Osmond, a New Market lad, is a new comer with a reputation to make.

G. P. Smith will train for the shot, pole-vault and the dashes, while the other candidates will represent the association in the short runs, hurdles and throwing the hammer. As yet no long distance runner has been found among the boys.

Both the teams will be out for preliminary work in a few days when the changes of the different candidates will be noticed. The other candidates for the track team, besides those already are Elwood Davis, V. W. Nash, Jr., Walter Serrell, Walter Long, William A. Fisher and S. R. Craig.

A DELICATE OPERATION.

A Cranford Boy Greatly Relieved of Pain at the Hospital.

Dr. Ard, of this city, has just performed a very delicate and successful operation on Walter Crane, eight years old, son of J. M. Crane, of Cranford. During the past eighteen months the boy has suffered intensely with an ear trouble, the result of scarlet fever. A few days ago he was taken to New York to be examined by a specialist. The latter advised an immediate operation to save the boy's life. This suggestion was followed out and the operation was performed by Dr. Ard at Muhlenberg Hospital, in the presence of the staff. The boy is now doing nicely and hopes of his speedy recovery are entertained. The boy is a nephew of Postmaster J. M. Hetfield, of this city.

New Jersey Victorious at Whist.

Another whist match between the experts of New Jersey and Brooklyn was played in the rooms of the Brooklyn Whist Club, Saturday afternoon. Each side was represented by fifty players. Among the New Jersey delegation were Messrs. McCutchen and Townsend of the Park Club. The New Jersey players won the match by eleven points after a very exciting game. This is the second time this winter that the two delegations have met and the New Jerseyites were victorious in both. Last year the New Jersey experts won both matches with the Brooklyn players.

E. E. Anthony Officiated.

The funeral service of the late Augustus Spitzel, who died suddenly on Saturday, was held yesterday afternoon from the office of Terrill & Cole, undertakers. E. E. Anthony, superintendent of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, officiated. He read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer, after which interment was made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

For School Trustees.

Henry A. McGee, John Valiant and S. B. Joseph are spoken of as possible candidate to fill the vacancies in the North Plainfield of Education. They represent the wishes of the opposition to the present administration of the school.

THREE VIEWS OF JONAH

REV. C. E. HERRING'S INTERESTING SERMONETTE LAST NIGHT.

Rev. Mr. Herring Explained the Views as Held by Various Eminent People, He Adding a Few Comments to Them.

"Three Interpretations of the Book of Jonah" was the subject of the sermonette delivered by Rev. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church last evening. In view of the fact that there many opinions widely differing on this subject the discourse of last evening may be considered a highly important one. In part Mr. Herring spoke as follows:

"The book of Jonah—This contribution is added to his fertile theme because of certain enquiries on the subject. In regard to the book there are several theories of interpretation, three of which I desire to set before you tonight. The historic view. Those holding this view regard everything in the book as simple narration of fact. Jonah was a native of Gathepher a town in lower Galilee and of the Tribe of Zebulon and lived about 800 years before Christ. He was a contemporary of Lycurmus, one-hundred years older than Romulus was in his prime when Homer was a lad. His appearance on this stage of history is abrupt like Amos and Elijah.

"His mission was to denounce the wrath of God against Ninevaeh, a city noted for its greatness and stupendous wickedness and that in not obeying the voice of God a great fish swallowed him, possibly a species of shark, which sort of fish is not unknown in the Mediterranean. Fish have been known to attain the length of 25 feet. The difficulty is not in the possibility of being swallowed alive but in the remaining alive for three days which might be accounted for by suspended animation if such natural theory were needed.

"The allegorical view.—Jonah symbolizes Israel as a nation, and the story of Jonah is a narrative of Israel's history. Israel was entrusted with a commission to be the upholder of divine truth and Israel shrank from this imposed duty, and was swallowed by the great world power. Jermiah 54-34 is in line with this theory. In regard to Jonah's disappointment because the judgments of God were not executed: The Jews on the return from the exile were disappointed because the judgments of God were averted. Those that hold this view are reverent in the attitude to the Bible. The parable of the prodigal son may not be historic yet it is no less inspired truth.

"Dr. Abbott responds to the news report that the sermon was not on Jonah and the Whale but a survey of the Books of Esther, Jonah and Daniel.

"There was no unrestrained laughter during the sermon and Jonah was not compared to the Pickwick papers. Dr. Abbott said it was a satire in quality like Lowell's Biglow papers.

"The first point of the satire is that a man should imagine it possible to escape from God. The second satire that not being willing to preach to pagans he should be compelled to mingle his prayer with pagans. The third satire that they should help him for what he brought on himself. The fourth that he should be angry for the gracious dealings of God with the Ninevites. The fifth that he should care more for the gourd than Nineveh.

"All of these theories agree that the book has a didactic purpose and that the main teaching is that God's purpose of redemption reaches beyond the Jews.

"In regard to the verse in Matthew which compares the resurrection of Christ with the deliverance of Jonah there are many scholars who believe this verse is a gloss of some early copyist. We may have our own opinion but let us not deny the right of others to theirs if they hold the Word of God in reverence."

Operation on F. L. C. Martin.

An operation was performed on F. L. C. Martin, of Park avenue, yesterday, by Drs. Long and Ard and a large tumor removed from his neck just over the windpipe. The operation was very successful and Mr. Martin is able to be out today attending to his duties.

Broke His Collar Bone.

Samuel Vail, at one time a messenger for the Postal Telegraph Company, met with an accident Saturday afternoon which resulted in the fracture of his collar bone. He with some other boys were playing about the trestle work at Rheaume's coal and wood yard, when he broke through a thin piece of board which covered an open space. He fell a considerable distance, with the above result. With the aid of his chums he was taken to the home of Dr. Tomlinson, who set the bone. Young Vail is now doing well.

Going to His Brother's Aid.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of West Front street, left this morning for Chicago, where he was called by his brother, who, on Saturday, was severely injured on a railrord train. He has been working in Chicago for sometime, and when injured he was taken to the place of strangers. Mr. O'Donnell is quite worried for ne does not know how badly his brother was injured. He will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

JUST FOUR SURPRISES.

His Action, However, Met With the Approval of the Councilmen—Mayor's Address Concerned Finances Principally.

There were a few surprises at the meeting of the new Mayor and the Borough Council held last evening, but everything passed off harmoniously. The Council chamber was filled with interested spectators who were anxious to learn what was going to happen and as soon as this was known many of them left, some satisfied and others not.

Mayor Hegeman called the meeting to order and all the members of the Council were present except Mr. Lounsbury. His Honor in calling the members to order said:

"My first duty is a pleasant one, that of administering the oath of office to Mayor-elect Wilson. It is with great pleasure that I resign this chair to one who is so well fitted to fill it, and to one who has been so unanimously elected by his fellow-citizens. I feel sure, Mr. Mayor, that you will give the office the same careful attention during the coming two years that you have in your own personal business, and at the close of your term the people of this borough will say, 'Well done, good and faithful servant, do it again.'"

Mr. Hegeman then administered the oath of office and, at the close, when Mayor Wilson took his seat, those in the lobby gave hearty applause.

In accordance with resolutions offered by Mr. Schutt, H. B. Lounsbury was made president of the Council and the by-laws and rules of 1885 were adopted to govern the present Council. This was followed by the reading of the Mayor's message which is as follows:

Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens:—To be honored with the office of Chief Magistrate of this Borough is a responsibility of which I am deeply conscious. I am also not unmindful of the fact that the burden which rests on my shoulders rests also on yours, and that my best efforts would be but vain did I not have your earnest aid, co-operation and sympathy. We are public servants placed in office by the ballots of the people. We cannot be honest in what we do unless we place common interests above party; therefore, let us pull together with that singleness of purpose which always brings success and proper esteem.

We live in a beautiful Borough. We have good streets and sidewalks, good schools, efficient Fire and Police Departments, and an active Board of Health. We have been moving forward steadily year by year, keeping pace with the march of improvements, and in, perhaps, all things except sewers we stand in the front rank among Boroughs of the first-class.

But while this thought impresses us, let us not forget that in the words of ex-Mayor Gilbert, "Wise legislation requires the exercise of liberality as well as economy, the former to expend where it is necessary, the latter to save when it is possible without injury to the public service."

Individuals and corporations endowed with the borrowing power are easily led into extravagance. It is easier to incur liabilities than to pay bills when they are due. The taxpayers have a right to urge that the public purse strings be not loosened to such an extent as to cause taxes to grow faster than improvements.

They will also call us to account if we plunge thoughtlessly and unwisely into too many new things at once. There is a natural tendency in governing bodies to overdo improvements.

We have incurred large liabilities in that much needed and useful work, the opening of Watchung avenue. Our Fire Department expenditures have recently been so large as to necessitate the issue of bonds. Let these burdens be at least partly lifted before we take on additional ones, and in the meantime let us be prudent and economical in all expenditures.

It is my purpose to bring to the notice of your honored body such questions requiring action as may from time to time arise.

For the present permit me to extend to you a cordial greeting, with assurances of my sincere esteem.

The following appointments were then made by the Mayor:

Corporation Counsel, Charles A. Reed; Borough Magistrate, Henry S. Thomas; Chief Marshal, W. A. Wilson; Night Marshals, J. J. Kleiner, W. G. Smalley; Special Marshals, Francis Whitely, Israel Jones, W. B. Emmons, Richard McDonald, Peter Doeringer, John Coley; Street Commissioner, George Conover; electrician, J. J. Stahl; engineer, W. T. Newman; Janitor, W. V. Krewson.

By mutual consent the appointment of Chief of the Fire Department and the assistants was laid over until the next meeting. Mr. Schuft offered a resolution that J. H. Carman be made borough physician, and the same was adopted by the council.

Resolutions were offered by the different Councilmen that the salaries be made as follows: Borough Physician, $150; Corporation Counsel, $500; Overseer of the Poor, $150; Electrician, $150; Chief of the Fire Departmemt, $100; Engineer, $50; Janitor, $70; Street Commissioner, $50; Borough Magistrate, $200; Chief Marshal, $60 per month; Night Marshals, $50 per month; Special Marshals, 25 cents per hour when on duty. With the exception of the last four named officers the salaries are for the year.

Streets and Public Health—Messrs. Woolston, Carey, Schutt; Fire, Water and Lamps—Messrs. Lounsbury, Burtis, McLoughlin; License and Marshal—Messrs. Carey, Lounsbury, Burtis; Auditing and Finance—Messrs. Schutt, Carey, McLoughlin; Stationery and Printing—Messrs. McLoughlin, Lounsbury, Woolston; Laws, Ordinances and Election—Messrs. Burtis, Woolston, Schutt.

This concluded the business of the evening and the council adjourned to meet the first Friday in April.

Previous to the meeting a little pleasantry was enjoyed by Mayor Wilson. Collector Spencer had placed a very large pen on the desk occupied by His Honor and the Mayor felt the expression of kindness exceedingly. During the evening he had occasion to make use of the pen frequently, and in every instance it occasioned a smile on the part of those present.

It might be well to state that four men were turned down by the Mayor in making the appointments. They were Marshals Line and Hansen; Street Commissioner Emmons and Borough Magistrate Crosley. The Mayor had his own ideas about the appointments and it must be said that his action in the above cases was a surprise to many.

TRIED TO GET IN A WINDOW.

The dangers of entering even your own house by the window were clearly demonstrated, Friday evening, when Patrolman Myers came very near putting a bullet through the body of a young man, who was stopping at the home of Hermann Simmonds, of Watchung avenue, and tried to enter by the way of a window as he had forgotten the night key.

Roundsman Myers was patroling his beat that evening when he noticed a man climbing up the piazza post on Mr. Simmonds' residence. The officer approached the man, revolver in had, and ordered him to come down. The man did not want to come. The revolver convinced him of the advisibility of descending. He explained to the officer that he was staying there and had neglected to bring a night key with him. Not wishing to disturb the family he had attempted to enter by window when the officer arrived on the scene. The noise of the trouble had roused the occupants of the house and they appeared at the window and corroberated the statements of the young man. He was admitted and the officer continued on his rounds.

A Lecture in Architecture.

At the Plainfield Camera Club Thursday evening Dr. Audsley will describe and illustrate the several periods or styles of mediæval architecture, beginning with the Anglo-Norman style represented by the Durham cathedral and other important structures and ending with the perpendicular style represented by Henry the Seventh's chapel, Westminister, and certain large cathedrals. Eighty-seven beautiful views will be thrown on the screen during the address.

Juniors' Competitive Drill.

On Friday evening of this week Monroe Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Newark, will come to Plainfield and engage in a competiitve drill with Somerset Council, of this city.

The Hibernians Ball.

Tomorrow will be St. Patrick's Day and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of this city, will celebrate by holding a ball in the Cycle Academy in the evening.

To be a Lively Meeting.

The school meeting to be held in the borough this evening gives promises of being the liveliest one in the history of that community.

Mayor Fisk Still Sick.

It is reported that Mayor Fisk is not much improved from his illness and the time of his return to Plainfield is indefinite.

LIBRARY WANTS $14,000

TO PUT UP A SEPARATE BUILDING FOR BABCOCK COLLECTION.

The Board of Directors Make a Long and Detailed Argument for the Appropriation to be Made by Common Council.

The following is the petition presented to the Common Council last evening by the Board of Directors of the Public Library:

To the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:—The Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, in contemplation of action by your Honorable Body upon the accompanying application in respect of an addition to the library building, respectfully invites your consideration in that connection of the following facts:

The institution was established in 1881, but its early resources were so limited that as late as June 1, 1885, the number of books and periodicals which it possessed was only 298. The following year, however, a marked advance resulted from the gift of Mr. Jon Mäle of the Library building and large gifts by other citizens of money and other property. The later growth has been continuous and substantial, and now the Library contains more than 14,500 volumes, carefully selected with a view to the needs of the community, quality rather than quantity being specially regarded, and the reading room is amply supplied with newspapers and the best magazine literature, and with costly reference books. The yearly additions average 850 volumes. These accummulations, embracing selections from the world's best literature, have been made easily accessible and are of inestimable value to people of all ages and classes. The Library is now seeking, through its delivery stations, to carry its books to the very homes of the people.

The Library is much used and is highly appreciated, and 4,427 borrowers of books are now registered. The circulation, beginning with 462 volumes in the month of October, 1886, in December, 1896, it reach 2,937. The proportion of books circulated to each inhabitant of the city has increased in ten years more than twenty per cent, and the percentage of light reading which in October, 1896, was about seventy-seven, had fallen in December, 1896, to about sixty-five, a difference of about twelve per cent in favor of the heavier reading, the record thus showing that in ten years the Library has induced people not only to read more, but to read more substantial books. In the ten years the total number of books circulated was 214,529. The influence of books cannot be measured, nor can inspiration be shown by statistics, but 300,000 good books cannot be circulated in any community without a direct benefit, none the less real because it cannot be defined by figures.

For the year ending May 31, 1887, 19,057 persons visited the Library, and during the year ending May 31, 1896, 38,131. During the last year fifty-three of the educators of Plainfield, representing public, private and parochial schools, have, upon application, been granted special teacher's privileges, and in this way alone 1,809 volumes in aid of school work have been circulated in the schools.

An important part of the Library's influence is through its reference work. Students, teachers, authors and others make constant demands upon the Library for a variety of information bewildering to contemplate. For these are open shelves to which all have free access, with a constant attendant to assist them when necessary. Statistics of such work cannot be kept, but as a slight indication of its extent it may be said that from October to and including December, 1896, the questions with reference to which assistance was rendered by the Library, numbered 216. This is not, however, a complete record, nor does it take into account the many who are able unaided to find what they seek. The few only can afford books of reference, and the many who cannot, as well as the community at large, benefit greatly by the excellent selection now at their command.

The usefulness of the Library, however, is greatly hampered by lack of suitable accommodations. The one large room designed for the library and reading room is necessarily made to serve not only for the storage of books but as a delivery, reading and study room, and for these purposes is utterly inadequate. The necessary confusion of the delivery work is destructive of all serious study. Students, drawn to the Library by its collection of books of reference, are driven away by the noise and confusion. This should not be. The stack room and rooms for delivery, for periodicals and newspapers, for children, for students, should be separate. The work demands this specialization, and new libraries recognize and make provision for it.

The moneys hitherto raised for the support of the Library and Reading Room are small in comparison with the sums expended for other similar libraries, and a few statistics bearing on this point will be suggestive.

Out of the 100 libraries in the United States containing over 10,000 volumes each, but 17 have smaller annual incomes than that of Plainfield; 18 of the 100 have smaller collections, among which may be specified:

Aurora, Ill.	12,597	$3,700
Decatur, Ill.	12,300	$4,000
Elgin, Ill.	14,000	$6,856
Pawtucket, R. I.	13,000	$6,700
Woonsocket, R. I.	13,298	$8,000
Painfield, N. J.	14,500	$4,500

And to show the proportion of annual library income to population, in a few instaces, may be specified:

Bangor, Me.	19,103	$ 6,500
Brookline, Mass	12,103	11,500
Concord, "	4,427	4,000
Malden, "	2,331	7,470
Newton, "	24,379	13,200
Woburn, "	13,499	6,000
Plainfield, N. J.	11,267	3,500

The good work of the Library in all departments is expanding, and its natural growth requires more room and better facilities; but this special application to your Honorable Body is prompted not by these considerations alone, but by the very pressing need of accomodation for the "Babcock Scientific Library."

The late George H. Babcock, by his will, bequeathed to the Library and Reading Room ten thousand dollars "for the purchase of industrial, mechanical and scientific books, the same to be kept by themselves and to be known and designated forever by the name of the "Babcock Scientific Library," for free public use, and subject to the same rules and regulations as the "Plainfield Public Library;" and he also devised to the Library and Reading Room the houses and lots of land known as Number 63, 65 and 67 (now numbers 521, 523 and 525) Madison avenue, the net income thereof to be used "for the purpose of keeping up and enlarging said "Babcock Scientific Library."

Thus is provided a fund for the immediate purchase of a large library, and an annual income of about $1,000 to maintain and enlarge it. The terms of Mr. Babcock's bequest fairly construed, will authorize the purchase of general scientific treatises and books relating to mathematics, astronomy, physics, including electricity, chemistry and chemical technology, geology and mineralogy, biology, botany, natural history, lives of scientists, architecture and building, photography, engineering, agriculture, domestic economy, commerce, metallurgy, manufactures and mechanic trades of all kinds, and also scientific periodicals upon such subjects; and if all these classes of books be supplied by means of Mr. Babcock's gifts, the general library will be free to expend more on other classes of literature, and thus be materially benefited.

An actual demand exists for scientific books, the last annual report of the Board of the Board of Directors showing that these come seventh in popularity out of thirteen classes into which the library is divided; and this notwithstanding the fact that the newer scientific books, which would be most in demand, have not been acquired because of delay with a view to the purchase of such books with the Babcock fund as soon as it can be properly utilized. The three large factories of Plainfield alone employ about 2,000 machinists, a class of men who are the most intelligent of mechanics. For these should be the latest and best books on machinery. Books for the special use of architects, builders and mechanics of all trades should also be provided, as well as books for the use of the schools, which now make science so important in the curriculum; nor should students in special lines and the large num-

NEEDS OF A BUSY CITY

SEVERAL ORDINANCES INTRODUCED INTO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

The Most Important Was the Extension of the Sidewalk Boundaries — Little Big Six Acted on the Last License.

All was peace and quietness at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last evening. In fact, there was not anything to cause any excitement. The last liquor license was called up and the "little Big Six" hung together with the expected result. There were several ordinances introduced, the most important of which extended the boundaries of the sidewalk district.

All the Councilmen were present except Messrs. Westphal and Runyon, when President Dumont called the meeting to order, and those two Councilmen arriven before the Council had settled down to business. After the roll call and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting. Clerk MacMurray gathered together the petitions and read them. First was one from the committees of the Organized Aid Association and the Relief Association. They asked for permission to use a portion of the city farm to furnish occupation for the unemployed of the city. The wages for the men were to be paid by the associations and the products of the harvest thus raised were to be divided between the city and the associations. This was referred to the streets committee.

Quite a lengthy petition came from the residents of Netherwood asking for some nineteen crosswalks on Belvidere. South and Woodland avenues, W. F. Hobbie and others wanted several crosswalks on Putnam avenue and also asked that the street be put in better condition than at present.

A petition from Jeremiah Manning and others asked for an apportionment of the sewer assessment on property on Central avenue as it no longer belonged to them.

The city was asked to receive, at no expense to itself, a portion of Sycamore avenue, which has just been cut through from West Front street to Green Brook. The petition was signed by A. J. Randolph and others. A. D. Thompson and other residents of Netherwood wanted another electric light at the corner of Putnam avenue and Woodland avenue. The directors of the Public Library notified the Council that they needed $3,500 to support the Library for the year 1897.

A request for a crosswalk at the corner of West Second street and New street was given to the streets committee for consideration.

The bills against the city for sewer assessments were turned over to the finance committee. President Dumont thought that they should be paid by transferring the necessary amount from one account to another, as the Board of Education had been compelled to do.

Another petition asking for more electric lights in the vicinity of Grant avenue and West Front street was received.

A petition was received from the directors of the Public Library which is published in full in another column.

The streets and sewer committee had a lengthy report to make. In regard to the petition for the crosswalks in Netherwood, Mr. Frost, chairman of the committee, said that Netherwood did not have a single crosswalk at present and that the roads in that part of the city were in very bad condition so that the crosswalks were almost a necessity. The taxes paid by the people of that district amounted to over $500, and that the total cost of the asked for improvement would not be over $300. He recommended that the matter be left with the committee with power. Mr. Barrows, of the same committee, agreed that Netherwood was sadly in need of crosswalks, but thought that the rest of the city should not be forgotten. He amended Mr. Frost's motion, giving the committee power to lay six of the crosswalks in Netherwood at present. Mr. Frost said that number was too few and at least twelve were needed.

A petition from the Board of Education for sidewalks on East Second and Berckman streets, in the vicinity of the new Lincoln School, and another asking for the extension of the sidewalk ordinance to Carleton avenue, would come under the ordinance that was to be introduced, Mr. Frost said.

The petition of the Organized Aid and the Relief Associations was reported favorably and referred to the committee, with power. The city merely grants the use of the land and is under no expense. This plan was tried on a small scale last year and it proved very successful.

Mr. Frost next reported that he had insured the buildings on the city farm for three years for $2,100 at a cost of $11.

Two ordinances were submitted by Mr. Runyon, repealing ordinances one of which fixed the salary of the city collector and the other the salary of the street commissioner. They were adopted on second reading.

Mr. Barrows introduced the new sidewalk ordinance which extends the limit in which the city can compel sidewalks to be laid. Mr. Barrows said that it was not the intention to order a great many to be laid, but only those in the vicinity of churches and schools or on such streets as the property owners desire. This ordinance was also adopted on second reading.

Mr. Serrell has been keeping the street sprinkling question well in mind and he had a resolution ready for introduction regarding it. It provided that the corporation counsel be ordered to draw up the licenses for the street sprinklers and that those applying for licenses should give a practical demonstration of their apparatus to show that it answers all requirements. It was pigeon-holed with the street committee.

Mr. Frost introduced a resolution that all boss plumbers who make connections with the sewers deposit a bond of $55 with the city.

On Mr. Leivers' motion, the peddlers' licenses were taken up and granted. On the motion of the same Councilman, the application for a liquor license of William Willis was granted. Those voting nay to the granting of the licence were Messrs. Barrows, Baker, Frost, Stebbins and Serrell. The meeting then adjourned.

THE ODD FELLOWS SOCIABLE.

Plainfield Lodge Had a Feast of Good Things All Around.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., began a series of monthly entertainments last evening for the members only. After the usual routine of business all were invited to the banquet hall, where a supper was served. As an excellent finish to the supper Secretary Sheppard passed the cigars.

Noble Grand John H. Carney was master of ceremonies, and he announced the following programme: Selections on the violin, Vice Grand A. G. Carpenter, accompanied by E. E. Runyon on the organ; reading, Past Grand Charles M. Raybert, tenor solo, E. E. Runyon; history of the late war, Past Grand E. C. Morse; Boston toast, L. H. Brown; humorous remarks, consolidation and imitation of public men, John H. Carney.

Everyone of the above numbers were heartily encored, and it was very late when the happy affair came to an end. It is the intention to hold these entertainments every month, and those in charge will present a varied programme each time. Last evening there were about fifty members present.

Songs by Councilman Runyon.

The Loyal Temperance Legion repeated its entertainments in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Watchung avenue before a large audience last night. There were several changes in the programme. Three songs by Councilman Wm. N. Runyon opened the programme. The regular programme and the names of the participants were given in The Press at the time. There was in addition a song and a recitation by Enid Fonda, and a recitation by Caroline F. Fuller. Clarence Mills took the place of Wm. McKillop as violinist. The entertainment ended with a grand tableau, in which all the children took part.

Must be Stopped.

Numerous complaints have been made to the office of this paper that during the past week the agent of the Newark Evening News, who has been delivering that paper free in the city and borough, has frequently removed The Press and other papers from in front of doors and substituted the Newark News. The Press has no objection to the News sending to Plainfield all the papers they want to, but it does object to this method of introduction.

The News is such a fair paper in all respects, however, that the actions of the agent are probably not countenanced by its owners.

A Musical Opportunity.

The Y. M. C. A. Hall should be filled to overflowing on the evening of March 25th by all lovers of first class music. The New York University Glee and Musical Clubs will render a grand concert on Thursday evening of next week and as this is a grand opportunity offered to the people of Plainfield the students should be well received.

White's Elevator in Use.

The new electric elevator at White's will begin running tomorrow and visitors to the store will be able to visit all four floors which are now in use without walking up a single flight of stairs.

MALICIOUS ONES AT WORK

PLAYED HAVOC IN A VACANT WEST SEVENTH STREET RESIDENCE.

Three Lads Were Arrested Accused of the Crime and They Will Have a Hearing Tomorrow Before Justice Nash.

With windows smashed, doors wrecked, and balustrade ruined, the house was a pretty sight indeed, when it was visited several days ago. Somebody had been there, and out of pure maliciousness, broken and destroyed property to the value of probably over $100.

The house in question is No. 1045 West Seventh street. It is one of several large houses that have stood idle and empty for several years. They are on West Seventh street, just east of Clinton avenue.

Who the author of all this mischief is the police do not know, but three lads, who were seen in the vicinity of the house a number of times, are now being held for a hearing in Justice Nash's court, to-morrow afternoon. A warrant is also out for another of the lads.

The discovery of the condition of the interior of the house was made several days ago, and the matter was reported to the police. Almost all of the glass in the windows had been smashed, the panels to the doors had been broken and the doors knocked off their hinges. Wherever it was possible, the woodwork had been broken and mutilated, while the railing to the stairway was a complete wreck. From the manner in which it was done, it is thought to be the work of boys.

Archie Laramour and his brother and Frank and William Mague were seen in the neighborhood of the house several times. They are lads ranging in age from thirteen to sixteen years. The two Laramour lads of West Sixth street and Frank Mague who now lives in the borough were brought before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon and put under bonds for a hearing tomorrow afternoon. The police have some evidence which they have not yet disclosed but which it is expected will give some light on the case.

GOT FIGHTING DRUNK.

John Newman Raised a Row in a West End Saloon.

City Judge DeMeza had another dispute to settle this morning in the city court. John Newman was the alleged offender and he was arraigned in the court this morning. The trouble happened in Sullivan's saloon on West Third street. It is alleged that Newman drank more than was good for him and assaulted John and Joe Sullivan. He was put out of the saloon for being noisy, it is alleged, and it was then that he struck one of the Sullivans. Newman was arrested by Patrolman Vanderweg and locked up for the night.

After hearing the story of the officer and the complainants, the Judge decided that Newman was guilty and fined him $20. He had the choice of paying the fine or going to jail for sixty days. The fine will probably be paid.

Andy Seguine's Assailants Indicted.

The Grand Jury indicted yesterday for assault in the second degree Martin A. Holmes, of 353 Amsterdam avenue; Daniel Irving, of 364 Amsterdam avenue, and Richard Harvey, of 857 Ninth avenue, New York, all cab drivers. They are accused of severely beating on January 13th last Andrew Seguine, of 164 West Seventy-fourth street, another cab driver, whom they called a scab. The assault occurred at the time of the cab drivers' strike. Seguine was laid up in the hospital for several weeks.

Fell From a Chair.

Miss Laura Mulford, of East Fifth street, who met with a painful accident last week by falling off of a chair, is slowly improving, although she will be confined to the house for several days to come. Fortunately no bones were broken and her speedy recovery is assured. Dr. Zeglio is in attendance.

Visiting a Good Thing.

Mrs. Barkalew led the devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union yesterday afternoon, and Miss Peeching taught the lesson in which she described the memorable chariot race at Corinth. The topic was that teachers should visit other schools and learn the various methods employed.

Grove Street in Bad Shape.

It has been a long time since the city has spent any money on Grove street and the city portion of it is now in a wretched condition. In rainy weather the sidewalks are flooded and traveling is thereby made very disagreeable.

MESSAGE DISCUSSED

Views on President McKinley's First Communication to Congress.

IT MEETS WITH GENERAL APPROVAL

Senator Hanna Said It Was Short, Sharp and to the Point---Some Expected Reference to the Foreign Questions.

Washington, March 16.—President McKinley's first message meets with approval in republican ranks, but there was some disappointment in the omission of all reference to foreign questions. Mr. Hanna said it was short, sharp and to the point, dealing only with the subjects which Mr. McKinley believed should come before this session. Mr. Lodge characterized it as an excellent presentation of the tariff subject reinforced by just sufficient figures to make the arguments convincing. Mr. Proctor considered it a typical republican message on the one point to which the president drew public attention. The following is the full text of the document:

To the Congress of the United States—Regretting the necessity which has required me to call you together, I feel that your assembling in extraordinary session is indispensable because of the condition in which we find the revenues of the government. It is conceded that its current expenditures are greater than its receipts and that such a condition has existed for now more than three years. With unlimited means at our command, we are presenting the remarkable spectacle of increasing our public debt by borrowing money to meet the ordinary outlays incident upon even an economical and prudent administration of the government. An examination of the subject discloses this fact in every detail and leads inevitably to the conclusion that the condition of the revenues which allows it is unjustifiable and should be corrected. We find by the reports of the secretary of the treasury that the revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, from all sources were $425,868,260.22 and the expenditures for all purposes were $415,953,806.56, leaving an excess of receipts over expenditures of $9,914,453.66. During that fiscal year $40,570,467.98 were paid upon the public debt, which had been reduced since March 1, 1889, $259,076,890, and the annual interest charge decreased $11,684,576 60. The receipts of the government from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, amounted to $461,716,561.94 and its expenditures to $459,374,887.65, showing an excess of receipts over expenditures of $2,341,674.29. Since that time the receipts of no fiscal year, and with but few exceptions of no month of any fiscal year, have exceeded the expenditures. The receipts of the government from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, were $372,802,498.29, and its expenditures $442,605,758.87, leaving a deficit, the first since the resumption of specie payments, of $69,803,260.58. Notwithstanding there was a decrease of $16,769,128.78 in the ordinary expenses of the government, as compared with the previous fiscal year, its income was still not sufficient to provide for its daily necessities and the gold reserve in the treasury for the redemption of greenbacks was drawn upon to meet them. But this did not suffice and the government then resorted to loans to replenish the reserve.

Not Enough Revenue.

In February, 1894, $50,000,000 in bonds were issued, and in November following a second issue of $50,000,000 was deemed necessary. The sum of $117,171,795 was realized by the sale of these bonds, but the reserve was steadily decreased until on February 8, 1895, a third sale of $62,315,400 in bonds for $65,116,244, was announced to congress. The receipts of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, were $390,373,263.30 and the expenditures $433,178,426.48, showing a deficit of $42,805,223.19. A further loan of $100,000,000 was negotiated by the government in February, 1896, the sale netting $111,166,246, and swelling the aggregate of bonds issued within three years to $262,315,400. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, the revenues of the government from all sources amounted to $469,475,408.78, while its expenditures were $434,678,654.48, or an excess of expenditures over receipts of $25,203,245.70. In other words, the total receipts for the three fiscal years ending June 30, 1896, were insufficient by $137,811,729.46 to meet the total expenditures.

Nearly $200,000,000 Deficiency.

Nor has this condition since improved. For the first half of the present fiscal year the receipts of the government, exclusive of postal revenues, were $157,507,603.76, and its expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $195,410,000.22, or an excess of expenditures over receipts of $37,902,396.46. In January of this year the receipts, exclusive of postal revenues, were $24,316,994.05, and the expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $30,269,389.29, a deficit of $5,952,395.24 for the month. In February of this year the receipts, exclusive of postal revenues, were $24,400,997.38, and expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $28,296,056.66, a deficit of $4,395,059.28, or a total deficiency of $186,061,580.44 for the three years and eight months ending March 1, 1897.

Big Increase in Interest Charge.

Not only are we without a surplus in the treasury, but with an increase in the public debt there has been a corresponding increase in the annual interest charge from $22,893,883.20 in 1892, the lowest of any year since 1862, to $34,387,297.60 in 1896, or an increase of $11,493,414.40. It may be urged that even if the revenues of the government had been sufficient to meet its ordinary expenses during the past three years, the gold reserve would still have been insufficient to meet the demands upon it, and that bonds would necessarily have been issued for its repletion. Be this as it may, it is clearly manifest, without denying or affirming the correctness of such a conclusion, the debt would have been decreased in at least the amount of the deficiency, and business confidence immeasureably strengthened throughout the country.

Tariff Urged Before Other Business.

Congress should promptly correct the existing condition. Ample revenue must be supplied, not only for the ordinary expenses of the government, but for the prompt payment of liberal pensions and the liquidation of the principal and interest of the public debt. In raising revenue, duties should be so levied upon foreign products as to preserve the home market so far as possible, to our own producers; to revive and increase manufactures; to relieve and encourage agriculture; to increase our domestic and foreign commerce; to aid and develop mining and building, and to render to labor in every field of useful occupation the liberal wages and adequate rewards to which skill and industry are justly entitled. The necessity of the passage of a tariff law which shall provide ample revenue need not be further urged. The imperative demand of the hour is the prompt enactment of such a measure, and to this object I earnestly recommend that congress shall make every endeavor. Before other business is transacted, let us first provide sufficient revenue to faithfully administer the government without the contracting of further debt or the continued disturbance of our finances.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

Executive Mansion, March 15, 1897.

CUSTOMS RECORD BROKEN.

Rush of Importers To Get Goods Out of Bond Continues.

New York, March 16.—Importers continue the rush to get goods out of bond. Yesterday $2,667,979.51 was paid in, and the record of receipts for one day at the custom house was broken. The day's payments included $489,464.15 in import or straight duties as distinguished from duties paid on goods in bond, so that $2,178,515.36 was paid to take goods, mainly wool, woolens, worsteds, sugar and tobacco, out of bonded warehouses by importers. There were 790 import entries and 2,838 withdrawal entries. Into the sub-treasury banks had paid $2,850,000 as special customs deposits.

Philadelphia, March 15.—The receipts at the custom house yesterday were the heaviest on record at this port, aggregating $316,141.06.

Boston, March 16.—The Boston Rubber Shoe company, one the largest corporations in the manufacture of rubber shoes, has sent out a circular to the trade in which a reduction of from 12 to 16 per cent. was made from the price list of last year. The reduction was in the nature of a surprise to the other manufacturers, most of whom are in the United States Rubber company, popularly known as the "rubber trust." In was taken in some quarters to mean a fight on the United States Rubber company.

Desire Union with Greece.

Athens, March 16.—A dispatch from Canea says that at a conference held there between the admirals commanding the foreign warships and the chiefs in command of the insurgents, the latter declared that they desired the union of the island with Greece. The disbanded Montenegrin gendarmes at Canea have placed themselves subject to the orders of the Russian admiral. Nine hundred volunteers have arrived here from Alexandria and 1,200 have arrived at Larissa from Macedonia.

Death of Rev. E. S. Ellis.

Boston, March 16.—The American board of commissioners for foreign missions has received intelligence of the death in Harpoot, eastern Turkey, Feb. 22, of Rev. Egbert Smyth Ellis. Mr. Ellis was born in Kittery, Me., May 3, 1866. His father was the Rev. Thomas Long Ellis. He was graduated from Williams college in 1890, and from Andover seminary in 1894. He embarked from New York for the foreign field, Sept. 26, 1894.

Tenure of Office of Postmasters.

Washington, March 16.—Postmaster-General Gary has made an announcement of interest to democratic postmasters whose terms expire on various dates under the new administration. He says he has decided to adhere to the four-year tenure of office policy for postmasters except in cases where such officials should be removed for cause.

Appointed by Vice-President Hobart.

Washington, March 16.—Vice-President Hobart has appointed Frederick Evans, jr., of Newark, N. J., as his private secretary, and Harry Bastianelli of New Jersey as messenger.

Against a State Printing Plant.

Boston, March 16.—The legislative committee on printing has voted against a state printing plant. Two Boston members of the committe dissented.

Secretary Roosevelt Resigns.

London, March 16.—J. R. Roosevelt, first secretary of the United States embassy here, has tendered his resignation on the ground of ill health.

Mrs. McKinley To Receive.

Washington, March 16.—Mrs. McKinley will receive the ladies of the diplomatic circle Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

out in the rain

A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease exist in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the consumption germs.

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites, in the form of Scott's Emulsion, are the very best remedies.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison, of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a back ache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50c and $1. Get a bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

KISSAMO IN RUINS.

Canea, March 16.—The village of Kissamo, to the westward of this city, is now in ruins from the bombardment of the insurgents and the fires which followed the bombardment. The fort guarding the village is, however, intact, the insurgents not yet having succeeded in reducing it, though they have been firing upon it for nearly four days. Unless something is done, and that speedily, by the powers, the prospect is that the island will be devastated. It is reported here that it is the intention of the Christians to exterminate the Moslems throughout the island. The Moslems, in a spirit of revenge, are more actively than ever engaged in looting the houses of Christians under the eyes of the foreign sailors and marines.

PREDATORY ALBANIANS.

They Pillage Six Villages, Burn Three Others and Shoot Twenty-four Persons.

Vienna, March 16.—A band of Albanians from Uskub, some twenty-five miles south of the Servian frontier, have pillaged six villages in the vicinity of Uskub and burned three others. In their attacks on the villages they shot twenty-four persons. Later the Albanians crossed the Servian frontier with the evident intention of continuing their marauding on Servian territory. They were, however, met by a party of Servian gendarmes, who had received warning of their approach, and were repulsed after a struggle in which a number on both sides were killed or wounded. The Turkish government has sent troops to deal with the predatory Albanians.

15 DEAD; 13 WILL DIE.

London, March 16.—A dispatch to the Graphic from Canea says that a gun exploded yesterday on the Russian turret ship Sisoi Veliky, killing fifteen men and wounding an officer and twenty seamen. The Sisoi Veliky is one of the largest vessels in the Russian navy. The vessel was practicing outside of Suda bay, when one of her turret guns exploded, owing to the breech not having been properly closed. Besides the fifteen men killed outright thirteen others were so badly injured that they will die.

Floods in the South.

Memphis, Tenn., March 16.—The first loss of life resulting from the high water was recorded last night, an entire negro family and one white child being drowned at Marion, Ark. It is believed many have perished owing to the serious condition in all that county, but news from there is difficult to obtain. A number of local vessels are actively engaged in rescuing people and stock from the overflowed sections of Arkansas and the river islands and hundreds of them are now being provided for in this city. The river is still rising. It is also rising at Cairo so that the rise here and below will continue for at least two days more.

Death Sentences Confirmed.

Trenton, March 16.—The court of errors and appeals has confirmed the convictons of Jacob S. Johnson and Daniel Ackerman, both of whom are under sentence of death. Johnson is a colored preacher and was convicted of murdering a woman in Summerville, N. J. Ackerman was convicted of killing his wife. The men will be rearraigned and dates for their execution fixed.

Chaplain of Holy Cross College.

Worcester, Mass., March 16.—Rev. Edward V. Boursaud, S. J., who was at one time president of Boston college, and up to Saturday connected with that institution, has been appointed chaplain of Holy Cross college, vice Rev. Father Loyzance, deceased.

Boy Dead of Rabies, Father of Shock.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 16.—John Cramer, a 16-year-old boy living at Daryea, died last evening from hydrophobia. His sufferings were so terrible to witness that his father was overcome and dropped dead at his son's bedside.

YOUR TIRED STOMACH.

"I have no appetite," you say, "and the little I do eat does me no good. At first it feels cold and dead in my stomach and by and by I have aches and pains that sometimes go to my chest and back. I feel weak, low spirited, and out of sorts all over. I fancy the demon of dyspepsia has got me." That's the way you talk and no wonder. But wait a moment. Let us reason together. Perhaps thus far your stomach is merely tired. You have been eating too much, eating the wrong things, and irregularly. You have given it too much to do, and like all living things, when overworked, it stops at length from sheer exhaustion. There may not be an actually diseased condition as yet. Still it is nature's warning, and you must heed it or worse will follow. "But I must eat or starve," you say. True enough, but safety usually lies in middle courses. Here is one for you. You don't need drastic purges or exciting stimulants. Your condition is one easily relieved if we go about it gently and sensibly. The tired stomach won't work under whip and spur. It has probably had too much of that already. What you require is something that is at once a food and a digester of food. Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, discovered and prepared by the Shaker Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. Taken right after eating, so as to mix with the food, it does the stomach's work for it, gives it the advantage of further rest, strengthens you in a natural way, and soon enables the stomach to do full duty. There is nothing else like this simple, safe, certain and palatable remedy. Yet the Shakers respect your doubts, and authorize druggists to sell a trial bottle for ten cents.

THE EXTRA SESSION

Political Complexion of the New House of Representatives.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY OVER ALL 55

No Contest Over the Election of Officers—All the Old Force, Including Speaker Reed, Re-elected—Senator Peffer's Successor.

Washington, March 16.—The house of representatives as organized yesterday consists of 357 members, of whom 209 served in the last congress, and 16 in former congresses, while 132 have never served in congress before. Politically classified there are 206 republicans, 122 democrats and 29 fusion silverites and populists. There were 341 of them present. The vote on the election of speaker was: For Mr. Reed, rep., Me., 199; for Mr. Bailey, dem., Tex., 114; for Mr. Bell, pop., Tex., 21, and for Mr. Newlands, sil., Nev., 1. Mr. Reed, having been declared duly elected speaker of the house for the 55th congress, made a short speech, promising to perform the duties of his office "without fear, favor or hope of reward," and declaring that he was "more impressed by the sence of responsibility than cheered by the sentiment of thankfulness." The oath of office was administered to him by Mr. Harmer, rep., Pa., the senior member in point of continuous service, and the speaker in turn administered the oath to all the members. Then the clerk and other officers of the last house were re-elected for the present congress. At this point in the organization the machinery got somewhat out of geer, the house refusing, by a bare majority of one, to adopt the rules of last house until further orders. That was the result of a count by the speaker, but when the same question came to be voted on by yeas and nays there was a republican majority of over twenty, and the resolution was agreed to. After the amusing scene of "drawing for seats" came to a close, the president's message was presented and read, the Dingley tariff bill was introduced, the committees on rules, ways and means and mileage were appointed and the house adjourned till Thursday next.

The Senate.

In the senate, after President McKinley's proclamation convening the Fifty-fifth congress in extraordinary session was read, W. A. Harris, populist, appeared and took the oath of office as senator from Kansas to succeed Mr. Peffer, but the credentials of Henry W. Corbett, appointed by the governor of Oregon to succeed Mr. Mitchell (the legislature having failed to elect him), were referred to the committee on privileges and elections. The first message of President McKinley was then read and the senate adjourned until to-day.

For Killing His Father.

Philadelphia, March 16.—Robert Welsh, aged 18 years, pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree for causing the death of his father, Ralph Welsh, in this city on Dec. 12. The boy was protecting his mother and hit his father over the head with an axe handle in alleged self defense. Judge Yerkes committed the prisoner to the Huntingdon reformatory and stated that his term of imprisonment would depend upon his own conduct.

Broke his Hand in a Glove Contest.

Buffalo, March 16.—The 20-round fight between George McFadden of New York and Hiram Goldstein of Buffalo last night resulted in a draw. McFadden broke his right hand early in the third round in landing a swing over Goldstein's heart. As a result he fought mainly on the defensive thereafter, displaying the cleverest guard seen in Buffalo in a long time.

The Kaiser Murder Trial.

Narristown, Pa., March 16.—The trial of Charles O. Kaiser, jr., charged with the murder of his wife, is being continued to-day. When Kaiser was put on the stand in his own defense he told a straightforward story and made a good impression until the cross-examination was begun, when he made a few damaging admissions.

ODD LEGISLATION.

If one looks over the queer bill before our various Legislatures he is inclined to ask if a wave of insanity is sweeping over the country. A bill in Missouri to fine railroad employes $25 if caught flirting with women passengers. A bill in Kansas which makes war on the bloomer costume, and another whose object is to abolish corsets. A bill in another State making it illegal to use the French language on menus and requiring everything to be printed in English. A bill in Minnesota requiring saloon keepers to display a red sign, with the word "Danger" on it. A bill in New York to prevent a newspaper publishing the picture of any one without written consent. It is an awfully queer world at all times, but once in a while it gets too utterly queer for anything except ridicule.—New York Herald.

A GOOD VIEW OF DUTY.

Mayor Wilson displayed good sense in his first address to the members of the Borough Cooncil is not treating all the different departments of municipal government in an elaborate manner. His preference to speak of them from time to time as his attention is called, after a closer acquaintance of the exact condition and needs of the "local Canada," is quite proper, for then he can act with more effect, having every detail at hand, than a wordy glossing could possibly result in. However, his admonition concerning the incuring of heavy expenses just at the present period is well-timed and will meet with a sympathetic approval by taxpapers in general.

PRIDEVILLE FARING WELL.

A prominent North Plainfielder aptly says that while the taxpayers of Prideville, a portion of the borough, were complaining a short time ago about not receiving ample benefits for the taxes they paid, they are now faring pretty well. Among the fixtures of local government that they possess are macadamized streets, water works, fire department, regular marshal, and last, but not least, the Mayor.

THE DISSATISFIED ONES.

Garfield League Salutes the Six G. A. R. Men Opposed to Consolidation.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Garfield League is not and never has been an auxiliary of Major Anderson Post of this city. When the Post was organized the League presented them with a Bible and now takes this opportunity of publicly bearing testimony to the cordial and fraternal relations that have existed between Post and League for the past ten years, at the same time regretting the force of circumstances that seem to have compelled Post 109 to the course they have taken. Garfield League salutes the six brave men who when the end came were true to their convictions of right and remembering Major Anderson of blessed memory said "No surrender."

ART IN THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY.

Monday Afternoon Club Heard a Delightful Lecture.

At the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, yesterday afternoon, the members and their friends enjoyed a lecture by Miss Louise Both-Hendrickson on the subject, "Influence of Italian Renaissance on French Art in the Sixteenth Century." The lecture was very much along the line of suggestion, and many new thoughts and ideas were advanced to substantiate the position of the lecturer who held that the influence had been marked.

An informal discussion followed the lecture, after which a short business meeting was held. Only routine matters were considered.

THEATRICAL.

The well known attraction, Hi. Henry's Minstrels, numbering fifty star performers, will hold forth at Music Hall tomorrow matinee and night. Leading exchanges say: "Their music and singing are fine, the stage settings elaborate, their costumes elegant, and the general atmosphere of the show carries with it the impression of careful attention to minutest details. The glowing press endorsements of this ably conducted, strongly constructed attraction have not been exaggerated." Returns of the big fight announced from the stage.

"My Friend from India," which will receive a local production at Music Hall, Friday evening, has been the reigning success of the season in New York, and has the endorsement of both press and public. One might exhaust descriptive adjectives of a laudatory sort on "My Friend from India" and still not overstep the truth. It is more than a roaring farce—it is a crackling, thundering one. It fairly took a critical New York by storm, and wreathed in smiles faces that had grown sober watching theatrical performances that do not amuse.

WOMEN TO THE FRONT

THE WILD AND WOOLY WEST CHAMPIONS EQUALITY.

The Chicago University Boldly Breaks Down Old-Time Barriers, and a Bank in Indiana Has Made a Woman Its Cashier.

For the first time in the history of university life in this country, and probably in the world, a woman is to be the convocation orator at the commencement exercises of a great university. It is announced by President Harper of the University of Chicago that Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Governor of Canada, is to have this honor at the commencement exercises at the university, April 1.

Lady Aberdeen is a polished orator and somewhat of a politician. She has made many successful political speeches in behalf of her husband throughout Scotland and Ireland. In Ireland, of which her husband was Viceroy, she used her utmost exertions toward increasing the scope of Irish industries. She opened many channels of employment for the women of Ireland, and was the prime mover in getting up the Irish village and fine exhibit of Irish women's handiwork at the World's Fair. She has also taken a leading role in philanthrophy in Canada, and is very popular there.

Nor are her sympathies confined to inhabitants of the "right little, tight little isle" and its dependencies. She is interested in the women of the United States, and very liberal in her sentiments, as was shown in her speech before the Women's Federation, when she spoke of Britian's folly of 1776, and expressed a wish that "England and America could stand side by side as God's chosen servants in the cause of humanity." She is also a worker in the cause of temperance and was one of the prominent participants in the Convention of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Association in London in 1895.

Two Stories of Toilets.

Mrs. Bancroft, the wife of the historian, when staying in London, went one day to an afternoon musicale in Mayfair. On the way she was attracted by a display of shawls in a Regent street window, and stopping the cab, went into the shop and bought one, throwing it over her shoulders to wear to the social gathering. The astonished guests at the musicale were edified by the sight of the elegant Mrs. Bancroft floating through the drawing rooms with a placard on her back bearing the words, "Very Chaste."

This suggests an incident in the life of Mrs. Gladstone, the wife of the Premier, who is noted for her absentmindedness.

She once arrived late at a dinner, and while apologizing to her hostess, explained that the delay was caused by her inability to find the bodice of her gown. "However, it is all right," she concluded, "for I had another bodice that combined well with the skirt, and I have worn that."

"But what is that on your skirt, my dear?" asked Mr. Gladstone, who was just behind her as she sailed majestically across the room. It was the missing bodice, which she had pinned there after last wearing, that she might not mislay it.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The new borough Council which is to preside over this municipality for the coming year met and organized last evening, by electing John Monahan, president, and Harry L. Terry clerk. These gentlemen, together with the Councilmen, were sworn in by George W. Day. Mayor Brakely then read his message, a well constructed document, and in it he left no stone unturned that would tend to enhance the popularity of the town, and he gave some very timely suggestions which the borough will doubtless profit by. Concerning the trolley, he recommended that a franchise be not granted, adding that the Council should look to other sources for revenue. A lengthy discussion followed on the amount to be fixed for the collector and treasurer's bond, and $5,000 was the amount fixed. The election officers all sent in their claims for $25 each for one and one half days' work —one half days' registration and all day and part of the night on election day. Some of the members thought the claims were exorbitant, inasmuch as only 180 votes were cast at the last election against 284 the previous year. It was further stated that according to law the election officers were entitled to 57½ cents an hour for actual services performed. The bills were all referred back to the makers for correction with the exception of a claim of Harry L. Terry, $10.04, which was paid. An ordinance authorizing the "Watchung Water Company to lay mains and appurtenances in certain streets of the Borough of Dunellen" was taken up read once and referred. The regular monthly meeting night was fixed for the first Monday in each month and Council adjonrned.

The annual school election takes place tonight, and it is said that some surprises are in store.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown have returned from a very pleasant visit with their daughter, Mrs. Smith, at Somerville.

The members of the Washington Avenue Card Club will be entertained on Friday evening at the home of Miss Sallie Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius VanMidlesworth, of Jersey City, returned home yesterday after a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. VanMiddlesworth, of Front street.

Plainfield parties were in town yesterday making a canvass for the purpose of collecting garbage, which they said they wanted for cremation purposes.

Councilman Fred Wilcox was unable to attend the Council meeting last evening as he was ordered to run a special fast freight over the Central from Bound Brook to Cranford Junction.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

George Raynor, of Plainfield, is now employed by Robert Walpole, here.

Ten converts were baptized at the evening service in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, Sunday evening.

The Christian Endeavor meeting in the Baptist church Sunday evening was led by Clifford M. Braider, of Plainfield.

Weather permitting, a party of six fishermen will start from here, tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, headed for what is known as the "Big Lake," where cat fish and suckers are said to be biting unusually good.

"Boys and Mibs," said a well-known resident here, yesterday afternoon, are about all there is to be seen here during the day time. Some of the boys get so deeply interested in their play that they forget all about school, until they get home at night, and they are gently reminded with the aid of a shingle.

Emery's "town pump," called such because many of the town people are obliged to get their drinking and cooking water from it these days, still produces a bountiful supply. It was feared a few days ago that a water famine might result, but all fears have been alleviated, and the recent rain and snow has soaked into the ground, and partly filled the wells and cisterns. But the supply is by no means adequate.

WILLOW GROVE.

The service at the chapel last Sunday evening was led by Miss Steel.

The friends of Douglas Darby will be pleased to learn that he is slowly improving from his recent accident.

The funeral service of the late Mrs. Melvin was held from the house Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Cadwell, of Westfield, officiated. Interment was in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

Bilious Colic.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic will be pleased to know that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Colers and Diarrhoea Remedy, and if taken as soon as the first indication of the disease appears, it will prevent the attack. WESTFIELD.

A BRILLIANT AFFAIR.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION DANCE OF THE ATHLETIC CLUB.

Attended by the Best Society in and Out of Town—A Small Blaze Caused a Ruffle—Passing News Mention.

The Westfield Athletic Club gave its annual subscription dance in its spacious club room last night, which was by far its most brilliant event of the season. The large ball room was beautifully decorated with potted plants and the orchestra was almost hidden from view behind an immense bank of tropical plants. It was a full dress affair and the handsome ladies were resplendent in their elegant and rich costumes, nearly all them being clad in white. Notwithstanding the Lenton season about three hundred devotees of the waltz were there and helped make the night merry. Those from out of town were: Miss Carhart, of Brooklyn; Miss Hammond, of Elizabeth; Mr. Franklin, of Brooklyn and Mr. Drake, of New York. Harry Westervelt, of Newark, furnished the music. After the dance an elaborate collation was served down stairs and at a late hour the jolly party departed for their homes. The Westfield Athletic Club will give an amateur minstrel show right after Easter. Rehearsals will begin soon.

An explosion of the gasoline tank, in a shed between the Westfield Athletic Club house and the Baptist parsonage at 11 o'clock last night, created a panic among the dancers and sent them screaming from the building. The gasoline tank was used for supplying gaslight for a part of the clubhouse and was in a small outhouse between the clubhouse and the parsonage and made of boards. The fire was discovered by Mr. Seibenmorgan who told some of the club men, who turned in an alarm and tried to keep the news spreading to the dancing floor above. It did, however. The folks heard the clang of the alarm, the shout of the men, glancing out the window saw the blaze and the timid ones made a hasty exit. The fire was soon under control, in fact at no time did it appear serious, and the dancing was resumed. Lamps and candles were procured for the lower floor, and the show went on. This makes the third time this tank has burned up.

There will be an oyster supper at Willow Grove this Sunday School.

At the meeting of the Baptist church tomorrow evening two deacons will be elected.

The Westfield Gun Club will have a live bird shoot on its grounds next Saturday afternoon.

The young ladies gymnastic class will begin its training tomorrow afternoon in Gale's clubhouse.

The case of Turrill against Hann was tried before Justice Collins and a jury of twelve men this afternoon.

There will be a progressive euchre party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Brown, of Elmer street, tonight.

Rev. J. A. Merrill, of Plainfield, formerly of this baliwick, will address the W. C. T. U. at the Prospect street hall next week.

There are no less than five tickets out for the election of the four members of the school board, tonight. They are: The Sewer faction, the Reese faction, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the Presbyterian faction and it is said there is a Francis faction. Just how the cat will jump is hard to guess, but the meeting promises to be a lively one.

There was a delightful birthday party given in the Congregational church last evening. There was no admission charged, but all were expected to put a penny in the box for each year of their age. It is said that the proposed plan was suggested by some of the young men in a spirit of mischievousness to ascertain the correct ages of the young women. In this the boys were were completely fooled, as the young ladies had their suspicions and used nickles, dimes and quarters instead of pennies. A part of the entertainment consisted of stereopticon views.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Subject To Council's Favor.

In accordance with the resolution which confirmed the appointments made by Mayor Wilson last evening, each man appointed can be removed at any time at the pleasure of the council.

Salvation Army.

Ensign and Mrs. Parsons will give a very interesting service of song tonight entitled "Poor Jack and His Fiery Trials," in five chapters. Free to all.

—A large assortment of all kind of plants can be had of M. C. Volkman, the florist, of Park avenue.

GAGE AND THE INTERVIEWER.

Circumstances Under Which the Treasury Secretary Would Steal.

Frank H. Brooks, a Chicago newspaper man, relates a story of a freak assignment of his, in which Lyman J. Gage figures. It fell to his lot to put to Mr. Gage, C. T. Yerkes, Marshall Field and Samuel Allerton this question: "If you should suddenly lose every dollar of your property, find yourself deprived of credit, health and friends, and could not get work anywhere, what would you do?"

To this question Mr. Gage answered: "I should hunt up a job, of course."

"But suppose nobody would give you a job?" it was suggested.

"Well, that is hardly possible—but granted that it is—why, in that case, I'd get a shovel and clean sidewalks, or set up a peanut stand, or do something like that," Mr. Gage replied, confidently.

"But, Mr. Gage, suppose you hadn't even capital enough to buy a shovel or a lot of peanuts, what then?"

"Well, then, I suppose," said Mr. Gage, thoughtfully, "I'd have to beg on the streets."

"And suppose, again, nobody would give you a cent, same as thousands are refused on the streets every night?"

Here Mr. Gage waved his hand impatiently and remarked: "Oh, well, in that case I suppose I would steal, and you tell the editor who gave you this fool assignment that I believe he would, too, under the same circumstances."

CORNELIUS N. BLISS.

New York's Member of President McKinley's Cabinet.

Mr. Bliss has had charge of the party funds in the past two national campaigns, and that part of the work has been left entirely to his discretion. Chairmen of the committees have frequently declared his services to be invaluable. He is as shrewd a financier as he is dry goods merchant.

In State politics Mr. Bliss has been one of the leaders of the Union League faction that has vigorously opposed Mr. Platt's machine organization. Despite this fact there is said to be cordial relations between the two. Mr. Platt has expressed satisfaction with Mr. Bliss as a Cabinet appointment.

TWO PRESIDENTS.

The high efficiency of our public school system is largely due to the energy and perseverance of Mr. Barnard. He began working to improve it when he was a member of the State Legislature from 1837 to 1840, when he suggested the passage of an act providing for the recording of school statistics and their publication by the Comptroller. This was followed by other acts, among them one for the better supervision of common schools and one for the building of better schoolhouses.

In 1843 he visited the schools of every State in the Union, and spoke on education before seventeen Legislatures. He made the acquaintance of the leading teachers in sixty American cities, and corresponded with them for years after.

From 1830 to 1842 he was Secretary of the Connecticut Board of School Commissioners; from 1842 to 1849 he was School Commissioner for Rhode Island; from 1850 to 1854 Superintendent of Connecticut State Schools; and from 1857 to 1859 President of the University of Wisconsin. Then until 1867 he was busy writing on educational subjects, particularly in his Journal of Education, which he had established in 1855. He also issued in 1866 the American Library of Schools and Education, and began to agitate for a National Bureau of Education.

James A. Garfield was among the first to endorse Mr. Barnard's work. He introduced a bill in Congress, effected its passage, and Mr. Barnard talked President Johnson into signing it. The President did more than that. He appointed Mr. Barnard Commissioner of Education.

Through the general interest which from the beginning of his career, he excited in his work, Mr. Barnard was brought into intimate relations with many public men. He knew personally every President of the United States except the first three. With most of them he was on terms of hearty friendship.—New York Press.

Intermittent Speech.

Some days he can talk; some days he cannot. Such is the predicament of Theodore Heinze, a railroad employe in Argentine, whose case is one of the strangest that has ever come under the notice of the local medical profession for some time. Heinze's troubles are caused from a stroke of paralysis, sustained last March, but just why he can talk plainly on some days, while on other days he is as dumb as an oyster, the doctors are at a loss to understand.—Kansas City Times.

DOMESTIC LIFE IN BETHLEHEM.

I went to Bethlehem several times, usually returning toward dusk, says a contributor to McClure's Magizine. I constantly met the "Bethlehem men," as they are called—merchants, masons, carpenters, laborers—returning on foot from their long and hard day's work in Jerusalem. The hours of labor in the East are from sunrise to sunset; and those men would leave Bethlehem early in the morning, and, after walking six miles to their daily task, work all day, and walk back at dusk to their late and scanty supper. The younger men looked worn out; the older men seemed to have lost all strength, and their eyes frequently looked dull and almost glazed. I was invited to visit a family in Bethlehem. Their home was on the second floor of a building. It consisted of a single room about fifteen feet square, with a concrete floor, and not a single article of furniture save a tiny charcoal stove. It was clean; there were plenty of windows; and the window-sills were low and broad and were used instead of chairs. There were little cupboards built in the walls, which held the food and the few dishes. At one side of the room was a large recess, perhaps two feet deep, three feet high and six feet long. Here were piled blankets, rugs and quilts, neatly folded. At night the rugs were spread on the floor and the family slept on them, using the blankets and quilts for covering. On great occasions a little circular table, about three feet across and one foot high, was used as a dining-table.

PERISHED IN THE POTATO PIT.

Father, Mother and Two Sons Meet a Peculiar Death.

On a lonely farm near North Branch Mr. and Mrs. John Bonniman and two sons met instant death in a peculiar and dreadful manner. It is the custom among the farmers in that neighborhood to store their large potato crops in pits in the ground. The Bonnimans were well-to-do farmers and their pit was unusually large and elaborate. One day Mr. Bonniman built a fire in the pit, as he feared the frost would penetrate it.

In the morning he and his oldest son went to straighten up the place; together they lifted the heavy trap-door, and the father, a stalwart man of fifty years, let himself down into the pit. In an instant, to the horror of the young man, he dropped dead, or at least unconscious. The son gave a shriek of terror and went to the rescue of his father.

He, too, became a corpse, but his scream had brought his brother, a boy of eighteen, from the barn, and a moment later the mother came running from the house, followed by her youngest son, a lad of fourteen years. The second son arrived first and dropped into the death trap, thinking to help his father and brother, but the fire damp killed him in a twinkling.

When the mother arrived, she too, jumped into the pit. She was immediately overpowered, but had strength left to tell her remaining son not to come into the cellar.—New York Tribune.

An Expensive History.

The most expensive book that was ever published is the official history of the war of the rebellion, which is now issued by the government of the United States. It has cost, up to date, $2,334,328. Of this amount $1,184,291 has been paid for printing and binding alone.

It will require at least three years longer and an appropriation of perhaps $600,000 to complete the work, so that the total cost will undoubtedly reach nearly $3,000,000.

The history will consist of 112 volumes, including an index and an atlas. Each volume will, therefore, cost an average of about $26,785.

Copies are sent free to public libraries, and 1,347,999 have already been so distributed. The selling price of the atlas is $22. The remainder of the edition is sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to 90 cents per volume. There does not seem to be a popular demand, since only 71,194 copies have been sold, for a total of $60,154.—Mail and Express.

Put to the Test.

George Du Maurier and Laurence Alma Tadema resembled one another to an amazing degree; so much so that their intimate friends mistook them. A young lady who prided herself that she could determine which was which, finding herself once seated next to Du Maurier, remarked: "I cannot imagine how any one can mistake you for Mr. Tadema. To me the likeness is very slight. By the way, I have a photograph of you. Do be so good as to put your autograph to it." Du Maurier, assenting graciously, the photograph was produced. He looked at it, sighed and very gently laid it on the table. "That," he remarked, "is a portrait of Mr. Alma Tadema."

Whistling Trees.

The whistling tree found in the West Indies, Nubia and the Soudan has a peculiar leaf and pods with a slit or open edge. The wind passing through these sends out the sound which gives the tree its name. In Barbadoes there is a valley filled with the trees and when the trade-winds blow across the islands a constant moaning, deep-toned whistle is heard from it.—American Agriculturist.

Perkins (anxiously)—Well, Mike?

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

IT MAKES YOU WELL.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is Just What You Need for the Blood and Nerves.

Life is not Measured by Years, but by Strength and Vigor. Dr. Greene's Nervura, the Only Remedy which will Give You the Health, Strength and Vigor of Youth.

How many who ought to be in their prime, bear evidences in looks and feelings of old age?

It ought never so to be. Strength and vigor should be as perfect as in youth. If it is not so, something is wrong with you. You have weakened yourself in your mode of life or occupation. There is no sight so beautiful as vigorous maturity, and fresh and hearty age; nor one so sad as a prematurely decayed youth. If Spring-time verdure, Summer bloom and Autumn ripeness, are the fitting types of the year, so are the freshness of youth and the strength, vigor and maturity of age the fitting incidents of a proper life.

Nothing makes these possible so surely as a sound body, strong nerves, and rich blood to make the body healthy; nothing is so certain to make this condition as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Thousands who have taken it testify to its potent influence as a source of perpetual youth and strength. It is the true regenerator of the body, making strong nerves, rich, red blood, and restoring the snap, energy and vigor of renewed youth to the nerve-weakened, exhausted and run-down system. It makes the old and middle-aged feel young and vigorous. It restores to youth the vigor lost by excesses and indiscretions; it gives strength, energy and power to those who work. It makes strong men and vigorous women. Try it and get back your strength, energy and youthful vigor.

Remember that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a physician's prescription, indorsed and recommended by the ablest doctors everywhere. Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the only perfect pills for biliousness and constipation. Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th St., New York City, is the most successful physician in curing diseases, and can be consulted free, personally or by letter Nothing to pay for consultation, examination or advice, and the low price of his wonderful curative medicines places a sure cure within reach of everybody.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Its Promoters Say It Would Increase Revenue $12,000,000.

SUMMARY OF ITS MAIN FEATURES

The Bill, Besides Raising Additional Revenue, Is Intended To Encourage the Industries of the United States.

Washington, March 16.—The new tariff bill now before the house contains many of the rates imposed in the old McKinley measure. The bill has two purposes, namely, to raise additional revenue and to encourage the industries of the United States. On the basis of the importations of the last fiscal year, the bill would increase the revenue about $112,000,000, divided among the several schedules roughly as follows: Chemicals, $3,500,000; crockery and glassware, $4,000,000; metals, $4,000,000; wood, $1,750,000; sugar, $21,750,000; tobacco, $7,000,000; agriculture, $6,300,000; liquors, $1,800,000; cottons, $1,700,000; jute, linen and hemp, $7,800,000; wool, $17,500,000; manufactures of wool, $27,000,000; silks, $1,500,000; pulp and paper, $58,000; sundries, $6,200,000. This estimate is on the supposition that the imports of each class of goods would be the same the next fiscal year as in the fiscal year ended last June. But as the imports of wool were three times as great and those of woolen goods more than twice as great in pounds as in 1893, the committee assumes that their excessive importation would be largely reduced by the proposed bill, although the fact that our domestic production of wool has diminished 70,000,000 pounds since 1893 will necessitate the importation of much more wool now than in the latter year. The principal features of the bill are as follows:

Raw Wool.

Schedule K—Wool and manufactures of wool. All wools, hairs of the camel, goat, alapaca, and like animals are divided into three classes: Class 1—merino, mestiza, metz, or metis wools, and other wools of merino blood, immediate or remote—down clothing wools, and wools of like character, including Bagdad wool, China lamb's wool, Castle Branca, Adrianople skin wool or butcher's wool, and such as have been usually imported into the United States from Buenos Ayres, New Zealand, Australia, Cape of Good Hope, Russia, Great Britain, Canada, Egypt, Morocco and elsewhere, and also including all wools not designated in class 2 and 3: class 2—Leicester, Cotswold, Lincolnshire, Down combing wools, Canada long wools, or other like combing wools of English blood, hair of the camel, angora goat, alpaca, and like animals; class 3—Donskoi, native South American, Cordova, Valparaiso, native Smyrna, Russian camel's hair, and wools of like character as have been imported into the United States from Turkey, Greece, Syria and elsewhere, excepting improved wools herein provided for. The duties fixed are: Class 1, 11 cents a pound; class 2, 12 cents; class 3, on wools valued at 13 cents or less per pound, including charges, and on common goat hair, 32 per cent. ad valorem; valued at more than 13 cents per pound, 50 per cent. ad valorem.

Woolen Manufactured Goods.

On cloths, knit fabrics, not especially provided for in this act, and on all manufactures of every description made wholly or in part of wool, not specially provided for, valued at not more than 30 cents per pound, the duty shall be three times the duty on unwashed wool of the first class; more than 30 cents and not more than 40, three and one-half times; more than 40 cents, four times; more than 50 and not more than 70 cents, 21 cents. On blankets and flannels for underwear composed wholly or in part of wool, valued at not more than 30 cents per pound, the duty shall be the same as on one pound and one-half of unwashed wool of the first class, and in addition 5 cents per pound and 15 per centum ad valorem. On blankets valued at more than 30 cents per pound, three and one-half times the duty on unwashed wool of the first class, and in addition 15 cents per pound and 20 per centum ad valorem. Flannels valued above 50 cents per pound, the same duty as women's and children's dress goods is. On women's and children's dress goods, coat linings, Italian cloths and goods of similar character, valued at not exceeding 15 cents per square yard, 7 cents per square yard, and in addition thereto 2 cents per square yard for every 5 cents per square yard or fractional part thereof of value in excess of 22½ cents per square yard.

The Sugar Schedule.

EVE OF THE BIG FIGHT

Everything Ready for the Mighty Contest at Carson.

CORBETT AND FITZ IN FINE FORM

Stuart Decides To Pull Off All of the Three Fights To-morrow---But Little Betting on the Results.

Carson, Nev., March 16.—The eve of the day of the big fight finds everybody here in a state of high expectancy. Corbett and Fitzsimmons eased up in their training to-day, and both express confidence of victory in the fight to-morrow, but it was quite noticeable that neither now claim confidence of as easy or speedy victory as they have heretofore maintained. Dan Stuart has decided that all three of the fights will be pulled off to-morrow, thus making the carnival the greatest in the history of pugilism. Hawkins, Flaherty, Green and Smith were ordered to be on hand for medical inspection to-morrow morning. The men will be examined by the official physician, Dr. Guinan of this city. Two specials and the regular train landed a goodly crowd of sports this morning, and the town has taken on a busy appearance.

Last of the Training.

Corbett played with his favorite wrist machine for about ten minutes this morning. He gazed at the old shaft and told the spectators how many years he had worked up muscle with the apparatus. The driving power behind the blows which laid out Sullivan and Mitchell was all generated with the weights and shaft which will pass into the hands of a San Francisco journalist to-morrow. Jim lost all his sentimentality when he faced the punching bag, however, and he cuffed it about as though he had no further use for it. He punched the bag for an hour and then announced himself ready to take Jim Nelson's scalp at handball. Three red-hot games were played in less than an hour, and Nelson did not figure in any of them to much extent. His easy victory over Nelson left Jim in rare good humor, and he took pity on his trainers when the gloves were brought out. Eighteen rounds in all were gone through with and no blood spilled. Very few visitors saw Fitzsimmons put in his last morning's work. The Cornishman scorched around the ranch on his wheel for an hour before putting on his running shoes. He did not waste much time in sprinting and seemed impatient to get in the gymnasium. The punching bag was given a long inning, and the drives which Bob let go were no love taps, either. Roeber, Hickey and Suenzler received no consideration, and they had barely enough energy left to kick up their heels when the boxing was all over.

Few Bets Made.

The great championship battle will not be a betting affair. In fact there is less play on the heavyweight event than on any of the other fights. Most of the combinations beginning with Corbett and ending with Hawkins, commanded a premium of 20 per cent. over those ending with Flaherty, and almost 40 per cent. over those beginning with Fitzsimmons, Smith and Green, are being played lightly at about even money. Fitzsimmons' adherents want 10 to 6 on their man. The pool rooms are laying 10 to 7 and taking in nothing on the Australian. Not a single individual bet of any magnitude has been reported in Carson. The ring posts and ropes arrived from San Francisco last night and will be set in place to-day by Charles B. Tidball of the Tivoli opera house. The platform will be floored with tongue-grooved white pine, carefully planed and covered with resin. The ring proper will be 24 feet square within the ropes and the platform will project 18 inches beyond the ropes.

Several Will Challenge the Winner.

Tom Sharkey, who has taken the measure of both the champions, arrived with a bulging pocketbook, and will be ready with a challenge to the winner on Wednesday. The sailor will receive no recognition whatever from either Corbett or Fitzsimmons, if the statements of their managers go for anything. Choynski, Maher, Goddard and others who are reported to be ready with a defi, will also be overlooked. Dan Stuart's office is being closely guarded by a couple of Pinkerton detectives. Thief-takers in citizens clothes are scattered all over the town, and crooks will find the situation very hard. The Western Union Telegraph company have every mile of wire between Carson and Reno guarded with patrolmen, and there is little chance of any successful wire tapping.

Silver Dollars and Fractional Coin.

Washington, March 16.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and treasury offices for the week ended March 13 was $595,200, and for the corresponding period last year was $412,596. The shipment of fractional silver coin from March 1 to 13 aggregated $324,770.

Struck and Killed by a Train.

Bath, N. Y., March 16.—A buggy in which were seated Sanford Gardiner and Mrs. Charles Fenton was struck by a train on the Erie railroad while crossing the tracks of that road in this village yesterday. Mrs. Fenton was killed. Mr. Gardiner escaped.

Walling and Jackson To Hang.

Frankfort, Ky., March 16.—Gov. Bradley has refused a respite in the case of Alonzo Walling, convicted of complicity in the murder of Pearl Bryan. Walling will be hanged with Scott Jackson next Saturday.

THREE VERY DESIRABLE HOUSES.

No. 1—11-room colonial house, steam heat, nickel plumbing, hard-wood floors, decorated throughout. Lot 62x200, corner West Seventh Street and Monroe Avenue.

No. 2—10-room house, all modern improvements, steam heat, &c. Lot 50x190, Sixth Street, near Monroe Avenue.

No. 3—9-room house, modern improvements, hot air furnace. Lot 50x139, corner West Sixth street and Lee Place.

These properties are all within one block of Trolley Cars, Irving School and Monroe Avenue M. E. Church, and four blocks of Grant Avenue Station. They were completed last season, are now thoroughly dry and ready for occupancy. We built them simply to open up and improve our property, and not to make money. We own over 200 lots in this locality, and now propose to advertise them by offering these three houses at private sale for LESS than cost. We only require a very small payment down, and balance on easy terms to suit purchaser. We mean just what we say. If you are intererted come and see us.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Mrs. Horsley Barker and Miss Barker, of Grove street, will ride Keating wheels this year.

Rogers, the cycle dealer of North avenue, has received an 1897 Spalding racer which is attracting a good deal of favorable comment.

Rogers, the cycle dealer of North avenue, has received a shipment of 1897 Credenda wheels which he will sell at prices runging from $28 to $40.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, has received his new Cleveland Swell Special from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Postal Telegraph Messenger Drake is now riding about town on a bicycle enameled black with gilded joints. He has had his yellow enameled bicycle re-enameled.

John Vetterlein, who was associated with A. C. Faber in the bicycle business last summer, has accepted the position of superintendent of F. L. C. Martin's bicycle repair shop.

The Crescent Wheelmen have made application to the L. A. W. for a race meet on Decoration Day. The application was made Friday and they feel confident that the same will be granted.

Carroll L. Runyon, one of the crack riders of the Plainfield High School track team, has decided to ride a Spalding wheel on the track this season. It was on a Spalding that Runyon made his best showing last year.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will go to Elizabeth, this evening, to play a match game with the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club in the gymnasium of the latter team. The Elizabeth boys are playing a great game. Four times a week they play match games and with lots of practice besides they have improved wonderfully during the last month. Their gymnasium is a handicap to all visiting teams as the goals are located in the corners. The Elizabeth players are used to this arrangement of course and have a great advantage over their opponents. The Plainfield players will make a hard fight for the victory never the less and a lively game is looked for. A number of rooters will accompany the Plainfield team down to Elizabeth to encourage their fellow townsmen on to victory.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Bowling matches are being arranged by the bowling section of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. with the teams from the Pond Tool and Machine Works and Potter Press Works.

The bowling section of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. is trying to arrange a game with the bowlers of the Elizabeth Athletic Club for this evening so that the games can be rolled as the teams from the two other clubs are meeting at basket ball.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The first of the University Extension lectures on chemistry, at the Irving School, will be given this evening.

—A sociable and entertainment will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church on Thursday evening. It is under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of that church.

ber of persons interested in the progress of science be forgotten or neglected.

The contemplated Scientific Library will supply all of these needs, and will allow a corporation between the factories and the Library such as usual exists only in large cities, notably Cleveland and Worchester.

The Directors of the Library and Reading Room, after careful investigation and consideration, have reached the conclusion that suitable accommodation for the "Babcock Scientific Library" cannot be provided in the present building without extensive alterations, which would cost from $7,000 to $8,000, and that with such expenditure the crowded condition would still continue, and the books be constantly subject to the serious risk of fire. The relief would be put partial and temporary. It is found, however, that for about $14,000 can be constructed a fire proof addition with modern appliances, sufficient to accommodate about 100,000 volumes, thus furnishing means of satisfying the requirement that the "Babcock Scientific Library" shall be kept separate, and affording room for growth for many years, and permitting the utilization of the present building for periodical and reading and delivery rooms and other purposes.

The Directors are satisfied that the best interests of the Library and the City will be promoted by the construction of the additional fire-proof building proposed, and that the cost should be provided as authorized by Chapter 15 of the Laws of 896. If the cost be distributed over a period of two years, as is suggested, it can hardly be felt as a burden by anyone

The gifts of Mr. Babcock are of great importance and of permanent value to Plainfield, and in view of them the city should not assume an ungracious attitude, but rather indicate its high appreciation by providing a suitable depository for the valuable special library thus placed within the reach of the people.

By order of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.
MASON W. TYLER,
President.

EDISON'S WONDERS.

The Kinetoscope and the Phonograph Free at Marshall & Ball's.

Any time around noon, half-past 3 and half-past 5 on a week day, one may notice crowds pouring out of Marshall & Ball's big stores on Broad street, Newark.

Inquiry will disclose the fact that these masses have been enjoying one of the greatest and most thoroughly intellectual treats of the age—an exhibition of Edison's wonderful life pictures as produced by his "Kinetoscope."

Until this enterprising house of Marshall & Ball took hold of the Edison inventions a week or so ago with the intention of giving the community at large an insight into the wizard's wonders, comparatively few were familiar with and really interested in the actual results achieved by Edison in his kinetosceptic pictures.

It was in truth a silent demonstration of the wonders of man's ingenuity and controlling powers, for it would seem that even electricity were harnessed and driven at will.

New Jersey may well be proud to boast such an enterprising firm as this; one would have to go a great way to find a clearer evidence of genuine up-to-dateness than the Marshall & Ball people are thus exhibiting.

MURDERERS MUST HANG

SENTENCE AGAINST JOHNSON AND CLAWSON SUSTAINED.

Death Watch Put on Genz and Mackin in the Hudson County Jail.—Somerset Slayers Will Soon be Resentenced.

The Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Jacob S. Johnson, the colored evangelist who was tried in the Somerset County Court two years ago and found guilty of the murder of Annie Rogers. Johnson, who has been in the Somerset County Jail, will shortly be resentenced.

The Court of Errors and Appeals has also affirmed the action of the Somerset court in sentencing Elmer Clawson to be hanged for the murder of Harry Hodgetts on September 18, 1896 It is expected that Clawson will be re-sentenced on the same day with Johnson.

The death watch has been placed over Paul Genz and John Mackin, who were sentenced Saturday to be hanged on April 13. They occupy separate cells in the Hudson County Jail. Mrs. Maria Caen, of Hoboken, a widow, who says she visits Genz at the request of his friends in Switzerland, called on him yesterday. Standing at his cell door she conversed with him in German a half hour. Mackin sees only his spiritual advisers.

THE PROJECTOSCOPE AT HAHNE'S.

Edison's Invention Attracts Thousands of Interested Ones.

Every day, forenoon and afternoon, free exhibitions of Edison's projectoscope are given at Hahne's & Co.'s, Broad street, Newark, on the main floor. Nothing more wonderful has been produced in this century of wonderful inventions. It involves the double wonder of first catching images of moving objects, however rapid their motion, and fixing them as pictures, exhibiting every motion, however slight or minute; then projecting these pictures upon a wall or canvas and reproducing every movement in such a manner that the pictures become an exact reproduction to the eye of the object photographed, to the slightest detail of movement.

Men, women, children, all sorts of animals and machines all become living, active, operating shadows. People walk and work, and wink, smile and smirk and sneer; animals run about, birds fly, wheels revolve, trains rush, smoke rolls, flames leap and curl and water flows, and each shadow is as perfect and complete in movement as the original was. The exhibition has been retained for another week in response to the desires of the thousands who have seen it during the last two weeks. Nothing of greater interest has ever been exhibited.

CAUGHT A JAGUAR WITH SYRUP.

A Central American Boiled the Syrup and and the Animal Did the Rest.

A story comes from Central America that a juguar came to a native's sugar bush one day and upset the pan of boiling hot syrup while jumping over it at the native's dog. It was a sad mishap for the jaguar, but a joyful one for the native, who sat in a nearby tree hugging it hard lest he slide down in the jaguar's open mouth. The boiling syrup got on the jaguar's paws. It made the jaguar roar with pain, and over and over the brute rolled, trying to shake off the hot, sticky stuff. It rolled into the stream of sugar, and was plastered from head to foot. Even its eyes were closed. Monkeys and birds from the neighboring thickets came around and squealed.

The molasses stuck the fur into wads and clumps, and the leaves and twigs lying about stuck fast to the hair. When the big cat rolled up against a tree trunk it would seize the trunk with its teeth and claws, tearing through the bark. For over two hours the beast ripped things up with undiminished vigor, then it slowly ceased struggling. Then the native, Juan Costerize, slid down the tree, picked up his machete, sneaked up to the beast cautiously, and, using the big knife as an axe, brought the heavy blade down on the brute's skull, knocking out the last vestige of life. With the assistance of neighbors he dragged the carcass to a nearby stream, where it was soaked for a day to dissolve the molasses. The beast was then skinned, and now Costerize poses as a mighty hunter.—New York Sun.

He Made a Mistake.

It was the judge doing the talking. "One of my most peculiar experiences was while I was on the bench down in Pennsylvania. Hunk Wodders was brought down from the mountains charged with stealing a shoat from one of his neighbors. I asked him if he wanted a jury trial.

"'Don't want no trial 'tall,' he replied doggedly. 'I'll jist plead guilty.'

"'But did you steal it, Hunk?'

"'Didn't steal nuthin'. But I kin take my medicine.'

"'I'll enter a plea of not guilty and appoint a lawyer to defend you.'

"'I hain't a goin' ter foolin' 'round with no lawyer. I bought that shoat from a feller, an' that's all there are to it.'

"Then I called him to me and whispered: 'Now, honest, Hunk, between man and man, did you steal the pig?'

"'Jist atween you and me, jedge?'

"'Course I did. That there measly Bill Sims owed me $3 fur two years an' I jist lifted th' shoat ter get even.'

"The case went to trial. The testimony against Hunk was strong and I charged the jury as fairly as I ever did in my life, but they acquitted him.

"Then Hunk came up to me with flushed face and hanging head. "'Pon my soul, jedge, I din't mean ter tell you no lie. I thought I stole that shoat, but it 'pears I didn't.'"—Detroit Free Press.

A Bluff that Won.

The Earl of March, who was known as "old Q.," on one occasion was challenged to fight a duel by an Irish sportsman. Lord March appeared on the ground accompanied by a second, surgeon and other witnesses. Great was his surprise to see his opponent appear with a like retinue to his own, but increased by a third person who staggered under the weight of a polished oak coffin, which he deposited on the ground end up, with its cover facing Lord March and his party. Surprise gave place to terror when his lordship read the inscription plate engraved with his own name and title, and the date and year of demise, which was the actual day as yet scarcely warm. The earl at once approached his facetious antagonist and upbraided him with so unseemly a joke, to which the Irishman replied:

"Why, my dear fellow, you are of course aware that I never miss my man; and, as I found myself in excellent trim for sport this morning, I have not a shadow of doubt upon my mind that this open box will shortly be better calculated for you than your present dress."

Lord March was so impressed by his antagonist's confident manner that a peace was patched up between them.

In the Industries.

An old colored "uncle" applied to a druggist in Buffalo for some whiskey, not because he needed it, but because he wanted it. "We can't let you have it, uncle, except for medicinal or mechanical purpose. You are not sick, are you?" It was a powerful temptation, but the old man overcame it. "No, sah," he said weakly. "And you don't need it for mechanical purposes?" "What's dem, sah?" "Oh, well, for manufacturing or other industries!" "Dat's it, sah—dat's it!" exclaimed the old fellow, his face brightening. "De boss done tol' me I had to be mo' induschious er he wa'nt gwinter hab me roun' no longer, sah, an' I spec' you better lemme hab a leetle liquor, to kinder lub'icate my j'ints. 'Bout er tablespoonful, sah, to each j'int'll do fer to-day, sah!"

Insane Patients as Artists.

In France the inmates of lunatic asylums are encouraged to produce works of art, if they have any inclination in that direction. The plan has been so successful that it has been possible to hold a salon of works of art of the insane. Every grade of mental disease was represented, from the mere melancholic or dipsomaniac, to the completely demented.—New York Journal.

A BIG SCHOOL MEETING.

LARGEST VOTE EVER RECORDED IN THE BOROUGH.

An Exhaustive Report Made by President McCutchen—John H. Van Winkle Defeated for Re-election as Trustee.

Judging from the very large attendance at the annual school meeting held in the North Plainfield Public High School building last evening, one thing was evident, and that is that the people of the borough are deeply interested in school matters. Never before has there been such a large attendance. In all there were 202 ballots cast at the polls and every one who voted has an interest in the school.

The meeting was called to order by President St. St. John McCutchen, of the Board of Education, and Dr. H. K. Carroll was made chairman. The secretary was H. J. Martin. The latter read the call for the meeting, after which nominations for trustees to take the place of Messrs. Ezra Loomis, J. H. Van Winkle and George F. Brown were made. The following persons were nominated: H. A. McGee, G. D. Halleck, George F. Brown, J. H. Van Winkle, Ezra Loomis, and S. B. Joseph.

The polls were opened at 8:20 and remained for one hour. The tellers were Messrs. J. G. McLoughlin and J. W. A. Bauersachs. It required nearly twenty minutes for every one to vote.

Previous to the voting Mr. Slater expressed himself as being in favor of having the reports presented, and thought they should take precedence over everything else. Mr. McCutchen quoted the law on the subject and that was satisfactory.

James McGee thought it wise to vote for the appropriations and then the trustees would know whether they were going to have the desired amount or not.

Mr. Slater offered a motion that the polls open at 8:30 and in the meantime the reports could be presented. Mr. Curtis offered an amendment to the preceding motion to the effect that the polls open at once and then the reports could be read. The amendment prevailed.

The report of the District Clerk, Ezra Loomis, showed that the expenditures for the year had been $18,095.53, and the receipts $23,725.35, leaving a balance on hand of $5,629.84.

Following is an abstract report of President McCutchen. It was a most excellent report and it can safely be said that it was the means of influencing the citizens and giving them a better idea of the school than they ever had before:

The altered conditions in our School which have resulted from a change of principal and policy, made at the commencement of the school year in September last, seem to justify a somewhat fuller and more careful report than we have heretofore presented.

It will not be forgotten that the wholly unexpected and voluntary retirement of Mr. Boss from the principalship of the school, last summer, necessitated the selection and engagement of a new man.

This selection engaged the anxious attention of a committee of the Board during the early months of last summer, who met, conversed and corresponded with applicants and their references.

Among the applicants, the committee met several able and accomplished educators, any one of whom could, probably, have met our needs, but the committee were so impressed with the abundant education and the apparent progressive spirit of Dr. A. D. Warde, that they gave him the preference, and upon their united recommendation, the Board of Education elected him to the principalship of the school.

In discussing with the principal, the reorganization of the school, we saw the desirability, amounting almost to necessity, of completing the course of education in the school at both ends by adding a Kindergarten class for the very young, and by providing for the completion of a full High School course for the advanced grades.

This last involved the adding of two grades covering the third and fourth years of High School work, inasmuch as our former course was designed to include the first two years only of such work.

Both of the changes above referred to have been made, and now, for the first time, North Plainfield has its own complete public school system, independent of the schools of any other community, standard in the judgment of the State Board of Examiners and of the State Board of Education, which last named body, after an inspection and report by the State Board of Examiners, has placed our school upon the preferred list of

FIRST LENTEN WEDDING.

MISS ANNA FREDERICKSON BECOMES THE WIFE OF RICHARD KISSAM.

One of the prettiest weddings of the Lenten season was celebrated last evening when Miss Anna Frederickson, daughter of Roundsman and Mrs. Christian Frederickson, of 871 Leland avenue, was united in marriage to Richard Kissam, of Fanwood, by Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood.

The rooms were decorated with pleasing effect. In the parlor there was a profusion of greens arranged so as to centre around a bower of pink and white roses and carnation pinks, beneath which the bridal party stood during the ceremony. The impressive service of the Episcopal church was used and the responses were very clear. The bride entered the room leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage, while the groom and the best man, Leonard Kissam, brother of the groom, entered from another door and met the former beneath the bower.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kissam were showered with congratulations by their relatives and friends, after which all adjourned to another room where a sumptuous wedding supper was served. The decorations in the dining room were exceedingly novel and consisted of American flags and bunting prettily arranged.

The bridemaid, Miss Dora Frederickson, sister of the bride, wore a gown of dark cloth trimmed with pale green silk, and carried pink carnations. The maid of honor, Miss Bertha Anderson, of Perth Amboy, was also gowned in cloth of dark color, and carried white carnations.

The happy couple were well remembered by their relatives and friends, and among the presents was a parlor and dining room suit of furniture from the parents of the bride, silver and glassware, an antique oak desk from the bride's sister, and an antique oak chair from a friend. There were numerous other presents of equal value and usefulness.

Among those who witnessed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Christian Frederickson, father and mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. William Kissam, father and mother of the groom, Miss C. E. Condit, of Westfield; Mr. and Mrs. Scriven, Mr. and Mrs. David Hand, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hand, of Netherwood; Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Jones, of Oradell; Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and daughter, of Woodbridge; Miss Anna Anderson, Miss Bertha Anderson, Andrew Anderson, of Perth Amboy; Mrs. John Reid, Miss Maggie Reid, Miss Carrie Reid, of Plainfield; Benjamin Kissam, of Bayonne; Daniel Kissam, of Huntington, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Kissam will at once go to housekeeping at No. 521 LaGrande avenue, where they have a home all furnished and ready for occupancy. Mr. Kissam is an employee at Potter's press works and is highly esteemed by all who know him. Both the bride and groom have a host of friends who wish them a happy and prosperous journey in life.

School Meeting in Warren.

The annual school meeting for Warren Township was held yesterday day afternoon at Warrenville. The attendance was gratifying and much interest was taken in the matters under consideration. John Cooper was elected chairman of the meeting and Andrew Flemer, secretary. The following trustees were elected for three years: J. C. Flemer, A. J. Jennings and W. H. Ruckman. Those present voted unanimously to appropriate $500 for the expenses of the school for the coming year.

Celebrated Her Birthday.

A pleasant social affair occurred at the home of the Misses Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, on Monday evening, when Miss Alice Carroll celebrated the anniversary of her birthday. In honor of this event a salamagundi party was held. The house was prettily decorated with flowers and roses in abundance. There were many features during the evening which the following guests enjoyed: The Misses Petrie, Marion and Grace Nevius, Clara and Mamie Steiner, Bertha Needham, May McLaughlin; Edward Petrie, Guernsey Nevius, John Steiner, J. G. McLaughlin, Charles French, Rev. H. J. Johnston and Dyckman Winckler. During the evening Miss Alice Carroll rendered several piano selections, and the serving of refreshments was an enjoyable feature.

MISSIONARY EXTENSION.

FIRST OF THE NEW SERIES OF LECTURES BY REV. MR. BANNERMAN.

His Words Were About Life and Work in West Central Africa, and Proved Very Interesting to the Large Audience Present

Lectures of many kinds have been given in Plainfield, but a Missionary Extension lecture was something new. The first in the course under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Local Union was delivered last night in the Park Avenue Baptist church by Rev. W. S. Bannerman, a missionary from Africa. His subject was "Life and work among the Cannibal Fang of West Central Africa," and his lecture was an absorbing one.

E. E. Anthony, President of the Union, presided. Several hymns were sung, led by the choir of the church, the Scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. W. Richardson and prayer offered by Rev. W. R. Richards, D.D., after which the speaker was introduced by Dr. Richards. He began by describing the surroundings in which African missionaries find themselves. The evil climate of the country is one of its greatest drawbacks; fevers are terribly prevalent, and the so called dry season is almost worse than the season of rain, the country being then damp enough to dissolve salt when left in the open air. Mr. Bannerman described the great African forests, with their strange animal and insect life, and then spoke of the tribe on the western coast of the continent, among whom he has so successfully labored, the tribe called "Fang."

This tribe are cannibals, though they are ashamed of the fact, and strive to conceal it from the missionaries. They live in villages, which consists of one street of houses of very simple structure. The men are polygamous; their wealth consists in women. They are kind to all their children, but prefer the boys. The speaker told how he and his wife learned the language, and of the books which have now been prepared for those who have learned to read; one of these he exhibited. He told many very interesting anecdotes of the daily life of the natives, and of his experiences among them, describing many of their characteristics. The work that has been done among them seems almost greater than the miracles of our Lord recorded in the New Testament. It is hardly ever difficult to obtain an audience among them, and while, of course, they do not always believe at once, the gospel is steadily advancing among them. The outlook for the tribe is very encouraging. We need no new gospel for these children of the Dark Continent; the same old story of Jesus Christ and him crucified has lost none of its power to raise men.

While the offering was being received, the congregation rang "The morning light is breaking," after which the service was closed by the doxology, and the benediction pronounced by Rev. J. W. Richardson.

NEW SCHOOL TO BE BUILT.

Washingtonville Taxpayers Decide to Put Up a New Building.

There was a goodly number of people present at the annual school meeting held at Washingtonville last evening. A. P. Voorhies was selected as chairman and W. H. Morris was the secretary.

The trustees elected were J. R. Doty, Theodore Leurssen and E. S. Acker. The sum of $75 was voted for needed repairs, and $300 was appropriated for text books.

The question of a new school building was brought up and discussed, and those present decided to erect a new building. Nothing definite was reported and the matter was referred to the trustees and they will report at a later meeting. No location has been decided upon, but it is quite likely that property near the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel will be selected.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

There were a number of cases for trial in Justice Newcorn's court, yesterday and today. The contract cases of Coddington vs. Cronin, and Collins vs. Wallace were tried and judgment rendered for the plaintiff for the full amount and costs. A number of the cases were adjourned until some future date. The contract cases of Thatcher vs. Thorn, Linke vs. Chapot, and Anderson vs. Davis were adjourned until March 24th. The landlord and tenant case of McDermott vs. McDonald was adjourned until the 29th. The contract case of Ivine vs. Woltman was laid over until March 31st.

Streets in a Bad Way.

A few days ago the councilmanic street committee made a thorough inspection of the streets in this city. They found them in a deplorable condition and have concluded that it will require a considerable amount of work to put them in good order.

STORE OF MODERN IDEAS.

EDWARD WHITE'S IMPROVEMENTS IN A BUSINESS WAY.

An Elevator Now Carries all Customers to the Upper Floors—Carpets and Rugs a Special Feature of the Stock

Another surprise has been prepared for the people of Plainfield. Edward White, the enterprising merchant of this city, is the author of it, and this morning opened it to the public gaze. The surprise came in the shape of numerous changes made to his already commodious store on West Front street. As his customers grew more numerous and his trade increased in magnitude, it became necessary for him to enlarge his store. The basement was utilized and then a portion of the second floor but the great objection was that his patrons were compelled to walk up or down stairs to reach these other floors. He has now overcome that objection by the introduction of an elevator of the most modern style and extended his floor space by the use of the second and third floors and the basement.

The elevator is something new for a Plainfield store. It is one of the well known Otis electric elevators, finished in oak with brass lattis work and a large mirror in the rear of the car, over the handsomely upholstered seat. The motor which lifts the car is capable of lifting eighteen hundred pounds at the rate of a hundred feet a minute. The elevator shaft is to be found in the centre of the store, convenient to every part, and extends from the top floor to the basement. The car will be in charge of an experienced operator.

Of course with the enlargement of the floor space there have been a number of changes and all the present departments have been enlarged in size and several new ones added.

The third floor will be devoted exclusively to matting, rugs, carpets, shades, and window curtains. Mr. White has taken the agency for an important Axminister rug of the finest quality. The patterns are copied from the oriental designs and include a number of different styles. In this department are to be found over two hundred different styles of matting. Then there are the Japanese jute rugs, the Kelem rugs, and the Symrna rugs of all sizes from a small door mat to the large art squares. A department where shades are made to order has been added. A pretty assortment of Japanese bead portiers are hung about the room, while rugs of different patterns and styles and lace curtains are used to decorate the room with.

On the second floor there are ladies' and children's made-up garments. Shirts and suits for ladies and children, shirt waists of pretty patterns, wrappers of tasteful design, are all to be found there. Of particular interest at this time of the year is the fine display of spring coats and wraps of the latest styles which is to be found on this floor. Good material and a charming arrangement made them attractive to the gentle visitor.

A descent of two floors brings the visitor to the basement which is now entirely devoted to the exhibition of Mr. White's goods. Here are to be found house furnishings, wood and willow ware, and toys.

The front part of the stores on the ground floor is devoted to dry and fancy goods. The millinery department has been enlarged to twice its former space, and the store has been increased accordingly. The dress gods department has also been enlarged by the transfer from the right side of the store to the left. It now has been given double the space as before and a more complete stock will be shown.

In the rear of the ground floor is to be found part of the housefurnishing department. Here is the fancy crockery, bric-a-brac, tea and dinner and toilet sets.

Altogether the store is complete in every particular, and the Plainfield shoppers would do well to visit Mr. White's mammoth store before making a trip to New York in search of what he or she wants.

An Appeal to the Trust.

Edgar Powelson, president of the New Brunswick Board of Trade, yesterday appointed a committee of citizens to wait upon the directors of the United States Rubber Company and urge them to reconsider their action in closing the Meyer rubber works at Milltown.

Where the Hitch Is.

It is said that the reason that the City Council does not give the local telephone and telegraph companies the right to put their wires under ground is that the companies are not willing to pay enough for the privilege of tearing up the streets.

Mayor Fisk is still in Virginia. He is expected home next week.

SELF-SACRIFICE LIMITS.

REV. ANTOINETTE BROWN BLACKWELL'S SOUNDS WORDS OF ADVICE.

It Must be Governed by the Laws of Justice and Good Sense—Self-Sacrifice Goes Too Far Sometimes, Though, She Says.

An unusually large attendance filled the parlors of All Souls' Church, yesterday afternoon, at the hour for the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women, which was to be addressed by Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, whose talk on "The Training of Children," given here several years ago, was so greatly appreciated by those who heard her. Her subject yesterday afternoon was "The Limits of Self-Sacrifice," and her talk, which showed much thought on the question under consideration, was much enjoyed.

Perhaps there are few of us, said Mrs. Blackwell, who are in danger of sacrificing ourselves too much; in most cases the danger is apt to be on the other side. Yet there is one class who are in this danger. We are told to love others as we love ourselves, and even better, and there are many who carry out the command. The very essense of motherhood is the self sacrificing love which takes no thought for its own life if it can help another's. And it is not confined to maternity; thousands of men and women have given all that makes life sweet to them, and even life itself, for the sake of humanity.

But even self sacrifice must be governed by the laws of justice and good sense. In many cases it has been carried to the point of self-immolation, and it is only as one makes the very best of himself, that he can do his best for others. Yielding to the requirements of a mistaken kindness to others is a virtue only to the unthinking, and tends only to lower one's own self-respect, and often to do actual harm to its object. Men often work far beyond their strength in order to surround a careless, selfish family with luxuries which may unfit them for a life of independence and usefulness. Children are unconsciously taught selfishness by parents who do everything for them. The lower classes in powerful countries have been taught that it was natural and right that they should be subject to and toil for their social superiors; self sacrifice was expected of them as a matter of course. The world is growing better in these ways, and it is surely time that men should learn that it is the duty of those who have the most in this world to sacrifice most; not of those who have little to give but their own heart's blood. Helpfulness to others must always remain the truest way of obtaining happiness in this world, but we must use ourselves wisely for our follows, living up to the best light we have, and guided by that Golden Rule given us by Him who gave his life a ransom for many.

Still Growing.

At the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, three new members were elected and one proposition was received. After the regular routine business was transacted the members were then entertained in the "china" sociable which had been arranged for them. Some took part in washing the dishes, while others dried and counted them, showing that they had received four dozen plates and cups and several other useful articles given by the individual members. After which refreshments were served.

Assets and Liabilities Almost Equal.

Andrew Love, Sr., George D. Morrison and Robert Cook, appraisers for John A. Thickstun, coal dealer, who made an assignment a few days ago, have determined that the liabilities and assets are about equal. The amount is between $10,000 and $11,000. The papers have been filed with the Somerset county clerk. Lawyer Irving Brady represents Mr. Thickstun, as the latter made an assigument to the former.

Muslin Underwear.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday March 18th, 19th, 20th, VanEmburgh will sale a special line of fine muslin underwear at special prices. This line of underwear is well known to the ladies of Plainfield for quality and finish and the prices at which they will be marked will be astonishing. 2t

Something Good.

What is it? The concert to be rendered at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday evening, March 25th, by the musical clubs of New York University. If you want to enjoy yourself for an evening don't fail to attend the concert.

Alfred Hunt, of Sandford avenue, has been confined to his home for a few days with illness, but is able to be out again.

BEFORE THE CITY CADI.

UNFORTUNATES WHO FELL INTO THE HANDS OF THE POLICE.

A Trio of Growler Rushers Celebrated too Publicly—Coal Commuters Caught—Marley Fineded For Abusing His Wife.

Mrs. Martha Parkerson, Elizabeth Clark, alias Annie Clark, alias Lucy Clark, and Maggie Benford were out celebrating last night in the neighborhood of North avenue and Richmond street. They had been down to Maggie's place in Paradise alley and enjoyed a friendly glass. Maggie ran away but Patrolman Mattox and Special Officer Cash found the other two preparing to retire at the corner. They were arrested and locked up. Mrs. Parkerson was fined $3 and Elizabeth Clark $5, in city court this morning.

Two more "coal commuters" were arrested last night and arraigned before the City Judge this morning. Both were young colored men, Dory Smith from Pennsylvania, and William MacIntosh from Somerville. The Somerville man explained that lots of people rode on coal trains in his town. The Judge remarked that such was not the custom in Plainfield and that they would have to suffer the consequences, which was a fine of $3 or ten days in jail.

The other offender was Thomas Marley, who had been arrested on the evening of September 23d by former Patrolman Cooney. For some reason, Marley did not appear for trial and was only arrested last evening for not doing so. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of quarreling and fighting and resisting an officer. Cooney was present and said that he had arrested the man at the request of his wife who said that he had been beating her. Marley claimed that Cooney had been laying for him three months and had merely used this opportunity to get even. The testimony of Mrs. Marley and a neighbor was not strong. Marley was found guilty and fined $5.

SUING FOR $10,000 DAMAGES.

Carmunio Collucci, of Westfield, is defendant in a suit for $10,000 for personal injuries. The suit has been brought in the Superior Court by Mrs. James Hunter, of Fanwood. The action alleges that Collucci, last September, while driving along the Springfield road, ran into Mrs. Hunter's vehicle, throwing her out and causing serious injuries, from which she was confined to her home for several weeks. Collucci denies the offence.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Louise Snediker, of Grove street, is able to be out after a short illness.

Mr. Frazer, of East Third street, has recovered from his recent severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, have returned from a sojourn at Old Point Comfort.

Ex-Councilman John Valiant, of the borough, has returned from an extended absence from town.

Mrs. George W. Marlor, of Roselle, is visiting at the home of William E. MacClymont, of Washington avenue.

It is Dr. Lowrie who is attending Miss Laura Mulford, of East Fifth street, and not Dr. Zeglio, as stated yesterday.

Morris Van Arsdale and family moved to their new residence in Watchung Park from Greenwich, Conn., last week.

—All aboard for the Cycle Academy this evening at which time the twenty-third annual ball of the A. O. H. takes place. Returns of the big fight will be announced during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fredickson, of Berckman street, are in Boston where Mr. Fredickson is engaged putting up presses for the Walter Scott Printing and Machine Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bingaman, of East Ninth street, invited a few friends to their home last evening to witness the christening of their two daughters. Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes officiated. The given names were Mary Hannah and Katherine Grant.

—Lederer, the dry goods merchant, expects to open his store one week from today. The clerks are busily engaged in preparing the goods and arranging for the opening.

WAITING ON MINORITY

Democrats Given Time To Study the New Tariff Bill.

THEY WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The Bill To Be Taken Up To-morrow, and It Is Believed the Vote May Be Reached Within the Next Two Weeks.

Washington, March 17.—The ways and means committee has adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. The purpose of this was to permit the democratic members to study the new tariff bill and to prepare the amendments which they propose offering when the committee reassembles. The minority will this afternoon meet at the capitol and decide upon the line of policy to be pursued by them both in committee and in the house. It is still undecided if the bill shall be reported to-day, but the democratic members believe this to be the intention of the majority. The understanding is that if the bill be reported to-morrow it will be at once taken up for consideration without waiting for the democratic minority report. Some of the republican members think two weeks should suffice for debating the measure in the house.

NOT IN SESSION TO-DAY.

Washington, March 17.—Congress is not in session to-day. Both branches will meet again to-morrow and it is expected the solons will then get down to hard work, particularly in the house where the tariff bill will engross uninterrupted attention. In the senate yesterday one pension bill was passed and several hundred bills, public and private, were introduced and referred. There was hardly one of them which had not been on the calendar or on committee files in the last congress. When Mr. Allison, rep., Ia., in gentle remonstrance against the passage of the one pension bill, $50 a month to the widow of Brig.-Gen. John B. Stevenson, suggested that its passage at present would not expedite its becoming a law, and when Mr. Vest, dem., Mo., expressed his belief that it would and that he could get action on it in the house, the Iowa senator looked incredulous and expressed his great admiration for the Missouri senator's confidence. In connection with the extension of civil service rules to the construction of public works in charge of the state engineer department of the army, Mr. Frye, rep., Me., referred to those rules as "an awful outrage," and as "absolutely absurd and stupid." The senate spent over two hours yesterday in the discussion of the credentials of John A. Henderson, appointed by the governor of Florida to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration on the 4th of March of the term of Senator Call. An effort was made by Mr. Pasco, dem., Fla., to have Mr. Henderson admitted to the seat, but it was resisted on both sides of the chamber as inconsistent with the action of the senate a few years ago in refusing seats to appointees of the governors of Wyoming, Montana and Washington. Mr. Pasco yielded, and permitted the matter to be referred—as were the like cases this session from Kentucky and Oregon—to the committee on privileges and election. The following nominations were received and referred and the senate adjourned until to-morrow: To be ambassadors extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the United States: John Hay of the District of Columbia, to Great Britain; Horace Porter of New York, to France, and Henry White of Rhode Island, to be secretary of the embassy of the United States to Great Britain.

For the Mobilization of N. G., S. N. Y.

Albany, March 17.—Adjt.-Gen. Tillinghast and Col. William Cary Sanger appeared before the senate finance committee yesterday and asked for an appropriation of $55,000 to provide for the mobilization of the state militia in New York on April 27 on the occasion of the turning over to the city of the monument erected to Gen. Grant. He said that all the state troops would give their time without cost to the state and the railroads have agreed to transport the troops for one fair for the round trip. Aside from the sentimental reasons for such mobilization, Gen. Tillinghast urged it on the ground of a military necessity as the guard would be benefitted by the movement.

Town Election in Columbia County, N. Y.

Hudson, N. Y., March 17.—Elections were held in the several towns of Columbia county yesterday for local offices and upon the excise question. The democratic ticket was victorious in a majority of the towns and the vote on the license question was about equally divided. Stuyvesant voted license for hotels and saloons, and Livingston went no license; Mellenville voted license, and Claverack for hotel license.

Two State Appointments.

Albany, March 17.—The following civil service appointments are announced; Cleophas Corbett, of Auburn, to be superintendent of the cloth making industry in Auburn prison at a salary of $3.25 per day, and Walter M. Clark, of Adams, medical interne in the Matteawan state hospital at a salary of $600 per annum.

Cleveland Enroute Home.

Norfolk, Va., March 17.—The government lighthouse tender Violet arrived here at 7 o'clock last night from Currituck sound with ex-President Cleveland and party on board. They remained aboard the Violet until 8 o'clock this morning, when they left for Washington on the lighthouse tender Maple.

NEW AMBASSADOR

Col. John Hay Will Not Be a Stranger in England.

WELL FITTED FOR THE PLA

Gen. Horace Porter, the New Diplomat to France, Is a Noted After Dinner Speaker, and Is Also a Most Suitable Selection for the Position.

Washington, March 17.—Col. John Hay of this city, who was yesterday nominated ambassador to Great Britain, is too well known in this country too need much introduction. He is also known well in England, both personally and through his books, "Little Breeches," "Castilian Days," "Pike County Ballads" and others. Apart from his literary achievements Col. Hay has had diplomatic experience. He has been secretary at Paris and at Madrid. He was charge d'affaires at Vienna and he was President Lincoln's secretary. Col. Hay is 59 years old and has long been a resident of Washington, where he has dispensed a most generous hospitality. It was there that he and John G. Nicolay wrote the "Life of Lincoln," which has commanded general commendation. He has long been regarded as one of the brightest ornaments of American literary and social life.

Gen. Horace Porter.

Gen. Horace Porter, nominated to be ambassador to France, was born in Huntingdon, Pa., on April 15, 1837. He was a grandson of Brig.-Gen. Porter, who fought through the war of the revolution, and afterwards declined the secretaryship of war offered him by President Madison. His father, David R. Porter, was twice governor of Pennsylvania. Gen. Porter was educated at the Harrisburg academy and at the Lawrenceville high school. He entered the scientific school at Harvard in 1854, and a year later entered West Point, from which institution he was graduated in 1860, joining the ordnance arm of the service, being appointed second lieutenant in April 1861 and first lieutenant in June of the same year. In the winter of 1861-1862 he was engaged as chief of ordnance erecting heavy batteries for the reduction of Fort Pulaski on the Savannah river, and the action displayed so much bravery that he was made brevet captain. In July, 1862, he was made chief of ordnance in the Army of the Potomac. He was on the staff of Gen. Thomas at the battle of Chattanooga, where he first met Gen. Grant, who appointed him chief of staff when he was made lieutenant-general. On March 13, 1865, he was brevetted brigadier-general of the army. When Grant was elected president Gen. Porter became his military secretary, and in 1873 resigned his commission in the army to enter business life. He became vice-president of the Pullman Palace Car company and held important positions in railroad companies. Gen. Porter long ago established his reputation as one of the most entertaining after-dinner speakers in America. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Union college. He was married in 1864 to Miss McHarg of Albany and has two children, Elsie and Clarence.

CALLERS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Many Office-seekers Among Them and a Few See the President.

Washington, March 17.—The number of office-seekers who have besieged the White House since the 5th inst. show no signs of diminishing in numbers, and many of them succeed in securing a few minutes audience with the president. He has a kind word for all, but he will not be hurried in the selections. Representative Overstreet of Indiana, acting in behalf of the International Typographical union, presented to the president late yesterday afternoon a protest against the appointment of Col. Harrison Gray Otis of California as assistant secretary of war. Representative Overstreet resides in Indianapolis where the International union has its headquarters. The protest was made on the ground that Col. Otis is opposed to organized labor and now employs non-union printers on his newspaper. No intimation of his intentions regarding Col. Otis was made by the president. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania headed a number of congressmen from his state who wanted to talk over applications of constituents. Representative Arnold and Senator Penrose endorsed W. Irwin Shaw of Clearfield, Pa., for consul at Bordeaux, France. Judge John A. Drake of Syracuse, N. Y., who formerly lived in South Dakota, was endorsed for a consular position in Germany by Senator Kyle and ex-Representative Pickler of South Dakota. Judge Drake has also been endorsed by Representative Belden of the Syracuse district. Senator Kyle also wanted the president to appoint W. S. Glass of South Dakota to a consulship in Scotland or Australia. Representative Graff of Illinois spoke in behalf of J. H. Franklin of Toluca, Ill., formerly a deputy auditor, who wants to be auditor of the treasury. A delegation from the Washington conference, Methodist Episcopal church, paid its respects to the president yesterday. To-morrow afternoon a delegation of colored republicans from Virginia will call on the president in the interest of George W. Bowden's candidacy for assistant postmaster general. Mr. Bowden once represented the Norfolk, Va., district in congress.

Albany Capitol Completion.

Albany, March 17.—The assembly ways and means committee has decided to report favorably now another amendment Senator Ellsworth's bill authorizing State Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge to complete the state capitol building by contract.

CUBAN FILIBUSTERS.

Cabinet Discusses the Perplexing Subject. Attorney-General's Views.

Washington, March 17.—The filibustering operations between this country and Cuba occupied the attention of the cabinet yesterday. Attorney General McKenna gave his views on the subject of permitting alleged filibustering steamers to clear for Cuban ports with cargoes of arms and munitions of war. A general discussion followed his remarks. The attorney general has decided not to render an opinion in the case of the steamer Dauntless until he can obtain additional facts relating to the application of her owners to clear from Jacksonville with arms and ammunition. Under ordinary commercial conditions the application would be granted without question, but the fact that the Dauntless or any other vessel would be obliged to clear for some Cuban port held by the Spanish puts a new phase on the matter. The cargo could not be landed there, and the vessel would be seized. This would make it necessary for a vessel to attempt to land the cargo at some point along the coast, and in order to deliver the arms and ammunition to the insurgents an armed force would be necessary. The knowledge of this raises the question whether the men necessary to carry out the plans made for a filibustering vessel would not constitute an armed expedition, a clear violation of law. The attorney general will have to decide whether the force likely to be taken on the Dauntless is an armed expedition, within the meaning of the law. Permission was given the steamer Commodore to clear for a Cuban port with arms and munitions of war, but the vessel was wrecked before reaching the Cuban coast.

MARRIAGE LICENSE BILL.

The Proposed Jersey Measure Opposed by Trenton Methodist Clergymen.

Trenton, March 17.—The senate committee on revision of the laws gave a hearing yesterday on the marriage license bill, and among those who appeared to oppose its passage were Revs. S. M. Vansant, pastor of the Collingswood M. E. church; W. F. Herr, pastor of the Merchantville M. E. church, and Dr. J. B. Graw, pastor of the First Methodist church of Trenton. Rev. Mr. Herr said he represented the preachers' meeting of Camden, whose members thought that people should have a right to enter the married state without hindrance. The bill would inconvenience many young persons and take from them money that they might need to start life with. The bill seemed to be drawn in the interest of county officials, who were after fees. Dr. Graw said that couples came to New Jersey to get married, in order to escape an obnoxious Pennsylvania law. The Methodist clergymen denied indignantly all the accusation made against them. They were false and Dr. Graw challenged Mr. Lloyd, the father of the bill, to give one instance in which a member of the New Jersey conference had been guilty of the acts attributed to them. Rev. Dr. G. W. Gates, an Episcopal clergyman of Camden, addressed the committee in favor of the bill. "If a minister of God or a civil officer," he said, "married a couple who were not legally qualified, he ought to be placed behind the bars." He said that hack drivers were in league in this business with certain ministers, at least, so the accusation ran. "New Jersey is Pennsylvania's slop bowl." He thanked God that there were many ministers who would not stoop to commit acts such as have been committed in Camden.

250 MEN LOCKED OUT.

Brockton, Mass., March 17.—The well known firm of Whitman & Keith of this city shut down its shoe factory at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, summarily discharging its 250 employes. For some days rumors of an intended strike in the factory have been rife, caused by the trouble over the price paid for lasting. As a result, the firm expecting a strike, took the initiative and locked out all its help. William Whitman, senior member of the firm, in an interview regarding the cause of the action taken by the firm, stated that the firm had concluded to run its own affairs without dictation, or go out of business.

Passed Commuters' Bill.

Trenton, March 17.—The senate has passed unanimously the commuters' bill, which forbids a railroad company to stop passengers from carrying packages on trains. The railroads have fought the bill strongly.

GREECE IS FOR FIGHT

Evidently Determined To Declare War Against Turkey.

WOULD THUS BALK THE POWERS

Greek Troops Enthusiastic for the Signal To Go Ahead—Generally Believed in Athens That War Is Inevitable.

Athens, March 17.—A prolonged meeting of the cabinet was held last night. The ministers discussed at great length the attitude to be taken in the event of the powers attempting to coerce Greece into a compliance with their demands. It is stated that no disposition was shown to accede to the demands, and that it was finally decided to take active measures as the only possible solution of the difficulty. It is thought that by active measures is meant a declaration of war against Turkey, which in its effect would be to give Greece the right to maintain her army in Crete and deprive the powers of any right of interference.

War Inevitable.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—A dispatch from Athens says: Crown Prince Constantine with the First regiment of infantry is momentarily expected to leave Athens to assumed command of all the Greek forces in Thessaly. The prevailing conviction there is that war is inevitable. It is understood that the cabinet at its meeting discussed a plan of campaign against the Turks. The whole garrison of Athens and nearly all the reserves have started for the frontier. The departure during the night of a number of troops for Volo, Thessaly, was undoubtedly owing to the government receiving information regarding the blockade.

France's Greco-Cretan Attitude.

Paris, March 17.—M. Hanataax, minister of foreign affairs, made in the senate last night a declaration of the policy of France in the matter of the Greco-Cretan situation similar to that which he made in the chamber of deputies Monday, when he announced that France would adhere to the concert policy, and at the conclusion of his statement asked for a vote of confidence in the government. The senate then attested its confidence in the government's policy by a vote of 240 to 32.

No Official Notice of Blockade.

London, March 17.—The Standard publishes a dispatch from Athens say that up to this morning the government had received no official information that the fleets of the powers were blockading Crete. A dispatch from Vienna to the same paper says that the representatives of the powers in Constantinople have been intrusted with the task of framing a scheme of autonomy for Crete. Their work will be partly facilitated by consultations with the porte.

Greeks Enthusiastic for War.

London, March 17.—The Chronicle, Daily Mail and Telegraph have correspondents with the Greek forces on the Thessalian frontier. They all concur in their descriptions of the rapid massing and continual drilling of the troops They add that the excitement and enthusiasm of the soldiers are a dangerous element of the situation, as a trifle may start a conflict with the Turkish forces on the frontier, who are in sight of the Greeks

GREECE RETURNS THANKS.

Says the Senate's Resolutions Will Aid Their Cause.

Washington, March 17.—Secretary Sherman has sent to the senate a note received from D. N. Botassi, consul general of Greece at New York, transmitting a cablegram from the Greek minister of foreign affairs in acknowledgment of the resolution passed by the senate before the expiration of the last session, expressing sympathy with the Cretan revolutionists. The cablegram is as follows:

"To the United States Senate—The warm thanks of the Greek nation, as well as the government of Greece, are due for the expression of its sympathies, which are a most valuable assistance to us towards the accomplishment of our national aspirations."

The consul general adds on his own behalf that the resolution has made a most favorable impression on the Greeks in the United States, "who, while enjoying the blessings of liberty in this country under her liberal laws, are in hearty sympathy with their motherland in her efforts to free their oppressed brethren."

BOROUGH SCHOOLS.

It must have been very gratifying to those of North Plainfield who take a live interest in public affairs to have seen the large attendance of representative and substantial citizens of the borough present at the annual school meeting last night, even though there was some differences as to what course the candidates who were to be elected should pursue. A healthy interest with opposition is better than the spirit of lethargy that too often characterizes the majority of citizens in the management of the schools. The report made by President McCutchen was an elabarate one, carefully prepared and prolific with information and comparisons reflecting credit on the present management of the public school.

ST. PATRICK.

Landed in Wicklow, lived in Armagh and died in Down, twice a captive in bondage, and always a vigorous opponent of slavery, anointer of kings and apostle of the common people, Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, belonged to all parts of Ireland, and is claimed by all as the first figure in Irish history, and his memory has been ever honored by Irishmen at home and abroad. To-day is St. Patrick's Day, celebrated by all Irishmen throughout all the work.—New York Sun.

AIR AND WATER

Prof. Myers Speaks in the University Extension Series.

The University Extension lectures at the Irving public school were continued last evening by another lecture on chemistry by Prof. William S. Myers, of Rutger's College. The attendance was fair. The lecture itself was an exceedingly interesting one for Prof. Myers was a pleasant speaker and he made his remarks even clearer by a number of experiments.

The subject was "Air and Water." Dealing with the atmosphere, he told of the different elements which constitute the atmosphere and showed how to separate them. With experiments, he showed some of the different properties of oxygen, nitrogen and carbonic acid gas. His list of the different elements of which the air is composed differed from the usual list in that he had added argon, the elements recently discovered by Prof. Ramsay.

He spoke particularly on the ways in which air becomes impure, the effects of the impure air on the body and its organs, and the modern methods of ventilation and purification of the air.

In taking up water, he showed how it was to be found to some extent in almost everything. Its property of solvency was the subject of several experiments and some interesting remarks. He explained the difference between the "hard" and the "soft" water and also the different methods in vogue of changing them. The impurities in the water and the different ways in which it could be purified were described in an interesting manner and much practical information given.

The lecture next week will be on "Soda and Soap."

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Escaped From a Terrible Death.

Some unknown man had a narrow escape from death under the car wheels, this morning, but it was through his own fault. He attempted to board the 8:32 east-bound train, when the train was some distance from the station, and was dragged some twenty feet. He managed to pull himself up on the platform of the car at last, and the passengers at the station who had seen the incident breathed a sigh of relief.

WINTER'S TOUCH DEFIED

Evidences of Warm Weather at the First Baptist Church When a Novel Sociable Was in Progress There Last Evening.

Most everyone knows what it is to enjoy a summer picnic, but few ever have had the opportunity of attending a winter picnic, and the many persons who were present at the First Baptist church last evening all said that they never attended a better pic nic. The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the church arranged the novel affair, and it was complete in every respect.

The Sunday-school room was arranged in truly summer fashion Here and there was a hammock or a cosy nook where groups of people found a place to enjoy a social chat. The whole room was decorated with greens and flowers, presenting a scene of warm weather. The majority of those present appeared in summer attire and this added to the festive occasion very much.

The sociability was interspersed with recitations by Miss May Hull and Miss Grace Overton, vocal solos by Miss Nancy Randolph, piany solos by Howard Case, vocal duets by George Henry Smith, William Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Biglow, Jr.

The last part of the programme was perhaps the most interesting from the fact that everybody had an abundance of good things to eat. The menu included everything that a person would take on a picnic, such as sandwiches, eggs, pickles, lemonade, coffee and cake.

The members of the society are to be congratulated for the very pleasant time furnished. The affair was under the direction of Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw, president of the society.

NEW JERSEY PATRONAGE.

Senator Daly Predicts Trouble Over the Giving Out of Offices.

Senator William D. Daly, of Hoboken, who is in Washington, says that there will be a great political fight in New Jersey over the distribution of the spoils. In an interview published he adds by way of explanation:

"You see, Senator Sewell runs all South Jersey, and his proprietorship is not questioned till he reaches Trenton. From that city to Deckertown the political patronage has for years belonged to Vice-President Hobart. The applications for positions from New Jersey Republicans will be unlimited, and unless Mr. Hobart and Senator Sewell reaches some harmonious understanding, there is bound to be trouble in the ranks of their followers."

Senator Daly's prophecy of trouble between the two distinguished Republicans of New Jersey is not indorsed by the State's National Representatives here. Congressman Loudenslager, supposedly voicing the views of the rest, said:

"I see no signs of trouble. There may be differences of opinion about the merits of various candidates for office and possibly some differences over the method of distributing the patronage, but they will all be smoothed away. In fact, the New Jersey delegation expects to hold a meeting shortly, maybe tonight or tomorrow, for the purpose of reaching an agreement or arranging a programme for the distribution of the Federal patronage belonging to the State in the manner best calculated to further the interests of the party and all concerned."

LADIES' AID ELECT.

The third annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Warren chapel was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the chapel. After the usual devotional exercises, the reports of the officers and committees for the past year were read and a review made of the work of the society since its formation. The reports showed that the society has sent away five barrels of clothing and other necessary articles to missionaries on different fields and that other work had been accomplished at home and in foreign fields. During the last year, $85.95 has been raised by dues, self-denial offerings and donations, of which $72.13 has been paid out, leaving a balance of $31.82.

The present officers were re-elected They were: President, Miss Sarah Randolph; first vice-president, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; second vice-president, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; secretary, Miss Margaret Swain; treasurer, Mrs. M. B. Gillies

THEATRICAL.

The occasion seems opportune for a really good minstrel attraction, and that is what we are promised at Music Hall tonight. Hi. Henry and his fifty burnt cork merry makers will appear, promising a programme replete with up-to-date, artistic and refined variety. This attraction bears the reputation of being clean and wholesome, with nothing whatever to offend and much to commend. Of their eight star comedians Arthur Deming stands at the head in his line, as does also Charles Kenna in his specialties, and Charles Whalen in his phenomenal buck dancing. Harry Leighton, the lyric star tenor of this attraction, bears a wide recognition as among the best of his class, and every artist is guaranteed to be selected from the best in his line. Their very favorable press comments, and their long list of specialties and performers, and their prosperity are evidences of special merit.

"If that is Theosophy, I'd like about three hours more of it," remarked a playgoer who had seen "My Friend from India." "Two hours more of it?" queried his companion. "I never could stand it for I've laughed constantly for two hours and a half and two hours more of such fun would be more than I could stand." Everybody seems to be of the same opinion in regard to "My Friend from India," which has established itself as the greatest laugh-producer that has been seen this season. Donnelly and Girard will present this successful farce at Music Hall, Friday evening, and will give it every possible advantage including an excellent supporting company. Miss Maude Granger is in the cast.

Free Stop-Over at Washington.

On all through tickets between the east, west, north and south, reading via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, a stop-over at Washing can be secured, without extra charge for railroad fare, by depositing the ticket, upon arrival at Washington, with the B. & O. station ticket agent at that point. Washington is always attractive to visitors, and particularly so while Congress is in session. This arrangement for stop over privilege will doubtless be appreciated by the public, and will bring to the National Capital many travelers to view its superb public buildings monuments, musicians and thoroughfares.

University Musical Club

At the concert to be given in Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday evening, March 25th, Harry M. Pfeiffer, the leader of the Mandolin Club, will play a solo. Many will remember his exquisite solos when he played at the entertainment of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church a few months ago.

Drawing for Seats.

In drawing for seats in the House Congressman McEwan was the first New Jersey man to be called. He took the second seat from the front in the second aisle on the Republican side. Mr. Fowler, a little later, took the second seat from McEwan in the same row. Congressman Loudenslager, by having a page pre-empt a seat, succeeded in the fourth aisle.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The annual meeting for the election of five trustees, to serve the public schools in terms ranging from one to three years, was held in the Whittier's school building, last evening, and the attendance was unusually large. R. J. Swackhammer called the meeting to order and P. W. Brakeley was chosen as chairman and Harry Gaskill clerk. District Clerk G. Elston Lowrie read the call. He also read the annual report, showing a total enrollment of scholars to be 270. In the schools there are six departments, each with a separate teacher, and an extra teacher for music and drawing classes. There were nine regular nominations, and about as many more whose names were mentioned, but who stood no ghost of a show for election and in fact some of them were not present at the meeting. The individual vote follows: Charles Dodwell, 54; G. Elston Lowrie, 81; L. T. Titsworth, 62; Fowler W. Vail, 65; John E. Low, 38; Lewis Schneider, 57; John W. Monahan, 59; Wilson Fredricks, 79; A. A. Lake, 38. Of these Messrs. Lowrie, Vail and Fredricks were declared elected for the full three-year term, L. T. Titsworth for two years, and John W. Monahan for one year. The matter of fixing the appropriation for school purposes was next considered, and upon motion of R. J. Swackhammer the secretary was instructed to cast a ballot for $3,000, the amount asked for in the Call, Messrs. Terry, English and Larkin, who constituted the Auditing Committee the past year were reappointed by the chair. The meeting then adjourned.

Next Thursday evening the new Board of Education will meet and organize.

Mrs. Isabella Titsworth returned home, yesterday, from a visit with friends in Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dealman are just now rejoicing over the arrival of a young son. The baby boy arrived at 1 a. m., yesterday, and both mother and child are doing nicely.

Mayor Brakely says he does not altogether disapprove of the trolley, but he believes that should a company obtain a franchise to operate a line through the borough there are several other routes besides the main street and besides the company should be made to live up to the letter of the law in the matter of road construction and repairs.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Sadie Walpole is still in charge of the mail delivery department, and it is doubtful whether her place could be satisfactorily filled.

The owner of the popular Flander's summer boarding house on the main street is getting things in shape to receive the early consignment of guests.

With the advent of spring, although we are yet experiencing extremely cold weather, painters are at work touching up several of the residences in the place.

Now that the roads are becoming somewhat smooth, stone in large quantities is being carted to the Fanwood depot and carried away to complete contracts in various parts of the state.

There is a well curb standing directly on the sidewalk at Scotch Plains, but the well has long since gone dry. In its present position the old well curb is extremely dangerous passing along there at night.

The new monster machinery which is to be placed in position at the mountain crusher arrived yesterday, and there is said to be few wagons about here that could stand the strain of carrying the heavy pieces of machinery. So Capt. Hand, of Plainfield, was called in to remove them.

A delegation from the German Singing and Turning Society of Elizabeth come up to the Plains a day or two ago, and while here they purchased John H. Blimm's pool table. The table was removed to Elizabeth to-day and Mr. Blimm has gone to New York today to purchase one of the more improved pattern.

The annual school meeting was held in the Lincoln School hall last evening, for the purpose of hearing the report of the Board of Education, the report of the district clerk, and to elect four members to the Board. Town Committeeman C. W. Harden was appointed chairman; Samuel Reese, secretary, and I. I. Ross, assistant secretary. Nominations were made as follows: John B. Green, John J. Coger, James O. Clark, Harry E. Knight, George H. Brown, Charles Forster, Dr. Sherman Cooper, and Wm. C. T. Bachmann. There were three members to be elected for three years and one for two years, the unexpired term of Dr. Rice, who resigned two weeks ago. These gentlemen were elected for the term of three years: John B. Green, 209; James O. Clark, 200; John J. Coger, 199. Harry E Knight, for the term of two years, received 338 votes.

The oft continued case of Turrill against Hann was tried in the town rooms, yesterday afternoon, before Justice E. R. Collins and a jury of twelve men. The suit was for the payment of two promissary notes and a book account amounting in all to $140 11. The case had been continued from time to time and more or less bitterness of feeling was manifested in the matter. Frank B. Turrill is a well-known groceryman of Broad street, and Charles Hann is a carpenter and prominent in religious circles. The jury returned a verdict of $5 65 in favor of the plaintiff. Mr. Turrill will take an appeal.

Town Committeeman Charles G. Endicott underwent an operation on his jaw last Saturday, and was reported yesterday as being in a low condition.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, March 18th, 19th, 20th, VanEmburgh of Plainfield will sell a special line of fine muslin underwear at special prices. This line of underwear is well known to the ladies of Westfield for quality and finish and the prices at which they will be marked will be astonishing.

The Board of Education has about decided to open a public school at Garwood; the present school accommodations are maintained by private subscriptions. The sum of $11,000 was voted for as the amount of the appropriation for the ensuing year, exclusive of State tax.

Herbert Welch, a cat and a match, came near being the cause of a serious conflagration, Monday evening. The little fellow was playing with his pet kitten and when the kitten ran under a sofa Herbert lighted a match and held it under the sofa to see where the cat had gone. The fringe on the sofa ignited and it and the carpet were soon a mass of flames. The fire was put out without calling out the fire department. The damage is estimated at $60.

HORSES AND COWS BURNED.

The barn of Antoine Gauski, at Branch Mills, Union county, between Springfield and Westfield, was totally destroyed by fire between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. All the contents, including four horses, three cows and a calf, two wagons and farming implements, were burned, making a loss of over $1,000. The fire was not discovered until the barn had been burned almost to the ground and then it was to late to save anything.

The fire is thought to have been started by tramps. Three of them were driven from the barn a week ago and they left vowing revenge on Gauski. Yesterday morning about the time of the fire a tramp was seen going toward Springfield. The loss is covered by insurance.

—Tomorrow "only" Thursday, March 18th, Van Emburgh will sell colored table oilcloth at 12 cents per yard; shirting calicoes at 3 cents per yard; bleached twilled toweling at 3 cents per yard; clothes pins, 5 cents per hundred.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. A PALATIAL PRIVATE CAR.

President Green Has the Handsomest in Existence.

What is undoubtedly the finest private car at the disposal of a railroad magnate in this or any other country was recently built for E. H. R. Green, president of the Texas Midland railroad. Palatial is the only word which is applicable to this car. Even the private cars of British royalty pale into comparative insignificance beside the possession of the son of the richest woman in America.

The exterior of the car resembles the ordinary Pullman coach. It has a reception room, a private sleeping apartment, a dining room and a kitchen. The principal and largest apartment is the observation or reception room at one end of the car. This occupies an area of more than eighteen feet in length. It includes two sleeping sections on either side, which are nine feet long, but during the day they can be changed into comfortably cushioned lounging seats. The room is handsomely carpeted and furnished with wicker easy chairs, a roll top desk, and richly covered tables. There are also a sound recorder, air pressure gauge, thermometer, clock and electric fans. At night, if the occasion requires, the room can be divided into three separate compartments by partitions which fold against the upper panelling. Two of these can be turned into sleeping apartments.

The passageway runs to the side of the car and opens into a suite of handsomely appointed state rooms, each more than seven feet long. In one is a stationary bed, while the other contains a folding bed. Between these two rooms, and connecting with each, is a bath room about about four and a half feet square, with a shower attached.

Next comes the kitchen, to which eight and one-half feet of the length of the car is devoted.

The room is ten feet long and comfortably furnished with the usual dining room paraphernalia. The windows of the car are a trifle larger than those of the ordinary drawing room car, and are fitted with heavy plate glass. The interior is hung with heavy portieres and window curtains.—New York Herald.

A COLLEGE GIRL'S PRANK.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune has been telling tales out of school. It has collected a number of the amusing pranks of college girls of a few years ago, making the explanation that such capers are out of date now, one of which is the following:

During the freshman year of a student she conceived the novel idea of giving a cat concert some night after the retiring. To this end she collected all the stray felines there were around the place, and stored them away in the attic. By the time the date set for the serenade came around she had decoyed about a dozen cats to the attic, singly and in pairs. With the assistance of one of the workmen, open to bribery, she conducted from the basement to the top floor—a goat. This beast was added to the zoological garden in the attic, and together with the cats paced the floor till silence had fallen throughout the house.

And then this little person, so meek that suspicion never fell upon her, stole up the attic stairs and tied to each animal a bell, opened the door and turned the flock loose. Pandemonium reigned. The frightened cats meowed and meowed, the goat ba-ahed, and the faculty chased, commanded and came to despair. Through the midnight watches the slinking cats tinkled their bells through the halls, the outraged teachers breathed out threatings against the culprit, and the girl who was in future years to be at the head of the institution slept on—the sleep of the just.

Much Too Clever.

Sir Charles Napier was at one time Governor of Gibraltar. One day, by some mischance, he mislaid the keys of his safe. Search being unavailing he sent down to the engineers' yard to know if they had a man capable of picking a lock.

A certain sapper whose skill at lock-picking was well known was sent to the Governor's house, and, with the aid of a few pieces of wire, he very shortly succeeded in opening the safe. Napier was amazed at his celerity, but said nothing.

Next morning the sapper was sent for by his colonel, who handed him a five-pound note, and informed him that by Napier's order he was to return to England, for home service, by the next boat, as the Governor did not think it safe to keep a man on the Rock who could pick the most complicated lock as easily as he could eat his breakfast.—Answers.

The Judge Was Not Convinced.

In a suit for separation, counsel for the plaintiff pleaded, among other reasons, incompatibility of temperament. He depicted the character of the husband as "brutal, violent, and passionate." The husband's advocate rose in his turn and described the wife as "spiteful, short-tempered, and sulky."

"Pardon me," interrupted the judge, addressing both limbs of the law, "I cannot see, gentlemen, where the incompatibility of temperament comes in."—Tid-Bits.

Baboony—Me boy, you look as if you had just stepped out of a fashion plate.

Crinkleton—That so? I knew I had rheumatism, but I didn't suppose I was as stiff as that!—Harlem Life.

RISKED HIS LIFE TO KEEP HIS WORD.

An Oregon Embezzler Who Swam Torrents to Surrender to Justice.

"You need not send an officer for me I will come when I am wanted."

Vincent Sutton, Postmaster at Ore town, Tillamook County, was wanted for embezzlement by the United States authorities. A plain tale, truly, and one which smacks of the vulgar commonplace, but mark the difference.

This Sutton is a man of simple mind, and to him it seemed no harm would be done if he eked out the pittance of his office of postmaster by adding the sums paid in for the purchase of money orders, a matter of some $355 when all was counted. He would make it good in his own time, and in truth he thought it no wrong. But the United States does not do business that way, and in due time there came an indictment, found by the Oregon Grand Jury. Sutton heard. He realized that he had done wrong. He was ready to meet his punishment. Nay, he was ready to go to meet it at the peril of his life. Nothing prevented if he chose to leave the state. None could find him in the bitter weather did he prefer to hide in the fastness of his own trackless mountains, but it came home to him, what he had not realized when he took the money, that he had done wrong, and he alone must bear the burden.

Now, this was not a matter of walking downtown to give yourself up to the police or the marshal.

So it came that the simple-minded man of primitive mold sat down and wrote a leter to Marshal Grady in Portland, that he would come himself to the nearest station on the railroad, Sheridan, and there surrender to an officer of the law. Let the officer come to Sheridan by a certain day and he would be there. He kept his word, albeit more than once it nearly cost him his life.

Sutton has a wife. He kissed her good-bye and stuffed his pockets with the food which she, poor woman, had put up for him with loving care, enough to last him two days, it might be, on the way to Sheridan. The Three Rivers, triple thunderer in sooth, was booming with sullen, hungry roar, turbid with swirling mud, carrying on its angry breast sweeping logs and jagged roots, torn from their sockets by the searching flood. Five times it had to be crossed by Sutton on his way, swimming or wading, or chancing his life on a treacherous log. Once he was nearly smothered in a bottomless pit of mud as dangerous as the quiet, remorseless suck of a quicksand that never gives up its dead. It was bitter cold, and he must keep afoot or perish. But there is iron in this man's blood. He had pledged his word and he got there.

Now, when this simple tale was told to Judge Bellinger, sitting in Portland as the representative of Federal law, he, being a man, was troubled in mind, for here was one who had set his life at the value of a pin fee that the law might have its way, and yet justice must be done and punishment meted as is set down in the books. Nevertheless there are degrees, and Judge Bellinger resolved that this was a case where it would not strain the quality of justice were it softened with mercy. Therefore he imposed the lowest penalty, which is imprisonment for six months and a fine equal to the sum which Sutton appropriated.—Correspondent San Francisco Examiner.

He Required Kansas Excitement.

William Allen White tells a story of a Kansas man who left the state, but soon returned to it because he missed the excitement. "Why, man," said White, "what do you mean? What excitement can there be in living where there isn't a piece of vegetation higher than a sunflower, and where human beings are as few as summer showers?" "Well, you see, it's like this," he replied. "You put in a crop, and from the moment the seed's in the ground until the last day of harvest it's a gamble whether or not you get a full crop or barely enough to feed a mule. The sustained excitement amounts to what you would get out of a four months' poker game in which you had staked everything. Oh, there's plenty of excitement about it, and I've become so accustomed to that feature of it that I'm lost without it." This farmer was a Greek letter fraternity man, and, ludicrous as it may seem, he unquestionably spoke with the utmost seriousness.—New York Tribune.

A Peculiar Bequest.

Dresden owns a singular piece of property. It is a morning newspaper, the "Dresdener Anzeiger." This daily, upon the death of its last proprietor, was willed to the city, upon the condition that all profits arising therefrom should be spent upon the public parks. This year a large playground of nearly eight acres was purchased from Prince George, the King's brother and heir-apparent, and it will be ready for use next spring. The paper continues to hold the respect of all citizens, for the trust has been carried out in its broadest spirit, and the power has never been employed to foster any school of opinions.—Fourth Estate.

Silly Sentimetalism.

One of the severest penalties to which criminals in Holland were in ancient times condemned was to be deprived of the use of salt.

Proposals for furnishing crushed stone and also for furnishing materials and doing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield at the regular adjourned meeting held March 15, 1897, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the Mayor's office, 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, April first 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place the said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone and for furnishing material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks, as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1897, the bidder state the prices for furnishing the following sizes, viz.: No 0 or ½ inch, No. 1 or one inch, No. 2 or two inch, and tailings or spalls, in such quantities and delivered at such places as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The stone must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be wighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct and a voucher or way bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved.

For furnishing the material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks for the remainder of the year 1897, according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner. Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets & Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be there and there present, and also make the proper record of the prices and terms upon their minutes.

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets & Sewers.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? CARSON'S GREAT DAY

The "Wild and Woolly" Town Is Prize-fight Crazy.

STRANGE GATHERING IN ITS STREETS

Everybody Was Astir Early To Be on Hand at the Big Encounter—How the Gladiators Finished Their Training.

Carson, Nev., March 17.—St. Patrick's Day! And what a day it is this year fore this remote frontier town. A great gathering, made up of the denizons of the "wild and wooly west," cowboys, the "oldest inhabitant," Indian bucks, squaws with papooses strapped to their backs, sports from the larger cities with shining silk hats and gems sparkling in their shirt fronts, were astir early this morning and soon crowded the streets, and, of course, everybody was discussing the big fight. The number of visitors is not as large as was expected, nevertheless there is probably 5,000 strangers in the city. At sunrise the Carson City Light Infantry fired a salute of 21 guns to the "Greatest day in the history of the state of Nevada." Flags were then raised on the city hall, depot, and the leading saloons. At 8:30 delegates representing Nevada Fare Bankers, the Barkeepers' Brotherhood, the Tenderfoot's Reception league, the Pugilists' Protective association and the Vigilance committee of Carson city met at the Silver Nugget saloon to be reviewed by the mayor before starting with brass bands for the respective training camps of the rival gladiators to act as their escorts to the arena.

The Principles.

The two gladiators retired early last evening and both were up bright and early for the final touches to their training. P. J. Corbett, Jim's father, arrived by one of the western specials last evening. William A. Brady met him and drove him out to the Springs where they found Jim busy entertaining a number of friends from all over the state. For everyone the big fellow had a pleasant greeting and a cheerful, confident word. In fact, Corbett never seemed in better spirits since he began training than he did on the eve of the contest. Fitzsimmons took a short jog on the road before retiring last evening. When he returned and had a rubdown he was in evidence and his conversation showed just as much faith in his winning as his rival displayed. This overwhelming confidence on both sides was a bit of a puzzle to all the sports.

The Betting.

The betting last night and this morning remained unchanged. There was plenty of Corbett money in sight, but Fitzsimmons cash was not forthcoming in sufficent quantities to make the pencillers change the odds of 6½ to 10 on the Californian. Paris mutuels, with Corbett, Green and Hawkins as the pick of the combinations, were very slow, and there were scarcely any buyers for Fitzsimmons, Smith and Flaherty. The gloves were weighed by the referee last evening in the presence of Brady and Julian. They were afterwards placed in a sealed package and locked in Stuart's safe. Corbett greeted a number of his admirers as he stood talking in front of his quarters last evening. The old collie, Ned, who has been with Corbett in all his fights, fawned on Jim, who turned to the bystanders and said: "This dog has not been near me for days, but he knows the fight is close and he wants to be in it." Then he said to the dog: "Who's going to win old boy?" and the dog barked.

The Rush for Tickets.

Stuart's headquarters assumed a land office aspect early this morning and the rush for seats gave the Texan's assistants all they could do. The opening demand was mainly for high-priced seats and the clamor for $5 stand up on the highest perch of the amphitheatre was not loud enough to become uproarious. Twenty dollar roosts were the favorite choice, although $40 per chair were in the hunt very largely. The long looked for specials from the east and west arrived last night and discharged additions to the crowd which already has severely taxed the resources of the town. But the attendance is not as large as was anticipated. Between 4,000 and $5,000 people is a careful estimate of the number who purchased tickets to see the meeting of the two men which took nearly two years and the expenditure of thousands of dollars to bring about.

Sleeping Accomodations Were Lacking.

"Where are all these people going to sleep?" asked a tall Englishman last night, who had travelled all the way from London to see the fight. His question raised a point which had not been sufficiently considered before. Every lodging house and private residence was crowded, and still the visitors came. Cots were to be had, but before morning the supply was exhausted. Storekeepers cleared space in their premises to make room for shakedowns, and even the Salvation Army headquarters were cleared out and transformed into a tamale parlor. The old agricultural pavilion has been turned into a restaurant and handouts are being served from shanties in Chinatown. The railway sidings are filled with sleepers, and every day coach that could be spared was opened to who could not find beds last night.

Harvest for Hackmen.

The hackmen before night will be rich men. They are quite as unscrupulous as their brethren in the larger cities. Last evening ex-senator John J. Ingalls yielded two dollars in exchange for a carriage ride of two hundred yards. He was rescued from the grasp of the hack driver by his friends who steered him to a place o[illegible]. The kinetoscope apparatus was guarded by three armed men last night and Pinkerton men stood at every entrance.

There Was Little Betting in London.

London, March 17.—There was little betting in sporting or other circles in London on the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, and what few wagers were made were chiefly at even money. One offer of £500 even on Fitzsimmons found no takers, and later 11 to 10 against Corbett was offered by the same bettor and accepted.

Mitchell Challenges Sullivan.

London, March 17.—Charley Mitchell has challenged John L. Sullivan to fight, and has deposited $2,500 to bind a match.

PRISON LABOR PROBLEM.

Albany, March 17.—At a conference held between the state prison commission, representatives of printing houses and organized labor unions of this state, James Ryan, representing the National Lithographers' union, stated that he had information that a bill introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Baker for the purpose of printing text books in the state prisons for poor school children is the nucleus of a scheme on the part of the American book trust to establish a large printing plant at Sing Sing prison. President Lispenard Stewart, of the commission, replied that he knew of no such scheme. The conference was called for the purpose of securing the sentiment and desires of the workingmen of the state relative to the industries which are to be carried on in the state prisons. About a dozen prominent labor leaders were present. The entire subject of employing the convicts was discussed in a general way, but the major part of the discussion was relative to the printing industry. It was shown to the prison commission that there are but thirty-five printers in the state prisons and that the establishment of a printing plant would not only be unjust to employing printers but would make skilled workmen of an undesirable element in society. The commission stated that some form of employment must be provided for the prisoners and it would gladly accept any suggestions on that subject. The representatives of organized labor presented the following rules to govern the employment of prisoners, which it was stated fully satisfied the objections of all laboring men. They are: First, that all convicts be employed in making their own wearing apparel; in doing the necessary farm work for the prisons and in making repairs and improvements. Second, that all labor in excess of what is necessary to supply the wants of the convicts be used in providing the inmates of the state insane hospitals with clothing, food, etc. Third, that all able-bodied short-term men be employed at road building. Fourth, that no United States prisoners sentenced without the state be received in a prison within the state. At the conclusion of the hearing President Stewart announced that the suggestions made by the labor leaders would be given careful consideration.

MR. GARY'S DILEMMA.

Washington, March 17.—The failure of the passage of the general deficiency bill last congress has made it necessary for the postoffice department to take extra steps to secure an appropriation to entertain representatives of all the nations of the world. In the bill was a clause asking for $200,000 to defray the expenses of the universal postal congress, which meets in Washington for about six weeks, beginning May next. As the general deficiency bill was still in conference committee at the end of the session, and the time of its passage during this session a matter of doubt, the postoffice department has prepared a draft of a bill to be substituted to congress as a separate measure asking for the $200,000 for the purpose mentioned.

Rubber Shoe War.

Providence, R. I., March 17.—The new rate of the Boston Rubber Shoe company has been met by the United States Rubber company and the discounts telegraphed the agents. They are 25, 5, 8 and 7, practically the same as those of the Boston company, the largest company outside the limits of the trust. The discounts of the Banigan company will be sent out in a day or two and are to be about the same. It is stated that the Banigan company will meet any prices of the trust, but it is not stated whether or not the trust will be underbid.

Father Murphy in Trouble.

Montreal, March 17. — Father Murphy, of gold cure fame, has been committed to the court of queens bench for trial on the charge of obtaining $5,000 under false pretenses from J. J. Franklin of Toronto, who claims that Father Murphy represented himself as having been authorized by Archbishop Corrigan and Bishop Wigger to found an institute in Newark, N. J., and that on these representations he gave Murphy $5,000. The ecclesiastics referred to denied the story.

Valuable Maganese Mines Discovered.

Washington, March 17.—Consul McDaniel, stationed at Bahia, Brazil, reports to the department the discovery of valuable maganese mines near Bahia. The ore is the richest in quantity and quality known, and it is estimated that one mine alone will yield over 1,000,000 tons of first-class ore.

Movements of Our Warships.

Washington, March 17.—The Maine and Texas have arrived at Port Royal where thay will await orders from Admiral Bunce.

A BIG SCHOOL MEETING.

public schools of the State and has, thereby, certified to its high standing.

But for us and for you, a better assurance of the advantages and the need of the changes made, is found in the reception they have met from the school public.

In session, it is an extraordinary sight, and to me, it is most surprising that children so young, hardly out of the period of infancy, should be genuinely interested in exercises distinctly educational.

The kindergarten is no longer an experiment in school work; it has its just place in the system of education as important as any other class of educational exercise, and no public school system can, today, be regarded as well equipped, which lacks this essential department.

This department in our school is conducted by an educated kinder gartner.

The High School numbers 90 enrolled with an average attendance of 73. It is a bee hive of industry, and there is taught the full High School course, approved by educational authority.

When you learn that the borough of North Plainfield, with a population of 4,245, has a High School six months old, which numbers 90, and the city of Plainfield, with a population of 13,629, has in its High School, which has existed for years, but 180, you will, I think, agree with your Board in their conviction, that the result has amply justified the establishment of our High School course, and will share their gratification at its extraordinary development.

The discipline of the school, as a whole, has been exacting; much has been demanded of the student; never before has there been done in the school such systematic work; never bafore has there been so little opportunity for shirking and evasion.

We do not, for a moment, ignore the fact that, at times, too often, we think, collisions have occurred between parents and principal; and, from time to time, complaints of various kinds have come to the attention of the Board.

Wishing to do impartial justice in all such cases, all complaints coming to the knowledge of the Board, however informally presented, they have been referred to a standing committee on grievances, which committee has patiently and carefully investigated the facts and has reported the results of such investigations to the Board.

Many complaints, upon examination, have proved to rest on no substantial foundation, or to be the result of unfortunate misunderstanding, or of an unhappy enforcement of a wise rule of discipline; in other cases, the Board has considered the criticisms to be well-founded and has taken prompt measures to correct the mistakes.

The school is far from perfect, and in this reformative year, it is not strange that misunderstandings should arise from the enacting and enforcing of rules of discipline fitted to the new order of things.

The enrollment of pupils numbers 840. This is 101 more than we reported to you one year ago, and is the extraordinary growth of a year.

This enrollment, 820, is 85 per cent. of all the children in the borough, as shown by the last school census, including all those in private schools, and those attending no school.

The average attendance has been 692 for the six months, while the average attendance for the entire preceding year was 556.

This average attendance of 692 is over 81 per cent. of the total enrollment, and these percentages compare favorably with other communities in the State.

There has been formed among the young men a uniformed cadet corps, to study military tactics and drill. This aids physical development in an interesting and useful way.

There has been established a school periodical called the "Autocrat," wholly conducted by a Board of Editors, selected from the scholars, and written by the pupils of the school. A very creditable first number of this magaine has been issued.

This is a useful and educative field, and both of these organizations are wise adjuncts to the school course and are means of education, and neither of them involves any expense to the Board or the Borough.

You have then, a fully established and equipped school, embracing all the grades appropriate to the children of the community; in form and character approved by the educational authorities of the State; worthy of your own confidence and support and creditable to the borough, and which, for the future, can be maintained in any wise hands. What does all this cost?

That, I imagine, is the vital question in your minds.

The fairest, and possibly the only practicable test of this question, is a comparison of the average cost of education here with that in other similar communities.

The State Department of Public Instruction publishes statistical tables showing the average cost of education per pupil in the various school districts of the State, based upon the enrolled attendance.

The tables about to be published by that Department, of statistics for the year ending with the summer of 1896, show the following cost in the following named places:

I do not give the published cost for North Plainfield because we have increased the cost here, but I have made up our figures from the annual report just submitted to you by the District Clerk, and I give Plainfield's from capita cost for this year, taken from their late report:

Bloomfield	$19.89	Ridgewood	$17.69
Cranford	$19.15	Rutherford	$26.33
East Orange	$22.80	Somerville	$12.44
Englewood	$11.39	Summit	$25.79
Montclair	$34.49	Westfield	$17.93
Morristown	$21.19	Plainfield, (this year)	$21.34
Orange	$20.90	North Plainfield (this year)	$17.62

The principal item of expense of school administration is the amount paid for female teachers.

I will give from the Department's tables the average amounts paid in each of the places named in the preceding list and for the same year, except that as to North Plainfield, I will give the amount paid this last year:

Bloomfield	$537.70	Ridgewood	$472.80
East Orange	$634.00	Somerville	$450.00
Englewood	$535.90	Summit	$629.10
Morristown	$586.20	Plainfield	$680.80

Measured by the standards set by these tables, the cost of education here is low.

Somerville alone, of the places named, is below us in the expense of its system, and Somerville has not adjoining it a complete and developed system of schools to compel it into a rivalry for excellence.

You cannot ignore the fact that in this, as in other things, we are in competition with the city of Plainfield. I say it without jealously, but with envy, that Plainfield, in this respect, has heretofore distinctly led us; I know the excellence of its school system; I know the high estimate put upon it by the school authorities of the State, and it is because Plainfield is so good, that we must grow better, or suffer in the general comparison between the places.

If you are not weary of tables the following may be interesting to you as showing the total amounts paid for educational purposes in the places named above, for the year referred to, and in this as with the others, I give this past year's figures for North Plainfield:

	Amount spent.	To educate.
Bloomfield	$34,427.53	1,382
Cranford	7,761.82	353
East Orange	100,953.79	2,909
Englewood	18,385.17	469
Montclair	108,586 71	2,298
Morristown	26,770.54	1,168
Orange	98,010.82	2,548
Ridgewood	25,908.10	467
Rutherford	24,553.56	777
Somerville	14,621.59	843
Summit	17,095.63	449
Westfield	14,154 53	555
Plainfield	63,047.18	2,208
North Plainfield	18,095.53	840

Last year you voted to the school $7,500, of which $750 was for free text books and supplies, (a duty imposed by law), and $6,750 towards teachers' salaries and current expenses. This appropriation did not contemplate a radical change in the school course, nor an increase of more than one hundred pupils.

This year we ask you to vote us $9,750 to cover $850 for free text books and supplies; $900 to paint the building and point up the walls, and $8,000 toward teachers' salaries and current expenses; the voting of $900 for painting and repairs is but a business precaution for the preservation of your property, and should require no more than that you should know that the repairs are needed. Of this necessity we assure you.

The increase in the appropriation for salaries and current expenses from $6,750 to $8 000 is but $1,250, about equal to the salaries of teachers for the increase of over 100 in the membership of the school, so that this is not an extraordinary increase, but a necessary normal advance to meet the growth of the school.

At the average cost per pupil for education in North Plainfield given in the table above, to wit: $17.62. the increase asked for to care for these 100 new pupils should be, at least $1,762, while we ask but $1,250.

If you consider the changes made in the school as a wise progress, and if you believe from the statistics quoted that your Board has been not only not extravagant, but, on the contrary, economical in the conduct of your school, you will, I am confident, be glad to vote the reasonable appropriations we have recommended.

North Plainfield, March 16th, '97.

For the Board of Education,

S. St. J. McCutchen.

President.

The following is the budget as reported by the clerk: For current expenses, $8,000; for repairing and painting, $9,000; for free text books and supplies, $850.

Paul Loizeaux and J. C. Peck were the tellers chosen and they announced the following vote: For current expenses, 150 ballots cast, of which number 139 were for the amount named, ten was $7,000 and one for $15,000; for repairing and painting, 145 ballots cast, 138 for the stated amount, six for $800, and one for $500; for free text books and supplies, 150 ballots cast, 144 for the amount named, one for $1,000, one for $800, two for $750, and two for $700.

Total ballots cast, 202, of which number H. A. McGee received 148, G. D. Hallock 134, G. F. Brown 151, J. H. Van Winkle 51, Ezra Lewis 57, S. B. Joseph 40, J. H. Valiant. E. A. Overton, A. V. D. Honeyman and R. M. Fountain each received one vote.

The chairman announced that Messrs. McGee, Halleck and Brown were elected trustees for three years, and the victors were given hearty applause.

H. A. McGee stated that inasmuch as the president's report was an excellent one he would suggest that two hundred and fifty copies be printed in pamphlet form. The number was changed and on a motion five hundred copies were ordered printed.

After a vote of thanks was extended to the retiring members of the board the meeting adjourned.

The new board will meet next Monday evening for the purpose of organizing and transacting such business as may come before them.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—It is expected that work will be started on the new East Third Street chapel in a short time.

—Meeting of Christian Alliance tomorrow evening at 7:45 at the parlors of W. C. T. U., Watchung avenue.

—Marshals Smalley and Kliner, of the borough, went on duty last night for the first. They found everything quiet and no arrests were made.

—John Newman, who was fined for fighting, was not arrested in Sullivan's saloon on West Third street, but in front of it. Joe Sullivan says he was not there at the time.

—Tomorrow "only" Thursday, March 18th, Van Emburgh will sell colored table oil cloth at 12 cents per yard; shirting calicoes at 3 cents per yard; bleached twilled toweling at 3 cents per yard; clothes pins, 5 cents per hundred.

—If you have never succeeded in getting glasses that improved your vision, don't you think it advisable to drop in and see us? It will cost you nothing, unless you choose to give us an order. Leech, Stiles & Co., at 107 East Front street, every Thursday.

—Mrs. Robert Dodds, 840 West Fourth street, has been the recipient of one of the $100 Pierce Special Bicycles out of the twenty which are given out each month for Sunlight soap wrappers. This bicycle is on exhibition this week in Fred. W. Duan's window.

—At the drill of the North Plainfield cadet corps, Monday evening, in Saengerbund hall, rifles were used for the first time. The guns were obtained through the kindness of Prof. John Leal and will be used by the cadets until the arms arrive from the state authorities.

—The funeral services of the late John C. Berry were held from the residence on Craig place yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. C. E. Herring officiated and spoke comforting words regarding the departed. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Interment was in Hillside.

—The fancy wood work for the top of the cases of Randolph's pharmacy has been received and the work of removing the old fountain will begin tomorrow. The new fountain will be received the first of next week and it will take about ten days to put it in place and thoroughly equip it for use.

—The ten-men bowling team from the Cleveland Cyclers were defeated last evening by the bowlers of the Lyceum Cyclers on the alleys of the Plainfield Catholic Club. The score was 1,419 to 1,316 in favor of the Lyceum bowlers. A return game will be rolled on the Ulrich alleys Friday evening.

A TEACHER'S DEATH.

MISS ELIZABETH GINN PASSES TO A HIGHER REALM.

She was Only Ill for a Week and Not Considered Seriously So—The Borough School Adjourns Out of Respect for Her.

The sudden death of Miss Elizabeth R. Ginn, teacher of the fourth grade A class, in the North Plainfield Public High School, which occurred this morning about 5 o'clock at her boarding place, No. 109 Central avenue, was a great shock to a large circle of friends and acquaintances who did not know of her serious illness.

Miss Ginn was taken ill about one week ago and was obliged to give up her duties at school. Her illness developed into pneumonia and toward the last she failed rapidly. However, those who were with her did not realize that the end was so near.

When the sad news reached the school this morning, Superintendent Warde dismissed the scholars and there will be no school until Monday. As soon as possible the teachers met in the assembly room and took action regarding the death of their associate. It was decided that resolutions should be drafted expressing the sympathy of those with whom the departed had been associated.

John H. Van Winkle, Jr., made a motion that inasmuch as so many of the scholars had been under the instruction of Miss Ginn and had learned to love her for her many excellent qualities, that it would be proper to send a tribute of flowers to the funeral. This motion was unanimously adopted.

Miss Ginn was born in Maine and came to Plainfield about fourteen years ago when she was secured as a teacher for the primary department of the North Plainfield Public High School. She taught that department for years and with great success. She was loved by every scholar, and her qualifications for the position of teacher made her one of the best of instructors. She seemed to be peculiarly adapted to the teaching of children, and she loved her work. When Superintendent Warde took charge of the school a year ago he changed Miss Ginn's work and gave her charge of the fourth grade A class, and in this department she had great success.

She lived with her cousin, Mrs. Winn, of Grove s reet, and when she was taken ill she was removed to the home of Mrs. Runyon, of Central avenue, where she died. This change was made owing to the fact that there was a case of scarlet fever at her cousin's home.

This morning Superintendent A. D. Warde and a number of his teachers called at the place where their associate died and arrangements for the funeral were made. A short service will be held this evening from the house, 109 Central avenue, at 6 o'clock, and interment will be at Bucksport, Me., on Saturday.

East Fifth Street Improvement.

A thorough scraping and the use of crushed stone is putting East Fifth street in a much better condition than it was several weeks ago. It is now possible for vehicles to pass through there without becoming stuck in the vast sea of mud that was the principal feature of the road. A gang of Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been working there this week and the improvement they are making to the condition of the roadbed has caused a general rejoicing among all the residents of that part of the city.

Woman's Missionary Meeting.

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon, March 19th, at 3 o'clock in the church. Mrs. Harriet Newell Jones, of Philadelphia, will deliver her address, "Beautiful Story-Tellers." All are cordially invited to listen to Mrs. Jones, who is herself one of the beautiful story-tellers. Holders of mite boxes are requested to bring or send them to the meeting.

Wants a New Trial.

Hugo C. Fett, of Cranford, made application yesterday in the Union County Court, at Elizabeth, for a new trial of the damage suit which he lost against John Potter, editor of the Cranford Chronicle. Judge McCormick heard arguments by Judge Gilhooly for Felt, and ex Senator Marsh for Potter, and then reserved decision.

Muslin Underwear.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday March 18th, 19th, 20th, VanEmburgh will sale a special line of fine muslin underwear at special prices. This line of underwear is well known to the ladies of Plainfield for quality and finish and the prices at which they will be marked will be astonishing. 2 t

CHRISTIAN WOMAN DEAD.

MISS LUTHERE FITZ RANDOLPH UNABLE TO SURVIVE HER ILLS.

The Deceased Unable to Take Nourishing Food for the Last Seven Weeks—Was an Active Member of First Baptist Church

After two years of the most intense suffering from a complication of diseases, Miss Luthere Fitz Randolph, aged fifty-nine years, daughter of the late Edward Fitz Randolph, passed away yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. During the past nine weeks she had been confined to the bed, and for the past seven weeks she was unable to take any sustenance that would nourish the body.

Miss Randolph was born at 321 West Second street and lived there her entire life. Since the death of her parents she and her sister, Miss Mary Randolph lived together. Mrs. L. W. Randolph, who is a niece, also lived at the same house.

She was a member of the First Baptist church, and was a most regular attendant whenever able. Her Christian life was an exemplary one, and her trust was firm to the end. She will be greatly missed by those who have been associated with her and by her many friends.

The funeral services will be held from the house Saturday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Yerkes will officiate.

MISS HALL'S READINGS.

The Second of the Series to Take Place Tomorrow.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall will give an informal talk on "Moliere, his Life and Works," together with recitations from "Le Misanthrope," "Le Tartufe," etc., tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the house of Mrs. Rowland Cox, on Seventh street. Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Prescott Hall of this city, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. Her many friends are awaiting with interest her series of drawing-room talks and recitations, of which the following ladies are patronesses: Mrs. Warren Ackerman, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. John T. Baker, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Miss Kenyon, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. John Doull Miller, Mrs. Laurence Myers, Mrs. David W. Pond, Miss Tweedy, Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. Francis Wood.

Engaged.

The question is not are you engaged, but have you an engagement for Thursday evening, March 25th? If not, plan to go to the concert to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall by the New York University Musical Clubs, which are as follows: Glee club, mandolin club and banjo club. The New York University Musical Clubs have made a great hit this season and have won the praise of the public and press wherever they have given their concerts. Just make a note of this date, March 25th, and be sure to attend the concert. Tickets on sale at the city drug stores.

Chancery Clerk Thompson Married.

Louis A. Thompson, clerk of the New Jersey Court of Chancery, was married to Miss E. D. Kissam, at the Hotel Winthrop, New York city, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Thompson served three terms in the State Senate. He retired from the Senate to accept the Chancery clerkship, tendered him by Governor Griggs. He is a popular citizen of Somerville, but resides during the summer at Lake Hopatcong, where he has a beautiful home.

Harness Makers Organize.

The harness makers of the State met at Elizabeth, yesterday, and formed what is to be known as the "Harness Makers Protective Association of the State of New Jersey." E. Stevens, of Somerville, was elected president, and John H. Sayres, of this city, secretary. The next regular meeting will be held April 14th, at 3 p. m., at Van Arsdale's Hotel in Somerville.

Yale Musicians Coming.

The Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will give a concert in the Casino on the evening of April 20th, under the auspices of the Plainfield Yale Club. The club is assured of a hearty reception in this city, particularly as Raymond A. McGee, of this city, is a member of the Glee Club.

Played Too Near the Fire.

Six-year old Amelia Ditzel, the only daughter of Overseer of the Poor Augustus Ditzel, of Cranford, died at the home of her parents yesterday in frightful agony, having been burned on Monday night by her clothing igniting from a fire in the yard.

A Contract Case.

The contract case of John Hensey against George H. Leland was tried in Justice Nodyne's court this afternoon. Hensey claims that Leland owes him $50 for painting his house. Lawyers Swackhamer and Williams represent Hensey.

DROPPED OUT OF SIGHT.

Robert Emmet Scully Drew His Money From a Savings Bank, Went to Camden and Has Now Disappeared.

Robert Emmet Scully dropped out of sight on Wednesday, March 3, and what appears to be a disappearance for which there is no explanation.

Scully is a bright young man, twenty-two years old, and a stenographer. He had a good place in the United States Leather Company's office in New York City. His parents live in Somerville. He always had a passion for flowers and was formerly employed as a florist in Montclair, and in Richmond, Va., so that it was no surprise to his relatives and friends when he announced several weeks ago that he intended leaving New York for Philadelphia, to accept a place with Henry A. Dreer & Sons, florists. Later investigation shows that he had secured such a place.

Young Scully drew his savings, amounting to about $600, from the Seamen's Bank in New York, and reached Camden on Monday evening, March 1st. He engaged board at 636 Washington street, and remained there until Wednesday, March 3d. On that day, in the afternoon, he left, remarking to his landlady that he intended getting his bicyle fixed and would also deposit some money in bank.

After leaving his boarding-house he dropped out of sight as though the earth had opened and swallowed him. His brother has enlisted the aid of policemen and detectives in both Camden and Philadelphia, but no trace of the missing young man can be found. Three years ago he had a severe attack of typhoid fever, from which he never fully recovered. It is feared that he has been stricken with illness and has not been able to disclose his identity, or that he has been foully dealt with by robbers.

The missing young man was five feet ten inches in height, weighed 160 pounds, had brown, curly hair and was smooth shaven. He wore a black cutaway coat, a black derby hat and a dark blue overcoat. His relatives would be glad to secure any information of his whereabouts.

BEAT NELLIE BLY.

"A personally conducted trip around the world in eighty minutes" was the rather novel form of entertainment to which the members of the congregation of the Seventh-day Baptist church was invited last evening. After everybody was seated the voyage was begun via stereopticon, directed by Charles Naegle. A description of the various places visited was read by Mrs. William C. Hubbard.

From New York the travelers were conveyed over the Atlantic in one of the big ocean steamers to Liverpool and from there through England, Ireland, and France. Prussia and Russia were visited and a short stop made on the sunny shores of Italy. The Holy Land and Egypt were the next countries to be visited. After a short intermission, in which the fares were were collected, the travellers continued through India, China and then down to New Zealand, Australia, and the Sandwich Islands. San Francisco was next touched upon and some of the beauties of that part of the American continent seen. Then the party came east and made short stops in Washington and Philadelphia, after which the Royal Blue Line train conveyed them to their home. The lights were turned on and the crowd departed homeward.

POSSIBLE CHANGE BY LEHIGH.

The Road, it is Said, May Use the Jersey Central Terminals.

It was rumored among railroad men in Jersey City yesterday that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company would presently change its terminal from the Pennsylvania Railroad depot in Jersey City to the depot of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The Lehigh formerly ran into Communipaw over the Central tracks from Newark. No official in Jersey City of any of the roads would admit the change was to be made.

UNCONSCIOUS OF MURDER

Guiseppi Chalbi Not Told of His Terrible Predicament for Two Weeks and Then He Broke Down and Wept Bitterly.

While the news that Guiseppi Chalbi one of the Italians living at Bound Brook, had murdered his wife was heard from one end of Jersey to the other, the man who was probably the most interested in the matter never learned that murder had been committed until last Thursday. The man in question was Chalbi, the man who did the deed.

It will be remembered that the crime was committed on the morning of Thursday, February 25th. Chalbi took to the mountains and was finally captured in Summit as he stepped from one of the local trains on the D. L. & W. railroad. He was conveyed to the Somerset county jail in Somerville early next morning. He knew, of course, that he had stabbed his wife and that that was the crime for which he had been arrested. He was allowed to think, however, that his wife was still alive in a hospital in Newark suffering from the effects of the wound he had given her.

Chalbi was given no chance to see the newspapers after his crime, and it is doubtful if he could have read them had he been able to secure one. He was somewhat downcast of course at being locked up, but the idea of being a murderer was far from his mind. Thursday, the authorities at the jail decided that the time had come when it was necessary to inform him of the charge on which he was held. He had already gotten one of the deputy sheriffs at the jail to write a letter for him to his wife.

When the warden broke the news to him, there was a pathetic scene in the old building where the jail is located. It seems that while Chalbi was angry with his wife at the time he struck her with the knife, yet he loved her somewhat in his own way. When he was told that he had been the means of the death of his wife he wept aloud. He fell on his cell floor and sobbed and groaned. He knew the fate of the murderer and the thought of death on the gallows as well as the fact that he had sent his spouse into eternity effectually unnerved the Italian. Since he received the news he has been in a state of collapse and terror.

A. O. H. DANCED THE NIGHT AWAY.

The twenty-third annual ball of Division No. 4, Ancient Order Hibernians, was held at the Cycle Academy last evening, and it was by far the most successful of any previous ones. The large auditorium was filled with merry dancers to the number of about five hundred. The grand march was started at 10 o'clock and it was the most unique march. The figures were new to a large extent and were very pretty.

M. J. Kane was the general manager, and J. T. Carty was the floor manager. The assistant floor managers were P. J. Reville, D. J. Shea, W. B. Smith, P. J. Gleason, and the reception committee was composed of F. Cullen, E. Ryan, P. Casey, T. Trainor, Edward Birmingham and J. J. Goff.

It was very early this morning when the last of the dancers left for home and they all agreed that they had enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Pleasant Meeting of Old Friends.

J. R. Gates, press agent and interlocutor of the Hi Henry minstrel show which appeared in Music Hall yesterday, was pleasantly surprised when he went back of the scenes yesterday and recognized John O'Brien, the property man of the theatre, as an old friend and co-worker in Cleveland, Ohio. Ten years ago Mr. Gates was employed in a big dry goods store in the Ohio city where, at the same time, Mr. O'Brien was working as an errand boy. There was a mutual recognition between the old friends, a warm shaking of hands and later on an interesting chat in which the times when they were together were reviewed. Mr. Gates is one of the best interlocutors that ever appeared in Plainfield.

A tramp who was riding on an eastbound freight train fell from the car at noon yesterday at the Main street crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Rahway and was cut to pieces. There was nothing in his clothing to give a clue to his identity.

Street Car Jumped the Track.

Car No. 13 of the street railway, jumped the track last evening about 10 o'clock on the switch near Somerset street. The car was soon placed on the rails again and there was no damage.

A MUCH WANTED ITALIAN

Convicted of Selling Liquor Illegally, He Has Failed to Put in an Appearance for Sentence—To be Arrested.

Carmino Collucci is in an unpleasant position, an exceedingly unpleasant position in fact. A suit for $10,000 stares him in the face, while he is also wanted immediately by the Plainfield police for his non-appearance in the city court for sentence.

It will be remembered that sometime ago, Collucci, who is an Italian liquor dealer in Weftfield, and has a license to collect orders for beer and then deliver it, was arrested by the Plainfield police for selling beer in this city from his wagon without having it ordered beforehand. There were two charges preferred against Collucci and he was tried before City Judge DeMeza on one of them. He was found guilty and then pleaded guilty on the other at the request of his counsel. Collucci was held under $100 bonds to appear before the City Judge for sentence. The Rising Sun Brewing Company went security for him for that amount, and he was released to appear last Saturday morning for sentence.

Saturday morning came, but not so the Italian. His counsel, A. J David, from the law offices of Frederick C. Marsh, of Elizabeth, appeared and the Judge ordered Collucci to appear on Tuesday morning or forfeit his bond. Tuesday morning came but there was nothing to be seen of the offender. His lawyer was disgusted with his actions. After giving Collucci a good chance to come, the Judge declared the bond forfeited to the city and ordered the officers to arrest Collucci on sight and lock him up until the Judge should be ready to sentence him.

There has not been a sign of Collucci and it looks as if he had left suddenly and forgotten to leave his new address. The suit against him for $10,000, which was brought by Corparation Counsel Craig A. Marsh for Mrs. James Hunter, as was told exclusively in yesterday's Press, is said to have something to do with Collucci's mysterious disappearance. While he had a good trade at his place, Collucci was by no means a rich man and the amount of action has completely unnerved him.

He is also wanted by the representatives of the Brewing Company for forfeiting the bond.

AN EVENING OF GOOD MUSIC.

An Admirable Programme Arranged For Presentation Saturday Evening.

A chance to hear a really good concert and at the same time lend a hand to the treasury of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association, which is sadly in need of funds, will be given on Saturday evening when a benefit concert for the association will be given in Y. M. C. A. hall. Some of the best musical talent in the city is enlisted in the cause and the excellence of the programme is assured.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamlin Fassett, soprano of the Crescent Avenue church choir, will have her first public appearance in Plainfield at the concert, Charles A. Lewis, the well-known basso of the same choir, will also take part. Miss Lavinia L French, one of Plainfield's most talented musicians, will give several piano solos. Prof. P. Ludwig Conde, violinist, is too well known to Plainfield to need any introduction. Jere M. Cobb, reader, will contribute his efforts to make the concert a success. He has appeared in this city once before and made a very favorable impression on those who heard him. There will also be selections by a male quartette composed of Robert M. Clark, Elmer E. Runyon, Charles A. Lewis, and Arthur A. Freeman.

Narrow Escapes from Death.

William H. Crampton, late of Sherman's Army, will relate tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Hall thrilling experiences in connection with his life. Mr. Crampton has been all over the world, and by sea and land has had wonderful experiences, and many times has barely escaped death. The admission is free to ladies as well as men.

Sadly Afflicted.

Miss Clara King, eldest daughter of Abram King, of Chatham street, who recently recovered from an attack of scarlet fever, is now confined to her home with pneumonia. She has the sympathy of a host of friends.

Lawyer Swackhamer to Talk.

A special programme of music will be rendered at the meeting to be held at Reform Hall this evening. Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer will make an address.

SLEW VALUABLE HENS,

THE ATTACKING FORCE WAS DOGS OF A HIGH DEGREE.

Walter C. Williams alleges that Charles P. Wright's Canines Killed Thirty-five Valuable Fowls and He Wants $105.

There have been chicken cases galore tried in the local courts in which the "culid gemmen" have figured until they excite little or no comment, but this morning before Justice Mosher a case involving the taking off of thirty-five head of poultry was a little out of the ordinary.

Walter C. Williams is a chicken fancier living on upper East Front street. The hens that he raises are not of ordinary dunghill variety but are of the bluest blood known in hendom; they are prized highly and are used only for breeding purposes, the idea of utilizing a plump one for a pot-boiler being as foreign to the owner as would be preposterous the proposition to use Nancy Hanks in a harness with a mule working on a Piscataway farm. But that does not alter the circumstances that they were slaughtered one day without regard for their high caste in the circles of the barnyard maintained by Mr. Williams.

Not afar from the poultry yard aforesaid is the dog kennels of Charles P. Wright. Now Mr. Wright is just as high-toned in his ideas of canine flesh as Mr. Williams is in the matter of hens. He has a number of dogs constantly in his possession that are valuable for their high breeding. They are confined in kennels most of the time, and petted and cared for with much more attention than many a chubby youngster who toddles and talks. But like all living things of high degree, the dogs need exercise and recreation, and it is the custom of Mr. Wright to liberate the dogs every morning and let them romp about his place.

One fateful morning, however, Mr. Williams alleges, the dogs gamboled in proximity of his barnyard wherein peaceably scratched and clucked his valuable fowls. The appearance of the two dogs caused consternation among the feathered tribe and there was a great ado in frightened cackles and flapping of wings. The sporting blood of the dogs was aroused by the exhibition of frenzy on the part of the hens and without further formalities they proceeded to enter the midst of the fowls and slay thirty-three of the finest, or, in fact, all who did not take refuge on the high fences or in tree tops. Then they lazily trotted back to their kennels.

Unfortunately for the dogs, however, Mrs. Williams heard the distressing cackles of the hens and she started for the barnyard just in time to see the dogs disappear. The sight that met her eyes when she surveyed the work of devastation wrought by the canines was a sorry one, for the poultry rendezvous was literally covered with dead hens.

Mr. Williams journeyed to his neighbor's house and wanted a settlement, but the latter refused to settle. Then he commenced a suit for $105 damages, in tort, for the loss of the thirty-five blue blooded hens. The case was tried this morning and the Justice will render his decision next Monday.

UNABLE TO PAY HIS FARE.

He mounted the steps of the forward cars as the train pulled out of the station only to find that he was between two express cars and that the doors were locked, so he had to spend the evening on the platform of the car. Such was the story that Joseph Kiely, a painter, traveling from Atlanta, Ga., to Jersey City in search of work, told in the city court when he was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza on the charge of trespassing on the cars of the Jersey Central railroad.

Kiely was arrested early this morning on the platform between two express cars on the Philadelphia train due here at 2:14 o'clock. He had his grip with him that contained the various articles used in his trade and several letters of recommendation. He was locked up and brought before the City Judge this morning and told his story. His appearance seemed to confirm his story and so the Judge suspended sentence on him. He said he had been perfectly willing to pay his fare had he only climbed up on the right platform. He had the necessary money to pay it.

Property Set on Fire.

In accordance with previous customs the trees and shrubbery on the mountains back of Plainfield were set fire to last evening. It made a very pretty sight from this city. The watchman at the Mountain Park Inn was obliged to keep a close watch on the fire as it was quite near the building.

AFTER THE BIG MILI

Corbett Determined for Another Go at Fitz.

WHAT THE FIGHT DEMONSTRATED

The Californian the Greatest Boxer in the World and Fitz Can Hit Him ---A Talk with the Two Principals.

Carson, Nev., March 18.—Corbett is very blue this morning over his defeat, but says that he was fairly beaten. He says he is determined to again meet Fitzsimmons and is confident that he can whip him. Brady has deposited $2,500 in gold as an earnest of his willingness to back Corbett for $20,000 for another fight. On the other hand, joy reigns supreme at the ranch of the new champion. Fitzsimmons is naturally highly elated at the result, but he makes an effort to conceal his real feelings and says that the outcome was no surprise to him, as he had never lost confidence in his ability to win. This afternoon Fitzsimmons and his party will drive into Carson to get the purse money and the side bet. Gov. Sadler and members of the legislature are very well pleased with the workings of the law. Only a few of the sports have left town, and those who remain, especially those who staked their dollars on Fitz, are enjoying themselves to the full extent of the law. Old-timers liken the scenes in Carson to those in boom times in a new mining camp.

When time was called yesterday afternoon for the big fight there were probably 4,500 spectators present, including forty women. To avoid any serious trouble, the men were all searched before entering the arena and no weapons were allowed to be carried in. Among the spectators whose appearance was greeted with wild cheers was John L. Sullivan. During the fight Fitzsimmons broke his left thumb and Corbett lost a tooth. The close of the fight was a scene of wild excitement.

Arrival of the Principals.

Fitzsimmons drove down to the arena with his wife. He entered his dressing room as chipper as a schoolboy, having slept ten hours and taken a hearty breakfast of roast chicken. When Mrs. Fitzsimmons entered the arena she was received with cheers and handclapping. She took a seat in a box on the west side of the ring close to her husband's corner. She was received by Lew Houseman, official timekeeper for Fitzsimmons. As Fitz entered and before he reached the platform, his wife left her seat and gave him a hug and a kiss. Corbett brought his two collie mascots with him. He entered the ring a few minutes after Fitz had taken to his corner. Both the fighters were loudly cheered. Fitz wore a dressing gown of blue with purple curlycues over it. Corbett was clad in a dark brown dressing gown. Stripped, Fitzsimmons wore blue black trunks with the American flag for a belt; black shoes and socks. Corbett wore red trunks and white socks

The Finish Blows.

In the fourteenth round Fitzsimmons, after several wild leads, got his left in on Jim's stomach with terrific force. Jim doubled up and came forward into a second left on the jaw and the battle was over. Corbett fell on his knees, crawled toward the ropes, with his right hand across his breast and his left stretched out as if to grasp the lower rope for support. His face wore an agonized expression pitiable to behold. Fitzsimmons stepped quickly back to his corner, where he stood surrounded by his seconds. Referee Siler stood over Corbett with both hads uplifted and slowly and in a loud voice counted the seconds. At seven Jim made a desperate and convulsive effort to raise himself to his feet. It was of no use, and his head dropped down until the referee reached the fatal number. Siler threw his hands up at ten and made his way quickly out of the ring. A scene of the most indescribable confusion followed. Fitzsimmons was quickly surrounded by a crowd who burst through the ropes and the Australian danced about for a few seconds. Corbett was assisted to his feet by McVey and White. The ring was crowded in an instant and it was impossible to clear it. Wild rumors and cries of "foul" were heard for a few minutes, but they quickly died out when it became known that Fitzsimmons had won a fair fight.

The crowd on the platform was cleared partially by the officials and Corbett seeing Fitzsimmons through a break in the crowd, made a wild dash at the Australian and led for his head with both hands. Fitzsimmons dropped his hands by his side and as Corbett came in the Australian twisted his head around Corbett's arms, never raising his hands. Corbett was greatly excited and shouted madly: "Only let me fight him a few more rounds. Let me go Brady." Brady rushed up to Jim, put his arms around his neck and tried to force the bewildered ex-champion back. Martin Julian and Stenzler wrenched themselves in between the pugilists. Fitz still keeping up his negative attitude. Corbett cried out hysterically: "Oh, let me go, Billy Brady, let me at him. Only let me fight him a few more rounds. I tell you to let me go, Billy Brady." Brady hugged his friend down to his shoulder and with tears in his eyes said: "You can fight him again, you can fight him again. I'll back you for twenty thousand to-morrow. Come with me." After a long struggle, Corbett was quieted down and his dressing gown was thrown over his shoulders. Meanwhile the Australian champion had jumped lightly down the steps from his corner and his wife fervently kissed his blood-stained face. The crowd cheered Bob as he walked in the procession to his dressing room. In return Bob waved his little flag above his head at each fresh volley of cheers. Once inside he quickly removed all traces of the battle and after a few minutes he left the arena and took a seat in a buggy with his wife holding the reins and a happy smile on her face.

Won in the Simplest Manner.

The great contest was won in the simplest manner and the knockout was the result of one unwary move on the part of Corbett. The fight was clean and speedy. It demonstrated two facts—that Corbett is the cleverest boxer of his weight in the world, and that Fitzsimmons is able to hit him. The California boy smothered the Cornishman with left jabs in the face and right and left body blows. Fitz's most effective attack was a semi-fake left swing, followed with a quick half-arm hook. The battle, as predicted, was fought on purely scientific and almost new principles. Neither of the men took any advantage of the privileges allowed them in the London prize ring rules as there was very little hitting in clinches. Corbett made no attempt to bring around his right in breaking away, probably because Fitz held up his elbows too high. Frequently Bob worked Jim into a corner and reached for him right and left with blows that would win any championship battle if they had landed. Fitz himself admits that Corbett shuffled and side-stepped his way to safety in a manner which simply dazed him. "I never saw such a clever man in my life," said Fitzsimmons last night. "He got away from me time and time again when I thought I had him dead to rights. I knew I could wear him out and I kept coming along until my opportunity arrived. He was weak in the last round and all his cleverness could not keep him out of that left punch, under the heart. The only blow that really worried me was the one which split my lip. The others I never felt. He fought fair and hereafter he may have my respect if he continues to merit it."

Corbett's Version.

Corbett's version of his own Waterloo did not vary greatly from Fitz's. "I made a mistake in not keeping away," was the way he put it. "Fitz I knew to be a terrible puncher, but I never calculated on his being able to reach me. If the sixth round had lasted ten seconds longer I would have landed him to a certainty. His nose was clogged with blood and his legs were wobbling. The gong sounded just as I was about to plug him with my right and end the battle. He recuperated wonderfully, and I stayed away from him until I thought he was about right for another drubbing at short range. My neglect in not standing off when he tapped me on the cheek in the fourteenth lost me the championship. That heart punch simply choked me up. I could not breathe or move for fifteen seconds and it was several minutes befor I realized that I had committed a breach of etiquette in trying to follow up my opponent after he put me out. I meant it when I said I would be his friend hereafter. He whipped me fair and square, but I don't think he is the best man yet and we will have another go if money can bring him into the ring."

The Minor Fights.

In the minor fights Hawkins put Flaherty out with a left swing four seconds after the bell tapped for first round. Green defeated Smith in the twelfth round.

Jackson Wants To Fight Fitz.

London, March 18.—Peter Jackson, the colored heavyweight pugilist, in an interview with a representative of the United Associated Presses, speaking of Mitchell's challenge to Fitzsimmons, said that it need not be seriously considered, as both Mitchell and Sullivan were dead ones in the matter of fighting for the heavyweight championship. This being the case, he said, he was the only man to challenge the winner, which he would be willing to do if a match could be arranged by the National Sporting club, in whose hands he had left all of his arrangements for matches. "I am willing to fight at Carson City, he said."

EXCHANGE OF ISLANDS.

Reported Arrangement Between Great Britain and Italy.

Paris, March 18.—The Echo de Paris says it understands that Italy is on the eve of ceding to Great Britain the island of Pentellaria, situated sixty miles southwest of Sicily, and about half way between the coast of Africa and the Sicilian coast, in exchange for the island of Perim, off the Arabian coast, in the strait of Bab-el-Mandeb, at the entrance of the Red sea. The island of Perim, belonging to Great Britain, is a barren rock about five miles long on which turtle shells are taken, and the island of Pentellaria has an area of fifty-eight square miles, a population of about 7,000 persons, produces fine fruits, and has a convenient port, Oppidolo, at its northwest point. The Echo de Paris expresses the hope that the powers will interfere and refuse to permit the transfer of the islands.

Posted as Missing.

London, March 18.—The British bark Lord Dufferin, Capt. Roberts, from Montevideo for New York, has been posted at Lloyds as missing.

Capital Punishment Retained.

New Haven, Conn., March 18.—The senate yesterday voted down the bill to abolish capital punishment.

CLOSE CALL FOR JACK TAR.

I was mate on the Lovely Lou of Bangor, and we had been on our way to South America for about four weeks. The wind had left the ship during the last day of this period, and we were dipping our peak to a lolling swell that seemed to come from nowhere and return to the same place without making a ripple on the blue surface of the ocean.

Suddenly there came a splash, and the cook ran to where I was standing on the poop deck, crying that one of the sailors had tumbled overboard. The Lou had no way, and I laughed at the idea of him drowning, telling the cook to throw him a rope, walking to the rail as I did so. The sailor was swimming about the quarter enjoying his bath when I suddenly saw an ominous black fin make its appearance a hundred yards or so from the ship. I yelled for the rope, and as I yelled I saw the fin move toward the sailor, cutting the water like a knife. I knew that unless the man was taken out quickly he would be devoured, and rushed to the cabin grating to get a line. Seizing a piece of rope I hastened to the rail just in time to see the form of an immense shark turn on its side to seize the sailor. As it did so there was an instant's glimpse of a long brown body, and then the water was lashed into a sea of yeasty foam, the shark seemingly being in trouble. I threw the line, and in a moment the sailor was aboard, scared out of his wits, but safe and sound. The threshing in the water still continuing, we proceeded to investigate, and directly we were able to see that the shark had been pinned by a large swordfish, the sword running through the jaws of the shark in such a manner as to prevent the fish from opening them. Whether the shark's antagonist had deliberately attacked the shark we know not, but its timely and unexpected appearance saved the sailor's life beyond a doubt, as another instant would have sent the teeth of the shark into the body of the man.—New Orleans Democrat.

No Cause for Alarm.

The attendant who had thoughtlessly laid his hand on the arm of the Sultan's chair jumped back in alarm, exclaiming:

"What is it? An earthquake?"

"Not that I know of," replied the Sultan.

"Possibly, your Majesty has chills and fever?"

"No. I know what you have reference to. I've read about it in the newspapers. What you felt was the quivering of my uncertain sovereignty. You needn't pay any attention to it. It's the same old totter."—Washington Star.

Death in a Love Letter.

Miss Helen Musgrave of Cameron township, found death in a letter to her lover. While moistening the back of the envelope preparatory to sealing it the young girl's tongue was slightly lacerated, which resulted in blood poisoning, from which she died on Sunday.—Philadelphia Record.

Women Less Susceptible Than Men.

A series of hypnotic experiments just completed demonstrates the surprising fact that women are less susceptible to hypnotism than men. Inasmuch as man is supposed to be the stronger of the two, both in mind and body, it is hard to find either a scientific of a physical explanation of what seems to be an undoubted truth. It is claimed by those who conducted the experiments—the scene thereof being Nancy, France—that man is at least a third easier to throw into the hypnotic state than is woman.—New York Herald.

Making Pens.

Pens are made by machines which seem almost to think. The steel is cut into ribbons as wide as the length of one pen, and these are fed to machines which cut out the blanks, then fashion, stamp them, split the points, and place the maker's name on the backs. The pens are now complete save the annealing, and this forms a separate operation. After being annealed they are counted and placed in boxes. A machine has been invented for performing both these operations. —Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Spring

Is the season for new life in nature, new vigor in our physical systems. As the fresh sap carries life into the trees, so our blood should give us renewed strength and vigor. In its impure state it cannot do this, and the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla is imperatively needed. It will purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and with this solid, correct foundation, it will build up good health, create a good appetite, tone your stomach and digestive organs, strengthen your nerves and overcome or prevent that tired feeling. This has been the experience of thousands. It will be yours if you take do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

A Woman Bank Cashier.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat writes from Huntington, Ind.: The First National Bank of this city has a lady cashier, Mrs. Sarah Francis Dick, and a lady director, Mrs. Fredericka Drover, and is probably the only bank in the country bearing such distinction. Mrs. Dick is also a director in the institution. Mrs. Dick was appointed assistant cashier in 1873. She was then Miss Sarah F. McGrew, and her father was cashier of the bank. She served in that capacity until 1881, when the bank was reorganized. Mr. McGrew then became president, and his daughter was appointed cashier and also elected a director. In 1878 she was married to Julius Dick, one of the most prominent merchants of this city. Ever since 1881 Mrs. Dick has been cashier of the bank, and her work in that capacity has been unquestionably accurate and able.

Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

THE PEACE TREATY

To Be Reported to the Senate To-day with Amendments

ITS CONSIDERATION WILL BE PUSHED

The Designation of King Oscar as Umpire and All References to the Justices of the Supreme Court Stricken Out.

Washington, March 18.—The senate committee on foreign relations will to-day order a favorable report on the arbitration treaty to the senate with certain amendments. Chairman Davis was instructed to push the consideration of the convention with all possible speed. The committee on foreign relations spent two hours yesterday in the consideration of the treaty. The amendments are administrative only in character. The scope of the treaty has not been touched. Much of the criticism against the action of the committee during the last session was due to the fact that the committee made the treaty practically a mere shell. The amendment to the first article, that no question relative to the foreign or domestic policy of either party should be included, has disappeared entirely. The same result has been reached, however, in a very different manner. The designation of King Oscar of Sweden and Norway as the umpire has been stricken out, as has been all reference to the justices of the supreme court of the United States as members of the tribunal established under the treaty. In place of this designation it is stipulated that "jurists of repute" shall be named by the president to act as such arbitrators. The chief amendment to the convention, however, is found in the clause which reserves to the United States senate the right of deciding what questions shall be submitted to arbitration. This provision will make it necessary for the president to submit to the senate for its approval or disapproval all questions intended to be submitted to the arbitral court. The committee has acted in the belief that it has only reserved to this government the identical power reserved by Great Britain, which under the treaty decides through its premier what questions shall be arbitrated. Under the British form of government one man alone, the premier, acting for the crown, determines all matters of this sort and is the sole treaty-making power of that nation. There is, under this general treaty, no deviation from the general rule of the British government; and, reasoning thus, the senate committee sees no reason why there should be any change in the practices—based upon the stipulations of the written constitution that have governed such questions since the foundation of this government. Both powers are made equal, and the subsequent proceedings under the treaty, after it shall have been ratified, will proceed according to the laws of the respective governments of the contracting parties. Under the treaty as thus amended no argument can consistently be advanced that the senate is relinquishing any of the prerogatives given it by the constitution.

THE PINI-THOMEGUEX DUEL.

Paris, March 18.—Paris is still discussing the Pini-Thomeguex duel. Paris has enough of ordinary duels, but the fact that this one was really a public exhibition, being fought on the St. Ouen race course in the presence of fully 500 spectators, is what causes amazement. The principals, Signor Pini, the Italian champion swordsman, and M. Thomegux, an amateur in the use of the weapon, gave an exhibition of remarkable skill, and up to and including the fifth attack neither was injured. In the sixth attack, however, M. Thomeguex was slightly wounded in the lip. The cause of the encounter was a quarrel between the men over language used by Thomeguex disparaging to Pini concerning the latter's skill as displayed in a recent friendly assault-at-arms.

The Case of Mrs. Ruiz.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Davis, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and Senator Turpie, another member of the committee, to whom Mrs. Ruiz yesterday told the story of the murder of her husband in a Spanish prison, are much impressed by the tale and will doubtless take some action to bring the case formally before the senate.

The Release of Cespedes.

Washington, March 18.—Oscar Cespedes, news of whose release from Cabanas prison, Cuba, was yesterday telegraphed to Secretary Sherman by Consul-General Lee, was an American citizen, a native of Key West, and was captured without arms in an insurgent hospital near Zapata about Sept. 5, 1896. He secured his freedom on condition that he leave Cuba.

Connecticut Railroad Commissioner.

New Haven, Conn., March 18.—Gov. Cooke has nominated for railroad commissioner for four years O. R. Fyler of Torrington, to succeed Alexander C. Robertson of Montville. The position has been hotly contested for by many candidates, including several state senators.

Bell Telephone Company Dividend.

Boston, March 18.—The directors of the American Bell Telephone company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent., payable April 13. The company does not declare an extra dividend in March

Eight Men Who Would Like To Be Assistant Naval Secretary.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT AMONG THEM

All Are Strongly Backed by Either Political Influence or Naval Experience — No Choice Has Yet Been Made.

Washington, March 18.—There are no less than eight candidates for the place of assistant secretary of the navy, now occupied by Mr. McAdoo, and most of them are strongly backed either by political influence or naval experience. Leading the list is Theodore Roosevelt, at present police commissioner of New York. The others are William Henry Elliott of Indiana, ex-representative John Robinson of Pennsylvania, Manning K. Eyers of New York, who resigned from the navy in 1892 to connect himself with the General Electric company; Major Noel A. Blakeman of New York, formerly a paymaster in the navy; W. M. Jacques of Pennsylvania, an ex-naval lieutenant and a relative by marriage of Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, and ex-representative John R. Thomas of Illinois, formerly a leading member of the house naval committee.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Ways and Means Committee Decides To Report the Measure To-morrow.

Washington, March 18.—The tariff bill will be reported to the house to-morrow. This was the conclusion reached by the republican members of the ways and means committee at their last meeting. The only other matter of importance agreed upon was in transferring all asphalt and bitumen to the dutiable list. Some crude forms of these articles are now on the free list. The rate was fixed at $1.50 a ton on asphalt not dried and not advanced in any way. A duty of $3 a ton was placed on asphalt in its more advanced stages. The purpose of placing asphalt on the dutiable list was principally because more revenue was needed and for the further reason all the importatations are controlled by one company which the committee understands is receiving a large figure from the sale of the commodity. Several hours were spent in making verbal amendments to the bill and correcting the phraseology. There will be a meeting of the full committee this afternoon.

Yale-Princeton Athletics.

New Haven, Conn., March 18.—Manager Gillette of the Yale team says there would be no track athletic meet between Yale and Princeton this year, though Yale would probably send a delegation to the Princeton handicap games. It has been generally supposed that Yale and Princeton had a two-year agreement, but it appears that such is not the case, last year's meeting having been due to the withdrawal of Harvard and the meeting with her this year crowding Princeton out.

Oliver Optic Dying.

Boston, March 18.—William T. Adams, the author, widely known by his nom de plume, "Oliver Optic," is very ill at his residence in Dorchester and his physicians express the opinion that he can live but a day or two. He has heart and kidney troubles. He came two weeks ago from Jamaica, where he had been for his health, and the severe temperature here caused his prostration. He was in his 75th year.

Comment on McKenna's Appointment.

Rome, March 18.—The Osservatore Romano, a Papal organ, publishes an article commenting upon the appointment of Joseph McKenna as attorney general in the cabinet of President McKinley, in which the paper makes the claim that McKenna is the first Catholic who has been nominated a cabinet minister of the United States since the foundation of the American republic.

Statement of Election Expenses.

Albany, March 18.—This afternoon the judiciary committee of the assembly will report favorably Assemblyman Sanger's bill compelling every person who acted as an agent or representative of a candidate voted for at an election, and every officer or agent of a political committee or organization, to file a sworn statement of their election expenses.

Resignation of Mr. Hesing.

Chicago, March 18.—Postmaster Washington Hesing has tendered his resignation to the president. It was accompanied by that of Frederick F. Stoll, superintendent of the city delivery, who gave as his reason his intention to re-enter business. It is said, however, that he will at once take charge of Mr. Hesing's mayoralty campaign.

The New Ambassadors.

Washington, March 18.—The nominations of John Hay to be ambassador to Great Britain, Horace Porter to be ambassador to France, and Mr. White, present secretary at London, to be secretary of the embassy at London, will be confirmed by the senate this afternoon.

Gage Accepts an Invitation.

Washington, March 18.—Secretary Gage has accepted the invitation of Mayor Strong of New York and the Grant Monument association to be present and take part in the ceremonies attending the transfer of the Grant monument to the city of New York on April 27.

Greece Will Declare War.

Vienna, March 18.—It is asserted in official quarters here that Greece will declare war against Turkey.

SENATOR REED'S IDEA OPPOSED.

The State Senate had a lively discussion, yesterday, on Senator Reed's concurrent resolution providing that all the members of the present Legislature receive copies of the General Statutes of the State recently compiled. Senators Johnson and Parry opposed the resolution. They said that there were members of the Legislature who received copies last year, and that the present resolution, which gave another copy to those same members, was an improper one. Mr. Reed did not think the objection pertinent. The members of this Legislature were entitled to receive a second copy as much as they were entitled to new bill files each year. The resolution came up in the House later in the day, and was opposed by Leader Derouse, who thought the resolution should be amended so as to give copies only to new members. The bill was referred to the House Judiciary Committee to put it in proper legal shape.

MONEY MAKING.

Officers of a Hoboken church informed their pastor on a recent Sunday morning that they had voted him an increase in his salary of $100. The pastor declined, on the ground that it took him half his time to collect his present salary, to say nothing of an increase.—Plainfield Press.

That is nearly as good as the story of a newspaper owner in New Jersey who was noted for his willingness to shut down on all holidays. Being questioned about this generosity to the employes, he whispered confidentially that every day the paper wasn't published he made money. To this the answer was made that on the same principle he could be rich soon by omitting every issue of the paper.—New York Tribune.

MUSIC FOR THE REUNION.

The committee composed of representatives from the G. A. R., W. R. C., and Sons of Veterans, who have in charge the arrangemen's for the reception and entertainment of the Second N. J. Brigade who are coming to this city next month, met last evening and made further arrangements for the event.

It was decided to secure a band of music for the day, and it was definitely announced that Reform Hall had been secured for the dinner and other exercises which will occupy the attention of the visitors while here. It was stated that the affair would be a public one more than a local one from the fact that it was ex-Mayor Gilbert and Mayor Fisk who extended the members of the Brigade an invitation to come to this city.

Members of the Sons of Veterans will act as an escort for the visitors and will officiate in whatever capacity they can.

Another meeting of the committee will be held next Wednesday evening.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

PASSING COMMENT.

Probably the largest St. Bernard dog in this vicinity is owned by a family in Dunellen. The animal weighs 180 pounds and has become a regular caller at W. H. Coles' office for rations. The dog is as harmless as a kitten and is said to be very fond of children.

* * * *

Mrs. J. H. Crittenden, of Grove street and Lincoln place, can boast of having one of the prettiest front yards in the borough, for this season of the year. It is resplendent with beds, containing innumerable snowdrops and crocuses, the sight of which is particulary gratifying, after the cold and snows of winter. These dainty flowers herald the approach of spring.

* * * *

A young man and a young woman arrived in Plainfield last Sunday morning at about two o'clock in a buggy. The horse showed that he had been driven hard and seemed only to glad to come to a halt in front of the residence of City Judge De-Meza on West Second street. Despite the unseemly hour, the young man ran up the steps and rang the bell. When the door was finally opened, the stranger explained that he wanted the City Judge to perform a wedding ceremony. His would-be bride waited anxiously in the buggy. The young man was informed that the City Judge was not at home at the time and that he would have to go elsewhere. Not many minutes later, the same buggy drove up at the residence of Mayor Charles J. Fisk and the bell to that residence played a merry tune until the door was opened. Again the young man explained that he wished to be married at once and wanted the Mayor to perform the ceremony. As the Mayor was not at home, the ceremony was not performed there and the couple drove away. What became of them it is impossible to say. There is no clue as to their identity or whether they were married at that strange hour of the morning.

THEATRICAL.

An engagement which has been anticipated with considerable pleasure is the coming of Donnelly and Girard to Music Hall, Friday evening, is what is said to be the greatest comedy success of the year, "My Friend from India" from the pen of H. A. DuSouchet. This piece has been the reigning sensation in New York all the season and besides exploiting an excruciatingly funny story, introduces an organization of more than ordinary merit. The piece is presented by Donnelly and Girard, who have spared neither pains nor expense. It is written on established French and German comedy lines, but has the merit of originality of treatment of a comparatively new subject.

Though Hi Henry is one of the oldest minstrel managers in the business, and known from one end of the country to the other, yesterday was his first appearance in this city. His company made a very favorable impression on the lovers of minstrelsy. The performance opened with the old-time first part, introducing a number of vocalists with up-to date songs, and a quartette of funny comedians, vieing with one another in repeating jokes that provoked the risibilities of the big audience that filled Music Hall at the matinee and evening performance.

Even during the Lenten season Chauncey Olcott is doing an immense business in Sweet Innisearra at the Fourteenth street theatre, his magnetic personality and sweet songs striking the popular chord. In his new piece Mr. Olcott has a vehicle for displaying his talent to the best of advantage, and with an excellent supporting company he makes the most of it in giving a performance that a big business shows to be among the metropolitan successes of the season. Mr. Olcott will remain at this theatre indefinitely.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson is visiting her sister, Miss Wendt, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oakley, of New Brunswick are being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhammer.

Mrs. Peter Quick, formerly of Dunellen and now of Phillipsburg, who has been visiting Mrs. J. B. Conover, left for home today.

Russell Runyon, son of Walter Runyon, of Front street, is quite ill at home, but his condition is not such as to give cause for alarm.

Dunellen's younger population was pretty well thinned out last evening, for most of them had gone to the minstrels in Plainfield.

The fourth quarterly conference was held in the M. E. church, last evening. Presiding Elder Smith, of Plainfield, was in charge and delivered an address.

On account of the school meeting, the Checker Club omitted its usual Tuesday evening practice game this week, but the members will be on hand Friday evening.

Taylor's bowling alleys are being well patronized these days. It is doubtful if a better equipped and better set of alleys can be found in this section of the State.

It is understood that one of the first things the new Council will direct its attention to will be to have the side and crosswalks paved. Both are an actual necessity at the present time.

Three very suspicious looking characters walked into town from the direction of the Greenbrook tanks last evening, and made a general survey of the town. They were last seen near the round house, evidently looking for a place to put up for the night, or else waiting for an opportunity to rob some store or house.

The result of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight was received here with surprise, for most of the admirers had wagered their spare change on Corbett. One man had wagered the 50 cents his wife gave him to pay a tobacco bill, and one farmer near New Market is said to have gone so far as to have wagered his farm wagon on the result and lost.

St. Patrick's Day was celebrated quietly here yesterday. The wearing of the green was almost universal with the Catholics. Not an unruly person was noticed on the streets and in consequence the new cells in the Town Hall were wide open and empty.

The use of tobacco in any form should be prohibited in the public school building especially on such occasions as Tuesday night when the annval school meeting took place. Some old tobacco chewers sat at the pupils' desks and kept continually expectorating in the aisles, while others puffed away at poor cigars with evident relish.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The roads about here are in excellent condition for bicycling just at present.

Several new house hunters were prospecting, yesterday, but they went away as quietly as they came.

Mrs. George A. Renie, of South Bethlehem, Pa., is expected in town within a few days for a visit with Mrs. S. G. Taynor.

Liveryman Fred Clark has leased Mrs. Hart's commodious barn on Park avenue, and will take possession about the first of the month.

Several hundred black birds, direct from the South, arrived in a flock just before dusk last evening, and put up for the night in the large cedar trees on the Count Van Nest property on East Front street.

One out-of town bicyclist, who absolutely refused to divulge his name and address, but who, it is believed, hailed from Summit, came to grief while coasting down the mountain road near here, yesterday afternoon. His brake refused to take hold so he attempted to catch the fast revolving pedals with his feet. The result was that both rider and wheel were hurled into the gutter. The rider of the machine suffered only from a few slight scratches and bruises, but one pedal on the wheel was torn entirely off and some of the spokes in the front wheel were bent and twisted out of shape

FANWOOD.

The annual school meeting of Fanwood Township was held on Tuesday night at the school house at Scotch Plains and resulted in the re-election for three years of F. W. Westcott, Thos. J. Nicholl and Douglass L. Darby. The amount of $3,300 was voted as a special tax for the maintenance of the schools of the township during the coming school year. The annual report showed a continuance of the decided progress which has been a characteristic of the schools for some time past. District Clerk Nichol made an appeal to the parents and particularly to the mothers, to manifest a greater and more intimate concern in the welfare of the school, and adverted to what seemed to be a diminution in their interest in school matters generally, during the past year. The fear expressed last year by the Board that the partial withdrawal of the franchise from the women would result in loss of interest upon their part appears to be more than justified by the entire absence of women from the annual meeting. Such a result is to be deplored as a withdrawl of their refining influence makes possible a return to the scenes of disorder which formerly were a feature of many meetings.

The I. O. S. winds up its chess tournament in a few days, and Louis Davenport will challenge the winner.

Last evening was Christian Endeavor night at the Presbyterian church. Watching was the subject.

Rev. J. G. Dyer, of South Amboy, formerly pastor of the Baptist church here, visited friends in town yesterday.

The young ladies gymnastic class began yesterday afternoon in Gale's club-house. The attendance was large and select.

Mrs. Miller Moore, of Roselle, and her sister, Mrs. John Martin, of Oklahoma, visited Mrs. MacQuaid, of Elm street, yesterday.

W. E Knight led the services at the Congregational church last evening and took for his subject, "Do we worship and unknown God?"

The Westfield Chess Club went to Bayonne one night this week and played against the Bayonne Chess Club and won eight out of the ten games played.

Mrs. Margaret Peabody left today for Flatbush, L. I., and will not return to Westfield again. Her daughter, Miss Katheryne Peabody, a teacher in the Prospect street school, will leave in June.

The committee appointed to solicit funds for the aid of the Elizabeth General hospital met with liberal subscriptions. Unfortunately the committee is not able to collect the money pledged as readily as it would like.

The Westfield Gun Club held a target shoot yesterday afternoon and only a few of the members turned out. A match between John Singer and Capt. W. H. Chamberlain was shot at fifty birds for $5 a side. Chamberlain won. The score was 42 to 38. The club have a live bird shoot next Saturday.

AN ENTERPRISING MERCHANT.

Words of Praise for M. C. Van Arsdale by a Connecticut Paper.

M. C. Van Arsdale, who has been in business in Greenwich for the past four years, will leave town in a week or more, much to the regret of many of our merchants and townspeople. He came to our village a comparative stranger, and in the four years he has been here, he has established a paying business and has become an influential and highly respected member of this community. He was elected last spring as one of the Burgesses of the Borough, and has been conspicuous in the advancement and prosperity of the Amogerone Fire Company, always taking an active interest in its doings, and considered one of its foremost members. His departure is very much regretted because Greenwich needs just such enterprising and public spirited men.

He was considered one of the best business men on Greenwich avenue, and the fact that he established a paying business in so short a time and made so many friends, shows it. He does not leave Greenwich because he wants to, or because business life is uncongenial to him here, for he says he thinks Greenwich has a great future as a suburban town of New York, but he goes away chiefly on account of his wife's health, and will rturn to his old home at Plainfield, N. J., where he will engage in the same business that he tranacted here. Mr. VanArsdale will retain an interest in the boot and shoe business, which he has sold out to an organization called the VanArsdale Boot and Shoe Company, and expects to visit our town occasionally. The Graphic wants to say one word about Mr. VanArsdale as an advertiser: He was a great believer in it and he knew how to advertise. His advertisements were always read, and it was a pleasure to do business with him.—Greenwich, (Conn.) Graphic.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

TAMMANY IN SADDLE.

HOPES TO RECOVER NEW YORK FROM THE REFORMERS.

The Tiger is Versatile, and Among Other Things Expects a Reaction to Set in in Its Favor as it Did in 1894—Wheels Within Wheels.

It has been noted that Tammany, with characteristic energy, has already begun its campaign for the Mayorality of Greater New York, and is unfolding a plan of attack on the Reformers, who hope for four years more to keep control of the city rescued from Tammany three years ago.

The organization has entered upon the campaign with almost as much confidence in victory as it felt in 1892, when it had no opposition except the feeble fight put up by the debilitated Republican machine. It is of interest to understand upon what this confidence is based. It is based upon the belief that a "reaction" is due. Signs of this reaction have been shown in the town elections throughout the state. It is almost impossible to beat Tammany twice in succession. Even after its crushing defeat in 1894, Tammany won in the local election the following year; and last November, in spite of the big Sound Money Democratic revolt, it rolled up 135,000 votes for Bryan. It has always been difficult to arouse the citizens of New York to a supreme effort for reform city administration, and after having aroused them once, it seems impossible to get them to make another such effort in the next Mayoralty election. It is true that the recently organized "Citizen's Union" exhibits a gratifying determination on the part of the Municipal Reformers to make an early start this year, but there are special reasons, to be explained, why Tammany believes this movement will not have the force and momentum of the Committee of Seventy campaign of 1894. In other words, its leaders believe that the political pendulum is swinging its way this year, and that it will reap the benefit of all the discontent, the various petty hardships, and the personal disappointments resulting from the Strong Administration. In a local election few people have the courage and public spirit to rise superior to their private interests. Even though the administration, as a whole, may have benefited the city, if it has hurt any personal interest, that personal interest will work and vote against it, independent of any other consideration. And the Strong Administration has tread upon the toes of many small personal interests, which, in the aggregate, represent a small army of discontent and enmity. If there is any one achievement of the administration which may be called, without exception, signally successful, it has been in the cleaning of streets. In fact, even if Tammany elects the next Mayor, it will either retain Colonel Waring in office or maintain his methods. But, nevertheless, Colonel Waring has undoubtedly lost many votes for reform at the coming election. Every grocer, baker and small merchant who formerly stabled his truck in the street, but who has been obliged by Colonel Waring to store it elsewhere in order to clear the streets of encumbrances, will probably vote against "reform," and their name is legion. The city as a whole is benefited by this change worked by the Commissioner, but thousands of small merchants are suffering in pocket because they can no longer use the streets as storage places for their private property. In some of the other departments it must be confessed that reform has been a failure. There have been scandals in the Fire Department, and the condition of things in the Police Department is such that even Mayor Strong himself says that is "a shame and a disgrace." Moreover, the Strong Administration has resulted in an increase in taxes, with no decrease in rate of property assessments. As Strong is a Republican, such acts of the Republican party in the state as have caused discontent and injury will be used by Tammany to its advantage in a fight against any combination that may be formed against it in the city election. Thus, every person who has been injured by the Raines law, it is claimed, will vote for Tammany. Moreover, there are a number of leading men who have taken part in the non-partisan or bipartisan movements for municipal reform who are beginning to be convinced that after all that has been said or done, there can be no really effective city government except through parties, and that non-partisanship is a dream. Ex-Mayor Grace, who aided materially in electing Strong, has expressed himself plainly to this effect. It is significant in this connection that the new charter has been drafted on the principle of party government. It may be asked why, if there is any basis of reality in Tammany's confidence of victory in the Greater New York election, Senator Platt should be so determined to create the Greater New York. Some of the Republicans up the state have been asking this question, and doubting the wisdom of passing the charter. But Senator Platt may hold to Edward Lauterbach's expressed view that the reaction against "reform" in municipal government will not set in favor of Tammany, but in favor of the Republican machine organization. Besides, the charter has been so constructed that even if Tammany should elect its candidate for Mayor, the Republicans would be pretty certain to obtain an important minority representation in the Municipal Assembly and perhaps control of one or two of the boroughs.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HOW TO QUIET THE BABY.

The Best Way is to Gently Shut Off an Infant's Breath.

An infallible method for quieting a crying baby probably will never be discovered.

Some entirely new methods have recently been introduced in some of the New York hospitals which prove successful in a larger percentage of cases than the old-fashioned ways.

The new scientific method for quieting crying babies proceeds, upon an entirely new principle. It disregards the cause or source of irritation, but on the other hand tries to train the baby to practise self-control.

The scientific method is based upon the theory that the average baby is strong enough to control itself in all but cases of very severe illness. It is, incidentally, very much more dignified and entails far less effort than the attempts most people make to quiet their children. The old plans of trying to catch the baby's attention by standing on one's head and by similar violent methods are quite discarded.

Instead, as soon as the child cries the nurse catches it up, and, holding it gently, places her hand over its mouth and nose so that it cannot breathe. The crying will obviously soon come to a stop. The hand need not be held very tightly over the face, since the object is merely to produce a slight smothering. As soon as the crying ceases the hand is removed. If the crying recommences, as it is very likely to do, the same operation is instantly repeated. This is continued until the baby imagines that the more or less painful stoppages of the breath are caused by its own efforts to scream. As soon as it grasps this idea it is careful to keep quiet. It is claimed that the plan works like a charm, and that wonderful self-control is exhibited by infants treated in this way, even when less than three months old.—New York World.

Origin of the Three Gold Balls.

People who are compelled to go to their "Uncle" for temporary advances on personal property have often speculated as to the origin and significance of the three balls which are the most conspicuous exterior advertisements of the establishments appertaining to the aforesaid "Uncle." The pawnbroker's sign was, originally, the arms of the famous family of the Medici in Italy, whose ancestor was a physician and adopted as his device three pills. The Medici became bankers and money lenders, and amassed enormous wealth from lending money at the high rates of interest prevailing in their time. When banks were established in other cities than Florence, the Medici sign of three suspended balls became the mark of a bank, and the practice spread into France, Spain and Germany. By and by, however, as this sign was adopted by a lower class of money lenders, who made advances on personal property, it fell into disrepute among the higher grade of financiers, and, being dropped by the bankers, was still continued by the lower class, and finally was restricted entirely to such money lenders as received pledges as security for loans.—St. Louis Democrat.

He Was Made a Sergeant.

A pretty story, savoring of the romantic, is told in the French press about the kaiser. Recently his majesty went to the Berlin barracks alone. The corporal on guard recognized the kaiser immediately, and saluted him. The kaiser was pleased, and, approaching the soldier, said: "Why do you look so sad, corporal?" The corporal did not reply. The emperor then asked if he was disappointed in love. At this the corporal found his tongue, and replied that he wished to marry Marguerite, the daughter of his sergeant-major, but that her father would not give his consent until he became a sergeant. "And do you love her very much?" asked the kaiser. "Oh, yes," was the reply. "Then," said the emperor, "go and tell your future father-in-law that William II. makes you a sergeant."

He Took Advice.

M. du Maurier, his son tells us, had no idea of appropriateness in dress, and did not know one fashion from another. "My sisters," said Mr. du Maurier, "looked to it that he got the right things in his pictures. He would come home sometimes and sketch something which had attracted him in a passer-by on the street. Often it would be some impossibly queer arrangement, and my sisters would protest: 'Why, father, you mustn't use that in Punch. Nobody wears those things now; they are dreadfully old-fashioned,' and he would give in immediately to what he recognized as their superior judgment." This will be a blow to the hundreds of people who modeled their dress upon that Du Maurier's men and women. His fashions, however, were correct, for his family saw to it that they should be.

A Bostonian's Neglected Education.

"Browning, dear," said Mrs. Emerson to her husband, "what is a cutaneous pastime?"

"A cutaneous pastime, love? I never heard of such a thing."

"Well, I heard two men on the street car talking, and one of them spoke of a skin game."—Brooklyn Life.

Didn't Have to Walk.

Banks—"And because you couldn't find a penny to pay the fare, did the conductor make you get off and walk?"

Jenkins—"No, he only made me get off; I could have sat on the road all day if I'd wanted to."—From the Sketch.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

It is fortunate for the peace and comfort of a new President that the custom of retaining certain employes of the Executive Mansion from administration to administration is an established one. Many of the staff at the White House have been there for years, some of them dating their terms of service back to General Grant's first Administration. It is only the personal servants who are changed, and some of these have grown old in their places.

W. L. Pruden, the assistant secretary, and Colonel William H. Crook, the executive clerk, with three or four of the clerks under them, have passed more than a quarter of a century at the President's house, and to their executive ability and deep knowledge of affairs are due the smoothness with which its machinery is run. When a change in Presidents occurs, their long experience is of incalculable value, and during the first few months of an administration as well, when both the President and his secretary are unaccustomed to the work.

SECRETARY SHERMAN'S RESIDENCE.

In the official household Mr. Pruden and Colonel Crook rank next to the President's secretary, and are his executive officers. Mr. Pruden has charge of the numerous bills, and is the President's messenger to Congress. Colonel Crook is the paymaster of the house and looks after the files; but besides their routine duties they are both looked upon as oracles in official matters, and are consulted on all difficult questions.

There were at the capital during Inauguration week the daughters of three Presidents: Mrs. Semple, the daughter of President Tyler; Mrs. Sartoris, the daughter of President Grant, and Mrs. Stanley-Brown, President Garfield's only daughter. There was also present Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, the niece of President Buchanan, who, both while her uncle was Minister to the Court of St. James and while he was Chief Executive, presided over his household with dignity and grace.

President McKinley has had some training in the business of seeing men and women who called upon him to "pay their respects," but he is just now finding out for the first time what it is to be asked to listen to the importunities of those who seek office. The office seekers are losing no time. They were at the White House in shoals on Friday morning, and at times they contributed to the crush on the stairway from the main floor to the President's office on the floor above. While the departments are still in need of new Assistant Secretaries, and the chances of appointment are open the patriot who is prepared to give up lucrative private business in order to be able to serve his country in Washington will be very buoyant. The pretexts with which some of the men of this class refer to their search are entertaining because they are so old, while the makers of them congratulate themselves that they are new and original. One New York man, who would not be quite satisfied with anything less than an Assistant Secretary's place, tells those who speak to him about his ambition that he does not care much for office holding for the sake of the fame or the emoluments of the office. "I have a great admiration for the President," he says, "conceived when he was in Congress. I know that he will have a task quite herculean. A Republican can do nothing more useful or patriotic than to relieve the President of some of his labor by sharing it. I am willing and anxious to be a burden bearer." But this gentleman, who is a lawyer, whose experience ought to have made him a valued adviser, seeks to be a burden bearer at a salary of $4,000 or $4,500 a year. There are no would-be "burden bearers" who have announced that they would prefer to take places without salary than be disappointed in becoming helpful to President McKinley. Of resurrected persons there is a goodly number. They will vex the President greatly, for, having once held office, and having had the experience required in obtaining it, they are more artful than the tyro. The Minister abroad who seeks reappointment to his old post and who brings recommendations from the nation to which he was accredited is at once too proud and diplomatically indiscreet, for the State Department does not like to have recommendations of that kind. They are apt to be taken as indicating that the Minister has cultivated his own popularity too strictly.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THERE is no getting away from the fact that Pure White Lead (see list of brands which are genuine) and Pure Linseed Oil make the best paint.

Properly applied, it will not chip, chalk or scale off, but will outwear any of the mixtures offered as substitutes. It is, therefore, by far the most economical.

How He Lost the Battle With Fitzsimmons.

DECEIVED BY A FAKE LEAD

He Underestimated His Opponent's Cunning and Placed Himself in a Position To Receive the Decisive Blow.

Round 1.—Timekeeper Madden pulled on the gong string at 12:08 o'clock. The men faced each other, Corbett with his back to the sun. Corbett extended his hand, but Fitz refused it. Corbett danced around lightly on his toes, Fitz covering his ground more slowly. They feinted for an opening and Fitz seemed inclined to force matters. Fitz forced his man into a corner and was the first to lead with a left swing, which missed Jim's head by about ten feet. The Californian did not land in his first attempt. Fitzsimmons forced Corbett into a rally and uppercut him lightly in the clinch. Fitz then rushed Corbett to his own corner, but Jim got out of danger and sent in a heavy right on the body as he slipped away. Fitz put a hard left over the heart and Jim swung wildly and landed his right on Fitz's wind. The Australian was still forcing matters, when a hard left swing put him on the defensive. Jim swung his left on the heart and they came together. In the breakaway Bob sent a vicious left uppercut to the jaw. A clinch followed and the men broke without a blow as the gong sounded.

Round 2.—Fitzsimmons opened with a left swing, but missed his mark. They came to a clinch and were rather slow in breaking away. Jim sent in a neat left on the face and a right on the body, dancing away without a return. Fitz seemed determined to keep on the aggressive and came into a clinch and in the breakaway got a stiff left uppercut. Jim got in a left on the ribs and repeated the blow a moment later. He then landed with his left on the stomach and the round closed with the men in a clinch. It was clearly Corbett's on points.

Round 3.—Jim opened with a rush and sent a left jab hard on the wind. He stopped a left lead for the heart and countered smartly on the stomach. Corbett put a left on the wind and a right on the side of the head. Jim shot right and left on the body, and Bob came into a clinch and landed his right on the ear before they separated. Jim shot a terrible right on the side and followed with a fast left on the wind. Bob's left reached the wind, but Jim swung right on the jaw in the clinch that followed and put his left on the body and piled two stiff rights on the wind and followed up with another on the body. Fitz landed a nice left on the jaw after missing a right lead for the stomach. A little hugging followed and for the first time the referee came in between the men and broke them. Before the bell sounded Fitz put a neat right on the body and swung his left to the jaw and honors were fairly even.

Round 5.—Jim swung a hard left one on the jaw, which made Fitz groggy and the Australian tried to corner his rival, but Jim was too fast and got away sending a left on the jaw as he skipped back. Bob received two more stomach punches, there was an exchange of hard right body blows and then Corbett landed with both hands, his right finding the body and his left the jaw. A howl of joy went up from Corbett's admirers at the sight of blood. A right on the body and a stiff left on the jaw flush on the face, made the claret flow freely from Fitz's nose. The balance of the round was fast and furious, Corbett doing the leading.

In the sixth round both men were covered with blood and the fighting was fierce, in Corbett's favor. He sent a hard right on the jaw and swung his left, catching Fitz under the ear and bringing him to his knees. The Australian remained down until the referee called nine and then got to his feet. Corbett rushed at him fiercely, planting right and left on the face, and Fitz kept away for a while and quickly recovered. He appeared to be groggy, but Jim lacked the strength to deliver the deciding blow. As Fitz went to his corner he heard his wife say something about blood on his face. He turned quickly and said: "Never mind the blood. I've got him licked." In the balance of the rounds up to the fourteenth the fighting was furious, the men alternately leading in forcing the mill, but it was plainly noticeable after the tenth round that Corbett was not so confident, and that his blows lacked their usual strength.

Round 14.—Jim missed the opening lead with his right, but on his next attempt put his left on the jaw, Fitz countering stiffly with a right on the side of the head. The Australian sent in a right and left on the jaw, which jarred Jim, and then piled in a left uppercut, and, as Jim turned around to skip out of reach, Fitz pasted him on the back of the head. Jim hooked his left on the jaw, but Fitz retaliated with a heavy right on the same spot and they clinched. They broke clean. Fitz made a fake lead with his right, and the blow was of the kinkiest kind. Instead of keeping his body rigid and throwing his head back as was his usual custom in allowing blows of this kind to slip by his face, Corbett, underestimating his opponent's cunning, contemptuously threw back his head and chest, thus throwing his stomach forward. The Australian, with panther-like speed, drew back his left with the forearm rigid and ripped it up into the pit of Jim's stomach, a little under the heart. Corbett was lifted about a foot off the ground, and as he pitched forward Fitz swung his right on the jaw and Corbett came heavily down on his knees. He remained down for fifteen seconds and Fitz retired to his corner, while Referee Siler announced the fatal seconds.

Now Believed That the Philadelphia Murderer and Suicide Was Insane.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Frederick Frank, the German who yesterday at his home on Stillman street shot and killed his son William, aged 9, shot and dangerously wounded his daughter Amelia, aged 5 years, and then shot himself over the heart, dying later at St. Agnes' hospital, had of late been complaining of pains in his head and it is now thought that his mind was affected. Frank's jealous suspicions of his wife, so far as developed by the police, were without foundation. The only thing that saved the life of Mrs. Frank was the fact that she was absent when the murderous impulse seized her husband. The Franks lived in a neat two-story dwelling, and Frank was an industrious workman, being employed by the Atlantic Refining company. Mrs. Frank, as was her custom, had gone to a nearby baker's, and on her return was surprised to find both the front and back doors of the house locked. Soon afterward the sound of pistol shots were heard, and policemen broke into the dwelling. The little girl lay moaning in bed near the dead body of her brother. Frank was lying near the door covered with blood and was unconscious. Blood was spattered around the floor and walls and the scene was revolting. The boy was shot through the breast, the girl was shot in the mouth, and Frank shot himself twice over the heart.

GREAT STEEL COMBINE.

The McCormick and Bailey Concerns To Unite on May 1.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 18.—The consolidation of the great iron and steel manufacturing interests of the McCormicks and Baileys in this city will go into effect on May 1. The companies consolidating are the C. L. Bailey company, the Central Iron works and the Paxton Rolling mills. The title of the new concern will be the Central Iron & Steel company. The plants comprise three rolling mills, a universal mill and a flanging plant. The capacity for manufacturing shipbuilding, bridge and other construction is very great, two of the mills being the largest in the country. The incorporators of the new company are Charles L. Bailey, Hon. J. Donald Cameron, James McCormick, Edward Bailey, Vance C. McCormick and G. M. McCauley, all of Harrisburg, and William H. Wallace and J. Frederick Kernochan of New York.

GUNS FOR TESTING GROUNDS.

Albany, March 18.—One of the largest shipments of guns from the Watervliet arsenal to the testing grounds at Sandy Hook will soon be made. The contract for the transportation was awarded yesterday. The shipment will weight 12,652,238 pounds, and consists of twenty-two eight-inch, fourteen ten-inch and four twelve-inch rifles. The guns will be loaded upon large barges and will be lifted on to the boats by a mammoth crane. The guns are valued at $1,226,000, and the tow, which will be made up of three barges, will be one of the most valuable which have ever left this port.

Notice of Bombardment.

Sitia, March 18.—The commanders of the foreign warships have notified the insurgents that this afternoon they will bombard a village near here. In consequence of this notification the Christians in the village against which the foreign guns are to be trained are attacking the foreign officers there.

SPORT FOR THE ANGLER.

STOCKING OF LOCAL STREAMS WITH PIKE-PERCH A SUCCESS.

Thousands of the Gamey Fish Are Growing to a Size That Will Make the Izaak Waltons of Today Grow Enthusiastic.

The stocking of streams and ponds with pike-perch fry by the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission has proved a success in at least two instances.

The fry were received from the Pennsylvania hatchery at Cory on May 12, 1896, and about noon of the same day 50,000 were placed in Cedar Brook, opposite the Lehigh Valley depot at South Plainfield, about three miles east of New Market Ponds into which the stream empties. Another lot of 50,000 was placed in a small brook three-quarters of a mile from the pond at Lakeside, a settlement one mile south of Metuchen. As soon as liberated, the squirming little transparent bodes, with their prominent, bead-like eyes, much resembling tadpoles in size, darted here and there, finally seeking shelter under the edges of stones and pebbles on the sandy bottom.

The brook being inaccessible for the greater part of its length on account of the thick underbrush and briers, the growth of the fry was not noticed until Sept. 12th, four months later, when, upon my stepping upon a piece of overhanging bank near the junction of the brook and pond, a number of fish five or six inches in length darted from beneath to the opposite side, their dark, irregular markings, and olive-colored sides being plainly visible in the clear, transparent water, which also undoubtedly slightly magnified their size. By stamping along the edge of the brook many other pike-perch were driven from their hiding places.

The only other fish in this lake at that time were 73 Oswego bass, measuring from nine to eighteen inches, placed in the lake a few months previous to the pike perch, and innumerable dace and other bait fish, all other fish having been lost two years previous by the breaking of the dam, a permanent dam having since been built and the lake refilled by its many springs and streams.

A few weeks later a trip was made to Cedar brook in company with Thos. Lindabury, yard-master of the Lehigh road at South Plainfield, and many pike-perch were driven from beneath the banks of that stream, all showing the same growth as their kin at Lakeside.

One million fry of the pike-perch were planted by the commission in different lakes and streams of the State on that date, May 12th.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

Mischievous Boys Will Have to Give an Account of Their Actions.

The three lads who were charged with generally demoralizing the interior of one of the empty residences on West Seventh street, were brought before Justice Nash, yesterday afternoon. To the charge of malicious mischief was added that of larceny, for it was alleged that the boys had removed a quantity of lead pipe from the house.

When brought before the Justice, Archie Laramour, one of the lads, admitted that he and the rest had been in the house and had carried away the pipe. His testimony implicated William Mague. No other testimony was necessary and the Justice held the two lads under $100 bail for the grand jury.

The lads felt the disgrace keenly and explained that it was done with no evil intent but just in fun. The bail was furnished by the parents of the boys who were also in court.

Indulged a la Carson City Style.

Patrolman Flanagan had another disturbance to quell this afternoon. William Goff visited the jewelry store of Marcus Silbert on Somerset street at about noon. Silbert says that he used insulting language, and that when he, the proprietor of the place, followed Goff to the door, Goff struck him. Goff states that Silbert struck the first blow. Flanagan appeared on the scene when the combatants began to spar in Carson City style and arrested Goff, who was said to be the aggressor. Goff was liberated on $150 bail to appear for trial before the City Judge.

A Talk by Miss Webster.

A meeting of the Young Friends' Society was held last evening in the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue, at which time the members enjoyed a talk given by Miss Catherine Webster on a recent trip to California. Miss Webster has made several trips to the Pacific coast and is thoroughly conversant with her subject. Her talk last evening was a rare treat.

John French, of West Front street, has purchased the James McGee property on Willow avenue, and together with his family will move there soon.

Dr. Louis G. Newman has accepted a call to locate at Brewsters, N. Y., to succeed Dr. Strunk, a resident physician for twenty-three years and who was recently killed by a railroad accident.

Struck by a Trolley Car.

A New Market resident was driving home at a late hour last evening when he met a trolley car on West Fourth street near the Hope chapel switch. The crew of the car allege that the man was somewhat under the influence of "Jersey lightning." The fender of the car and one of the rear wheels of the buggy met and the wheel laid down. The car was in charge of Conductor Joseph Noel and Motorman Gus Coller. The damage to the buggy was slight. Its owner left it in the middle of the street and rode his horse home to New Market.

INSECTS AS FOOD.

Twenty Basketfuls of Ants Sent a Traveler to Eat on His Journey.

Grasshoppers, moths and butterflies have often been eaten, and the ancient Romans used beetles as food. The Brazillians greatly esteemed an insect that feeds on the palm leaf. In Chili and Peru one of the national dishes, the "chupe de chiche," is a sort of stew made of potatoes and chiche, a beetle-like insect, which is found in masses under stones along the watercourses. The blacks or Narrinjeri in Africa, live almost wholly on the larvae, or eggs, of the fly, which they find under the bark of certain trees. David Livingstone tells how he lived upon this food for some time, and gives an account of the natives going about with a sort of needle stuck behind their ears, suggesting so many clerks with pencils tucked above their ears ready for use. With these needles the negroes skillfully pierced the bark on the trees, and dug out their food. The Indians of Nevada also partly live upon flies—or such of those Indians do as remain in their original wild condition—and make a sort of cake out of the insects, which is said to taste very much like salted meat. In Africa some of the larger ants are used for food. A traveller tells how the chief of a tribe is that territory we call the Soudan, sent him twenty basketfulls of ants for provisions on the journey. When ready for eating they were said by the traveller to "taste like liver."

A WOMAN'S COURAGE.

How She Bravely and Successfully Defended Her Property.

An American lady travelling in Italy, with a younger companion, was forced to change trains at Bologna after midnight, says Household. Hailing the porter she followed him from one platform to another and after he had deposited the ladies' wraps and luggage in the compartment, he received the usual fee for his services, he, with a smirk and an Italian "Thank you," started for the door.

The quick eye of the elder American traveller caught a sudden movement of his left hand. He had grasped the small hand bag from the seat, where it had been placed, and was concealing it under his coat. It contained valuable jewels, the railway tickets and all the money which they had with them.

This was an American woman of high courage and inflexible resolution. With one hand she snatched the bag, and with the other she collared the porter. Having regained possession of her hand bag, she flung the man out of the railway carriage and closed the door behind him.

A Funeral Gift.

The Queen is an expert and indefatigable knitter. During the last Egyptian campaign she and the ladies of the household employed themselves in knitting quilts, which at the end of the war were sent to Netley Hospital for the use of the wounded.

One of these, made entirely by Her Majesty and bearing an elaborate V. R. in the centre, was the covering par excellence of the institution, and in universal demand for a time.

In assessing the claims of the candidates for the honor of sleeping under it, the medical staff naturally gave the precedence to the most severely wounded, and the one most likely to die. Very soon, alas! an evil omen attached itself to the distinction, the climax of which was reached one night, when a poor soldier, feeling something touching his bedclothes, woke up with the perspiration pouring down his face, and cried out:

"Oh, sir, do anything you like with me, but for heaven's sake don't give me the quilt."

The Parson Was Not Intimidated.

A Methodist parson, called to preach in an out-of-the-way town in California, was informed before entering the pulpit that he must be careful, as many of the assembled congregation were "roughs," and would not hesitate to disturb him if his remarks didn't suit. The holy man made no reply, but, having reached the desk, he took from his pockets two revolvers, and, placing one on each side of the Bible, gave a sharp glance round the house, and said, "Let us pray." Report says that a more orderly service was never conducted.

He Got an Answer.

Hearing a faint rustle in the darkened hallway below, the elder sister, supposing the young man had gone, leaned over the balustrade and called out: "Well, Bessie, have you landed him?"

There was a deep, sepulchral silence for some moments; it was broken by the hesitating, constrained voice of the young man: "She has."—Hartford Times.

EVERY TRADE HAS ITS DISEASE.

It is well known that there are a number of dangerous trades which give rise to serious diseases; but, as a matter of fact, almost every occupation has some ailment peculiar to itself. A doctor can always tell if his patient is a baker, for instance, by the state of his teeth. The flour dust collects on the teeth, becomes acid, and gives rise to a special kind of decay. Bakers, owing to their irregular life, sleeping in the day and working at night, and because of the hot air and dust, are great victims to consumption. Blacksmiths, strong as they are, very often suffer from paralysis of the whole right ride from the continuous shock of hammering, and their eyes become weak from the glare of the fire. Athletes, strange to say, do not, as a rule, enjoy long life. Professional boxers, wrestlers, gymnasts, cyclists, are short lived, and suffer from enlargement of the heart and diseases of the lungs. Boilermakers get deaf from the continual loud noise. Brewers and brewers' drivers drink beer in such large quantities that they ruin their livers and generally die young. Bricklayers and plasterers are very healthy, and they are said to resemble asses in never dying. Butchers are very strong and healthy, but they suffer in health through eating little pieces of raw meat. Politicians are the greatest sufferers of all, the constant dram-drinking giving them indigestion, jaundice, and nervous diseases, killing them at an earlier age than members of any other profession. The sedentary life of lawyers, artists, students, and literary men gives rise to gout, which is said to kill more wise men than fools; dyspepsia, which made Carlyle's life such a torture, and apoplexy, which carries off hosts of great men.

The Black Bees of Tasmania.

A naturalist, recently traveling in a little-known part of Tasmania, came upon a group of eucalyptus trees 290 feet to 300 feet in height, and one measuring over 40 feet in diameter at the base.

High up the trunks of these enormous trees were some curious-looking swellings on the bark, which at first puzzled the explorer, but soon were ascertained to be the nest of a small, black wild bee of quite a new variety. The naturalist had one of the smaller trees cut down, and secured a large amount of honey of a deep orange color, having the curious flavor of the eucalyptus.

The honey is poisonous in large quantities; but is said to be most valuable medicinally, reducing the weight and improving the breathing of very stout people.

Unfortunately, all efforts to domesticate this insect have so far failed.—From Answers.

Need Not Fear to Eat Grape Seeds.

There is a popular and false notion that appendicitis is caused by a grape seed, an orange seed or some other foreign substance getting into the vermiform appendix. The true cause is the setting up of inflammation and consequent gangrene in the tissue of the appendix, usually due to insufficient circulation of blood in the part itself. In thousands of operations which have taken place—many in time to save the life of the patient, and many too late—there is not one authenticated case of a foreign substance, such as a seed, being found in the appendix. This will be more fully realized when one has in mind that the interior of the appendix is only big enough to admit a medium-sized darning needle. Its great liability to disease is due entirely to its low order of vital resistance.—New York Journal.

State Colleges.

There are forty State colleges in the United States, some States having more than one, and the number of students in 1896 was 52,000 which is about one-fifth of the total number of students in all the colleges in the country. Minnesota educates the largest number, 3,014, at State expense, Michigan being next with 2,575, then California with 2,400, followed by Wisconsin wth 1,600, Nebraska with 1,506, Iowa with 1,300 and Illinois with 1,100. Tuition fees are charged in only six states, the fee in North Carolina being $60, in South Carolina $40, in Iowa $25, in Missouri $30, in Oregon $10, and in South Dakota $9.—New York Tribune.

Big Sale of Buttons.

Two hundred thousand barrels of those souvenir buttons made and sold in the last three months is the record of one factory. There has been no diminution in the orders, either. Is the button "fad" becoming a permanent mania?

Spectacle Charity.

A useful charity, called the London Spectacle Mission, provides spectacles for needlewomen and other deserving persons dependent upon their eyesight for a living. Last year 726 applicants were provided with spectacles.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Lordly Dish.

Wild boar, roasted whole, was the chief dish at a State dinner recently given by the Prince of Montenegro. It was brought in smoking hot. Inside the boar was a turkey, and inside the turkey was a snipe which had been shot by the host.

BABES IN THE WOODS.

A SAD AND SORRY STORY OF SURPRISING SHAMEFULNESS.

Fanny Entertainment Given in Crescent Avenue Church Last Night as Arranged by Councilman Runyon.

The audience wept at the exceedingly tragic ending to the pantomime which was given at the sociable of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church, in the chapel last evening, but the tears came because everybody laughed so hard. It was really funny. Of course, it was absolutely foolish but that didn't make any difference as far as the humor of the affair went and old and young united in a hearty laugh at the droll actions of the silent actors.

The pantomime was not all the programme, however, and the rest was of equal excellence. After every seat in the chapel had been filled and all the available chairs in the building had been brought in and occupied, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges stepped forward as master of ceremonies and made a clever little speech introducing the different parts of the programme. There was a whistling solo by Evans, accompanied by Miss Elfleda Whiting. A piano duet by Miss Ada Marsh and Miss Edith Arens followed. A double recitation by Dr. VanD. Hedges and Frank O. Bristol was something novel. Dr. Hedges did the reciting and Bristol, who stood behind him, did the gesturing. The recitation was a humorous selection and the encore "Old Ironsides." The applause was tremendous. Frank O. Bristol gave several character sketches. His first was a scene from "David Copperfield." His encores were original, "The Elocution School" and a "Dog Song."

The event of the programme was the pantomime, "The Babes in the Woods," "A Sad and Sorry Story of the Surprising Shamefulness of a Sinner." The libretto expressly for the occasion was written by Councilman William N. Runyon and was read before each act by Dr. Hedges.

The prologue and first act was as follows:

PROLOGUE.

"Long, long ago, when the world was very young; when Dr. Richards was known as the naughtiest boy in the State of Maine, and Captain Ostrom was the leading soprano in a large boy choir, a handsome gentleman and a beautiful lady lay a dying in Muhlenburg Hospital. Bravely had they fought for life until Dr. Murray, after a careful diagnosis, had pronounced them cases of excessive cigarette smoking, whereat they coughed two big cigarette coughs and prepared for the worst.

"And as their lives flickered and waned, a great longing for the safety of their two pretty babes possessed their souls, and they wondered with anguish what would become of the little dears when they should be no more.

"For they knew that when they should be gone, their beloved kidlets would be left desolate and alone in the world with the exception of one Uncle, in whom they had none too much confidence.

"Now this uncle was as tough as a last year's chicken and had no more conscience than a dog has feathers. Indeed Judge De Meza said that he gave him more trouble than any other ten men in Plainfield. But being a foxy old party, he had contrived to ingratiate himself with his kind and noble brother as the end drew near, and seldom did a day pass but that he stopped at the Woman's Exchange and purchased some delicacy for the sufferers at the Hospital.

"For he knew, sly dog that he was, that his brother had a great sum of gold hidden away somewhere, having hoarded it for fear of Mr. Bryan's election, and he reasoned that by skillful manoeuvering, he might get possession of the little ones and thus recoup his shattered finances.

"And so it happened. Calling his brother to his bedside, the sick man tearfully besought him to take the little orphans home with him and to give them the same watchful care to which they had always been accustomed.

"'Sure Mike,' replied the tough brother. 'Gin me de kids an' I'll do de right ting by 'em ef it takes a leg, so help me Bob.'

"At which vulgar speech the sick lady and gentleman were so shocked that they fell backwards and expired immediately with sobs.

Act 1.

"Discloses the neat but not gaudy apartments of the tough uncle in the Rink Building on Watchung avenue. If this were not a pantomime, the clang and buzz of the trolley cars could be distinctly heard outside every

JILTED BY HIS FAIR ONE.

Francis Bartel Claims That After Giving Mary Lubkeman a Wedding Ring and $500 to Buy Furniture She Rejected Him.

It is usually the young woman that brings the beach-of-promise suit, but in a case that comes up in the Newark Court of Common Pleas today, in which a young man from Washingtonville plays a prominent part, it is the other side that takes the initiative.

The case is that of Francis Bartell, of Washingtonville, versus Mary Lubkeman, of Newark. Miss Lubkeman denies the truth of the story from beginning to end. Bartell claims that he has been very badly treated. According to his story, he met the young woman some time ago and they soon grew to be good friends. She was good looking and had many of the advantages of the young woman of the nineteenth century so that Bartell looked upon her as just the one to be the future Mrs. Bartell.

According to his story, he explained the situation to her and she agreed to become his wife. She wanted a ring, he says, and so he gave her the money to buy one. They talked of the time when they should go to housekeeping and he decided to let her take charge of the furnishings of the house and gave her the necessary funds to buy the furniture. He claims that he advanced over $500 in all for ring and furniture.

At last, she wearied of his attentions or else there was some more attractive young man in the field and she jilted him. She turned a deaf ear to all his pleadings and declared that she did not want to be the future Mrs. Bartell.

Bartell arose in wrath and went to see his lawyer, Robert M. Clark, of this city, and began proceedings to recover his money and secure satisfaction. Today the case comes up for trial and a very exciting one it is expected to be. The lawyer for the fair defendant is Elwood C. Harris, of Newark.

CONCERT PROGRAMME.

Those Who Will Participate in the H. S. A. A. Affair.

Every effort is being made to make the benefit concert of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association a success. As far as the entertainment itself is concerned, there is no doubt but that it will be well worth hearing, as a glance at the list of those who are to take part makes that very evident. It is the hope of the committee that the people of Plainfield will give the support that they deserve. The committee which has arranged the different details is composed of Charles Noble, chairman, Sydney R. Titsworth, treasurer, Henry W. Brower, Lindley M. Hillman, William A. DeLong, Jr., and Arthur W. Lederer.

Killed at Whitehouse.

Wm. Suydam was instantly killed Wednesday morning by the fast line bound east. About a month ago Suydam removed from Hall's Mills to a house on the Pickell farm, a mile west of Whitehouse Station. He was a miller by trade and out of employment. He almost daily walked down the Central Railroad tracks to the station. He was cut in three pieces. He was about 60 years old, and leaves a widow and several children.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, In the workings of His Divine Providence, it has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst our friend and fellow teacher, Elizabeth R. Ginn; and
Whereas, Her noble qualities both in heart and mind, her integrity of character, her uniform and unflinching allegiance to a high standard of principle have presented to us at once a character to emulate and a friend to love. Therefore be it
Resolved, That we, her fellow teachers, deeply saddened by her sudden death, extend our sympathy to those upon whom it bears most heavily, and be it further
Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to her family, and that they be printed in the daily papers of Plainfield.

A Long Journey for a Hair Cut.

Last Saturday a man came from Plainfield expressly to get his hair cut in the most approved Spring style at Joe Neigh's tonsorial studio in Odd Fellows' Building.—Clinton Democrat.

Decision for Plaintiff.

Justice Nash rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiff yesterday in the contract case of the Union Tire Company against Chapot. The judgment was for the full amount and costs.

TALKED ARCHITECTURE.

G. A. AUDSLEY'S LECTURE IN THE CAMERA CLUB ROOMS.

A Cultured Audience Present to Listen the Lecture Prepared by One Thoroughly Conversant With His Subject.

The audience that filled the Camera Club rooms last evening was in every respect a cultured and appreciated one, and the illustrated lecture, "The Mediaeval Architecture of England," held the closest attention of everyone. It was given by George Asndown Audsley, L. L. D., of the borough, who is a member of the Camera Club. Mr. Audsley is an architect and has made a deep study of his profession, especially of the work done in the middle ages. The speaker was introduced by Harold Serrell, a member of the club.

The lecture treated with the architecture of churches and cathedrals in England and showed that there is a wide difference between that described and the architecture of the present day in this country so far as churches are concerned.

The speaker said that within an area of 800 square miles in England there were twenty-four cathedrals. He considered that architecture was the queen of arts but that church architecture in this country had fallen very low in the present age. Christian architecture, he said, reached the culminating point in the thirteenth century.

At this point the views were thrown on the screen and Mr. Audsley spoke for over one hour covering a period of five centuries from 1020, and in no case were there more than two views of any one style of architecture. The views are without a doubt the finest ever witnessed in this city. Mr. Audsley divided his lecture into five parts and showed the advancement in architecture. Those present were impressed with the fact that during the above-mentioned periods much was accomplished in the style of architecture which had evidently been lost since that time. The amount of work performed in producing such grand effects in building was certainly thought to be the work of a life time. The speaker did not attempt to cover his subject elaborately in the way of description, for his views were so exceedingly expressive. He was obliged to give only a sketch of the various views, as the time would not allow him to go too deep into the subject.

The audience heartily applauded Mr. Audsley at the clase of his lecture and they were really sorry that it had come to an end.

Ex-Mayor Gilbert an Officer.

The annual election of officers of the Fulton Club was held at the club's quarters, in the Fulton and Market National Bank building, New York, yesterday. These officers were elected: President, Wm. Brcokfield; vice-president, Alexander Gilbert, of this city; secretary, Frederic S. Dow; treasurer, Henry B. Haigh; directors, J. H. Sprague, H. B. Platt and E. E. Brown.

New Pastor Chosen.

At a meeting of the members of St. Peter's German Lutheran church last evening they decided to extend a unanimous call to Rev. Eyme, of Philadelphia. Mr. Eyme preached at the church recently and he impressed the members very much by his earnestness. It is confidently expected that he will accept the call and enter upon his duties April 1st.

Up-to-Date Women.

The public meeting of the Town Improvement Association will be held on Tuesday, March 23d, at 3 p. m. Mrs. J. Scrimgeour, president of the Woman's Health Protective Association, of Brooklyn, will give an address She is a gifted and charming speaker and has attained high and honorable prominence in her work.

HAIRBREADTH ESCAPES OF SOLDIER IN THE CIVIL WAR.

Rev. Mr. Crampman Told Some of His Miraculous Experiences to an Audience in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Rev. Mr. Crampman delivered a very interesting lecture at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening. The speaker was a member of Sherman's army and he was engaged in twenty-seven battles during the war. An appreciative audience was present, who enjoyed the story told by Mr. Crampman. A portion of his remarks were as follows:

"I was with Sherman's army from Lookout Mountain to Bentonsville, where the last battle was fought, and I am proud to say that I am a representative of the men who shouldered the musket. I was in twenty-seven battles and have had some narrow escapes. At the battle at Dallas, Ga., in 1864, there was a little lull in the fighting, and wanting some water I went to a ravine close by to get it. A sharpshooter near by very nicely shot the cap off my head. I never knew what became of it, but it made me provoked and I broke the third article of war—that is, I used profanity. An old soldier who saw the affair said I ought to be thankful, and when he put up his hand, minus one finger, I was indeed grateful.

"Another time while some of the boys were standing around a campfire a shell exploded in our midst and three of our number were killed. At the battle of Lost Mountain we had been fighting all the morning. We threw up breastworks and laid down. I don't know how long I slept, but when I awoke I learned that I had lost my hearing, as a result of the cannonading. I could see the boys fighting when presently my hearing returned and I was seized with feelings that I could not describe. The battle lasted ten hours.

"At the battle of Peach Tree Creek, I had a wonderful escape. Just in front of there was a line of soldiers in U. S. uniform. They were leading us on until within two feet of the Rebels. We then saw that they were seven deep and we were only two deep. In the attempt to get away I lost my shoes in the mud. While I was retreating a cannon ball landed in the mud about four feet from where I was. A little further on a piece of shell struck my musket and shattered it. I lost my haversack and also my cartridge box. When I had time to take account of stock I certainly looked as though I had been in a threshing machine. After the battle there were over 1,900 dead on the field. After that I was sent to an arsenal in Savannah and I had a fear that something was wrong. I had not been absent from the place long when there was an awful explosion and the arsenal was blown to atoms. This was another narrow escape for me. During the rest of the time I was in the army I had several narrow escapes, but I was fortunate in coming home alive and I am indeed grateful."

JUNIOR LOCAL UNION.

Young Christian Endeavorers' Plan for an Active Year.

The superintendents of the Junior Christian Endeavor Societies of this city met at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon to arrange for a meeting of the Juniors to be held one afternoon during the evangelistic meetings which are to be held during the first week in April. Friday afternoon, April 9th, was the date decided upon. The speaker will be announced later.

It was also decided at the meeting to organize a local union, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; vice president, Rev. H. J. Johnston; secretary and treasurer, Miss Olive Wickoff.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

There were three cases for Justice Newcorn to try yesterday afternoon. The case of Tallman against Pierson, on contract, he adjourned until March 24th. The landlord and tenant cases of Hetfield against Fine and Hetfield against Southard were tried and judgment rendered for the plaintiff for possession of the premises. A dispossess warrant was issued in the first case.

Talked Temperance.

An excellent meeting was held at the Reform Hall last evening which was well attended. Rev. L. E. Livermore made the address of the evening and it was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Blake rendered selections on the mandolin and Wm. Smith, Jr., gave selections on the piano. Before the meeting closed seven signers were secured to the pledge.

OUTRUN THE POLICEMAN

BUT THAT DID NOT PREVENT A DUSKY WOMAN'S ARREST.

Louise Tucker, Caught Stealing Coal, Beat a Hasty Retreat, But She Was Finally Brought to Court and Paid a Fine

There is one colored woman in the West End that holds the championship of that district for sprinting, especially if a blue coated policeman is bringing up the rear of the procession. There are usually quite a number of coal cars to be found near there and stand invitingly open. The consequence is that sometimes some of the residents of the neighborhood find themselves on one of the cars with a bag or pail and manage to collect enough of the black diamonds to keep the fire going for some time.

Patrolman Fraleigh has been the officer to look after that part of the town. One day this week he had his eye on the tracks and discovered the dusky sprinter perched on one of the coal cars, shoveling away for dear life. She saw the blue coat and the brass buttons and fled. Patrolman Fraleigh was not in the footrace, so he waited.

He made a complaint before the City Judge yesterday morning and a warrant was issued. Then he started forth armed with the warrant. His chase was a long one but the arrest was made in the afternoon. Louise Tucker, the dusky sprinter, and a friend named Elliott, were arranged before City Judge DeMeza.

Miss Elliott was the incriminating witness and told her story. She said that she had been walking past the car with a pail in her hand when she had heard the melodious voice of Louise from the car above call to her to hand up her pail and she would fill it for her. Miss Elliott handed up the pail and Louise filled it. It was at about this time that Patrolman Freleigh was reconnoitering the position of the enemy and Louise skipped down the track for parts unknown.

After hearing the testimony, the Judge decided that Louise was guilty and sentenced her to pay a fine of $5 or go down the road for twenty days. The financial conditions are improving for the fine was paid.

FUNERAL OF MISS GINN.

Many Floral Tributes Expressed Esteem for the Departed.

The funeral services of the late Miss Elizabeth R. Ginn were held last evening at 6 o'clock from the house, 109 Central avenue. Rev. C. L. Goodrich officiated and offered prayer.

Superintendent A. D. Warde, the teachers of the North Plainfield Public High School and several members of the Board of Education attended in a body.

The floral tributes were beautiful and expressed the esteem and regard for the departed. A large basket of white roses came from the class of which Miss Ginn was the teacher. There were also tributes from the teachers and other members of the school. Many of the scholars, not knowing what time the services were to be held, sent a large collection of flowers to the school this morning.

Last evening the body was sent to Bucksport, Me., where interment will be made tomorrow.

A Complete Surprise.

A very complete surprise was tendered to Miss Nettie Chandler, of East Third street, last evening, in honor of the celebration of her birthday. The event was arranged by Miss Lillian Chandler and Ralph Tolles, and the surprised was taken by storm. The chief feature of the evening was dancing, and it was early when the guests departed for their homes. At midnight a sumptuous repast was served.

Entertained Her Sunday-school Class.

Miss Mabel Wilson, of West Fourth street, entertained her Sunday-school class at her home last evening. The time was passed in playing games and being social. Those present were William Vandeventer, Hiram Humes, Willard Swick, George Creveling, George Reynolds.

Jackson Building.

There are still a few very desirable apartments unrented in this elegant modern apartment house. Several have recently been rented. The rates are very reasonable. Immediate possession given. Enquire at Packer's furniture store.

After a Foreign Post.

Congressman Fowler is recommending Dr. George H. Bridgeman for Minister to Colombia. Dr. Bridgeman, it is said, is the leading physician and one of the most prominet citizens of Elizabeth. He is about forty-five years old, and is a graduate of Dartmouth College.

Miss May Wilson, daughter of Mayor John F. Wilson, of "Tunlaw," North Plainfield, has gone to Philadelphia to visit friends.

BURGLARIES AT EVONA.

MADE A DARING ENTRANCE INTO TWO RESIDENCES.

In the House of Mrs. Sherman He Walked Into Three Bedrooms and Stole Articles—Neaf Apgar's Home Entered.

Clinton avenue and vicinity was the scene of another visitation from Plainfield's unknown burglar early this morning. Two houses were entered in that part of the city and a considerable amount of valuables taken. The thief showed his well known partiality for entering bed-rooms and in one case robbed a woman of her jewels before her terrified eyes.

The clock showed the hour to be 3:30 o'clock when Mrs. Annie Sherman, who lives with her son and one boarder at 1307 Astor place, not far from Clinton avenue, was awakened by the sound of some one moving about her room. When she opened her eyes, the dim light showed the figure of a man standing at her bureau. A black Fedora hat with the brim turned down hid his features.

Slowly the unbidden guest picked up the valuables from the bureau and jewel case and transferred them, one by one, to his pockets while Mrs. Sherman lay still watching him. She made no sign, fearing personal injury should she attempt to interrupt him. The man then walked into her son's room and she sprang from her bed and hurried to arouse her boarder, A. D. Neuman.

In her fright it was several minutes before she could explain what had happened and when she did and Mr. Neuman started to investigate, the burglar had disappeared and the front door now wide open showed his probable exit.

The articles missed by Mrs. Sherman are a gold watch, two valuable rings, a diamond pin and two diamond ear-rings. Her son, Arthur, a young man of about twenty years, kept his loaded revolver on the bureau ready for a conflict with a burglar. The thief evidently found it and thought that it was just what he wanted, for it is gone. Arthur Sherman also lost forty-eight cents in change. The thief also visited Mr. Neuman's room and took a ring belonging to him.

Entrance was gained through one of the lower windows. A small piece of the glass near the catch had already been broken and the thief had merely to put his hand through and unlock the catch. A window in the sitting room and the back door were left open by the visitor.

The burglar also gained entrance to the front room in the residence of Neaf Apgar, on Clinton avenue, near Green Brook, through a window. The door of the room was locked on the other side which barred progress for the marauder. In the room were two of the trophies which Mr. Apgar had won in different trap-shooting contests. One of them was valued at $100. One was gold and the other silver. None in the house knew of the depredation until morning.

ROBERT E. SCULLY FOUND.

Missing for Three Weeks, he Appears in Havana.

Ayers Scully, a brother of Robert E. Scully, the young man who mysteriously disappeared from Camden, about three weeks ago, and whose disappearance almost distracted his msther and sisters, who live at Somerville, received a telegram while in this city this morning announcing that the young man was in Havana with the American Consul General Fitzhugh Lee. The telegram came from the Superintendent of Police of Philadelphia, whose assistance was invoked in the search for the missing man.

Now that he has received the telegram Ayers Scully says that the whole thing is clear to him.

He says that his brother was always a very great admirer of the Cuban insurrectionary Generals Gomez and Maceo, and a sympathizer with the Cubans in their struggles for liberty.

For several weeks before his disappearance he used to talk with his brother about what a splendid opportunity a young and energetic American would have in Havana after the patriots had achieved their independence. Three weeks ago last Tuesday he told his brother that he had received a very flatter from a Philadelphia firm.

He took apartments the same day at 636 Washington street, Camden, and paid his board for a week in advance. He had $600 with him which he drew out of the bank the day before he left. He disappeared from his boarding house Wednesday.

HOPE ALMOST GONE

Thought That No More of the St. Nazaire's Company Survive.

STORY OF THE RESCUE OF THE FOUR

Horrible Tortures Endured by Those Who Lived a Week in an Open Boat Without Food or Water. Seventy-eight Perish.

New York, March 19.—The story of the loss off Cape Hatteras of the steamship Ville de St. Nazaire and the rescue of only four of a total of eighty-two on board is one of the most awful and heart-rending in the annals of disasters at sea, not alone on account of the number of lives lost, but because of the fearful agony endured by those who floated about in a small boat for six days and nights without a morsel of food or a drop of water to temper their anguish until insanity and then death came to the relief of all but four before rescue hove in sight. As time goes on and no news is heard of those who entered the other three boats belonging to the vessel, the agents of the French line in this city, while still maintaining that there is hope, by their looks and actions plainly contradict the fair promises told by words. In maritime circles it is the opinion, openly expressed, that even if the small boats were not engulfed by the fearful waves of the storm, all who sought refuge in them must have perished of thirst and starvation, for they were no better provisioned than the one boat, in which were the four survivors picked up by the schooner Hilda and brought to this port. Not one of those rescued, including Capt. Berry, has yet recovered his faculties sufficiently to tell a connected story of the disaster, but from what can be gathered from each one's incoherent sentences, supplemented by the statements of the captain and mate of the rescuing schooner Hilda, the sad event and the long days spent on the open ocean in a frail craft must have been of most exqtreme torture.

An Awful Sight.

In telling of the rescue of the survivors of the wrecked steamship the captain of the Hilda said that never in his long experience on the sea had he seen such an awful sight as was presented by the small boat and its occupants when the Hilda came alongside. When the small boat containing the survivors was sighted, the schooner was brought around and directed toward the boat. A very high sea was running at the time, and it took almost an hour to reach her. After some manoeuvering the Hilda was brought so close to the small boat that her crew could see its interior. Half standing, half kneeling in her were four men, hollow-cheeked and wild-eyed. Their lips, swoollen and parched, moved slowly, but not a sound came forth other than a gasp like that coming from the lips of a dying man. Their tongues, covered with sores and clotted blood, protruded from between their teeth, too much swollen to be longer retained in their mouths.

Dead of Exposure and Starvation.

Their eyes protruded as if the men were being choked. On the stern of the boat sat a man half-dressed and apparently laughing. His mouth and eyes were wide open and as the boat rose and fell he seemed to nod his head to the men of the Hilda, who leaned over her sides half afraid to go into the tossing craft. On the bottom of the boat lay three other men. They rolled about as the waves passed, but none of them rose. They were dead; so was the man who sat in the stern with that ghastly smile on his face—dead of exposure and starvation. The four live men were insane, and weak as men could get who had gone for a week with nothing to eat and no water. They were alive and that was all. Finding that the men in the boat were helpless, two of the Hilda's crew climbed down her sides, and when a wave lifted the boat within reach, stepped aboard.

May Never Again Be Sane.

One of the four men attracting their attention by groans, managed to carry his hand to his mouth and pointed down his throat. Quickly the four men were passed up to the Hilda's deck. Exposure to the salt water had blistered their skin in great blotches and their hands were raw from pulling at the oars. A little coffee was given to them and all four were put to bed. They quickly went to sleep and when brought to this port were somewhat improved, but now there are fears that, even if they live, some, if not all, may never again be sane.

ANOTHER THRILLING STORY.

New York, March 19.—The crew of the steamship Rialto, from Glasgow, brought to this port by the Carthagenian, have a story to tell almost as thrilling, but with a happier ending, than the four nearly lifeless survivors of the Ville de St. Nazaire. While in mid-ocean, and while a veritable hurricane was blowing, a terrific explosion occurred among the chemicals which composed part of her cargo. The explosion in the forehold blew the hatch cover into the air, killed one seaman and injured the chief mate. Dense columns of thick, yellow smoke poured out, a choking penetrating odor pervade the ship. The crew was at once called to fire quarters and the hose was stretched. It was necessary to batten down the hatch to prevent the fire from having full vent. Meanwhile the ship was wallowing in the high sea and occasionally burying herself under great giant combers. The lifeboats were smashed by the seas, and the crew saw death staring them in the face. All hands worked with desperate energy, but in spite of all efforts the fire seemed to gain headway. Then the Carthagenian was sighted and in reply to signals promised to stand by until the weather moderated sufficiently to permit boats to be lowered. The Rialto seaman did not relax their efforts to subdue the fire, but it crept further into the cargo and the decks grew hotter and hotter. For forty hours the Allan liner stood by and then the weather moderated enough to make it possible for a lifeboat to leave. As the Rialto's boats were all gone Capt. France of the Carthagenian ordered his manned, and after a great struggle the entire crew were taken off without mishap. Capt. Rippeth said that when he abandoned the Rialto the plate seams were gaping and there was fifteen feet of water in the main hold, so that her sinking was only a matter of a few hours. The rescued crew saved none of their effects.

REFERRED TO THE PRESIDENT.

Washington, March 19.—Secretary Sherman has referred to the president for his action the question of making a change in the head of the bureau of American republics. When the resignation of Clinton Furbish, the present occupant, was requested, and the place was tendered to Joseph P. Smith of Ohio, Secretary Sherman did not remember that this was an international appointment and that the rules require that applicants shall be examined by a board of five of the executive committee. These formalities were not complied with in the case of Mr. Smith's designation. Several of the Latin-American ministers said this morning that if the bureau was simply an adjunct of the department of state they did not see the justice of being required to contribute to its support. They had no objection to urge to Mr. Smith but simply complained that they had no voice in his selection. It is understood that Mr. Smith has been communicated with and will be asked to accept some other position.

MISSISSIPPI FLOODS.

Harrowing Tales of Suffering and Death Told by Refugees.

Memphis, Tenn., March 19.—The work of rescuing the people in the flooded district is being carried on night and day and this morning half a dozen steamers brought to Memphis over 1,000 refugees. The steamboat men tell some harrowing stories of suffering and death. One woman who was rescued from an Indian mound, fifteen miles west of here, held in her arms a dead infant that had perished from cold and hunger. Another family of four, when rescued, related that two small children were drowned in sight of their helpless parents. Islands Nos. 40, 37, 36 and 34, in the Mississippi river are completely submerged and the inhabitants, to the number of about 600, have abandoned their homes. Rain is still falling and the river continues to rise. The levees are standing the strain much better than was expected, but a break is liable to occur at any moment.

PASSED THE ORDEAL.

Washington, March 19.—A Carnegie Harveyized plate representing a 600 ton lot of the side armor of the Kearsarge kept out two projectiles from a 10-inch rifle at Indian Head in a remarkable manner. The plate was of the tapering pattern—its thickness being 16¼ inches at the top and running off to 9¼ at the bottom. The first shot struck it with a velocity of 1,380 feet per second and after getting its nose only two inches into the metal bounded out, leaving the plate uninjured. The second projectile was started with the maximum velocity of 1,850 feet per second and was intended to penetrate the plate or smash it in the effort. It embedded itself to the depth of seven inches, and the plate, remaining intact, passed the ordeal magnificently. The lot will be promptly accepted.

Too Expensive To Extradite Him.

Washington, March 19.—The secretary of state has cabled the consul at Cape Town to permit the release of J. Aubrey Bennett, who was detained there a few days ago for embezzlement at Utica, N. Y., the governor of New York having telegraphed the state department that the local authorities did not feel like incurring the expense involved in returning Bennett to Utica for trial.

Off for Their Southern Practice.

Boston, March 19.—The Boston Baseball club, which sailed yesterday afternoon for their southern training ground, including Manager Selee, number thirteen. They will arrive at Savannah Sunday afternoon, and from March 23 until April 16 the Bostons will steadily train for the opening game, April 19, at the South End grounds.

Funeral of George H. Coes.

Boston, March 19.—George H. Coes, the once famous minstrel, was consigned to the grave beside the body of his old partner, Luke Schoolcraft, in Cedar Grove cemetery yesterday afternoon. Funeral services were held at the church of the Advent and were attending by about 300 friends of the deceased.

Chosen International Umpire.

Washington, March 19.—L. M. Haupt of Philadelphia has been selected as the umpire in the dispute between Colombia and the United States in the case of the confiscation by the government of the property of the Cauca Railway company, in that republic.

Scott To Be Released.

Havana, March 19.—The supreme court has dismissed the case of Charles Scott, the American who was arrested recently on the charge of having Cuban postage stamps in his possession. It is expected that he will be released to-day.

OYSTERS FOR LONDONERS.

They Are Packed So Tightly in Barrels that Their Juice Cannot Escape.

The barrelling of oysters for the London market is done carefully. The oysters are laid in with the deep shell down, and packed tightly. When the heads are hammered down not an oyster in all that company can open his shell the fractional part of an inch. They are fastened in close confinement, and their juice cannot escape.

The strange result of this treatment is that when the barrels are opened in London town the oysters are fatter and finer flavored than when they are raked up. For ten days they have been fattening on their own liquor, and they are a thousand times more healthy than those atrocious oysters which so many dealers fatten in fresh water and serve up, bloated, diseased and with all their delicious flavor destroyed, just to make full measure and feast the eyes of those who know no better than to eat oysters that have been freshened.

"Good business," said the boss. "Yes, pretty fair, I must say. But we had a great fight at the first. The London people were afraid of American oysters. I guess they thought they had trichinae or something in them. For a time we couldn't make them go, and we had a lot of barrels spoiled on our hands. But our agents over there kept at it till they got the flavor of them on their palates, and now we can't keep up with the demand. It has been suggested that we quietly run in some "Jersey blue points" or some of those that grow in the Sound and pass muster on easy people for the real Great South Bay article. But we are not in such a hurry as that to get rich. We send our own goods and none other."—New York World.

It was at the dinner table. There were present several poets and writers of repute, among whom was a charming and witty American woman. One of the poets related a story he had heard of Wordsworth. It seems that this bard was in the habit of writing at night and in the early morning, and that he used to rouse his wife and exclaim, about four o'clock, "Maria, get up! I have thought of a good word!" Whereupon his obedient helpmeet arose, and recorded it on paper. About an hour after a new inspiration would seize upon the poet, and he would call out, "Maria, get up! I've thought of a better word!" We listened to this story with admiration, but the bright-eyed American remarked, with a wave of the red rose in her hand, "Well, if he'd been my husband, I should have said, 'Wordsworth, get up! I've thought of a bad word!'"

Polly Took Care of Herself.

A veteran showman had a parrot which always sat beside him in his office and thus learned his lingo, which was to this effect: "Stand back, now—plenty of time! Take your turn. Don't crowd." The parrot one day happened to fly away and got lost. The owner was much troubled about it, but a little while afterward the attention of one of the show people was attracted by a flock of crows on a hill at the back of the town. Approaching the spot, the man discovered the parrot sitting on a log with his feathers up, trying to defend himself against a score of crows. And not only was he thus found, but there he sat, screaming at the top of his voice: "Stand back, now—plenty of time! Take your turn. Don't crowd."

Masonry in South Africa.

The steady and uninterrupted growth of Free-masonry in South Africa in general, and this State in particular, is unmistakably phenomenal. Marvelous has been the progress during the last few years, and the progression made and prominence attained are quite in keeping with the onward march of Johannesburg itself. The praiseworthy yet unostentatious manner in which large sums of money belonging to the various lodges have been bestowed is on a par with the customary traditions of the order.—Johannesburg Star.

Russian Jurymen.

The most incredible stories are told of Russian jurymen. Thus, the foreman of a jury declared he would not send a poor fellow to prison because it happened to be his (the juryman's) birthday. Another jury had agreed upon a verdict of guilty when the church bells began to ring. They revised their verdict because a holiday had begun. A burglar was allowed to go free because the man whom he had robbed had refused to lend him money. This in the opinion of the jury, was a direct incentive to crime.—Literary Digest.

Beyond Her Understanding.

Lizette—Is it a noice place ye have, Marie?

Marie (a new arrival)—Noice enough, but it's beyant me undershtandin' phy they do make me do such quare things.

"Quare, Marie?"

"Yis, sure. Ivery mornin' the missus tills me to swape the doost from the flure, an' phin I'm done she gives me a rag and makes me shoo the doost back to the flure agin."—New York

Constipation

Causes fully half the sickness in the world. It retains the digested food too long in the bowels and produces biliousness, torpid liver, indigestion, bad taste, coated tongue, sick headache, insomnia, etc. Hood's Pills cure constipation and all its results easily and thoroughly. 25c. IS IT A SUSTAINER?

How much manual labor do you think you do in a day? A post-man averages about 353 foot-tons. An ordinary laborer 350 tons. A very hard day's work would be 400 tons. A clerk or bookkeeper may fall as low as from 15 to 20 tons. In Weston's recent walk to Albany, 150 miles, in 60 hours, we calculate his work was no less than 1005 foot-tons, and his food consisted entirely of Oatmeal. As an ideal sustainer, H-O meets every demand.

BLOCKADE ON SUNDAY

Powers Circulating Their Proclamations Throughout Crete.

GREEK SHIPS MUST KEEP AWAY

Athens, March 19.—In the boule M. Skouzes, minister of foreign affairs, announced last night that the foreign admirals in Cretan waters had issued a proclamation stating that a blockade of Crete would begin at 8 o'clock on the morning of March 21—Sunday next. After that time no Greek vessels would be allowed to enter the ports of the island, and the vessels of other nations desiring to enter must first obtain permission from the admirals. Warships will make a cruise around the island delivering to the inhabitants of the chief ports proclamations declaring that the powers intend to establish autonomy in the island, and that the blockade will begin on the day specified. It has been decided that the foreign troops who are to be landed to carry out the purposes of the powers shall be located at different places. The French troops will be placed at Sitia and Spinalonga, the British at Candia, the Russian at Retimo and the German at Suda bay and Canea. It has not been stated where the Austrian and Italian forces shall be placed. The announcement that the blockade would begin on Sunday was received calmly. The chamber and the people generally are resigned to this action on the part of the powers, believing that the attempted imposition of autonomy on the Cretans will prove futile and that the island will ultimately fall to Greece.

SINKING OF A GREEK SCHOONER.

London, March 19.—A dispatch from Rome states that Greece will protest against the firing upon and sinking of the Greek schooner by an Austrian gunboat. She will claim that the action of the warship was arbitrary, the place where she sank the schooner not being directly under the protection of the powers, and will also protest that the warship was not warranted in firing upon the vessel as there was no blockade declared or established at the time. The dispatch adds that the incident is regarded in Rome as being significant, inasmuch as it is considered proof that the concert of the powers is perfect. A dispatch from Vienna says that all the information the government has received is that the Austrian gunboat Sebenico sank a Greek schooner with a cargo of munitions of war and a number of Cretan insurgents on board. The Sebenico, under the orders of the British admiral commanding the British squadron in Cretan waters, was patroling off Cape Dia, Crete, when the schooner hove in sight. The schooner was hailed by the gunboat, and the insurgents on board in reply opened fire upon the Sebenico, whereupon the latter turned her guns on the schooner and sank her. The crew of the schooner swam ashore uninjured.

Four More of the Veliky Crew Dead.

Canea, March 19.—Four more of the crew of the Russian turret ship Sisois Veliky, who were injured by the explosion of one of the great guns of the ship near Suda bay on Monday, have succumbed to their injuries. This makes the total number of deaths thus far caused by the explosion twenty-five. The British warship Barfleur has sailed hence for Kissamo for the purpose of embarking the Turkish garrison which, numbering 300 men, have been besieged by insurgents for several days. It is stated that the Turkish position at Kissamo is surrounded by 5,000 rebels.

Gov. Griggs' Nominations Confirmed.

Trenton, March 19.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations: George Wurts for secretary of state, William Ritter, jr., for clerk of the supreme court, William Bettle for commissioner of banking and insurance, Samuel S. Moore for keeper of the state prison, and for members of the board of medical examiners, Aaron K. Baldwin, Edwin DeBaum and George F. Wilbur.

Consul-General Iasigi's Case.

Washington, March 19.—The case of Joseph Iasigi, Turkish consul-general at Boston, who is under arrest charged with the embezzlement of a large sum of money while acting as a trustee, has reached the supreme court of the United States and will be argued some day next week.

Gov. Cooke's Nominations Confirmed.

Hartford, March 19.—The senate has confirmed Gov. Cooke's nominations as follows: State board of health—Ralph S. Goodwin of Thomaston and William H. Brewer of New Haven. State board of agriculture—T. E. Platt of Newtown and William B. Sprague of Andover.

Admiral Ramsay's Successor.

Washington, March 19.—It is considered practically settled in the navy department that Admiral Ramsay's successor as chief of the most important naval bureau, that of navigation, will be commodore Albert Kautz, now a captain, but to be promoted April 5 on Admiral Ramsay's retirement.

Death of James Blair.

Scranton, Pa., March 19.—James Blair, aged 90 years, died last evening. He was several times a millionaire and a brother of the widely-known railroad magnate, John I. Blair, of Blairstown, N. J. Deceased was the oldest bank director in the United States.

OFFICE APPLICANTS

THE CHICAGO POSTMASTERSHIP

Congressman Gordon Likely To Receive the Appointment—A Large List of Applicants for Positions Under the Treasury Department.

Washington, March 19.—President McKinley has decided that public matters will not permit him to attend the Decoration Day celebration at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. Representatives Bartholdt and Joy of St. Louis called on him with reference to the matter and were told that, as congress would be in session at the time, he felt obliged to remain in Washington. A conference between Senator Mason and President McKinley concerning the postmastership at Chicago has been held. C. N. Gordon is the candidate of Senator Mason and the representatives in congress from Chicago. The resignation of Postmaster Hesing makes an early appointment to the office necessary, and Senator Mason is confident that Mr. Gordon will be the man. Ex-Representative Settle of North Carolina called on the president with Representatives Linney and Pierson, who urged his appointment as judge of the eastern division of North Carolina. They are confident that Mr. Settle will get the place. Other North Carolina offices have not been so easily arranged. A big delegation is here from the Tar-heel state, headed by Senator Pritchard, to talk about offices. The congressional delegation has been unable to agree on candidates. A candidate for consul-general at Berlin has appeared in the person of Dr. Hugh Pitcairn of Harrisburg, Pa. He is backed by Representatives Olmstead and Hicks. Senator Penrose and Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania saw the president in the interest of constituents, chief of whom is Charlemange Tower of Philadelphia, who wants to be an ambassador. Senator Lodge saw the president in behalf of H. L. Frothingham of Boston, candidate for commissioner of patents. Other Massachusetts men whose claims were presented were Boyd B. Jones of Haverhill, by Representative Moody, for district attorney in his state, and James D. Gill of Springfield, by Representative Gillett, for United States marshal. These candidates have been agreed on by the Massachusetts delegation in congress. Senator Hoar was with Messrs. Moody and Gillett.

Want Treasury Positions.

Quite a large number of applications for positions under the treasury department have been placed on file. Every applicant wanted to be an internal revenue collector. Among them are the following: Pennsylvania—C. H. Otterman, of Millsboro, at Pittsburg; Robert Parish, Mariensville, at Pittsburg; Charles Davis, Philadelphia, at Scranton. Massachusetts—A. B. Champlin, Revere, at Boston; G. Y. Banchor, Boston, at Boston. New York—E. Gumpert, New York city, at New York; Thomas F. Eagan, New York city, at New York; A. P. Hinman, Brooklyn, at Brooklyn; A. W. Schumacher, Brooklyn, at Brooklyn; Theo. Meyer, New York city, at New York; Wm. B. Jones, Jamestown, at Rochester. Other applicants are as follows: New Jersey—John Harrison, Perth Amboy, collector of customs at Perth Amboy. Massachusetts—W. W. Castle and M. W. Berthong, Boston, appraisers of merchandise at Boston. New York—J. H. Brewer, Trenton, appraiser of merchandise at New York; Peter Twanley and J. S. Isaacs, New York city, assistant appraisers at New York.

IMPORTANT PLACES FILLED.

President McKinley's Latest Nominations Were Anticipated for Some Time.

Washington, March 19.—President McKinley's nominations of Powell Clayton of Arkansas as minister to Mexico, William M. Osborne of Massachusetts as consul general at London, John K. Gowdy of Indiana as consul general at Paris, Joseph H. Brigham of Ohio as assistant secretary of agriculture and Perry S. Heath of Indiana to be first assistant postmaster general have all been anticipated for some time, and consequently created no surprise yesterday afternoon when announced. So far as known there is no opposition to any of the nominees, and they will be confirmed when reported from the committees to which they have been referred.

Hawaii's Excellent Financial Showing.

Washington, March 19.—It is understood that the visit of Minister Hatch and Attorney General Smith of Hawaii upon Secretary Sherman yesterday, while not for the purpose of asking for annexation, enabled the secretary to become familiar with the excellent financial showing made by the government of the islands in the past year and the demonstration of its minister of finance that the United States would find it profitable to assume the Hawaiian national debt of $4,000,000.

Favor the Peace Treaty.

Hanover, N. H., March 19.—The faculty of Dartmouth college have sent a communication to the New Hampshire senators expressing their desire for the early and favorably consideration of the arbitration treaty by congress.

To Reduce Telegraph Tolls.

Concord, N. H., March 19.—The house has adopted a resolution directing the judiciary committee to report a bill reducing telegraph tolls.

March 23—Regular public meeting of the Town Improvement Association in Y. M. C. A. hall at 8 p. m.

DEFRAUDING HOTEL KEEPERS.

The State Senate yesterday had a discussion on Senator Barber's bill providing that persons making a false show of baggage to hotel and boarding house keepers, and then absconding without paying their board, shall be liable to arrest and six months imprisonment. Senator Kuhl said that the bill was needed, as people would go to hotels and boarding houses with satchels and trunks containing nothing but waste paper. Senator Hoffman said the bill was dangerous, as it gave landlords too much latitude and might lead to abuses in which honest man might be subjected to arrest and, being strangers, might not be able to get bail. Senator Reed talked on the same strain, and said where landlords suspected boarders they should collect their board in advance. The bill was defeated.

A NEW FINANCIAL BILL.

Speaking of the financial bill he has introduced, Congressman Fowler says:

My financial bill is an extension on the same lines, with added details, of my bill of last Congress. The section providing insurance on deposits is a new one. The expenses is only one-twelfth of 1 per cent. I will have out a statement in a few days, making full explanations derived from the Treasury Department and other sources.

Mr. Fowler does not know what action, if any, will be taken at this session, but he will be prepared to advocate his measure, if there is an opportunity, before the Committee on Banking and Currency.

TO TURN EDITOR.

Rev. J. A. Wells, who gained considerable notoriety as the Democratic Congressional candidate in the Third District last fall, is about to commence the publication of the Bernardsville News. Though it is not stated, the paper will probably espouse bi-metalism.

OPERATED IN THE EAR.

John McCarthy Has a Superficial Growth Removed by Dr. Ard.

Dr. F. C. Ard, assisted by Dr. Murray, performed a very successful operation on John McCarthy, nine year old son of Timothy McCarthy, of West Front street, at the hospital yesterday afternoon. For the past two years the boy suffered intensely from a growth in the ear. It did not grow very fast but was exceedingly painful. Dr. Ard was consulted and he advised the boy to have the growth removed. It was about the size of a walnut and the doctars thought that it was the result of scarlet fever which the boy had a few years ago. The time set for the operation was yesterday and it was in every way very successful and in a short time he will recover from the effects of that which caused him great pain.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEIR ANNUAL GAMBOL.

INMATES OF MORRIS PLAINS ASYLUM ENJOY A FANCY DRESS BALL.

"The Kerry Star" Contributes an Epic in Honor of the Occasion—Those Who Took Part and the Costumes They Wore.

One of the most unique events in New Jersey social life is the affair known as the annual gambol of the inmates of the Morris Plains Asylum. Last Wednesday the one for this year was held with great eclat.

Sometimes at this institution, as at all others of the same sort, an inmate goes on a limited gambol of his own, with which the authorities are not in full sympathy, but the annual fancy dress ball is not one of these occasions. The ball usually happens on Washington's Birthday, but as the measles is no respecter of birthdays and saw fit to evade the hospital on February 22, the ball went over to the day of him who drove the snakes from Ireland. The ball is the affair of the year, because it gives some of the inmates an opportunity to obtain recognition in the characters to which they think they are justly entitled. The octogenarian who regards himself as Cleopatra has his claim allowed for once, and Richard is really himself again. For weeks the inmates have been busy in the selection and preparation of costumes, in the choice of which they are, for the most part, allowed to exercise their own taste. Occasionally, however, there manifests itself a tendency toward a violently realistic or up-to-date garb that has to be sternly checked.

One dement, for instance, desired to appear as Grover Cleveland, loaded down with fishing tackle and burdened with several duck guns. Still another desired to appear as Thomas C. Platt and entertain the dancers with a few verses of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mr. Coffee, the poet of the asylum, who hides himself from literary glory under the name of "The Kerry Star," has been more stirred up over the festivity than anybody else. For weeks he has hardly left his room except for meals, and sometimes he forgot those in his fine frenzy rolling. He has reduced three dozen pencils to kindling wood by scribbing with one end of each and chewing the other, but he finally turned out a poem in celebration of the ball which he thinks is the equal to anything he has ever done. He showed it to the Press correspondent deprecating the fact, however, that it was only three yards long this year. Last year it was four. It begins with an invocation that will make Homer green with envy. Here it is:

Ye celestial deities sequestrate my rhyme
Apart from poetasters, who infest our clime:
Your special atttention I earnestly call
To bestow your graces on our fancy dress ball

We pray send your Hermes to manage our floor
With Benton, Euterpe and famed Terpischore,
Creat Amphion and Thetis, with Kirchner and Dan,
George Hiler, Orpheus T. Limmons and Pan.

It will be observed that the poet joins the names of T. Simmons, et al., who are attendants at the hospital, to company to which they are doubtless little used.

The ball itself began at 7 o'clock, when Warden Moses K. Everitt and Mrs. Everett, costumed as George and Martha Washington, took their places on the receiving platform in the big flower and flag-bedecked hall on the third floor of the vast building. Then entered Dr. Evans, the medical superintendent of the hospital, and Mrs. Evans, garbed as Lafayette and Mme. De Stahl.

A gorgeous herald proclaimed their entrance, and a page presented them personally to George and Martha. Afterward, in the same fashion, entered the remainder of the sixty couples that took part in the grand march. At a signal from the mock father of his country the band burst into a march, and the mimic sixty entered upon the first steps of an intricate march, which ended when the march swung into a waltz and the couples glided into the first dance. It was midnight before the ball was over, and the Kerry Star and everybody else averred that it was just as much fun as if it had really had been George Washington's Birthday. The Kerry Star will write his opinions of the function in a six-foot sonnet next week.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Haller & Blackmore, Pittsburg, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of 'Mystic Cure.' It got me out of the house in twenty-four hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the 'Mystic Cure' is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the 'Mystic Cure' to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

—Charles E. Hutton & Co., of New York, have begun suit through their attorney, City Judge DeMeza, against Fred W. Hand in the court of Justice Nash. The suit is for $200, the amount of an alleged coal bill.

What We Suffer From.

Nearly all diseases are curable, but only the specialist who has devoted his life to their study can treat them with uniform success. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th street, New York City, the most distinguished specialist, is world-famed because of his cures. Why? Because he has studied, investigated and discovered the true remedies for the cure of diseases. You can consult Dr. Green, personally or by letter free. He has developed the most perfect and successful system of cure through correspondence. Write him if you desire to be cured.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Michael Hyle, of Prospect avenue, is ill with the general complaint—the grip.

Miss Sadie Ageny, of Jackson avenue, is confined to the house with the mumps.

Mrs. E. S. Cannon, of Front street, is recovering from a severe attack of the grip.

The meeting of the Washington Avenue Card Club will not be held this week.

Rev. Father Bogard, of Somerville, celebrated mass in St. John's church this morning.

Owing to the uncertain condition of the weather, but one session was held in the public schools yesterday.

Isaac W. Laing left yesterday for a three months' trip to Southern California, partly for his health, but mainly for prospecting purposes.

Mrs. Peter A. Quick, formerly of Dunellen and late of Phillipsburg, who has been visiting the family of J. B. Conover, left for home, yesterday

Mumps seem to be having a run in Dunellen just at present. Within the past forty-eight hours eight cases have been reported, but fortunately none of them are serious.

After a long and tedious illness, covering a period of about eight weeks, Mrs. W. H. Coles was able to leave her room and go down stairs for the first time, yesterday.

Next Thursday evening will occur the regular monthly meeting of the Dunellen Fire Department. Dues will then be paid, and one or two applications for membership will be received.

A regular business meeting of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association will be held in Alvah Gray's office on Saturday evening, when the matter of opening a new series in April will be fully discussed and decided upon.

Rev. W. C. Kinsey, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church here, and now of Newark, together with Mrs. Kinsey, will be guests of Thomas Todd for the next few days. Rev. and Mrs. Kinsey are always welcomed by a host of friends here in Dunellen.

Since the W. C. T. U. gave up their rooms on the main street, the members have been looking for desirable rooms. They have just rented commodious quarters from Mrs. Nathan Vars—the vacant store room directly adjoining the post office in the rear. The rooms will be comfortably fitted up and when the work is completed the Union will hold its meeting there.

Dunellen's younger element is, as a rule, up to the standard, but there are a number of boys who persist in playing "hooky" from school. No inducements the boys' parents can offer will keep the lads in school, so, as a last resort, Chief of Police Warden has been instructed to take charge of them. The boys will doubtless see the "error of their way," if they spend a night in the "borough cooler."

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Mary Collins is lying ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Blimm, with an aggravated attack of the grip.

Despite the vigilant watch of the authorities, another hen roost was raided on the Westfield road, not half a mile from the center of town, Wednesday night, and ten laying hens taken.

Two men, evidently drunk, and driving a half starved horse, raced up and down the main thoroughfare yesterday afternoon for an hour or two unmolested. They should have been arrested.

Another immense flock of black birds came up from the south yesterday afternoon and flew on to the mountains. Some of the older inhabitants say this is an indication of an early spring.

Two colored lads, who were big enough to know better, had a street fight yesterday and the usual number of morbid curiosity seekers stood by and grinned without even attempting to stop them.

John Blimm went to New York yesterday and purchased a new pool table to take the place of the one he sold to a German society in Elizabeth. The table will be brought out and set up on Tuesday next.

The store property of the late James A. Baker will probably not be disposed of before April, and in the meantime the estate will remain unsettled. Mrs. Baker, it is understood, has put in certain claims on the property, and these claims the executor will respect.

Everything points to a prosperous forthcoming season at the Flanders' homestead. They are already booking guests and the house will undoubtedly be filled before the summer season sets in. Last season there was a lot of jolly summer boarders there, and many of them will doubtless return this year.

There is a man who lives on the brow of the hill just north from here who is not superstitious, neither does he take any dislike to odd numbers. Three weeks ago he set a hen on 13 eggs and on Wednesday they all hatched out fine, healthy looking chicks. That night the rats carried off twelve of the young chickens, leaving one for the owner to ponder over.

New Uniforms Used.

Two members were initiated, two members elected, and two propositions received at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., last evening. The new uniforms for the initiatory team arrived and were used for the first time. The members are very well pleased with them and they certainly improve the ceremony. The uniforms are up-to-date and will be a great acquisition to the work of the team.

Shooting Within the City Limits.

He was just trying his old revolver, he explained to the City Judge, when Patrolman Totten appeared on the scene and confiscated revolver and cartridges. John Splain was the speaker, and he appeared before the City Judge on the charge of shooting off firearms in the city limits. The complaint was made by Patrolman Totten. The alleged offence was committed near the car house of the Plainfield Street Railway, near which Splain lives. He was shooting blanks in the revolver. He was ordered to appear before the City Judge this morning when his trial was set down for tomorrow.

Mrs. Collis T. Pond and pupils have issued invitations for a studio exhibit of china painting, March 25, 26 and 27, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., at Mrs. Pond's studio, room 309 Babcock building.

Mrs. Clark, of Newark, is the guest of Mrs. J. C. Pope, of West Fourth street.

Miss Addie Weaver, of the borough, has recovered from a long and tedious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luckey have moved from East Sixth street to Orange street.

Mrs. H. A. Pope, of West Fifth street, still continues to improve from her serious illness.

Ex-Mayor Alex. Gilbert and wife, who have been enjoying an extended trip abroad, are expected home in a short time.

Charles Noble, of East Fifth street, is unable to continue his duties at the High School for a few days on account of illness.

The West End Euchre Club was entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Fraleigh, of West Front street. All of the members were present and passed a very pleasant evening.

Charles Stillman, the energetic young engineer of North Plainfield, who has been employed in laying out the sewers in Westfield, has now gone to Texas, where he will take charge of the laying out and building of a new town.

J. K. Kirkner, W. H. Sebring, R. A. Meeker and Edward Nelson, from Trinity Commandery, K. T., paid a fraternal visit to Hugh DePane Commandery, of Easton, Wednesday evening, and the visitors were right royally entertained. The ladies provided a sumptuous collation, of which some 250 partook.

THEATRICAL.

J. E. Toole, the eminent German dialect comedian, supported by Miss Lillian DeWoolf and an excellent company of performers, inaugurated a five days' engagement at the Opera House last evening in Edward Jerome's brilliant four-act drama, entitled "Killarney and the Rhine." Mr. Jerome has never written a bad play, and to his credit be it said he has given the stage most of its pleasing productions. "Killarney and the Rhine" is written in his happiest style, the elements of a dramatic work and the comedy being admirably combined. Of the company presenting the play nothing but words of praise can be said. Mr. Toole, well known here for his excellent comedy work with the late W. J. Florence, the elder Emmet, and other well-known stars, enacted the part of Conrad, a wandering minstrel, to perfection. His songs and dances all being his own composition were welcomed by repeated encores.—Commercial Telegraph, Pittsburg, Pa. Mr. Toole will be at Music Hall, Monday, March 22.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That every vehicle used to convey or transport ashes or house refuse in any of the streets of said City, shall be furnished with a good and substantial tight box thereon, so that in traversing the streets of said City, no portion of such material may be in any way scattered, thrown or allowed to fall on any of said streets; and all such vehicles when used in carting ashes or house refuse shall have the box thereof provided with a good and sufficient cover of cloth or boards closely fitted, so as to entirely prevent the escape or flying about of any of the contents therefrom; and every person using any vehicle for any such purpose without it being so fitted shall be deemed guilty of violation of this section, and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine not exceeding five dollars for each and every offense.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Subject for March 21—Christian Self-Restraint. I Cor. ix., 19-27. Golden Text: "Every Man that Striveth for the Mastery is Temperate in All Things." I Cor. ix., 25.

19. "For, though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all, that I might gain the more." For the sake of a temperance lesson we turn from the narrative in the Acts to a section of this epistle, but it is a temperance lesson in the sense of every form of restraint and control of the self life that the Christ life may be made more manifest, and thus the gospel be lived as well as preached in order to gain more people for Christ. The section in which we find our lesson begins with chapter viii, 1, and runs to the end of chapter xi, the beginning of each section being easily recognized by the words "now as touching" or "now concerning" (chapters vii, 1; viii, 1; xii, 1; xvi, 1). The central thought in this section seems to be chapter x, 31, "Whether, therefore ye eat or drink or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," the object of such a life being primarily that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ (I Pet. iv, 11), and then that some may be saved (chapters ix, 22; x, 33). Paul was indebted to no one for favors; he was under compliment to no one. He said to these very Corinthians that if he had wronged them it was in that he had not been a burden to them, and for this he asked their forgiveness. He sought them and not their possessions (II Cor. xii, 13, 14). Being thus free from obligation to all, except the obligation laid upon him by God to preach the gospel to all, he gladly became servant to all for Christ's sake that he might gain more for Christ.

20. "Unto the Jews I became as a Jew that I might gain the Jews." We must think of Paul as a servant of Christ, a member of the body of Christ in perfect joint and health, under full and complete control of Christ, the head, and ever seeking in all things to please Him (chapters iii, 5; xii, 12; Gal. i, 10; I Thess, ii, 4). He had a great desire that Christ should be magnified in his body whether by life or by death (Phil. i, 20). We must keep this in mind in considering this and the next two verses lest we might be tempted to think Paul guilty of some inconsistency or of conniving at a wrong thing in order to win men to Christ. He was a Jew and knew what it was to live under the law. In dealing with such he would, as far as he conscientiously could, put himself in their place.

21. "To them that are without law, as without law, that I might gain them that are without." He often speaks of gentiles as "them that are without." He would have believers exercise special care in walking honestly toward them so as to win them. As far as Paul could in the sight of God, he put himself in their place, saw things with their eyes and from their standpoint sought to lead them to Christ.

22. "To the weak became I as weak that I might gain the weak. I am made all things to men that I might by all means save some." In Rom. xv, 1-3, he takes, as he always does, Christ for his example and teaches us not to please ourselves, but others, and to bear the infirmities of the weak, and this even in the common acts of eating and drinking, as the context shows. There is a self centered life and a Christ centered life, and, though strange it is yet true, sadly true, that the former is often manifest in believers to the great grief of the Spirit and dishonor of God.

23. "And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you." What is this which, as a servant of Christ, he is aiming to be a partaker of? It cannot be eternal life, the gift of God, nor the forgiveness of sins, nor peace with God, nor justification, nor sanctification, for all these come to us in Christ freely by virtue of His finished work. See Rom. iii, 24; v, 1; viii, 1; I Cor. iii, 21-23; vi, 11. We do not work for redemption and its benefits; but, receiving Christ as God's unspeakable gift to us, we believe that His divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness (II Pet. i, 3).

24. "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize. So run that ye may obtain." Now, salvation is not obtained by running, for we cannot run till we have obtained salvation. Until we are saved we are dead in trespasses and sins (Eph. ii, 5), and dead people cannot run for God. To run in an ordinary race, those who desire to run must first enter; so in the race before us, the Christian life, or race, we must first enter, and the entrance is at the cross. The fee is paid for all who are willing to enter, for the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin.

25. "And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now, they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible." The wreath, the reward, the honor associated with the victor in the Grecian games soon faded or passed away, but the Christian seeks a crown incorruptible to cast at the feet of Christ (Rev. iv, 10). That there are rewards for the faithful in addition to salvation, which is the free gift of God, and that it is possible to be rewarded or be saved and have no reward. See I Cor. iii, 14, 15; II John viii; Rev. xxii, 12; Luke xiv, 14, etc.

26. "I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I; not as one that beateth the air." In an ordinary race there is uncertainty as to who shall win, and only one can possibly win the prize. In the Christian race there need be no uncertainty, for Christ Himself will be the judge, and He will reward every one according to his works. All who will may have rewards for service—the crown of life for patient endurance, the crown of our lesson for denial of self, etc. (Jas. i, 12; Rev. ii, 10; I Thess. ii, 19; I Pet. v, 4; II Tim. iv, 8).

A NEW JOURNALISM.

NOTHING SO GREAT AS TO PHASE RETAILERS OF SENSATIONALISM.

President Harrison's Opportunity to Become a Reporter at $1,000 a Day—A Woman Tells of Her Efforts to Do Original Work for New York Newspapers.

A woman correspondent writing from New York to the London News entertainingly gives an insight into the methods of New Journalism, as it is practiced by the World and Journal originators, and hundreds of small imitators throughout the country:

The path of glory that leads elsewhere but to the grave, here leads as inevitably into journalism. Ex-President Harrison was offered $1,000 a day by a New York paper to report the proceedings of the last National Republican Convention. William Jennings Bryan, after a term in Congress, and being defeated for the Presidency, is considering the proposition to come to Washington as the special correspondent of a New York paper. In the universality of its aim and scope, journalism in the United States has left very little to the exclusive use of the dime museum.

During the past summer, Julian Hawthorne, the novelist, figured in New York journalism as a society reporter at Newport and Bar Harbor; Edgar Saltus, the philosopher of negation, is winning new laurels as a police reporter in New York, and Stephen Crane, with truly American enterprise in journalism, after first getting himself into the police court, engages his genius as a police court reporter.

Any hint of the characteristics of American journalism would be incomplete that failed to include a notion of the part women played in it.

While the New Woman has crowded into other professions, usurping the places of men, she has fairly bloomerized journalism in the United States. She has given it a sex. There is a distinct woman-journalism prevailing in this country, which compasses a line of work not done by men, not possible to be done by them, since its whole value adheres to the sex it represents. This originated in New York with certain productions of a sensational character, done by a woman, which while gaining additional value from the femininity of the writer, still retained some of the elements of legitimate journalism. It was imitated all over the country, and finally developed into a pure exhibition of sex—a hippodrome of the abnormal woman. The most conspicuous and best-paid women of the Press in America are frequently unable to write a grammatical paragraph; they are "journalists" in the exercise of extraordinary physical age, or by virtue of an application of their sex in relations impossible for a man to assume. A record of their most brilliant "journalistic" achievements would include going down in a diving-bell to the bottom of the sea; driving a fire engine; feigning pregnancy to expose the extent of criminal practice among the medical profession; feigning drunkenness on the street in order to get committed to jail to expose the experience of a woman behind the bars; assisting to arrest a murderer; acting with the police in New York harbor; spending a night in a tomb; riding one among seven men on an eight-manned wheel; wrestling with the trainers of professional prizefighters, etc.

The fine gradations of value in this work I have personally tested.

I undertook for one of the New York dailies to acquire the experience of a woman seeking a place in the Government at Washington. I solicited office from all the New York Senators and members of Congress, from all the Cabinet officials and from President Cleveland himself. The editor on receipt of this story telegraphed me his satisfaction, and I looked for the next Sunday's paper, expecting to figure as the star attraction. But alas for the greatness of the American lady journalist, I appeared as a mere sideshow, while the honors of the day were carried off by the production of another more brilliant "lady journalist," who had donned tights and spangles, and entering the circus, ring, had done an act in the lion's den. The other woman was paid $100 for her feat, while I was paid only $75.

Grimly determined to beat lion-taming, if I had it really in me to be a journalist, I set forth to acquire the experience of a lobbyist in Congress. Posing as the representative of a wealthy business concern, I endeavored to "lobby" an amendment to the tariff at the time the Wilson bill was before the Senate. By spending some money and promising a great deal more, I succeeded in so far influencing legislation as to have an amendment to the tariff involving the interests of the Government to the extent of $10,000 a year introduced in the Senate, and to receive the assurance of a distinguished Senator that he would "see it through" in committee, when in the order of the procedure of the bill that item of the tariff should be reached. This necessarily would not be for two months, so I concluded my story with a recital of these achievements, posted it to New York, and waited for the reward and applause I expected would immediately follow. Instead my able editor wired me: "I fail to see that you have accomplished anything. Force Senate to pass amendment at once."

Force the United States Senate—well, I had never driven a fire engine, "knocked out" a prize fighter, run down a murder—indeed, I had never done any truly successful newspaper work, and right there I gave up trying. I have since lived humbly by my pen, not striving longer to realize the glorious possibilities of a woman's nerve or sex in journalism.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

YOUR TIRED STOMACH.

"I have no appetite," you say, "and the little I do eat does me no good. At first it feels cold and dead in my stomach and by and by I have aches and pains that sometimes go to my chest and back. I feel weak, low spirited, and out of sorts all over I fancy the demon of dyspepsia has got me." That's the way you talk and no wonder. But wait a moment. Let us reason together. Perhaps thus far your stomach is merely tired. You have been eating too much, eating the wrong things, and irregularly. You have given it too much to do, and like all living things, when overworked, it stops at length from sheer exhaustion. There may not be an actually diseased condition as yet Still it is nature's warning, and you must heed it or worse will follow. "But I must eat or starve," you say. True enough, but safety usually lies in middle courses. Here is one for you. You don't need drastic purges or exciting stimulants. Your condition is one easily relieved if we go about it gently and sensibly. The tired stomach won't work under whip and spur. It has probably had too much of that already. What you require is something that is at once a food and a digester of food. Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, discovered and prepared by the Shaker Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. Taken right after eating, so as to mix with the food, it does the stomach's work for it, gives it the advantage of further rest, strengthens you in a natural way, and soon enables the stomach to do full duty. There is nothing else like this simple, safe, certain and palatable remedy. Yet the Shakers respect your doubts, and authorize druggists to sell a trial bottle for ten cents.

IDES OF THE FIGHT.

Carson City, Nev., March 19.—The impression is gaining ground here among shrewd sporting men that Fitzsimmons' assertion that he will never again enter the ring for a real battle is true. He may give sparring exhibitions as usual, but there seems to be little doubt that the new champion has had enough of fierce fistic encounters, and his well known dislike of tying himself down to the self-denying work of training adds to the probability of the opinion becoming a certainty. The belief is also strengthened by the fact that when the purse and side bet were turned over to Julian in Dan Stuart's office and Brady renewed his offer to back Corbett against Fitzsimmons for $20,000, Julian's reply was evasive. He intimated that the champion has won enough pugilistic laurels to satisfy himself and will absolutely and unconditionally retire from the ring. Fitzsimmons and his family and friends are very indignant at the story circulated yesterday to the effect that he had died of internal hemorrhages as the result of the punishment inflicted by Corbett. The fact is that Fitzsimmons at no time after he stepped out of the ring suffered any physical pain beyond that caused by a slight fracture of his left thumb joint which he received in the second or third round of the battle. A piece of flesh-colored court plaster over his split and swollen under lip, a heightening of his ordinary ruddy complexion and a white linen bandora wrapped around his thumb are the only external evidences of the conflict. Martin Julian was deputed to answer congratulatory correspondence, a task which glued him to the telegraph counter for hours.

Fitz and Goddard May Meet.

Martin Julian is disappointed at not being able to secure the Mechanics' pavilion in San Francisco for an exhibition this evening. He has accepted an offer on behalf of the champion for his appearance at Sutro's baths and the Haight street chutes on Sunday. Fitzsimmons will leave Carson this afternoon with his wife and child. Martin Julian, Roeber, Hickey and Stelzner will accompany them. It is thought that as to the future Fitzsimmons will accede to his wife's desire of making their home in New York city. It has leaked out that Dan Stuart has offered a purse of $10,000 for a meeting between Fitzsimmons and Joe Goddard, to take place in Carson three months hence. Billy Madden, representing Goddard, jumped at the proposition and Julian is thinking it over now. It will be left for the champion to decide whether he will defend his title. Mrs. Fitzsimmons is violently opposed to the idea and it is possible that Bob will heed her advice.

DEBATE ON THE TARIFF BILL.

To Begin Monday—Will Be Put on Its Passage by March 31.

Washington, March 19.—Debate on the tariff bill, which is to be introduced in the house to-day, will begin on Monday, and it will be put on its passage on the last day of this month. In the senate a large lot of bills that had been on the calendar, or on the files of committees, in the last and prior congresses, have been re-introduced and the bill for the adjustment of the government debts of the Pacific Railroad companies has been reported and placed on the calendar. A resolution has been agreed to instructing the committee on foreign relations to inquire and report whether the Danish West Indian islands of St. Croix, St. John and St. Thomas can now be purchased and whether if not purchased by the United States they would probably be sold to some other power.

Franklin Fund Trustees.

Boston, March 19.—The Franklin Fund trustees have been appointed by Judge Grant. The appointments are made upon the petion of the attorney-general and the other petitions for the appointment of trustees are dismissed. The fund amounts to about $400,000, and is held by the city. The administration of trusts in accordance with the terms of Franklin's will is all that remains to be done now. The application of the fund has yet to be decided upon. The trustees must organize for that purpose.

AGAINST THE TREATY

Monroe Doctrine League Wants No Alliance with England.

DANGEROUS TO AMERICAN INTERESTS

The Britons Scathingly Arraigned by the Speakers—America Not To Be Deceived by Gilded Periods—England's Treachery.

New York, March 19.—A mass meeting was held last night at Cooper Union under the auspices of the Monroe Doctrine league to protest against the arbitration with England. The hall was crowed with people who applauded the speakers when they denounced the treaty. Ex-Judge George M. Van Hoesen presided, and in opening the meeting said the silence which the people of New York maintained about the so-called arbitration treaty might not be taken for their consent. "I believe," he said, "that a large majority of the people of New York are opposed to that treaty." The chairman then went on to criticize the speeches made by the supporters of the arbitration treaty at the recent Cooper Union meeting, and said that it was just as certain as night follows day that if the treaty were adopted the American people would be involved in difficulties. There would be no telling where arbitration would end and where it would begin if the treaty was ratified. Resolutions were then adopted favoring arbitration in special cases, but denouncing the present treaty as giving to foreign governments a dangerous power over American interests.

England Scored.

Civil Justice Lynn, who created a sensation at the meeting held in Cooper union a week ago for the purpose of ratifying the treaty by denouncing England and declaring that that country had broken every treaty it had entered into with the United States, was introduced and said: "The Americans cannot be deceived by gilded periods into a treaty which means ignominy and dishonor to our fair country. Senators, I pray you to pause, for we are dealing with a government that has never been honest in her treaties. She is the harlot of the world, and she is seeking to prostitute fair Columbia. We love peace, but not peace at any price. England made a five-year treaty with Napolean and kept it six months. She promised to protect the Boer Republic, and yet she permitted the Jameson raid." [Applause.] England's difficulty with the United States is not solved by the marriage of a few of her princes with some of our foolish daughters. No number of such marriages can destroy the patriotic heart of America We will not permit our foreign ambassadors to make peace speeches for us and say in London things that are not true." There was tremendous cheering at this statement. Among the other speakers were Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor and Congressman R. B. Mahany of Buffalo, who made eloquent speeches against the treaty.

AMERICANS IN CUBAN PRISONS.

Of Ninety-two Cases in Two Years, Only Fourteen Are Now Pending.

Washington, March 19.—Of ninety-two cases of Americans imprisoned in Cuba during the present war which have been reported to the state department, and upon which action has been taken, it is stated that but fourteen cases are at present pending, including those of the five Competitor prisoners, which are now under consideration with the probability of speedy release, and five cases in which the prisoners were caught with arms in hand. Two imprisoned Americans were released by death, one being Delgado, who died in a hospital after an operation performed by an American surgeon, and the other Dr. Ruiz, the cause of whose death is still under investigation.

Received by Mrs. McKinley.

Washington, March 19.—Mrs. McKinley received the ladies of the diplomatic circle informally yesterday afternoon. The reception rooms were profusely decorated with cut flowers and growing plants. Assistant Secretary Rockhill of the state department and Lieut. Gilmore of the army had charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Yu. the wife of the Chinese minister attracted much attention by her quaint costume. Her husband came with her although the other ladies left the gentlemen members of their families at home.

To Pay Postal Congress Expenses.

Washington, March 19.—The speaker has laid before the house the recommendation of the postmaster-general for an appropriation of $300,000, to be immediately available, to enable the government to defray the necessary expenses of the postal congress which will assemble in Washington in May next. The department finds itself in the embarrassing position of having the congress on its hands with no means for its reception and entertainment.

Ward of Rochester N. Y. Prof. Ward is a scientist and traveler of international reputation and is 63 years of age. Mrs. Ward is 51.

To Admit Women as Delegates.

Bethlehem, Pa., March 19.—At yesterday's session of the Philadelphia conference, Methodist Episcopal church, the question of the admission of women as lay delegates to the general conferences was voted on and resulted: For admission, 115; against, 95.

BABES IN THE WOODS.

twelve minutes. The good wife of the house is discovered in the act of darning the well worn socks of her worser half and peering anxiously out of the window from time to time as if expecting visitors.

"This lady is an active member of the Relief Association, the Town Improvement Association, the Daughters of the Revolution, Iona Council of Independent Red Ladies, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies Bicycle Club, the Ladies' Auxiliary Board, the W. C. T. U., the Monday Afternoon Club, the Current Events Club, and in addition thereto, she is now an aspirant for a position on the Board of Health.

So the audience is especially fortunate in seeing how she looks at home, as very few, including even her husband have ever had that opportunity, and there do be some scandalous people who say that his lonesomeness is is what has made her depraved spouse so awfully tough. But all this has nothing to do with the story and we must hasten on.

"As she continues working a loud knock is not heard at the door, and her husband bursts into view leading the little orphans by the hand. With a glad cry of joy their dear aunt drops her work, rushes to her darlings and embraces them rapturously. She is very glad of a chance to drop her work, as work is not in her line. But as was said before, all this has nothing to do with the present drama.

"Special attention is called to these infants. Never before in the city of Plainfield do we remember having seen two more perfect specimens of vigorous babyhood, and the terrible sorrow of the parents at having to leave them can be readily understood by young and old.

The little boy, who is three years old, is Charlyox, which means in French "awful long and skinny," while the little girl, a year younger, rejoices in the pretty name of Elmeroso, which being translated means "bald-headed."

"Too young to realize their terrible bereavement, the precious dears play happily about the floor with the little toys their uncle has stolen from the neighbors, and eat every blessed thing they can get their teeth on, stopping only now and then to belt each other over the head.

"At last, wearied with their play and their long walk from the Boulevard, where their papa and mamma had lived, they became nervous and fretful, and the scene closes as their dear aunt drugs them into profound slumber."

The part of the better half of the tough uncle was taken by Fred Walz, who was almost unrecognizable in calico dress and cap and spectacles. The tough uncle was William N. Runyon plus a long villianous nose and a false moustache. The innocent little tots were Charles A. Lewis, with his six feet of bone and muscle clad in a Little Lord Fauntleroy suit with a big red bow in front, and Elmer E. Runyon, with flaxen curls, blue calico dress and pantalets. The gambols of the children were remarkable to behold and their attacks on the crullers and bread given them were not to be equalled.

"Act two shows the wicked uncle at his dainty escritoire endeavoring to decide as to whether to poison the children outright by making them read the World and Journal, or send them to the Children's Home.

"Both schemes, however, have their disadvantages, and he about determines to trust to luck on measles and mumps, when his base train of thought is interrupted by the arrival of two of his friends who have come in to pay [illegible]ir respects. The way becomes [illegible]r to him now and he can see the [illegible] finish. For be it known that [illegible] two friends are men of his own [illegible]—bloodthirsty villains,—reckless [illegible]esperate to the extreme. One, a [illegible]rce fellow named Baynon is the [illegible]st chicken thief in Union county, [illegible] his pal, a sly son of a gun with [illegible]y aliases, but best known as Mur-[illegible], is a card sharp and confidence [illegible]n.

"A blood curdling scheme takes pos[illegible]session of the brutal uncle's soul. He will make those base born varlets his heirlings, and they shall take the children away and do them dirty. With panting breath and dilating eye he broaches the subject, and it meets with instant favor, as the villains have had recently to buy their new commutation tickets and are very hard up. The great difficulty is as to terms, and the insatiable greed of all parties concerned presents a stern and terrible lesson which can never be effaced from the minds of the audience. After much base-wrangling and lots of hard feeling, the matter is finally arranged and the bold bad fellows depart exultingly, agreeing to transform the little darlings into lamb chops."

As might be judged from the description of the robbers, one was William H. Murray and C. Arthur Baynon. They were gotten up regardless in the costume of the "supposed" tough men of the west. Big soft felt hats, flannel shirts, corduroy trousers tucked into boots and a plentiful supply of revolvers, knives and cartridge belts made up their equipment. All their weapons came into play in inducing the "tough uncle" to open his purse-strings wider.

Act three opens in the densest portion of the City Park, far from any human habitation, whither the two rapacious dastards have brought the innocent victims of their greed, preparatory to slaughtering them.

"But an all-kind Providence hath decreed otherwise, and although Robber Baynon remains fixed in his dreadful purpose of brewing a new vintage of mince-meat, the pretty prattle of the babies has melted the heart of Robber Murray to such an extent that he begins to repent of his mission of bloodshed. For you must know that Robber Murray has not always been the criminal he now is. Time was when he was the president of the Y. M. C. A., as well as the superintendent of a Sunday shool, and the memory of the happy days gone by, when he was no larger than Charlyox, preys upon his mind and strengthens him in his resolution to save the lives of the pretty-dears. A quarrel ensues and the result is a terrible fight between the robbers according to Marquis of Queensbury Rules. Virtue finally triumphs, Robber Baynon is laid low and, as he does not rise at the expiration of ten seconds, Robber Murray is awarded the decision.

"The audience is kindly requested to remain quiet during this 'scrap,' and no betting will be allowed, as Mr. Murray has been picked by the management for a winner and Mr. Baynon has agreed to get licked."

As might be imagined, the fight was the crowning event of this sanguinary drama. After sparring a little they clinched. Like all other fighters they did not break away, but finally upset and rolled about the floor, overturning the evergreen trees and the sign from the lawn of the church, "Please keep off the grass," which constituted the scenery. First Robber Murray's feet waved in the air and then the pedal extremities of the other robber. At last Robber Murray landed on top and used his bowie knife to advantage and the fight was over. The audience was assisted in understanding the scenery by a sign which stated that "This is a woods." Another sign read "Beware of Pick pockets." The children who first amused themselves with sticks of candy were terrified at the horrid sight.

Act four shows us the lonely darlings in the same spot, weak and famished for want of food, since Robber Murray, after killing Robber Baynon, has gone home to supper, and forgotten all about the babies.

The attention of the agitated audience is directed to another of the beautiful qualities developed in these blessed innocents by early training. "In honor, preferring one another" has been the theme of their entire little lives, and in their dire extremity, the desire to share the gooseberries growing hard by, is overwhelming.

"Elmeroso is first overcome by hunger, but Charlyox starts manfully off to gather such nourishment as the City Park affords. Alas, all that rewards his search is a single cluster of berries. With all possible speed he hasteus to sister's side that he may stay for a little time the ravishing pangs of a wasting hunger. Her face lights up as the berries are handed her, for Charlyox, with beautiful unselfishness, gives them all to her, with the exception of half a one, which she insists on his eating.

"Their agony is nearly over, for weakened by their long fast in the barren fastness they fast succumb, and with two distinct and mournful sighs pass out of this valem of tears into the glad beyond.

"Deserted by relatives and friends, it looks as if they are to lie there until removed as a public nuisance, but no. The tiny robin-redbreasts who have their nests under the eaves of the Public Library Building, are moved to compassion by the tearful sight and fluttering hither and yon, bury the darlings under a thick mass of glossy leaves, twitter a funeral dirge, and this lachrymose drama is ended.

"Carriages, balloons and scoop-nets will be found waiting at the door for all those unable to get home after seeing this play."

Either the librettist was sarcastic or else the actors tampered with the facts in relation to the generous spirit of the tots. When Charley found the final bunch of berries he proceeded to greedily eat them in front of his dying sister, reserving half of one berry for her. The act of the robbins, George O. Stevens and Fred Walz, was touching on the extreme. They appeared in costumes of different colored silicia with dust brushes for ails, palm leaf fans for wings and cornacopias for bills. After they had finished their sad task, they too lay down and twittered their own funeral dirge.

After the pantomime, the guests adjourned to the parlors where ice cream and cake were served to all.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A number of new Columbia wheels were received by the Eldridge Bicycle Company the first of the week.

A telephone has been put in to connect the salesrooms and repair shop of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

A shipment of thirty-one Crescent wheels has been received by the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company this week.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has taken the agency for the Silver King wheel. The wheel is sold in $75 and $60 grades. A sample has been received.

The work of furnishing the new club rooms of the Cleveland Cyclers in the Ulrich building will be completed next week and they promise to present a fine appearance.

Philip Creiger, of Park avenue, has a new Cleveland racer and Fred Cregier, of the same place, has a new Crescent racer. Both wheels were purchased from the F. L. C Martin Cycle Company.

FELL DEAD AT SCHOOL.

Teacher Van Ness Succumbed to Heart Failure Hearing a Class.

While teaching a class of pupils in the Pompton Plains public school near Morristown, yesterday afternoon, Benjamin H. Van Ness dropped dead from heart failure.

His last word was the name of his wife. One of the pupils ran for Mrs Van Ness who lives near the school building.

Van Ness was thirty-two years old. A widow and two children survive him.

Social Event at Somerville.

There was a big time up at Somerville, last evening, that quite woke up that town. The Somerville Social Club tried something new in the shape of an old-fashioned dance at Germania Hall. The invitations were unique and extremely old-fashioned, the costumes and decorations were of the same order. It was by far the most successful of all the dances which that club has given this winter, and it was largely attended. There were a number from this city present. At midnight an old-fashioned supper was served that was a fit closing for the very enjoyable dance.

AN ARMY OF STAMP GATHERERS.

More Than 60,000 Persons Carry on the Business in This Country.

"The gatherers of postage stamps—that is those of whom a record has been made—now numbers 60,000 persons in this country alone," said a Postoffice Department official, "and the army, enormous as it is, is constantly on the increase. There is scarcely a city or even large sized town, in this country where postage stamps are not dealt in.

"Of course, in many cities the stamp business is carried on as a side line in connection with other business, but there are a very large number of stores where stamps are dealt in exclusively. On Fourteenth street, New York, there are now and have been for several years, a half-dozen wholesale dealers and at least a dozen retail dealers.

"Some of the wholesale dealers have several men on the road, traveling from place to place looking up and disposing of rare stamps. In Europe the stamp craze is simply enormous, and several foreign houses have drummers on the road in this country constantly. Only a few days ago in this city I heard of a 90-cent internal revenue stamp of the war series being sold for $600.

"In one day afterward the same stamp was sold for $700, and it is now held by its owner at $800. Another strange thing in connection with the stamp craze is that it seldom affects women. When women do catch it, however, they have it bad. I know of a stamp belonging to a gentleman who resides here, though at present he is traveling about showing it to stamp enthusiasts, which was issued by a short-lived republic, and which is valued at $2,000. Its value comes from the fact that there are but few of them in existence."—Washington Star.

MOTHER M'KINLEY'S HOPE.

If William Had Been a Methodist Bishop She Would Have Been Satisfied.

Edith Lessions Tupper, writing from Canton just before the inauguration of President McKinley, says:

Mr. McKinley's mother is eighty-eight years old. She is a lady of the old school in dress, deportment and speech. Her snowy hair is dressed in fluffy puffs, each side of her bright, keen, interested face. She is thoroughly conversant with topics of the day, and is very decided in many of her views.

"Are you not proud of your son?" I asked her to-day:

"I have no cause for pride," she said, deprecatingly. "I thank my Heavenly father that I have so good a son, and that I have done that much for my country."

"Did you, when he was a little lad, dream that he would ever be President of the United States?" "No, never."

"What was your fondest dream for him?"

"I hoped," said the dear old lady, settling herself in her chair and regarding me intently, "I hoped that he would be a Methodist bishop."

"And would you have been satisfied with that?"

"Satisfied? My dear child," drawing a long breath, "what mother would not be satisfied with having her son a Methodist bishop? I did not wish him to be a Methodist minister, for they were so poor when I was young, but a bishop"—

"MOTHER" M'KINLEY.

And the old lady lifted up her hands to heaven with the air and expression of one who sees the skies open and the spirit descending like a dove.

"But of the two, would you not prefer the great office to which he is now called?"

"I suppose it is a great office—the President of this country—but I should have been just as well satisfied if he had been a Methodist bishop."

"Do you dread the journey to Washington and the excitement through which you will have to pass?"

"Not at all. I never get excited or nervous. All my life I have taken things calmly. I never cross a bridge until I come to it. I am always prepared for disappointment, and if it does not come I am content."

Brave, placid old philosopher! As I took my leave the Western sun streamed through the old-style windows and lighted up the gentle, wrinkled, peaceful face of the unworldly mother who would have been glad to see her son a bishop; of the patriotic mother who is thankful that she can give so good a man to her country.

GAVE A GROUP PICTURE.

H. R. MUNGER PLEASANTLY SURPRISED BY HIS SCHOOL CLASS.

The Gift Presented by W. G. Gray and Received by Mr. Munger in Appropriate Words, After Which Sociability Came.

The members of H. R. Munger's Sunday school class at Hope Chapel gave their teacher a very pleasant surprise last evening at the chapel. The class, which is composed of men, invited Mr. Munger and his family to meet them and participate in the festivities of the occasion which were unknown to the surprised.

Mr. Blackton, a cartoonist of the New York World, first entertained those present with humorous charcoal and crayon sketches. Then the surprise came in. Some time ago the members of the class had a large group photograph of themselves taken and had the picture handsomely framed. This was all done for the purpose of making their teacher a present. When W. G. Gray, who was the spokesman for the class, stepped forward with the picture, an expression of the greatest surprise could be seen on the face of the teacher. With a few appropriate words Mr. Gray made the presention speech and then gave the picture to Mr. Munger, who accepted the same in his usual happy manner. He thanked all for the magnificent gift and said that he would always prize it very highly.

Mr. Munger then gave a few figures which are very interesting. When he took charge of the class January 1st, 1888, there were four members and four of the original ones are now in the class. The present membership of the class is 82. Since the class was started there has been enrolled 295 men, and in all seventy of the above number has joined the church on confession of faith. The class has lost eleven members by death.

After this part of the programme the doors were thrown open and a pleasing scene greeted the sight of those present. Three tables laden with a feast of good things looked very tempting. There was a display of choice flowers, fruits and cakes which together with the more substantial things presented a scene of beauty. The supper was arranged and provided by Mr. Yerke's class of women.

While everybody was enjoying the feast, genuine sociability reigned supreme and it was with sincere regrets that tne happy event came to an end. The spirit of good fellowship manifested was a marked feature of the occasion.

BOY ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Young Newman, Who Shot His Playmate, to Plead to Indictment.

Hilliard A. Newman, eleven years old, will plead to an indictment for murder today before Judge Strong in the Circuit Court at New Brunswick. He is the son of Gottlieb Newman, of Weber, a town three miles from Perth Amboy, and, it will be remembered, is accused of having fatally shot Frank Fister, his playmate, in a quarrel over a game of tag on December 8th. He has been in the New Brunswick jail ever since.

The dead boy's mother and several of the children who witnessed the accident have been subpoenaed as witnesses and will appear against the boy.

Favors for an Old Fireman.

Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue, who is visiting friends in Hartford, had the pleasure of meeting Chief Eaton, of the Hartford Fire Department, and has received an invitation to go to Boston next Tuesday and witness an exhibition of the largest fire engine of the self propeller style in the country. It is expected that the engine will throw 1,800 gallons of water a minute. Mr. Marsh is one of Plainfield's oldest firemen, and he has a record of doing fire duty forty years ago. He has never lost his interest in fire matters.

An Appealed Case.

The appealed case of Chase against Stebor was opened in the Somerset County Court at Somerville yesterday before Judge Bartine. The evidence was produced and the case was partially tried. It was then adjourned until Friday of next week and the attorneys on the two sides were instructed to prepare briefs to be presented at that time. City Judge DeMeza appeared fer Mr. Chase and S. S. Swackhamer for Stebor.

Help for the Industrial School.

A collection was taken up at the sociable and entertainment of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday evening, for the benefit of the Industrial School at Hope chapel. The collection amounted to over $50. There is some talk of repeating the pantomime at Y. M. C. A. hall for the benefit of some local charity

JUNIORS DRILL A DRAW.

A LIVELY COMPETITION IN A LODGE INITIATION LAST NIGHT.

Newark Mechanics Were Best in Drilling but Could Not Quite Equal Somerset Council in Ritualistic Part of the Work

The long-looked-for initiatory drill between the teams from Monroe Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Newark, and Somerset Council, of North Plainfield, took place last evening in the rooms of the later Council in the Babcock building. There were representatives present from Councils at Elizabeth, Orange, Newark, Cranford, Metuchen, Westfield, Bound Brook, Scotch Plains, Dunellen and Franklin Council, of this city. It was one of the largest gatherings of the order held in this vicinity in sometime past, and it was in every respect an enjoyable occasion.

It was nearly 10 o'clock when the drill commenced. The team from Somerset Council took the initiative and they had for their candidate Wm. Ryno, who had been elected a member recently. In the ritualistic work the team showed themselves to be superior to their opponents, but in the drill work they were not quite up to the team on the other side. This may be accounted for from the fact that the members composing the guards of the Newark team are all members of the National Guard of this state. The latter team suffered greatly in their ritualistic work owing to the absence of their Councilor, who was unable to be present.

It required over two hours for both teams to do the work and then there was sad disappointment for all for the judges decided that the drill was a draw. They said that under the circumstances they could not give any other decision. Those who served as judges were: Past Councilor Claffin, of Elizabeth Council, Past Councilor Mills, of Pioneer Council, Bound Brook, and W. E. Compton, of Metuchen Council. The decision caused considerable talk but the members finally agreed to accept the same gracefully.

The rest of the evening was devoted to speeches by the visiting brothers. After the speech-making all adjourned to the banquet-room where an excellent supper was served by the committee from the home council. It was late when the visitors departed for home but they all felt as though they had passed a most profitable evening and one of real enjoyment.

A CLEVER RECITAL.

Mrs. Mary P. Allen Made a Favorable Impression in Her Efforts.

No one who ventured out in the rain last evening to attend the concert at Vincent chapel was sorry for their exposure to the elements, for the entertainment provided was well worth the trouble. The programme, as published in The Daily Press, was followed out and proved very enjoyable. The audience was by no means what such an entertainment deserved but the very unpleasant evening can be held accountable for that.

Miss Mary P. Allen, the reader, was a stranger to Plainfield audiences but after listening to her once there was no doubt as to her ability in that line. Her selections were well selected, including humor and pathos, and it was hard to tell in which she was the better. Her rendition of "Marse Chan" was worthy of special comment for she gave it with a power that brought tears to the eyes of her listeners. The silence that followed it told better than any applause could how well it was appreciated.

Miss May Vincent Whitney and Miss Lavinia L. French were the pianists of the evening and their part of the programme was given in a manner that showed their artistic skill at the pianoforte. Mrs. Asa Collier, who sang several soprano solos, was at her best and the sweetness and power of her voice were highly appreciated. Charles L. Lewis is too well known as a baritone singer in this city to need any comment. His selections were of their usual excellence. Although rather young, Clarence B. Mills showed himself to be a master of the violin and the solos which he rendered on that instrument proved him to be a worthy pupil of a worthy teacher, P. Ludwig Conde.

A Special Burlesque.

One of the numbers in the programme of the concert to be given by the New York University Glee Club in the Y. M. C. A. hall next Thursday evening is a burlesque arranged specially for the club by Mr. Frank J. Smith, organist of the Crescent Avenue church, "Opera up-to-date."

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Whiteley, of East Second street, are the happy parents of twin girls, who arrived last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Whitley lost their twin boys a short time ago.

THE FOREIGN MISSIONS.

TWENTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FIRST BAPTIST SOCIETY.

The Annual Reports Showed a Prosperous Past and an Encouraging Future—The Officers Who Were Elected.

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the main part of the edifice. Considering the weather the attendance was large.

In opening the exercises, the president, Miss Linda D. Butler, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. She welcomed all in the name of the society and urged the hearty co-operation of everyone in the work.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, was then presented. It was the twenty-fourth report given by Mrs. Shreve, for she is the only secretary the society has had. The report brought out the fact that the late Mrs. W. C. Butler, and her daughter, Miss Linda Butler, who is now president of the society, are the only two presidents that have served the society, and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes is the only first vice-president that has officiated in that capacity. The report was a most excellent one and showed that the society has not only prospered but has accomplished a great deal of good.

The above report was followed by the reports of the various societies of the church showing the amount of money received by each during the year. For the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. Wilson reported that $540.42 had been collected. Mrs. W. O. Chapman reported the receipts of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society to be $293.86, and Mrs. Harold Serrell, for the Gold Dust Band, reported that $33.09 had been received. An additional $48 was given to the educational fund.

It was reported that the members of Miss Butler's Sunday-school class, who had formed themselves into what is known as the Co workers' Circle, King's Daughters, were supporting a native girl in Burmah in the school conducted by Miss Elwell. The girl's name is Miss Emily C. Butler, which name is taken from that of the late president of the foreign missionary society.

These reports were followed with an address by Mrs. Harriett Newell Jones, State Secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of Pennsylvania. Her subject was "Beautiful Story Tellers." It was one of the most impressive and interesting talks ever listened to. Mrs. Jones is a remarkably interesting speaker and she held the closest attention of her audience as she related the history of the society during the past twenty-four years. She told of the many good things accomplished in foreign lands, and she also told what the society expects to do with the aid of its members. One important point made by the speaker was that she thought the women did not have time to consider the ballot box and ordination, when there are so many opportunities which women have to learn to use aright.

Following this address, there were short talks by Mrs. Tustin, president of the Baptist Missionary Society, of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Alono Pettit, secretary for the same society for this State, and Mrs. G. W. Opdyke, of this city. All the addresses were excellent and presented many helpful thoughts for all of the members of the society.

At this time Miss Bessie Blair sang "Beautiful Story," accompanied on the organ by Howard Case.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the display of a handsome banner made of very fine embroidery work. It was made by a native of Burmah, which is the only place where this particular kind of work can be done. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, a returned missionary, brought it to this country with her and being anxious to raise some money for her work said that she would sell it for $25. The state society has received about $16 toward the desired amount and at the meeting the balance was asked for.

After the meeting it was announced that some friend had contributed $25 for the general work of the society, making the total $565.42. The banner will be placed in the memorial room of the school at Newton Centre, Mass., which was named after the late Mrs. W. C. Butler.

In the report presented by Mrs. Shreve announcement was made of the officers elected at a recent meeting. They were as follows: President, Miss Linda D. Butler; vice presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. Reuben Knox; secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Mrs. M. S. Taylor.

The following persons composed the choir which assisted in rendering the music at the meeting: Mrs. M. I. Cooley, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. W. O. Chapman, Mrs. Dewitt C. Brokow, Miss Bertha Needham and Miss Swain. Howard Case was the organist.

TRIED IN THE ROOKERY.

A NUMBER OF PETTY OFFENDERS BEFORE THE CITY JUDGE.

Quarreling and Fighting Was the Principal Charge—Lots of Contradictory Evidence Given at the Trials.

There was plenty for the City Judge to do this morning, for the regular batch of cases that appear every Saturday morning was unusually large. Most of the cases were tried in the stuffy little court room in the lock up and the others in the office of the City Judge.

The first case to be tried in the rookery was that of Wm. Goff, who was arrested by Patrolman Flanagan, Thursday noon, for quarreling and fighting and being drunk and disorderly. The complainant was Morris Selbert, who keeps a little jewelry store on Somerset street, just this side of the borough line.

Selbert said that William Goff came into his store in a drunken condition and used insulting language. There were some words over a debt that Goff owed and then Selbert ordered Goff out. He went but when Selbert came out, Selbert claims that Goff struck him several times. Goff testified that Selbert opened the mill with a blow on his face. There were two witnesses who saw the trouble but their testimony was divided.

The Judge decided that Goff had been drunk on that occasion and found him guilty on the charge. Goff was fined $5.

Neal Splain was up for shooting off firearms in the city limits. He had just bought a new revolver and was trying some blank cartridges when arrested by Patrolman Totten. He didn't know it was against the law to shoot blanks, so the Judge suspended sentence for that time with a reprimand.

The trial of James J. Day was adjourned for two weeks on account of the illness of the prisoner.

Mrs. Caledonia Brown, Percy Brown and William Smith, Jr., were arraigned on the charge of quarreling and fighting and using profane language. The trial was a long one and the testimony was very contradictory. The Judge reserved his sentence for a week.

The case against James Barry, in which the police have preserved such great secrecy, came up for final hearing in the City Judge's office after the rest of the city court had been completed and again the hearing was secret. The reporters were informed that Barry was charged with being drunk at the corner of West Third street and Plainfield avenue and that sentence was suspended on him. It was learned on good authority that the man who made the complaint which caused the raiding of the place, as already told in The Press, would not push the complaint and that the other evidence was not sufficient to convict the participants of gambling.

The two lads who were accused of stealing Frank Hart's pigeons, were ordered to appear before the City Judge this morning at his office. Only one of the boys came, however, and the Judge laid the case over a week and ordered the police to bring the other youthful offender in court

Boys Leave Their Homes.

There seems to be an epidemic of disappearances from Rahway.

Tuesday evening John Olinski found that his son Morris, fourteen years old, had taken his clothing and some money and left home.

Albert C. Pierson, who disappeared last Friday night, has been returned to his parents by Chief of Police Wright. Young Pierson said he had feared a promised whipping from his father.

Theodore Smith is wanted by his mother. Theodore disappeared last fall, and was last seen Dec. 14, on the Bowery, New York city, but since then all traces are lost His mother would like to hear from him.

Science and Sense.

According to the estimate of scientists there are from four to six grains of aqueous humor in the eye. There is, however, no humor in neglecting to care fer the eye. Such neglect is certain to cause head and nerve troubles, and possible blindness. A visit to Collier's and a free examination of the eyes will fortify you against a visitation of these troubles.

Dr. Stearns' Class.

Dr. Stearns, of Philadelphia, will meet his Bible class for the last time this year, on Monday evening next, at Y. M. C. A. Hall, at 7:30. As he will start on his European trip in a few days, he has arranged with his brother-in-law, Rev. George Needham, the evangelist, to conduct his class through April and May, and hopes to have him with him on Monday evening.

LIVING CARDS IN WHIST.

A "SPEELKARTENFEAST" TO BE GIVEN FOR THE HOSPITAL'S BENEFIT.

Each Participant Will Represent a Playing Card Garbed to Fully Correspond—Cards are Shuffled with a Dance.

"Speelkartenfeast," or whist with living cards, will be the unique performance that will take place next November for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital. The directoress will be Miss Lila A. Stewart, of Middletown, N. Y., who so admirably arranged and carried out the "Kermess of Nations," two years ago.

The Woman's Auxiliary Board, with their efficient president, Mrs. D. T. Van Buren, hope with the charitable citizens of Plainfield to make it a grand success for the hospital.

The "Speelkartenfeast" is laid in Prussia during the reign of Queen Louisa. The cards are shuffled with a dance. The arrangement of the game of whist is very picturesque; the fifty-two cards being represented by ladies and gentlemen garbed to fully correspond, the kings carrying battle-staves, the queens maces, the knaves battle-axes and the smaller cards wands tipped with the particular card represented.

The game is preceded by selections on piano and banjo. The "Speelkartenfeast" opens with a prologue in which there is a dance of the shepherdesses and a song, "Off to the Play." The women in the pack wear Empire gowns with their designation on the front breadth. The men are in Hussar costumes and the pages in colors.

The ballroom will be beautifully trimmed with greens and flowers to accentuate the idea of a garden fete. There will be also legerdemain tricks.

The afternoons will be given to the children in "Alice in Wonderland."

There will be booths of all Nations with specimens of Italian, Irish, French and German embroidery and laces; likewise Oriental, Roman and Hungarian. In all, it will surpass any entertainment ever gotten up in this city. There will be nothing left out that the women of the Auxiliary Board are able to accomplish.

The "Speelkartenfeast" will be here for a week, opening on Monday.

THE LYCEUM TEAM WON.

A Hot Competion and a Large Crowd of Rooters Made the Game an Exciting One—Higgins Played the Best Game

The bowling match on the Ulrich alleys last evening between the Cleveland Cyclers and the Lyceum Cyclers attracted a very large crowd of enthusiastic supporters of the sport, and each side was cheered continually during the game by their admirers. There was nothing especially noteworthy about the contest, and in fact there were no high scores on either side. The Lyceum bowlers won the match by 140 pins, which left their opponents completely in the rear. The highest score for the evening was made by Higgins. He tallied 168, and Sowden came the nearest to it with a score of 166. The other scores run as low as 80. The lowest was made by Sutphen. It is not to be wondered that the Lyceum team won, for they are old bowlers and have been in the game for a long time. On the other hand the Cleveland team has only been bowling this season, and they have hardly got their hand into the game. They are enthusiastic bowlers, however, and if they continue to practice they will be heard from later on with good results.

The scores were kept by W. Schaefer and J. Moran, while P. Blimm and W. Winn acted as umpires. Below will be found the scores:

Trouble About a School.

There is a difference again between the Boards of Education of Westfield and Springfield over the Branch Mills School. There was an understanding that the expenses of the school, which is attended by children of both townships, should be borne by both places, but the Westfield people now claim that the Springfield board has gone back on the agreement. The school has been closed for some time on account of sickness among the scholars.

CAPTURED A FIREBUG.

LARRY WALLACE TRAPPED IN HIS INCENDIARY ATTEMPT.

Became Familiar With a Detective and Told How He Was Going to Burn Benner's Road House Last Night.

An empty beer bottle strongly smelling of kerosene oil, a small box of shavings saturated with the volitile fluid, two burned matches and three with the brimstone still unused, together with the acts witnessed by a trio of minions of the law, are the things that stamp Larry Wallace as firebug and last night landed him in the Union county jail with twenty or more years of imprisonment staring him in the face.

Within the last year attempt after attempt has been discovered to burn buildings — principally barns, outbuildings or houses isolated and unoccupied — in Fanwood and Scotch Plains. Fortunately, however, in nearly every case the flames were extinguished before they did destructive work. Tho attempts followed one another with such frequency and apparent cunning that the Underwriters' Association of New York took up the matter and employed a detective to ferret out the incendiary.

Larry Wallace is known as one of the most worthless characters in this section, implicated in overt acts time and again, a slave to drink and when in his cups there is no crime—unless it is murder—that he would hesitate to commit. A half dozen times he has been suspected of arson, and once was arrested and indicted but escaped punishment owing to the lack of positive evidence, and the suspicion of being the firebug, or, at least, one of the prime movers if there was more than one involed, immediately rested on his head.

The detective engaged by the Underwriters Association went at his work of catching the incendiary in a systematic and skilled manner. He journeyed to the Plains, mingled among the people and learned of the character and reputation of Wallace. Then he laid his plans to weave a net around Wallace from which escape would be impossible if he was the guilty man.

The detective made up as a rough laborer and assumed an uncouth manner. He hung around the haunts of Wallace for a few days and finally worked himself into the good graces of the latter by buying whiskey, tobacco and other things. He gained the confidence of Wallace degree by degree, and the latter, like all of his ilk, soon related some of the acts which he had perpetrated, and was wont to brag of in the moments of his drunken delirium. Finally the detective broached the subject of setting fire to buildings. It struck a responsive chord in the mind of the depraved Wallace, and he told of some of his experiences in that line of deviltry, and of those who have been implicated with him in the criminal acts.

The detective was a willing listner and after a time Wallace made the boast that he was going to burn the new road house recently built by John Benner, situated on the knoll just east of his present house on the county road. He claimed to have a grudge against Benner for some ill treatment that he had received about the latter's place and was going to take this method of getting even. In a quiet, persuasive way the detective learned all the details that Wallace had planned. Then he set about to capture him in the act.

Yesterday morning at 5 o'clock the detective came to this city and called on Sheriff Kirk and told him of the attempt that Wallace was to make and asked for assistance. The Sheriff readily gave it and during the day the trap was set for Wallace's capture. Wallace told the detective that he intended to burn the road house about 9 o'clock last night.

During the day the Sheriff notified Constable John Seeland, of Elizabeth, to come to Plainfield and assist in the capture of Wallace if he should attempt to carry out his threats. About 7 o'clock the Sheriff, detective and constable started for Fanwood and on the way stopped at Netherwood where Roundsman Frederickson, of the city police force, joined the party. A short distance beyond the Netherwood station the officers, who were in a wagon, discerned the figure of a man walking along the county road. It was found to be that of Wallace. The officers drove ahead at a rapid pace and arriving at the house that Wallace said he was going to set fire to, all the officers but the Sheriff got out of the wagon and hid behind the trees nearby. The Sheriff then drove on towards Westfield as a blind to mislead Wallace and not cause him to suspect that he was watched.

Wallace soon after came ambling

PRESIDENT ANNOYED

Displeased at the Quarrels of Contesting Delegations.

TOO PERSISTENTLY SUPPORT CLAIMS

Secretary Porter Issues a Rule To Prevent a Repetition of Yesterday's Scenes. Delaware and the District of Columbia Clash.

Washington, March 20.—In consequence of the trouble experienced by the president yesterday in receiving delegations in support of office-seekers, who insisted upon making speeches in favor of their candidates, thus preventing Mr. McKinley from attending to other callers and pressing business, Private Secretary Porter has made a rule that no addresses shall be made by anyone while presenting applications for positions. Mr. Porter says that this is done to save the president from the physical and mental exhaustion consequent upon such attempts as were made late yesterday afternoon to present the claims of several Delaware candidates for a judgeship to the exclusion of every one else, during which the president was compelled to interfere and settle the difficulty by giving a decision in the matter of precedence. While one of the delegations from Delaware was in the president's office urging the qualifications of its candidate to fill the position of circuit judge, another committee from Delaware for the same purpose and one from this city to present a candidate for District commissioner were compelled to wait in the hall and ante-room. Nevertheless, the delegation which at the moment held the attention of the president refused to cut short its speeches in praise of its particular candidate, and the president became very much displeased. While this state of affairs existed the Delaware and District committees outside the office got into a controversy over precedence in admission to the president's room. This occurred just outside Secretary Porter's door. The discussion narrowed down to a question of the comparative area of Delaware and the District of Columbia, and had reached the point where references were made to "federal market garden" and the size of Delaware "when the tide is in," when President McKinley ended the matter by having the Delaware people shown into his office. Secretary Porter says that the president is highly indignant and very much annoyed at the actions of the rival delegations, and that hereafter all those who attempt to make speeches in violation of this rule will be given the right-about-face.

Want Treasury Positions.

The following applications for office under the treasury department have been made public: For collector of internal revenue—A. H. Houck of Lebanon, Pa., at Lancaster, Pa. For assistant secretary of the treasury at Washington—George A. Benham of Chicago. For register of the treasury—J. C. Napier of Nashville, Tenn. For auditor of state and other departments—Fred E. Bach of Wilmington, Del. For commissioner of navigation—C. E. Kindt of Portland, Ore. Collector of customs—E. S. Kalkins of Watertown, N. Y., at Cape Vincent, N. Y. Surveyor of customs—I. D. McKee of Philadelpeia, at Philadelphia. Charles Burrows of Rutherford, N. Y., naval officer at New York. J. H. Brewer of Trenton, N. J., appraiser of merchandise at New York. Examiners of drugs—R. C. Evans of Winchester, Mass.; C. H. Betz of Philadelphia, at Philadephia; W. H. Helstand of Philadelphia, at Philadelphia.

CONFIRMED BY THE SENATE.

Several of the President's Nominations Favorably Acted Upon.

Washington, March 20.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations: Charles U. Gordon, postmaster at Chicago. John Hay, of the District of Columbia, ambassador to England. Horace Porter, New York, ambassador to France. Henry White, Rhode Island, secretary of embassy at London. Perry S. Heath, Indiana, to be first assistant postmaster-general. Albert W. Wishard, to be United States attorney, and Samuel E. Kercheval, to be United States marshal for the district of Indiana. Taliaferro Clark, C. H. Lavinder and Mill Hastings, to be assistant surgeons, marine hospital service. The following nomination has been received: Willis Vandevanter, of Wyoming, to be assistant attorney-general, vice Isaac H. Lionberger, resigned.

Women Guilty of Arson.

Buffalo, March 20.—The grand jury reported an indictment for arson in the first degree against Pearl Clifton and Maud Gallagher for setting fire to a dwelling house on Normal avenue, about two weeks ago. The case was at once brought up in the criminal term of the supreme court and on consent of the district attorney both women were allowed to plead guilty to the charge of arson in the third degree, and will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Montreal, March 20.—Sir William Dawson, the venerable principal of McGill university, and Lady Dawson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday. A large number of valuable gifts were presented to the aged couple, while congratulatory messages poured in on them from all parts of the world, many coming from the United States.

Secretary Bliss in New York.

New York, March 20.—Secretary of the Interior Bliss is in this city and will not return to Washington until Monday.

THE SPECIAL SESSION

Tumultuous Scenes May Prove To Be the Rule.

MANY HEATED DEBATES EXPECTED

This Congress May Also Achieve a Record for Rapidity in the Disposition of Business---Opening Day's Proceedings.

Washington, March 20.—If the proceedings of yesterday's session of the house of representatives may be taken as in any way typical of the future work of the house the extraordinary session will take rank with some of the most tumultuous that have marked its history. Another way in which this session may go down into history will be, if promises are kept, by extraordinary rapidity in the disposition of business. The outbursts of partisan feeling have been enough to recall to men of long congressional experience the palmy days of the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses. The ball was opened promptly upon assembly in the presence of crowded galleries. Mr. Dingley returned the tariff bill with a recommendation that it do pass, which, with accompanying report, was placed on the calendar. In connection with this Mr. McMillan called attention to what he termed the "colossal injustice" done the minority of the committee on ways and means in thus reporting the bill before they had had time to prepare an expression of their views. Consent was given for the minority to file their views on Monday.

Very Lively Discussion.

This having been done, Mr. Dalzell presented a resolution from the committee on rules, providing for the consideration of the tariff bill. It called for general debate, beginning on Monday next, and including Thursday, the 25th inst., from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m., with a recess from 5 to 8. Then consideration under the five-minute rule, the bill to be open for amendment until 3 p. m. Wednesday, the 31st inst., when the voting on the amendments and bills shall begin. This was advocated by Messrs. Dalzell and Dingley, and opposed by Messrs. McMillin, Bland, Wheeler and Bailey. There was much cross firing in this discussion, a colloquy between Messrs. Grosvenor and McMillin affording great satisfaction to their respective partisans. The reosolution was agreed to by a party vote, save that Mr. Howard, pop., Ala., voted in the affirmative with the republicans.

Two Appropriation Bills Passed.

This being settled, Mr. Henderson reported a resolution providing for the passage of the appropriation bills which failed at the last session of congress, in this order—the sundry civil, general deficiency, agricultural and Indian. The resolution allowed forty minutes' debate on each bill, the bills to be read in extenso. As a preliminary to the discussion of this resolution Messrs. McMillin and Sayers had a rather heated controversy over the matter of controlling the time in opposition to the resolution. The resolution was adopted after an hour's discussion, 173 to 116, Messrs. Pearson and Linney, reps., voting against their political associates, who supported the resolution. The demand for a vote by yeas and nays on this proposition brought out a hot protest by Mr. Henderson, who charged that it was a violation of the agreement with Messrs. Bailey and McMillin, that no dilatory motions would be made. They denied making any such promise, but the atmosphere was quite heated in consequence of their action. The house then passed the sundry civil and general deficiency bills, leaving the agricultural and Indian bills to be disposed of this afternoon.

The Senate.

The senate is not in session to-day, having adjourned until Monday. The number of bills that have been introduced during the three days of the extraordinary session have run up to 975. Almost all of them had been introduced in the last and former congresses. A petition of John Edward Addicks contesting the election of Senator Kenney of Delaware and claiming that he, himself, was duly elected, was presented and was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

RAILROADS WIN.

United States Loses the Suit Against the Joint Traffic Association.

New York, March 20.—Judges Wallace and Lacombe of the United States circuit court of appeals have decided in favor of the railroad companies in the suit of the United States vs the Joint Traffic association. They have dismissed the application restraining the companies from operating under the joint traffic agreement. The case now goes to the United States supreme court.

Plotting Against the Sultan.

Galatz, Roumania, March 20.—It is reported in Greek circles here that the Greeks in Constantinople of whom 30,000 are well armed, are plotting a revolt against the sultan's government. Recently a large body of Greeks left here, ostensibly for Greece, but it is now said that their real destination was Constantinople.

Grant Monument Dedication.

Washington, March 20.—The treasury department will be represented at the ceremonies attending the dedication of the Grant monument at Riverside park, New York city, April 19, by a fleet of eleven lighthouse tenders and five revenue cutters.

Military Execution in Cuba.

Havana, March 20.—Ramon Callija Gonzalez, convicted of the crimes of rebellion and incendiarism, was shot in Cabanas fortress this morning.

March April May

The months for renewing and healing in the physical world.

The months for new life, new energy, new blood in men and women.

The months when our need of help from medicine is greater than at any other time of year.

The months when Hood's Sarsaparilla will do us the most good because we are all now especially susceptible to benefit from this medicine.

The months when Hood's Sarsaparilla is taken by the millions because they have found that it is the medicine which does them good.

The months when you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it will purify, vitalize and enrich your blood, and put you in good condition to resist the debilitating effects of changeable, warmer weather. Try it now.

Satisfied with Hood's.

"For several years I have taken two or three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring for eradicating the humors in the blood and for building up the system generally. My experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla has been very satisfactory." GEO. FRANK, care of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

Great Blood Purifier.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is our family physician and I believe it needs no recommendation. Wherever it has once been used there can be no substitute for it, as a blood purifier." MISS C. A. ELLIOTT, Grinnell, Iowa.

Builds Up the System.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for weakness with which I was a sufferer in the spring, and I have found it the best medicine to create an appetite and build up the strength that I have ever taken, and I recommend it highly." J. F. WARD, Labelle, Ohio.

Keeps the Stomach in Order.

"I keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house all the time and regard it as the best spring medicine I can find. It has proved beneficial in keeping my stomach in order, and since I began taking it I can eat anything I wish." H. STONE, Sherborn, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is sold by all druggists. Price $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The Best Spring Medicine.

THE BLOCKADE TO-MORROW.

Preparations Made in Crete To Receive the Foreign Troops.

Canea, March 20.—An Italian officer has started for the camp of the Greek troops with instructions to notify Col. Vassos, their commander, that the blockade of the island will begin at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, in accordance with the proclamation issued by the foreign admirals. Preparations are being made for the arrival of the foreign troops. Barracks are being got in readiness, and in some cases school houses will be used for the lodging of the troops.

Serious Complications Threatened.

Athens, March 20.—A new feature in the situation has developed which threatens to result in serious complications, and much interest is manifested here as to how the powers will view the matter. The Turks are engaged in rapidly constructing fortifications on the Turkish side of the Gulf of Arta. This work is in direct violation of the provisions of the treaty of Berlin.

Turkey Urged To Attack Greece.

Athens, March 20.—It is rumored here to-day that Russia is urging Turkey to attack Greece, offering financial assistance to the porte if this be done.

TARIFF BILL IN THE SENATE.

Committee on Finance Begins an Examination of the Measure.

Washington, March 20.—Without waiting for the house to take final action on the tariff bill, the republican members of the senate committee on finance have begun the informal examination of the measure. They will give the subject careful attention, and it is understood that their meetings are to be held somewhere down town away from the crowds that hover about the committee room when this subject is under investigation. The republican members have decided that no hearings will be granted. They will, however, give full attention to printed or type written briefs should any be filed with the finance committee. These briefs should refer to specific paragraphs relative to proposed changes in the house bill, or any other change that may be suggested in existing custom laws.

KAISER CONVICTED.

Jury Finds Him Guilty of the Murder of His Wife Near Norristown.

Norristown, Pa., March 20.—Charles O. Kaiser, jr., who has been on trial here for the murder of his wife, Emma B. Kaiser, on October 28 last, was last night found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was a little over three hours in coming to a verdict. The trial of Kaiser was the most sensational ever held in this county, as the crime for which he has been convicted was one of the most carefully planned and coldly executed murders in the criminal annals of Pennsylvania. The case was placed on trial here Monday a week ago and has been conducted with great skill by the prosecution and by the eminent attorneys employed in Kaiser's behalf.

TO FORTIFY ST. JOHNS.

British Government Will Have a Naval Station in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, N. F., March 20.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, corresponding with the colonial minister here, has asked a numbor of questions with a view to the imperial ministry making this city a naval station; and maintaining a squadron of warships here all the year round. The correspondence intimates the further probability of garrisoning St. Johns, and restoring the fortifications formerly existing. This course is taken with a view to the strategical importance of the new railway across Newfoundland, which is now nearly completed. Preparations for the installation of troops are likely to be undertaken during the coming summer.

Epworth League Convention Postponed.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 20.—At the request of the board of control of the Epworth league, the convention which was to have been held here from July 8 to 12 has been postponed for one year. The reason for the postponement is that the board of control fear that the Saratoga convention would seriously interfere with the attendance at the International Epworth League convention, which will be held at Toronto during the following week.

Scully Is in Havana.

Camden, N. J., March 20.—Relatives of Robert E. Scully, who disappeared from Camden about three weeks ago, are rejoicing over the news that the young man is safe in Havana. Scully's family live at Somerville, N. J. He came to Camden ostensibly to take a position in Philadelphia. Nothing was heard from him until a telegram from Philadelphia informed his relatives that Scully was with Consul General Lee in Havana.

Jackson and Walling To Hang To-day.

Frankfort, Ky., March 20.—Gov. Bradley has again decided not to interfere with the sentence of the court in the cases against Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling, and the execution of both will take place this afternoon. He publicly announced his final determination in the case after carefully reading the confessions of the two men for a second time, and studying over the records in the case.

His Neck Broken by a Cow.

Lockport, N. Y., March 20.—Edwin Hinman, a well known milkman, 35 years old, met with a peculiar accident at his farm here yesterday. Mr. Hinman was milking a cow and had his head partly under her body, when by a sudden movement she threw her weight upon his neck, breaking it. The injury is fatal.

RIVERS STILL RISING

Tennessee and Arkansas Valleys Completely Inundated.

HUNDREDS FLEE FOR THEIR LIVES

Memphis, Tenn., March 20.—A further half inch rise in the Mississippi means the devastation of property and probably a loss of life unequalled in the flood history of this section. The rise is threatened because rain is still falling. Seventeen persons are reported drowned fifty miles below Caruthersville, Mo. A stretch of country, over 100 miles from a point seventy miles north of Memphis to a point fifty miles south of the Tennessee metropolis is submerged in places to a depth of ten feet. The fertile valleys of Tennessee and Arkansas are completely inundated and many lives have been lost and stock drowned, fencing and dwellings swept away, inhabitants destitute and homeless and left to starve or drown by the remorselessly rising tide. Reports from tributary streams show rains and rapidly rising rivers, floods from which will soon be emptied into the Mississippi, adding to the danger when hurled against the already weakened levees. The levees are patrolled hourly by armed and desperate men provided with sand bags to strengthen weak places or to close threatened crevasses and rifles to shoot down any miscreant who would venture to cut the embankment and allow the water on his plantation to find vent into the lowlands of his neighbor. The floods now partake of the nature of a deluge. As far as the eye can see nothing but water meets the gaze. Six hundred people were rescued yesterday on the Arkansas side of the river and taken to Memphis, but there are flood districts so situated that relief boats cannot reach the stricken ones. On Island 39, 100 sufferers and considerable live stock were rescued by the steamer Itasca. Neither man nor beast had tasted food for over twenty-four hours. Human beings and helpless brutes are huddled together awaiting assistance all along the Iron Mountain and the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf tracks. Five hundred people were forced to flee from the floods in Dyer and Obion counties, Tennessee.

Railroad Trains Stop Running.

The Cumberland river is rising. Rain fell all day yesterday, last night and continues to come down incessantly to-day. There is prospect of the greatest flood on record. Much damage has already resulted from the overflowed lowland and more will follow when the flood increases. Large sections of East Nashville have been under water for several days. The river is already climbing to the business houses on Front street. Boats are now anchored to the sidewalks and the prospect is that the first floors of buildings will be submerged. Dispatches from the southern counties of Tennessee and from northern Alabama report forty-eight hours of rainfall and terrible floods in the region. Great damage has been done to bridges and fences. Trains have stopped running on the Nashville, Florence & Sheffield railroad.

The Situation Growing Worse.

Sioux City, Ia., March 20.—Though many of last night's rumored drownings were unconfirmed this morning, the actual flood situation is growing worse. The Floyd river has carried out every bridge from Lamars to a mile above Sioux City and is still rising. The valley is full from hill to hill, the towns of Merrill, Hinton and the Sioux City suburbs—Springdale, Lynn and Leeds, flooded, and many houses in Sioux City itself are surrounded by water. On the Big Sioux many bridges are out, and at Hawarden the water is reported five feet deep in the streets. The Northwestern is said not to have a bridge left between Huron and Hawarden. The Missouri is still frozen here, but is rumored to be breaking and gorging at Onawa, some distance further down.

Settlers Fleeing.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 20.—The low lands are flooded and the rivers are rising with frightful rapidity. The Platte, swollen to more than its usual spring height, is rushing into the Missouri, carrying with it the debris of wrecked bridges and farm yards in its valley. The Elkhorn adds its flood to the Platte, and all the valleys seem to be afloat. Reports from northern Minnesota are of the same character.

Trains Cannot Enter Cairo.

Cairo, Ill., March 20.—Birds Point is entirely under water, and the Cotton Belt and the Iron Mountain trains cannot enter Cairo. The steamer Mary Morton, from the lower river, reports the levees intact from Osceola up, but momentarily fearing a break. The Morton rescued a large number of people and live stock.

The Menominee River Overflows.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 20.—The heavy rains in this vicinity caused the Menominee river, in the suburbs of Milwaukee, to overflow its banks. One hundred and fifty families were driven from their homes at an early hour this morning. The life saving crews and the fireboats were sent to their assistance.

Admiral Selfridge in Rome.

Rome, March 20.—Rear Admiral Selfride, commanding the United States squadron, has arrived here, and paid a visit to Admiral Brin, Italian minister of marine. Admiral Selfridge was accompanied by his aide, Lieut. J. J. Hunker, and his secretary, Mr. Russell.

ANENT THE AMERICAN FLAG.

One of the historic-patriotic societies has been discussing the use of the American flag. Some of the members argued that it was used too promiscuously and that this was a stain upon the nation. One speaker went so far as to recommend legislation making it "a crime punishable by a fine of ten dollars for any person to use the American flag except on government or school buildings." But it stands to reason that the glorious emblem of our National sovereignty cannot be used to promiscuously. The stars and stripes have been used somewhat promiscuously in the past, as the tattered bunting shows, and a little more promiscuity won't hurt them to any appreciable extent.—Trenten Times.

QUITE DEAD.

The Armbruster racetrack bill is dead, dead as Julius Cæsar; dead as a mackeral; dead as the Wilson tariff; dead as the lay judge system; dead as Bill Bryan; and, if there's anything more dead than any or all of these put together, the racetrack bill is as dead as that. The racetrack bill and racetrack gambling in New Jersey are dead. The people await the opportunity to bury them beyond all resurrection; and this they will do when they vote on the constitutional amendments.—Elizabeth Journal.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL OFFIGERS.

First Presbyterian Church School Hold Their Annual Meeting.

Owing to the very stormy weather last evening there was not a large attendance of officers and teachers at the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school. In the absence of Superintendent H. B. Lounsbury, who is detained at home by illness, his place was filled by E. M. Cave, who acted as chairman of the meeting.

The annual report of the superintendent showed that the work of the school for the past twelve months had been most creditable. His report was in the form of a review and was exceedingly interesting.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Superintendent, H. B. Lounsbury; First assistant, E. M. Cave; second assistant, Miss E. Bittenbender; secretary, W. W. Dunn; assistant secretary, P. W. Dayton; treasurer. F. J. Shotwell; librarian, C. C. Davis; assistant librarian, F. L. Cobb.

During the meeting several new plans for work were proposed, and where it is thought advisable changes will be made to increase the efficiency of the school.

It was decided unanimously that the annual excursion of the school to Asbury Park should be on Thursday, July 15th.

A Talented Woman.

The meeting of the Town Improvement Association held on Tuesday, March 23d, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in the Y. M. C. A. hall will probably be one of the most interesting over held by the association. Mrs. James Scrimgeour, president of the Health Protective Association of Brooklyn, will speak of the work done by that association and especially by the children in the auxiliary department in Brooklyn. As Mrs Scrimgeour always interests children very much it is to be hoped that many will come to hear her. All those who heard this talented speaker last year will no doubt be interested to hear her again. Everyone is welcome whether members of the association or not.

Burned by Electricity.

Thomas Humble, who is employed about the dynamo room at Sebring's mills, Green Brook, met with a serious accident yesterday. He was about to clean one of the dynamos which was not supposed to be running when he received a terrible shock that completely burned the skin from one hand and also injured the other. In some way the wires had been crossed and the dynamo was charged unknown to the operator. Dr. Brakeley dressed the wound.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

"Killarney and the Rhine" was produced here yesterday at the opera house with great satisfaction, and will be continued during the week with the exception of tonight when Patti, the divine, will appear. The singing in the musical comedy is excellent, all agreeing that it is way above the average.—Times, Pittsburg. At Music Hall, Monday ntght.

When you are suffering from Catarrh or Cold in the head you want relief right away. Only 10 cents is required to test it. Ask your druggist for the trial size of Ely's Cream Balm, or buy the 50. cent size. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City. I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus Geo. Shauts, Rahway, N. J.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Rev. W. C. Kinsey and wife, of Newark, arrived in town yesterday.

Mrs. Julia Loughlin is recovering from an aggravated attack of the grip.

Mrs. S. T. Prentiss has returned from a visit with relatives and friends in Brooklyn.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will exchange pulpits with Rev. John Miller, of Roselle, tomorrow morning.

Since the news stand has been closed, Roy Day, the attendant has been transferred to Fanwood.

Rev. A. I. Martine will preach at both the morning and evening service in the Presbyterian church tomorrow.

Rev. Augustus Todd will conduct services in the M. E. church tomorrow, preaching both morning and evening.

Ernest Peters is recovering and is able to be about the house again, after a seige of suffering from gastritis.

It is stated that Eugene Runyon has rented his Front street house to a Mrs. Henry, of White House, who is a near relative of Wesley Blaine.

Conductor Charles Dinneen is the happy possessor of a handsome new Waltham watch, which as a timekeeper is guaranteed by the makers.

Miss Nellie Powers, of New Market, who has been suffering from inflammatory rheumatism is recovering under Dr. Zeglo's skillful treatment.

Fred Nelson is only waiting for the roads to get good and become just a little dusty, so he can show his friends how his steppers can "get up and git."

Candidates for Road Commissioner or Overseer are looming up as thick as bees in a bonnet. The appointment, it is expected, will be made at the April meeting of the Council.

The news stand at the Dunellen depot was closed up, yesterday, because it didn't pay. It would seem as though this is the beginning of the time when the place should pay if ever.

W. H. Carman is a lover of sports and game when in season. Yesterday at his own expense he had a dozen fine healthy looking quail shipped to him from New York which he intends to liberate early next week.

A birthday surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Henry Kircher at her Front street home, last evening. The affair was gotten up by some of the neighbors, some twenty or more of whom were present and engaged in the festivities.

George and Peter Huff, who are doing a lucretive insurance business in New Brunswick, are anticipating taking up their permanent abode at Middlesex County's seat. The Messrs. Huff, it is said, have been aspirants for the postmastership in Dunellen.

Chief of Police Warden made his first capture for truancy from school yesterday, in the person of Thomas Kelly, a lad who persisted in staying away from school. The boy was severely reprimanded and let go, with the promise that he would attend school in the future.

The M. E. Conference will sit on April 7th, when a new pastor will be assigned to assume control of the church here. Just who the new pastor will be is not stated, but it is understood that the appointment will lay between two, and they are both anxious to take up the Lord's work here.

Signal boss, A. J. Deiner had a lot of his fine chichens poisoned by some mean scamp Thursday night. Upon investigation it was found that Paris green had been mixed with flour and thrown to the brood. It's a pity that the one or more engaged in this sort of work cannot be captured and a lasting example shown.

The new Board of Education met in the Whittier school and organized, Thursday evening, by electing L. T. Titsworth president and Elston Lowrie clerk. The business transacted was only of a routine nature, except that the matter of in the future engaging Normal School graduates was considered, but no decisive action was taken.

WESTFIELD.

THE TOWNS SOLONS ACT.

SEVERAL TOWNSHIP MATTERS TRANSACTED LAST NIGHT.

It Was Mostly Routine Business, However. —Several Short Items of News of Interest to the Westfield People.

J. H. Scudder of Trenton made a business visit here yesterday.

John B. Green conducted the services at St. Paul's church last evening.

The young ladies class in calisthenics met in Gale's club house this afternoon.

The exempt firemen's association held an adjourned meeting last evening.

The Woman's Club will meet at 2:30 p. m., Monday in the rooms of the Social Club.

There was a live bird shoot this afternoon on the grounds of the Westfield Gun Club.

Mrs. A. W. Lightbourne returned yesterday from a two weeks visit among friends in Baltimore.

The Westfield Athletic Club purpose giving an amateur minstrel show soon after Easter. The first rehearsal was held last night.

There will be a meeting of Union District, of the National Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers in Elizabeth, next Tuesday evening. Fred C. Brunner, Wellington C. Whittke, W. H. Winter, C. P. Wilcox and George Peck, Jr., all of this town, are members of the federation and will probably attend the meeting. As soon as the weather settles a little, the gentlemen above mentioned, will begin to put their birds on condition feed and have a few trial flys from twenty to one hundred miles. A match is being arranged between the local breeders and some Plainfielders.

The Township Committee met last evening and attended to some routine matters. Bills amounting to $76.19 were audited and ordered paid. They were as follows: Charles E. Smith, $12.01; J. H. Cash, $2.48; E. W. Chamberlain, $60.00 and The Union County Standard, $2 50. The report of Sewer Superintendent Chamberlain, was read and placed on file. W. W. Connolly, commissioner of appeal, came before the board and took the oath of office. The newly elected collector, Addison H. Clark, Jr., filed his bond of $15,000, with the Committee. His bondsmen are: John Darsh, James Moffett, Jacob D. Frenck, Harry E. Knight, William I. Keeler and George W. Sudder. Township treasurer Moorehouse filed a $5,000 bond. His bondsmen are: Luther Whittiker, George Embree and A. E. Pearsall. A communication was received from Isaac L. Hunt, a lawyer of Rahway, demanding $7 of the township as a result of a recent suit against William Fitzpatrick. The case against Fitzpatrick was dismissed and now he wants to recover the costs in the case. The communication was referred.

The mountain crushers are now running on full time and with a full quota of men.

The late downfall of snow and the recent rains do not appear to have raised the water in the wells one inch.

The streets were isolated last evening. Except for a few flickering store and hotel lamps, a stranger wouldn't know which way to turn, so dark were the streets.

The recent revival services have been prolific of much good, and as one of the grand results, Rev. J. S. Braker will conduct baptismal services in the Baptist church on Sunday.

The members of the executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist church met on Thursday evening, and laid out their plan of work for the ensuing year.

The postal authorities here have been notified that hereafter all mail matter must be weighed, both incoming and outgoing. This places a little more responsibility on the postmaster and his assistants.

A large pot of beautiful hot house roses in full bloom from Mat. Schmidt's greenhouses, adorns the desk of the lady attendant in the post-office. The display is something unusual for this time of the year.

Several weeks ago The Press told of the proposed plan of the Young Men's League to erect a suitable club-house for meeting purposes, etc., and stated that John M. Marsh had given the land. But there's nothing new in the matter. The transfer has not yet been made and the deed for the property has not yet been signed. The plot of ground is, however, most desirable for the purpose for which it is wanted. The dimensions of the lot are 75 by 120 feet.

From Cripple Creek.

BOROUGH SCHOOL PRAISED.

County Superintendent Mets Indorses Mr. Warde's Work.

The following letter has been received from J. A. Mets, superintendent of public schools in Somerset county, which will be interesting to North Plainfield people:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of Thursday, the 11th inst., I notice a very appreciative article in regard to the Public School of North Plainfield. Permit me to say that all stated therein, and much more, is fully warranted by the facts. It has been my pleasure as well as duty to visit that school several times, each time with increased admiration for the thorough work that is being done there. It is a matter of no small gratification to have a school of such high grade under my supervision. Dr. Warde and his able corps of assistants are deserving of the greatest credit in bringing the school, in so short a time, up to the present high standard, taking in as it does the entire curriculum of a thoroughly graded primary and secondary school, beginning with the kindergarten and finishing with the college preparatory department.

No small credit is due, also, to the pupils of the High School department for the excellent literary journal issued by them. In the beauty of its appearance and make up, the quality of its literary matter, and, what is more rare, the common sense which has evidently guided its editors, it must at once take a high rank among kindred publications.

Somerville, N. J., March 16, 1897.

Mrs. Harriet Newell Jones, of Philadelphia, State Secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Pennsylvania, who addressed the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held in the First Baptist church was entertained at the home Dr. J. B. Probasco of East Front street.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. THE ELEVENTH HOUR

When Katherine threw open the shutters that morning a flood of yellow sunlight greeted her, and the subtle fragrance of many flowers laden with dew.

It was certainly a fine morning, yet Katherine, Nature's disciple though she was, felt that for all its beauty it still lacked something which cannot be defined in mere words and is only obvious to the senses through the heart.

She had felt it before her eyes unclosed on her pillow, before she was fairly awake, and before memory and reality had come back to her. Now, as she looked gravely out across the garden and the river and the clustering roofs beyond, she wondered vaguely if Jack's going away had occasioned this gnawing restlessness and dissatisfaction with which she seemed to view all things past, present and future.

She would miss Jack—miss his rare, sweet smile, his restful voice, his pleasant ways

Never since their earliest childhood had they been separated longer than a few months at a time. He had always been her friend, her comrade. Having no brothers of her own, he had stood to her rather in the light of this relation. It had never occurred to her that Jack might regard her with other than brotherly affection. Therefore, when he one day asked her suddenly to marry him, and had told her how necessary she was to his happiness, she had been startled, at first, then quite inclined to treat the matter as a joke.

It was a long time before she could understand that he was terribly in earnest. Grieved beyond expression, she had told him frankly that she could not marry him because she did not think she cared for him as she ought to care for the man she married. And Jack, putting all thought of self out of the question, forebore to press his suit further, and begged that in the future she should regard him exactly as she had done in the past.

But this was impossible. Each felt a restraint in the presence of the other that it was useless to try to conceal. Jack felt that he could not go on seeing her daily, knowing that she was not for him, so the evening before the morning on which my story opens he had come to tell her that he was going away—had been sent as staff correspondent to Japan, and that it was quite possible they might not meet again for years. He himself had known it for some time, but somehow he could not bear to tell her until the last. He should leave the city on the morrow. His steamer sailed the day after. And Katherine could say nothing except to wish him God-speed and a safe return, trying with all her might to keep the tears out of her eyes and voice.

As she turned from the window her glance fell upon his photograph, framed and standing on her dressing-table. She took it up and looked at it long and earnestly. The frank, smiling eyes, the firm chin, the tender mouth—there was no trace of weakness or irresolution in them all.

She put the photograph suddenly down as a great wave of dull, aching loneliness swept over her.

An hour later she surprised her family by appearing at the breakfast table gowned and bonneted for a journey.

"I am going to spend the day with Aunt Patience," she explained, smiling. "I have neglected her quite too long."

Aunt Patience was really not aunt to Katherine at all, but one of those delightful old ladies to whom people are always anxious to claim relationship. She lived in the country, hardly twenty miles distant, with her brother, who, like herself, had never married.

When Katherine alighted at the country station of Brightwood the summer day was already well advanced, and she lost no time in setting out for her destination. As she walked along the shady lane and felt the crisp grass beneath her feet and smelled the fresh, sweet odor blown from wood and field, her heart lightened curiously.

Aunt Patience had seen her coming up the little path that led from the gate, and met her at the door with a kiss and a hearty welcome.

"Dear child, how bonny you are! How the sight of you gladdens my old eyes! I've been grieving this long while lest my deary should forget me among all of her fine friends."

"As if I could ever do that!" Katherine replied, with moistened eyes.

"Well, well—come in. This is a right joyful day for me to have both my precious children again—"

"Both!" echoed Katherine, in surprise.

They had crossed the little entry and were entering the best room. A tall figure came forward from the window with hands outstretched.

"Well, Katherine!" Jack said, looking down at her with happy eyes.

It was quite a moment before she found her voice sufficiently to speak.

"Why, how is this? I thought you were going away to-day!"

"And so I am; but of course not without bidding Aunt Patience goodby. If you had been able to take an earlier train, Katherine, we might have come down together. You aren't sorry that I'm here?" he asked presently, as Aunt Patience left the room for an instant.

"Sorry! How could I be that?" And Katherine's eyes met his frankly.

He turned away with a quick drawn breath.

"Ah, Katherine, Katherine!" he said reproachfully. "Your words mean so much and your eyes so little."

Fortunately for both Aunt Patience returned just then. The dear old lady was in her gayest and most reminiscent mood. She recalled so many of Jack's youthful pranks that he felt, as he said, quite like a boy again. It was wonderful how she remembered things long since escaped from the minds of the participants themselves—little trivial happenings which revealed to Katherine how large a place she and Jack had filled in that gentle, colorless life.

Aunt Patience would have none of Katherine's proffered assistance in the preparation of the noonday meal.

"No, no, child! 'Tis little enough you know about such things. You would only soil your pretty hands, and besides, you must talk to Jack. It may be a weary long day ere you see each other again."

At the stroke of noon she came out upon the porch, where the two were seated.

"Toot—toot—too—t!" Katherine blew with a will

"Ah, I knew the minute I heerd the horn it warn't Patience a blowing of it!" the little, bent, kindly-eyed man said, as he took Katherine's soft hands in his hard brown ones. "How air ye, Katherine? But I needn't to ask. You're as pretty and sweet as one of Patience's pinks there. And John, too—well, well!"

Uncle Dan was quite overcome with surprise and delight.

"So you're going to Japan, eh? Ain't that a rather sudden move for ye? I'll wager you'll wish yourself back inside of three days of your landing."

"I've no doubt of it, sir," Jack answered, looking anywhere but at Katherine, who sat opposite him at the small round table.

"Very foolish in him, is it not?" she said, trying to speak as naturally as was possible under the circumstances.

"These boys—these boys! Soon's ever they get full grown they needs must be scampering off to see new sights and new countries, as if their own warn't good enough for them! Why don't ye get married, John, and settle down like a sensible creature, I'd like to know? Here's Katherine—what's the matter with Katherine, John?"

Katherine flushed hotly.

"Can't agree, Uncle Dan," she laughed.

"Speak for yourself, Katherine," Jack said in a low direct tone.

Jack's train left at five, and in the course of the afternoon he coaxed Katherine to visit with him those scenes in which they had a common and very tender interest. There was one spot especially—a place by the brook where a willow drooped its graceful boughs almost to the surface of the restless, sparkling water. The willow had been a tender sapling in the days when they played at housekeeping beneath its branches.

Katherine sat down on the soft turf and drew her hand lingeringly through the clear, cool water. Recollection lent a sweet gravity to her fair face, and Jack, watching her with his whole tender, aching heart in his eyes, thought he had never seen her look so lovely.

"Do you suppose, Katherine," he asked at last in an odd, low voice, "that you will ever come here after I am gone?"

She was silent.

"I should like to know that you would," he went on wistfully, "for old times' sake, if for nothing more."

She rose suddenly to her feet, flirting the drops of water from her hand with a little, impatient movement. In the light that sifted through the quivering green leaves she looked quite pale.

Jack caught her by the shoulders.

"Tell me Katherine," he cried passionately, "shall you?"

She swung loose from him, laughing a little—faintly.

"Shall I—come, do you mean? Oh, yes, I suppose so! I never visit Aunt Patience without strolling down here, you know. I like the water and the willow and the—quiet."

In the distance the whistle of an approaching train sounded shrilly. He stopped with a dismayed exclamation.

"It can't be possible—but yes, it is—it is my train!" He glanced at his watch. "We lingered too long under the willow, Katherine. I shall have barely time to bid Aunt Patience good-bye now."

Katherine put her hand to her throat. Her lips moved vainly in an effort to speak. Then a low sob burst from them.

"Katherine, my dear, my dear, do you really care like this? But I must go—there's my train!"

He pressed her hands hard. Then of a sudden her voice came back to her. She cried out piteously—

"Oh, I can't let you go—I can't live without you, Jack—Jack, stay until—I can go, too!"

Aunt Patience was frantically beckoning to them from the porch as they leisurely approached the house, hand in hand. The train was just gliding out of the station.

"Jack," she called, as soon as they were within speaking distance, "there goes your train! It's too bad! I tried to warn you in time, but—"

Something in the young people's faces as they drew nearer gave her a suspicion of the truth.

"Then you ain't going?" she said in slow wonder.

"Well, no—at least not until I can take Katherine with me. You see I've just made a promise to that effect, and—congratulate me, Aunt Patience! I'm the happiest man alive, and she is—"

"The happiest woman," finished Katherine, softly.

DARING FEATS OF A DIVER.

Thrilling Experiences While Recovering Treasures from the Deep.

The Skyro, bound from Carthagena to London, struck on the Meixiddo Reef and sunk in twenty-eight fathoms, low water.

The accident occurred in 1891, and it was not until four years later, May, 1895, that any attempt was made to recover the valuable cargo which the sunken steamship contained, the most tempting part of which consisted of eighty-eight bars of silver, valued at $45,000. This treasure was stored away in a square berth in the cabin, while in the hold was 700 tons of pig lead, valued at $70,000.

It was J. K. Moffat, an Englishman, living in Bilboa, who made the first attempt on the treasure. After four or five months' labor and terrible under-water work by the divers, all Mr. Moffat had to show for his time and money was a grimy piece of the Skyro's brass cabin skylight grating.

Mr. Moffat let things rest at this until several months later.

During the two months following the beginning of these second operations a diver named Erostarbe descended forty-four times and recovered fifty-nine bars of silver, the average time of each descent being thirteen minutes. After the first thirty-seven bars had been got to the surface it was found necessary to use dynamite.

The dynamite so cleared things that in three dives Erostarbe brought up over $10,000 worth of silver bars. But even this adept at submarine work did not come off without some close shaves during his career. On one occasion in coming up he fouled his air pipe with a float attached to the buoy rope. He was ascending with a strong impetus and the impact with the float turned him downward and his head slipped out of the helmet below the breast plate. He could neither right himself nor replace his head. But he never for an instant lost his presence of mind, but worked swiftly and deftly with his hands in this reversed position. He managed to free the air pipe and shot up to the surface feet foremost, where he was quickly reversed by his assistants and restored to the world after such a close call as it is the lot of very few men to survive.—New York World.

Stanton Was Doubtful.

Perhaps the most brilliant achievement of Frank Thompson, the new president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was the construction of new lines of railway and the reconstruction of abandoned ones in Virginia. He was then only 20, and it is related that Secretary Stanton, on taking his advice, said to Col. Scott: "Is it possible that we have waited three days to get the opinion of that red-headed stripling?" The "stripling" is now at the head of the greatest railroad system in the world.

A Place Where All Women Smoke.

Everybody smokes in Japan. The pipes hold a little wad of fine cut tobacco as big as a pea. It is fired, and the smoker takes a long whiff, blowing the smoke in a cloud from his mouth and nose. The ladies have pipes with longer stems than the men, and if one of them wishes to show a gentleman a special mark of favor she lights her pipe, takes half a whiff, hands it to him and lets him finish out the whiff.

She Might Reconsider.

He had made something of a study of women. "Will you marry me," he began, "to—"

"No," she interrupted promptly and with emphasis.

"—to enable me to win a bet?" he went on, without noticing her interruption.

"Um, well," she said, hesitatingly, "I—er—how much is the bet?"—Chicago Record.

Painfully Introduced.

A well-known lecturer, who had been invited to serve as a substitute, felt some nervousness, knowing he was to fill the place of a more famous man. This feeling was not diminished when he heard himself thus announced by a long-limbed, keen-eyed Western farmer—"This 'ere is our substitute. I don't know what he can do. Time was short, an' we hed to take what we could git!"

An Old School Gentleman.

"Colonel Barfleigh is an old beat, but somehow I enjoy listening to the old fellow talk."

"So do I. His sentences are as florid as his nose and as polished as his clothes."—Indianapolis Journal.

A fool with a pistol generally fires it off when he doesn't intend to. When he hits anybody it is the wrong man, as a rule, and when he only intends to frighten he succeeds in killing.

The Last Resort.

The young parson: "I tell you I am discouraged, sir. I don't seem to stir up a bit of enthusiasm in my parish. They listen to me in a sort of perfunctory way, but I know I am making little or no impression on them. What can I do?"

The old parson: "There is just one thing left for you, after you have tried everything else."

"And that is?"

"Pitch into Jonah's whale."

The Cause of His Woe.

Mrs. Borders—"Do not feel so badly, Tommy. Your little sister has passed the critical point in her illness and will now get well."

Tommy Borders (tearfully)—"I know it. And now she will want to eat all the good things the neighbors send in to her every day herself!"—Puck.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

MAYORS OF THREE CITIES

Publish to the World the Wonderful Cures by Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Now Is the Time You Need Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy. Take It as a Spring Medicine to Purify Your Blood and Strengthen Your Nerves.

HON. H. H. WALLING, MAYOR OF ORANGE PARK, FLA.

The Mayors of many cities have given their official endorsement and recommendation to that grand medicine and surest cure in the world, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

Hon. H. H. Walling, Mayor of Orange Park, Fla., writes:—"I have long been familiar with the fame of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and especially in its results in the case of my friends, many of whom occupy high places of honor and trust. In cases of nervousness from the strain of long sustained mental work, causing sleeplessness and lack of rest it is excellent. I have used it myself and am now using it, and I most cordially recommend the remedy."

Hon. Geo. W. Wing, Mayor of Montpelier, Vt., says:—"I have used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in my family, with marked and decided benefit. Especially has it been useful in insomnia, arising from indigestion and its attendant evils. I think well of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and freely grant permission to use this letter in advertising it."

Hon. Henry Robinson, Mayor of Concord, N. H., writes:—"Let me certify my appreciation of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. As a medicine it is a crown jewel. As a remedy I believe it to be unequalled in efficiency. I have found health, strength, buoyancy, courage in its use, which I began as a mere experiment. I commend it and recommend it to every depressed man and woman. It is a benefaction to the diseased and disordered, a charming solace to tired and nervous workers in every field of useful endeavor. I give permission to print this unqualified testimonial whenever and wherever desired; the sterling character of the proprietors and the superior merits of Dr. Greene's Nervura warrant and deserve all that I can say in its praise."

When the highest executive officials of the different cities thus, for the good of the people, testify to the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, all who have need of medicine can know certainly that this great remedy will cure them of their complaints and use it with absolute assurance of being restored to health. In the spring, above all other times, this remedy should be taken to get well and to keep well, for a spring medicine is necessary for almost everybody, and Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the best spring medicine you can possibly use. Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the most perfect pills for biliousness and constipation. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

TRADE WITH JAPAN.

Ozaki Says His Countrymen Prefer To Buy in This Country.

Boston, March 20.—K. Okazaki of Tokio, Japan, who represents the Tokio Iron works, one of the largest in Japan, is now in this city. In an interview this morning he said: "I made heavy purchases of iron in Pittsburg for the first time in the history of our firm and I am satisfied that in the future there will be a big demand in Japan for American iron and steel, rails, plates, bar iron and machiner, window glass, etc. I have been very much pleased with what I have seen in this country. We would rather buy here than in Europe. Trade between the United States and Japan is increasing rapidly, but I think it could easily be extended. For instance, Japan is a tremendous consumer of glass, and we have no glass factories at all. Most of our importations are from Antwerp. I visited the glass factories near Pittsburg, examined prices, etc., and I think this country ought to be able to supply Japan with glass as well as Belgium. There is certainly a good opportunity for American firms to get a large portion of this trade."

WILL NOT BE DETAINED.

Barkentine Herbert Fuller To Sail for the Cape of Good Hope.

Boston, March 20.—The barkentine Herbert Fuller, on board of which was enacted the horrible tragedy in June last, resulting in the murder of Capt. Nash, his wife and the second mate, while the vessel was on the high seas, and for which crime Thomas Bram, who was mate of the vessel, stands senteneed to death, will not be detained by the government, as was expected, pending action upon the exceptions filed by Bram's counsel before the supreme court. The exceptions may not be considered until next fall, in which event Bram will be reprieved until the hearing. The Fuller, which has been in New York since February and has been chartered to load a cargo for Port Elizabeth, Cape of Good Hope, will sail from New York in about two weeks. An entirely new crew will be shipped. Capt. McLaughlin, in command of the vessel when she put into Halifax, will be superseded by Capt. Ernest Nash, a brother of the murdered captain.

ST. NAZAIRE SURVIVORS.

The Four Known To Be Saved Are on the Road to Recovery.

New York, March 20.—Capt. Berri, Ship's Surgeon Maire, Fourth Engineer Sauts and Juan de Dios Tejada, the only known survivors of the Ville de St. Nazaire, one of the French line steamships in the West India service, which foundered off Hatteras on March 8, are on the road to recovery. Capt. Berri is constantly attended by a nurse and Engineer Sauts is on board a steamship at the French line pier. Juan de Dios Tejada is at the home of a friend. All four are still too weak to see friends or visitors, but they have partially told the story of the shipwreck to those who have access to them. M. Maire sailed this morning on the La Normandie for France, although he was still too weak to leave the bed in his stateroom.

The Alleged Dishonest Vice-Consul at Paris Not To Be Arrested.

Washington, March 20.—Vice-Consul-General Shropshire, accused by Consul-General Morse of having robbed the consul-general of Paris, swindled exporters, stolen from American tourists and even with having appropriated money found among the effects of invalids who have died in France, is known to be in London, but he will not be arrested. The amount of his swindles is said to be more than $30,000.

Martin Benham's Mental Condition.

Batavia, N. Y., March 20.—Judge North has appointed several physicians to inquire into the mental condition of Martin C. Benham, father of Howard Benham, the alleged wife murderer, who has made three attempts to take his own life. Mr. Benham has been gradually breaking down mentally since his son's arrest.

STEADILY IMPROVING

Business Conditions More Favorable This Week Than Last.

MORE MILLS RESUME OPERATIONS

Increased Employment of Hands Already Felt in Larger Purchases for Consumption—Demand for Commercial Loans Large.

New York, March 20.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will to-day say: Though steadily increasing, business is still much below its volume in former years of prosperity, and many express disappointment. Yet there is some gain every week, with more hands at work, and more mills in operation, and the sure result, larger purchases for consumption, cannot be long delayed. In some branches it is felt already. There is larger distribution of finished products, and the demand for commercial loans has sharply increased, especially in dry goods and the iron and steel branches. At this city there has also been an abnormal demand, owing to the desire of dealers to get imported goods out of the warehouses. Business payments have been more satisfactory than usual, and the state of foreign trade is without any unfavorable feature, notwithstanding the uncertain aspect of European affairs. Large foreign sales of stock have not affected the market. The progress of the iron and steel industry is hindered by uncertainty regarding the cost of lake ore for the coming year, though the repeated adjournment of producers' meetings is interpreted as evidence that an agreement will ultimately be reached. It is reported that Norrie ore will be taken as the basis, but until this question has been settled many important transactions are deferred. While there is no great activity in finished products, the demand steadily increases. Contracts for several great buildings at Chicago are pending, and for a good many bridges and other railroad works, and the demand for wire nails and for wire does not abate, nor the demand for black sheets required in the tin-plate manufacture. Tin tends lower with heavy receipts and with weaker London quotations, lead is inactive, and copper is weaker, although the trifling decrease in production in this country is practically balanced by the small increase in production elsewhere.

Boots, Shoes, Wool, Cotton, Cereals.

Shipments of boots and shoes are almost as large as in any previous year. Many concerns are taking very large orders. No change whatever appears in quotations of leather this week, and the Chicago market for hides fluctuates without definite tendency, although the slight changes reported are downward. While manufacturers of cotton goods are looking forward with much confidence, the present demand is not equal to expectations, nor has the curtailment in production of print cloths accomplished the desired change in condition. The buying of wool, mainly of a speculative character in expectation of new duties, continues remarkably large. No great increase has yet appeared in the demand for goods, although a few more mills have found enough orders to start, perhaps in part anticipating a future demand. The expectation of new duties does not yet influence the goods market as might be expected. The demand for wheat has not given help to speculation. Accounts regarding the coming crop have been less favorable this week, and the price has advanced. The exports of corn continue heavy and quotations have advanced. The cotton market has also been almost lifeless, and while the price has gained a small fraction, the narrowness of demand here and abroad has its natural influence. Reports about the coming crops are interesting, as usual, to speculators.

Railroad Affairs and Stocks.

Noteworthy sales of stocks by foreign holders have not materially depressed prices, even of the stocks so largely sold, and the average of securities has been firmly held, the sixty most active railroad stocks ranging higher than a week ago. The steady buying of some important stocks of the Vanderbilt list, and the general belief that Mr. Morgan's foreign trip will not be wholly fruitless, affect the prices of securities without immediate regard to earnings. The eastbound tonnage from Chicago for two weeks is of fair magnitude in comparison with other years. The volume of railroad traffic is of reasonable proportions, but owing to difficulties about rates, the roads are hardly getting their fair return for the business done. But the recent settlement promises fairer results. The volume of business indicated by clearing house exchanges is smaller than last year, as might be expected, since it relates in part to the transactions of some months ago, and at such a time as this bears no accurate relation to the new business placed in orders by manufacturers and traders. Failures for the week have been 216 in the United States, against 261 last year.

Another American Released.

Washington, March 20.—The secretary of state has been notified by Consul General Lee at Havana of the release of Theodore D. Vives, an American citizen, who had been held in a Cuban prison since last November. The release of Vives leaves thirteen Americans still in Cuban prisons.

Against Kinetoscope Pictures.

Boston, March 20.—In the house Mr. Sanderson of Lynn has presented a petition signed by thirty members for an act to prohibit the exhibition within the state of kinetoscope pictures of the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight.

CAPTURED A FIREBUG.

up to the house. He looked up and down the road and then slyly stole around the corner of the house to the back piazza. The officers watched his every movement and saw him take a bottle out of his packet and sprinkle some fluid—afterwards found to be kerosene—along the edge of the stoop. Then he struck a match, but the wind blew it out.

Pulling another one from his pocket he had just struck it when a voice from within the house yelled, "There he is." The voice was that of Benjamin Lee, a colored man, who, with Dennis Murray and Archibald Davie, were watching the house and were let into the plans of the officers

At the sound of the voice Wallace snuffed the light of the match and turned on his heel. But he was too late to escape. The stalwart figures of three men emerged from behind the trees and before Wallace could hardly realize that he had been trapped he was pounced upon and pinioned by the men.

"We've got you now," exclaimed the detective.

"I know it," answered Wallace, in a sullen tone, adding an oath; "I'll get twenty years for this."

Wallace was searched, and the articles enumerated in the opening paragraph were found on his person.

Suddenly he recognized Constable Seeland and made a desperate attempt to get at him, but he was held down by the other officers. He had been arrested by Seeland before.

By this time the sheriff had driven back and Wallace was loaded into the wagon and taken to Elizabeth, where he was arraigned before Justice Heath and held without bail to await the action of the May grand jury. He was committed to the county jail.

The detective has also secured evidence implicating several other men in the incendiary fires, some of which have been within the city limits Startling disclosures are expected in a few days.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Connection has been made between the repair shop and salesrooms of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company for the transmission of compressed air for inflating the tires of the bicycles in the salesrooms. Patrons of that company will now be able to pump up their tires free of charge and without any exertion as last year.

The Essex Bicycle Club of Newark will have its annual banquet on March 24. Chairman Keer of the entertainment committee states that Chief-Consul Kircker, ex-Consel Gentles and some of the city officials will be present and speak, possibly President I. B. Potter also.

John Moyanhan, one of the fastest riders of Bound Brook, has purchased a Crescent racer from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. He expects to do some fast riding this season and make an effort to secure the championship of that town. The Eldridge Bicycle Company is expecting a shipment of samples of the Columbia tandems in a short time.

BASKET BALL.

There have been many exciting basket ball games played in the gymnasium of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., and by the team from that association, but the game that has been arranged for Tuesday evening to be played in this city will be equal to them all. The visiting team is from the Summit Y. M. C. A. and the story of the contests between the two teams is well-known. There was a great deal of feeling shown at the last meeting of the two teams in Summit, and it was thought that all other contests would be called off. Neither side was satisfied with the outcome of that game, and arrangements have now been satisfactorily completed for another game to be played in this city on Tuesday evening

IN FRENCH AND ENGLISH

BOTH LANGUAGES USED AT THE RECITAL GIVEN BY MISS HALL.

The Second of the Series of Entertainments Arranged by Mrs. Hall—Patronesses Who Were in Attendance.

The second of the series of entertainments arranged by Mrs. Hall took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rowland Cox. The beautiful dining hall looked especially attractive, with its many vases of bridemaids' roses and bright fire burning in the ample fire-place.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall was the speaker of the afternoon, and she gave the audience a varied and interesting programme which all seemed to enjoy. A sketch of the life of Moliere was given in English. Moliere, like Shakespeare, was an actor as well as a playwright and inimitable comedies were written, in many cases, for the amusement of Louis Quatorze and his brilliant court.

Miss Hall gave a resume in English of each scene, before reciting it in French. From the smiles and laughter which Moliere's inimitable comedies evoked, it was evident that the ladies present were familiar with spoken, as well as with written, French.

Among the scenes given was the famous one between the prude and the coquette, "Arsinoe and Celimene pur the Misanthrope."

This was rendered with much spirit and grace and gave evidence of careful study. The well-known scene, from "LaBourgeor's Gentilhomme," where Monsieur Jourdain makes the discovery that he has been talking prose all his life, was amusing as always. The interview between the gruff old guardian, and his timid little ward, the typical French ingenue from l'ecole des femmes, especially pleased the audience, the contract between the two characters being clearly cut.

Miss Hall received many congratulations on her mimic powers, and the excellence of the training she received in Paris.

Among those present were Miss Kenyon, Mrs. Hugh Hastings, Mrs. J. L. Ludlum, Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, Mrs. Henry Holloway, Mrs. John Doull Miller, Mrs. John F. Harmon, Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Miss Rushmore, Mrs. Dorsey Hyde, Mrs. Walter Stewart, Miss Stewart, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Edgar Mumford, Mrs. Stephen H. Krom, Mrs. Maria H. Eaton, Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Pendleton Rogers, Mrs. Hayes, Miss Sarah Hayes, Miss Jessamy Harte, Miss Reinhart, Miss Edith Hyde, Miss Gertrude Baker, Misses Wood, the Misses Coles, Miss Marion Henderson, etc.

On Friday afternoon next, Miss Hall will give recitations from Moliere's "Femmes Savante," or "Learned Women;" "Le Depit Amoureux," and will describe (in English) the French classic school of acting, Moliere in Paris at the present day., etc.

DID NOT EXPECT HIS FRIENDS.

A Pleasant Surprise Tendered to Harry W. Marshall.

When Harry W. Marshall stepped into the parlor of his residence on East Fifth street, last evening, after returning from down town, he found many of his friends gathered there. It was a surprise party arranged by Mrs. Marshall and proved to be a surprise After the first excitement had subsided progressive whist was started, and most of the evening was spent in playing that game. The first prizes were awarded to Mrs. Thomas H. Keller and Charles B. Clifton. The winners of the second prizes were Mrs. Edward Cliffton and Elias H. Bird. There were nine tables. Music and dancing followed. Dainty refreshments were served toward the close of the very enjoyable evening. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clifton, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Startup, Mr. and Mrs. J. H Tier, Sr., Mr and Mrs. W. N. Tier, Mr. and Mrs. E J. VanWinkle, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, Miss Minnie Arnold, Miss Olive Newell, Miss Dora Ulrich, Miss Etta Krymer, Mrs. J. M. Tier, Mrs. Ulrich, Theo. Mantz, C. C. Pearson, Jr., H. Clifford VanEmburgh.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Wm. Mortimer, of Putnam avenue, is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mlle. Luxemberg, of the Seminary, has gone to New York to spend a few days.

B N. Newell and family will move this month from their present residence on East Fifth street to East Second street.

Miss Ethel Holmes, of East Fifth street, has recovered from an attack of the grip that has confined her to her home for a week.

Miss Anna Boice, of Park avenue, will entertain the Thursday Evening Music Club at her home, next Tuesday evening, March 23d.

The Misses DuBois entertained a number of their friends at their home on Park avenue last evening. The time passed very enjoyably with music and games.

Alfred Zimmerman, manager of the Newark Evening News, was in town this morning investigating the conduct of The New's agents in confiscating all other papers found on the front stoops and leaving The News in their place. Mr. Zimmerman does not countenance any such acts on the the part of his subordinates and if the guilty ones can be traced out they will doubtless be told a thing or two that may be of some ben fit in their future life.

Soup in Bricks.

Some of the troops garrisoned in Paris are fed on an article of food called Graisse de Normandie (Normandie dripping).

Mutton tallow, from which the parts containing blood have been separated, is melted over a hot fire and cooked with the following vegetables: To every 100 pounds of tallow five pounds of carrots are added, seven pounds of leak, seven pounds of onions, one pound of celery, five hundred grains of parsley, five hundred grains of garlic, fifty grains of thyme and laurel leaves; also salt, pepper and nutmeg. After this olla podrida has boiled for several hours the whole soup is put through a sieve and the vegetable stuffs are thrown away.

The remaining mass is formed into bricks, which can be easily made into soup by dissolving them in water over the fire.—New York Journal.

The X-Rays in Court.

The X rays have made their appearance in court in France. A Marseilles merchant was run over in the street and had his clavicle broken. He sued for large damages, which the owner of the wagon sought to reduce by alleging that the bone had knit together again and the results of the accident were therefore not serious. The plaintiff, however, produced in court a radiograph of his thorax, which showed that the fractured bone had not been reunited, notwithstanding outward symptoms to the contrary, and that an incurable injury was the result. The court was convinced by this novel testimony, and awarded damages as claimed.—New York Tribune.

Hard Work Getting a Jury.

"In some sections of Arkansas," said one of the Representatives from that State, "people have a very strong objection to serving on juries. When I was at home last fall I heard a little story in this regard. A certain Judge in one of the rural districts, having occasion to try an important case, ordered the sheriff to impanel a jury. When two days had passed and no return had been made he sent for the sheriff, and demanded to know why his orders had not been obeyed.

"Well, Jedge," said the sheriff, "I've got jest ten of 'em locked up in the jail yere, and I turned out the dogs this mornin' arter the other two."—Washington Post.

The World's Gold Supply.

There is no danger of an exhaustion of the gold fields of the earth. The world's yearly production of gold is now about $210,000,000, double the aggregate produced seven years ago and greater than that produced in any other year in the world's history. Prior to the present year's vast output of gold, the greatest product was in the year 1853, when the river gravels of California and Australia were yielding their richest stores of the yellow metal.—New York World.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"George describes the girl he is engaged to as a perfect vision."

"Yes. And his sister says she is a sight."

"Are you a daughter of the revolution?" he asked.

"I think I am," she answered feelingly; "I ride a wheel."—Detroit Free Press

Helen—Are you sure God will forgive me for slapping sister if I ask him, mamma? Mamma—Certainly, dear. Helen—Then I wish I had slapped her harder.

Bobbie—Oh, Mr. Highflier, may I go coasting with you? Mr. Highflier—Why do you want to go coasting with me, Bobbie? Bobbie—'Cos I heard my papa say you had gone down hill faster than anybody he had ever known.

Johnny—Mr. Lighthead, my sister treats you better than she does me.

Mr. Lighthead—Why do you think so, Johnny?

Johnny—I heard her tell ma she gives you lots of taffy, but she never gives me any.

"Won't you take this seat?" said the gentleman in the car, rising and lifting his hat.

"No, thank you," said the girl with the skates over her arm; "I've been skating, and I'm tired sitting down."—Yonkers Statesman.

Mr. Wheeler—I suppose the great and mysterious Robert has many admirers in Boston, Miss Emerson?

Miss Emerson—Why, yes. Mr. Wheeler—even the beans go through a course of Browning before they come to the table.—New Rochelle Life.

"Have you any bicycle bloomers?" asked the New York girl entering a Boston store.

"No, miss," replied the salesman, adjusting his glasses; "I was not aware that bicycles wore bloomers. I can show you some nice patterns for ladies who ride bicycles."—Yonkers Statesman

"Ah!" said Henry Peck; "your sermon on heaven pleased me mightily."

"I'm so glad, brother," responded the minister.

"Yes, it was fine, especially that passage where you described it as a place in which there is no marrying or giving in marriage."—Philadelphia North American.

Johnny—Ma, do you believe in ghosts?

Ma—No.

Johnny—Pa does.

Ma—What makes you think so?

Johnny—A man ast pa to meet him down town to-night, and pa said he would if he could get away from the old spook.—Cleveland Leader.

"I wish there was some new way of killing time," said young Mr. Point Breeze to Miss Homewood last night. "I can suggest one way of killing time which was not possible for a long while," replied the maiden. "Well?" "Sleigh it!" A livery stable was rung up by telephone.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

IT IS A FACT, NOT THEORY.

SO SAID REV. J. W. RICHARDSON IN HIS SERMON ON JONAH.

The Attack on the Credibility of Jonah Proves No New Facts and Weaves No New Arguments—Jonah was Not a Myth.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, preached last night on the interesting story of Jonah and the whale. The text was Jonah 1:17—"Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights."

The speaker first showed that the attack on the credibility of Jonah began with Julian and Porpophyry, two pagans, about 260 and 362 A. D. The so-called higher criticism, he averred, "Parades in borrowed robes and utters stolen thunder; but it proves no new facts; and weaves no new arguments." Then by liberal quotations from the Scriptures and the ancient Hebrew historian, Josephus, the speaker proved that Jonah "was a man, not a myth." "The literary products of Jonah's age were historic, not fictitious. Oriental fiction, undeniably, was a subsequent development. Homer and Hesiod came after Jonah, and seizing upon the main features of his narrative, wove the fables of Andromeda and Hercules. If Jonah, who antedates both these poets, had not spent three days in the belly of a great fish, the world would never have heard of Andromeda and Hercules." The speaker then said, "Josephus, who wrote 1,900 years ago, and who was better qualified to tell us what the Hebrews of his times believed, declares 'that they all believed Jonah's book to be absolute history.' His evidence is vastly more competent than the inflated sermons of modern critics. The veracity of Jonah was not questioned in the Christian church until about the middle of the eighteenth century; the modern critics have on pagan heads." Passing to the fact of the narrative, the speaker quoted from Pliny, who describes a fish taken off Joppa 50 A. D. which was forty feet in length, and and whose ribs were higher than those of an Indian elephant. There were fishes large enough to have swallowed Jonah without winking. Jonah's miraculous preservation was no more miraculous than Christ's resurrection; both are true or both are false; accept one and you must accept the other.

"Jesus stands a witness for the veracity of Jonah, Jesus positively asserts that the inhabitants of Ninevah repented at Jonah's preaching. But it is said that that verse in Matthew, which compares the resurrection of Christ with the deliverance of Jonah, is considered by many scholars as a gloss of some early copyist. Nonsense. Luke in 11:30 quotes Christ's words almost as Matthew quotes them; did some good-natured copyist give Luke a "gloss" to? Ninety nine and one-half per cent. of the Greek scholars and students affirm that there is not a saying of Christ that is better authenticated, than the reference to Jonah found in Matthew 12:38. Among all the alleged interpolations, or additions, these words are never classed by scholars of eminent standing. We assign Jonah to the allegorical, then we must believe that Christ's reference to the Queen of Sheba's visit to Solomon, is an allegory. Christ used both in the same connection and breath, to teach that a greater than Jonah or Solomon stood before them. It is impossible to find a single instance, in which Christ quoted from the Old Testament to confirm or illustrate His teaching, that He did not use circumstances historically true When He quoted from the Old Testament He did so because the passages contained accounts of universally admitted facts; and He used them as facts, to give backing and strength to His reasons and teaching. Christ himself gives the story of Jonah the authority and stamp of genuineness."

Notes of Trinity Church.

The Christian Endeavor Society will meet in the lecture room this evening at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "How Our Bodies Influence Our Souls."

"The Book of Jonah" will be discussed at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

On Friday evening Rev. Mr. Scudder will give a stereopticon exhibition on the Hindoos and Hindoostan.

A Big Church Collection.

At the congregational church, Bound Brook, yesterday, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Jones, asked the members for $1,200 to make the necessary repairs about the church. When the collection was counted it was learned that $1,225 had been contributed.

Received Service Stripes.

Patrolman Saunders, of the Plainfield police force, has received his first service stripes for the five years of service on the force. There is not a prouder man on the force.

ATE STOLEN CHIKENS.

THEN THE FOUR TRAMPS PARTED AND MET TOGETHER AT THE ROOKERY.

But it Was a Forced Meeting on Their Part—Detective Dougherty Hunting For Two Men, Found Them in a Cell.

Patrolman Myers was on duty Saturday evening when he noticed two men loitering around East Ninth street just before midnight. Their conduct seemed suspicious and he questioned them. One explained that he was waiting to see his wife. The hour was not exactly that at which a man would call on his wife and the officer decided to let the men spend the rest of the night in the lock up. On being searched at the jail, a revolver was found on one of them. They gave their names as James Reedy and George Callahan. It was Reedy that had said that he was waiting for his wife. The revolver was found on Callahan.

Sunday morning, Detective Dougherty, of the Jersey Central force, appeared at the lockup with two prisoners and notified the police that he wanted two more. The two men he had arrested were George Wood and Willard Schuman. The men he was in search of were James Reedy and George Callahan, who were then locked up in the station house.

There is a shanty belonging to the Lehigh Valley railroad located near the "tanks" at Greenbrook. It is used for the storage of various articles belonging to the railroad company. Saturday evening four men appeared and forced an entrance into the shanty. They brought with them a supply of chickens confiscated from the chicken coups of the farmers living in the vicinity. A fire was started in the shanty and the fowls roasted and devoured by the four uninvited guests.

There were several men in the neighborhood of the tanks who claim to have recognized the four men. Somebody notified Detective Dougherty and he appeared on the scene as the evening grew late and went to the shanty, accompanied by a special officer in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. The railroad detectives advanced carefully and captured two of the visitors. The other two were not to be seen. The prisoners were taken to Plainfield for safekeeping, only to find that the other two men who were wanted on the charge of breaking and entering the shanty, were locked up in the city jail.

Yesterday morning, Captain Grant turned all four of the offenders over to the Middlesex county officials, and they were arraigned before Justice Storms, of New Market. Justice Storms held them all for the Grand Jury on the charge of breaking and entering, which is a state prison offence, and they were taken to New Brunswick to await the action of the above jury.

It is alleged that Reedy has a wife in this city living in the vicinity of East Ninth street, but that they have never lived together. Whether he had evil designs toward his wife, it is impossible to say, but they are understood not to be on very good terms.

NEAL DOW'S BIRTHDAY.

W. C. T. U. Observe it in an Appropriate Manner.

Yesterday being the anniversary of the birthday of Neal Dow, the great champion of temperance, the members of the W. C. T. U., of this city, held exercises appropriate to the occasion. Miss C. R. Yates was in charge of the meeting which was largely attended.

As an additional feature the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion were present and took part in the exercises. Two solos were rendered by E. E. Runyon, and clippings from the Union Signal regarding the life of Neal Dow were read by the different members of the union. The address of the afternoon was delivered by Miss Babcock, of New York, who is an exceptionally bright speaker. Miss Babcock is a teacher in the Institute for the Blind in New York city and also an enthusiastic worker in the union.

The last part of the programme was devoted to A. M. Powel who gave a bit of his experience with Neal Dow, for they were great friends.

After the meeting many remained and signed the pledge and several well-wishers were secured who agreed to contribute a certain amount of money toward the work of the union.

Perfect Control.

Mr. Pfeiffer, of the Mandolin Club of the New York University, has perfect control of his mandolin, and his selections are hugely enjoyed. The concert to be given by the New York University musical clubs at the Y. M. C. A. hall Thursday evening, promises to be one of the best musical concerts of the season.

—One medical case was admitted to the hospital yesterday.

AIDED THEIR FINANCES.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION CONCERT A SUCCESS.

The Programme Made up of the Best Local Talent, With a Sprinkle of Out-of-Town Performers, Was Very Good.

The promise of hearing an excellent entertainment and the chance to lend a helping hand to a bankrupt treasury of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association filled the Y. M. C. A. hall to overflowing Saturday evening when the concert for the benefit of the association was held. The audience was not disappointed as far as the programme was concerned. It was very enjoyable and the audience showed appreciation of it by the hearty and enthusiastic applause. The committee had done its work well and everything passed off very successfully.

Miss Lavinia L. French played exceptionally well and the lovers of good music found much to commend in her selections. P. Ludwig Conde's own composition, "Mazurka de Concert," was received with great appreciation while all his selections were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Elizabeth Hamlin Fassett's first appearance proved a very successful one and a very favorable impression was made on all those who heard her. Charles A. Lewis, the well-known bass soloist, was at his best. His efforts in assisting the committee in arranging the concert materially aided in its success. The programme opened with a well rendered selection by a male quartette composed of Elmer E. Runyon, Robert M. Clark, Charles A. Lewis, and Arthur A. Freeman The programme as printed in The Press was followed out.

A special word of commendation should be said of Jere M. Cobb, the reader. His selections formed a leading part of the programme and they were all well received. This was not his first appearance in Plainfield but he made an even more pleasing impression than before. "How Rube Played" completely convulsed his audience and Wallace's "Chariot Race" from "Ben Hur," was as thrilling as its author could have wished.

The hall was decorated for the occasion in red and blue, the colors of the High School. The committee, through whose energetic efforts the concert was arranged, consisted of Charles Noble, chairman, Sydney R. Titsworth, treasurer, Henry W. Brower, Lindley M. Hillman, William A. DeLong, Jr., and Arthur W. Lederer. Mr. Titsworth presided over the box-office and the others collected the tickets and acted as ushers.

While all the returns from the sale of the tickets have been received, the committee estimate that the treasury has been enriched to the amount of about $50.

TRIALS OF A LOVE-LORN MAN.

Trying to Recover the Money Given to Buy A Wedding Ring.

Francis Bartel, of Washingtonville, whose trials and tribulations in a love affair were told of in The Press last Friday, says that his suit against Miss Mary Lubkeman, of Newark, is not a breach of promise action, but one to recover $150 which he gave her to buy a wedding ring, and which she retained after breaking the engagement. He says that when they became engaged he gave her a gold ring, but it did not suit her. Then he gave her the $150 to buy a diamond ring. He claims that she wanted to settle the case for $70, but that he would not do so. The case has been adjourned to April 2d.

Mrs. Hall in the East.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall has gone to Boston for a series of lectures. On Tuesday she will read "Personal Reminiscences of Distinguished People" before the Woman's Club, of Salem; on Wednesday, "The Influence of the Press on Manners and Morals," before the Dorchester Woman's Club. On Tuesday, March 30th, she will read "The Art of Conversation," at Newton, under the auspices of a ladies club of that city. On April 2d, "The Political Position of Women in England," before the Cantabrigia Club, of Cambridge. On April 3d, "The Art of Conversation," before the Norumbega Club, of Charlestown.

Park's Will Play Strong.

The whist four of the Park Club will make a strong effort to recapture the Park Club challenge trophy which was taken from them by the players of the Orange Club several weeks ago. The challenge of the Park Club is the next on the list and their four will go to Orange tomorrow evening to play for the cup and, if possible, bring it home before the state whist congress which begins at Jersey City Thursday evening.

ENDED HIS OWN LIFE.

LOST HIS PO ITION BECAUSE OF DRINK AND THEN BECAME DESPONDENT.

William Brennan Drank a Bottle of Liquid That Put Him in the Sleep of Death—Boarded at William Claassen's.

Out of work and with no prospects of getting a job is what led William Brennan, aged 45 years, living on Liberty street, to take his own life on Saturday evening last.

Last January Mr. Brennan come to this city from Brooklyn and secured a position at the Potter Press Works with the night gang. He got along all right until a short time ago when he began to drink. This habit interfered with his work and it was not long before he took a week off. During that time he was on a spree and as a man was needed in his place, one was secured and Brennan was laid off. This seemed to affect his mind when he came to his senses and learned what had taken place, and since then he has been despondent. He boarded with William Claassen, the Liberty street barber, and the latter could see that Brennan was not acting like himself, although he was of a jolly disposition.

Saturday evening about 10 o'clock he went to his boarding place and asked Mrs. Claassen to give him a small bottle. She did so, and Brennan filled it half full of water. She then noticed that he emptied a powder into the bottle. At the time she was a little suspicious, but she soon forgot about the incident. Brennan then went out of the house and that was the last time that she saw him. He stayed around Liberty and West Third streets for awhile and during that time he met several persons whom he knew. He told one friend that he was going to commit suicide. The friend laughed at him and thought it was a joke.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock Brennan walked into the electric light station on Madison avenue, and asked the man in charge if he would allow him to sleep there for the night. The latter consented and Brennan found a suitable place and went to sleep.

Nothing strange was thought of the man until yesterday morning about 9 o'clock when the engineer at the station attempted to awaken the sleeping man who made no signs of getting up. He made several attempts, but all were unsuccessful. Patrolman Robinson happened along and he tried to arouse Brennan, but he failed. Sergeant Kiely was then telephoned for, and when he arrived he also tried to awaken the man. He was also unable to accomplish the task. Finally Dr. Hedges was sent for, and after repeated trials, he found that it would be impossible to arouse Brennan from his slumbers, and he was ordered sent to the hospital. When he arrived there proper treatment was given in an attempt to awaken the man from his lethargy. All efforts were fruitless, however, and about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon life left the body, and the man's spirit passed into the unknown future. At first there seemed to be a sort of mystery surrounding Brennan's death, but as the case was investigated it appeared that he came to his death by his own hand.

George Brennan, a brother of the deceased, lives at No. 320 Twenty-second street, Brooklyn, and William Claassen telephoned to him yesterday and told him of the death of his brother.

It now appears that the two brothers have been on the outs for sometime and this also was a cause of worry for the one who took his own life. Mr. Claassen, in speaking to a Daily Press reported yesterday, said that he could not account for the deed except that the man had given up all hope of getting work and that he had become so thoroughly despondent.

The last person to whom Brennan talked was Daniel Galbraith, bartender at Day's saloon. It was here that the former secured his last drink. When he was found at the electric light station he had two bottles, both of which were empty. One was a whiskey bottle and the other was the one which was supposed to have contained the poison.

He was very well dressed and had a fine physique. Late last night his body was removed to Terrill & Cole's undertakers establishment where it was prepared for burial.

In response to a telephone message Miss Brennan, sister of the deceased, came to this city last evening and arranged to have the body taken care of.

As a result of the investigation by the doctors in the case of Brennan, it was decided that he came to his death through morphine poison. Before his body was removed the coroner was sent for and he gave the necessary permission for burial. He did not think that an autopsy was necessary.

READY FOR BAT AND BALL

PLAINFIELD ATHLETIC CLUB ARRANGE FOR A SEASON'S SPORT.

Contests Scheduled With the Crack Clubs of the Metropolitan District—How the Team Will be Assigned.

Such weather as this makes the baseball crank feel as though it was about time to enjoy the National game once more. The Plainfield Athletic Club team is now well organized and if nothing happens to prevent they will open the season Saturday afternoon, May 1st, with the Hart Baseball club of Whitestone, L. I., at the latter place. The management have succeeded in arranging games with the best teams in this locality and they will have good games no doubt. Thus far they have scheduled games with teams at the following places: Cranford, Somerville, Ironside, Newark; Montclair, Orange A. C., Staten Island Cricket Club, Dover, Arlington A. C., Harrison. All of the above games will be played out of town. Other games will be arranged to be played in this city on grounds to be selected later. The Y. M. C. A. team is looking for suitable grounds and as soon as they are found they will arrange it so that both their team and the Plainfield A. C. will use the grounds half the time. In this way there will always be a game on a Saturday afternoon in this city.

Below will be found a list of the members of the team of the P. A. C.: Erickson, catcher; Winn, Welsh, pitcher; Symons, first base; Freeman, second base; Moran, short stop; G. E. Firstbrook, third base; Cose, right field; Fleming, left field; Muir, centre field; Diedrick, extra. The officers of the club are President, J. D. Brown; vice president, J. H. Cose; secretary, David Gray; treasurer, Alex Muir; manager, G. E. Firstbrook.

GARWOOD ROAD HOUSE BURNED.

Supposed to Have Caught in the Kitchen Early This Morning.

Fire early this morning drove the boarders from Michael Huber's roadhouse, Garwood, and called out the Westfield fire department. Before the apparatus arrived, however, the building was one mass of flames. The flames were kept from spreading to the adjoining buildings, and by seven o'clock the fire was under control. The fire is thought to have started in the kitchen. The damaged is estimated at $5,000.

A Trick of the Mud.

The mud, with which the streets of Plainfield abound, played a new trick yesterday afternoon and the Plainfield Street Railway was the victim. The mud so filled the tracks of the company on Woodland avenue, near South avenue, that car number 12 was forced out of the rails and into the mud The traffic on that part of the line was blocked until the necessary apparatus was brought from the car house and the car jacked up on to the rails and put in position again. Another car was off the track, Saturday afternoon, from the same cause and it was sometime before it could be placed on the rails again.

Father Dickason Present.

The local corps of the Salvation Army was reinforced yesterday by the presence of Father Dickason and his A. D. C. from Brooklyn, Sergeant Major, of Bound Brook, and Trade Secretary Reynolds, of New Brunswick. Father Dickason is an old resident of Plainfield and was very pleased to meet many of his friends yesterday. Sergeant Major, of Bound Brook, was converted through him about eight years ago. Mrs. Ensign gave a very interesting talk upon her subject, "A Sad Farewell."

Union Evangelical Services.

The union evangelical services will start in this city on Monday evening, April 5th, in the Trinity Reformed church. That has been decided by the evangelistic committee of the Local Christian Endeavor Union under whose charge the meetings will be given. A meeting of the committee will be held on Tuesday evening in the Seventh Day Baptist church after Rev. Mr. Main's lecture when further arrangements for the meetings will be completed.

Salvationists' Special Campaign.

There will be a three days' special campaign and sale of work at the Salvation Army hall on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next. The first of the series of meetings will be led on Tuesday by Adjt. Ferris, the ex-deputy sheriff of the city of New York, ex-Tammany lawyer and present counselor-at-law for the Salvation Army. He is a warm hearted, enthusiastic speaker. Other special speakers, singers and musicians each night.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will give a sociable in Vincent chapel on Thursday evening.

ATTEMPT AT BURGLARY

FOUR MEN TRIED TO ENTER A HOUSE WITH A HISTORY.

The Harberger Residence on West Front Street the Scene of the Operations—Heard by Coachman and Frightened Off.

A supposed attempt to burglarize another Plainfield residence was frustrated last evening by the coachman who heard burglars and finally drove them away.

It was nearly 8 o'clock last evening and the coachman, named Sullivan, is employed about the residence of Mrs. J. S. Harberger, of West Front street. The house is that which is commonly known as Washington's Headquarters, as it said that the famous General and President of that name occupied a room in the house when he visited this section during the Revolutionary War. Sullivan was just about to start for church when he heard a noise in the rear of the house which sounded as if someone was rattling the shutters. The family was all out at the time. Remembering the stories of burglars that have been visiting the different Plainfield residences, he decided to investigate. As he walked about the house, four men ran from the shadow in the premises and down across the brook or Giraud avenue. Two chose a path right through the water of the brook and the other two cut across the street and into an adjoining field. There was no sign where the strangers had forced their way through any of the window or blind fastenings.

The police were notified, but there no clues as to the identity of the evening visitors.

Marsh Building Improvements.

The alterations in the Marsh building at the corner of Park avenue and East Second street have been completed and the building is now receiving three complete coats of paint, which will make it one of the handsomest business blocks in the city. The upper floors of the building have been divided into twenty-four suites of rooms for offices. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, the owner of the building, will occupy a handsome suite of offices on the second floor.

Fractured Her Ankle.

Mrs. Nathan Scribner, of No. 54 Manning avenue, met with a very painful accident yesterday morning. She walked out of the house on the front porch, which was slippery from moisture, and suddenly her feet slipped and she fell off the porch, with the result of fracturing her ankle. Dr. Probasco sent Mrs. Scribner to the hospital, where she will be confined for several weeks. The fracture is a bad one and it will take a long time for it to mend.

Arranging for Entertainments.

A meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe, Red Men, was held on Friday evening. The entertainment committee reported that a dance had been arranged for March 31st, and tickets for the same were distributed. The good and welfare committee was appointed to consist of D. C. Allen, C. R. Holdstein and F. L. MacCarty. The committee was instructed to arrange for a series of entertainments to be held during the next few months.

Funeral of Miss Randolph.

The funeral of the late Miss Luthera Randolph was held, Saturday afternoon, from her late home at 321 West Second street. Rev. D. J. Yerks officiated at the services. The pall-bearers were Howard Randolph, L. L. Manning, William Manning, Samuel Manning and Daniel Manning, all relatives of the deceased. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Forty Hours' Devotion.

The ceremonies attending this devotion were commenced in St. Mary's church yesterday morning and will conclude tomorrow. It is a time set apart by the Bishop and is a season for especial prayer. Last evening Rev. Father Hill preached a very able sermon on the Divine Presence. Services will be held tonight and tomorrow morning.

Along Legal Lines.

A batch of summons were issued by Justice Newcorn this morning. Summons were issued in the contract cases of the Consolidated Fastener Co. versus Chapot et als, returnable on the 26th, and Holmes versus Hall, returnable on the 25th. The contract case of Ivins versus Brown was adjourned this morning for two weeks.

Christian Citizenship.

Under the auspices of the good citizenship and temperence committee of the Endeavor Society, in the Seventh-day Baptist church, on Tuesday evening, March 23, at 8 o'clock, Pastor Main will give a free lecture upon the subject of Good Citizenship. A general and cordial invitation to attend is given to all.

W. R. Ross and family moved today from Carleton avenue.

PANIC ON A BRIDGE.

Turkish Warship Collides with the Structure at Constantinople.

Constantinople, March 22.—While the battleship Osmaniyeh was passing out of the Golden Horn in company with a number of other Turkish war vessels she collided with the old bridge leading from the Un Kapani quarter of Constantinople to Galata. There was a large crowd assembled on the bridge to witness the departure of the warships, and when the Osmaniyeh struck the structure thre was a panic, the crowd thinking that the bridge would be knocked down. In the rush for the solid ground many persons were injured. What damage was sustained by the warship, if any, is not known.

Against the Starving Christians.

Canea, March 22.—According to the proclamation issued by the foreign admirals, the blockade of Crete began at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. It is apparent that the blockade is directed solely against the Christians in the interior and that the Moslems will suffer little inconvenience from the action of the six great Christian nations of Europe. It appears that the object of the blockading squadron is to prevent the landing of supplies of food, clothing, etc., destined for the starving Christians in the interior, while the Mussulmans who have flocked to the coast towns are allowed to land whatever they want.

FITZ ON PUGILISTS.

Of All the Fighters, He Considers Peter Maher the Greatest.

San Francisco, March 22.—"Of all the prize fighters who are aspirants for championship honors," said Bob Fitzsimmons this morning, "I believe Peter Maher is the greatest. I believe he can whip Corbett, Choynski, Goddard, Sharkey and all the rest. While Choynski is the most vicious puncher of them all, he does not possess the ring generalship of Maher. Such men as Sullivan have absolutely no show of victory in modern pugilism. They cannot endure nor can they escape the onslaught of a modern pugilist. It is my opinion that even a second rate fighter can put them out. I have met most of these men, and I have studied their methods, but even the best man is fallible. Nobody, for example, believed that I had a right to aspire for the championship, but I did and I proved my aspiration as justified by victory. It may be that Maher is not the best man. I would like to see them all fight for it and see the best man win. As for myself, I have fought my last battle. I have given a promise to my wife that I will never enter the ring again, and I will keep my word. If Mr. Corbett challenges me, as I understand that he will, to another fight, I will not accept the challenge."

BLOCKADE OF CRET

Secretary Sherman Formally Notified by the Powers.

UNCLE SAM MAY ENTER PROTEST

Reported in Athens That Prince Georg May Be Declared Governor of the Island---Enthusiasm in Greece Abating.

ngton, March 22.—The representatives in Washington of the six powers signatory to the Berlin treaty Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Russia, have in concert notified this government of the blockade of Crete, the respective notes of Sir Julian Pauncefote, M. Patenotre, Baron De Fava, Baron Von Thiellman, M. Hengelmulls von Kengervar and M. De Kotzebue having been delivered to Secretary Sherman yesterday. They were almost identical and consisted of a mere formal announcement that a blockade to Cretan ports against ships under the Greek flag commenced at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Merchant vessels of neutral powers, including those of the United States and of the treaty powers, while subject to overhauling by the blockading warships of the concerting fleets, are not to be disturbed in their ordinary commercial occupations if they carry no merchandize intended for use of the Greeks or insurgents on the island. It is a question whether this government will give its assent to this form of blockade, which involves a grave departure in international law and would establish a precedent abolishing rights that the United States might not desire to surrender. There is little or no likelihood of an American vessel attempting to run the Cretan blockade, for the stars and stripes on merchant vessels in the Mediterranean is practically unknown. Nevertheless, if the United States should even tacitly consent to being kept out of Crete, where there is no proclaimed condition of war any more than there is in Cuba at the present time, such action, it is anticipated by those familiar with international precedents, may establish an awkwark precedent in relation to countries where American commerce is immeasureably more important and where American merchant flags are more numerous.

PLAN OF THE POWERS.

Reported That They May Appoint Prince George Governor of Crete.

Athens, March 22.—It is stated here that the powers are seriously discussing the question of nominating Prince George of Greece for governor of Crete. A number of Greek sharpshooterss at Pramanda, on the frontier, fired upon some Turkish soldiers who were on their own territory. The Turks were deeply angered, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that their officers prevented a conflict. The Greeks were equally desirous with the Turks for the opening of hostilities, and it was hard to hold them in check.

Greek Government Well Posted.

London, March 22.—The unseen allies of King George of Greece at the courts of St. Petersburg, London and Copenhagen are splendidly assisting him. Without incurring a cent of expenditure for a secret service fund the Greek government is kept apprised of every move on the diplomatic board and have thus been enabled to counter the efforts of their foes at the three imperial courts. To this is largely due the prolonging of the negotiations, which from time to time have threatened to end in the most vigorous coercive measures. The kaiser's government, baffled and annoyed, has definitely retired from the front and now limit their action to following the persistently active diplomacy of Russia. M. Delyannis, the Greek premier, has abundantly shown in the course of his career that he does not lack in courageous initiative, sometimes approaching rashness. But he is now resorting, as befits his position, to Byzantine tactics. The successive notes of his government to the powers have continued to lead them into a series of diplomatic colloquies, the tendency of which was towards compromise, and the aim of which has been to give Greece, in the last resort, some way of retreat from a most difficult situation. A most critical juncture of the past week was when the Russian government alone, or in conjunction with Austria, and supported by the approval of the kaiser, threatened to cut short all parleying with Athens and send the Russian and Austrian squadrons to the Piraeus. This precipitate action is understood to have been averted more by the representations of France than by any regard on the part of the czar's government for the maintenance of the "concert."

Greece's Army.

Greece has obtained a pause which, by all accounts, was badly required. Out of most contradictory reports as to the state of the Greek treasury and of the Greek army which have been received here, it is diffieult to ascertain the exact truth. Putting aside the obviously unreliable and fictitious reports from Greek sources which credit the government with having organized a perfectly equipped force of 65,000 troops, most of which are now on the frontier, the statements from sources friendly to Greece credit her government with managing to send to the front an effective force of about 25,000 men, including the best of the reserves. There are besides 30,000 men under drill, only a small portion of which force could be relied upon for service in the field, though they could take part in irregular warfare. The enthusiasm of the reserves appears to have cooled down, and many of them have returned to their homes.

KINGS WHO RIVAL SANDOW.

The Late Emperor of Germany Possessed Remarkable Strength.

It is astonishing what a large number of Kings and other rulers have been famous for their physical strength. The late Czar of Russia and the late German Emperor were both remarkable for their strength of body; the latter, in fact, thought sufficiently well of his powers to oppose himself to Sandow, who wrestled with and defeated the monarch with difficulty.

Maurice, Count of Saxony, was noted for his feats of strength. It needs no small amount of strength in the fingers to enable one to twist a long, thick nail into a spiral; this Maurice did, and afterwards used it as a corkscrew to open bottles of wine at a luncheon.

It is related of Dom Pedro I., Emperor of Brazil, that while out sailing in a small boat he suddenly seized hold of the two magnificently dressed Chamberlains who accompanied him, lifted them out of the boat, one on each side, and ducked them in the sea. This was not done out of malice, but because it was Carnival time, and practical joking was the order of the day.

Scanderberg, King of Albania, was a giant in strength. From an early age he was in the habit of competing in feats of strength and skill with the Turkish nobles, and was almost always victorious. He once, in a fit of rage, cut in two with one stroke of his sword two enemies, who were brought to him bound together. The same powerful sword-arm could cut in twain a man in complete armor.—Tid-Bits.

First Gentleman (entering the apartment of second gentleman): "About a year ago you challenged me to fight a duel."

Second Gentleman (sternly): "I did, sir."

First Gentleman: "And I told you that I had just been married and I did not care to risk my life at any hazard."

Second Gentleman (haughtily): "I remember, sir."

First Gentleman (bitterly): "Well, my feelings have changed; any time you want to fight, let me know."

Princess Chimay To Appear on the Stage.

Berlin, March 22. -It is announced that the whilom Princess Chimay, formerly Clara Ward of Detroit, who eloped from Paris some time ago with a Hungarian fiddler named Janos Rigo and who was afterwasds divorced by her husband. Prince Chimay of Belgium, will appear on the stage at the Wintergarten in this city on April 4, accompanied by the fiddler.

Lived Nearly 102 Years.

Woonsocket, R. I., March 22.—Mrs Mary Skiffington died suddenly yesterday. She would have been 102 years old on April 6. She was in good health and her faculties were unimpared to the last. She was born in Ballamore, county Leitrim, Ireland, and came to this country about thirty-four years ago. Her father lived to within a few months of 100 years.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

AWFUL SEA VOYAGE!

SIX OF THE CREW PERISH.

She Left Hong Kong on July 4 and Spoke Only One Vessel Outside of Her Rescuer During the Terrible Voyage.

New York, March 22.—Health Officer Doty has removed the scurvy-stricken crew of the ship T. F. Oakes, thirteen in number, to the United States Marine hospital at Stapleton, S. I., where they will receive prompt medical treatment. The men were clothed in blanket suits, furnished by the quarantine department, their own clothing being held for disinfection. The Oakes left Hong Kong July 4 with a general cargo for this port and had been given up as lost. She was towed into port yesterday by the British tank steamer Kasbek, Capt. Muier, which picked her up last Thursday. The Kasbek, on March 14, at 1 p. m., saw blue lights, and Capt. Muier ordered the steamer's course altered and bore up for the distress signals. At 1 o'clock she was close alongside the ship and stood by until daybreak, when signals were observed flying from the ship asking that a boat be sent alongside, as the ship's crew were so disabled as to be unable to man their own boats.

Awful Tale of Suffering.

Chief Officer Helshem and three seamen at once put off in the Kasbek's yawl and when within speaking distance heard a tale of suffering and sickness from those on board the ship such as made them shudder. Capt. Reed of the Oakes reported that his crew were all laid up with scurvy and that the provisions were well nigh exhausted. He was unable to navigate the ship with the hands at his command and begged that he be at once supplied with fresh food and vegetables and taken in tow for the nearest port. The boat returned to the Kasbek with the message and Capt. Muier at once decided to take the vessel in tow. The weather, which had been threatening, now became boisterous and a northerly gale sprang up. Nevertheless preparations were made to pass a hawser to the Oakes, at the same time the boatload of provisions was sent. A manila hawser was paid out over the Kasbek's stern to the yawl, but a tremendous wave washed it into the propeller, which was turning slowly at the time, and before the engines could be stopped the screw was so entangled that it stopped suddenly and all the power of the engines was unable to move it. An effort was at once made to free the screw, but as it was so deeply submerged and the sea running so high it was fould to be impossible.

Oakes Drifted Out of Sight.

For eight hours the engineers staff labored to clear the propeller and finally disconnected the shaft and found that by placing a small block of wood between the couplings the screw could be made to turn. By that time the Oakes had drifted out of sight and Capt. Muler, despairing of being able to tow the Oakes with his disabled screw, determined at least to find her and provide the ship with provisions. All night he searched the horizon for traces of her, and at 6 a. m. Tuesday morning she was again sighted. The sea was boisterous at the time, but Chief Officer Helshem again volunteered to attempt to board her, and, as the engineers reported the propeller to be working well, it was decided to send a hawser aboard. Accordingly a line was dragged by the boat and after a deal of hard work two hawsers were made fast, Mr. Helshem and his boat's crew of three doing most of the work. They found only the second and third mates able to help them. The provisions they brought were a god-send to the scurvy-stricken survivors and they began to see the land. From last Thursday morning, when the hawser was passed aboard until the Sandy Hook bar was reached no incident of importance occurred.

Two Typhoons Encountered.

Capt. Reed of the Oakes when interviewed at Quarantine told a story of suffering and privation. The Oakes left Shanghai the 17th of last May, and after completing her cargo at Hong Kong sailed from that port July 4. The crew were apparently in the best of health, with the exception of Capt. Reed, who had been ailing for some time, but who, under the careful nursing of his wife, thought himself on the high road to recovery. When six days out in the China sea a terrific typhoon was encountered lasting several days, during which the fore and main-topmasts were sprung. The vessel was obliged to run before the gale which had no sooner blown itself out than it was followed by a second typhoon, which blew with great fury for twenty-four hours. The vessel was well out in the North Pacific and so far off her course that Capt. Reed decided to shape his course via Cape Horn, rather than that by the Cape of Good Hope, hoping thereby to make better time.

Six of the Crew Succumb.

The weather remained fine, nothing but light airs and calms were experienced until Cape Horn was rounded, 167 days out. In the meantime the Chinese cook had been taken down with a severe cold and died on November 11. Afterwards a seaman named Thomas King was taken down with what appeared to be scurvy and died December 26. In quick succession, seaman Thomas Olsen was taken ill and died January 12. Thomas Judge, another seaman, was now taken ill with cancer of the stomach and later mate Stephen G. Bunker showed symptoms of scurvy. The latter died February 4 and was quickly followed by George [illegible], an old man, who died on the 9th. On the 17th Judge succumbed, making in all six deaths. One by one the other sailors were obliged to quit work, until on March 1 nobody was left except the second and third mates. The captain and his wife all were nigh exhausted and when a strong northerly gale sprung up on that day, the brave woman was obliged to take the wheel for eight hours without relief and without as much as a drink of water she kept the ship on her course.

Provisions Ran Short.

The provisions were running short, although a supply had been obtained on January 12 from the American ship Gov. Robie, from New York for Melbourne, when off the island of Trinidad, and the crew were left without other than the barest necessities. A sharp lookout was kept for passing vessels, but nothing was seen until the Kasbek hove in sight. Capt. and Mrs. Reed live at Haverhill, Mass., where they have a married son and daughter.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Hearings on Several Important Bills To Be Given This Week.

Albany, March 22.—Gov. Black's bill providing for the state ownership of lands in the Adirondacks will have a hearing before the senate finance committee to-morrow afternoon. The governor has agreed to several amendments to the bill suggested by the lumber and pulp interests. The senate finance committee will also give a hearing to-morrow afternoon on the state grain elevator bill. The senate cities committee will hear arguments on Senators McNulty's and Wieman's bills to remove the steam railroad tracks from Atlantic avenue in Brooklyn; and Senator Raine's bill incorporating the city of Geneva. The woman suffrage amendment to the state constitution and Senator Guy's bill regulating the sale of merchandise and to prevent misleading and dishonest representations in connection therewith will have a hearing before the senate judiciary committee Wednesday afternoon. Assemblyman Anderson's bill incorporating the city of Rensselaer will have a hearing before the senate cities committee Thursday afternoon. Wednesday afternoon the assembly ways and means committee will give a hearing on the state grain elevator bill and the senate canals committee on the anti-railroad freight discrimination bill, to prevent such discrimination against ports in this state.

The St. Nazaire Survivors.

New York, March 22.—The names of the sixteen additional survivors of the Ville de St. Nazaire, sunk a few days ago off Cape Hatteras, who were picked up by the Glasgow-bound British tramp steamer Yanariva, will not be known until that vessel reaches her destination. The steamship Kaiser Wilhelm, which brought the news, can give no details of the rescue, as the Yanariva merely signalled the bare statement that she had the castaways aboard. The news has aroused hopes that still others of the crew of the St. Nazaire may have been picked up by vessels not yet reported.

Borrogo Assassins To Be Executed.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 22.—The four Borrogo assassins will be executed to-morrow. All arrangements have been made to put into effect the death sentence. No interference is expected from the president. A letter from District Attorney Crist states that Attorney-General McKenna has informed the president that he has no authority to interfere. The usual stories about plots to free the prisoners are afloat, and in consequence the militia have been called upon to act as a guard of safety.

Good Position for Major Dick.

Akron, O., March 22.—Maj. Charles Dick has received from Chairman Hanna the formal tender of the secretaryship of the republican national committee, and has wired his acceptance. There will be a salary of $5,000 a year attached to the office. Major Dick was offered by President McKinley both the positions of fourth assistant postmaster-general and treasurer of the United State, but declined.

Cleveland Gets the Balance of His Salary.

Washington, March 22.—The treasury department has closed up its accounts with Grover Cleveland. Secretary Gage Saturday signed a warrant in favor of Mr. Cleveland for $277.78, the balance due him on his salary as president, and it was mailed to him at Princeton, N. J., this morning. This balance completes the $200,000 to which Mr. Cleveland was entitled for his four year's services.

Kentucky Senatorship.

Frankfort, Ky., March 22.—Representative W. A. Baird, a gold democrat of Davies county, has announced that he will vote for Dr. W. G. Hunter, the republican nominee for United States senator. It is practically settled that Norman and Stout, gold democrats, will also vote for Hunter. Dr. Hunter claims that he can have the votes of three other gold democrats if he wants them.

The Philippine Revolt.

Madrid, March 22.—An official report from Manila states that a Spanish force commanded by Gen. Olaguer has captured by assault an entrenched position of the insurgents at Montalban. According to report the rebel losses numbered 300 killed, while the Spaniards lost only two killed and eighteen wounded.

Nassau Crowded with Americans.

Nassau, N. P., March 22.—Nassau is crowded to its fullest capacity at present with Americans. Miss Nellie H. Emens of Syracuse, N. Y., died here of gastro-enteritis and her remains have been shipped to New York per steamship Niagara.

KEAN'S WATCHFUL EYE.

John Kean, the man who helped so materially to bring the Republicans into power, is watching events at Trenton, with an eye to the future, says the Philadelphia Record. He has made several trips to the Capitol during the Legislative session and he has kept close tab upon the work there. Some profess to know that Kean is to have the nomination for Governor and that Griggs is to go to the Senate. Others scout this idea and say that Kean will not be satisfied to accept such a situation; that he wants the Senatorship and will not again go into the tribulations of a Gubernatorial campaign.

POSTMASTERS TO SERVE OUT TERMS.

Postmaster-General Gary has made an announcement of interest to Democratic Postmasters whose terms expire on various dates under the new Administration. He says he has decided to adhere to the four-year tenure of office policy for Postmasters except in cases where such officials should be removed for cause.

AN HONOR.

A distinguished honor was accorded to Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent avenue church, yesterday, when at Princeton he conducted the morning services at the college chapel, which was attended by ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland.

THEATRICAL.

The Albany theatre was crowded afternoon and evening, yesterday, to witness the performance of "Killarney and The Rhine," in which the picturesque scenes of Ireland and Germany are presented. The Lakes of Killarney are particularly beautiful. Mr. J. E. Toole, as a German, is an artist with a good dialect. He is supported by a very good company and the play runs along smoothly. There is considerable specialty work which is very creditable—Press and Knickerbocker. At Music Hall tonight.

Seldom has a play made such a pronounced hit on its first presentation as "Saved from the Sea," a new English melodrama which will be seen here at Music Hall next Thursday night. This piece has already been running for more than sixteen months at the Princess's theatre, London, and in Boston and New York, where it was first presented in this country, enjoyed long and prosperous runs. It is ingenuously constructed and worked out with accurate knowledge of broad and highly colored dramatic effects. From the beginning of the play until the end, there is a sense of excitement that never evaporates.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Additional local news on the third page.

—Thursday next will be the Feast of the Annunciation, a day of great devotion among Catholics. Masses will be celebrated in St. Mary's church at 6:30 and 8 o'clock a. m.

—Next Monday evening the Sons of Temperance of Elizabeth will give a large reception to their friends. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Bert Naylor's orchestra of this city. A delegation from Howell Division of this city will attend the affair in a body.

—The Holy Name Society held its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in the basement of St. Joseph's church. Routine business was transacted. J. L. Anderson will address the next meeting of the society and tell something of his experiences during his travels.

—At the champion rifle shoot at the Sportsmen's Exhibition which was held last week, the second, fourth, fifth and sixth prizes were won by men using powder of the Peter's Cartridge Company of which T. H. Keller of this city is the representative. As the powder was something new and the shooters were not used to it, the showing was a very fine one.

Cranford, N. J., March 1, 1897.—I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills for rheumatism and headache with satisfactory results. My mother has been relieved of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we find it an excellent spring medicine. Miss Minnie A. Neipp.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable.

William E. MacClymont, organist of the First Presbyterian church, is ill with the grip and was unable to act in his regular capacity in the church yesterday. His place was taken by Miss Josephine Petrie. Owing to his illness there was no choir rehearsal on Saturday evening and the choir sang simple hymns in the morning. In the evening there was a contralto solo by Miss Julia J. Ketcham.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

An $8 member counts 8 points; a $5 member counts 5 points; a $3 member counts 3 points, and a $2 member counts 2 points. Thus the member securing the largest number of points will secure the wheel. Wake up, fellows, and try to get this wheel. You may be the lucky one.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

William Shirley is convalescent from the mumps.

Charles Cornell and wife, of Perth Amboy, are visiting at the home of George Soulsby.

Mrs. Henry Lyons and family have been visiting Miss Josephine Butcher, of West Fourth street, Plainfield

Quite a heavy fog hung over Dunellen Saturday evening, arising from the swamp land opposite the depot.

Miss Day, of West Sixth street, Plainfield, visited her aunt, Mrs. Cooper, of Madison avenue and Church street, over Sunday.

David Lowrie and family will remove from their present quarters on or about April 1, to the farm now occupied by W. R. Merserole, about a mile from the centre of town.

On April 19th will occur the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association, when the annual reports of the officers will be submitted.

John M. Dayton, of Samptown, has been appointed by the Middlesex County Court administrator of the effects of the late Harriet Mollinson, who died some time ago. Eugene Runyon who inventoried the furniture, came across a lot of it known to be 200 years old. This will be put up at public vendue this week.

Charles Wyhusky will probably be the next Chief of Police, to succeed Chief Warden, who claims that he has never received a regular salary—in fact got nothing for his services as patrolman except his badge and the honor accompanying the appointment and a few paltry dollars for making arrests and piloting the prisoners over to the New Brunswick jail.

The members of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association held a meeting in Alvah Gray's office, Saturday evening, to discuss the feasibility of starting a new series early in April. The new series will be known as "Series No. 4," and at the meeting the opinion was expressed that a new one would soon be taken up. At the present time the association is one of the most flourishing and successful of its size in the state. Already 100 shares have been subscribed to the new series.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Will Buckley spent Friday with friends in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Parks spent Sunday with friends out of town.

William B. Noble is convalescent from a severe attack of the grip.

There will be baptism at the Baptist church on Sunday evening next.

Horace Young, of Fanwood, is suffering from an attack of the mumps.

A. L. Jimerson, of Westfield, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Jimerson, of Westfield, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. L Frentz.

Mrs Schwalback has rented John Scheelen's house on Barth avenue, and will take possession April 1st.

Mrs. Charles N. Flanders, of Front street, entertained her sister, Mrs. Crosby, of Bergen Point, last week.

Miss Sarah Hand, of Netherwood, led a very interesting C. E. meeting last evening. Subject: Temperance.

Fanwood Council, No. 741 R. A., will hold a very important meeting Tuesday evening. A large turnout is desired.

Charles N. Flanders has rented Mrs. Ross' cottage on Park avenue, and will use it as an annex to his boarding house.

John E. Flannery, of East Front street, Plainfield, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston, of Westfield avenue.

The crosswalk at the head of Front street is lower than the roadbed, consequently is covered with an inch or two of mud every time it rains.

Scotch Plains and Hoboken sports held a cocking main Saturday night at Hoboken. Hoboken police raided the main before it was finished.

A Junior Christian Endeavor Association will be started in the near future. Miss Carrie Bettman, of Fanwood, has the matter in charge.

The large machinery for the new crusher, on the hill, was hauled from the freight house to the crusher yesterday afternoon. Six horses were used in its transportation.

A union Sunday-school service will be held at the Baptist church on Sunday next. There will be interesting exercises by the children, also addresses by Rev. C. S. Converse, treasurer of Union County Sunday-school Association, and Miss Nettie J. Beeching, president of the Plainfield Primary Union.

—The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Vincent chapel.

SCRAP IN LITTLE ITALY.

VALENTINO WOULDN'T STAND FOR ROUNDERS IN SETTING UP DRINKS.

Consequently He was Ejected to the Street with More Force than Grace and Took Himself to Court for Satisfaction.

"Little Italy" did its usual Sunday fight yesterday. This time it was over a game of cards and a can of beer. Domenico Valentino and a party of Italians assembled at the home of Tony Long to have a quiet game of cards and some beer. Hearts was the game and the loser was to pay for the beer for the whole gang. And as there are no saloons in town where the amber fluid can be gotten on Sundays, Tony had a supply on hand for just such an emergency. Domenico Valentino got "stuck" and ordered the beer like a little sport and here is where the trouble really began. He alleges that Tony "rung in" some of his hangers on, who were not in the game and insisted that Domenico should also pay for what they drank. He refused. He accused Tony of bringing in "singers," whereupon Tony, treated him with contumely contempt and other inexpensive things and without ceremony, but with much malice and force, threw Domenico into the streets and proceeded to wipe his shoes on his Sunday clothes. After he had gratified his resentment, he told Domenico to "getta out" of the neighborhood, which he did as fast as his legs could carry him. He hunted up Justice Collins, to whom he told his tale of woe and prayed that a warrant be issued for the apprehension of his assailant on the charge of assault. The warrant was issued. Tony will have a hearing as soon as he is arrested. It is quite likely, too, that Tony may have to stand trial for selling liquors without a license. He was tried once for a similar offense and fined $25 and costs.

Arthur Pell has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baker, of Broad street, moved to Morristown today.

The Iron Clad Rheostat has been compelled to lay off a part of its force.

George Meincke, of New York, has come to Westfield in search of health.

Mr. Woodring began the erection of a house on his Clark street property this morning.

Miss Henrietta Wittke has returned home after a prolonged visit to friends and relatives.

B. Smith visited his son, William Smith yesterday. Both father and son are employed on the Central Railroad.

Roland Randolph has been engaged to take charge of the Presbyterian church choir, and assumed his duties yesterday.

An Italian said yesterday that there were only two Italian houses in Westfield where beer could not be purchased on Sunday.

The W. C. T. U. held a temperance meeting in its hall Saturday evening for men and boys only. The meeting was well attended.

The Westfield Athletic Club will give its annual "smoker" tomorrow evening, and it is rumored that it will not be "so tame" either.

A young colored man by the name of George Mizell died here about noon Saturday of consumption. His remains were taken yesterday by his sister to Windsor, N. C., for interment.

The Woman's Club met in the rooms of the Social Club this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting was well attended, and interesting papers were read on "Education," "Philanthrophy," "Practical Work in Tenement Houses" and "Prison Reform." Each paper was followed by a brief discussion, and those present showed themselves to cope with the subjects in an able manner, which reveals the fact that the women of this little town are not behind the times. Annie Walker Johnson is chairman of the committee on education and philanthrophy. The next meeting will be held on April 12th, and the theme will be "House and Home."

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

BENEAF DE ORANGE BLOSSOM.

I kissed Miss Jane one day in May,
Beneaf de orange blossom;
I kissed her, but 'twuz jest in play,
Beneaf de orange blossom;
She blushed at fust and den looked shy,
An' den de fire flashed frum her eye;
I kissed ner, but I said goodby,
Beneaf de orange blossom.

I kissed Miss Jane an odder day,
Beneaf de orange blossom:
'Twuz in de winter, not in May,
Beneaf de orange blossom;
Ob course my heart wuz swelled wid pride,
For law Miss Jane wuz by my side;
I wuz de groom an' she de bride,

THE SECRETARY.

Henry Markham, M. P., had accepted an invitation from his political friend, Sir George Howard, to his country house. As the visit was more political than private, Mr. Markham brought his private and political secretary, John Warrington, with him. An important measure was before the House, and a division was expected to take place immediately. Sir George represented land, Mr. Markham capital, and Warrington knew more about both than either. Beside, Mr. Markham was vivaciously engaged on a work dealing with bimetallism. Warrington had ideas on the subject, and Mr. Markham believed in these so far that he had decided to put his own name to them.

"Warrington," he explained to Sir George, "is a deuced clever fellow. He works up my speeches. You see, I am very busy, and upon my soul, I could not do them better myself."

This statement was scrupulously true. Mr. Markham and his secretary achieved immediate and merited unpopularity with Sir George Howard's household and guests. Markham was ignorant, ill-bred and arrogant. The secretary was a man of undoubted natural gifts—he was highly educated and had a fine literary style—but he was lacking in the savoir-vivre that makes civilization worth while. A strong character, he wanted that precise mental adjustment necessary to those who make the best of life as it is, and leave the conduct of life as it ought to be to remote posterity. Warrington's apparent indifference to his own and chief's social failure was pure affectation. He was miserable, and tried to disguise his emotion by an overdone cynicism, and a preposterous interest in bimetallism. He worked night and day at Mr. Markham's book, with only an hour off in the afternoon for pistol practice—his sole recreation.

Miss Marion Howard, Sir George's daughter and mistress of his house, was at first civil to the private and political secretary. It was her duty. Bimetallism she earnestly believed to be a bore, though a harmless one, but when she discovered the bimetallist was also a socialist, she was not sure that she ought not to send for the police. The secretary's fate was sealed. Henceforth there must be a great taboo. Warrington was a dangerous character. But the great division was still in the future. The dangerous character must perforce be tolerated for the present. A committee of public safety was meantime organized. Its president was a public school boy, and its action was worthy of its president.

One evening the secretary was strolling through the grounds, thinking about bimetallism and other things. In a dark corner of a shrub-bordered path he stumbled over the outstretched legs of a man lying on the grass. Warrington apologized, but the man was not appeased. His coarse face, enormous muscles and whole set-up could hardly be mistaken; he was a prize fighter, or should have been. He would accept no apology.

"I have apologized," said Warrington; "what more do you want?"

"I want to know if, as you think yourself a man, you'll put up your fives?"

"No," said Warrington; "I won't. But I'll tell you what I'll do."

He put his hand into his hip pocket and snatched out a short, black object with a barrel, which he pointed at the man's face.

"If you advance a single step I'll put a bullet in your skull."

The man fell back. There was a slight movement in the shrubbery. Warrington noticed it.

"Observe," he said sharply. "You think I could not hit you in the head in this light? See me take that branch off the yew!"

He pointed the pistol straight at the densest growth of underwood. There was a hasty scramble and the sounds of running footsteps. The pugilist again gave ground.

'Go!" said Warrington. "And if ever you molest me again I'll fire and think the matter over afterward."

In the smoking room that evening Warrington was reading and smoking a cigar, when young Charlie Telford, the president of the committee, exclaimed,—

"What do you think of a sweep who draws a revolver on an unarmed man?"

"That he is a sweep," came so unanimously that it was evident the scene had been rehearsed.

Warrington did not appear to hear.

"What do you say, Warrington?" Telford asked, pointedly.

"It depends," replied the secretary, "upon what the unarmed man is doing—or going to do. If he was inoffensive, the man with the gun was a criminal ruffian."

"Suppose the unarmed man was offensive?"

"Then the man with the gun was an ass."

"For what?"

"For not firing."

"Oh, indeed! Perhaps under the same circumstances, you would have fired."

"Why, certainly."

"That's curious," broke in two or three, "for they say that you yourself were molested this evening and that you didn't fire."

"I was molested, as you say, but it wasn't necessary to fire, fortunately for me, as I had not got a gun."

"We won't haggle over the word gun. It is certain you had a pistol."

"Oh, dear, no," said Warrington, knocking the ashes off his cigar. "I had only a pipe case."

Te subject was dropped, and with it the private secretary. When Miss Howard received the report of the committee she laughed immoderately. So they had had their trouble for nothing. At the same time the girl did not forgive the secretary certain sins of omission. He had treated her from the first with marked indifference. Still she was glad of the overthrow of the committee. She wanted to be her own executive.

Miss Howard told her best girl friend that she began to hate the secretary heartily on his own merits. She often met him as he was entering or leaving the castle for his daily walk. When she was wearing a new or particularly attractive gown she was certain to meet him. This coincidence was without exception. The secretary's tired face began to brighten as she passed. Her antipathy was really less violent than she had described it to her friend. But he was still contumacious. He had not yet bent the knee, and did not seem likely to do so.

Mr. Markham's visit was nearly over. The last evening had come. A skating party had been improvised. All the guests except the secretary were on the ice—a lake five miles over a lonely moor. Warrington went there too, but only to look on. He did not care to join the skaters. They did not care either. One, perhaps—but that would anticipate. As the evening advanced snow began to fall. It came gently at first, and the skaters enjoyed it. It dulled the sharp ring of their skates into a muffled rumble as they sped over the fast-coating ice. It clung in delightful little frosty filaments to the eyelashes of the girls and whitened the mustaches of the men. It was grand. Then the snow king changed his mind suddenly. He sent forth his tempest in a moment. The little fleecy flakelets were followed by blinding drifts. Darkness covered the land and an impenetrable snowfall the skaters. Racing blindly for the lake shore they found banks here and there in detached groups; sometimes three or four together, hand in hand; often one by one, blinded, dazed, demoralized.

The secretary sat on a tree stump by the bank and watched, careless of his snowy jacket. The thing interested him—nothing more. He told himself that he did not care a straw if the whole party, man, woman and child, perished in the drifts. Still he waited persistently. He did not tell himself for what. At last he rose. Just then a muffled hum of a pair of skates sounded far out on the ice. The sound waxed louder and fainter alternately. Like the traveller in a primeval forest who has lost his way, this skater was moving in a circle. Let him circle till he perished. She must now be well on the way to the castle. But—duty! Warrington put his two hands to his mouth and sent a deafening shout across the ice. A faint cry answered back. He shouted again to indicate the direction. Then he heard the sound of skates plowing through the deepening snow straight for him. The sound swerved to the right.

"This way!" Warrington roared from the shore.

In ten seconds Miss Howard fell exhausted into his arms. It was impossible to keep the snow off her. He could only wait until she had recovered breath, and then without a word of apology he took her up in his arms and carried her to the partial shelter of a belt of underwood. The cold became intense. Warrington soon saw that before she had even recovered strength the girl's circulation was running down. She must be kept moving or she would freeze to death. She was already half asleep. Fortunately he had a small flask of brandy that the housekeeper of the castle had pressed upon him when he started. He forced some drops into the girl's lips, and when she partly revived said sharply:

"Now then! March!"

"I cannot move a step. I am faint. I cannot get breath. This awful snow!"

He shook her roughly. She would not stir. He hardened his heart, and struck her in the face with his open hands. She only moaned and hid her head upon his shoulder. He tried to cover her from the awful downfall, which momentarily increased. Then, failing in this, he burst out passionately;

"Listen to me. Where are your friends gone? Why have they deserted you?" (They had not really missed her.) "Do you hear me? I am going to stand by you, and won't you even try to move?"

"I cannot; save yourself," she moaned.

"No, I am not that sort. Now, then"

He raised her in his arms, and slowly plodded through the snow. He had tramped that pathway often, and knew it well. But the snow was terrible. Down it came, thickening every minute. It beat him soon. He was knee deep in it, and he was off the track. When he discovered this by the uneven footing underneath the deep coating, he stopped. Warrington was no coward, but his heart failed him. He was physically incapable of carrying the girl farther. No shelter was near. The girl herself was absolutely exhausted. He appealed to her again.

"Could you not try to walk a bit, just to rest me? I can do no more; I try."

"What's the good of trying?" she answered, feebly. "It is impossible. Why don't you leave me? I want to sleep. I want to die."

"That's where the trouble is. I don't want you to die."

Again he struggled forward. Some shelter must be at hand; some one must be near. If neither one nor the other—well, he could take a leaf from the book of the dainty little girl he carried in his weary dead arms. He, too, could die game: and so, forward! The snow was worse than ever. The girl by a great effort aroused herself and said:

"You have done enough—too much. I am sorry to have not quite understood you. I know you now. God bless you! Save yourself; I asked you before."

"I will not save myself," he cried, hysterically. "I will not leave you. I will fight on."

But he was dead beat. The girl flung herself from his arms, saying: "Together then!" Hampered by her dress, the exertion of forcing her way through the drifts was terrible. His courage gave her strength. The end came soon. They faced each other silently, each waiting for the other to speak. Then the man said quietly:

"The snow must be clearing off, or we are in the lee of something—some shelter."

"God grant it!" said the woman. "I noticed it, but I feared it might not be true."

They could not see a yard ahead. Another effort! After a few steps they were brought up by a wall. It must be an outbuilding of some farm house. They found the door; they were saved for the moment. The house, a mere cattle shelter, was fortunately nearly full of hay. He twisted a firm whisp of hay, and brushed her skirts clear of snow. She must have perished if the thick coating had been allowed to thaw and drench her. He wrapped her up in a heap of hay and induced her to swallow a few more drops of brandy; then he incontinently finished the flask himself. Going to the open doorway of the shelter, he stood on guard.

As the night wore away, the snow gradually ceased. The moon at last shone out. To his surprise Warrington recognized the locality—a hillside half way between the castle and the rectory, where Miss Howard's married sister lived. She was asleep when he went to her. He awoke her gently. She was now well rested and almost strong.

"So we can get back to the castle before daybreak?" she asked anxiously.

"No," he answered. "We can make the rectory—not the castle."

"Why not the castle?"

"There are various reasons," he said, quietly.

She would not argue with him; he had saved her life. They started for the rectory, and now that they had sufficient light to avoid the deeper drifts, reached their destination without much difficulty. They rarely spoke during the journey.

"Not that way," Warrington interposed, sharply, as Miss Howard was making for the hall door of the rectory. He wrapped her handkerchief round his right hand and broke the glass of a ground door window. "This will serve better," he said, as he unfastened the clasp and threw up the sash. "Let me help you."

He took the girl up in his strong arms and set her in the room. The wind was rising; the moonlight failed; snow began to fall again.

"Good-night," he said, softly; "I hope you won't be any the worse—"

She seized his outstretched hand and held it fast. "Where are you going?"

"Going? Oh, going, in the first place, to lose myself in the snow again."

"For what purpose?"

"So that, don't you see, when I find my way again, I will be at the castle, you here. That—that cattle shelter business is all a myth. I say so who should know. You see now?"

There was a pause, and then the girl said with a slight sob,—

"You are sure you will find your way to the castle?"

"Oh, yes, sure enough, and not very particular whether I do or not."

"You must be not only particular, but certain; else—"

"Else what?"

"I go with you. I know what it means, but I will go—unless you promise to find your way to the castle and —"

"How much more?"

"To come back to-morrow or—"

She kissed him on the lips. He forgot the piercing cold, the merciless snow. He took her face in his benumbed hands and drew it close to him again.

"Do you mean it?" he asked in a trembling voice.

"Yes, with all my heart."

"Then I promise."

He turned from her and set his face against the storm. Soon he passed out of her sight into the snow.

"He will come to-morrow," she said in a low, happy voice.

Will Cure Your Cough.

In an emergency that ever-useful remedy, hot water, will prove very effective. It is much better than the ordinary cough mixtures, which disorder the digestion and spoil the appetite.

Water almost boiling should be sipped when the paroxysms come on. A cough resulting from irritation is relieved by hot water through the promotion of secretion, which moistens the irritated surfaces. Hot water also removes expectoration, and so relieves the dry cough.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Of the many interesting facts that can be told about the old Arcade building at No. 71 Broadway, soon to be razed in favor of an up-to-date sky-scraper, the most peculiar, perhaps, is that the history of the building is familiar to fewer people than that of any other ancient landmark in the city. All Wall street, practically, passes through it six days in the week, and about all the thousands of bankers, brokers, speculators and clerks, who walk through the building on their way to and from the financial district, can tell you about it is that Russell Sage has his office there, and not a few years ago the famous bomb explosion occurred. The two most noted characters who have occupied offices in the Arcade are Russell Sage and Jay Gould. Mr. Sage, when he leaves for his new quarters in the Bank of Commerce building next month, will have been a tenant for more than 15 years. Mr. Sage was the originator of a line of business which grew to great proportions in Wall street. He instituted the "privilege system," by which brokers and traders in securities who had small means were enabled to test their judgment by large operations, and at the same time protect themselves from heavy loss. He sold "puts" and "calls," "spreads" and "straddles," with the result that dealings on the Stock Exchange greatly increased. As is frequently the case, the inventor profits little, and Mr. Sage lost several millions of dollars in the privilege business, and that, too, in a half week. It was toward the end of May, 1894. Mr. Sage had sold puts upon thousands and thousands of shares of stock. The market suddenly became weak, prices dropped away, and a panic was threatened.

It should be borne in mind that "privileges" are contracts not enforceable by law. It is also borne in mind now that Russell Sage never went back on his word. For three days he sat with pen in hand and, amidst the excitement, when over 200 brokers were clamoring to get into his presence, signed check after check upon the Importers' and Traders' Bank, until he had used up several books and had seen, so it was estimated at the time, $4,000,000 of his fortune melt away like snowflakes in the sun.

It was on December 4, 1891, a Friday, and, to be exact, 12:30 o'clock, for Secretary Menzie's watch stopped at that moment, when the crank, Norcross, who wanted over $1,000,000 of Mr. Sage's money, threw the bomb that killed himself and injured Mr. Sage and others and blew the office into kindling wood. That event was of too recent date to need a reminder of the details and the discovery of the would-be assassin through the medium of a clothes button which was picked up in the building. Everybody in the building was shaken up and scared out of considerable growth.

When some outside barbarian accuses New Yorkers of lack of civic pride, the loyal Gothamite usually points to Madison Square Garden and the Metropolitan Opera House as evidence to the contrary. "Here," he has been wont to explain with true Knickerbocker pride, "are two magnificent monuments to public spirit. Both these splendid structures have been built and maintained at a loss by men who dedicated them to the service and amusement of their fellow-citizens." But there is a limit to good nature. The stockholders of the Madison Square Garden Company think that they are satisfied with the experience they have gained, and are quite willing now to have someone else shoulder the load. So they decided. Any enterprising agriculturist who wishes to try his hand at this sort of gardening can get the site at a bargain, and have the famous bronze Diana, that moves with every wind on the latest style of ball-bearing axis, thrown in. The Garden was evolved out of the old Harlem Railroad depot, and assumed its present shape in 1890. It is the largest building in the country entirely devoted to purposes of amusement. The arena holds 11,000 people, the theatre 1,200 and the assembly hall 1,200 more. It has been the scene of many notable events, social, political and sporting. The hope is that some multi-millionaire, or a syndicate of them, may come forward and buy in the building, and either continue it in its present form, or remodel it, so that, while preserving its essential features, additions may be made that will render the property, in a measure, a profitable investment.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

WEEK IN CONGRESS

Forecast of the Work Before the Senate and House.

GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE TARRIFF TALK

Minority Report To Be Presented in the House To-day---Executive Business May Occupy the Greater Part of the Senate's Time.

Washington, March 22.—There will probably be a marked contrast between the proceedings of the two houses of congress during the present week. The "deliberative" senate will probably pass most of its time behind closed doors discussing the arbitration treaty, while the house will enter upon a four days' "go-as-you-please" tariff debate, which is to close at 11 p. m. on Thursday. Mr. Bailey has prepared a repoat on behalf of the minority of the ways and means committee, which he will lay before the house to-day, and Mr. Dingley has in mind a speech to offset some of the free trade arguments which he guesses Mr. Bailey's report will advance. After the general debate closes in the house on the tariff on Thursday night five-minute speeches will be allowed under the rules till March 31, and to give full scope to all the pent-up eloquence the session will begin at 11 o'clock each day instead of noon, as heretofore.

Appropriation Bills.

The silence of the senate's legislative chamber will not prevail in the committee rooms. Four great appropriation bills, passed by the last congress and not approved by the president, have been bodily dumped upon the senate committee on appropriations, of which Mr. Allison is chairman. They are the sundry civil, general deficiency, agricultural and Indian appropriation bills. Each of these bills, with one exception, goes back to the senate in the form in which it passed that body after conference. The exception is the asphaltum item of the Indian bill, which is a matter involving vast pecuniary interests. The item was inserted by the senate and was adopted in conference after a hard struggle in the last congress, but the house, having now a second chance at it, has stricken it out.

The Newly Appointed Senators.

There is small probability of the very complicated question of seating the appointed senators from Kentucky, Oregon and Florida coming up for action this week. In each case the credentials have been referred to the committee on privileges and election. The regular meeting day of the committee is Thursday, and a special session has been called to advance the decision of these matters. In point of fact, the questions involved are so complicated by previous decisions of the senate that no rapid decision is likely to be reached.

WILLIAM I. CENTENARY.

Programme of To-day's Festivities in Berlin---Unveiling the Monument.

Berlin, March 22.—To-day's ceremonies in connection with the centenary of Emperor William I. consist of fetes at the various schools followed by parades of school children, societies, guilds, veterans, etc. The parade of the guard corps and the Berlin garrison before the emperor and the royal guests will come next, the kaiser riding along the front of the troops from the Lustgarten to the Brandenburg gate. Reaching the Brandenburg gate the emperor will head the march of the troops to the Kaiser William I. monument, where, after the troops have been massed to the right and left, the ceremony of unveiling the monument will be proceeded with. When the unveiling takes place a salute of 101 guns will be fired and all the bells in the city will be rung. In the evening a grand state banquet will be given in the white hall of the schloss, a performance of grand opera in the Royal theatre and gala performances at the other theatres. One of the features of the evening programme will be an illumination of the public and private buildings throughout the city.

The Pan-Anglican Conference.

London, March 22.—The Pan-Anglican conference, which will assemble at Lambeth palace in July, will discuss overtures for union from some centres of the Greek or Eastern church. The question is of such vast importance as to necessitate more prolonged consideration than the conference can give. It will therefore be referred to a commission, possibly a joint commission of the Anglican and Eastern churches. The American bishops should have an influential voice in this commission.

The Yale-Princeton Debate.

New Haven, Conn., March 22.—Yale has submitted to Princeton this subject for the annual debate between the two universities: Resolved, that the present power of the speaker of the house of representatives is detrimental to the public interest. Princeton will choose its side of the question within two weeks. The debate will be held here on May 7.

Scott Released from Prison in Cuba.

Havana, March 22.—Charles Scott, the American who was arrested on Feb. 9 on the charge of having Cuban postage stamps in his possession, was released yesterday, the court having dismissed the charge against him. He will leave for the United States on the steamer sailing Wednesday.

Sugar Refinery To Start Up.

Philadelphia, March 22.—It is said that the Franklin Sugar refinery will start up about April 1, giving employment to 1,000 hands.

LEVEES SWEPT AWAY

The Flood Situation in the South and West Most Serious.

WORK OF RESCUE RAPIDLY PUSHED

Relief Steamers Wind Their Way Through the Tree Tops---Thousand of Acres of Farm Land Submerged and the Worst Is Yet to Come.

St. Louis, March 22.—Latest advices from the flooded country south of here state that the situation is hourly growing worse. Walls of water have beaten down the levees at many points and dwellers are at the mercy of the flood. Out of thirty-eight telegrams received here from the lower river, only one records a cessation of the rise. This was from Cairo, Ill., but the halt of the flood was due to breaks in the levees adjacent in Kentucky and Missouri. The most disheartening intelligence comes from the Iowa and Dakota valleys of the Missouri river. Warm weather has turned the snow to water, which is added to the already overflowed streams. Work on levee barriers is practically abandoned in Arkansas and Mississippi as useless. At Chicot, Ark., a barge load of sand bags was dumped into a levee break. They only served to widen the breach. This is the experience at other points, and work on the outer barriers is abandoned and every hand turned to save the inner levees. A dispatch from Ripley, Tenn., says there is a strong current through Reel Foot lake and the old river bayou. It is feared the river will seek its old channel through the lake, which was shifted twenty miles west by the earthquake of 1812. South of Helena, Ark., the levee breaks are most numerous and the damage greatest. The five steamers employed by the Memphis relief committee have been reinforced by two government boats towing barges. These steamers pick their way through the tree tops. The C. B. Bryan steamed due west from Memphis thirty-eight miles and returned with 130 people and a barge load of live stock. At Austin, Miss., forty miles below Memphis, only two houses remain on dry land. From these twenty-four people were rescued. Relief work is now occupying more attention than endeavors to fight the flood with levees. A relief committee has been organized in Little Rock, Ark. Memphis continues to save life and property unaided by the government of Arkansas. Major Ambury, in charge of the river and harbor work at St. Louis, has received a telegram from Secretary Alger directing that help and rescue measures be at once undertaken by the United States fleet in this vicinity.

Levees Give Way.

Memphis, Tenn., March 22.—The levees for a stretch of fifteen miles from and south of Osceola, Ark., have all gone to pieces. There were some twelve or fifteen breaks, in extent from 200 to 1,000 yards. All the water from the overburdened river is sweeping over the St. Francis basin, to return to the river just above Helena. Breaks are expected at Luxora, on the same side, but above Osceola. Most of the women and children had already left Osceola, only the men left to strengthen and guard the levees. The acres of farming lands submerged through the breaks already occurred aggregate well up in the thousands.

An Aged Skipper Seriously Injured.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 22.—Richard Wallace, captain of the freight steamer Elko of the Clyde line, plying between New York and Philadelphia, fell backward from the upper deck of his vessel last night, struck the string-piece of the dock and rebounded into the water. He was rescued by one of the crew of the Elko. His spine was injured, and it is thought he sustained a fracture of the skull. Capt. Wallace is 64 years old and resides in Bridesburg, Pa.

Barred from Residence in Germany.

Berlin, March 22.—The government has again given notice, and German-Americans are especially advised, that Germans who have emigrated and have been fined or punished otherwise for contravention of the military service laws, shall not be allowed to reside in Germany, except under very peculiar circumstances, a record of which must be kept in the war office.

Gordy Feigning Insanity.

Laurel, Del., March 22.—James M. Gordy, who has been held on the verdict of the coroner's jury for the murder of his wife, formerly Mrs. M. Lewis of New York, at Milton last week, is said to be feigning insanity. The attorney general has arranged to have expert physicians examine Gordy in a few days to determine the question of his sanity.

Huntington Buys a Mexican Railroad.

Monterey, Mex., March 22.—Advices received here say that the Monterey & Mexican Gulf railroad has been sold by the Belgian bondholders who have been operating the line for the past year to C. P. Huntington for the Southern Pacific company. The line is 300 miles long and extends from Trevino through this city to the port of Tampico.

American Naval Deputation at the Vatican

Rome, March 22.—Rear-Admiral Selfridge, commanding the American Mediterranean squadron, has left this city and gone to Naples. The pope will to-day receive a deputation from the American cruiser Cincinnati.

Death of ex-State Senator Youngblood.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A movement has been begun in Hudson county for the employment of the convicts in the penitentiary on road work, the idea being to have them keep in repair the Boulevard and certain other county driveways. A majority of the county freeholders have expressed themselves as favoring the project, and at the next meeting of the boulevard committee of the board the matter will be fully discussed. It would be nothing new, for the convicts have been employed in the past, and the saving which would result would be a considerable item. The sum of $20,000 is available, for instance, for repairs to the Hudson County Boulevard, and as the supply of crushed stone is large, nearly all of that sum could be saved for other public works. As one of the county officials expressed the case recently: "There would be very little trouble in keeping the Boulevard in fine condition with the aid of convict labor. To facilitate that work stations might be established at intervals of say one mile along that road, where crushed stone from the Snake Hill quarries could be deposited for distribution." Freeholder Stuhr, who is a member of the boulevard committee, also spoke favorably, and will try to have the idea carried out. There is nothing in the law to prevent such a use of convicts, and an additional argument in its favor is that there would be less willingness on the part of the men to be sent to the penitentiary for vagrancy, etc., if they knew they were likely to be put at such work.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball game with the team from the Summit Y. M. C. A. will be played in the gymnasium of the Plainfield Association on Friday evening instead of tomorrow evening.

The second basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will play a game with the team from the business men's class tomorrow evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The bowling team from the Plainfield High School Athletic Association will roll another game with the bowlers of the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening on the alleys of the latter team.

STOLEN SILVERWARE FOUND.

Only a short time ago it will be remembered that T. H. Keller, of East Front street, found a leather mounted clock under the piazza which were afterwards identified by Mrs. F. O. Herring as being the articles stolen from her little cottage on the mountain. There was also a quantity of silverware stolen that was still missing. That has now been discovered.

Yesterday afternoon, two young lads from this city were playing in the woods near Vail's spring on the mountain, east of the Mountain Park Inn. They were moving the rocks about when one of the lads noticed something shinning under one of the rocks which he had moved. He looked more carefully and found a quantity of silver tableware, thirty-four pieces in all.

The lads told their parents and the latter notified Chief Grant, who investigated the matter and found that the lads had found the rest of the valuables taken from Mrs. Herring's cottage and which the robbers had buried under the rocks near the spring until they could market them.

The articles found were nine solid silver tea spoons, a silver desert spoon, seven plated silver table spoons, eleven plated silver forks, and six plated silver knives.

Get the Best.

You cannot trifle with your health. If you are weak and nervous, broken down, your blood disordered, if you have overtaxed your energies or in any way injured your health, you should have the treatment of Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the distinguished specialist, whose wonderful cures have made his name famous. You can consult Dr. Greene personally or by letter free. He has developnd the most perfect and successful system of cure through correspondence. Write him about your case and a cure is assured.

Spring Changes.

Through the agency of E. C. Mulford & Son, of North avenue, Joseph W. Winant, of Westfield, has purchased the house at No. 331 Carleton avenue. E. C. Martin, of the dry goods firm of Woodhull & Martin, has leased the house No. 1007 Putnam avenue, and will take possession April 1st. C. M. Slocum, of New York, has leased the Martin house on Sandford avenue, and Fred S. Moore has rented the house No. 433 Orchard place.

CHINAMAN WAS OBDURATE.

Insisted That the Ticket Held by Mr. Durand Was No Good.

Late Saturday evening Louis F. Durand, of this city, called at the Chinese laundry opposite the Babcock building and asked for his wash. He presented his ticket, but the Chinaman in charge said that Durand's package was not there. The latter insisted that it was, and when he impressed this fact on the mind of the Chinaman, the latter, so Durand says, picked up a stick and hit him over the head. At any rate, Durand went after a policeman and returned with Patrolman Lunger. The officer called for the laundry, but this did not produce it. The Chinaman said that his laundry was not there and it was not his ticket.

Durand, losing all patience, went to another Chinaman who at one time run the above laundry, and asked him if the ticket did not come from the above washee man. The Chinaman looked at the ticket and said that it did and that his wash was there. Durand then returned to the Front street laundry and again demanded his package. Again he was refused and he was obliged to go away without it. It is not known what steps Durand will take to get his wash, but the Chinaman still says that he has not got his package.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

E. C. Mulford, of East Fifth street, is able to be out again after a short illness.

Miss Sadie Brown, of 126th street, New York, is the guest of her friend, Miss Sadie Blimm, of Somerset street.

Mrs. Swift, formerly Miss Russel, of Omaha, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Andrew Vanderbeek, of Second place.

Miss Layton, of this city, has secured a position with E. C. Mulford & Son, the North avenue real estate and insurance brokers.

Mrs. Julia Rushmore will soon vacate the house she has occupied for a few years on Grove street, opposite Rockview avenue, and will make her home at Mr. VanDeventers's, corner of Willow and Washington avenues, North Plainfield.

Rev Dr. H. C. Mabie, corresponding secretary of the Baptist Missionary Union, whose headquarters are at Boston, and who preached in the First Baptist church yesterday, was entertained at the home of the Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of West Seventh street.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Robert Scully Not a Spanish Prisoner.

Advices from Consul General Lee at Havana say that the young American who was captured while attempting to pass the Spanish lines is not Robert Scully, the son of M. W. Scully, of Somerville, who mysteriously disappeared from his boarding house in Camden on March 3d.

A SUCCESSFUL WOMAN MINER.

Mrs. Rigdon Staked Off Her Own Claim and is Getting Rich.

Bloomers have brought about the fortune of at least one woman. She is Mrs. Arthur Rigdon, of Pearl, Idaho, who owns the "Woman's Right Claim," a mining ledge which has proved a bonanza.

Mrs. Rigdon is the only woman in the camp. The "Woman's Rights Claim" was secured by Mrs. Rigdon by location—that is, by "staking off." This claim is 1,500 feet long, 600 feet in width, and is the most valuable piece of property in that region. Mrs. Rigdon secured it five years ago. The "croppings" were plainly visible and at the time there were comparatively few miners there.

The fortunate woman miner is the widow of a British army officer. She is highly intellectual, and has made a thorough study of mining. She was left a widow seven years ago, and it was then that she conceived the idea of putting her knowledge to some practical use. Her decision to settle at Pearl was made after she had visited several other Western mining camps, and as soon as her claim was "staked" she had it recorded. Then it was that her hard work began.

Day after day this strange woman may be seen descending into her mine, only to come again to the earth's surface covered with dirt, but always with a face glowing with enthusiasm.

When the report was spread about that Mrs. Rigdon was wearing "trousers" and working in the mines like a man the women folk of the surrounding country were shocked, and many were the stories that passed from lip to lip. Now all this is changed.—New York Journal.

A REMARKABLE BOOK.

Sixty-six Thousand Dollars Could Not Purchase It.

The most curious book in the world is neither written nor printed. Its pages are composed of the finest quality of vellum, and the letters were with infinite pain and trouble cut out of the material with a sharp pointed knife or pair of delicate scissors. It is interleaved with blue paper, and the letters can, therefore, be read as easily as any print. It formerly belonged to the Prince de Ligne, and is now in the library of a noble French family. The title of the book is "Liber Passionis Domini Nostri Jesu Christi, cum Characteribus Nulla Materia Compositis;" in English, "The Book of the Passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ, in Characters, Without Materials of Composition." The matter is a homily, probably composed by some monastic preacher of the middle ages. A remarkable circumstance connected with this book is the fact that, although it bears the royal arms of England, no mention of it can be found in any English writing. The book is believed to have been made some time in the thirteenth or fourteenth century. In 1640 the Emperor Rudolph II. offered for it 11,000 ducats, which in the money of our time would equal about $66,000, and the offer was refused.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Faithful to the Captain.

That was a loyal if not very gentle answer once made by a private soldier to Frederick the Great of Prussia, as the story is told in Harper's Round Table:

During a campaign in Silesia the king made it his habit to stroll through his camp in disguise at night, to come into closer relations with his soldiers. One night he was stopped by a sentry, but giving the proper password, was permitted to proceed. Instead of doing so, however, he endeavored to tempt the sentry into accepting a cigar, saying that a smoke would solace his long watch.

"It is against the rules," said the soldier.

"But you have my permission," said Frederick.

"Your permission!" cried the soldier. "And who are you?"

"I am the king."

"The king be hanged!" said the incorruptible sentry. "What would my captain say?"

NEW ATHLETIC INTEREST.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BOYS GREATLY ENCOURAGED NOW.

The Recent Concert Put Them on a Sound Financial Footing and All Looks Fine For a Season of Healthful Games.

While all the supporters of the athletic association in the Plainfield High School were confident of success for their venture, Saturday evening, in the shape of the entertainment, yet the result was even more satisfactory than they hoped. The entertainment was the principal topic of conversation in school yesterday and everybody was anxious to learn the extent of the good fortune. Returns were made by those who had taken tickets and Treasurer Sidney R. Titsworth was kept busy at recess settling up these accounts.

Of course, the entertainment made a big boom in the interest of the athletic association. There was much discussion as to how the funds are to be spent. According to the present rules of the association, the entries of all members of the track team will be paid. A meeting will be held this afternoon to elect an auditing committee to audit all bills from this or other sources. Heretofore the captain of the track team has O. K'ed all the bills. But now that the amount of money in the treasury has reached a goodly sum, it is deemed best to have all bills pass through the hands of a committee.

A number of amendments have been offered to the constitution of the athletic association, all of which do not find favor with all the members. The membership of the association is regularly opened in one to all members of the Grammar School. In another, the wearing of the P. H. S. or the High School jersey of dark blue and red is allowed to only those who have scored points in scholastic meets or interscholastic meets.

In the examinations that were completed some time ago, all the pupils were not lucky enough to pass. Then there were a number who were compelled to be absent on account of illness. For the benefit of these supplimentary examinations have been held for the last week in the afternoon. Otherwise the daily routine of studies has gone forward with its accutomed regularity.

Even while athletics are taking a prominent part at this time of the year, the members of the Kappa Delta Phi have not forgotten that society, and the meetings are conducted with the usual interest. The regular meeting of that society was held on Friday afternoon. The programme consisted of readings by all the members on topics of current interest. Only business of importance was transacted. The programme for next week will be a debate on the arbitration treaty. The principal for the affirmative is George Proctor Smith, and for the negative, William A. DeLong, Jr.

STATE WHIST CONGRESS.

All the New Jersey Crack Players to Enter the Contest.

The event of the year for the whist players of the state, the third annual Congress of the New Jersey Whist Association, will be held at the rooms of the Jersey City Club on Thursday evening, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening. There will be three contests at the Congress, the principal one of which will be the contest for the Park Club trophy, offered by the Park Club of North Plainfield. The others are contests in progressive whist for four and pairs. On Thursday evening, the Park trophy contest will begin. On Friday evening, the semi-finals in this contest will be played and also the progressive match for fours. Saturday afternoon and evening, the finals in the Park trophy contest will be played and also the progressive match for pairs.

The Park Club will be well represented there by its regular four and will take a prominent part in the contest for its own trophy. There are now fourteen clubs in the association and all will probably enter in that contest as well as in the others.

Salvation Army Campaign.

Adjudant Ferris, Ex-Deputy Sheriff, of New York City, and counselor-at-law for the Salvation Army, will lead the meeting at the Salvation Army Hall tonight and will swear in a number of recruits as soldiers of the Local Corps, after which there will be a sale of works and fancy articles given by the friends of the army.

Hospital Corps Likely.

Dr. Simpson, of this city, went to New York last evening to submit a report regarding the organization of a hospital corps in this city. Already twenty young men have signified a willingness to join the new organization, and everythings now points towards a successful corps for Plainfield.

IN THE TOILS OF LAW.

TWO YOUNG TRAMPS AND A BEER PEDDLER IN CITY COURT.

The Boys Told a Sympathetic Story and Were Released—John Scott Paid $8 for Being Obtrusive at the Railway Station.

Two "coal car commuters" and a beer peddler made up the trio of offenders that appeared before Judge DeMeza, this morning, in the city court.

Walter Sosdoren and William Leahy were two lads from Philadelphia, aged fifteen and sixteen years respectively, who were picked up on one of the coal trains of the Jersey Central railroad, last evening, by the railroad detectives. Detective Blackford chased one of them off the train and captured him in the neighborhood of the station. Detective Dougherty pursued Sosdoren up Madison avenue and arrested him. The lads told the Judge when they were arraigned before him this morning that they had been out of work and in hard luck so they worked their way to New York to try to better their fortunes. They had not the look of the regular tramp and the Judge was lenient with them, suspending sentence.

Sergeant Kiely made the other arrest. John Scott, who is well known in this city as a beer peddler, was up at the North avenue station, last evening, in company with a friend. He lingered about the station until Kiely ordered him away, and then answered back in language of not the most choice kind. The officer thinks that he was drunk. As Scott declined to move and became still more abusive with his tongue, the officer placed him under arrest and he spent the night in the lockup.

When arraigned before the Judge this morning he was found guilty of being disorderly and was given his choice between a fine of $8 or twenty days in Elizabeth. He paid the fine.

A PITCHFORK WELCOME.

RAHWAY FARMERS BUNCOED BY A WELL DRESSED YOUNG MAN.

He Agreed to Send $20 Worth of Fertilizer For $4, and Received Pay in Advance—The Fertilizer Did Not Come.

Should any tall, well-dressed young make his way into Rahway, he would be pitchforked unmercifully. The farmers there have formed a club called "The Buncoed Thirteen." The number will be fatal to the well-dressed young man, for one answering that description succeeded lately in buncoing thirteen unfortunate and unsuspecting farmers.

During the last two weeks, when the spring showers first enlivened the town and crops gave evidence of growth, the majority of these land tillers were in receipt of a handsomely engraved circular, printed on costly stationery. Such of them as could not read kept the circular as a souvenir, not knowing its import. A few days later the tall, well-dressed young man called, collected $4 each from thirteen land tillers and made his departure, after promising to carry out the agreement in the circular, which was to send in return for the money a lot of chemicals and the "best fertilizer in the world." The young man said he was the representative of the Eureka Fertilizing Company, and the farmers were delighted when he undertook for $4 to send each $20 worth of such valuable agricultural material.

The farmers have not yet received the goods paid for in advance, but still hope that the suave and stylish stranger will live up to his agreement; but lest he should not, they have joined in an offensive and defensive alliance and declare that should the well-dressed stranger not materialize they will be revenged on the first well-dressed young man who enters the town.

The Town Hall gong, the fire bell, and every other bell in the town will be rung directly such a young man appears, and he will at once be surrounded by "The Buncoed Thirteen" and pitchforked.

Purchased the Holly Farm.

David M. Kellogg, one of New York city's lawyers, has purchased the Holly farm, at Oak Tree, formerly occupied by Gen. Swenck, and is thoroughly overhauling it preparatory to making it his summer home. Gen. Swenk has rented one of the houses adjoining Campbell's Club House and is living there with his family.

VICTIM OF CONSPIRACY?

THAT IS WHAT LARRY WALLACE CLAIMS HE IS.

County Detective Keron Supports His Statements and Questions the Honest Motives and Character of the Detective.

Larry Wallace, one of the most notorious characters in Union County, and arrested by several officers while attempting to set fire to John Benner's road house last Friday night, is said by County Detective John Keron, of Elizabeth, to be a victim of conspiracy on the part of two former convicts to collect a $500 reward offered by the Underwriters Association. The New York Sun correspondent in Elizabeth says:

"A well-dressed man, who gave his name as Bloodgood, called on Sheriff Kirk on Friday morning and stated that he was a detective of the Underwriters, and said that he had, while disguised as a workman, secured the confidence of the suspected Scotch Plains incendiary and a confession from him while he was drunk. He also said that the incendiary would that night fire the Benner House. Bloodgood asked that officers be sent with him to arrest the man when he appeared at the house. The Sheriff sent two constables from Elizabeth and Chief of Police Grant and an officer from Plainfield. Soon after their arrival Wallace arrived at the door and turned the knob. As he did this Bloodgood sprang forward and seized Wallace, exclaiming here he is I have caught him in the act."

On Saturday morning, when questioned by Detective Keron of the Prosecutor's office, Wallace asked for a hearing, saying he was a victim of two ex-convicts. A hearing was set for this afternoon.

Keron started an investigation, and says that the following are the facts:

"While I know Wallace to be a bad character, I am satisfied," he said today, "that in this instance he is innocent of the charge against him. I find that this man Bloodgood is Alfonso Voullner, of 47 Sweetser avenue, Trenton, an ex-convict who has served time in the Trenton State prison. Voullner called on the Underwriters and asked whether, if he succeeded in securing the conviction of the person responsible for the incendarism in Scotch Plains, he would obtain the usual reward of $500. Satified that he would do so, he returned to Scotch Plains last Thursday night. William Adams, another convict, who was sent to State prison from Union county for assaulting a woman, enticed Wallace, who was an old pal of his, to a house kept by Mrs. Peel on Brooktown road, where they were joined by Bloodgood. Two bottles of rum were procured, and Wallace was made drunk. He was kept in this condition until Friday evening, when he was allowed to go.

"Since the completion of the Benner house Wallace had slept there nights, in company with a colored man. On Friday night, after leaving Adams, Wallace started for the Benner house, and as he attempted to open the door was seized by Bloodgood and charged by him with an attempt to burn the house. He was held while Bloodgood pretended to make an investigation and reported that he had found the lower clapboards of the house saturated with kerosene and an empty oil bot le on the ground.

"Bloodgood had left Adams to take care of Wallace on Friday while he went to the Sheriff's office with his story and asked for officers to arrest Wallace that night. I also found that Adams and Voullner occupied adjoining cells in State Prison and have been pals since their discharge. I am satisfied that Wallace is a victim of a clever scheme on the part of two conspirators to obtain $500 from the Underwriters."

Receiving New Support.

The Executive Committee of the Organized Aid Association are feeling much encouraged in their effort to promote co-operation in the charity work of the city. Individuals and organizations are making more and more use of its agency to find out as to the worthiness of people who appeal for aid. At the last executive meeting ten churches, circles of the King's Daughters, and other organizations were reported as having agreed to make an annual contribution to the support of the Association.

Saw Just in the Nick of Time.

A man name Bellis was walking through Park avenue last evening when a stranger attempted to relieve him of his watch. Bellis happened to see the incident just in time to save his time-piece and the would-be thief escaped in the dark before he could be captured. The matter was reported to Chief Grant who is now on the lookout for the men.

MYSTERY OF A TICKET.

FOUND IN THE DRIFTING LIFE BOAT WITH SIX PERISHED SOULS.

Evidently a Central Railroad Ticket Good From Plainfield to Netherwood or Fanwood—Was a Plainfielder Among Them?

It is just barely possible that one of the six persons who were found dead in the long life boat of the ill-fated French line steamship Ville de St. Nazaire, which foundered at sea and lost a large number of her passengers, was a Plainfielder. Those who have read the tragic details of this catastrophe of the sea will remember that on Sunday, March 14th, the schooner Hilda picked up the four survivors in the life boat and brought them to New York where they are now convalescing in a hospital. The boat with its dead occupants was allowed to drift in the sea by the officers of the Hilda. Last Sunday the life boat was sighted by the officers of the Cromwell line steamer Creole, plying between New York and New Orlears.

It was picked up on Sunday morning at 10:20 o'clock, about seventy-five miles north of Hatteras, full to the gunwales with water and containing the six bodies which were left in it when the Hilda sailed away with the survivors. The bodies were thrown overboard by the officers of the Creole, but the long boat was hauled aboard and brought to this city on the forward deck of the Creole.

A number of water-soaked articles were found in the boat and they were searched in the hope of finding a clue that might lead to the identy of the persons who perished, but there was only one thing found and that was a ticket. About half the lettering on it has been effaced by the water, but the other half can be made out quite easily. It is apparently a ticket issued by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and as much of the lettering can be made out is as follows:

of N. J.
one passage
ld, N. J. to od, N. J.
Baldwin
321

The ticket is evidently one from either Plainfield to Netherwood or Fanwood, but which it is impossible to say. A Press reporter saw Ticket Agent Nelson at the North avenue station this morning and enquired as to the possibility of determining who had bought the ticket. Mr. Nelson said that it would be impossible to tell as a portion of the number was obliterated and the last two letters of the terminal point to which the ticket was good are both indicative of Netherwood and Fanwood, and as it might be an excursion ticket it cannot be told at which station it was bought. Even if the printing had not been partially blotted out, it would probably be a fruitless effort to trace out its owner. In time, however, some information may be gained as to how the ticket came to be in the drifting boat.

REVIEWED PAST WORK.

Primary Teachers' Union Hold an Instructive Session.

The devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union yesterday afternoon were conducted by Mrs. Pierce, and the lesson was taught by Mrs. Baker. The lesson was a review of the past quarter and Mrs. Baker had prepared a very pretty exercise illustrating the principal points of interest. Through the use of the exercise she showed that the lessons all pointed to Christ. Interspersing the various parts of the lesson, the members sang primary songs.

The topic "How to interest mothers?" was a very interesting part of the programme. Mrs. Powlison related the story of a mother who had visited a Sunday-school with her child and was in this way led to attend the school herself as a scholar.

Songs of a Funny Nature.

By special request the New York University Glee Club will sing "A Grasshapper Sitting on a Potato Vine" at their concert at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Thursday evening and Chas. L. Lewis will read the libretto of the tragical tale. Thos. Russell, known formerly in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and Mr. E. W. Greacen will be the banjo duetists. The director of the Club is Frank J. Smith whose new operatic force, "I Smell Smoke," is on the programme.

Formerly of Plainfield.

Frank J. Smith, the musical director of the New York University Glee Club, was formerly a Plainfielder. Mr. Smith has arranged an amusing parody entitled "Act of an Up-to-date Grand Opera," which is said to be the hit of the evening concert. The glee club, mandolin club, and banjo club of New York University will give their grand concert at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Tickets on sale at city drug stores.

CAUSE OF DEEP REGRET.

RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING DEATH OF MISS ELIZABETH GINN.

Passed by the North Plainfield Board of Education Last Night—The Board Organized for the Ensuing Year.

The borough Board of Education met last evening and organized by electing Samuel St. John McCutchen president and George F. Brown district clerk. Resolutions regarding the death of Miss Ginn, a recent teacher in the school, were drafted and adopted. No other business was transacted. The following are the resolutions:

The Board of Education of the borough of North Plainfield have learned with deep regret of the recent illness of Miss Elizabeth R. Ginn, a valued teacher in the school, and of her sudden death on the morning of Thursday, March 12th, 1897.

Miss Ginn had been connected with the school for nearly fourteen years, and during all this period, until December last, she has had charge of the first primary grade, that important introduction to school work.

The creation in the school of a kindergarten grade in September last, made it possible to use Miss Ginn's abilities in more advanced work, and she was assigned to the fourth grade, which continued under her admirable care until her untimely death.

In her handling and training of the very young, her unfailing patience, her cheerfulness and her power to stimulate her pupils to work, made her most effective.

When we consider the many years that Miss Ginn has occupied so responsible a relation to the children of the borough, and that a majority of these children have been affected by her character and association, the value and importance of her work here will appear.

Miss Ginn's marked characteristics were faithfulness, honesty and an untiring devotion; hers has been ever a willing service well done.

Resolved, That the Board of Education of the borough of North Plainfield, desiring to record their estimate of Miss Ginn, and of the loss to the school and the community in her death, offer this poor tribute to her memory.

Millinery Opening.

The millinery opening of Edward White's takes place tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. Visitors will find this apartment a most interesting place to visit. Miss Daly has been busy during the past month planning and designing some of the prettiest of hats and she has any number of surprises for her friends and customers. She extends an invitation to all to visit the department.

LONG AND HAPPY COMPANIONSHIP OF A SCOTCH PLAINS COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob V. Coles, of Scotch Plains, Celebrated Their Golden Wedding Ten Years Ago—It was a Pleasant Reunion

Ten years ago, or to be exact, on the twenty-second day of March, the writer, with the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob V. Coles, celebrated their golden wedding at their home at Scotch Plains. Golden weddings are of rare occurrence, and happy and fortunate are those who survive to read that epoch in their married career, but when to this are added ten more years of life in comparative good health, the anniversary deserves to be especially marked.

Yesterday numerous congratulations were extended to the happy couple, and sincere wishes expressed for a long continuance of their health and happiness, in which the writer most heartily joins.

Jacob V. Coles and Christina B. Coriell were married at Rahway on March 22d, 1837, by Rev. Thomas L. Janeway. Mr. Coles is a son of the late Frazee Coles, of Scotch Plains, who died but a few years ago, at the ripe age of ninety-four, thus affording his son an example of long life which he is evidently striving to imitate, having attained the age of eighty four. Mrs. Coles has reached eighty-one.

A short time after our friends marriage they took up their residence at Scotch Plains, in the same house they now occupy, which has been their home for fifty three years.

The family in a direct line have lived at the Plains for at least 150 to 175 years.

Among the relatives present outside of the immediate family were Hezekiah Hand and his wife and son, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coles, and Louis B. Coles, their son, and family; and among the neighbors who paid their respects were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, Miss Janie B. Field, George R. Nicholl and others.

Disposed of Their Morristown Store

Woodhull & Martin, Plainfield's new dry goods firm, have disposed of their store at Morristown to Crosby & Hill, of Wilmington, Del., and the above firm will devote all their energies to their store in this city, which has already become so popular, especially with the women.

Delicate Operation.

Walter Crane, 8 years old, son of J. M. Crane, of Cranford, who had a very delicate operation performed on him at the hospital recently for an ear trouble, was discharged today cured, and he returned to his home.

—George H. Fountain, of West Front street, while strolling over the mountains yesterday, found some very valuable Indian relics to add to his costly collection.

A MASON'S PREDICAMENT

CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED ROBBERY AT HARBURGER'S HOUSE.

George Cheshire Dropped His Pocketbook in the Yard and Now Finds Himself in a Very Embarrassing Position.

In yesterday's Press there was an account of a supposed attempt to enter the residence of Mrs. J. S. Harberger, corner of West Front street and Giraud avenue. The supposed burglars, said to be four in number, were frightened away by the approach of the coachman, Patrick Sullivan, who heard strange noises while preparing to start for church.

Regarding the disappearance of the alleged burglars, there have several facts come to light. It seems that Sullivan had a short conversation with one of the trespassers. As was told, last evening, the strangers began to run as Sullivan appeared on the scene. Sullivan carried a lantern. One, at least, Sullivan cannot swear that there were any more running with him, ran down the bank toward the brook. Not being acquainted with the lay of the land, the sudden declivity proved too much for his equilibrium and the stranger turned a somersault, landing on his neck in the turf at the foot of the little hill. Somewhat stunned by the fall, he was there when Sullivan came up.

"What are you doing here?" asked the coachman.

"Walking across the yard," answered the prostrate man

"What are you trying to do?" inquired the other.

"Going to the street," replied the stranger as he stood up and started to move away. "And when I get to the street, I don't give a —— about you."

Then he disappeared in the darkness while Sullivan returned to the house thoroughly convinced that he had just held conversation with one of the dreaded burglars.

Yesterday morning, Sullivan and Edward Harding, a painter living on Spooner avenue, visited the scene of the supposed attempt and made a discovery. They found a leather pocketbook containg a $5 bill and a bill from Wm. H. Coombs, the grocer, to George Cheshire. The pocket-book and its contents were turned over to the police. Last evening, George Cheshire was arrested by Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely.

Cheshire was arraigned before Justice Nash this morning on the charge of attempted robbery. He admitted that he had been in the yard and that he had fallen down the bank and lost his pocketbook. He claimed that he had been walking down the street with a woman and had walked across the lawn of the Harberger place. When they had seen Sullivan and his lantern appearing, the woman had run around the front of the house and he had skipped out the back way. He could not produce the woman as he did not know what her name was.

There was no strong evidence against him. The officers had seen his footprints, which corresponded with the shape of his shoes, and they led close to one of the windows to the house.

Justice Nash adjourned the hearing to allow the police to investigate the story of the woman and see if they can find her. Meanwhile the young man remains locked up. He is a mason by trade, married and about twenty-eight years of age. The woman was colored.

The colored woman, who was with Cheshire, appeared in court this afternoon and Justice Nash discharged Cheshire.

DR STEARNS' LAST MEETING.

Largely Attended Before His Departure to Japan For His Health.

The popularity of Rev. Dr. Stearns, who has been expounding the Sunday school lesson before his class at the Y. M. C. A. hall every other Monday evening, was very forcibly evidenced last night, when nearly four hundred persons gathered to hear this man of God's simple but convincing Bible-talks. He held the very closest attention of every person present from the moment he commenced, and at the close he asked Rev. Geo. C. Needham, who was present on the platform, to make the closing prayer, which he did, to the glory of God and to the spiritual help of all present. As Dr. Stearns' health demands a rest from his labors, he will sail for Japan the latter part of the month and visit the missionaries at work in that country, through the efforts of the Bible classes now being taught by him. His successor, Rev. Geo. C. Needham, will continue to teach the class every Monday evening, until Dr. Stearns' return in the fall.

—The entertainment which was to have taken place at the First M. E. church on Thursday evening of this week has been postponed until Friday evening, April 2d.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

Two New Methods of Making Them—Flowers of Bread.

Two very effective methods have recently been discovered for making artificial flowers. One is the use of baker's bread, the other is by using the inner pith of the fan palm of Japan.

"Bread" flowers are made in England only. The process is still a secret; and, as the flowers are so natural in appearance as to deceive the eyes of an expert, it is considered very valuable. For not only do these flowers look exactly like the real article when freshly made, but as the bread grows stale the flowers assume a slightly withered appearance which is almost identical with that of a flower beginning to fade. It is believed that for evening and fancy gowns as well as for house decorations these bread flowers will become very popular. They are at present excessively expensive.

The only factory for the making of artificial flowers from the pith of the Japanese fan palm is quite a small affair on East Bleecker street, New York.

The material from which they manufacture the fabric for the making of the flowers comes frim Japan. It is the pith of the ordinary fan palm.

These flowers of palm pith possess to a great degree the characteristics of the bread flowers, the outer petals showing the marks of being handled just exactly like a natural flower, though, of course, to a limited degree, since they can be worn numbers of times without ever becoming really faded in appearance.—New York Sun.

Wellington's Joke.

The great Duke of Wellington was remarkable for the coolness with which he gave his directions. Even in the heat of an engagement he has been known to give vent to a humorous observation, especially when it seemed to raise the spirits of his men.

Thus, when the British were storming Badajoz, the General rode up while the balls were falling around, and, observing an artilleryman particularly active, inquired the man's name. He answered "Taylor."

"A very good name too," remarked Wellington. "Cheer up, my men! Our Taylor will soon make a pair of breeeches in the walls!"

At this sally the men forgot the danger. A great burst of laughter broke from them and the next charge carried the fortress.—From Answers.

Perhaps.

WORK ON THE TREATY

The Senate Expects To Ratify the Peace Convention This Week.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT AMENDMENTS

All Questions Proposed for Arbitration Shall First Be Submitted to the President and Then to the Senate the Principle Change.

Washington, March 23.—The four hours' discussion of the arbitration treaty by the senate yesterday afternoon is an indication that it is the desire of the republican leaders to close the subject as soon as possible. All of the important amendments were agreed to without division. The amendments provide that all questions proposed to be submitted for arbitration shall first be approved by the president and then submmitted to the senate for its approval or disapproual; substituting "jurists of repute" in that part of the convention where it is provided that the members of the tribunal shall be members of the supreme or circuit courts of the United States, and rejecting entirely the tenth article, which designates King Oscar of Sweden and Norway as the umpire. No set speeches were made, but several short and clear statements were made by Senators Davis, Hoar, Chandler and Lodge, and remarks in opposition to the treaty as a whole by Senators Morgan and Stewart. Senator Morgan offered an amendment eliminating the Nicaraguan canal from the terms of the treaty, but this was voted down viva voce, the senate believing that this had been cared for by committee amendments. The discussion showed the senate was not altogether clear whether the terms of the treaty provided for a single court to sit in all cases that might be submitted, or whether there was to be a separate court for each case. Senator Foraker, believing there should be no doubt on this question, offered an amendment to the effect that a new court shall be appointed by and with the advice and consent of the senate for each case as it arose. This amendment caused Senator Bacon of Georgia to withdraw the amendment he offered at the last session eliminating from the treaty all questions relative to state questions growing out of securities issued during the war, that senator believing that under the amendment of Senator Foraker his amendment was not necessary. The amendment of Senator Foraker was not discussed and it went over for future action.

An Important Amendment.

The chief discussion after the committee amendments had been agreed to was based upon an amendment offered by Mr. Chilton of Texas. The first article of the treaty stipulates that the contracting parties agreed to submit to arbitration all questions in difference. Mr. Chilton's amendment alters the reading of this article very materially by inserting a modifying clause which limits the subjects for arbitration to all questions which the senate may deem fit for arbitration. This was opposed by members of the committee and by Mr. Hoar as useless and acting only as an encumbrance. There was some facetious reference to the amendment of the committee stipulating that "jurists of repute" should be designated to act as members of the court, Mr. Allen wanting to know what the words meant. They might mean jurists of either good or ill repute. In some of the states the law required that only jurists of repute should be elected to the bench, but every man who happened to get the most votes was a "jurist of repute." A yea and nay vote was taken on this amendment and it prevailed by a vote of 26 to 24. Later on when the vote was taken on the same words where they occurred in another article the vote was 25 to 19. These were the only yea and nay votes taken. When the senate adjourned Mr. Morgan had the floor on the Chilton amendment, and will speak this afternoon. Senator Davis hopes to have the final vote taken this week, and he believes the treaty will be ratified as amended by his committee.

Theosophy and Christianity.

New York, March 23.—The Rev. Martyn Summerbell, D. D., of Lewiston, Me., in an address before the Society of Comparative Religion last evening, reviewed the rise of Theosophy, its history, held it up in the light of Christianity, and demonstrated that it was not worthy of a place in comparsion with the religion of Christ. The speaker quoted from Col. Olcott, Mrs. Sinnet, Mrs. Besant and others and showed that Theosophists, each and all, are opposed to both the letter and spirit of Christianity.

Seal Fishery Season.

St. Johns, N. F., March 23.—The seal fishery season has opened splendidly. The steamers Harlaw and Iceland, which were fishing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are returning to St. Johns. The former has 15,000 seals and the latter 22,000. They report the steamer Nimrod well fished. Several schooners are also among the seals getting good fares. This is the best beginning of the fishery for twenty years.

New Industry for Westerly, R. I.

Providence, March 23.—The Caledonian Textile company, recently incorporated under New Jersey laws, has decided to locate in Westerly. The new plant will be one of about 56,000 spindles and 1,650 looms, for the manufacture of fine cotton piece goods, and will employ from 600 to 800 hands.

New York Civil Service Examination.

Albany, March 23.—An open competitive civil service examination for the position of milk expert, butter expert and cheese expert in the department of agriculture will be held in Watertown on April 3.

FILLING THE PLACES

The Important Nominations Now Before the Senate.

ANOTHER BATCH FAVORABLY ACTED ON

A Big List of Applicants for Treasury Positions---Ambassador Hay and Consul-General Osborne Preparing To Sail for Their Posts.

Washington, March 23.—Ex-representative Binger Hermann of Oregon, who was nominated yesterday by the president to be commissioner of the general land office, is a Maryland man by birth, 54 years of age, but has lived in Oregon since 1848. He is familiar with the land laws and their effect on western interests, having taken an active interest in such matters since his election to the 49th congress. He received an academic education and later studied and practised law. Other important nominations now before the senate are Joseph L. Bristow, of Kansas, to be fourth assistant postmaster-general; Ernst G. Tinne, of Wisconsin, to be auditor of the state and other departments (fifth auditor); Boyd B. Jones, of Massachusetts, to be attorney for the United States for the district of Massachusetts; James D. Elliott, of South Dakota, to be attorney of the United States for the district of South Dakota; Commodore Joseph N. Mill to be rear-admiral. The senate has confirmed the nomination of Gen. Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, to be minister to Mexico; William M. Osborne, of Massachusetts, to be consul-general at London; John K. Gowdy, of Indiana, to be consul-general at Paris, and Joseph H. Brigham, of Ohio, to be assistant secretary of agriculture.

Applicants for Treasury Positions.

The following applications for positions under the treasury department have been made public: T. E. Lasien, Washington, to be deputy auditor navy department, at Washington. E. J. Naulty, New York, to be commissioner of immigration at New York. To be collectors of customs: H. H. Hawley, Malone, N. Y., at Plattsburgh, N. Y.; A. L. Coppen, Providence, R. I., at Sitka, Alaska. H. L. Swords, New York, to be assistant appraiser of merchandise at New York. G. L. Poshley, Brooklyn, N. Y., to be appraiser of merchandise at New York. J. C. O'Connor, New York, to be naval officer at New York.

FOR THEIR NEW POSTS.

Several of the New Diplomats Preparing To Sail for Abroad.

Washington, March 23.—Ambassador Hay has arranged to leave for England by steamer from New York on April 14. Henry White, the new secretary of embassy, will sail next Saturday to take charge of the embassy, which is now in care of Second Secretary Carter. Mr. Bayard has gone to the continent on leave, and Secretary Roosevelt has resigned. Consul General Osborne will sail from Boston on the steamer Cephalonia April 17 in order to relieve Consul General Collins.

Gowdy Will Work for Hoosiers.

New York, March 23.—John K. Gowdy, who was chairman of the republican state committee in Indiana during the last campaign, and has just been named as United States consul general at Paris, is at the Hoffman house, and will remain here for two or three days. Then he will return to Indiana and close up some business affairs before sailing for Europe. He said to-day that there were several worthy applicants for office from his state, and that he would do what he could for them before sailing. Mr. Gowdy also said that he was well pleased with the way congress was dealing with the tariff, adding: "The proposed law is just what we need, and the sooner we get it the better."

Estimated Revenue.

Washington, March 23.—The ways and means committee has made public a detailed statement showing the estimated revenue under the new measure for each schedule, with the average ad valorem rates under the McKinley law, the present law and the pending bill. Dutiable value of merchandize for the years 1893, $400,069,658; for 1896, $390,696,561; estimated by proposed law $479,540,406. Revenues collected in 1893, $198,373,452; in 1896, $156,104,598; estimated by proposed law, $273,501,721.

Senate and the Ruiz Case.

Washington, March 23.—Without comment or opposition, a resolution offered by Mr. Allen was agreed to in the senate requesting the president to send to the senate the correspondence between the United States and Spain and also between the state department and Consul-General Lee at Havana relative to the death of Dr. Ruiz in jail at Guanabacoa, Cuba. The resolution further requests information as to what steps have been taken towards inquiry and reparation.

Tariff Debate in the House.

Washington, March 23.—The debate on the tariff bill is being continued today. Although the attendance in the gallery yesterday was slim, this morning shows a largely increased number of spectators, attracted by the expectation, in which they are being disappointed, of witnessing a repetition of the numerous passages-at-arms which characterized yesterday's debate.

Iasigi Case Decision Next Monday.

Washington, March 23.—The decision on the appeal of ex-Turkish Consul-General Iasigi at Boston from the decision of Judge McComb refusing to discharge him from arrest, argued yesterday in the supreme court of the United States, will probably be announced next Monday.

I was unable to attend to business, was confined to my room and frequently lay in a comatose state for hours. I was so feeble, and so little encouragement was offered, that I began to wonder

Where I Would be Buried.

Finally, as a last effort to help myself, I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The effects of a few doses of the medicine seemed almost magical. The depressed feeling left me, and when one bottle had been taken, I had regained an appetite, and strength was coming back. After finishing the third bottle I was able to go about my commercial duties. I continued to improve, and to satisfy my mind that I had fully regained health, I submitted myself to a doctor for examination. He pronounced me 'sound as a dollar.' Three months later, I passed a rigid examination for insurance. I have since been in the best of health, notwithstanding my travels, and I give

All the Credit to Hood's

Sarsaparilla, as each season since I have taken several bottles. It keeps my blood in good circulation, gives me a keen appetite and leaves no room for that tired feeling which naturally finds easy prey among those of my calling in the summer months after an early spring hustle. I consider Hood's Sarsaparilla the means of saving my life, and I gladly speak in its favor." A. J. LEITCH, home address, Cass House, Saginaw, Michigan.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits."

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug stor .

Miss Maude VanDyke, of East Front street, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday yesterday. In the evening she entertained a few friends.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited or any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

CHEERED THE POPE.

American Sailors Receive the Pontiff's Benediction with Enthusiasm.

Rome, March 23.—Detachments of sailors from the crews of the United States cruisers San Francisco and Cincinnati, of the European squadron after being present at the celebration of mass at the vatican yesterday were presented to the pope by Mgr. O'Connel, rector of the American college. The men defiled and kissed the hand of his holiness as they passed before him. The pope then addressed the officers and sailors, saying: "I have celebrated mass for the people of America and have prayed for their prosperity and for the prosperity of the American marine." Continuing, his holiness charged the officers and sailors to bear his benediction of sympathies to the people of the United States. The sailors expressed their appreciation of the pope's remarks with enthusiastic "hurrahs."

POPULIST REQUEST DENIED.

Speaker Reed Refuses To Recognize Them as a Separate Organization.

Washington, March 23.—Speaker Reed is not disposed to regard the populists in the house as a separate organization. About ten days ago the populist representatives presented a petition to Speaker Reed, reciting the fact that at the last election they had cast about 2,000,000 votes; elected governors in five states; elected twenty-seven members of the present house and requesting, therefore, that they have representation on the committees on ways and means, judiciary, appropriations, banking, coinage, elections and others. Mr. Reed has just replied that he preferred to recognize the populists as a part of the democratic organization, and that decision will stand for this congress at least.

Famous Rice Will Contest.

Houston, Tex., March 23.—The famous Rice will contest case is at last being heard. William M. Rice, an aged millionaire, who spends a part of his time here and a part in New York city, is endeavoring to have declared void the will left by his wife, who died at Waukesha, Wis., last July. The will bequeathed over $1,000,000 to various persons and to charities. The chief allegation of the contestant is that the testatrix was insane when the will was made.

Influenza Among English Aristocrats.

London, March 23.—Lord Salisbury, who has been suffering from influenza for the past few days, has almost entirely recovered. There appears to be an epidemic of influenza among the aristocracy, the Earl and Countess of Dudley, Lord Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, and Lord Halsbury, lord high chancellor, having been afflicted with the malady within the last week. All of them, however, are now convalescent.

Steamship Editor Wrecked.

London, March 23.—The British steamship Editor, from Pernambuco, February 28, for Liverpool, has been totally wrecked off South Stack light, near Holyhead. All of her crew were saved. The Editor was a screw steamship, built of steel, with five compartments, of 1,039 tons net and 1,618 gross. She was built at Stockton in 1885, was 250 feet long, 39.9 feet beam and 15.1 feet depth of hold. She was owned by the Charente Steamship company of Liverpool.

New York's Annual Supply Bill.

Albany, March 23.—Chairman Nixon of the assembly ways and means committee last night introduced the annual supply bill. It carries supplemental and regular appropriations for the various state institutions and departments aggregating $1,453,107, a reduction of $55,033 from last year. Last year's tax rate was was 2.69 mills. The majority leaders expect to cut the tax rate this year to about 2.25 mills.

Children on the Stage.

Albany, March 23.—The bill amending the penal code so as to permit children under 16 years of age to appear upon the stage for public entertainment, and compelling officers charged with carrying out the present law to prove violations of the statute before the arrest is made, has been advanced to a third reading in the assembly.

Diseases in Cuba.

Washington, March 23.—Surgeon-General Wyman has received the following news from the sanitary inspector at Havana: During the two weeks ended March 11 there were 10 deaths from yellow fever, 800 new cases of smallpox and 83 deaths. At Santa de la Grande there were 11 cases and 3 deaths from yellow fever.

$12,000 for Personal Injuries.

Boston, March 23.—A verdict of $12,000 for the plaintiff has been rendered in the case of James W. Hessian, who sued Crocker, Burbank & Co., proprietors of the Hanna mills at Fitchburg, for personal injuries received by a fall from an imperfect bridge.

Hugh McGlone Lived 102 Years.

Brockton, Mass., March 23.—Hugh McGlone, said to be oldest person in this section is dead at the home of his son, Patrick McGlone, of old age. He was born in Ireland, and, as near as can be ascertained, was in his 102d year.

Cardinal Gibbons Called on the President.

Washington, March 23.—Cardinal Gibbons called on Postmaster-General Gary yesterday. In the afternoon the cardinal and the postmaster-general drove to the White House, where the prelate was presented to the president.

Dervish Chief Suing for Peace.

Cairo, March 23.—It is reported here that Khalifa Abdullah, leader of the Dervish horses in the Soudan, is suing for peace.

SITUATION CRITICAL

Besieged Turks at Malaxa Short of Provisions.

GUNBOATS FIRE ON THE INSURGENTS

Canea in Great Danger of Being Virtually Blockaded Landward---Reported Agreement Between Russia and Turkey.

Canea, March 23.—The outlook in this city and vicinity is not very reassuring. The situation of the Turkish garrison in the fort at Malaxa is very critical. The place is besieged by insurgents, and the Turkish troops have not enough provisions to last them more than two days. Attempts have been made to revictual the forts, but the insurgents have rendered the efforts useless. If the insurgents capture the forts at Malaxa and Keratide, which it now appears highly probable they will do, Canea will be virtually blockaded landward. Malaxa is within the limits of the Turkish cordon drawn by the admirals of the foreign fleets, but this fact does not prevent the operations of the insurgents within the lines, they refusing to acknowledge the authority of the admirals to establish such a cordon. A body of Turkish troops who were trying to convey provisions to the fort at Malaxa were held in check throughout the day by the Christians.

Gunboats Fire on the Insurgents.

The troops, finding that they could not reach the fort, signalled to the gunboats in Suda bay requesting aid. The gunboats opened fire upon the insurgents, but could not drive them from the positions they occupied, which effectually commanded the approaches to the fort.

London, March 23.—In the house of commons last night the Right Hon. George N. Curzon, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, stated that Sir Alfred Biliotti, the British consul at Canea, had reported to the government the text of an interview had on Friday last by the admirals of the warships in Cretan waters with the chiefs of the insurgents. The chiefs did not approve of the scheme of the powers to grant autonomy to the island, and declared that nothing but annexation to Greece would satisfy them.

Russo-Turkish Agreement Reported.

Copenhagen, March 23.—The Berlinoske Tidende asserts that an agreement has been entered into between Russia and Turkey by which the former guarantees the integrity of the Ottoman empire in consideration of the cession by Turkey to Russia of an island in the Mediterranean and the peninsula of Mount Athos, on the Aegean sea.

To Establish a Neutral Zone.

Vienna, March 23.—The Neue Freie Presse says that England, with a view to preventing a collision between the Turks and Greeks on the Thessalian and Turkish frontier, will propose to the powers that a temporary neutral zone be established to extend a mile on either side of the border.

Uncle Sam Will Delay Action.

Washington, March 23.—The United States will take no action at present regarding the blockade of Crete. Secretary Sherman says he will simply acknowledge the receipt of the notes from the representatives in Washington of the powers which were delivered to him on Sunday.

8 KILLED, MANY INJURED.

Destructive and Fatal Cyclone Passes Through Arlington, Ga.

Arlington, Ga., March 23.—A terrible cyclone struck here yesterday. It passed through the south side of the town and totally wrecked the academy and partially demolished several other houses. At the academy a number of children were assembled for school. The building was completely demolished, and on the removal of the debris eight were found dead and fifteen injured. Five escaped with slight bruises and scratches. The dead are: Claude Roberts, aged 14; Mollie Parramore, aged 17; Albert Butler, aged 6; Alice Putnam, aged 15; Willie McMurrie, aged 10; Kenneth Boynton, aged 7; Mary Wellons, aged 8; Maud Johnson, aged 10. All the dead are terribly mutilated.

Emperor William I.'s Centenary.

Berlin, March 23.—The illumination of the city last night in honor of Emperor William I.'s centenary was indescribably brilliant. The castle was a most beautiful sight, the whole structure being outlined with dazzling light. Bonfires were blazing in the open spaces, and many searchlights were used to add to the brilliant spectacle. Almost every house and every window was illuminated.

Greenhood's Disbarment Stands.

Boston, March 23.—Final judgment by the supreme court has been rendered in the celebrated disbarment case of the bar association of the city of Boston vs. Elisha Greenhood. The respondent's disbarment decreed by Judge Braley of the superior court on June 8, 1895, is affirmed. He is no longer entitled to practice before the courts of this commonwealth.

Silver Dollars and Fractional Coin.

Washington, March 23.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and treasury offices for the week ending March 20 was $357,832. The shipment of fractional silver coin from March 1 to 20 aggregated $495,050.

British Steamer Wrecked.

MARRIAGE LICENSE FEES.

Assemblyman Lloyd's marriage-license bill, if it becomes a law, will put a neat sum in the way of fees into the pockets of the different county and city clerks throughout the state. The bill provides that a fee of $1 shall be paid for each marriage license granted. In cities the license is granted by the city clerk; outside of cities by the county clerk. Leaving out of consideration those persons who come from other states, there were married in New Jersey last year 14,328 couples. The same number under Mr. Lloyd's marriage-license law would add just that many dollars to the compensation of the city and county clerks. Most of the county clerks would not make more than $200 or $300 a year out of the law, but some of the city clerks would receive handsome sums.

LEGISLATIVE IGNORANCE.

The constitutional amendments have not advanced during the last week, and there is great curiosity as to the course of the Assembly regarding them, says the Newark Call. It is to be feared that their consideration on the House bill will be a matter of luck. The House has shown an absence of conviction, which makes its action upon any given subject mere guess work. There are men of ability in the Assembly, but they seem to lack information and to vote according to the humor of the moment, with little regard for principles. The difficulty is probably that there is no real leadership. The constitutional amendments are removed from the domain of partisanship, or of personal interest, and so are strange fields for Assembly exercise.

A BOUNTY ON BEET SUGAR.

Senator Parry has introduced a bill to encourage the manufacture of beet sugar in New Jersey. The measure contemplates the re-enactment of two laws that have lapsed, by reason of time limit. It provides for a bounty of one cent a pound on merchantable sugar made from beets in this state, and 50 cents a ton for beets grown in the state for a period of five years. It exempts all plants established for the manufacture of beet sugar from taxation for a period of ten years.

$200 FOR DEAD CHICKENS.

Justice Mosher Decides That Mr. Wright Must Pay for His Dog's Sport.

Justice Mosher gave his decision yesterday in the chicken case of Williams against Wright, and he allowed the plaintiff $200 damages. Lawyer Swackhamer represented the plaintiff.

It was a case of where the plaintiff claimed that dogs belonging to Mr. Wright, of Netherwood avenue, had killed a large number of his chickens, and he brought action for damages. The defendant at once gave notice of appeal when the decision was rendered.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

The engagement of Miss Jennie Blackford, daughter of Stelle Blackford, of New Market, and John Brokaw, also of New Market, is announced. The wedding will take place Wednesday, April 7th, at the home of the bride.

WILLOW GROVE.

The meeting at the chapel Sunday evening was led by Mrs. David Clark.

Douglass Darby is rapidly recovering from his recent serious accident and hopes to be around in a short time.

A slight change was made in the programme last Sunday afternoon, and a poem entitled "Avoid the Saloon," was recited by Master Warren Blanchard.

The Junior Christian Endeavorers met Sunday afternoon. There were thirty members present and Miss Little was in charge. Miss Sudder acted as assistant in the absence of Mrs. D. L. Darby.

In the absence of a minister last Thursday evening the people studied the Sunday-school lesson at the close of the exercises. It was decided that whenever it is impossible to secure speakers this method be adoped.

The oyster supper recently held was a financial success and the women of the chapel made about $13. The tables were very prettily decorated by the young ladies, the Misses Little, Lee, Goodman and Lambert. Miss Matilda Lambert presided at the chocolate table. Other features made the affair an enjoyable one.

A Dramatic Incident.

Marino Garibaldi, the youngest child of the great Italian patriot, a lieutenant in the Navy of Italy, is now in America. A few days since he was shown through a great establishment in New York City where many rare and precious relics are on exhibition. Among those is the dress sword of Washington. The Lieutenant studied it, in its glass case, with great interest. Observing this the custodian quietly opened the case and placed the sword unexpectedly in Garibaldi's hand. His face flushed, his eyes glistened, his hat was lifted, while sword was raised and lowered in reverent graceful salute. It was a touching scene, this young son of Italy's Liberator clasping the sword of the immortal Washington. Mr. Garibaldi is but twenty-four years of age, but is a well developed man of large stature, fine presence and promising future. He speaks several languages and has traveled much abroad. His purpose is—if not recalled because of war at home—to spend a year in travel in America.

In Honor of a Friend.

The Misses Blimm, of Somerset street, entertained a few friends at their home last evening in honor of their guest, Miss Sadie Brown, of New York. The evening was passed in dancing and enjoying a pleasant social time. Those present were Miss Sadie Brown, of New York; Miss Josie Fritz, Miss Sadie Blimm, Miss Katy Blimm, Miss Lou Crosson; Robert Clark, Edward Clark, William Kitchen, John DeMeza, William Morrison and Frank Blatz.

THEATRICAL.

"Saved from the Sea," the English melodrama which ran for more than a year at the Princess Theatre, London, will be the attraction at Music Hall Thursday night. The story of the play is founded on fact. Nancy Ellington has been saved from the sea by her husband Dan, a young fisherman. She is an heiress but does not know it, and to secure her property, her cousin, a second villain and a jealous fisherman conspire against her life. The jealous fisherman is killed by mistake and Nancy's husband is accused and condemed to death for the murder. But the gallows fail to work on three trials and Dan's defence is commuted to life imprisonment. Of course he escapes and the real murderers are eventually apprehended. "Saved from the Sea" is constructed on lines such as seem to please nearly all classes of the theatre going public. The play is given a remarkably handsome production, no less than eleven sets of special scenery being used. The company is unusually strong and the unbounded enthusiasm and success which has been attained in other cities will undoubtedly be duplicated here.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Engineer Fred Wilcox has purchased a new wheel for his son.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barker are entertaining New York friends for a few days.

Mrs. D. St. Stephenson, of California, has arrived in town as the guest of C. B. Holmes.

T. F. Pettit, of West Dunellen, is entertaining his father, T. Pettit, of Williamsport, Pa.

The regular monthly shoot of the Dunellen Gun Club will take place on the club's grounds, Saturday afternoon. The shooting will be at inanimate targets.

One hundred invitations are out for a reception and dance of the William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., in the new Town Hall on Thursday evening of this week.

All the house electric lights went out for a short time last evening at 6:30. Some little defect in the machinery at the Greenbrook power house is said to have been the cause.

A three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mahan is lying critically ill with pneumonia. Drs. Nelson and Hedges held a consultation yesterday, but no encouragement could be given the parents.

The only electric street lamp between the postoffice and a point near the street car terminus has been knocked out of gear, and in cloudy weather it is so dark at night that one cannot even see the walk they're treading on.

Midnight marauders were around Postmaster Staats house and barn, Sunday night, but nothing was disturbed. Footprints in the soft earth in the door yard showed conclusively that the unwelcome visitor or visitors wore box toed shoes about number 8 in size.

Rev. Mr. Morrison, a native of India, and at present a student at Princeton College, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church here both morning and evening on Sunday. In the evening he gave an interesting account of the customs and habits of his countrymen.

If the story be true that two well-known individuals here have been "lifting" chickens from hen roosts during the past few weeks and taking them to a colored cook in Plainfield, where they are cooked and eaten, it is time the authorities ferreted out the guilty ones and brought them to justice. The report comes from a reliable source and there is no reason to doubt that such has been the practice.

The new School Board has organized for the ensuing year by electing L. T. Titsworth, president and G Elston Lowrie, District clerk. The following have been appointed chairman of their respective committee: Teachers, A. F. Samson; text books and supplies, R. F. Bogardus; repairs, G. Elston Lowrie. The above named gentlemen also constitute the Finance Committee of the Board. The rules and by-laws governing the Board, will be submitted for approval at the next regular meeting of the Board.

Two of the young men from this place who are wanted by the Central and Lehigh Valley Railroad authorities for stealing coal, packed their grip and left for parts unknown yesterday. They were seen in town as late as 9 o'clock yesterday morning, but since then no trace of them can be found. Both are of respectable parentage, and their parents feel keenly the disgrace they are called upon to bear. Their practice was to wait until a loaded coal train stopped at the tanks and would then board the cars and shovel off a ton or so of coal. They would have a wagon waiting, and in this the coal was loaded and carried away and sold. Just how long this nefarious work has been going on is not know, but Detective Dougherty, of the Central Railroad force, is now keeping his weather eye turned toward the tanks to see that no more coal is stolen.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Perch, catfish and eels are said to be biting well in the mountain streams at present.

It is understood that by a real estate deal Billy Lee has become the sole owner of the West Side Hotel property.

Mrs. George Demarest and daughters, of North Plainfield, have been visiting Mrs. Demarest's father, Robert Walepole.

There is yet a scarcity of well water here, and many families are still obliged to get their supply of water from the town pump.

The Young Men's League now numbers eighty-six members and the membership, it is expected, will reach 100 at the next meeting.

The roads about the Plains have dried out remarkably fast, and many Plainfield and Westfield bicyclists now pass through the town daily going from one place to another.

W. S. Emory's good sized aligator was taken out in the yard for a sun bath yesterday afternoon, and many of those who attended the house sale spent some time watching the reptile manoeuvre in his cage.

Not until yesterday could some of the "oldest inhabitants" be induced to believe that the trolly would soon reach them. But yesterday a force of surveyors were set to work staking out the proposed route for the trolly extension.

A strange thing happened yesterday morning when Thomas Paff threw a lot of wheat into a small enclosure to feed a good-sized rooster. Almost instantly a dozen or more English sparrows pounced down upon the fowl, and drove the latter away from its feed.

The auction sale of horses at Emery's hotel stables yesterday afternoon was largely attended, and on some of the horses the bidding was spirited. John M. C. Marsh, of Westfield, was the auctioneer and the dozen or more horses sold for prices ranging from $20 to $102. Several of the horses offered for sale could find no bidders, so they were returned to their stalls.

The pstoffice is likely to be removed soon again, it is said, for the agreement between the postal authorities and the Baptist church, which owns the building wherein is now located the postoffice, expires on April 1st. The office at present is large enough to meet the public demand, but in the summer time when there are so many summer boarders at the Plains and on the mountain, who are obliged to come here for their mail matter, the waiting accommodations must at least be limited.

For the second time within a little while Judge Clark has been euchred out of performing marriage ceremonies. Sunday night the Judge had retired early, and at 10 o'clock his door-bell rang and a messenger summoned him to a near by hotel to perform a marriage ceremony. The Judge hurriedly dressed and with his book of forms hastened to the place to find the prospective bride and groom in waiting. But the ceremony was not performed, for the young woman had come to her better senses and refused to be married privately and without her parents knowledge and consent. The Judge says that he is getting tired of this kind of business, and hereafter persons matrimonially inclined he will "splice" at his office only.

The Board of Education will meet this evening to reorganize.

Mrs. John Dorman is entertaining her sister from New York.

Miss Daisy Koester is once more able to be about after a brief illness.

Miss Florence's dancing class was held this afternoon in the club-house.

C. O. Poor visited his parents at Portchester, N. Y., Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Seibenmorgen, of Elm street, has returned from a visit to relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, of Brooklyn, have taken up their residence here for the summer.

Harold Francis, who was seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia, is able to be out again.

Mrs. MacQuoid and daughter, Miss Minnie, visited Mr. Hook, of New York, yesterday.

The Westfield Athletic Club gives its annual "smoker" tonight. Rumor says that it will be a good one.

The Baird estate, which was to be sold at public auction tomorrow afternoon will be postponed until the following Wednesday.

The Westfield Chess Club met last evening at the residence of Dr. A. S. Green, on the boulevard. Mr. Stephen Massett, recently returned from Missouri, was admitted to membership.

The estate of Charles Clark, located at the corner of Broad street and North avenue, was to have been sold at public auction yesterday afternoon, but it was postponed until Monday next.

It is said that Mrs. James A. Hunter, who through her attorney, Craig A. Marsh, sued for $10,000, is almost totally blind as a result of the alleged accident caused by Collucci driving into her vehicle last September and throwing her out in the road. It is also said that Mrs. Hunter contemplates bringing suit to recover damages for injuries to her wagon.

Carmino Collucci, the Westfield liquor dealer, convicted before City Judge DeMeza, of Plainfield, is now out of reach of Chief Grant, Judge DeMeza and his bondsmen, the Rising Sun Brewing Company, of Elizabeth. Collucci was afraid to appear for sentence because he anticipated a heavy one. Collucci was served with papers in the Hunter's damage case, for $10,000 for personal injuries. This proved too much for the Italian so he went to New York, engaged passage for Italy and Monday he and his wife sailed for their native land. Before going he transferred all his property to his son-in-law. He is now a free man, out on the boundless ocean and he no longer fears the Plainfield police.

Fred. C. Brunner, Wellington C. Wittke, W. H. Winter, and Geo. Peek, jr., went to Elizabeth last evening to attend a meeting of Union district of the National Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers. The following schedule of races was adopted; May 8, from Newark, Del., 100 miles; May 15, from Washington, D. C., 200 miles; May 22, from Charlottsville, Va., 300 miles; June 5, Rockymount, Va., 400 miles; June 15, from Newton, N. C., 509 miles; July 3, from Bilton, S. C., 600 miles. For young birds, this spring's hatch: Sept 2, from Newark, Del., 100 miles; September 9, from Magnolia, Md., 150 miles; September 15, from Washington, D. C., 200 miles. The Westfield boys are enthusiastic over the outlook and are looking forward to taking a few of the races. They are trying to make a match with some of the Plainfield fanciers.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

AN AMERICAN GIRL WHO IS DOING THE CLASSICAL IN MUSIC.

Spiritisime, Sardou's New Play, is Like His Other Pieces—The Plot is Old and Threadbare from Frequent Use.—Spiritualistic Situations.

It is no longer a disputed fact that American composers are coming rapidly to the front, not only men, but women as well. Miss Marie Von Hammer, though yet only a young woman in her twenties, has achieved as great a success with her musical compositions as many of her older and more experienced contemporaries.

An American girl, she always preserved the patriotic spirit, received her musical instruction in America, and now aspires to take her place in the foremost ranks of conscientious and painstaking American composers. It was only a few years ago, after the completion of thorough musical training and travel in musical centres of Europe, that she discovered she possessed the marked talents of a musical composer, and thenceforth devoted all her time to this art. She has composed music of the higher class, that of the classical schools, as nothing light or sensationally popular has ever come from her pen, and to-day the musicians of New York, among whom is the great conductor, Anton Seidl, pronounce her work as that of a genius whose efforts will live.

MARIE VON HAMMER.

Spiritisime is the name of the latest job from the Sardou workshop, for which a great deal has been promised in the line of novelty. Reading the story, however, one fails to find much departure from the general lines followed in Fedora, La Tosca, Gismonda, and the others. The inevitable Sardou woman, her soul seared with passion, and her heart torn by contending emotions, is the central figure of all of them. Sometimes she is Russian, sometimes of other nationality. In Spiritisme she is French, rich, beautiful, and with unlimited capacity for wild passion. Her name is "Simone." She is the wife of an old man whose life is devoted to occult philosophy and investigation of the unknown. The first act contains a good deal of commonplace spiritualistic lore. It is observed, however, that "Simone" is intriguing with a lover, "Manuel" by name, whose intentions are to compromise "Simone" so that she may be divorced and compelled to marry him, in which case he will assume command over her fortune. The opportunity presents itself. "Simone" is about to spend a few days with a countess of her acquaintance. "Manuel" accompanies the pair to the station, covers "Simone's" face with a thick veil and takes her with him to his own apartments, while the Countess awaits her. "Simone" holds back, but the prosing of a pure-minded friend so irritates her that she decides to go.

The next act shows the apartments of "Manuel." "Manuel" bids "Simone" fly with him, and so the dialogue goes on until suddenly the news of an accident at the station is brought in. Footsteps are on the stairs, and "Simone" escapes just in time to avoid meeting her husband. He is scarred and burned with long searchings in the debris of the wrecked train in which "Simone" is supposed to have departed.

After a little discussion the husband departs, only to learn that the body of his wife has been identified by means of her jewels, but is otherwise unrecognizable. The situation is ingenious. "Simone" comes out from her hiding place at the bidding of the pure-minded friend, and discovers that she is, to all intents and purposes, dead. Now she is free to fly with her lover, but curiously enough "Manuel's" passion has cooled, now that she is no longer the wealthy "Simone." She, however, has by this time recognized the value of her husband's love and the baseness of the man who would betray her. She can not bring herself to go back to her home, nor can she fly with the unwilling "Manuel;" accordingly she solved the difficulty by going away by herself.

In the last act the powers of spiritualism are once more called into play in order to bring the husband and wife together. By the kind offices of the incorrigible ami des femmes a plan is arranged by which she may explain her absence from the fire and get his forgiveness. The spiritualistic husband is induced to believe that his wife is to be manifested to him at his special request; the shades of the departed are invoked and "Simone" appears. She confesses everything to the poor man, who, thinking that he is in the presence of the departed, can not withhold his pardon; nor when the spirit becomes flesh in his arms has he the hardihood to cast her away, so that the end is peace. ALCOHOL'S ABUSE.

DR. E. C. PELLEW EXPLAINS HOW IT IS BOTH FOOD AND POISON.

Used to Excess it is Worse Than Opium and Vitiates Character and Intellect—Inebriety in Women Harder to Treat Than in Men—The Gold Cure.

C. E. Pellew of Columbia University gave the last of his series of lectures on "Alcohol and Alcoholic Beverages" in the New York State Museum of Natural History recently. He discussed the "General and Special Properties of Alcohol" before a large audience, which followed him closely. He first talked about the theory that alcohol is a food, and admitted that it is such when taken in quantities below a certain limit, beyond which it becomes a poison. What this limit is he described later. Usually, he said, from one to two ounces can be consumed by any person in a day.

"When in such quantities, alcohol is entirely consumed in the stomach, and is a food," he declared.

In regard to its effect on the gastric juice in aiding digestion, he said:

"According to Chittenden's experiments, alcohol has no effect on the fluid when taken in such quantities as to comprise 2 per cent. or less of it. From 2 per cent. to 10 per cent., it is usually helpful in the digestive process. Above this it is only harmful.

The notion that alcohol produces warmth, he declared, is utterly wrong. "This was discovered first in Arctic explorations. For fifty years the explorers have left the ingredient behind entirely, and have also left behind those addicted to its use. It drives the blood to the surface, and while it thus diffuses warmth through the skin and makes one comfortable for a short time, the blood has left the vitals, and pretty soon the temperature of the body is 2 degrees below the normal.

"If you wish to endure the cold," he said, "take something to keep the blood inside. Food will do this. So will coffee. But if you have got wet and come in cold and fearful of pneumonia, take some whisky, which will drive the sluggish blood about in your body, and then take food and go to bed and you'll be benefitted. But notice, take your whisky after exposure, not before it."

He placed great stress upon the fact that alcohol becomes a poison very quickly.

"It is the most destructive of all poisons," he decl. ed. "It destroys one's life, intellect, character, and the happiness of others. Coffee and tobacco destroy only those who use them. Alcohol emphasizes man's weaknesses. If he has a taint of the brutal in him, his brutal disposition is aggravated by its use. If he has passions of any kind, they are aroused by its overuse

"Opium isn't as bad as rum for this reason. The Chinaman got it right when he said: 'If me dlink lum, me go home and kick; if me eat opium, me go home and wife kick me.' Men know there are certain things they are unable to do, ' if they drink enough rum they will attempt to accomplish them, and thus will make fools of themselves, even if they don't go further and become beasts."

The alcoholic habit, or inebriety, which becomes a disease, Dr. Pellew said, is much less prevalent among the upper classes than the lower, because their superior intelligence and various business and social relations act as a restraint. "It won't do now for a man to get drunk at dinner and be obliged to go to bed, as was once the case," he declared. "The business and social world would not tolerate one who did it. This fact is having its effect on laborers. To hold their positions they must be strictly sober, and the more responsible the position the severer is this rule, while the firms that will not tolerate an employe's indulging even in the social glass are becoming more and more numerous. This is working a great revolution."

The first requisite for curing the disease of inebriety, he said, was to strengthen the will, and he paid his respects to the Keeley cure.

"It's called the 'gold cure,'" he exclaimed, "but there's nothing gold about it. Its success is due to the fact that two newspaper men took it and then printed in their newspapers that it had at last been discovered that drunkenness was a disease and Mr. Keeley had had sense enough to find it out. This flattered men, and they flocked to Mr. Keeley.

"His method is this: He administers solutions of strychnine and two or three other drugs that brace up the nerves, and then gives his patient a bottle of whisky or brandy, and tells him to drink it, if he must. 'But don't drink it if you can help it,' he'll say.

"The patient of course drinks it. The next time the doctor sees him he gives a dose of apple morphine. This has the effect of producing the most frightful seasickness when one drinks rum. So that after the dose of apple morphine, if one takes a drink of whisky, he'll never want to take another. That's the Keeley cure, which, by the combination of drugs and enthusiasm works a temporary cure. But it is terribly exhausting to one's system, and if a patient backslides and takes the cure a second time his constitution is likely to be so shattered that it may kill him.

The true treatment is to build up the patient's nerves and system by slow and hygienic methods, such as physical and mental exercise, with a judicious use of drugs. But it should be remembered that when a man once has acquired the habit, no matter for how long he may leave it off, it is likely to return again with one glass of whisky."

THE INDIAN WAY OF DRIVING.

And the Strange Uses to Which They Put the Gifts Sent Them by Government.

Commenting on the attempt made by the Government in 1867 to civilize the prairie Indians by supplying them with the garb and food of the white man, Colonel Bob Dodge, of Dodge City, says: "The authorities sent the Indians thousands of sacks of flour; pantaloons in abundance, and a big lot of stiff-rimmed hats bound around the edge with tin or German silver to hold the rim in shape. They also sent them a few light-running ambulances. The savages, to show their appreciation of these magnanimous gifts from the 'Great Father,' threw the flour on the prairie in order to get the sacks for breech clouts. They cut out the seats of the pantaloons, and they cut the crowns off the hats and used them as playthings, shying them in the air, like a white boy does a flat stone, to see them sail away.

"The ambulances they were proud of. The Government neglected to send any harness with them, so the Indians manufactured their own. They did not understand anything about lines, and, instead, they drove with a quirt, or short whip; when the near horse would go too much 'gee,' they whipped up the off horse, and when he would go to much 'haw', they pounded away at the near horse again, and so vice versa all the time. This unique manner of driving kept the poor animals in a dread run most of the time. I remember taking a ride with Little Raven, chief of the Arapahoes. At first we started off gently, but his ponies did not go straight, so he kept tapping them, now the off horse, then the near, until finally he got them on a rapid gallop, and I thought at one time my head would surely pop up through the roof of the ambulance. The country was very level, fortunately, or I don't know what would have been the outcome."—Kansas City Journal.

How it Came to Pass.

"Old Shilark says he is the man who started you on the road to fortune."

"The old villain tells the truth. All I had when I was a young man was a fifty-acre farm, and he cheated me out of that. Then I had to come to town to get something to do, and got into business and got rich."—Indianapolis Journal.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry orders will receive your work.

"ALL WORKED OUT."

Dr. Greene's Nervura the Regenerator of Strength, Energy and Vigor.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Restores the Snap, Vim, Energy and Strength You Have Lost. Take it Now, for You Need this Grandest of Spring Medicines.

In the death of great and gifted men and women, who have filled the public mind and who are held in tender and tearful remembrances, how many have gone because they were "worked out?" It is a lengthy and a sad list. We can easily recall many whom we have personally known, who have seemed to wear their precious lives out all too soon because their deaths were premature. The world feels their loss keenly for its sudden ending.

They were not worked out; they were tired out, exhausted. They stopped because they could go to no greater physical lengths. Why? Their vitality was weakened and lost. Long years ago, Dr. Greene, studying this deep problem, discovered its prime cause and at once set about its correction. He found the seat of health to be strength and vigor of nerve and pure blood, and determined to discover a remedy that would re-energize the nerves and purify and enrich the blood when both become weakened, and to prevent, if taken in time, such relapse of physical force. He succeeded to such an extent that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has gained a world-wide reputation through its wonderful cures and the benefits it has conferred on the thousands who have used it. In his study of this subject he has also become the leading authority on blood and nervous ailments, and so is sought as physician by people everywhere. He charges no fee for his opinion, and can consequently be consulted, free of charge, by letter or in person.

There being nothing to pay for consultation, examination or advice, the low price of his wonderful curative medicines places a sure cure in reach of everybody. Write him if you cannot call.

If you are "worked out," if weak, nervous, run down or you feel "out of sorts," or if you want to avoid the ills, weakness and exhaustion so sure to come at this season of the year, don't delay. Get this grand restorer of health and strength, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at once, and it will make you well. It is the true spring medicine, the best spring tonic, and restorative for blood and nerves you can possibly take.

Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Small, sugar coated, easy to take, certain and pleasant to act. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. There is nothing to pay for consultation, examination or advice, and the low price of his wonderful curative medicines places a sure cure within reach of all.

MYSTERY IN THEIR FATE.

What Caused the Death of Those in the St Nazaire Boat Picked Up by the Creole?

New York, March 23.—There is a mystery in the circumstances surrounding the death of those who embarked from the Ville de St. Nazaire in the boat picked up and brought to this port yesterday by the Creole and from which six bodies, one that of a woman, slid into the sea and sank as the boat was being hoisted to the Creole's deck. The mystery, moreover, will never be solved. It is not even known how many originally entered the frail little craft. There was food and drink in the boat sufficient to sustain life for a week, and yet not one of the occupants was left to tell the tale. In the boat was also found a woman's slipper, a child's sock, some clothing and a nursing bottle. There were no sails or oars in the boat, but the steel oarlocks were there. Capt. Gager of the Creole says that as death claimed these victims in that open boat their heads had gradually sought their breasts and the oars had slipped away from the hands that had lost the strength to hold them. Capt. Gager thinks that the occupants of the boat were drowned by waves washing over them. The temperature of the water taken a few hours before the boat was sighted was 48 degrees, not cold enough to freeze a person to death.

Wanamaker Urged for State Treasurer.

Philadelphia, March 23.—The Philadelphia branch of the National Republican League of Business Men has requested ex-Postmaster-General Wanamaker to become a candidate for state treasurer before the next republican state convention. A committee from the league called upon Mr. Wanamaker and urged him to become a candidate for the nomination. He gave the committee no definite answer, but promised to give the matter careful consideration.

Death of Commodore Holmes.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 23.—Commodore Roswell William Holmes, owner and proprietor of the Temperance hotel, who died here yesterday afternoon, after a brief illness, was born in Philadelphia, Nov. 22, [illegible] and was the son of banker Roswell Holmes. In his early years he cruised in the Mediterranean sea for the benefit of his health. At different times he was engaged in business in Camden, N. J.; Reading, Pa., and Newark, N. J.

Want Him To Support His Daughters.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 23.—A petition has been presented to the superior court asking that John Peck Wheeler of Stratford be compelled to provide for the support of his daughters, Jennie and Sadie, 18 and 20 years old respectively. Wheeler is worth about $100,000, but his second wife and his daughters cannot agree. He sided with the stepmother and a short time ago required the children to leave the house.

New Captain-General for Philippines.

London, March 23.—A dispatch from Madrid to the Central News says that Gen. Primo de Rivera, captain-general of Madrid, has been appointed to succeed Gen. Polavieja, captain-general of the Philippine islands, who is to be invalided home. Gen. Polavieja is disgusted with the lack of support furnished him by the government in his attempts to crush the rebellion in the islands.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Views of the Minority of the Ways and Means Committee.

THEY COMPLAIN OF UNDUE HASTE

Oppose Duties Levied for More Protection and To Aid a Favored Class, and Declare They Were Not Given the Time To Prepare a Substitute.

Washington, March 23.—The views of the minority of the committee on ways and means upon the tariff bill as presented to the house by Representative Bailey, dem., Tex., the leader of the democracy, reads in substance as follows: "This bill was framed with the avowed purpose of protecting the manufacturers of the United States against foreign competition, and it is perfectly obvious that if it accomplishes that purpose it must result in compelling the consumers of this country to pay more for their manufactured goods, and for this reason we think it should not pass. We rest our opposition on the broad principle that congress was invested with the power of taxation, as a means of collecting from each citizen his fair proportion toward the support of the government, and that it is a gross perversion of the sovereign power to employ it as a means of enabling favored classes to levy unjust charges upon the great body of the people. We believe that after contributing his proper share toward the maintenance of the government every citizen of this republic is entitled to the full possession and enjoyment of all he can honestly earn; and we deny the right of congress to make or enforce any regulation which requires one man to give any part of his honest earnings toward encouraging the enterprise or increasing the fortune of another.

The Bounty System.

"No man, however blind he may be, would defend a system of taxation under which the government first collected the money and afterwards distributed it among its favorites. It is true that the tariff act of 1890 ventured to this extent in dealing with the sugar growers, but the disapproval of that policy was so overwhelming and so bitter that the advocates of protection have been forced to abandon it, and they have not dared to incorporate any provision for a direct bounty in the present bill. We are unable, however, to perceive any difference in principle between a law which requires the government to collect the money and distribute it among the protected industries and a law which enables these industries to collect the money directly from the people.

Injustice of Protective Tariff.

"The patriotic resolve of our forefathers not to use goods upon which Great Britain had laid an import duty was wrong if the argument for protection is right, because, according to that argument, the British importers were really paying the tax over which the American colonists went to war. There cannot be found in the wide range of economic literature an authority, with the few and rare exceptions which only serve to emphasize the general concurrence, who does not treat taxation, direct or indirect, as a burden; and when we remember that a protective tariff not only collects more for the government than is needed for its economical administration, but that it also enables favored classes to collect more than the government itself, the injustice becomes so clear and so enormous that it would be a reflection upon the intelligence of the American people to suppose that it can escape their swift and decisive condemnation.

Danger of an Overflowing Treasury.

"An overflowing treasury is a constant temptation to enter upon expenditures that corrupt both the public mind and the public's servants. Under a system of high taxes there must be a surplus or there must be waste, and both are serious evils. President Jackson hardly overstated the danger of a surplus when he declared that it was more dangerous than a standing army; and yet, dangerous as a surplus is, it is not so dangerous as the extravagance which is always resorted to in order to prevent its accumulation.

Competition the Life of Trade.

"It is an old adage, and it is as true as it is old, that 'Competition is the life of trade,' and whatever tends to restrict competition must tend to restrict trade. The majority of the committee seem to think it an easy matter for us to build a tariff wall about our borders and thus prevent the foreigners from trading with us, but they forget that the same wall which shuts the foreigner out shuts us in, and that regulations to prevent the foreigner from trading with us must at the same time prevent us from trading with the foreigner. We believe in the principles of competition, and we believe that the people of the United States can successfully compete against all other people in the world.

No Time To Prepare a Substitute.

"We are unable offer a substitute for the pending bill, because we have not been allowed a reasonable time to prepare one. We are unwilling to propose a measure that has not been carefully matured, and we must, therefore, content ourselves with protesting against the passage of the committee's bill."

Ridenour's Removal Sustained.

Albany, March 23.—Superintendent of public instruction Charles R. Skinner has dismissed the appeal of William B. Ridenour, formerly principal of public school No. 43 of Brooklyn, from the action of the board of education of that city in removing him from his position for kissing teachers in the school under his charge, and other misconduct.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Elizabeth Athletic Club owes the team from the business men's class of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. a return game, but they do not appear anxious to play it. The Elizabeth boys are almost invincible in their own gymnasium, which is arranged in a peculiar manner that visiting clubs find very hard to become accustomed to, but when the Elizabeth players go to other gymnasiums they find it much harder to hold their own. While there is no doubt but that they have a strong basket ball team from that club, the Plainfield players are willing to meet them and believe that the visitors will have to work to secure the victory if they get it at all.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

There will be a lively bowling match in the Y. M. C. A. alleys next week. A team of the best bowlers of the association will meet another team of five bowlers captained by John H. Doane. The latter will be composed of a number of his friends who are expert bowlers and not necessarily members of the association.

CYCLE CATERERS

Although the cycle season has hardly opened as yet, one of the busiest stores in this city is the one conducted by the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company on North avenue, and it is surprising to see and know how many people have the bicycle fever. In order to meet the demands for wheels this season the above company has purchased the finest line of wheels that has ever been offered to the people of this city, who can be suited in every way possible. They have all the various makes of saddles, handle bars, gears, tires and colors. A very efficient corps of clerks are employed, who are willing and anxious to show you the goods and different kinds of wheels in stock. This company have wheels to sell such as you can buy in department store if you desire that kind. They have everything in their line that you could wish for, including cycle and golf suits, hose, shoes, caps, sweaters, and all kinds of bicycle sundries at prices to meet everyones pocketbook. With their storing department they have accommodations for one hundred and fifty wheels, which also makes this the finest in the city. The repair department is also one of the most complete in the state.

MECCA OF MILLINERY FANCIES.

Elaborate and Stylish Display at Boehm's Millinery Opening.

The art of tastefully and stylishly trimming headwear for the fair sex is exemplified in its best form at the millinery opening of Boehm's, which was started today and will continue tomorrow and next day under the direction of Miss Carrie Keuhn, the head milliner of the establishment. The front display windows are filled with an elaborate exhibition of the latest creations that are dear to the woman's heart and many are the admiring words spoken by those who are attracted by the beauty of the display.

The window is backgrounded with lace curtains, while a double arch trimmed with violets and smilax lend an air of springtide and freshness. Suspended from the circles of the arch are baskets of flowers and scattered about are several handsomely designed hats, all indicative of the last days of lent and the approach of sunny weather. In the millinery department proper is a host of novelties and all other things pertaining to the trade. Miss Keuhn and her assistant, Miss Kennedy, are always happy to show their stock and handiwork to those who wish to see.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

FIFTY YEARS A PLAINFIELDER.

A life, full of kindliness and good works, came to a quiet end yesterday, when Mrs. Sarah A. Oliver, one of the oldest residents of this city, passed away at her home at 145 East Sixth street. She was in her eighty-eighth year.

Mrs. Oliver was born near Brooklyn on August 14th, 1809. She was married to James Oliver in Brooklyn and moved to New Jersey about fifty years ago, when they purchased a house in North Plainfield. They afterwards purchased the property on East Sixth street and built a house on it. There Mrs. Oliver has lived since the death of her husband, thirty-seven years ago.

Mr. Oliver was one of the founders of Grace P. E. church and he worked with the congregation of that church in its earliest days and did much to place it on a firm foundation. Mrs. Oliver was a member of the First Presbyterian church and has been a regular attendant at the services there as long as her health permitted. She leaves a niece, Mrs. Sarah A. Hunt, who was with her at the last.

—A short meeting of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, was held last evening. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

—A delegation of members from Lucetta Council, Daughters of Liberty, will go to Millburn this evening in a stage to visit a sister council.

—VanEps, the jeweler, has removed from his present store to the place formerly occupied by Thorn, the fish dealer. Keller, of West Front street, will take the store occupied by the former.

The Case of Edith Behr.

The committee of the Board of Pardons selected to look into the petition for the release of Edith Behr, who is confined in the Union County jail. Elizabeth, charged with assault and battery, and which was to have reported on Friday last, has not yet been heard from. It is generally believed that the committee will report adversely. The father of the girl, who is out on bail convicted of a similar offence, had an interview with Gov. Griggs on Thursday. The Governor told him that he would have to wait until the result of the Board of Pardons' deliberation was known. The case is first one from Union County Court to be laid before the Board of Pardons. Prosecutor Marsh says if the board were to act in favor of the girl it would establish a precedent that would soon get beyond the control of the board.

Sanction Received.

The cycling racing season in this part of the country will open in Plainfield this year, as it has for the past two years.

The Crescent Wheelmen have just received word from the Racing Board of the L. A. W. that their request for a sanction for a meet for Decoration Day had been granted.

There were a number of other clubs from this district in the field trying for a sanction on that date and the Wheelmen feel very jubilant that they have been the favored one.

Summer Home Destroyed by Fire.

The summer home of W. Higgins, in Middlesex county, about half a mile from the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Stelton, was destroyed by fire which broke out about 9:30 o'clock Sunday night. The house was unoccupied, and the fire was doubtless of incendiary origin. Mr. Higgins and his family are now in Chicago. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Miss Yates' Lectures.

The first of two lectures will be given by Miss Elizabeth U. Yates at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow morning at 15:30. The Times-Democrat, New Orleans, pays the following comment to the above speaker: "Miss Yates spoke for an hour and a half and so fascinated her audience that everyone exclaimed at the shortness of the time and wanted more."

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

With Whales and Sharks.

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Hall William H. Crampton will relate the second part of his thrilling experiences and wonderful escapes from death. His adventures with whales and sharks are hugely interesting, and a large audience will probably be present this evening. Admission free to ladies and gentlemen.

A PEOPLE OF FEW WORDS.

"Let your speech be yea, yea, and nay, nay," says the good book, "for whosoever is more than these cometh of evil." The Shakers abide by the spirit of this rule. Their words are few, simple, sincere and direct. They waste no energy in idle talk; they use it in thinking and doing. And whatever they do they do with their might. They are content with nothing short of the essence and principle of the things they investigate. They take pains and are patient. And thus the doors of many strange truths open to them. In this way they discovered what may almost be called the unity of disease. A venerable Shaker says of it: "It is said that one man's meat is another man's poison. That is but half the truth. Any man's meat is any man's poison, under certain conditions. If the grain never got further than the hopper we should never have bread; and if bread never got further than the stomach we should never have strength. When the stomach is torpid, helpless and inflamed the food lies in it and rots. This fermentation produces poisons which may, and often do, disorder every other organ and function of the body. This is indigestion or dyspepsia, with many symptoms and disguises. Cure it and you cure nine-tenths of your complaints." These words were uttered many years ago. Since then they have found a remedy, now known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is made from medicinal plants cultivated by them. It is a food and digests other foods. Taken while eating it rests the stomach and nourishes the system. The pain and distresses of dyspepsia disappear before it. It prevents fermentation and soon restores full power to the digestion. It succeeds in the worst cases. It is worthy the name of the people whose name it bears. Any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents.

REV. C. B. MITCHELL'S NEW FIELD.

The Talented Minister Now Located in Minneapolis.

The Minneapolis (Minn.) Times has the following to say about Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church in this city:

"The Hennepin Avenue Methodist church has a permanent pastor at last. Rev. Charles B. Mitchell, of Kansas City, called to the pastorate of this Methodist church, took up his labors in this city yesterday, occupying the pulpit both morning and evening.

"Dr. Mitchell was at his best yesterday, and the first impression upon his new flock was a most favorable one. He is a very eloquent preacher, and his manner is exceedingly attractive. He is quite dramatic, almost theatrical, and moves rapidly about the platform while speaking. He is of very pleasing and prepossessing appearance, genial and affable, and his personality is winning and magnetic. He is one of the preachers who believes that a good joke at the right point is not out of place in the pulpit, and his sermons abound in witticisms and anecdotes."

Justice Newcorn's Court.

Justice Newcorn has issued another batch of summons today. Summons were issued in the cases of Sternberg against Brown, in tort, returnable on the 29th; Sternberg against McLernon, in tort, returnable on the 29th; Coddington, administrator, against Rogers, on contract, returnable on the 30th; Linke against Goff, on contract, returnable on the 30th; Boone against Whitehead, on contract, returnable on the 31st; Boone against Young, on contract, returnable on the 31st. Four cases will come up for trial tomorrow in that court.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Farewell to Their Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. VanSuhn, of Westervelt avenue, who are going to move to Asbury Park in a few days, were entertained last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tier, of Bank place. There were twelve guests present and the evening was passed in playing whist.

Two Heads that Think as One.

The most interesting personality in New York is Millie-Christine, the two-headed girl. She is wealthy, intelligent, God-fearing and devout. She never works on Sundays, and is a strict churchwoman.

You man call the combination Millie or Christine, or Millie-Christine, but whatever name is chosen two pairs of lips respond in two voices, so similar that not even their manager can, with closed eyes, tell from which of the two heads the voice comes.

A caller wondered how he should shake all the hands. They stood apparently back to back, wound two arms together and offered him two hands to grasp at once. Two pairs of lips murmured "I am so glad to see you," and two voices went on talking in a sort of responsive duet, until one felt like Alice in Wonderland—mystified, dazed.

"We always agree. We always think alike." Another pair of lips, I could see, was saying "We never have any difference of opinion. We always eat the same things." But it sounded like the same voice all the time.—New York World.

Wine in Paper.

The biggest item of incidental loss in ocean traffic during the stormy seasons of the year is that of breakages in wine, liquor and beer rooms. No matter how securely the bottles are fixed in the bins, a particularly heavy sea striking the ship in a certain spot or continued rolling and pitching, will cause great losses to costly fluids that were never intended to wash the floor or the walls. A French firm is going to do away with this old-time source of annoyance and complaint. After years of experimenting it has succeeded in manufacturing a paper bottle which will not break, and which has all the advantages of the ordinary glass bottle.—New York Journal.

An Ancient Doll.

In the Egyptian department of the British Museum is a wooden doll which was found in the sarcophagus of a little Royal princess who died three centuries before Christ. Her baby fingers still clasped it when the mummy wrappings were unfolded. This is probably the oldest doll in existence.

Not on the Bill of Fare.

The tourist from the east who had dropped into the Arizona restaurant said to the waiter:

"Bring me a welsh-rabbit, please."

The waiter was gone a long time and finally returned with the proprietor.

"Mister," inquired the latter, "are you the man that wanted some Welsh rabbit?"

"Yes," replied the traveler.

"Well, sir," rejoined the proprietor casually placing his hand on his hip pocket, "we don't keep no imported game at this house. If plain American jack rabbit ain't good enough for you——"

"Why, yes," gasped the terrified customer, "bring me a j—j—jack rabbit!"—Chicago Tribune.

Rivalry in the Marrying Business.

The marrying business has advanced so far in Youngstown, O., as a business that Justices of the Peace and ministers are vying with each other in the way of holding out documents. It is an open secret that some of the ministers recently made a deal with hackmen to pay them so much of the fee for every wedding couple delivered to them. This took a portion of the business away from the Justices, and one of them has had a suite of rooms finely furnished in connection with his offices for marrying purposes.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE MARRIAGE LICENSE

METHODISTS ARE NOT OPPOSED TO THE SYSTEM, SAYS DR. BARNES.

The Reverend an Active Worker for the Enactment of the Measure Because He Thinks it Will Stop Ill-Mated Marriages.

There has been much interest manifested in the Marriage License bill, which is now before the New Jersey Legislature. Monday the News published a statement that while the Presbyterians and Baptists favored the bill, it was opposed by the Roman Catholics and the Methodists. A Press reporter interviewed Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., pastor of the First M. E. church of this city, regarding the matter, yesterday afternoon.

The News, said Dr. Barnes, had no authority for saying that the Methodists are opposed to the Marriage License bill. Such is not the case. In fact, there is an almost unanimous sentiment among the Methodist clergy in favor of the bill. Dr. Barnes has already had special communication with a number of the members of the Senate and Assembly, urging them to vote in favor of the bill. He has also received a personal letter from Assemblyman Lloyd, the author of the bill, exprrseing appreciation for the interest taken in the bill.

The only reason, explained Dr. Barnes, that there has not been formal action taken by the Methodists of the State, is because the annual conferences have not as yet met. At previous sessions, continued Dr. Barnes, of the Newark Conference, at least, the conference has urged the Legislature to pass a bill of a like nature.

Dr. Barnes then gave a number of reasons why the clergy was in favor of the bill. According to the present arrangement, said Dr. Barnes, many marriages are hastily consummated with unhappy results, such as divorce, which might be avoided if a little more time were taken for consideration. People do not realize that when they certify falsely as to their age, etc., before a minister, that is perjury. They do not hesitate to swear falsely in this case, where they would hesitate to take a false oath or affirmation before a civil magistrate. For example, a person giving their correct age to a minister and learning from him that they were below the legal age, will ask what the legal age is, and then proceeding to another magistrate will announce that they are above that age.

The preachers, continued the Doctor, as a rule, would prefer to marry people with a license and be freed from legal obligations.

In conclusion, Dr. Barnes said that he thought that the provision of the Roman Catholic church requiring banns to be published for three Sundays before the ceremony was a most excellent one, as it gave the contracting parties time for consideration and also called public attention to the marriage. If, said the Doctor, the bill, as has been said by its opponents, is for the discouragement of marriage, then certainly the ordinance of the Roman Catholic church would be expected to have the same effect.

The only reason that Dr. Barnes did not attend the hearing of the bill yesterday before the Senate committee at Trenton was that he was engaged all day in examining candidates for the ministry. There were six who were taking their examinations, which were held in Vincent chapel. Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of Grace M. E. church, was taking his fourth year examinations, and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, was taking his third year examinations. It is customary for Methodist ministers to take examinations for the first four years following their admission. These examnations have heretofore been held at the conference, but this year they were held in the different districts. Those of this district were examined in this city under the direction of Rev. Dr. Barnes.

A Delegate to be Sent.

Previous to the lecture given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Scrimgeour before the Town Improvement Association, the members of the association held a short business meeting, at which time an invitation was received from the Health Association of Philadelphia, asking the association of this city to send a delegate to a convention to be held in Philadelphia, May 6th and 7th. Mrs. Pierre Malli, the president, was elected as the delegate, and she was given the power to select another momber of the association to accompany her.

THE WORLD THEIR FIELD

HOME AND FOREIGN MISSION WORKERS REPORT, PLAN AND ELECT.

The Annual Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon in Vincent Chapel—Encouraging Reports—The Officers Elected.

The annual meetings of the two Women's Missionary Societies of the First M. E. Church were held in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society held its meeting first. Routine business was transacted and the reports of the different committees were received showing the society to be in a prosperous condition. The election of officers was postponed until a later date on account of the small attendance. It will probably be held at the meeting on April 7th when Miss White will address the society.

The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society was held later in the afternoon and was well attended. The report of the secretary was very gratifying to the members and showed the society to be in a flourishing condition and proved the last year to have been a very successful one. Reports were made by the chairmen of the several committees. Owing to the absence of the treasurer, her report will not be made until the anniversary meeting of the society which is to be held the latter part of April or the first part of May. At that meeting it is expected that there will be an address by Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, National President of the Women's Home Missionary Societies of the M. E. churches of the country.

The principal business of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The officers were all re-elected as follows:—President, Mrs. D. E. Davis; first vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Peck; second vice-president, Mrs. P. M. French; third vice-president, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins; recording secretary, Mrs. N. W. Pike; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Horne; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Jackson; librarian, Mrs. J. T. McNaughton; mite box secretary, Mrs. I. L. McVoy.

WORK AMONG CHILDREN.

TOWN IMPROVEMENT WOMEN RECEIVE SOME GOOD POINTS.

A Brooklyn Woman Tells Them How Much More Effective Their Work Will be if They Interest Young People.

At the meeting of the Town Improvement Association held yesterday afternoon the members and their friends were given the pleasure of listening to Mrs. James Scrimgeour, president of the Health Protective Association, of Brooklyn. The speaker is a noted one, and has accomplished a great deal of good since she has been identified with the work. There were a number of children present and they were very much interested in the remarks of the speaker.

Mrs. Scrimgeour began her talk by telling those present how the Association in Brooklyn did gook work with the barrel system. She said the women asked for better barrels, and then had them maintained according to the laws of the city. If there were any known violations complaints would be made to the Board of Aldermen, and the matter would be attended to at once.

Another excellent point advanced by the speaker was that the Association found it a good plan to begin work with the children, and accordingly a children's aid was established, and from experience it was learned that they took more interest in the work than the older members. She thought that the children in school should be taught more about home affairs. The American boy she thought had a great desire to expectorate, and to see how far he could do so. In this connection she related several experiences which she had yesterday while coming to Plainfield on the cars.

She also said that with the child culture reform it made the older people think that they had been brought up wrong and that there was plenty room for improvement. The fact that we don't always set the best example was a deplorable one, she thought. The idea was advanced that there are always a few women who are willing to do the work while the majority are perfectly willing that they should do it. She did not think that it was right that ignorant foreigners should be allowed to come to this country and vote, and that the women of this country should be denied the right.

During the lecture the speaker brought out many interesting details which added greatly to the value of the talk. At the close a vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Scrimgeour for her able address. A short informal discussion of the subject followed, and Mrs. Scrimgeour answered all of the questions which were propounded to her.

T. F. SWAYZE APPOINTED.

THE PLAINFIELDER TO BE CHIEF CLERK OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

Mr. Swayze's Candidacy, First Told of in the Press, was Successful with the Backing of Senator Platt and Others.

New Jersey has been well represented at the National Capital by the advent of the new Republican administration and now another important office has been given to one of her citizens. This time it is a resident of Plainfield who has been called to Washington as an employe of Uncle Sam. Theodore F. Swayze, of 243 East Ninth street, whose candidacy for the position of chief clerk of the U. S. treasury department was exclusively told in the Daily Press, has been appointed to that position and will go to Washington in a few days to assume his duties.

Mr. Swayze was born at Chester, N. J. He entered the Northern army in 1862 as a drummer boy at the age or seventeen years. In 1869, he went into the treasury department as a first-class clerk and filled all the different clerkships until he was finally made superintendent of the treasury in 1882. A year later he was appointed chief clerk of the treasury department under Arthur's administration with Judge Folger, of New York, secretary of the treasury. He resigned the position on the incoming of the Cleveland administration in 1885, taking a position in the public moneys division of the treasury, which he held until 1893, when he resigned to accept the position of assistant to the Hon. Thos. C. Platt, president of the United States Express Co.

Althoug Mr. Swayze was endorsed by Senator Platt, he was appointed from New Jersey and was supported by Vice President G. A. Hobart, Senator Sewall and all the members of Congress from New Jersey for the position. Mr. Swayze is an intimate friend of Major O. L. Pruden, assistant private secretary to the President, who is in service in the White House since Grant's first administration.

The office of chief clerk of the treasury department has now come under the civil service and is not one of the offices which are divided among the followers of the administration. According to the rules of the civil service, the position is held during good behavior. By the civil service laws, an old soldier may be reinstated to the position he once held and so Mr. Swayze's appointment comes as a reinstatement.

The chief clerk of the treasury department is the executive officer of the department under the Secretary the Treasury. He has general supervision of all the work of the department. All mail signed by the secretary is passed upon by the clerk as to its form and construction. He has the expending of the appropriation for furnishing and supplying all the government buildings, court houses, custom offices, some two hundred and sixty buildings in all, and for all supplies authorized by the department. The appropriation now amounts to about $2,000,000. The custodian and janitor force of all these buildings comes under his charge as does the expenditure of the contingent appropriation of the treasury department from which the supplies for the department proper at Washington are purchased. There are sundry other duties attached to the office.

Although Mr. Swayze and family spent most of their life in Washington, they have taken a great liking to Plainfield, and here Mr. Swayze will continue to make his home, returning every week to spend Sunday with his family. He is a member of the Park Club.

Justice Nash's Court.

There were several cases to come before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. The case of Miller against Trust, on contract, was dismissed on account of the nonappearance of the plaintiff. The contract case of Loomis against Thickstun was adjourned until a later date. Summons were issued in the landlord and tenant case of Cadmus against Randolph, returnable on Saturday.

Report of an Earthquake.

There was a heavy thunder shower passed over this section early this morning. At Somerville it is said that there was a slight earthquake shock, lasting for an interval of a few seconds. It was not severe, however, but in some instances it rattled dishes and overturned and broke light, frail articles.

CARRIED AWAY BOXES.

THOMAS MAIR FINDS HIMSELF IN A PREDICAMENT THEREBY.

It is Said That When Pursued by Special Officer Scriven He Simply Walked Across the Brook and Escaped Immediate Arrest.

They eloped into Somerset county as the sun's last rays disappeared in the direction of Somerville and the special officer from the Union county side of the brook watched them pass out of his power as they waded through the placid waters of Green brook. It happened this way. Janitor I. J. Scriven, of the Babcock building, who is also a special officer, was on duty at the elevator while the elevator boy was making way with his dinner. It was on Monday evening, about seven o'clock. Mr. Scriven was suddenly startled by hearing his wife call to him from one of the upper floors telling him that there was a young man eloping with some of the packing boxes belonging to Woodhull & Martin, owners of the big department store in the Babcock building.

Mr. Scriven ran the elevator to the first floor and went forth to investigate. The elopement was in progress then. An enterprising young man, whose enterprise was unfortunately turned in the wrong direction, was calmly carrying the large packing boxes, which stood in the rear of the store, across the brook and placing them in a two wheeled cart that he had ready on the other side behind the edifice of the First Church of Christ. When the young man saw Janitor Scriven he walked across the water and smiled.

This is not the first time that articles have been missed from the rear of the Babcock building and Janitor Scriven was determined to find out who the nervy customer was. He who had eloped with the boxes knew that Mr. Scriven had no authority in North Plainfield and so he did not fear. He didn't know his man, however. Mr. Scriven followed and where the other went he went also. Then he explained to the youthful offender that he was going to follow him until he went home, if it took all night, so he might as well give in at once. Then the young man gave gave up and went home. He lived, Mr. Scriven found, on Duer street, and he gave his name as John Mair. He finally explained that the driver had told him he might have the boxes. The driver, when questioned, declared that he had said nothing of the kind.

The boxes stayed near the brook all night but at an early hour in the morning they were carted off by two unknown lads. Mair was notified by Woodhull & Martin that he must return the boxes or their equivalent in twenty-four hours.

The twenty-four hours were up this morning and some action will probably be taken in the matter at once. Mair is employed in the sash and blind factory in North Plainfield. He protests that he had permission to take the boxes.

ENDEAVOR REVIVAL MEETINGS.

A Determined Effort to be Made to Increase the Church Forces.

On Monday evening, April 5th, the Christian Endeavor Local Union will begin a series of special evangelistic services for everybody in the Trinity Reformed church. Features of the services will be short, and crisp addresses, plenty of good music by a large chorus choir led by Horace J. Martin, and solos by Charles L. Lewis, William N. Runyon, Elmer E. Runyon and L. H. Bigelow, Jr. The new book, "Sacred Songs, No. 1," now used by Mr. Moody in all his meetings, will be used. It is hoped that Mr. Galey, of Princeton College, the famous centre rush of the football team, also a Christian worker and a bright speaker, will conduct one or two of the services. The other leaders will be chosen from those active in young people's work in Plainfield. Each meeting will be preceded by a half hour service of prayer only, led by local Endeavors.

All the pastors have been requested to preach evangelistic sermons in the morning of Sunday, April 4th, and it is also desired that the Endeavor societies of the city hold a half-hour prayer service before the regular preaching service in the evening at their respective churches on Sundays, April 4th and 11th, to pray for the evangelistic services.

Invitations to these services will be distributed by members of the various societies.

Private Residences Sold.

John H. French, the clothier, has sold the residence, 8 Willow avenue, to J. D. Lippincott. Mrs. Anna D. Smith has sold the house and property at 20 Grandview avenue to John H. French. Both sales were consummated through the agency of J. T. Vail, the real estate broker.

SOUBRETTE'S CHIC SONGS

THE STAR FEATURE OF THE WESTFIELD CLUB'S ANNUAL SMOKER.

The Entertainment, However, Was Rather Conventional, But Was Pleasantly Enjoyed Just the Same by the Visitors.

Despite the inclemency of the weather a large crowd filled the hall of the Westfield Athletic Club last evening to be present at the club's annual smoker. The committee of arrangements, of which Mr. Nelson L. Coryell was chairman, used its discretion in selecting the vaudville talent for the event and got together a number of well known artists, who filled the bill with satisfaction. The report had been circulated that the affair would be like one the club gave on a previous occasion, and those who came with that expectation were disappointed. It was fast enough. There was nothing very "slow" about any part of it. Kennedy and Rey, the king and emporer of Irish and German comedy, gave several clever sketches. Grey Patti, a comedian, sang several songs, gave an imitation of Albert Chevalier, the English costersinger and did a turn in black face. Murry brothers, musical artists, kept the house in an uproar from start to finish by their performance on numerous musical instruments and apparatuses. The program could not be complete, however, without a soubrette. "By the kind permission of Oscar Hammerstein," it was said, "Zeba Wilson would next entertain the audience." Well, whether it was true as to Oscar, she certainly did entertain them. She did all that. Zeba had the beauty and grace of youth and audacity enough to accompany these accomplishments. She was not a bit backward. Her songs were catchy enough to satisfy them all or make Captain Chapman think he was at home. The admission was only fifty cents and the club came out ahead on the affair. The same committee has charge of the preparations for the amateur minstrel show, for which rehearsals are being held weekly. The show will begin shortly after Easter.

WHIST CUP BACK AGAIN.

PARK CLUB FOUR WIN FROM ORANGE BY SIX POINTS.

The Trophy Wrested From the Plainfield Players Some Time Ago, But Was Contested for and Recovered Last Night.

The Park Club challenge whist trophy is back in Plainfield again, and the experts of Orange are sorrowful in consequence. It will be remembered that the team from the Orange Club came to Plainfield several weeks ago and defeated the Park's in a match for the cup. The hitherto victorious career of the Park's came to a sudden end and it was their turn to mourn. Tomorrow the State whist congress opens at Jersey City, and so there was no challenge from the other clubs for a game for this week for the trophy. The Park's, learning of that fact, challenged, and last evening had another chance at the Orange players. The Park's were on their mettle and won the match by six points.

The trophy will return this evening with Mr. Rogers, of the team, and remain in Plainfield until Thursday, when it will be contested for at the congress. Last night's victory makes the seventh for the Park's, and as a victory in the congress counts for two, the time appears to be not far distant when the Park Club will have won the ten games necessary to give them another trophy to add to their collection.

MOUNTAINEERS JAGGED UP.

Burnett Brothers Got Too Hilarious and Went to Jail.

Marshal Kliner, of the borough, made his first arrest last night. Chas. Burnett and his brother, Henry Burnett, who live near Stirling, came to town and imbibed too freely. In consequence they were in a troublesome mood and when the marshal met them they were not inclined to care whether school kept or not. The marshal found it necessary to arrest them both, which he did. Charles was the first one taken and Henry interfered with the marshal in the performance of his duty. As soon as Charles was landed the officer went back and took charge of the brother. This morning they were given a hearing before Justice Thomas which made the first case for the borough magistrate. Charles Burnett was fined $15 and his brother $20. They both paid their fines and were released.

They Are Coming.

The musical clubs of the New York University will be here tomorrow evening and will give the finest concert at the Y. M. C. A. hall which the people of Plainfield have had the pleasure of hearing this season. Tickets on sale at the city drug stores.

WAGON STRUCK BY A CAR

THE TWO OCCUPANTS THROWN OUT AND INJURED.

Darkness Prevented the Motorman From Seeing the Vehicle and His Attention Was Attracted by a Yelling Man.

Another collision between a trolley car and a wagon occurred last night at 9:30 o'clock on West Front street and as a result the vehicle was wrecked and its two occupants sent to the hospital, though their injuries are not serious.

John Bennett and wife were engaged in moving from Plainfield to Dunellen yesterday and last night were proceeding down West Front street to their new domicile with a load of furniture, accompanied by Mrs. Carson, of this city. Near DeKalb avenue a bolt dropped out of one of the shafts and Bennett got out of the wagon to repair the damage, leaving the vehicle standing in the middle of the street railway tracks.

A short distance behind him a trolley car was going towards Dunellen at a lively rate of speed, in charge of Motorman J. B. Martin. Bennett heard the approach of the car and ran back to notify the motorman to stop. He had only gone about twenty-five feet when the car came along and he yelled at Motorman Martin. The latter did not see the vehicle ahead owing to the darkness.

Believing Bennett to be a passenger he turned off the current and applied the brakes, but before he could stop the car it crashed into the wagon and shoved it along for a few feet. Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Carson, who were in front, were thrown off the load of furniture into the roadway. They were considerably bruised and it was thought that they had been badly injured. They were taken to the hospital in the ambulance, and it was found that they would recover in a day or two.

The car nor any of its passengers were injured. The wagon was demolished about the rear end.

Motorman Martin was not blamed for the accident, as it was dark and his attention was attracted by Bennett yelling at the side of the track a few feet away from the wagon.

DISAGREED ABOUT A BILL.

Justice Newcorn Called Upon to Decide a Question of Debt.

The trouble was over the light although Thorn claimed that Thatcher had not done his work properly. Thorn wanted Thatcher to pay $8 toward the bill, while the latter agreed to pay only half the bill, or $5. Thatcher brought suit to get his money for the job, some $78, and so it came about that the contract case of Thatcher against Thorn was started in Justice Newcorn's court.

Alfred B. Thorn is a plumber and dealer in hardware on Somerset steet. He secured the contract for various repairs to be made to the Stillman building on West Front street and granted the contract for the carpenter-work to H. S. Thatcher. The question was whether Thatcher really completed the work according to the specifications, and to prove or disprove that allegation number of witnesses were sworn and gave their testimony. The hearing in the case was held this morning and Justice Newcorn reserved the judment until tomorrow.

Store Improvements.

In a few days work will be started making the proposed improvements at MacDonald's grocery store. An addition will be built in front, which will bring the store proper out to the sidewalk. Mr. MacDonald has been contemplating this change for a long time, and has at last concluded to have it done. It will enhance the value of the property very much and make a more attractive front.

Wedded for Five Years.

There was a very enjoyable time last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Venable, 614 West Third street, it being the celebration of their fifth wedding anniversary. There were about seventy-five present. Mr. and Mrs. A. Venable were the recipients of some very handsome and useful presents. Supper was served at 11 o'clock.

Decided After Two Years.

The appeal case of Cole against Johnson was tried in the Middlesex county court yesterday, and a verdict rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The case has been on the calendar for nearly two years. It was originally tried before Justice Huff, of Dunellen.

—Great bargains will be offered at the sale of property, at the corner of Berckman street and South avenue, tomorrow.

—A missionary meeting will be held on Friday evening at Warren chapel. An interesting speaker will address the meeting.

A Tough Stomach.

Melancholia on account of the loss of two children has developed an abnormal appetite in an Odessa woman 32 years of age, whose case is reported in the Deutche Medicinische Wochenschrift. She first tried to commit suicide by drinking petroleum and a solution of carbolic acid. She then took to swallowing metallic objects, beginning with needles, nails, hairpins, buttons, and steel pens, and winding up with forks and teaspoons. The doctor, who took thirty-seven pieces of hardware out of her stomach, asked her how she got them down. She answered: "Oh, it is easy with the handle first."—New York Sun.

Anecdote of President Lincoln.

A lieutenant, whom debts compelled to leave his fatherland and service succeeded in being admitted to the late President Lincoln, and, by reason of his commendable and winning deportment and intelligent appearance, was promised a lieutenant's commission in a cavalry regiment. He was so enraptured with his success that he deemed it a duty to inform the President that he belonged to one of the oldest noble houses in Germany. "O, never mind that," said Mr. Lincoln; you will not find that to be an obstacle to your advancement."

One on Roseberry.

They tell this story of Lord Rosebery, who is a very bad shot: Not long ago he was on the Scotch moors, and, having unsuccessfuly fired at a covey of birds that rose not more than twenty yards ahead, he exclaimed: "It is strange that none of them fell! I'm positive that some of them must have been struck!" "I dinno doot," returned the keeper, with the usual freedom of his class, "that they were struck wi' astonishment at gettin' off sae easy!"

Time Didn't Improve the Price.

John Mills, as administrator of his father's estate, has sold at Rome, Ga., a bale of cotton which his father raised in 1872. The father refused to sell it at 22 cents, deeming the price too low, and had held it for a raise. It was sold at 5 4-5 cents.—New York Sun.

Boundless Affection.

He—Sometimes I wonder if you really love me.

She—As if I hadn't proved it! Haven't I called you "Dumpsy darling?"

"Well?"

"And that is a name, which, until I met you, I had held sacred to dear little Fido."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

One New York firm alone turns out yearly an average of more than $200,000 worth of cigar ribbons and on these employs nearly 500 hands.

CANADA TO HIT BACK

Preparing a Tariff Bill as an Answer to the Dingley Measure

LIBERALS' SUDDEN CHANGE OF FRONT

They Abandon Their Patient Prayer for Reciprocity with the United States and Adopt a Hostile Attitude.

Ottawa, Ont., March 24.—Parliament will assemble on Thursday of this week. The budget will be introduced early in the session, and a tariff plank also. The latter will likely come as a surprise to Canada, and to not an inconsiderable portion of the exporters of the United States. It is foreshadowed that a considerable reduction will be made in those classes of goods imported, which can be readily obtained from Great Britain, and a corresponding increase on those goods forming the bulk of imports from the United States. This it is understood, will be Canada's answer to the Dingley bill. While the liberal government made the chief planks of its ante-election platform "the greatest measure of free trade possible," and "reciprocal trade relations with the United States' they have executed a right-about-face movement, abandoned free trade, except as a theory, and dumped all pretensions of "better terms" with the United States. As the leading organ of the governmen, the Toronto Globe, puts it, "If we regard the question as mainly between free trade and protection, we shall miss the chief lesson of the situation. That lesson is that we must look to Great Britain rather than to the United States as the outlet for our products, and that our system of transportation as well as our tariff must be adjusted in accordance with that condition."

Hostile to the United States.

Continuing, the Globe says: "Our business as Canadians is to get our products into the British market as cheap and so good as to be preferred on their merits to those of the United States and other countries. Our business is also to give those who offer us a free market all the trade advantages in our power. And this must be done in an intelligent way, not merely with the purpose of making a show of hostility to our neighbors. Our object should be not to show resentment against them, but to strengthen ourselves, to make ourselves more and more independent of the notions of American legislators and of changes in American public opinion." While here and there there may be raised an occasional voice against the views given above, there is hardly room for doubting the response which Canada will give to the new policy. It will be one of emphatic approval; as unanimous, almost, as has been the demand for an alien labor law and a contract labor law to enable Canada to mete out to citizens of the United States treatment identical with that which has been received at the hands of the immigration inspectors employed by the United States government. It appears almost certain that the government's attitude has changed from that of patient prayer for reciprocity with the United States to one which foreshadows an actual policy of non-intercourse.

CLEARANCE PAPERS GRANTED.

The Alleged Filibuster Bermuda To Sail for a West Indian Port.

Washington, March 24.—The treasury department has directed that clearance papers be granted to the alleged filibuster Bermuda, now at Fernandina, Fla. The Bermuda's captain took the omnibus oath required by the department before the permission was given. He was obliged to make affidavit that the vessel would not transfer any part of her cargo to any other vessel before reaching her destination, nor take on board more men than were required to run her. Copies of the affidavit were examined by Secretary Gage before clearance was ordered. The steamer will clear for some port in the West Indies, not Spanish, with a cargo of munitions of war.

CONFIRMED BY THE SENATE.

Nominations Favorably Acted Upon and Others Received.

Washington, March 24.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations: Willis Van Devanter, of Wyoming, to be assistant attorney-general, and Capt. Chas. Shaler to be major in the ordnance department. The senate has received these nominations, which will be confirmed this afternoon. Bernard Bettman of Ohio, to be collector of internal revenue for the First district of Ohio, and Chester H. Brush of Connecticut, to be recorder of the general land office.

Boy Killed by a Playmate.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 24.—Hiram Eiglick, 8 years old, son of Nathan Eiglick, died in the Saratoga hospital last night, as the result of injuries sustained by being kicked in the abdome, by a companion, Andrew Wilcox, aged 13 years. The boys were playing marbles, when the Wilcox boy became enraged and kicked Eiglick. The Wilcox boy is under arrest.

White House Sentry Box Removed.

Washington, March 24.—The little shelter or sentry box, erected in front of the White House during the last administration, has been removed. The box was used to shelter policemeu on duty in the White House grounds in bad weather. It is explained that the box was considered unsightly.

New York Railroad Commission.

Albany, March 24.—The board of state railroad commissioners organized last evening by electing Col. Ashley W. Cole as chairman of the board.

BOMB IN THEIR CAMP

American Watch Company Open War on Finishers' Union.

FIFTY DISCHARGED WITHOUT NOTICE

The Men for a Long Time Controlled the Situation—Believed They Have Been Betrayed by One of Their Own Members.

Waltham, Mass., March 24.—A notice was posted at the American Waltham Watch company's factory last evening which marked one of the most critical labor crisis in the city's history. It was, in effect, that the factory would close on Friday evening, March 26, for one week in order to give the management an opportunity to readjust one of the departments, and that such of the hands as would be needed in that period would be notified personally to report for work. Everybody in the city has known that something of the kind was likely to happen at this time and that the department in question was the "finishing room," where about eighty of the highest salaried men in the factory were employed. About twelve months ago the finishers came near striking. There is a tradition in this city that "in case of a watchmakers' strike the factory never would be reopened." Mutual concessions were made and the finishers were satisfied with an agreement under which they have since worked and which expires on March 31,—during which the "readjustment" and the "vacation" are to come off. The finishers have the only trade union in the watch industry and have upheld wages and dictated at will. Today. They are anything but envied. Fifty of them have been discharged in one batch and with only three days' notice. They attribute the fact to two reasons. One is that somebody has been secretly teaching the trade to women behind the ever-closed doors of the mysterious "emergency" room in the watch factory. The other reported cause is that some traitor has been attending secret meetings.

Fight Against Union Labor.

Lynn, Mass., March 24.—Williams, Clark & Co., have announced their ultimatum in regard to the strike situation at their shoe factory. It is to the effect that they will have nothing more to do with the labor unions and will run a "free shop" in the future. This ultimatum was in answer to the communication of the state board of arbitration, proposing arbitration as a means of settling the strike.

PROPOSAL FROM THE SULTAN.

Reported in London That King George Is To Be Governor of Crete.

London, March 24.—The Leader today gives prominence to a private telegram from Paris declaring that the powers have accepted a proposal made by the sultan, that King George of Greece shall occupy and administer the government of Crete, Turkey reserving her imperial rights in the island. The proposal, the telegram adds, provides that King George shall nominate a high commissioner for the island. Rumor to the above effect is not new. Its repetition from Paris is accepted with much reserve, as the Leader is not a first-class authority.

South African Republics' Alliance.

London, March 24.—A dispatch from Pretoria says that drafts of treaties between the South African Republic and the Orange Free State, which have been concluded at Bloomfontein, the Orange Free State capital, are published in the Pretoria papers. The treaties, which must be ratified by the volksrands of both republics, give the burghers of each state the franchise in either republic and bind each republic to support the other in the event of an attack.

Severe Earthquake in Ontario.

Montreal, March 24.—A heavy shock of earthquake shook the centre of this city last evening and caused great consternation. Large buildings shook like reeds, and there was a general rush of the inmates to get out of doors. So far no damage has been reported. Dispatches from various points in this province and from eastern Ontario report similar shocks, but without any damage of consequence.

Naval News.

Washington, March 24.—The cruiser Detroit, which arrived at Aden yesterday, evidently found the port an unhealty stopping place, for she left there, after remaining only a few hours, on her way to Port Said. She will probably enter the Suez canal next Monday. The training ship Essex left St. Thomas for La Guayra, Venezuela.

Chapman Before the Supreme Court.

Washington, March 24.—In the supreme court this afternoon the case of Elverton R. Chapman, the recalcitrant sugar trust witness before the senate investigating committee, will be heard. The motion for a writ of certiorari to bring up the whole record of the case in the district courts will stand over until the present proceedings are disposed of.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits.'

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted lingering and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely counteracting and freeing the system from malarial poison Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

ELECTRICITY FROM COAL WITHOUT HEAT OR STEAM.

The Possibilities of a Recent Discovery by Willard Case—Energy Obtained by Chemicals from the Cold Mineral—As Yet an Expensive Process.

To produce electricity from carbon without heat as a scientific experiment is one thing, and to do so on a commercially paying basis is another. Mr. Willard E. Case of Auburn, N. Y., has succeeded in doing the former, and believes that the time will come when electrical energy can be generated in that manner so as to be of immense value to the industrial world. In a lecture before the New York Electrical Society the other evening he demonstrated the correctness of his theory by actual experiment, at the same time frankly confessing that his discovery was as yet of no commercial value. This was due to the fact, he explained, that the chemicals which he uses in his battery are exceedingly expensive.

Mr. Case, who is a young man, has been experimenting for the past ten years along the line of this discovery. Some years ago he read a paper on the subject before the Royal Society in London, but as he said to an Eagle reporter, who was granted an interview, the scientific world wasn't ready for such a startling advance in electrical science, so it turned up its nose so to speak, just as it had done in so many famous instances before. Mr. Case, however, persisted, and it is now several years since he first succeeded in converting the potential energy of carbon into electricity without producing heat. In developing his theory he has constantly kept before him as a model the human body.

"The human body," said Mr. Case, speaking of the manner in which he arrived at his discovery, "is the most perfect motor we have. It is twice as effective as the steam engine. It absorbs the oxygen into the blood, the tissue is oxidized, and work is done. This is done at a low temperature. Now, why not follow out this plan in carbon consuming batteries, oxidizing the carbon at low temperature?"

Mr. Case went on to explain that it was high temperature that caused so much loss in producing power to-day. Thus the present steam engine and dynamo have an efficiency only one-tenth the energy of coal. In illustrating this the electrician became somewhat technical. He put it in this way: "In the battery which I use I succeed in oxidizing the carbon without heat, but it is an expensive process. Now, if this is to be of commercial value we must either cheapen the chemicals or find some other agent that is cheap enough for general use."

Mr. Case is averse to making any predictions for his discovery. "I am not a promoter," he says, "and the cause of science is very often injured by unwise or rosy forecasts. I believe, however, that the day will come when the world will be producing electricity direct from carbon. To-day the best electrical plants require about five pounds of coal per horse power. By the process which I have demonstrated two-tenths of a pound of coal, theoretically, accomplish the same result."

It is easy to build air castles on Mr. Case's method of producing electricity, but Mr. Case prefers to have other people do it while he works upon his theory in a scientific spirit. He admits that if he could bring his method down to a paying basis, it would probably result in the retirement of the steam engine. No engine would be needed to develop this power. No dynamo would be necessary. The electricity would be used in motors, as it is to-day, stored in batteries and carried over lines, and all this with an exceedingly small loss of energy.

"I have little doubt," said Mr. Case yesterday, "that this problem will be solved. Owing to the publicity which my lecture before the New York Electrical Society has received, I presume there are a hundred practical electricians working to-day along the lines which I have laid down. It wouldn't surprise me to wake up any morning and read that electricity from carbon, without heat, has been rendered practical for commercial uses. But with the industrial possibilities I really have nothing to do. My treatment of the subject has been purely scientific, and I prefer to leave it for others to paint pictures of the [illegible]"

A DISSIPATED DOG.

The Colonel's Jags are Very Frequent and Complete.

Fort Logan, Colo., has a favorite who has contracted the bad habit of indulging in the flowing bowl, and when in the vicinity of the canteen—about the time of pay day especially—he is sure to get more or less intoxicated on the offerings of the doughboys who like to share with their favorite the good things of the day which comes but once a month. Jerry Simpson is a private in the ranks, and is a total abstainer, never going near the canteen except when ordered there on duty to escort to the guard house those who are unable to pick their way to the barracks. On such occasions it is not an uncommon thing for Jerry to find Colonel, his famous retriever, prone on the floor in the highest stage of inebriation, chewing the last remnants of a good-sized jag. Colonel is kept by his master for his usefulness on hunting fields. His boon companions keep him well fed and supplied with tobacco—for the Colonel likes a taste of the herb nicotiana when he is in the dumps after soaking his head in the stable bucket on the morning following a debauch. He is a troubled specter when in his moods after recovering from the good things of the night before, and acts very much like one of the two-footed revelers who enticed him from the sedate quarters of his owner.

OLD-TIME KEELHAULING.

Punishment at Sea that One Out of Three Survived.

Keelhauling was a method of naval discipline particularly in vogue with the Dutch navy. In large square-rigged vessels the victim was lashed to a spar and had iron weights secured to his feet; spans were secured to this spar, and lines were led from it to the main yard. When all was ready the culprit was swayed up to the main yard, dropped into the sea, and hauled under the ship to the other side.

In the days of keelhauling the bottoms of vessels were not coppered, and in consequence were all studded with a species of shell fish called barnacles, which attached themselves; and as these shells were all open-mouthed and with sharp cutting points, those who underwent this punishment (for they were made to hug the keelson of the vessel by the ropes at each side fastened to their arms) were cut and scored all over the body, as if with so many lancets, generally coming up bleeding in every part. But this was considered rather advantageous than otherwise, as the loss of blood restored the patient if he was not quite drowned, and the consequence was that one out of three, is is said, have been known to recover after their submarine excursion."—Harper's Weekly.

Red Light Will Make Plants Grow.

Recent experiments show that uncolored light or pure sunlight is the most favorable for the steady development of plants. Light causes, according to color, either a quickening or a retardation in the development of the plant.

A scientist recently took a number of equal size, about one and one-eighth inches high, covering one pot with green, another with red, a third with blue, and a fourth with white glass globes. He then planted them by twos in pots and placed them in a hothouse, where they had absolutely equal conditions of light, heat, and water every day.

Two months after the beginning of this trial the two plants under the red light had reached a height of sixteen and one-half inches, while those under the green light were but six and one-third inches, and those under the blue light had not grown at all. The plants under ordinary white light had grown to a height of four inches.

Very Much Named.

Triplets, named William McKinley White, Garret A. Hobart White and James A. Mount White, were born to William A. and Mrs. White of Kokom, Ind., and the father, who is a Republican, and proud of the youngsters, named the boys after the Republican candidates for President, Vice-President and Governor of Indiana.

The father thinks he detects indications of a Napoleonic expression growing on McKinley, and he pounds his crib with the vim and cleverness of a Cabinet-maker. Soon after the birth of the trio Messrs. McKinley, Hobart and Mount were notified of the honor conferred, and autographic acknowledgements were received from each.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT.

A number of importmant appointments were sent to the State Senate yesterday by Governor Griggs, among which was that of Frederic Adams, of Summit, for Judge in the Court of Errors and Appeals. The new Judge is, as he puts it himself, "a Republican from the word go—a Republican of the deepest dye—not a trace of mugwumpery about him."

BLOW TO THE NAVAL RESERVE.

The announcement that a resolution had been introduced into the Legislature to disband the Navel Reserve was not viewed with favor in Plainfield where the interest in that organization is a very lively one. The resolution was a result of the Joint Committee on Appropriations refusing to appropriate $20,000 asked for by the Reserve officials.

Mrs. James Bell, of Hasbrouck Heights, is the guest of Miss Maggie Vail, of 441 Orchard place.

Mr. and Mrs Horace Huff, of West Fifth street, took possession of their new house on Codington avenue today.

Miss King, of Chatham street, is much improved from her serious illness and hopes of her speedy recovery are entertained.

The Saturday Night Euchre Club will be entertained this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden, of Watchung avenue.

Through the efforts of T. J. MacMurray, George W. Frazee, of this city, has secured a position at the Pond Tool Works, and will enter upon his duties the first of April.

Congressman Dolliver, of Iowa, cousin of G. Q. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, North Plainfield, received high praise in the New York papers this morning for the strong argument he made in favor of the Dingley tariff bill in the House of Representatives, yesterday.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Was Not Staying in the House.

John Benner, whose new road house, it is alleged, Larry Wallace attempted to burn last Friday night and caught in the act by several officers, says that Wallace was not staying in the house as stated by County Detective Keron. Mr. Benner says that he had been there once or twice to see some of the men, but that he had ordered him to keep off the premises.

WHALING EXPERIENCES.

THRILLING EPISODES IN LIFE ON THE NORTHERN SEAS.

Rev. W. E. Crampton Tells How the Big Amphibion is Captured and What an Exciting Time He Had One Day.

Rev. W. E. Crampton gave the second lecture in the course of three at the Y. M. C A. building last evening before a good sized audience. His lecture was a review of his experiences while on a whaling voyage early in life. He referred to Jonah and the whale and said that some people believed that the story could be blotted out of the Bible and yet they could be Christians. The speaker was firmly convinced that the whale could swallow Jonah and then went on to illustrate how he could. He said that he had seen thousands of whales and killed them by the hundreds. A whale is the biggest of all of God's living creatures on land or sea, and the speaker said that he had on many occasions crawled through the throat of one which could easily get away with a cow or horse, and if this was true why could'nt a whale swallow a man.

He believed that when people persistently deny the Bible story regarding Jonah and the whale they were either ignorant or inexperienced. He said that the old truth had stood long before skeptics were born and it would continue to stand long after they were dead.

Mr. Crampton then told how a whale is captured, and gave his experience of a trip he made on a whaling ship. They were sailing in the western seas when the sailors caught glimpses of a whale. The very sight sent a thrill through every man, and as quickly as possible the sailors were in their boats and off after the large fish. He was in the boat that arrived first and they found the whale asleep. As soon as possible he was harpooned. In an instant the whale went downward and the men played out the rope very fast. Presently the rope began to feel slack, and the men knew that the whale had stopped. This move put the sailors in a nervous condition for they did not know just where he would come up. In a few minutes the whale made his appearance and to the surprise of all he came up beneath their boat. All of the men were thrown out and in a second they were battling in the water for dear life. With a mad whale on one side and drowning men on the other, the speaker said that he was in a very peculiar position. Then to make the affair more exciting a hundred sharks made their appearance and it was all the men could do to keep them away. Finally the other boats come up and the men in the water were saved and the whale was captured.

The balance of Mr. Crampton's talk was devoted to thrilling experiences he had on another voyage when the ship was in danger of being taken by a gang of pirates. There were only twenty-five of them while the pirates were present by the hundreds. The men in the ship finally succeed in killing most all of the pirates and thus they escaped with their lives.

SWEARING IN RECRUITS.

Special Exercises of the Salvation Army Last Night.

Last night was "swearing in" night at the Salvation Army barracks on West Second street, but the rain served to dampen the ardor of the occasion and the attendance was small. The regular meeting was held, after which four candidates swore their allegiance to the cause of Christianity and solemnly avowed their intention to serve their Lord and Master henceforth. Long and neatly arranged tables filled with articles of various descriptions occupied a prominent position in the rear of the hall. These articles were contributed by members and friends of the corps, and are on sale for the benefit of the army. The fair will continue this and tomorrow evenings. Tonight the officers and members of the Elizabeth corps will attend in a body, and tomorrow evening Capt. Dickinson and staff, of Bound Brook, will come down and help to swell the receipts.

A PLEASING AFFAIR

First Church of Christ Women Know How to Entertain.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Church of Christ gave a pleasing entertainment in the church last evening before an appreciative audience. The following programme was exceedingly well rendered: Recitation, Miss Higgins; vocal solo, Elsie Campbell; recitation, Miss Scribner; vocal duet, Misses Benner; reading, Rev. B. W. Hand tenor solo, Eli Odam; dialogue, "The Night at the Opera," Mrs. Van Middlesworth and Miss Van Middlesworth; vocal duet, Miss Benner and Eli Odam; recitation, Miss Ethel Woolley.

After the rendition of the above, ice cream and cake was served in abundance and a good social time was passed by all. The proceeds will be devoted to the church work and a most gratifying sum was received.

ABOUT SODA AND SOAP.

SECOND CHEMISTRY LECTURE IN UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SERIES.

The Various Compositions and Methods of Manufacture Explained by Prof. Myers in the Bryant School.

The last of the series of University Extension lectures which have been held at Irving school, during the last two months, was delivered by William C. Myers, associate professor of chemistry in Rutgers College, in the Irving school house last evening. It was the second of the lectures on chemistry and the subject was "Soda and Soap."

Prof. Myers told of the need of large quantities of alkali in soap-making, glass-making and other industries, how many years ago the need of something to take the place of caustic potash, as produced from ashes by the use of caustic lime, was felt and how it was discovered that caustic soda, which was just as good as caustic potash, could be made from common salt by treating with sulphuric acid, limestone and coal. He showed that a change in the price of any one of these articles would greatly affect the price of soda, glass, soap and the many other articles which are affected by these.

The other way of producing soda, as explained by him, was through the Solvay process, in which the raw material used are ammonia, common salt and limestone. Up to the present time the latter process has failed to give the bleaching powder successfully as does the other method. He explained the two methods and partially illustrated them as fast as he was able with experiments.

One of the principal uses of the caustic soda is in the manufacture of soap. Soap, the professor explained, is made with soda and fats. He gave something of its history and how soap was made and used by the ancients. He ended the lecture with showing some samples of the different kinds of soap and told how they are made.

RIVAL JUSTICES IN A TANGLE.

Both Want to Try Lawrance Wallace So the Case Goes Over.

The hearing in the case of Lawrence Wallace, the alleged Fanwood firebug, did not take place yesterday afternoon, as was intended, because of a clash of authority between two rival Justices of the Peace at Elizabeth. Wallace, when arrested, was taken before Justice Ira J. Hall, of Elizabeth, who received the complaint and committed the man to the county jail. Next day the preliminary hearing was held before Justice Charles Jacobus.

Now Justice Hall insists that he has the prior right to try the case, and the Prosecutor agrees with him. Juscobus is, therefore, out of the matter and the hearing will be resumed before Justice on Friday morning.

Settled the Loss by Fire.

Elston French, of this city, has settled the loss with Mr. Welsh, of Westfield, on the fire at his home last week. The cause of the fire was through the efforts of Mr. Welsh's four-year-old daughter, who was looking for a kitten under a sofa, and in order to see the feline she was obliged to light a match. In this way the drapery on the sofa caught fire, which caused the damage.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. F. K Wilcox, of Front street, has been visiting Plainfield friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph have been visiting among relatives and friends at Metuchen.

Mrs. W. H. Cole continues to improve, and the attending physicans now gives assurance of her ultimate recovery.

Miss Jennie Conklin, of Somerville, has been spending a day or two with her parents, Mr. John Conklin, of Front street.

Paul Reusch, the baker and confectioner, is getting in shape to manufacture his own supply of soda water, seltzer and syrups.

Freeholder F. H. Gise went over to Perth Amboy yesterday to attend a meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Chosen Freeholders, concerning the trolley matter.

The merchants in Dunellen, with a single exception, report an increase in business thus far this spring and they are predicting a still greater increase a little latter on and during the summer.

A meeting of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was held in the Lincoln school building last evening, but aside from receiving one new proposition for membership, the business was of a routine nature.

W. H. Carmon, representing the State Game and Fish Propagating Society, yesterday, liberated a dozen fine, healthy quail. He turned them loose in pairs and in six different localities simply for breeding purposes.

A small flock of wild ducks flew in from the south yesterday noon and for a time took possession of Frank Wynkoops' private pond. They were not molested, and after feeding and swimming around for an hour or so rose up and flew to the northward.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mohan, whose serious illness from pneumonia was recorded in The Press, yesterday, still lingers in an uncertain state. The best of medical attendance has been employed, but the child's life seems to hang in the balance.

The administrator, John M. Dayton, of the estate of late Harriet Muilison, whose personal effects are to be sold at auction, on Thursday, the 25th inst., has come across a lot more of the many antiquities stored about the house. While they are apparently of little or no value, many persons would doubtless like to have them on account of their extreme old age.

Several times within the past ten days The Press has had occasion to record the doings of gang of bold robbers who have been operating unhindered in the various parts of the town. Monday night an effort was made to break into Martin Becker's house on Rock avenue. The mauraders broke open the storm doors in the rear of the house and with a coal chisel or some other blunt instrument, tried to force the lock on the kitchen door. They would have undoubtedly gained entrance to the place had it not been that the doors were both locked and bolted, and they were evidently frightened away before they had time to try other doors and windows. Surely Dunellen is becoming notorious in this particular line of business, and it has been suggested that perhaps it would be wise for the borough to employ a private detective for a time and in this way the robbers may be hunted down and captured. It seems to be the universal opinion that the thieves have a rendezvous at or near the tanks. Thus far their operations have been bold in the extreme, and while they have entered and robbed many residences, on the whole they have been poorly paid for their daring work.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Lydia Messler has returned from a visit with the Misses Messler, of Dunellen.

People here in the Plains who have gardens and small patches are spading them up preparatory to planting early vegetables.

The two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blimm, who have been so seriously ill for some time past, are convalescent.

Mrs. Charles Messler, of this place, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edward Smith, of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield.

The large flock of black birds which arrived from the south, a day or two ago, are still anchored on the "Count" Van Nest premises.

A delegation of young people went from here to the play in Music Hall, Plainfield, Monday evening. They returned to Fanwood by train, reaching home about midnight.

The surveyors, who have been taking bearings and staking out for the proposed trolley extension, completed their labors here yesterday. The route surveyed is the one already described in The Press.

A cartman with a load of crushed stone "dished" a wheel on the mountain road, yesterday afternoon, and part of the load had to be shoveled off before the wagon could be jacked up and another wheel substituted.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Moore, of Fanwood, took place from All Saints' Episcopal church, yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large number of the relatives and immediate friends of the decedent. Rev. Mr. True, the rector, officiated, and at the close of the service the remains were taken to their final resting place in the Baptist cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis, of Johnston's Drive, are confined to their home with an attack of the grip.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terribe and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

The Methodist class meeting in the church parlors last evening was well attended.

It is rumored that there will be a double wedding on North avenue soon. Two sisters are to marry two brothers.

The Board of Education met last night and reorganized, electing John B. Green, chairman, and J. J. Coger, district clerk, to succeed Samuel Reese.

The regular monthly reception and dance of the Social Club will take place tomorrow evening. As this will be the last one of the season, a good time and large crowd is expected.

Rev. J. A. Merrill, of Plainfield, formerly of this place, will address a meeting in the W. C. T. U. hall tomorrow. He will present the subject of a woman's right of suffrage under the caption, "Why Should Women Vote?"

The people in this vicinity are to be treated to something new Friday evening. It will be a picture play to be given by Alexander Black, and will be entitled "Miss Jerry." It is to be illustrated by two hundred and fifty pictures. The proceeds will go to the Children's County Home.

Hugo B. Kurzalls has sold his barber-shop and leased the building to Mr. Samuel S. Packer of New Brunswick. Mr. Packer will take possession at once. He is about to be married and will occupy one of the apartments over the shop. Mr. Kurzhalls has not announced his intentions for the future as yet.

The third lecture of the missionary extension course, under the auspices of the Westfield Local Union of Christian Endeavorer, will be given tomorrow evening in the Roselle Presbyterian church. The address will be delivered by Edward C. Lobenstein, president of the New York Student Volunteers for Missions.

Miss Florence, of Elizabeth, who has conducted a dancing class here during the season for the children, was completed yesterday afternoon by giving a German to the little ones, which was enjoyed very much by those present. The little girls were dressed in costumes and executed some fancy dances that were a pleasure to their relatives and friends and a credit to their teacher.

There was a pleasant party given last evening by Miss May Clark, of Broad street, to her many friends. About forty invitations were issued and fully as many young people responded and helped make the evening one of pleasure and merriment. The evening was spent in games and music and a collation was served before the guests departed. Among those present were: Miss Lucy Green, Miss Nettie Johnstone, Miss Matale Brainard, Miss Bessie Smith, Miss Edna Cox, Miss Edith Eskholme, Miss Anna Kelley, Miss Edith Mooney, Miss Ethel Pearsall, Miss Bertha Fink, Miss Bulah Lightfoot, Miss Lizzie Kalaway, Miss Mabel Dewey and Miss Mamie Hodges, Mr. Harold Brainard, Ernest Alpers, E. Pearsall, Samuel Johnstone, Harry Johnstone, Frank Howe, Charlie Embleton, John Embleton, George Ruth, Willie Foster, Charles Taggart and Martin Dewy.

THEATRICAL.

We may look for many notable features of scenic masters' art in the presentation of William Calder's spectacular melodrama "Saved from the Sea," at Music Hall Thursday night. Among them is an immense fishing boat at sea, its subsequent explosion and a thrilling rescue of its occupants in mid-ocean. Another example will be the falling of a bridge in the woods, and still another in the Portland Prison Quarries during a fog. This last scene is said to be startlingly realistic and in almost an instant is changed to an immense wheat field. The story of the play is intensely interesting and tears and laughter follow in quick succession, but in the final "All's well that ends well." The company is of the highest order of merit.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Reform Club's Programme.

The meeting at Reform Hall tomorrow evening will be one of special interest. Prof. Guttman's orchestra will be present and render a programme of music. There will be good speaking and vocal selections by talented people. An earnest invitation is extended to all to attend.

Cranford, N. J., March 1, 1897.—I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills for rheumatism and headache with satisfactory results. My mother has been relieved of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we find it an excellent spring medicine. Miss Minnie A. Neipp.

-:-SENSIBLE SHOESHOP-:-

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business, but am after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me: want to renew old acquaintances, and get acquainted with everybody I don't know.

CLOTH FROM CATTAIL

THE PLANT PUT TO BETTER USE THAN AS AN ART SUBJECT.

Is Said to Have Become a Marketable Article--Is Manufactured Into Plush and Serves as Stuffing for Sofa Pillows and Down Quilts.

Very few, probably, are aware that the fur, or vegetable down, of the cat-tail is a marketable article, superior to feathers or cotton for many purposes. As a matter of fact, a great many people are today using articles covered with cat-tail products who have no idea where the material comes from.

It is a vast extent of country, comparatively speaking, from which the cat-tail is gathered. It comes from the swamps along the numerous creeks that put in from the Delaware bay, from Morris river to Cape May. The average amount gathered in the season is a ton a day. The work of gathering and transporting it, and then weaving it into the many forms which it must take before becoming salable, constitutes a considerable industry.

One of the most elaborate uses to which this material is put is that of covering sofas. Very many of the supposed plush-covered divans are are really covered with a fabric of cat-tail. It wears better than the plush, and is infinitely cheaper.

The same argument that applies to the sofa is applicable to the pillow. Very often, however, such pillows go by another name.

Sofa pillows, also, are made of cat-tail, because a pillow avowedly covered with cat-tail would probably be regarded with contempt.

The family album which graces the center table in the parlor of so many farm houses is also in many instances adorned with cat-tail covers, although the housewife cannot be convinced they are not plush.

It is becoming a prevalent custom to use cat-tail fur on the back of hand mirrors and brushes, which have heretofore been backed with plush. Some say that the substitute is really proving better than the original. The head rest, too, seen on the easy chair, is often of cat-tail—and is none the less comfortable for that.

Another article for which the cat-tail is used is the bed quilt. The eider down quilt is an old-time article of luxury. The cat-tail quilt is every whit as comfortable, and costs about one quarter as much.

WATER FROM A PLANTED REED.

The Trapper's Device Worth Remembering Where Streams Do Not Abound.

"When people are suffering from thirst they will resort to all kinds of means to get water," remarked a gentleman who was at one time a member of the United States geographical and surveying expedition in the Indian Territory. "For some time we had been without water and were suffering greatly. Among our number was an old trapper, who was as keen on the scent for water as is a hound on the trail of a scent for water the trail of a deer. Finally, he paused at a place and stopped.

"'I think there's water here, if we could dig a well,' he observed.

"'But we can't,' I replied.

"'No, but we can do something else,' he said.

"With that he cut a reed, tying some moss on the end of it. Then he dug into the earth, placed his reed in the hole and packed the earth around the reed. He waited for a few moments.

"'Do you mean to say you can suck water out of that thing?' I asked.

"'Yes, there's water near the surface.'

"He drew at it with much satisfaction.

"'Good,' he remarked; 'would you try it?'

"With little confidence in the result I sucked at the reed, with the surprising result of getting plenty of clear pure water. To my parched tongue it seemed the very nectar of the gods.

"'It's as clear as the water of a spring,' I said.

"'Yes, the moss is our filter,' he replied.

"We pursued our journey much refreshed, and I never forgot the old trapper's device."—Detroit Free Press

Good Suggestions.

A stooping position, maintained for any length of time, tends more to undermine the health than is generally supposed.

Equal parts of honey, olive oil and pure home-made wine, made from grape juice or currants, is both soothing and strengthening for a bad cough.

Physicians are advocating the use of olive oil which comes from California, for weak lungs. It bids fair to take the place of cod liver oil, and it is thought by many pleasanter to take.

The toothache caused by a cold in the facial nerves may often be relieved by wringing a soft cloth out of cold water, and sprinkling it with strong vinegar. This should be laid on the face like a poultice, and will often be followed by refreshing sleep.—Baltimore American.

Where Reform Reigns.

"Josephine has an interesting measure to put before the mothers' congress."

"What is it?"

"She wants a law compelling every woman who has a son to remember that he will probably be some other woman's husband."—Chicago Record.

Fair Warning.

He—Do you think your father would offer me peronal violence if I were to ask him for you?

She—No, but I think he will if you don't pretty soon.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RICH WOMEN AS COLLECTOTS.

Quaint and Curious Watches Owned by Society Women.

The contents of the charming little French cabinets of Vernis-Martin which make the beauty spot in the boudoirs or the morning rooms of several of New York's most prominent social leaders, give evidence of their fair owners' taste as collectors of articles curious, sometimes historic, always expensive.

Mrs. Bradley Martin's collection of curious watches is numerous and fabulously expensive. Among its gems is a diamond coronet, with a watch pendant, which was at one time the property of a royalty. Another old piece is a gold enameled apricot, which on examination proves to be a watch. Miss Sallie Cooper Hewitt has a wonderful collection of expensive curios—snuffboxes, patchboxes, etuis, rings and watches. The latter are mostly samples of English and French art.

Mrs. Pierpont Morgan has a collection of Louis XII. watches; one case alone contains thirty-five, all exactly alike. In another case she keeps a dozen chatelaine watches, also of the Louis XII. period. The gem of the third case is an English watch of the eighteenth century, decorated with enamelled miniature.

Mrs. Peter Barlow's collection contains a watch once the property of Mme. de Montespan, also one which once belonged to Marie Antoinette. It is of blue enamel, with a wreath of pearls. Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs has a rare collection of brooch and chatelaine watches, as well as some so large that they could be hung up as clocks. These watch clocks, or clock watches, are many of them exceedingly beautiful and artistic. Another ponderous timepiece is in the collection of Mrs. Johnson. It formerly belonged to Sir Joshua Reynolds, and it is said it was his constant companion for years, up to the time of his death.

Mrs. Astor's cases contain several bracelets set with watches. All of them are heavily jeweled, but none have ever been worn by their fair owner. A dainty and beautiful conceit is the wild rose chatelaine watch which belongs to Miss Elsie Clews. The watch itself, a tiny affair, is enclosed in the petals of a rose made of enamelled gold, the leaves, stem and one bud glitter with pearls, rubies and diamonds.

A noticeable curiosity in the collection of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is a watch representing a pelican feeding three of its young. Another is tulip shaped, with leaves; still another is in the form of an Egyptian harp surmounted by a crown made of rose diamonds. She also has a watch shaped like a guitar, enamelled in blue, with yellow stripes. Miss Hunter has a lizard watch glittering with emeralds and diamonds. Another is a frog of green enamelled gold, with a tiny watch in its back and eyes of a glittering moonstones.—New York Herald.

The Crow and the Golf Balls

A crow which haunts the Mid-Surrey links at Richmond is a bit of a humorist. He has played such pranks with the golfers' ball that the subject has been discussed by the committee. He appears, according to "Golf," to hover in attendance only on players who use nice new white balls; "remades," or balls that have been played with before, and on which the paint has chipped, receive none of his embarrassing attentions:

"Recently two players were approaching one of the holes, one player using a new ball, the other a ball that had been played with before. On walking toward their balls the players were astonished to see the crow alight near them, examine first one ball and then the other, eventually rejecting the older ball, and fly away with the new one in his beak. The crow took the ball over into some marshy ground beyond the boundary of the links, where the caddie in hot pursuit could not follow him. The bird dropped the ball for an instant, looked sideways with a merry twinkle in his eye, as much as to say, 'Don't you wish you may get it?' picked the ball up again, and with offensive assurance flew back over the heads of the players to his haunt in Kew Gardens."

The crow has done the same thing dozens of times.—Westminster Budget.

A Mere Matter of Form.

Potentate—Have you ordered the new warships?

Prime Minister—Yes, sire.

"Have you given directions to increase the size of our standing army?"

"Yes, sire."

"Have you doubled our usual order for arms and ammunition?"

"Yes, sire."

"Have you hurled defiance at our enemies?"

"Yes, sire."

"Have you caused the publication of the rumor that we are simply itching for a fight, and don't particularly mind who knocks the chip off our shoulder?"

"Yes, sire."

"Then affix the stamp of our royal indorsement to the plans of the Universal Peace Congress."

Editing the Bible as News.

There is a story of an editor who one day, in default of other matters, filled a page of his journal with passages from the Bible, observing, on being questioned as to this procedure, that "he had no doubt it would be news to a large proportion of his subscribers."

The Difference.

"Pa, can you tell the difference between caution and cowardice?"

"Yes, ma'am. When you're afraid yourself then that's caution. But when the other fellow's afraid, that cowardice."

Proposals for furnishing crushed stone and also for furnishing material and doing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield at the regular adjourned meeting held March 15, 1897, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the Mayor's office, 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, April first 1897, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place the said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone and for furnishing material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks, as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1897, the bidder to state the prices for furnishing the following sizes, viz: No 0 or ½ inch, No. 1 or one inch, No. 2 or two inch, and tailings or spalls, in such quantities and delivered at such places as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The stone must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct and a voucher or way bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved.

For furnishing the material and performing the necessary work for building culverts and laying crosswalks for the remainder of the year 1897, according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner. Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets & Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be there present, and also make the proper record of the prices and terms upon their minutes.

The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved.

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets & Sewers.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

DECREASE OF CAPITAL STOCK

Runkle, Smith & Co., a Corporation of New Jersey, DOTH HEREBY CERTIFY, that it has decreased its Capital Stock to twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars. Said change having been declared by resolution of the Board of Directors of said Corporation to be advisable, and having been duly and regularly assented to by the vote of two-thirds in interest of each class of the Stockholders having voting powers, at a meeting duly called by the Board of Directors for that purpose; and the written assent of said stockholders is hereto appended.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, said Corporation has caused this Certificate to be signed by its President and Secretary, and its Corporate seal to be hereto affixed, the sixth day of March, A. D. 1897.

Witness, H. G. Runkle, (Seal.)

RUNKLE, SMITH and CO., by R. A. C. Smith, President.

Harry G. Runkle, Secretary.

STATE OF NEW YORK, } ss.
COUNTY OF NEW YORK, }

BE IT REMEMBERED, that on this Sixth day of March, A. D. 1897, before me, the subscriber, a Master in Chancery of the State of New Jersey, personally appeared HARRY G. RUNKLE, Secretary of RUNKLE, SMITH & CO., the Corporation mentioned in and which executed the foregoing certificate, who being by me duly sworn, on his oath says, that he is such Secretary and that the seal affixed to said Certificate is the Corporate seal of said Corporation, the same being well known to him; that Robert A. C. Smith is President of said Corporation, and signed said Certificate and affixed said seal thereto, and delivered said Certificate by authority to the Board of Directors and with the assent of at least two-thirds in interest of each Class of the Stockholders of said Corporation having voting powers as and for his voluntary act and deed and the voluntary act and deed of said Corporation in presence of deponent, who thereupon subscribed his name thereto as witness.

And he further says that the assent hereto appended is signed by at least two-thirds in interest of each class of the stockholders of said Corporation having voting powers, either in person or by their several duly constituted Attorneys in fact, thereunto duly authorized in writing. STEPHEN H. LITTLE, Master in Chancery of New Jersey.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. KENTUCKY SENATORSHIP.

Legislature Meets in Joint Session To-Day —No Choice on Separate Balloting.

Louisville, March 24.—It will take sixty-nine votes to elect a senator at to-day's joint session. Hunter got 66 yesterday. There will be 136 votes cast. Only 135 were cast at yesterday's separate ballot as one house democrat missed his train. There are 138 seats in the legislature, but one, democratic, is vacant through death, and illness keeps Senator Ogilvie, democrat, away. It is said this morning that eleven more republicans will refuse to vote for Hunter to-day. Ex-state senator Ed Parker, a friend of Gov. Bradley, offered to bet $1,000 last night that Bradley will be elected senator. The vote in the senate yesterday was: W. G. Hunter, rep., 13; J. C. Blackburn, sil. dem., 14; George M. Davies, gold dem., 6; St. John Boyle, rep., 3. Necessary to a choice 19. The house voted: Hunter, 53; Blackburn, 34; Davies, 5; S. B. Buckner, gold dem., 1; James B. McCreary, dem., 1; Boyle, 3; R. T. Tyler, dem., 1; W. J. Stone, dem., 1. Representative W. A. Baird, who was elected as a gold democrat, voted for Dr. Hunter. Stout, gold dem., voted for Blackburn. The republicans who refused to vote for Dr. Hunter issued a statement declaring that he is not the legal nominee and that St. John Boyle is. The republicans are called on to vote for Boyle at the joint session.

TWO KILLED; FOUR INJURED.

London, March 24.—It was announced yesterday that the British steamer Templemore, from Liverpool for Baltimore, had passed Tuskar returning. The Templemore was spoken on March 8 with her rudder gone and proceeding with a jury rudder to the eastward. Later she was spoken by the steamer Ulstermore, belonging to the same line, which sailed from Baltimore March 7 for Liverpool. The jury ruder of the Templemore had become disabled, and the Ulstermore was requested to tow the former back to Liverpool. A steel hawser was with some difficulty passed to the Templemore and the two vessels started. On the 17th inst., when there was somewhat of a sea running, the strain on the hawser was very great. As the stern of the Ulstermore was raised by the sea the bow of the Templemore pitched downward as an another sea passed under it, and the hawser parted. The part attached to the Templemore recoiled with the rapidity of a shot from a cannon and swept the deck of the disabled steamer. It struck Capt. Swainson and a seaman, killing them instantly. It also struck Chief Officer Phillips and three other men and broke the legs of all of them. Some damage was done about the deck by the flying hawser.

MISS DE ROSAY GETS $20,000.

Her Breach of Promise Suit Against J. F. O'Brien Settled Out of Court.

Boston, March 24.—The breach of promise suit of Miss Josephine de Rosay, the organist of Cambridge, against J. F. O'Brien, florist, politican and man of wealth, has been settled out of court. The suit brought with it an attachment for $100,000, Miss de Rosay estimating the damage to her affections at $50,000. She not alone included Florist O'Brien, who she said had proposed marriage during their courtship of twenty years and had been accepted in his suit, but also the father of his bride, William McKenney, who in the days of the war made so much money on cotton that he to-day is rated as the wealthiest man in East Boston. Secretary of the Navy Long, who was counsel for Miss de Rosay, was practically certain that his case was so sound that a verdict for the fair organist was assured. Miss de Rosay will get $20,000, and it is understood that Secretary Long received for services rendered $2,500.

Durrant's Appeal for a New Trial.

San Francisco, March 24.—George A. Knight has been added to Durrant's counsel and is now preparing a petition asking the supreme court for a rehearing of the application previously made and denied for a new trial. If this petition, which will be submitted without argument, be denied the federal courts will be appealed to.

RATE TRUSTS DEAD

Opinion of Railroad Lawyers on the Trans-Missouri Decision.

ALL THE ASSOCIATIONS MUST GO

Work of Disintegration Already Begun in the West—Rate Wars May Follow—Views of Chauncey Depew and Others Interested.

Chicago, March 24.—Within a week it is expected by high railroad officials that not one of the organizations having jurisdiction over passenger and freight rates will be in existence in the country, as a result of the plain decision of the United States supreme court that all associations which have for their purpose the maintenance of agreed rates and the division of traffic are illegal. The oldest organizations of this character must go to pieces. In fact, the work of disintegration has already begun in this city, the legal advisers of the great railroads being quick to grasp the hopelessness of the situation, so far as continued membership in these associations is concerned. General Solicitor Kenna of the Santa Fe system advised the traffic manager of that road to withdraw immediately from all freight associations of which it has been a member. It is believed that Mr. Kenna will also advise the Santa Fe's withdrawal from all passenger associations. A long consultation with other attorneys was held by General Solicitor Peck of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. To the meeting of lawyers Mr. Peck said he would advise the St. Paul's withdrawal from all associations. The counsel for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific road advised the officers that the only legal course to pursue was to sever connections with all associations. The peremptory action of all these companies means the certain disruption of the following associations and committees: Western Freight Association, Trans-Continental Passenger association, Western Passenger association, Southwestern Traffic association, Trans-Missouri Freight association and Southwestern Passenger committee. Officers of various western roads interviewed by the United Associated Presses reporter were divided on the effect which this disruption would have on rates. Officials of the Santa Fe said that they saw no reason why rates should become demoralized, while representatives of the Chicago & Alton, notably Vice-President and General Manager Chappell, said that they did not see how rate wars could be prevented.

DEPEW ON THE DECISION.

Result of Trans-Missouri Traffic Association of Serious Moment.

New York, March 24.—Chauncey M. Depew, who is chairman on the board of control of the Joint Traffic association, said this morning that there was no doubt that the decision of the supreme court in relation to the illegality of the trans-Missouri Traffic association, and which has been interpreted as applying to all traffic associations, was of serious moment. He added that he could not talk intelligently upon the situation, however, as he had not yet been furnished with the full text of the decision, and until he learned its concise specifications he would have to refrain from taking it up. He would not say, on account of not having the ful text of the decision, what action, if any, would be taken by the Joint Traffic association, and would have to wait until the decision was made clear before explaining the Joint Traffic association's position in the light of this decision. Among other railroad men the opinion prevails that the decision, which came as a surprise to them, will have the effect of causing the dissolution of all organizations having for a purpose the object which the supreme court has declared to be illegal. The Joint Traffic association is a combination of eastern trunk lines. It was organized for the purpose of establishing a uniform system of rates as much for the accommodation of shippers as of the railroads.

MME. RIGO CLAIMS DAMAGES.

Sues Her Husband and the Princess Chimay for 150,000 Francs.

Paris, March 24.—Madame Rigo, wife of the Hungarian fiddler, James Rigo, who eloped from this city last summer with the Princess of Chimay, formerly Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich., made her appearance in court yesterday accompanied by a commissary of police and formulated a charge of desertion against her husband. Madame Rigo in taking action at law against her husband and the princess claims the sum of 150,000 francs damages for the benefit of herself and children. Rigo and the former princess, whose husband recently obtained an absolute divorce from her upon the ground of her relations with the Hungarian, are announced to make their appearance on the stage at the Wintergarten in Berlin on April 1.

The Fayerweather Will Case.

Albany, March 24.—The court of appeals has denied with costs the motion for a reargument in the celebrated Fayerweather will case. This allows to stand the court's decision of several weeks ago distributing the $2,500,000 residue of the estate to the twenty colleges named originally in the tenth clause of the will.

Earthquake at Malone, N. Y.

Malone, N. Y., March 24.—Last night there was a heavy earthquake shock, starting with a sudden boom like an explosion and reverberating with a grinding motion for some seconds. It seemed to travel from southeast to northwest. People were alarmed for a moment, but the shock did no damage.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Murray, of La Grande avenue, has a new Crescent bicycle.

Owen Smith, of East Third street, has purchased a new Columbia wheel from the Eldridge Bicycle company.

Roland Rockfellow, of Park avenue, and Walter Harrison, of Mt. Pleasant, have purchased Princeton wheels from Gould & Randolph, the Park avenue cycle dealers.

Gould & Randolph, the cycle dealers on Park avenue, have taken the agency for the Victor wheel for this season. They call the attention of the cycling public to the high standard which this wheel has always maintained.

A well-known road rider from Philadelphia, named J. Moffett, has moved to this city, and is now employed at the Potter Press Works. He has just purchased a Kimball wheel from Gould & Randolph, and will be seen on the road on every pleasant evening and holiday. He has quite a reputation as a rider.

An effort is being made by the Metropolitan Association of Cycling clubs to have the annual Irvington-Millburn road race held this year on the Riverside Drive, application having been made to the Park Commissioners for the use of the Drive for two hours on the Saturday preceeding or following Decoration Day. Magistrate Simms appeared before the board yesterday and presented a petition asking for permission to use the Drive between Seventy second street and the curve at Claremont. The board will reply on Monday next, but Commissioners Stiles and McMillan expressed themselves in favor of granting the request. The proposed plan is strongly objected to by the leading members of tne League of American Wheelmen, and it is more than likely that strong protests will be made to the board against any such use of the drive. It is claimed by the protestants that the objection to bicyclers on the streets has but recently been overcome and that to make them so objectionable as a road race on Riverside Drive would, might lead to a general uprising. Most of the regulations of the authorities in charge of the streets of New York city have been in the direction of regulating speed and preventing "scorching" the bicycle police being organized practically for that purpose. To hold the race as proposed would require the suspension of speed ordinances for the day and would do little or no good for anybody. There is no reason why bicycle races should be permitted in the city streets when horse races are forbidden.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The bowlers from the athletic association of the Plainfield High School went to the alleys of the Platnfield Y. M. C. A. last evening with the intention of winning and did win one game. The other victory, however, was taken by the association bowlers. The first game was won by the High School boys by a score of 675 to 609. The visitors led all the way. George P. Smith was high man, with 146, but in the second game he was lowest, Capt. Arthur Lederer making high, 152. The second game was won by the home team, 727 to 654. The visiting team was composed of Carman Sutphen, Long, Smith, Brower and Lederer. The home team was M. Sutphen, Edes, Schloss, Rittenhouse and Clarence Sutphen.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team from the business men's class of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium found the second regular team of the association an easy prey, and defeated them without trouble by a score of 18 to 5. The score at the end of the first half was 10 to 3. The business men were Doane, captain; O'Donnell, Fuller, Johnston and Smith. The second team was composed of Jessup, Bonny, Moraller, Naylor and Prue. The goals were made by O'Donnell, five; Johnston, 3; Smith, one. Moraller threw two goals from the field and one on a foul.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

DUTIES OF A CITIZEN.

REV. A. E. MAIN'S THOUGHTS ON CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP.

The Problems of the Hour are Weighty and Mighty and Deserve the Honest Consideration of all Christian People.

The rain that began about seven o'clock last night prevented a very large attendance at the Christian Citizenship lecture given by Rev. A. E. Main in the Seventh Day Baptist church to the Christian Endeavorers of the city. A number of interested young people, however, gathered in the lecture room at the appointed time, and spent a very pleasant hour.

A service of song began the evening, led by D. E. Titsworth, with Miss Elizabeth Allis as pianist. Prayer was then offered by E. E. Anthony, President of the Christian Endeavor Local Union, after which came the address of the evening.

Mr. Main began by saying that before the men and women of today there lie weighty, urgent, perplexing problems. Religion is the one sure foundation of all goodness, and therefore of good citizenship. One of the highest of Christian Endeavorers should be the producing of good citizens. An ideally good citizen is one who uses the privileges and duties of citizenship in the spirit of Christ and Christianity. By the divine providence there has come into being the American commonwealth, a gift great, but bringing many responsibilities. Slavery has been abolished from our country, but there now confronts us the problem of training three millions of freed colored people for the duty of citizenship. Our country is said to be richer than any other; money is power, for good or evil, and the fruit of Christian citizenship should be a deeper sense of duty, justice and stewardship.

Our public school system is a fine one, and from it flow streams of intelligence into all our homes; but the peril of secularism is becoming a serious one, some even holding the view that the name of God should not be mentioned in a school.

How shall we make good, intelligent, loyal citizens of the thousands of immigrants that are yearly landed on our shores? This is a tremendous problem for us.

Statistics show us that the liquor evil is stronger in our country than abroad. Between good citizenship and the liquor traffic here is a deadly conflict.

Society's only hope of relief from the ruinous results of the wretched principles of socialism, which would abolish the state, the family, God, is in the strength of the Christian citizenship of the future.

Let the loyal hosts of Christian Endeavor stand firm as a bulwark, against the perils that threaten our country, for the highest, truest Christian citizenship.

After a closing hymn, prayer was offered by Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D, and the congregation dispersed.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Knox, of Grant avenue, have returned from a trip for health and pleasure.

Miss Minnie Arnold, of Manning avenue, will give a progressive peanut party at her home this evening.

Miss Harriet Halloway, of LaGrande avenue, has returned from Newark, where she has been spending a few weeks with relatives.

Mrs. Bennett, of Dunellen, who was injured in the trolley accident last evening, will be able to leave the hospital tomorrow. Her injuries were not as serious as was first supposed.

Wm. Schorb, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, was in town today visiting his parents. On Monday next he will leave for Milford, Mass., where he will reside and engage in business.

Arrangements Completed.

At the meeting of Post No. 73, G. A. R., last night, the members discussed the coming of the Second N. J. Brigade, April 9th. The Post will not meet again before the event takes place and all arrangements, so far as the Post is concerned, were made last evening.

A WOMAN'S IDEA OF GOVERNMENT.

Miss Yates' Lecture on the United States Constitution.

Plainfield women are well-known to be progressive, and the organization of the Woman's Parliamentary Club, some time ago, was received with enthusiasm by the many woman who were anxious to become able to preside at the meetings with grace and dignity. The club has succeeded remarkably well in its objects, and its members are heartily interested in their work. This season they arranged with Miss Elizabeth Upham Yates, a special special student at Radcliffe College in constitutional government, to deliver two lectures, one on the United States Congress, and one on the British Parliament. The first lecture was given this morning, in the Y. M. C. A. hall, before a deeply interested aundience of cultured women, and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Clementine Yates, president of the Woman's Parliamentary Club, introduced the speaker, a very handsome and attractive woman, in an exquisite gown of wine colored velvet, trimmed with rich creamy lace.

The lecture opened with a brief history of the United States Constitution, and the early elections, and sessions of Congress. Miss Yates then spoke of the Senate as it is at present, the the most highly empowered of any legislative body; its legislative and executive powers and the election of its members.

In the Senate there is no way to stop debate, as by "moving the previous question" in the House. Bills from the House may be amended beyond recognition. Legislation in the United States, said Miss Yates, has not yet reached perfection. The worst that can be said against the committee system, which may be the best for us, is that it gives us an incoherent legislation.

The question of amendments to the Constitution was now briefly spoken of by the lecturer. She told the history of the amendments we have at present, and showed that it is not easy to get a "pet measure" incorporated into the Constitution. She also spoke of some "pet measures" she would like to see adopted: Changing the term of the President to seven years, giving the ex President an honorary but active relation to the Government, and having the new Congress assemble immediately after election. However, in closing, she advised her audience not to lead off in any radical measures against the United States Constitution.

The lecture one week from this morning will be on the "British Parliament," and will doutless be very interesting. Single tickets will be sold for this lecture.

'CYCLE NOTES.

A Discovery that Will Keep Macadam Roads Free from Dust.

Pearson's Weekly.

A bill introduced in the New York Legislature providing for the expenditure of $20,000 for a cycle path, twenty feet wide, on Jerome avenue, New York city, has been passed by both branches of the Legislature and been signed by the Governor.

Champion bicycle rider "Eddie" Bald, for whom nearly all the leading bicycle manufacturers have been angling since the close of last season, recently at the Syracuse cycle show announced his intention to ride the same wheel this season as last. His title of White Flyer will therefore not be changed. Bald will start in a few days for California or the South to begin his season's training.

The official organ of the League of American Wheelmen recently stated that a cyclist had discovered that macadam roads could be kept moist and free from dust by sprinkling thinly with chloride of calcium, chloride of magnesium or bittern. The plan has been tried in a section of the West, where the climate is very dry, with some success, and the subject is being thoroughly investigated in this city with the object of making similar experiments to determine the value of the scheme. If it should prove a success it may be among the possibilities of the future to banish the watering cart nuisance and thus serve as another tribute to the enterprise of wheelmen and their League.

Chief Consul Robert Holm, of St. Louis, who has been spoken of as being identified with the movement to form a racing association in opposition to the L. A. W., has written a letter to President Potter in which he says that the talk of dissatisfaction in Missouri is "nonsense and in no wise comes from the representative wheelmen." He admits that the Missouri division was disappointed at the failure to secure the League's consent to approve of Sunday races, but had the L. A. W. consented to allow divisional option on the question he says that neither the L. A. W. nor the Associated Cycling Clubs of St. Louis would have held such races. The object of the Missouri division in seeking the approval of the organization for Sunday racing was to secure jurisdiction over the bicycle races that are held on Sunday at picnic games. Holm says that he does not think that the "League of the Independent Wheelmen" in St. Louis can injure the L. A. W. in any way. He says that the L. A. W. races held on Saturdays and holidays have always paid financially.

WHOLE CITY TO BE A HOST.

A HOSPITABLE WELCOME TO BE GIVEN TO THE SECOND BRIGADE.

The Reunion of the Veterans to Be Held Here April 9th—Prominent Army Officers to Be Present at the Celebration.

The Second New Jersey Brigade Committee met last evening in the rooms of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and listened to the reports of the various sub-committees, all of which reported progress. This Brigade was composed of the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and eleventh New Jersey Regiments, and numbered about five thousand men. There are now about two hundred members left and it is expected that they will be in this city April 9th when the Brigade will hold its reunion. This affair is chiefly a city celebration from the fact that the Mayor and other city officials extended the invitation to the members to come to this city. Among the prominent members of the Brigade who will be here are Generals Stickles, Russling, Price and many others. Last year when the reunion was held in Paterson the city officials gave the visitors a grand welcome and one that they will never forget. The local members of the G. A. R. hope that the event in this city will be just as noteworthy and it remains with the citizens in a great measure to see that it is done.

In the morning a meeting will be held in Grand Army hall at which time officers will be elected and other important business will be transacted. In the afternoon, after dinner has been served at Reform Hall, a camp fire will be held in the main part of the hall. There will be speeches by prominent people and there will also be lots of good music. A sufficient amount of time will be left so that the visitors will have a chance to make a tour of the city and see some of the points of interest.

WHITE'S MILLINERY OPENING

A Beautiful Display Arranged by Miss Kittie Daly.

There will be no doubt in your mind where you will buy your spring hat after you have visited White's millinery parlors. On entering the millinery rooms one feels as though summer had truly come and you were standing in a real flower garden; on all sides are roses in profusion, red geraniums, lilacs, pansies and indeed every flower that grows.

In the trimmed hats the principal color is the fashionable coral red, in many the red is used alone and in others it is effectively combined with black or with violets and rhine stones.

A very picturesque hat that was much admired is made of red geraniums with brim of red shirred net and red straw and geranium crown.

Miss Daly can certainly feel proud of her success as the hats, which are all of her own designing, are without a doubt the most beautiful ever displayed in Plainfield.

Not only the millinery parlors will you find interesting but the silk and dress goods as well are well worth seeing and then a trip on the elevator to the second and third floors to see the fine assortment of ladies capes, suits and shirt waists in silks and lawns. The rug and matting department is as pretty as a picture gallery and 'twill pay you to strol through the department.

The evergreens and palms that are used in decorating were sent to Mr. White by a friend in Florida.

DED AT A RIPE OLD AGE.

Suydam S. Van Horn Passes Away in His Eighty-eighth Year.

Suydam S. Van Horn, in the eighty-eighth year of his age, died last evening at his home, 171 Duer street, quite suddenly from old age. He leaves one son only, ex-Marshal J. W. Van Horn, of the borough. The departed died in the faith and was a member of Grace M. E. church. He was loved by all who knew him for his many excellent qualities. The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow evening, and interment will be at White House, Hunterdon county, Saturday morning.

A Stereopticon Lecture.

A stereopticon lecture on India will be given by Mr. Sudder, a returned missionary, in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow evening. No admission fee will be charged but an offering will be taken at the close. The lecture is an entertaining one and profusely illustrated.

Must Conform to the Law.

Health Inspector William Addis has been making a thorough inspection of every place in the city, and in many cases he has been obliged to insist that the property owners conform to the law. Some places were found to be in a very bad condition, especially at this time of the year.

FOR BOOKS AND THE SICK.

BEQUESTS FOR THE HOSPITAL AND PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Late James Stone Nason Leaves $1,000 for the Former and $500 for the Latter—He Once Lived in This City.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital have just received another bequest to assist them in their work. It was bequeathed to the hospital by the late James Stone Nason, who for many years resided at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street. At that time he was associated with the C. B. Rogers Company, of New York, who were engaged in the sale of wood machinery. When he lived in this city he was a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., and was well-known in this locality.

A number of years ago he went to Australia, where he remained for a long time. Later he went to Vermont, where he remained until he died, which was sometime ago. In his will he left $1,000 for the hospital and $500 for the Public Library, and the checks for the above amounts were received yesterday. Mr. Nason was especially interested in the work of the above institutions and was always pleased to assist whenever it was possible.

The hospital has been especially favored this year, for, with the above $1,000, there has been donated about $4,000 in all by several philanthropic persons.

A PUSHING SHOE FIRM.

Doane & Edsall Catering for Trade With Renewed Energy.

Doane & Edsall are making great preparations for a large spring trade. In order to accommodate the growing business they have moved their desk farther back to the rear end of the store, thereby giving more space for the showing of their immsnse stock of new spring goods which is arriving now every day. New rugs and chairs have also been added, and other improvements made which add greatly to the already attractive store. Seely Edsall, the junior member of the firm, now having no other business to engage his time, will give his personal attention to the furtherance of the business with Mr. Doane.

John H. Doane, the senior member of the firm, is one of the oldest and most practical shoe men in this section of the country, and none know better how to buy to please Plainfield people than Mr. Doane. The reputation of this firm for honest dealing in straight honest goods is well-known all over this part of the State.

FRACTURED HIS LEG.

Joseph R. Bennett Fell From a Box While Fixing a Stove Pipe.

Joseph R. Bennett, a carriage painter at J. P. Homan's carriage factory on Somerset street, met with a painful accident this morning while fixing the stove-pipe in a chimney. He was standing on a small box when very suddenly the box turned over and in the fall of about six inches Mr. Bennett fractured his right leg near the ankle. He was unable to walk and with the assistance of a fellow-workmen he was taken to his home at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street. Dr. Adams was called and set the broken bone. Owing to the advanced age of Mr. Bennett it will take some time for the bone mend, and he will be confined to the house for several weeks.

Salvation Army Campaign.

The second of the three days special campaign at the Salvation Army was led last night by Capt. Moulton and Lieut. Sthrol, of Elizabeth, assisted by a number of their soldiers, including Ed Hall, the redeemed drunkard and ex-saloon keeper. After the meeting there was a sale of fancy work and coffee and cake were served. Tonight the officers and soldiers from Bound Brook will take charge of the meeting. The sale will also be continued tonight.

For Building Purposes.

Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue painters, have purchased a strip of land in the rear of their building, 25x63, for the sum of $1,500. It was purchased from Karl Kaerth and the above firm will at some future date erect an addition to their present building.

Has a Sprained Foot.

Second Assistant Engineer John W. Murray, Jr., of West Fourth street, is suffering a great deal with a sprained foot. He is unable to account for the distressing pain and has no knowledge of how it came on. It is with great difficulty that he is able to walk.

Sale at Trinity Church.

The members of Miss Lizzie Dunn's Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church will hold a sale this afternoon and evening in the parlors of the church.

BAPTISTS REVIEW CHURCH WORK FOR A YEAR.

Annual Meetings of the Park Avenue and First Churches Held Last Night.

Reports Show That the Various Officers Have Taken Up Their Assigments and Worked Hard to Extend the Usefulness of the Church in Many Respects—The Officers Elected in Both Societies for the Ensuing Year.

Once a year the members of the congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church gather to elect officers, and transact what business is necessary for the maintenance of the church. Last evening the annual meeting was held in the church parlors. The reports from the different branches of work, except the financial report, were made and showed the church to be steadily growing. The financial report will be made at a meeting next month.

A. W. Day, the treasurer, made his report concerning the benevolent fund which amounted to $213. Of that $56 had been spent for foreign missions and $50 for home missions. The remainder had gone toward local charities and in the benevolent work in the church. The report for the Sunday-school was made by the secretary, Thomas A. Cuming. It showed that there are now 161 scholars in the school and that a home department with thirty members had been organized during the past year.

Something of the progress of the Christian Endeavorer Society of the church was told by the secretary of that organization, Miss Florence G. Hawkins. The Junior Society was reported for by its superintendent, Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry, who reported a membership of thirty-seven children.

The work of the Women's Home Mission Circle was told by the secretary, Miss Emma V. Fish, and Mrs. A. W. Rand, secretary of the Women's Foreign Mission Circle, made the report for that circle.

A sketch of the principal work that has been accomplished by the Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters was read by Miss Myra Runyon. The Ladies' Aid Society had a very interesting report to make through its secretary, Mrs. J. M. Middledith.

The stranger's and introduction committee, whose duties may be seen from their name, had a report to make through its chairman, J. M. Hawkins. Mrs. Walter Freeman, as chairman of the visitation committee, reported that the members of the committee had made eighty-nine calls during the last year. Deacon Tallman made the Deacons' report, which showed that the membership of the church now numbered 267.

The election of officers followed the reports and resulted as follows: Clerk, Thomas U. Cuming; treasurer, E. Fenton Haines; deacons, Theodore L. Runyon and David M. Runyon. The chairman of the different committees were selected as follorws: Strangers and introduction committee, J. M. Hawkins; entertainment, Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson; visitation, Mrs. Walter Freeman.

A vote of thanks was given to A. W. Day, the retiring treasurer, who has served in that position for seventeen years. Another vote of thanks was given to the members of the volunteer choir who have furnished the music during the past year.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

Memorial Day Detail.

It is expected that a memorial detail will be appointed by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., at their first meeting in April. Already the comrades are beginning to talk about the celebration of Decoration Day, but it was deemed wise to wait until the members of the late Post No. 109, should become members of Post No. 73, so that all would be treated fairly.

A LEG OF LAMB BUNCO.

A SLICK COLORED MAN TOLD A PLAUSIBLE STORY.

The Meat Belonged to J. H. McVey and Was at Van Sickle's Meat Market.—Colored Man Said McVey Sent Him to Get It.

Somebody had lamb chops for dinner yesterday. That is not surprising considering the size of the city, but the lamb chops in this case were peculiar. They came from a fore-quarter of lamb that once belonged to J. H. McVey, proprietor of the hotel and restaurant on North avenue. Now Mr. McVey purchased the fore quarter of lamb from J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue butcher, and left that quarter of lamb in Mr. VanSickle'e store until he should want it. Now that quarter of lamb is gone.

Yesterday morning, a few minutes before seven o'clock, a colored man entered Mr. VanSickle's store and told the proprietor that Mr. McVey wanted a fore-quarter of lamb for some chops as the cook didn't have any for breakfast and wanted them at once. Mr. VanSickle recognized the man as one whom he had seen about the restaurant and supposed of course that it was all right. He wrapped up the quarter of lamb and gave it to the colored man who suggested that he could take it over himself.

The colored man disappeared and so did the lamb, and the butcher and the restaurant keeper are both looking for them. The way in which it was discovered that they had been the victims of a simple little game, was when Mr. McVey went over later in the morning and inquired about the quarter of lamb. VanSickle said that he had it already, but McVey said no and explanations followed.

The man who so easily captured the lamb was a negro of middle height and build, whom Mr. VanSickle is sure that he can identify. It is needless to say that he has not shown himself around since that time.

A STREET OF MUD.

West Third Street Seriously in Need of Repairs.

West Third street is seriously in need of repairs. In its present condition it is dangerous to pass through the street in a wagon except with the horse walking. The residents, by their taxes, have once paid for having the street cut down and graded, but since the roadbed has been cut up to allow the water and sewer pipes to pass through it has never been put back in its former condition.

At Third and Liberty streets, where there is more traffic than at any other point in the Boulevard district, there are but two crosswalks for the four crossings, and these run parallel. So at the present time, with five or six inches of yellow mud staring him in the face, the pedestrian has to be careful in crossing the street from east to west and vice versa.

WHIST THE AMUSEMENT.

Miss Minnie Arnold Entertains the Club of Which She is a Member.

Miss Minnie Arnold, of Manning avenue, entertained the progressive whist club, of which she is a member, at her home last evening. The event was a novel one, from the fact that instead of playing whist the members enjoyed what is known as progressive peanuts. The game is played just the same as whist and affords a great deal of amusement for all. The game is very exciting and requires skill to be played right.

Mrs. Wm. Tier and John Tier, Sr., won first honors, while Mrs. Josie M. Tier and Mr. Pierson were awarded the second honors. After the game choice refreshments were served and the rest of the evening spent in a social manner.

HELD FOR MARY NOBLE'S DEATH.

Though Mrs. Francesco Made a Confession She Pleaded Not Guilty.

Mrs. Amelia Francesco pleaded not guilty to the Court of Quarter Sessions in Newark yesterday to a charge of misdemeanor growing out of the death of Mary Noble, of this city, a woman to whom, it is alleged, she administered a drug for criminal purposes. Mrs. Francesco's plea was a surprise to the officials, for since his arrest she had signed a confession acknowledging that she procured the drug for Mrs. Noble. The accused was held in $500 bail pending trial.

A Borough Marshal Handicapped.

Marshal Kliner, of the borough, has not yet received his belt, hat or suit from the borough authorities. They may have been ordered but it seems as though the desired articles were slow in arriving. Last Tuesday evening the above named marshal was very much handicapped in arresting two men because he did not have a suitable place to put his club while taking care of the violators.

Endeavor Anniversary.

The members of the Junior League of Monroe Avenue M. E. church will go to Dunellen tomorrow evening to assist the members of the Junior Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church of Dunellen in the celebration of their anniversary. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, will make an address on that occasion.

Not Bought the Property.

The report that Scheuer, the West Front street grocer, had purchased the property adjoining the Powlison & Jones building, is denied by the firm. They say that they have been considering the property adjoining the Babcock building but they have not yet decided whether to build or not.

DUSKY LOVER REPELLED.

ANNIE RANDOLPH SAYS WILLIAM PARKER WAS TOO FAMILIAR.

Parker Says He Simply Chuckled Her Her Under the Chin—Annie Did Not Like His Way and Had Him Arrested.

All was not joy and happiness yesterday with William Parker, a colored individual who makes this city his home. He went calling and finally ended the evening by landing in jail charged by his dusky friend with being too familiar. Miss Annie Randolph is a colored young woman of this city who supports herself by taking in washing. She lives in a room in a Sycamore street boarding house. Parker is a man-about-town who dresses well and cuts quite a shine among his friends. The officers of the law say that he has no regular occupation and has no visible means of support.

Yesterday, Parker went to see Annie Randolph who had met before. Both stories agree as far as that, but then they differ further on. The complainant says that Parker came for a call and was altogether to familiar with his manner. Parker declares that the facts are not these at all but that he simply paid her a call, and chuckled her under the chin.

Miss Randolph appeared before Justice Nash, last night, and swore out the complainant. The warrant for Parker's arrest was placed in the hands of Constable Mattox and was served at once. Parker was locked up and his friends went forth in search of a lawyer. William DeMeza was secured to represent Parker. His hearing was set down for this afternoon.

FERRY-BOAT IN A COLLISION.

While Dodging an Annex Boat the Elizabeth is Hit by a Barge.

While the Jersey Central ferry-boat Elizabeth was making her 8 a. m. trip from Jersey City yesterday, she slowed down to wait for a Pennsylvania Railroad Annex boat, bound for Brooklyn, to pass. Before she had come to a full stop a tow, consisting of the tug Maria Hoffman and two coal barges, dropped down the river upon the ferry boat.

The bow of one of the coal barges crashed into the Elizabeth forward of the port wheel-box, slightly damaging the woodwork and scaring the passengers.

The barge got the worst of the collision.

Thinks Johnson Should Have a New Trial.

A dissenting opinion was filed in the Court of Errors Monday by Justice Dixon in the case of Jacob S. Johnson, the Somerville murderer. Justice Dixon was the only one who voted to reserve the judgment below. He bases his opinion upon the ground that the act of the Legislature abolishing the Court of Oyer and Terminer, and which was afterward declared unconstitutional, stood upon the statutes unrepealed when Johnson was tried.

A Plainfield Illustrator.

A number of illustrations by George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, appear in the April number of Harper's Magazine. They are fourteen in number and illustrate the article, "From Home to Throne in Belgium," by Clare De Graffenried. Mr. Edwards' sketches are mostly interiors, showing the different types of the Belgian people.

Married a Vermont Girl.

The marriage of Miss Susie Lena Alexander, of Rutland, Vt., and William Symons, of East Third street, this city, took place last evening at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Symons will take up their residence in this city, and tomorrow evening they will give a reception at the home of the groom, 406 East Third street.

The Whist Congress.

The third annual congress of the New Jersey Whist Association will open at Jersey City, this evening. The four from the Park Club, composed of Messrs. Rogers, McCutchen, Howell and Townsend, went to New York this morning prepared to take part in the opening contest for the Park challenge trophy.

Camera Club Lecture.

Don't miss the opportunity to hear the noted amateur photographer tonight at the rooms of the Camera Club. Photagraphs made on his trip through Canada will be thrown on the screen to illustrate his lecture. The elevator will run all the evening.

—The auction sale of the goods belonging to John A. Thickstun was held yesterday afternoon and goods to the amount of $500 was disposed of. The sale was adjourned for one week when the balance of the stock, including chiefly flagging and curbing stones, will be offered for sale. The auction is under the supervision of Lawyer Irving Brady.

PERILS OF THE SEA

Twenty-seven Shipwrecked Sailors Landed at Boston.

CREW OF THE LOST SHIP ANDROSA

Rescued by the Steamer Ontario Near the Irish Coast---Thrilling Experience of the Men on Board the Ill-fated Vessel.

Boston, March 25.—Twenty-seven shipwrecked seamen, after suffering many hardships, have been landed at this port by the Furness line steamer Ontario, from London. Capt. Wise, the commander of the Ontario, reported that he had picked up on March 8, about 300 miles to the westward of the Irish coast, the crew of the iron British ship Androsa, commanded by Capt. David Morgan, which was bound for San Francisco from Liverpool, and had become completely wrecked and was fast sinking when the Ontario hove in sight and went to the rescue of the exhausted men. The vessel sailed from San Francisco, Oct. 28, with a cargo of about 200 tons of grain and a large quantity of canned goods. On Dec. 13, to the westward of Cape Horn, the first serious storm occurred, with very heavy seas running, frequently washing the ship's decks, starting the deckhouses and sweeping away all the deck movables which had not been securely fastened. During the height of this gale an unknown British ship was passed scudding along under two lower topsails and making very heavy weather of it. After this gale abated all went well until Jan. 14, when a terrific hurricane overtook the ship. In this storm the cargo shifted and the vessel hove down on her beam ends, and for ten hours her main and foreyards were dragging in the water. The vessel's bulwarks were smashed and one of her starboard lifeboats was demolished.

A Battle for Life.

On March 1 the ship was within 400 miles of Cork, Ireland, when a strong southerly gale set in, accompanied by a terrific sea. The gale steadily increased in fury until the 2d, when it was blowing a full-fledged hurricane from the W. N. W. At 5 o'clock that afternoon the fore and main lower topsails were blown to pieces, and shortly after this a monstrous tidal wave swept over the ship, bursting in the poop deck, carrying away three lifeboats and skids from the forward house and all moveables from the deck. Capt. Morgan says: "The bulwarks were swept clear away. All the chain plates were torn off, and the huge volume of water had hardly swept over us when all the topmasts went by the board. I had previously ordered the crew below, and no one was on deck but myself and the officers when this awful wave struck us. We were then in a terrible plight. The vessel was unmanageable, and her starboard side was down in the water as far as the hatches. We could not make our way about the vessel with any degree of safety, but as it then became a battle for life I ordered the crew on deck, and we began jettisoning the cargo. When the wave struck the vessel, the second mate, David Evans, was badly injured.

Rescue Came None Too Soon.

"The vessel then sprung a leak and the crew constantly at the pumps were fast becoming helpless. On Sunday, March 7, the weather again moderated, but on the 8th the sky had the appearance of another approaching storm which soon struck us, and it then became a question of a few hours that the vessel would founder. About 9 o'clock that morning the steamer Ontario hove in sight and a distress signal was shown. She sent a boat and after much difficulty the crew was taken off. Most of the men had to be put to bed on board the steamer, and for several days they were unable to be about. When last seen the Androsa was fast settling in the water, preparatory to taking her final plunge."

Disabled Steamer Passed at Sea.

London, March 25.—The North German Lloyd steamer Havel, from New York has arrived at Southampton. She reports that on March 20, it lat. 45 n., long. 41 w., she passed the British steamer Norna, from West Hartlepool for Baltimore. The Norna's shaft was broken, and she asked to be taken in tow. Owing to a short supply of coal the Havel could not render the desired assistance, but informed a passing tank steamer of the Norna's mishap.

Keep Well

Easy to say, but how shall I do it?

In the only common sense way—keep your head cool, your feet warm and your blood rich and pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

In the Spring Then all your nerves, muscles, tissues and organs will be properly nourished. Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the system, creates an appetite, tones the stomach and gives strength. It is the people's Spring Medicine, has a larger sale and effects more cures than all others.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites is still coming to the rescue. Out-door life, fresh air, and good pluck are of immense value. But in addition to these the body must be supplied with that peculiar kind of fat which is found only in cod-liver oil; combined with valuable medicinal agents; and there must be the tonic effect which comes from the hypophosphites. It is a great battle, and a great victory is often gained.

THE WHITE PEBBLE PIT.

Strange Discoveries of Mining Carried On Centuries Ago.

It has frequently happened that miners have discovered curious traces of former workings, hundreds of years ago, and tools have been found which belonged to the ancient miners, and many other relics.

A singular discovery was made, a few years since, by some workmen engaged in the Spanish silver mine known as the White Pebble Pit. While digging their subterranean passages they suddenly found a series of apartments, in which were a quantity of mining tools, left there from a very remote period, but still in such good preservation that there were hatchets, and sieves for sifting the ore, a smelting furnace, and two anvils, which proved the earliest miners had great experience in their operations.

Several objects of art, and some remarkable instruments, were also found, which have led scientific persons to think that the workings might have been made by the Phoenicians, the people who, as is well known, were, in the time of Solomon, famous for their manufacturing and commercial genius.

In 1854 a discovery was made by some miners excavating on the other side of the mountain on which the White Pebble Pit is situated; this was a fine figure of the heathen god Hercules, which was found in an old working.

In digging for copper on the shores of Lake Superior, in this country, the miners have made many similar discoveries, showing that the mines were worked ages ago.—Detroit Free Press.

The Owl's Foot.

The construction of the owl's foot is peculiar. Unlike the well-known foot of the parrot, which has two toes in front and two behind, and that of the eagle—or a more familiar example—the common sparrow, it has one toe behind and three in front; but the first of these is capable of much lateral motion, while the fourth or outer toe is reversible, and when the bird perches is turned backward, so that the bird sits on its perch with the two middle toes in front and the two outer ones behind.

Worked Automatically.

The man who either shuts the door with a bang or leaves it wide open is disarmed. No longer will he work havoc with the nerves of the people. Doors are now opened and closed automatically by electricity. A large city market has recently been fitted up with doors of this kind, the circuit being closed and the doors opened by the pressure of the visitor's feet on the mat. After the visitor has passed through the doors are shut by the same current, and left ready to open at the next visitor's call.

TREATY IS WRECKED

Comment of the British Press on the Senate Amendments.

THEY SEE AN ANTI-ENGLISH FEELING

Premature British Philanthropists Advised To Take Warning---Fate of the Treaty in the Senate Impossible To Foreshadow.

London, March 25.—The St. James Gazette, in a leading editorial article upon the action of the United States senate in adopting the amendments to the arbitration treaty reported by the foreign relations committee, says: "The unanimous vote of the senate has wrecked the arbitration treaty, and this should be a warning to the premature philanthropists on this side. The senators carried their point with a refinement of the pettifogger's cunning which enables them to profess friendship for the principle of arbitration while they smother the treaty with amendments which make it ridiculous." The Westminster Gazette thinks the senate's action a very disappointing and disconcerting result of all the efforts of Secretary Olney and Lord Salisbury. The anti-English feeling underlying the action of the senate, the paper adds, is the most unpleasant aspect of the matter. The Pall Mall Gazette says that merely to please sensational jingoism and self-importance a promising plan has been wrecked. In concluding the Gazette says: "We firmly believe the Americans generally will be more thoroughly ashamed of their senate than they ordinarily are, which is saying a good deal."

FATE OF TREATY IN DOUBT.

Foreign Relations Committee Would Not Be Surprised if It Were Rejected.

Washington, March 25.—What the ultimate fate of the general arbitration treaty in the senate will be can not be foreshadowed. Another executive session of the senate will be held this afternoon, and events may so shape themselves that there will be a showing of the relative strength of the advocates and opponents of the measure. At present its opponents claim to have the the requisite thirty votes to encompass the defeat of the treaty, and they say they have several of the new senators on their list. The questions asked by these new senators indicate a lively interest in the convention and a determination to understand the subject thoroughly before casting their votes. It would not come as a surprise to the committee on foreign relations to have the treaty rejected. At 2 o'clock next Wednesday the vote will be taken on the amendments then pending. At 4 o'clock on Thursday the vote is to be taken upon all amendments that may be offered in the meantime, and this will be the last of the votes on proposed amendments. From that time the debate will proceed on the treaty proper.

TARIFF DEBATE.

The General Discussion To Be Closed To-night According to the Programme.

Washington, March 25.—Large audiences in the galleries and an unusually large attendance on the floor of the house of representatives were on hand this morning when the fourth day's general debate upon the tariff bill was begun. The general debate will be closed to-night. Messrs. Russell, Conn.; Dalzell, Pa.; Steele, Ind., and Payne, N. Y., republican members of the committee on ways and means and Mr. Bailey, Tex., the democratic leader, are the speakers for the day. The latter makes the formal closing for the minority and Mr. Payne for the majority. Besides these, Messrs. Hepburn, rep., Ia., and Richardson, dem., Tenn., will speak. Mr. Bailey said this morning that he intended to ask that part of his time be extended into the five-minute debate closing March 31.

Educators Win Their Fight.

Washington, March 25.—As a result of the protest of President Dwight of Yale college and the several members of the faculty against the action of the ways and means committee in placing books and scientific apparatus for educational institutions on the dutiable list after having been free for many years, the paragraph relating to these articles has been changed so as to meet the objections of the protesting educators.

Dixon Defeats Erne.

New York, March 25.—Frank Erne met George Dixon for the second time at the Broadway Athletic club last night. Dixon got the decision without the shadow of cavil. Dixon was himself again, and he did all the leading up to the twenty-first round. Erne stayed away and scarcely landed three good blows until the twenty-first. Dixon fought differently from his usual style. He was more cautious and tried hard to get Erne to lead.

Germany To Watch England.

Berlin, March 25.—The National Zeitung, an inspired organ, publishes an articles on the Transvaal situation, in which it says that in view of the fact that Great Britain is sending reinforcements of troops to South Africa, Germany will watch developments with the closest interest.

To Stop Deer Hunting with Hounds.

Albany, March 25.—This afternoon the assembly fish and game committee will report favorably the bill prohibiting the hunting and killing of deer with hounds for five years after June 1, 1897.

RUSH ON PARTY WORKERS.

Yard at the Navy Yards Will Not Be Allowed, Says Secretary Long.

Washington, March 25.—Secretary John D. Long of the navy department has made an emphatic answer to congressional delegations from New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and California, who have been requesting him for the past two weeks to "let down the bars" at the Brooklyn, League island, Norfolk and Mare island navy yards, so as to admit party workers, irrespective of merit qualifications. It has been alleged that in carrying in effect the civil service regulations favoritism was shown to democrats. Mr. Long replies that "when the system of employing mechanics and laborers upon merit first went into effect it was reasonable to suppose that those who were to administer the regulations would make some mistakes," but "favoritism will not be allowed." Then he adds these explicit instructions: "It is the intention of the department to enforce fairly and justly the regulations as promulgated, and to disarm unjust criticism it is necessary that the attention of each official at the yard under his command be called to what is expected of him, as to the certainty of punishment if any person entrusted with the enforcement of the labor regulations violates them or fails, through carelessness or negligence, to perform the duties expected of him. The department desires you to personally communicate to officials at the yard under your command its views as expressed above."

WILL BID FOR ARMOR PLATE.

Illinois Iron & Steel Co. To Enter the Field of Competitors.

Washington, March 25.—Vice-President Palmer of the Illinois Iron & Steel company of Chicago, who has been spending the past few days in Washington, will be one of the bidders for the manufacture of the armor plate for the new battleships. The bids will be opened on April 8. The company of which Mr. Palmer is the vice-president has an extensive plant at Chicago, and if their bid be accepted it is their purpose to enlarge their works so as to enable them to manufacture armor plate for the future. At present the only firms in America which engage in this business are the Carnegies of Pittsburg and the Bethlehem company of Bethlehem, Pa.

PILGRIM FATHERS' RECORDS.

Mr. Bayard's Petition for Their Custody To Be Heard in London To-day.

London, March 25.—The petition presented by Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador, on behalf of the president and citizens of the United States, will be heard in St. Paul's cathedral this afternoon by the chancellor of the diocese of London. The petition asks for the custody of the manuscripts deposited in the library of Fulham palace containing the records of the early history of the Pilgrim Fathers and their voyage to America in the Mayflower.

Suit for Valuable Land.

Amesbury, Mass., March 25.—Hon. Calvin Page of Portsmouth, N. H., has been retained as counsel by the Misses Miller of New Haven, Conn., who are contesting for the estate of the late Simon P. Towle, at Hampton, N. H. One hundred acres of the most valuable land of the town is at stake. On this land are three churches, the Hampton company's shoe factory and nine dwellings. The owners of these have been requested to pay for their sites over again, as the Misses Miller claim that the purchases by these people of Mr. Towle is not legal, as he only held the property in trust.

Against the Sale of Prize-fight Views.

Washington, March 25.—A bill prohibiting the exposition in the District of Columbia of kinetoscope representations of prize-fights and also prohibiting the transportation of materials therefor through the mails or through the avenues of interstate commerce has been introduced in the senate by Mr. Hoar, rep., Mass., and referred to the judiciary committee.

Nominated by the President.

Washington, March 25.—The president has sent to the senate the following postmaster nominations: Vermont—John A. Sheldon, Rutland. Massachusetts—Alfred Hocking, Melrose. New York—G. E. Drumm, Chatham. Pennsylvania—James W. Worrall, Kennett Square; Harry F. Hawkins, Beaver Falls.

To Establish a New Department.

Washington, March 25.—Mr. Brownow, rep., Tenn., has introduced in the house a bill establishing a department of commerce, labor and manufactures. Its head is to be a cabinet officer, and the necessary clerical force is provided for in the bill.

Tents for Flood Sufferers.

Washington, March 25.—The president has signed the joint resolution which passed congress Wednesday authorizing the secretary of war to furnish tents to the sufferers of the Mississippi river floosd.

Hatton-Hoffman.

London, March 25.—Most Rev. Frederick Temple, D. D., Archbishop of Canterbury, has issued a license for the marriage of Col. Villiers Hatton of the Grenadier Guards and Miss Emily Burrell Hoffman, an American lady.

New Fire Insurance Company.

Albany, March 25.—Superintendent of Insurance Payn has authorized the Highland Mutual Fire Insurance company of Newburgh to commence business as a mutual fire insurance corporation with a capital of $100,000.

Secretary Alger's Private Secretary.

Washington, March 25.—Fred C. Squires of Michigan has been appointed private secretary to Secretary Alger.

WANT TO GET OUT

Delay in Nominations Irritating to Some Incumbents.

CHIEFLY IN THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE

Secretary of the Embassy at Rome, Larz Anderson, Compelled To Postpone His Wedding—Gen. Lee Also Anxious To Be Relieved.

Washington, March 25.—Embarrassment to incumbents is as serious over the delay in patronage distribution as it is to office-seekers in a number of instances, the most notable cases being in the diplomatic and consular service, where several officials are being seriously incommoded by the failure to get their resignations accepted. One of the most pressing of these is that of Larz Anderson of Ohio, secretary of embassy at Rome. He is a republican and has been in the service since 1890, when he became second secretary at London under Minister Lincoln. In 1894 he was promoted to his present position in Italy and recently he has been charge d'affaires in the absence of Ambassador MacVeagh. Mr. Anderson cabled the state department yesterday begging to be relieved, but a reply had to be sent to him requesting him to continue a short time longer, and that every effort would be made to gratify his request. This condition is embarrassing to Mr. Anderson, as all arrangements had been made for his wedding to a multi-millionaire lady of Boston, Miss Perkins, soon after Easter. Nothing seems left to be done but to postpone the wedding. No secret is made at the state department that Senator Hale's son has been selected to succeed Mr. Anderson, but it is thought advisable to nominate the ambassador to Italy before making the lower appointment. Consul-General Fitzhugh Lee's case is another pressing one. Not only is the bad season at Havana coming on, but Gen. Lee does not wish to serve under a republican administration, which might injure his prospects of future political honors in his own state. He has reiterated his desire to return home at the earliest possible moment and cannot understand why it should take a month to select his successor.

Applicants for Treasury Positions.

The following applications for positions under the treasury department have been made public: To be collector of customs—J. H. Raymond of Bath, Me., at Bath. To be surveyors of customs—T. D. Hyatt of Brooklyn, N. Y., at New York; R. M. Johnson of Philadelphia, at Philadelphia. Andrew Jacobs of New York to be naval officer of customs of New York. Collectors of internal revenue—A. L. Miller of New York, at New York; W. M. Taggart of Philadelphia, at Philadelphia; G. E. Price of Myerstown, Pa., at Baltimore, Md. D. W. C. Carroll of Pittsburg, to be supervising inspector of steam vessels at Cincinnati.

COMMISSIONS SIGNED.

Credentials of Two Ambassadors Now at the State Department.

Washington, March 25.—The president has signed the commissions of John Hay, ambassador to the court of St. James; Horace Porter, ambassador to France, and Henry White, first secretary of embassy at London. The commissions have been sent to the state department. Mr. White took the oath of office at the state department yesterday. He will sail from New York Saturday, armed with a letter from the secretary of state to Lord Salisbury, minister for foreign affairs, accrediting him as charge d'affaires ad interim of the United States. Ambassador Bayard is now absent on the continent, and Mr. White will have several weeks to serve as the principal diplomatic representative of this government at London.

Attack on Civil Service Laws.

Washington, March 25.—The attack in the senate upon the civil service law and its administration, which was started on Tuesday, has been followed up by the introduction of two bills, one by Mr. Allen, pop., Neb., for the repeal and annulment of the law and of all executive orders issued under it, and the other by Mr. Pritchard, rep., N. C., chairman of the committee on civil service and retrenchment, modifying it in its application to the government printing office.

Tariff Before Nominations.

Washington, March 25.—A congressman who visited the White House was informed by the president that nominations would be few and far between until the tariff discussion was well under way in the senate. This means a long wait. The Dingley bill will not be voted on as a whole until March 31. The senate, as a deliberative body, will take its time with the measure, which must, however, first go to the finance committee for consideration, revision and amendment.

Platt Sees the President.

Washington, March 25.—Senator T. C. Platt had a long talk with the president yesterday afternoon, and it is currently reported that he was successful in securing a promise of the nomination of Archie E. Baxter of Elmira to be third assistant postmaster-general. Senator Platt presumably told the president the result of the conference of the New York congressional delegation about the federal offices.

Dinner at the White House.

Washington, March 25.—The President and Mrs. McKinley gave a dinner last night in honor of the cabinet. The state dining room and the reception rooms in the first floor were profusely decorated with growing plants and cutflowers. Covers were laid for twenty-two.

ADO ABOUT MARRIAGE LICENSES.

There was considerable of an ado in the M. E. Conference at Trenton yesterday over the introduction of a resolution declaring the opposition of the conference to the Marriage License Bill now pending before the Legislature, because it would increase immorality by placing an obstruction against entering the bonds of matrimony. The resolution was offered by a Salem minister, who comes from a territory where many of the couples from Pennsylvania go to join in wedlock and thus avoid the trouble of procuring a license in the Keystone State. Consequently the income of the officiating Jersey clergyman is considerably increased beyond their regular pastorial salary, and any effort to make the same marriagable restrictions in this State as prevailing in Pennsylvania meets with their emphatic disapproval, since it affects a source of this income. The proposition for the conference to oppose the enactmentment stirred up Rev. Henry Thomas Hanlon, president of the Pennington Seminary, who declared that he would oppose the adoption of such a resolution so long as he could stand, or until he was forced by the Bishop to desist. The State has been disgraced, he said by marriages under the present law, performed by some Camden clergymen, whose methods are unbecoming ministers of the Gospel.

MR. SWAYZE'S APPOINTMENT.

Of all the appointments to be made in Washington during the administration of President McKinley, there will probably be none more qualified to fill the place assigned than that of Theodore F. Swayze, whose selection for the chief clerkship in the Treasury department was announced in yesterday's Press. The title to the office is really a misnomer because its duties are principally executive, and in that capacity Mr. Swayze has displayed signal ability to thoroughly and rapidly dispatch business. And in this particular position Mr. Swayze's past experience will enable him to quickly grasp the affairs of the office when he assumes charge. It will be pleasing to his many friends in this city to know that he is such an admirer of Plainfield that he intends to retain his residence here.

LEGISLATIVE ADJOURNMENT.

There is every indication that final adjournment of the Legislature will not take place this week. There now seems to be a tacit understanding that final adjournment will take place at noon on Wednesday of next week. The appropriation bill is not yet ready and the constitutional amendments cannot be put through this week. Hearings are to be given on the bicycle baggage bill and the marriage license bill this afternoon. The members will not consent to adjournment under these circumstances.

EARLY INTELLIGENCF.

—George Firstbrook is putting up an addition to the rear of his store building on Liberty street.

—The official board of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will hold a meeting on Sunday morning in the church.

—The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold its regular business meeting on Tuesday evening in the corps rooms on West Second street. It will be followed by a supper for members only.

—P. J. Mack is putting in a monster ice box in his new butcher shop at Fourth and Liberty streets. While he has hardly yet got down to actual business, he is already catering to some of the best trade in town.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malaria poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

DOINGS OF THE PEOPLE.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF CITY AND BOROUGH FOLKS.

Many Are Temporary Visitors Who Come to Enjoy the Hospitality and Admire the Beauties of the Colorado of the East

Willard Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, is ill with the grip at his home.

J. E. Sutton, of West Front street, is slowly recovering from an attack of the grip.

Mrs. Oliver Voorhees, of East Front street, is confined to her home with an attack of the grip.

Miss Nellie Goff, of Third and Liberty streets, has returned home from a pleasant visit in Brooklyn.

A baby girl came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Templin, of North avenue, last night.

Melvin H. Cleaves, of North Plainfield, is a petit juror for the April term of the Somerset county court.

Mrs. George Whiteley, of East Second street, is reported as being slightly improved from her severe illness.

Thomas Kane, of Brooklyn, and his friend, Charles Dougherty, are the guests of Mr. Kane's parents on West Third street.

Miss Elizabeth U. Yates will speak Sunday evening in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. She will talk on missionary work.

The Misses Davis, of Watchung avenue, who have been stopping at the Revere House for some time, sailed today for Europe.

Mrs. P. S. Bristol, of Milford, Conn., returned to her home yesterday after visiting her brother, S. C. Peck, of West Front street.

Theodore F. Swayze, of this city, who has just been appointed chief clerk of the U. S. treasury department, is a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, of this city.

Mr. Bowman, of East Sixth street, who has been suffering from a paraletic stroke for sometime past, was not quite so well yesterday. His condition is not considered serious, however.

Some of the young men on the New York University Glee Club, who will give a concert this evening in Y. M. C. A. Hall, will be entertained at the home of Israel C. Pierson, of Watchung avenue.

After a long and steady business career, Mrs. M. E. Smalley, the Liberty street milliner and fancy goods dealer, finds that her health is being impaired by too close confinement to her work, and she will take a six-months vacation in which to recuperate.

B. Q. Brown, for a long time employed by Marsh, Ayers & Co., painters and decorators, but who has been working in Boston and Springfield, Mass, for the past two years, returned to Plainfield yesterday. Mr. Brown says he intends to locate here permanently.

Mrs. Hans Thompson and her four children, of West Fourth street, will leave for Penn Yan, N. Y., tomorrow. Mrs. Thompson goes to join her husband who went there some time ago and engaged in farming. So successful have been Mr. Thompson's operations that he has sent for his entire family.

THEATRICAL.

There can be no question regarding the hold which melodrama has on the theatre-going public at the present time. One reason for this is that a melodrama is really a reflex of life; life with its ups and downs, its bright and its shady sides. This is what probably makes good melodrama popular, for in them the theatre-goer finds his own emotions reflected; sees his experiences and those of others pass before him, keeping him interested and entertained while the curtain is raised on the performance. "Saved from the Sea," the melodrama which has been the attraction at the Princess Theatre, London, for the past year and which will be seen here at Music Hall tonight, is one of the strongest and most intensely interesting plays produced in recent years. A most elaborate production of this play is promised by Wm. Calder.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"NEW PLAINFIELD ENTERPRISE."

SENSIBLE SHOESHOP.

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business, but am after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me; want to renew old acquaintances, and get aquainted with everybody I don't know.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

W. R Hetfield is suffering from a severe cold and hoarseness.

William Seilenbach is the latest proposition for membership in the I. O. F.

A sister of Mrs. Fred Wilcox and her children, from Hasbrouck Heights, are visiting here.

Luther Frescohn and family, of West Dunellen, will remove to New York early the coming week.

The dance in the town Hall this evening, which is an invitation affair strictly, promises to be largely patronized.

W. J. Winges, formerly of this place and now of Hoboken, accompanied by Aloys Pivys, were guests at the Park Hotel yesterday.

The work of painting and decorating the front of the Todd building, opposite the depot, was begun by Contractor W. H. Kuhns, this morning.

Rev. Charles Waldron, pastor of the South Market street M. E. church in Newark, will occupy the pulpit in the M. E. church here next Sunday morning.

The regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting in the M. E. church last evening was largely attended. Many testimonies were given in and prayers offered up.

George Schenck will open his new store in the rooms formerly occupied by the W. C. T. U., on Saturday. George is a most popular young man, and his many friends wish him unlimited success in his undertaking.

The roads in some places were almost impassable after the rain yesterday, but the brisk wind that started up during the day dried them up remarkably fast, and before night a few bicycles were noticed on the streets.

A junkman's horse became frightened at a trolley car in front of the "eight row," at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, and made a desperate effort to climb up a flight of steps in front of one of the houses. No great damage resulted.

Mayor P. W. Brakeley reports the health of the borough to be in an excellent condition at the present time. The recent inclement weather has caused many colds, but no new cases of serious illness have been reported within the past forty-eight hours.

Few people have any conception of the beauty about the well-known Dicken's mineral springs. True it is the rustic work covering and surrounding the springs has been neglected, but a small expense would put this in repair, and as for the qualities of the water for medicinal purposes, they are too well-known to need further recommendation.

The Press has repeated called attention to the exceedingly dangerous spot between the round house and the street car terminus—made dangerous on account of no light. Last night some miscreant stood an empty nail keg directly in the middle of the sidewalk and a gentleman and his wife who were hurrying along to catch a street car, stumbled and fell over the keg. Neither were injured, however.

Just as one comes to the end of the sidewalk near the Emerydale station, there is a puddle of muddy water which is "out of sight" at night. Last night a middle-aged, heavy-set commercial traveler who carried a monster valise, came trudging along and walked directly into the puddle. The man was as mad as a march hare, and he quoted liberally from the Revised Edition.

Thomas Kelly, the thirteen year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartley Kelly, whose escapades have been quite numerous of late, was in town with a good-sized dog yesterday. The lad is known for his fresh proclivities, so to be smart he wanted to show some of his friends how nicely the dog could kiss him. The dog fastened his teeth in young Kelly's upper lip and left the prints of his teeth there. The boy may be disfigured for life.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The beautiful American flag which floats gracefully from the top of the public school building, is admired by all.

There were unmistakable evidences of spring here yesterday, when robins and blue-birds were heard chirping their sweet lays.

There will be baptismal services in the Baptist church on Sunday evening next, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Braker.

Another rooster setto is on the tapis for Saturday night, but those on the "inner circle" absolutely refuse to divulge the place of meeting.

After several days of hard work drilling, John Marsh has got down to a strata of water which two or three water supply companies couldn't pump dry.

Many horse admirers went to the Plains yesterday to get a look at and gain information concerning the sale of thirty well-bred horses at Emory's hotel stables this afternoon.

Dr. Westcott is a strong advocate of sanitary measures so he is erecting a large cesspool on his Fanwood property. Three other property owners in the immediate locality are following suit.

William A Cook is now employed through Hans Lambertson, in landscaping for the Central Land Improvement Company. His services already show his adroitness and taste in the work.

At the present time there are two or three desirable stores vacant here. The rents are not exhorbitant, and it would seem that any one of them could pan out a good living for any one with any business ability, who might take hold of them.

The store of the late James A. Baker is now closed and Executor William C. Stanbury has placarded the front door to the effect that hereafter all business pertaining to the deceased will be transacted at the executor's home, corner Park and Mountain avenues.

The latest acquisition to the display of live stock at the Italian rookery on East Front street, is a horse. How they got it, or where it came from, is not stated. At any rate the emaciated animal was put through a course of running sprouts, yesterday, and the dagos enjoyed the sport hugely.

Almost the entire stretch of sidewalk, about half a mile, in front of the John Taylor Johnson property, on East Front street, has been macadamized with a coating of very fine stone. For some time past the walk has been almost impassible and pedestrians were oftentimes obliged to take to the roadway.

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

Another wave of the grip has struck Westfield.

Miss Lizzie Samets is visiting friends in Netherwood.

John Sorter will shortly occupy Charley Coxes' house in Picton street.

The cases of diphtheria in the "castle" are reported to be improving.

The young ladies gymnasium class met in Gale's club house yesterday afternoon.

The Christian Endeaver held its social in the Presbyterian chapel Tuesday night.

The regular monthly reception and dance of the Social Club will take place tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Bond of Brooklyn have taken up their residences here for the summer.

The Moffett children, living in "The Castle," are reported to be recovering from the dyphtheria.

Miss Georgie Bogart had a large attendance at the Social Club last evening for dancing instructions.

Rev. J. A. Merrill, of Plainfield, talks on the woman's right to vote, at the W. C. T. U. hall this evening.

Miss Jerry is on the boards for tomorrow night at W. A. C. hall, for the benefit of the Children Country home.

The W. A. C. will have a rehearsal of its amateur minstrel show, Saturday night, at which time the parts will be assigned.

Helen Wooley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wooley, took part in a church entertainment in Plainfield Tuesday evening.

Central Council, No. 31, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate several members tomorrow night, after which a collation will be served.

A party of Westfielders will attend the missionary extension lecture in Roselle this evening. Mr. Edward C. Lobenstein, of New York, will do the talking.

George Peek, Jr., has about a hundred "home" pigeons of which he is proud He has several which hold the record for various long distance races and expects to have some fly against time this season. His dejection now is something painful to see. Some miscreant has stolen five of his choice birds.

The Union News Company sent a new man to its stand here last week to succeed Captain J. W. R. Bennet, who retired on account of poor health. The new comer started into hustle things at once. He put a portable stand at the east bound depot, in charge of "Louis the boot-black," and requested C. F. W. Wittke, who for years has served Westfielders with the morning and evening papers, to keep off of the platform. As a matter of course Mr. Whittke did not comply with the request, consequently an officer of the Central Railroad has been sent down several times and ordered Mr. Wittke off of the platform. Mr. Whittke obeys, but almost immediately returns again and serves his customers.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Wilson Memorial chapel will hold anniversary services in the chapel this evening. There will be an address by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., of Plainfield, and special music by talent from Plainfield. All members of Christian Endeavor Societies and friends of the chapel are invited to be present.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the Wilson Memorial chapel was held on Tuesday evening. The reports of the officers and committees for the past year were made and the school was shown to be in a good condition. While the finances were low, there were sufficient funds to pay all outstanding bills. The annual election of officers was held and resulted as follows: Superintendent, E.L. Bonny; assistant superintendent, S. B. Josephs; treasurer, Miss Nettie Beeching; secretary, Richard Rogers; librarian, Harry Acker; organist, Miss Nettie Beeching; assistant organist, George Speer; Andrew Wilson, trustee for three years.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A barn dance will be given at the home of Daniel Manning, near New Market, this evening. A number from this city will attend.

Cranford, N. J., March 1, 1897.—I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills for rheumatism and headache with satisfactory results. My mother has been relieved of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we find it an excellent spring medicine. Miss Minnie A. Neipp.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable.

A CURIOUS INDUSTRY.

FRANCE HAS ALMOST A MONOPOLY IN MANUFACTURING MASKS.

They Supply the American Market Yearly With Six Million Dozen False Faces—Special Disguises are Almost Portraits of Noted Men and Women.

It is estimated that the yearly importation of masks to America reach more than 6,000,000 dozens of masks of all kinds and degrees.

France and Germany produce nearly the entire output of this curious industry. The best—that is to say, the most artistic—productions come from France.

In Paris alone more than 2,000,000 masks are used annually, and perhaps as many more are shipped to other parts of the world. The largest share of those exported go to the United States and South America, where there is a constantly growing demand.

Some masks are finished with such marvellous accuracy that at the first glance one would almost believe them to be part and parcel of the wearer.

Special masks, being almost portraits of noted men and women, are expensive and cost up to $5 and $10 apiece. They are made with extreme care, having real hair and eyebrows, besides an immaculate complexion, provided the original boasts of such. The prospective purchaser of a mask can have his own face copied, should he, as has often happened, choose this peculiar mode of hiding his own identity. The leading establishment has over 10,000 different models, and a customer is permitted to try the effects of just as many as he pleases.

Of late there has been a disposition to masquerade in the guise of some animal, and this idea has opened a large field for the mask manufacturer. There is not a single one of the larger animals, either wild or domestic, that is not faithfully imitated. And as for grotesque freaks of the most astonishing character their number is equally large. It is scarcely possible that this industry will gain a foothold as a profitable business in the United States on account of the many complications that it involves. It is one of the few trades where it is hard to introduce labor-saving machinery, and wages are too high in America to make the attempt without it.—Chicago Tribune.

New Peril for Firemen.

An entirely new danger from electricity was discovered in a fire the other day in the electrical power house in Chicago. The fire was confined to the basement, and it was found necessary to chop holes in the floor of the dynamo room in order to play a steam on some burning waste. Without waiting for the dynamos to be shut off the firemen crept through the hole thus formed and turned a stream on the flames. In an instant the men holding the hose were thrown to the ground with great violence and the hose sent flying into the air. The stream of water had acted as an electrical conductor, and a powerful current of electricity had passed along the stream and shocked them. The men were unconscious, but were soon resuscitated.—New York World.

The Motto Sown in Fertile Ground.

"I never see that good old motto, 'Honesty is the best policy,'" remarked Senator Sorghum, "without being carried back to my boyhood days."

"It is a grand old motto," replied his friend; "one that is well to impress early in life."

"Yes. I'll never forget the time I had to pay the smart boy of the school seven cents and a jackknife to write that line in my copybook, so as to keep me from getting marked below the average in penmanship."—Washington Star.

Where Whiskers are Popular.

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Stormington Barton, tragedian, "to interfere with your conception of the part, but in our next performance of 'Hamlet' you will have to omit the beard from your make-up of Polonius."

"But, sir—"

"There is no use in protesting. We are, as you may know, about to play in a territory where there is an intense populistic sentiment. The last time I produced 'Hamlet' there they mistook Polonius for the star, and I'm not going to take any more chances."—Washington Star.

A Fatal Defect.

"I understand, Rastus, that your daughter is quite a singer."

"Deyn't no doubts erbout dat, boss."

"That's lucky; I suppose you will have no difficulty in getting her a position in one of the church choirs in town?"

"She's tried dat, boss, but it didn't wu'k. Eb'y time she done open her mouf, it made sich a draf in de synagog dat de con'egation caught col', an' she hatter resign."—Richmond Dispatch.

A Kitchen Hint.

A little soap is as useful in cleaning a stove or range as in cleaning other kitchen ware. A flannel rubbed with soap and then dipped into stove polish will lighten labor when the stove is to be made bright. Of course, the finishing touch must be a dry brush or cloth, applied with energy. Stoves so blackened are said to retain their polish much longer.

A Friend in Disguise.

Weary Raggles—If I wuz to join any sassiety, it wud be one o' dem fer de preservation o' forests.

Wandering Willie—Why so, pard?

Weary Raggles—'Cause, if dey hed their way there wudn't be enny wood to saw.

ONE OF THE OLDEST SHIPS.

An American Bark 133 Years Old Still Doing Duty in English Waters.

The bark True Love, built in Philadelphia in 1764, has been found upon search to be yet afloat in the capacity of a coal hulk engaged in active trade at the age of 133 years. The True Love has not only outlived her builders and their successors, but has also outlived every craft that was built in her time and for many years afterward, and this fact, coupled with the report that the historic craft is still engaged in active pursuits, places Philadelphia at the very top notch as a shipbuilding centre.

In 1764, when this famous old craft was launched on the banks of the Delaware, although her length was but 96 feet 8 inches, she was then the largest vessel of commerce that the Delaware had ever floated. Contrast this with the dimensions of the huge Hamburg-American Packet Company's steamship Pennsylvania, the latest addition to commerce, whose length is 587 feet, while the new White Star liner building is 704 feet long, and one will be amazed with the magnitude of the modern ship of commerce. The True Love, upon being completed, sailed away from Philadelphia early in 1765, and no record is had of her return to this city until August 22, 1873, when at the age of 109 years she came into port from Ivitut, Greenland, with a cargo of kryolite, in command of Captain Thomas Nathaniel, consigned to B. Crowley. She was discharged here and surveyed by the American Lloyds in October, 1873, and sailed away, never to return again. Upon her arrival shortly afterward in London she was sold and turned into a coal hulk, in which capacity she still serves.—Philadelphia Press.

Booming Patent Articles.

They have a novel method of pushing the sale of patent articles in London. A number of men are smartly dressed as servants and sent out to suburban shops to purchase the commodity it is desired to boom. The men are specially selected, with a view to convey the impression that their employers are persons of good position. A score of these ingenious individuals will call at all the fashionable shops in the districts allotted to them, and ask for the specific article they wish to introduce. They will insist upon having this and no other, regarding with scorn the suggestion that they might accept a substitute. In many cases, of course, the proprietor has not the new article in stock; but a few days later a commercial traveller waits upon him with the article required. A smart tradesman who dislikes to disappoint his customers will invariably avail himself of this opportunity to give an order for the article in question. This shrewd scheme has proved of undoubted utility in the introduction of a really good article of produce. It is scarcely objectionable and frequently forms the basis of a sound and extensive business.

Women Voters in Europe.

The only countries in Europe where women vote to any extent are in those places that we would least expect it; for example, in Finland and Iceland. On the Continent the woman suffrage movement has made no great headway of late years, says the Chautauquan. The women have no voting privileges to speak of in either France or Germany.

In several European countries they are allowed to vote by proxy. Thus, in the Australian provinces women can vote for members of the provincial and imperial Parliaments, only by proxy. They can vote in person at local elections. The same is true of Russia, where women who are heads of households vote at local elections. As to the widows, they have the right to vote at municipal elections in Belgium, while in Italy they can vote for members of Parliament.

The Lady's Age.

The Prince of Wales, about five years ago, met a charming young lady well known in London society at Hamburg. "You are young enough," he said, in the course of conversation, "for me to be able to ask your age." "Twenty-five," was the ready reply. This summer his royal highness met the lady again. "What," he asked again, with a humorous smile, "is your age, I wonder?" "Twenty-five," again said the lady. "But you said that the last time I met you," remarked the prince, with a smile. "Well, sir," laughed the lady, "and would you have me contradict myself?"—Lady's Pictorial.

Rare Skill.

Probably the most remarkable drummer who ever lived was John Henri, the famous troubadour-major of the Emperor Napoleon. One of his feats was to play on fifteen differently toned drums at the same time in so soft and harmonious a manner that, instead of the deafening uproar that might have been expected, the effect was that of a novel and complete instrument. In playing he passed from one drum to the other with such wonderful quickness that the eyes of the spectators could hardly follow the movements of his hands and body.

Weak on Geography.

Little things illustrate certain Englishmen's knowledge of American geography very picturesquely. An Englishman who had taken the Pacific express at Philadelphia called out on going to bed before the train started:

"Portah! Portah!"

The porter came. "What is it, sir?" he said.

"Please wake me up when we get to SanFrancisco, you know," said the Englishman.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Sam Jones's price for fighting the devil is $2.000 per month. When we consider the time Sam has been engaged in the business and the fact that the devil is still doing business at the old stand, it would seem that his charges are rather steep.

Pittsburg is to have illuminating gas at 50 cents per thousand feet, and the men who will supply it are not in the business for its hygienic advantages, either. They are eccentric enough to believe that a profit of 20 of 30 per cent on their investment will warrant them in going into the enterprise.

Two more convicts in Auburn have gone insane through the idleness enforced on them by the labor unions, and may therefore become permanent charges on the public. Take these prisoners out and set them to work on the roads. Then something will be got out of them, and the labor unions as well as other people will be the better off.

When the Kansas Legislature completes the task of giving "statutory force" to the Ten Commandments, it should go ahead and promote public health by passing a law to make illness a penal offense. By the same token it might improve the general welfare by enacting a bill to make drought a misdemeanor and a thunder storm a breach of the peace.

Some of Chicago's experimental philanthropists propose that all vacant lots in that city shall be turned over to the poor for the cultivation of beans. The bean idea is merely a variation of the Pingree potato scheme. It is worth trying, however, and if it brings the bean pots of the East into closer relationship with the mess pork of the West, it will develop into a solid institution.

Secretary of State Palmer of New York has completed his report to the Legislature showing the criminal statistics of the state, as reported to him by the clerks of sixty counties. The report, which is purely statistical, shows, so far as recorded, convictions for crime which prove that the people of this state are growing better, and that crime is on the decrease, as compared with the record made in 1895.

To one who loves the study of nations the evolution of national character and the shifting of the world's controlling influences, surely Spain to-day must open a field unexampled in modern times for tragic interest. Long removed from friction with either the constructive or destructive politics of Europe, blessed in natural resources and rich in tradition, she has continued steadily a victim of herself, rather than of her enemies.

Experts estimate that 75 per cent of the silks now worn by American women are manufactured in this country. If this is correct, it indicates an enormous expansion of what is everywhere regarded as one of the most difficult and exacting of all textile industries. It has taken infinite care and expense to establish American silks in public favor, but the fact that it has been done is a positive triumph for the methods employed in the manufacture and treatment of those fabrics in this country.

More than 3,000,000 persons in the famine-stricken districts of India are now subsisting on public and private charity, and this number will probably be increased to 5,000,000 before the beginning of June. The relief rendered by the government is inadequate, but it is draining the resources of the country so completely that a long period of industrial and and business depression must necessarily ensue after the present distress has passed away. The combined effects of famine and plague will be to bring upon India the severest and most protracted interval of financial hardship she has ever experienced.

The Brooklyn Eagle, Democratic, says: When Gen. Stewart L. Woodford said in Washington yesterday that he believed that the appointment of Mr. Bliss would be satisfactory to Republicans of all shades in this state, he justified the confidence which his friends have in his ability to do and say the right thing at the right time. If Gen. Woodford had been unable to recognize the merit of a rival, and had not had sufficient self-control to speak courteously of that rival in the hour of his success, he would have been unfit for the office to which he aspired. Such conduct as this conserves civilization. It makes it easy for men to work together for the general good, because it shows that the general good is what we care for more than for personal advancement. We are headed in the right direction, and the time will soon come when men can strive for office without believing that the other man is a villain. Difference of opinion does not involve moral obliquity, nor does the availability of a man for a certain office prove that other men would not fill the office just as well.

AN UNFAIR DIVISION.

Cabby Had a Strong Leaning Toward Fairness to Himself.

Hank Miller of New York, sometimes called the "Omnibus King," was good-natured, and full of fun, and he enjoyed a patronage which eventually netted him a neat income. One evening Hank was making his rounds of the stable, as was his wont, when he overheard the chink of money and a subdued muttering. Glancing over a stall, he discovered one of his drivers counting his fares as follows:

"That's two shillun' for Hank, and two for me," laying the shillings in two piles. He kept on dividing his fares, until he came to the last piece of money, an odd shilling.

"There," said he, "that's too bad to come out uneven, 'cause I wants to be square and go halves with Hank. Let me see, shall I throw this in his pile? No, I'll toss it up; heads for me and tails for Hank," and he spun it up in the air. "Tails it is!" he cried as it fell. "Well, that's Hank's I suppose," but he hesitated. "No, I guess I'll toss again." This time it fell down heads. "Ah, I knew that first toss wasn't fair!" and having divided the money to his satisfaction, he slipped away without knowing that Hank had been watching him.

Hank gained his office before the thieving driver arrived to leave his fares. "Good evening, Jack," said he, as the man entered. "Luck good today?"

"Rather poor, Mr. Miller," and he laid the money on the desk.

"Well, Jack, I guess we can dispense with your services from now on."

"Eh! How's that? What have I done?" cried the astonished Jack.

Hank gave a quiet smile, and then, looking the man in the eye, said: "You see, Jack, you didn't treat me fair. By rights, I should have had another chance at that odd shilling."

A TORTUOUS TOBOGGAN SLIDE.

None but the Daring Could Ever Have the Courage to Try It.

The steeplechase course of the tobogganing world is a twisting, winding mountain path—an icy incline three-quarters of a mile long, with a descent of over 600 feet—running from St. Moritz, in a valley of the Swiss Alps, in the province of Grisons, to the fields of Cresta, nearly a thousand feet below. St. Moritz is near Davos-Platz, and, like it, is a famous Winter health resort.

As soon as a foot of snow has fallen the St. Moritz tobogganers begin to lay out the course, which it takes twelve skilled laborers, with some amateur help, six weeks to construct. In the beginning four men, arm in arm, tramp over the projected course several times, beating down the snow.

Then snow shovels are used to fill up inequalities, and to bank the curves and corners. The whole is then iced until it is more slippery from start to finish than the fabled descent to Hades.

If it were in a straight line it would be nothing remarkable, and sliding down it would be the child's play that it is on the long direct chutes in this country, Canada and Russia. But its course is, instead, most devious and desperate.

It twists and turns, describes semi-circles and S's, goes downhill and up, or, on occasions, keeps level. It has "leaps," and "corners," "banks" and "straights," which give the daring coaster wildest excitement of the most varied sort during every one of the forty-odd seconds while he is hurling headlong down its length.

If the very sharp corners and curves were not banked high, like a cycle track, there is no telling where the adventurous tobogganer would finally land.—New York Journal.

Refused to Officiate.

The Mayor of a village in Brittany recently resigned rather than officiate at the marriage of a divorced man. The assistant Mayor and four Municipal Councilors were asked in turn to perform the ceremony, and, rather than comply, resigned one after the other. The Sub-Prefect of the district refused to accept the resignations and the disappointed bridegroom sued the recalcitrant officers for damages.—New York Tribune.

Business and Honor.

Said Judge Peterby to Rev. Whangdoodle Baxter:

"Just think of the deception practiced every day. Why, it is dreadful. Now, if you could make $150 by a lie, your sense of honor wouldn't allow you to do it, would it, Mr. Baxter?"

"Dunno 'bout dat ar," replied Whangdoodle. "Seems ter me dat am a mattah of bisness, wharin honah hain't got nuffin ter say. Say, jedge, who is de man wid the $150?"—Texas Siftings.

Mme. Patti's Fear of Burglars.

Burglars are the great terror of Mme. Patti's life at Craig-y-Nos Castle. She has had all the window-shutters fitted with electric bells, which start ringing at the slightest touch, while by the same machinery a gun is fired, and a number of dogs are let loose in the grounds. Special watchmen are told off every night on "round" duty.

A Polite Official.

Bill the Burglar—"De warden 'f dis penitentiary ain't got a bit 'f feelin'. I told him dis mornin' dat dis wuz de tenth anniversary of de day I came in here."

Petey the Pickpocket—"Wot did he say?"

Bill the Burglar—"He wished me many happy returns 'f de day.—From Puck.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THERE is a right way to paint and a wrong way. The right way is to have the best paint—Pure White Lead (see list of genuine brands) and Linseed Oil—applied by a practical painter. The wrong way is to get some mixture about which you know nothing and apply it yourself or have some inexperienced, irresponsible person do it.

FIVE PERSONS MURDERED.

Whole Family Wiped Out and Their Bodies Cremated in Their Home.

Nashville, Tenn., March 25.—Particulars of what appears to have been a horrible murder have been received here from Paradise Ridge. Jacob Ade, one of the oldest and best known farmers of the Ridge settlement, his wife, his daughter and son and a little daughter of Henry Moirer, were, it is thought, murdered and their bodies cremated in Ade's house, which was burned to the ground. The theory of murder is strengthened by the fact that all the bodies were found in the same room but scattered around over the space occupied by this room. It was first thought that the old man was killed for his money, as he was known to be well to do, and always kept a supply of money on hand, but this cannot be positively stated, as the old man's money or at least the ashes of what was once a big roll of money and had been deposited in an oyster can in a closet, has been discovered in the ruins of the house. The dead are: John Ade, Mrs. John Ade, Lizzie Ade, aged 20 years; Henry Ade, aged 13 years, and Rose Moirer, aged 10 years. Jacob Ade lived fifteen miles from this city near the Cheatham county line. The house sets back half a mile from what is known as the old Clarksville turnpike.

Bodies Burned to a Crisp.

The first indication of the tragedy was discovered by Justice Simpson, who lives half a mile from the Ade place, and he at once rode over to the scene and found the house in ruins. Finding no one near, Simpson's suspicions were aroused, and upon a closer examination he saw the bodies of several persons in the ruins. A crowd soon gathered and the bodies were recovered. They had been burned to a crisp. Disposing of the robbery theory, it is very hard to find a motive for the horrible crime, as Mr. Ade was a very popular man and well liked by all his neighbors.

AFTER NINETEEN YEARS.

A Recreant Husband Brought to Justice by a Wife He Twice Deserted.

Newark, N. J., March 25.—Stephen Hemion, aged 56, night car dispatcher at the Miller Street Traction company's car house, is locked up at police headquarters on a charge of desertion and non-support, made by his wife, Kate Hemion, whom he deserted in Spring Valley, N. Y., nineteen years ago. At that time he eloped with Mrs. Ella Hastings, who was separated from her husband, and went to live in New Haven, Conn., leaving his wife to support four children, the youngest 8 months old, and the oldest 10 years. Four years later Mrs. Hemion located the couple and had them arrested. The case was settled, and a few weeks later Hemion again ran away with the Hastings woman. Mrs. Hemion remained in New Haven, and had a hard struggle to support herself and the children. Nothing was heard of Hemion until recently, when he was traced to Newark through a government pension which he draws. He was living at No. 70 Monmouth street with a woman whom he admits he married in Chicago ten years ago, and their two children. He says he got a divorce in Indiana twelve years ago from his Spring Valley wife. The latter says she will prosecute him to the extent of the law. She was accompanied to Newark by her 19-year-old son, who was eight years old when his father ran away. Neither knew the other, and when they were introduced the police had to interfere to prevent the son assaulting the father. Hemion was held for examination to-morrow.

Bubonic Death on a British Steamer.

Quarantine, S. I., March 25.—Health Officer Doty has received a telegram from the agent he appointed at Suez during his trip to Europe stating that the British transfer steamer Dilwarra arrived at that port and reported one death from the bubonic plague three days prior to arrival. The vessel was at once quarantined and is still detained. Every precaution has been taken to isolate the ship.

Flood Situation.

Memphis, Tenn., March 25.—Advices from the flood-stricken district this morning report the situation unchanged. The river is now at a standstill, but a further rise is feared. Relief work and rescue is being conducted in a heroic manner. No further loss of life has been reported.

GREAT MINE FIRE

Fully Forty Acres of Coal Burning Near Wilkesbarre.

BLAZE STARTED BY GAS EXPLOSION

Boiler House Near the Scene Blown To Pieces---Several Firemen Seriously Burned --- May Not Be Subdued in Many Months.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 25.—The people living in the eastern part of this city were startled yesterday afternoon by a loud report resembling an earthquake. The concussion was so great that it was felt for miles around. Residents became alarmed, ran out of their homes and into the streets. An investigation soon showed that the gas in an eight-inch bore-hole, which had been sunk from the surface over No. 2 mine, operated by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Co., into the pits below had ignited, and began to blaze furiously, and the flames shot up into the air a distance of fully fifty feet. A general alarm was promptly sounded and the fire department responded. The efforts of the firemen were confined to saving the adjoining properties. The house of Thomas Barrett, which is nearest, was partially destroyed. Assistant chief engineer Geo. St. John, firemen Michael Boyle and John Smith were seriously burned by attempting to smother the flames in the bore-hole. It is impossible to tell when the fire will be subdued. It is estimated that fully forty acres of coal are on fire in the mine below and may burn for a day, a week, or possibly for many months. The boiler house near the bore-hole soon became filled with gas, and when it came in contact with the fire under the boilers an explosion followed, demolishing the structure. The bore-hole was sunk for the purpose of tapping the gas and letting it escape to permit water to run.

REBEL DEFEATS REPORTED.

Cuban War Reports Given Out by the Spanish Officials at Havana.

Havana, March 25.—Gen. Linares reports that his command of 1,600 men, comprising, infantry, cavalry and artillery, left Songo, in the province of Santiaga de Cuba, and at the La Sal ranch encountered several parties of rebels under the leadership of Cebreco, with whom they had a sharp engagement. The rebels were finally forced to retire from their positions, which were then occupied by the Spanish troops. It is reported that the camp of Calixto Garcia's column has been captured by the Spaniards after a severe fight, at the conclusion of which the insurgents were found to have left sixteen of their number dead on the field. The capture of the camp was effected by a dashing cavalry charge. The rebels were reinforced by the column under Rabi and awaited the troops at Baire Arriba, but were obliged to retire to a point within sight of Jiguani. In the course of these journeys and in the engagements the rebels lost twenty-seven men killed. The Spaniards had one lieutenant and fourteen privates wounded. By order of Capt.-Gen. Weyler Isabela Rafael Bourke, an English prisoner who has been for some time detained at Cienfuegos, has just been released.

Two British Ships Barred from Crete.

Canea, March 25.—The foreign admirals have forbidden the entrance of two British merchant vessels which started for Crete before the blockade was proclaimed for the purpose of taking on cargoes of oil. The captains of the two ships have protested against the action of the admirals. The proclamation announcing the blockade of the ports of Crete declares that any Greek vessel coming within the limits of the blockade will be fired upon.

Rumor Officially Denied.

London, March 25.—The officials at the foreign office deny the statement that the powers have accepted a proposal made by the sultan that King George of Greece shall occupy and administer the government of Greece and appoint a high commissioner for the island, together with the intimation that the king would nominate his second son, Prince George, as high commissioner.

Signs of Better Times.

Johnstown, Pa., March 25.—The McCreery Coke works at Gracetown, Indiana county, have fired every oven this week, and they expect to work full time for months ahead. They received a contract last week for all the coke they can burn for a period of three months at least. Over 100 men are now at work, and at least seventy-five more will be employed within a few days.

Anxiety for a Missing Greek Steamer.

Athens, March 25.—Considerable anxiety is felt here for the safety of the Greek steamer Hera, which started for Crete on March 19 with a cargo of provisions for the Greek troops in the island and has not yet returned. On board the steamer were the president of the chamber of deputies and a number of other prominent persons.

To Register Masons and Builders.

Albany, March 25.—Last evening the assembly judiciary committee gave a hearing on Assemblyman Leonard's bill providing that in New York and Brooklyn all masons and builders must register in the office of the county clerk, but no definite action was taken.

Barnes Murder Trial.

Boston, March 25.—District Attorney Weir of Middlesex county has arranged to have the trial of Lorenzo Barnes, charged with the murder of John Keane at Maynard in December last, take place at Lowell early in May.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Frank P. Noble, of East Fifth street, has purchased a Barnes wheel.

The Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company have thus far this season sent thirty wheels to Florida.

The Pierce bicycle, for which E. Frank Vail, is agent, has all the latest improvements that make the cyclists' life a happy one. It is light, strong and graceful. This wheel is advertised in The Press.

E. Frank Vail, who is the representative of the Pierce wheel in this city, is preparing to start the season better supplied than ever to take care of his customers. He has already received the samples of his new wheels and they are models in design. The Pierce wheel will also be handled by J. L. Wiseman, proprietor of the Jersey Cycle Academy, who will conduct a bicycle salesroom in connection with the cycle academy, which will continue as last year. Arrangements can be made for lessons at the academy.

BASKET BALL.

A game is being arranged between the second teams of the business men's class and the regulars of the association.

Both the regular team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. and the basket ball team from the business men's class of the association will play on the evening of Tuesday, April 6th. The visiting teams will be from the River side Athletic Club, of New York.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The ladies' bowling tournament continues at the alleys of the Park Club and games are rolled every Tuesday morning, which is ladies' morning at the club. Mrs. Charles A. Reed is now in the lead by a small margin.

Another handicap bowling tournament has been started at the Park Club and the number of entries is even larger than in the first tournament. F. O. Ball, who won the other event, is the solitary scratch man, his competitors being given from 5 to 35 pins handicap.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—Advertise in The Daily Press.

—Two cases were admitted to the hospital yesterday tor treatment.

—Watch for VanEmburgh's great Saturday special sale in tomorrow's paper.

—The contract for the erection of a carbage crematory was not awarded last night.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-day Baptist church will hold a sociable next week.

—The regular meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men will be held on Friday evening. The entertainment committee will make its report. Action will be taken on two propositions.

—There was little business in the court of Justice Newcorn this morning. Summons were issued in the case of Edmonson against Marley, landlord and tenant, returnable on March 30th. A writ of attachment was issued in the suit of Tallman against Vosseller, on contract.

—The appeal case of Johnson against Cole, which was tried in New Brunswick, Monday, was decided in favor of the defendant instead of the plaintiff as stated last evening. The plaintiff was given a verdict for the full amount when the case was tried before Justice Huff and a jury in New Market, nearly two years ago. The plaintiff, Charles W. Johnson, was represented in the case by City Judge DeMeza.

PASSING COMMENT.

There is no character from Sheridan's "Rivals" more familiar to the general public than Mrs. Malaprop. Now while Plainfield luckily has not any Mrs. Malaprop, she has a citizen who has the same habit of mixing the meaning of somewhat similar sounding words with startling effect. This character is employed about one of the local churches. The other day one of the parishioners of that church was suffering with the lumbago. Our friend amazed many of the congregation by telling them that the good man had an attack of the "limberger." Some one else in the congregation was suffering with the pneumonia but the congregation, or some of them at least, learned that their friend had the "ammonia." When wishing to learn the state of the thermometer one day, he announced his intention of going to find out the "temper" of the outer air. There are other examples of a similar nature which have heretofore been "wasted on the desert air."

It is wonderful the great amount of interest that was shown in the recent prize fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. Even the juvenile part of the population has felt the stir and for a week after the fistic conflict between the two experts, tops and kites were given up for the more interesting subjects of contests in the manly art. It was two or three days after the big fight that a wonderful exhibition was held in the vacant lot on Watchung avenue, opposite the old rink building. The two participants, lads barely eight or nine years of age, were in the centre of a ring formed by their friends. There was a referee in the shape of one of the older lads, a time keeper and seconds for the two fighters. They stood opposite each other with sleeves rolled up to the shoulder and bare fists. The pugilistic mites pounded each other with might and main while the others looked on and yelled encouragement. It was with difficulty that the referee was able to separate them at the call of time. But soon the conflict merged from a friendly encounter to a real "scrap" and at last the defeated one fled across the lot with his face bathed in tears, while his former friends shouted taunts at his fast disappearing form.

If any one doubts the imaginative faculties of the average American, he should visit Plainfield at the present day and all his doubts would be speedily removed. It is a fact that there have been a number of burglaries committed within the city limits during the last few months but some of the supposed burglaries have turned out to be some far different affair, as in the Harberger case. The police of the city have not been allowed to forget that there are burglars in the city. Several times almost every night for the last few weeks they have been notified by some imaginative resident that there are two men standing in front of their house whom they are sure are burglars. Reports frequently come in to headquarters that a house is being robbed, sometimes as early as seven o'clock in the evening. Of course, the supposed invaders prove to be some innocent persons who have stopped a moment for a chat or else the wind creaking the blind.

The mere figure of a man in the dusk of evening is immediately taken for a midnight marauder and if the innocent cause of all the trouble happens to saunter along at a slow pace, the excited householder is sure that he is sizing up the fastenings at the windows and doors in preparation for a raid later in the evening. It is a fact that the business of the local banks in the rental of safe-deposit boxes has increased since the recent succession of burglaries, for valuables are now stored away in all sorts of places to hide them from the sharp eye of the expected midnight guest.

Apollo.

The name of one of the prettiest wheels for sale in this city is Apollo. The Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company, of which H. E. Rider is president, has presented one of these fine wheels to the Young Men's Christian Association and it will be given to the member of the Association who brings in the largest number of new members prior to April 1st. An $8 member counts 8 points, a $5 member counts 5 points, a $3 member counts 3 points and a $2 member counts 2 points. The member securing the largest number of points will win the wheel. Up to the present time the highest number of points gained by any member is 16 points. Why don't you work for it?

A Pleasant Affair.

Miss Marguerite Vermeule, of Watchung avenue, entertained a few friends at her home last evening. The time was passed in playing whist, after which several of the guests rendered piano selections. The guests also enjoyed singing college songs, and thus a very pleasant evening was spent.

Permanent Roundsman Now.

John Flynn, who has been acting-Roundsman of the city police force, was last night made the permanent appointee.

A SOLITARY DRUNK.

A Railroad Man Too Inebriated to Take Care of Himself.

There was one solitary man to appear before City Judge DeMeza this morning. He was charged with being drunk on Plainfield avenue, yesterday, and unable to take care of himself. He had been arrested by Roundsman Frederickson.

The prisoner gave his name as Jacob Ackonson, a railroad man from Paterson, bound to Phillipsburg in search of work. He explained that he had stopped off in Plainfield and had taken a couple of glasses of whiskey. He was not a drinking man, he said, and the fiery liquid had overcome him. He was found at the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Second street in an unconscious condition and taken to the lockup in Spencer Conway's ash wagon.

The prisoner made an eloquent plea for himself and promised to leave the town at once if he was allowed to go. The Judge suspended sentence and the stranger departed.

A Part of East Brunswick Taken Away.

A paper was filed yesterday in the office of the County Clerk announcing the addition of 532 acres of land in East Brunswick Township to the Borough of Helmetta. A petition signed by nine-tenths of the owners of the property asking that the land be included in Helmetta was presented to Mayor John W. Herbert and the Common Council of Helmetta, and granted. The land is now in Helmetta. East Brunswick had no voice in the absorption of the soil.

Grand Lodge Delegates to Report.

Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., will hold a meeting this evening, at which time the representatives of that lodge to the Grand Lodge will make their report and present the lodge with the ivory and silver gavel, which was given them at the meeting of the Grand Lodge for having an initiation at every meeting of the lodge for the past year.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

New Bicycle Route to Morristown.

Surveys and searches have been under way near Milburn for some time past to straighten out and widen South Orange avenue. The road will then be turned over to the county and improved. The idea is to make a short route from New York and Newark to Morristown and places beyond.

Judge DeMeza Buys the Property.

City Judge DeMeza has purchased a lot on West Second street, between New and Liberty streets, from Jeremiah Manning and son through C. H. Lyman's real estate agency. City Judge DeMeza intends to erect a number of houses on the property.

Against Reduction of Wages.

The drillers employed in Lewis Nixson's shipyard at Elizabeth port have gone on strike against a reduction of seventy-five cents a day in their wages. The men were earning $2.50 a day, but have been put on piece work, and can now make only $1.75.

Able to Leave the Hospital.

Mrs. Bennett, of Dunellen, who was injured in the trolley accident Tuesday evening, was able to leave the hospital this morning and return home.

A HAIRY "MAN OF BUSINESS."

Robert L. Stevens Relates a Story of the Sagacity of a Shepherd Dog.

John Todd, a Scotch shepherd, had a good collie, for which he had refused forty pounds, as the dog was worth more than that to a "herd," seeing he did the herder's work for him. Robert L. Stevenson, in an essay on the "Pastoral," tells how it happened that John received such an exceedingly liberal offer for the collie. John had bought some sheep in Edinburgh, and, when leaving the town, the road being crowded, two were lost. The loss of the sheep was a reproach to John and a slur on the dog, and both were alive to their misfortunes. Word came after some days that a farmer about Braid had found a pair of sheep; and thither went John and the dog to ask for restitution. But the farmer was a hard man and stood upon his rights. "How were they marked?" he asked. As John had bought right and left from many sellers, he had no notion of the marks. "Very well," said the farmer; "then it's only right that I should keep them.' "Well," said John, after a moment's thought, "it's a fact that I canna' tell the sheep; but, if my dog can, will ye let me have them?" The farmer was honest as well as hard, and, besides, he had little fear of the ordeal. So he had all the sheep upon his farm driven into one large park, and turned John's dog into their midst. That hairy "man of business" knew his errand well. He knew that John had bought two sheep, and he had looked on while the purchase was made, and to their shame, had lost them about Boroughmuirhead. Without pause or blunder he singled out, first one and then another, the two waifs. It was that afternoon the forty pounds were offered and refused.

A Four-Year-Old Prodigy.

A four-year-old infant prodigy was exhibited recently before the Berlin Anthropological Society. He is the son of a butcher, and at two years of age learned to read without assistance. He knows the dates of the birth and death of all the German Emperors and many other noted persons, and their birthplaces, the chief cities of the world, and all the great battles. He can read anything in print, and can talk intelligently about it, but finds it hard to learn to write and draw, dislikes music and hates pianofortes. The boy is physically well developed, though not robust.—New York Sun.

Consumption Decreasing.

According to Dr. Abbott, of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, the death rate from consumption is decreasing in a satisfactory manner, especially among women. He attributes the improvement to out-door work among the people and the healthful exercise gained by cycling.

In Old Wayback.

A few years ago, in the interior of Schoharie County, one of the landlords concluded to have a dance. Guests were plenty, but it was difficult to find music. Finally a fiddler was procured, who said he had "played for dances all winter." After dancing nearly an hour one of the guests called out, "Cherrytree, why don't you turn your tune?" Cherrytree replied, "I haven't learned the other half of it yet."—From Judge.

Orange Marmalade.

To make orange marmalade, cut the oranges and remove all the pulp and juice to a bowl. Boil the rinds in salted water until tender, changing the water two or three times; then mash and add to it the pulp and juice, being careful to remove the tough threads. Put into a saucepan with twice its weight of sugar, and boil slowly for half an hour. Cover tightly.

BOOTHS OF NICE THINGS.

SUCCESSFUL SALE CONDUCTED BY A SUNDAY-SCHOOL CLASS.

Miss Lizzie Dunn's Young Students, of Trinity Reformed Church, Manage an Affair That Was Quite Profitable.

Even with the many and varied attractions that were offered to the Plainfield public, last evening, the sale that was conducted in the parlors of the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon and evening, by the members of Miss Lizzie Dunn's Sunday-school class, did not suffer by comparison. There was a good attendance and the sale itself was a great success. The parlors presented a very pretty appearance with the different booths in their many colored decorations.

As already stated, the sale was arranged by the members of Miss Dunn's class. In this they were assisted by a number of their friends. Miss Dunn had a general supervision over the affair and her skill and taste were evident on all sides. The sale was for the benefit of the carpet fund.

The first booth to attract the attention of the guest on entering was the grab-bag, or rather grab-box, decorated in pink and white. Miss Ida TenEyck and Miss Lulu Vail were in charge. In the corner on the left was the lemonade booth, built in a rustic manner, with orange the prevailing color. Wheat was used by the decorators. Miss Grace Emmons was in charge and Miss Minnie Arnold acted as cashier.

A dainty structure of green, with here and there a bit of white bunting and extremely real-looking carnations, was the fancy table, worthy of its name. Miss Gertrude Tier and Miss Elizabeth Dencklau supervised the sale of the charming articles of a fancy nature that were exposed for sale.

In one of the alcoves in the rear of the room was the candy table and its near relative, the pop-corn table. Green, pink and white were the colors used in the decoration of the two booths. Miss Beulah Waters and Miss Lillian Hope looked after the candy, with Miss Cora Young as cashier, while Miss Freda Volkmann was kept busy at the pop-corn table.

Aprons were on sale at an artistically decorated table in another corner of the room. Orange and white were the prevailing colors of the decorations there. Miss Mabel Wilson was cashier, while Miss Lida Day and Miss Lizzie Williams looked after the sale of the aprons.

Last but not least comes the cake table, groaning under an abundance of delicious home-made cakes. The table didn't groan very long, however, as the cakes disappeared in short order. Pink and white were used as the decorating colors and an arch was arranged over the front of the booth.

In one of the side rooms ice cream and cake were sold. The waitresses in charge were the Misses Bessie TenEyck, Grace Ten Eyck, Hattie Randell and Lucy Coriell.

The decorating of the different booths was done by the girls in charge and their efforts seemed to be very successful. Mrs. Josie Tier collected the tickets at the door.

The programme in the afternoon consisted of a recitation by little Elsie Tier.

In the evening the following programme was rendered: Instrumental solo, Mrs. Templin; recitation, Miss Bessie Martin; instrumental trio, Mrs. George Saums, Mrs. Corle, Mrs. Templin; recitation, Miss Minnie Arnold; vocal solo, Mrs. Templin; instrumental trio, Mrs. Saums, Mrs. Corle, Mrs. Templin.

Every one of the above numbers was well received and many encores were given. It would be manifestly unfair to offer any criticism regarding any one number, for each one shared alike in the generous applause accorded.

The net proceeds of the sale was $68. The expenses were slight, and it is thought the above amount will be almost clear gain.

WITH THE CARDS.

Thursday Night Euchre Club Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

The Thursday Night Euchre Club was entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Central avenue. The playing was very close and exciting throughout the evening. David Krymer and C. B. Clifton won. Will F. Williams won the second honors, while Mrs. Will F. Williams was presented with the first honors for the ladies and Mrs. William Tier secured the second.

After the vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed by the guests, refreshments were served. The whole affair was one of great pleasure to all and the guests departed for their homes feeling as though they had passed an enjoyable evening.

DISGRACE TO THEIR SEX

DRUNKEN WOMEN WHO MADE SIGHTS OF THEMSELVES.

Johanna Haley, Just Out of Jail, Gets in a Drunken Stupor, and Goes Back to Board With Jail Warden Blore Thirty Days

Three victims of the rum habit lined up before the City Judge this morning, to plead for mercy again. Two of them had been there many times before, and it was the same old story with them. Strange to say, the gentler sex predominated among the offenders.

James Emmons was arrested for being drunk and disorderly about the city streets during last evening. He pleaded guilty of the charge. The Judge gave him his choice between a fine of $8 and thirty days in the county jail. The fine was paid.

A glance back over the blotter at the police station shows the name of Johanna Haley at frequent intervals. She comes from Paradise Alley and is one of its most famous denizens. In that neighborhood, she has kept the police in a hustle for many a time. It was her love for "Jersey lightning" that brought her into trouble yesterday. Perhaps she thought that the clouds looked so like a thunder storm that some "lightning" was needed. At any rate she indulged and soon she was in too far to be good for the benefit of the community.

Somebody told Special Officer Edward Martin at the North avenue station that she was trying to go to sleep in the rear porch of a Watchung residence and the officer went after her and with the assistance of a friend, landed her in the bottom of one of the cells in the rookery.

She had lots to say when they brought her before City Judge DeMeza but it did not amount to much and the Judge decided that she needed a thirty days sojourn to recover from the effects of her little racket.

Another woman, helplessly drunk, made a sad spectacle on West Second street. She was not able to take care of herself and spent her time in trying to hold up the fence. Patrolman Flannagan escorted her to the city jail where she spent the night and appeared before the Judge, this morning, sad and penitent. She gave her name as Mary Duffy and as she was but a regular boader of the city, the Judge let her off with a fine of $3.

HEAVY DAMAGE SUIT.

A RUTHERFORD MAN MADE THE DEFENDANT IN THE ACTION.

Dr. Wood's Wife Alleges That Theodore Ten Broeck was the Cause of an Injury—There Had Been a Dispute About a Bill.

Reed & Coddington, Plainfield's well-known lawyers, have just opened a very interesting case in the Supreme Court and the result will be watched with a great deal of interest. About one month ago Mrs. Wood, wife of Dr Wood, of Crescent avenue, received an injury to her spine which almost resulted in death. It appears that at that time Theodore Ten Broeck, of Rutherford, Essex county, called at Dr. Wood's house to collect some money for an apparatus which Dr. Wood had purchased sometime previous. There was an agreement that the machine was to cost a certain amount, but Mr. Ten Broeck, who is a member of the firm of Ten Broeck & Van Houten, of New York, came to collect additional money which he claimed for extra expense.

Mrs. Wood offered the man a check for the agreed amount but this he refused to accept, saying that he must have the full amount. Mr. Wood refused to give any more than that agreed upon. Mr. Ten Broeck then said that he would take the apparatus out of the house and it is supposed that it was for this reason that he came to Plainfield. Dr. Wood appeared and stated that it was against his wishes that the apparatus should be taken out of the house, and he was ordered from the house. In opening the front door it is alleged that Mr. Ten Broeck struck Mrs. Wood with such force as to throw her against the sharp point of a desk. When she feel she struck her spine. She was quickly picked up and was not thought to be severely injured at the time.

Later developments showed that the spine had been injured and had caused semi-paralysis. Since then Mrs. Wood has suffered the most excruciating pains and her life was despaired of. In fact, she is not out of danger at present.

Dr. Wood has retained Reed & Coddington and the firm brought suit for $10 000 in the Supreme Court last Wednesday against Theodore Ten-Broeck.

Mrs. Wood has been under the care of Drs. Hedges and Tomlinson since her injury, and every effort is being made to restore her to health.

THE SERGEANT'S VISION

IT WAS OF THE COAT TAILS OF AN ESCAPED PSISONER.

Sergeant Kiely Pursued the Dusky Prisoner and Captured Him after a Short but Thrilling Meeting—Parker Was the Man

Sergeant Kiely had a vision, yesterday afternoon, that was unlike anything he had seen for many a day. It was of the coat tails of one of the prisoners disappearing over the high fence that surrounds the back yard of the city lockup. And when the coat tails vanished from view the Sergeant knew that he was not dreaming but that the prisoner was gone, and that his vision was a true one. It was not very long before the Sergeant saw those coat tails again but under different circumstances, and now the wearer of the coat to which they were attached is mourning over his folly in attempting to escape from the clutches of the Plainfield police.

In yesterday's Press was told the story of the arrest of William Parker, a colored resident of this city, on the charge of assault, by Miss Annie Randolph. Parker was arraigned before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon for a hearing. Annie Randolph told her story simply and very convincingly. All the cross-examination of the lawyer for the accused could not change her testimony. The Justice deemed the evidence sufficient and held Parker in $300 bail for the Grand Jury. As the bail was not forthcoming, Justice Nash ordered Constable Mattox to take the offender to the county jail at Elizabeth. Mattox planned to take him there later in the afternoon.

It was about four o'clock when Sergeant Kiely went to Parker's cell and ordered him to take his pail and empty it in the back yard as all prisoners are accustomed to do. Parker took his pail and walked out into the fresh air while Keily remained inside. Parker did not come back and the Sergeant wondered what was the matter. Perhaps the heart of the dusky offender had relented and he wanted to confess his crime. The Sergeant stepped to the door and there just sliding over the high board fence to the roof of Odam's slate shed were the coat tails of the prisoner. He had escaped.

It took the Sergeant just three leaps to get out of the front door of the jail and not many more to reach Park avenue. As he reached that street he saw a streak of dusky hue pass up Fourth street. John Keeley was passing in his hack and into that jumped the pursuing officer. They drove up Fourth street to Arlington avenue and then down to Third street. On Arlington avenue near Third street there is a row of little houses known as the Hetfield row, which are mostly occupied by colored tenants. It was to these that Kiely thought the escaped Parker had fled. And he was right.

The Sergeant entered one of the yards to find Parker standing in the back yard close by. There was no room for the man to run so he put up his fists in true sporting style. Now he didn't know the Sergeant. The fight did not last long, in fact, it only needed one blow from the officer's fist, which landed squarely on the chin of the other man, to lay Parker in the dust or rather the mud.

Kiely escorted the recaptured prisoner back to his cell and not long after the poor Mr. Parker, of Plainfield, was en route for Elizabeth, well-secured at the side of Constable Mattox. He was placed safely in the jail to dream of freedom and watermelons. His attempt to escape will be counted against him at his trial.

SPEAKER COULDN'T COME.

So Rev. C. E. Herring Gave a Short Talk to the Camera Club.

There was not a very large attendance at the Camera Club rooms last evening when an illustrated lecture was given under the auspices of the club. Owing to illness, Mr. Oppenheim was unable to be present and deliver the lecture. His place was most ably filled by Rev. C. E. Herring, who volunteered his services. The views were all taken by Mr. Oppenheim at at different times and they were some of the best ever seen in this city. A portion of them were taken in and around New York City, while others were taken in the State of Maine and in Labrador. Among the views were several prize-winners and they were certainly beauties. They represented the highest attainments in photographic art and those present appreciated them very much. The club members hope to have Mr. Oppenheim in Plainfield at an early date and have the pleasure of hearing this noted speaker who has made an enviable reputation in camera work.

Cock Fight Scheduled.

A cock fight will be held in South Plainfield next week between birds from that place and Scotch Plains.

AFTER THE PATRONAGE.

NEW JERSEY'S CLAIMS FOR OFFICES IN WASHINGNON.

She Has Candidates for Public Printer, Two Foreign Missions and a Few Consulates—Congressman Fowler Backing Men.

The New Jersey delegation in Congress are wrestling over the problem of patronage. Because this State has furnished a Vice-President for this Administrarion, Jerseymen in and out of Congress argue that they are entitled to a trifle more patronage than is usually meted out to them.

They remember that during his second and last Administration Grover Cleveland so far recognized the State of his birth as to give it seven consular and diplomatic appointments, including the exceedingly important post of Ambassador to the court of Emperor William, which the late Gen. Theodore Runyon held up to the time of his death, about a year ago. This hope is that the Administration of McKinley and Hobart will see its way clear toward equalling that record, if not surpassing it.

The delegation decided to push with all possible vigor the candidancy of Louis D. Gallison, of the firm of Gallison & Hobron, publishers, of New York, for Public Printer. Mr. Gallison lives in Orange, which is in Congressman Fowler's district, and he is known as a prominent Republican worker both in New York and New Jersey.

He is well qualified for the place, and from now on, until the question is decided, he will have the earnest support of Senator Sewell and the solid delegation of eight Republican Congressmen from New Jersey. Mr. Gallison is already on the scene and has personally presented his application to President McKinley.

It was decided also to urge upon the President the appointment of Major Z. K. Pangborn, the veteran ex-editor of the Jersey City Journal, as Minister to Hawaii, but it is more than likely that in pressing the claims of Major Pangborn the Jerseymen will run up against an exceedingly formidable combination, which is working tooth and nail to get this post for Harold M. Sewall, of Maine, son of the Popocratic candidate for Vice-President in the recent campaign.

Mr. Sewell is energetically backed by Senators Frye and Hale of Maine, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, and the Hon. Joe Manley, of Augusta, Me., a member of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee. Senator Frye is particularly zealous in his advocacy of Mr. Sewall, and it is said that he has intimated to the President that if he receives no other recognition than the appointment of Mr. Sewall he will be satisfied. All this intelligence has brought consternation to the Jerseymen, but they will support Major Pangborn until the contest is ended one way or the other.

In addition to these appointments the New Jersey Congress delegation will ask to have the Rev. Mr. Powell, a colored man, who lives in Congressman Loudenslager's district, selected as Minister of Hayti, and Dr. Briggman, a well-known physician of Elizabeth, sent to the United States of Columbia as Minister. A few consulates scattered among the remaining districts complete the quota of New Jersey's present demands upon the Administration.

CHARGES AGAINST POLICEMAN.

Technical Charges Overlooked in Two Cases, But Officer Post Fined.

The recent changes to the rules of the police department have improved the force. Some of the men are not able to get the changes down to a fine point at once and they make in consequence a number of technical mistakes. A meeting of the Police Board was held Wednesday evening and Patrolman Flannagan and Saunders were brought before the Board on technical charges. The Board decided to overlook the offence for this time. Patrolman Post was ordered to appear to answer to three charges. The members of the Board decided that he was guilty of them and he was fined.

Harbinger of Spring.

An Italian with a hand organ and a little girl made a tour of the Fourth ward, yesterday afternoon. The child, scarcely ten years of age, was poorly clad and she stood shivering in the cold, while her father ground out "When the Robins Nest Again" and "Johnny Get Your Gun."

Salvation Army

Captain Dickenson and Lieutenant Wombold, of Bound Brook, led the meeting at the Salvation Army last night. There was a good attendance. After the service there was a sale of fancy work and refreshments. These special services with the sale of work will be continued until Saturday night.

TROUBLE IN A SCHOOL

WESTFIELD PEOPLE STIRRED UP OVER THE PRINCIPAL'S DECISION

He Orders a Certain Hymnal to be Used at Devotional Exercises, and It Arouses Both Catholics and Protestants to Protest

Principal Edwards of the Westfield Public School, created quite a storm yesterday that is liable to increase in fury for days to come. It is required by law, that the Bible be read in the public school, and this has always been done there; though the exercises are being conducted as non-sectarian as possible. Yesterday began the discension. During chapel exercises, Principal Edwards notified the scholars that unless each brought a Bible and a copy of the Pentacostal hymnal to chapel, he would withhold the pencil-tablets from them. That is what caused the storm. The Catholics are indignant because they say there is no Parochial School there to which they can send their children, and while they are willing and satisfied with the public school and send their children to them, they do not think it just for the principal to prescribe what hymnal they shall use, especially under a penalty. The protestants are almost as angry. They claim that the pencil-pads are furnished by the Board of Education along with the other supplies and that the principal has no authority to withhold them from the pupils. It is likely that the matter will be brought to the attention of the School Board.

THEIR NEW OPENING.

LEDERER'S STORE AND STOCK TO BE MODERN IN ALL RESPECTS.

Many Improvements Over the Former Establishment Have Been Made—To Open For Dry Goods Business Tomorrow.

New fittings and new goods, all of the latest and most up-the-date style, will be one of the features of the opening of Lederer's dry goods store on West Front street, opposite Somerset street, which is to take place tomorrow. For twenty-eight years Mr. Lederer has been in business in this city and during that time made many friends. Several months ago his well-equipped store with a large stock of winter goods was turned into a smoking ruin. Much was destroyed and of what was left, fire and water combined to render it almost valueless. All that stock has been cleared away. The store itself has been fitted up entirely new and with all the modern conveniences of the store of the present day. Tomorrow the public will be invited to step inside and see the marvelous change that has been wrought.

Artistic taste and common sense have been used in the arrangement of the store. Every bit of available space has been used, yet not to such an extent as to give it a crowded appearance. The stairway to the basement has been moved to the centre of the store, where it is convenient to the visitor who wishes to look at the assortment of carpets, rugs, and mattings, of choice designs, on exhibition there.

The millinery department is made a special feature for the opening, and one of the large show windows has been devoted to it. This department is under the charge of Miss May Flannagan, assisted by Miss Zerwick, of New York. The latest thing in spring hats is there and a score of pretty designs new to the Plainfield public.

The other window is devoted to dress goods, of which there is a charming display. Silks of various designs are exhibited. Lawns that delight the eye with their beauty as well as please the purchaser at their cheapness are to be found there. One of the centre tables is devoted to a pretty exhibition of infants' ware. The cloak department has been enlarged and fitted with the latest of spring wraps. Ribbons are given a prominent place arranged in a novel manner.

The general appearance of the store is certainly very pleasing and a visit to the store tomorrow will be well worth while.

Another improvement is the introduction of the Lamson cash system which is one of the most improved of all the systems.

To Address the Endeavorers.

Miss Elizabeth Yates will address the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue Church on Missions in China. Miss Yates has spent some years in the Chinese Mission service, but is today a teacher in Radcliffe College, Howard University.

A Talented Woman Present.

At the meeting of the Parliamentary Club yesterday the members had the pleasure of having Miss Elizabeth U. Yates present, and this talented woman conducted the regular drill. Outside of the above there was only routine business transacted.

MUSICAL COLLEGIANS.

A CONCERT OF FINE MUSIC IN Y. M. C. A. HALL.

A Varied Programme Brought Out the Best Talent of the N. Y. U. Clubs.—A Clever Satire on Grand Opera.

A musical expert, much less one not gifted with the ability to define and determine the fine technique of the performers for approbation or disparity, would have found but little to criticise in the concert given by the New York University Glee Club in the Y. M. C. A. hall last night. The programme arranged was a varied one and brought out the talent of the young collegians in such a manner as to merit the enthusiastic approval of the large audience present.

The programme, as published in The Press yesterday, and as added to with the encores that a pleased audience demanded, was made up of popular and classical airs best adapted to develop the accomplishments of the musicians. To properly credit all of the club members in their efforts involves too much space for these columns, and to pick out one or more of the performers for especial commendation would leave a slight on the others that would be unjust, since it was the composite participation in the programme that produced the evening's pleasure.

There are two things, however, that really deserve more than passing commendation, and they were the rendition of "An Act of Up-to-Date Grand Opera" and "A Grasshopper Sat On a Sweet Potato Vine," the latter under the direction of Charles H. Lewis, of this city.

"An Act of Up-to-Date Grand Opera" was a clever satire on grand opera. The liberitto was rather senseless, but through the efforts of the composer a rather pretty score accompanied the words, which were rendered with well-modulated voices, and just enough dramatic action to make it a clever skit.

The conception of the words was prompted by the experience of a conventional Chicago business man who took his family to the grand opera, not because he expected to enjoy the music, but principally because it was the society fad, and his wife had inveigled him into the evening's engagement by a fine flow of superlatives in escastic anticipation of "heavenly music, superb prima-donna and magnificient tenor." The business man failed to enthuse under the high faultin singing. In, fact, he was bored, and even slept through a solo. Smarting under the taunts of his wife who declared his dull sense of appreciation abominable, he decided to write one act of grand opera as inspired by the evening he spent in stiff society's realm. The thing that most resembled grand opera to him was an alarm of fire in a flat. And so it was that the words were founded on such an incident.

The musical burlesque of "A Grasshopper Sat on a Sweet Potato Vine" was not on the programme, but it was given in such a delightful manner that it was a happy addition for the audience. As the leader, Mr. Lewis was extremely droll and funny. The piece was productive of much laughter.

NEW TEACHERS.

North Plainfield School Corps Increased in Capable Instruction.

Another teacher has been added to the North Plainfield High School Corps in the person of Miss Elizabeth E. Mann, A. B., a graduate of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and of the Teachers' College, New York City.

Miss Maude Acock, a graduate of the New Jersey State Normal School, has been secured to take the place of the late Miss Ginn. Both of the above teachers are thoroughly competent for the positions they take. This school now has a corps of teachers which is second to none in the State. They all have diplomas and every one has qualified for the position of teacher. Miss Grace Howard Petrie, A. B., a Plainfield young woman, is a graduate of Elmira College, and she has a very important class in this school. The other teachers have also graduated from schools of reputation. The people of North Plainfield are to be congratulated in having such a fine and efficient corps of instructors who are doing their best to make the school one of the best in New Jersey.

When the Clock Strikes 2.

Van Emburg & Son will place on sale to-morrow, Saturday, March 27th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon (not sooner) one lot of fine Percales, one yard wide, at the ridiculous price of 6¼ cents per yard.

—Paste this in your hat—50 cents buys one pound tea, half pound coffee, one can milk and one can cherries, special at MacDonald's.

LABOR IS ALSO HIT

Far-Reaching Effect of the Trans-Missouri Decision.

GREAT ORGANIZATIONS IN DANGER

Labor Leaders Greatly Surprised, But Refuse at Present To Discuss the Matter---May Escape on Account of Not Being Incorporated.

New York, March 26.—The suggestion that the decision of the United States supreme court in the Trans-Missouri association case also applies to combinations of labor as well as combinations formed by railroad officers and managers came as a great surprise to the labor leaders, and while the few seen by a press representative said it would fall as a great blow in their ranks, they all declined to further discuss the subject until they had time to study the matter and consult with their legal advisers. Frederick W. Whitridge, of the law firm of Cary & Whitridge, counsel for the reorganization committee of the Reading railroad, as well as the counsel of a number of other railroads, said: "The decision of the supreme court is undoubtedly very important. It means, for one thing, that no set of railroad managers can sit around a table and agree to charge a certain fixed rate on traffic or to divide it in a certain way. If they do so it is a penal offense under the Sherman anti-trust law of 1890." "But how about the labor organizations—the Knights of Labor, the American Railway union and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. Doesn't the law in regard to conspiracies affecting interstate commerce and trade apply to them under this decision?" "Logically it does, for they are the best regulated and the most binding upon their members of any of the existing trusts. Unlike the railroads, they are not incorporated. The decision, however, certainly applies to them."

Opens the Way for Rate Wars.

Former Judge Dillon was asked regarding the nature and effect of the decision. He said: "The great object of such agreement on the part of railroad companies is not to secure unreasonable rates, but to prevent the private and public loss and evils that flow from secret rebates, rate cutting and rate wars. Measurably these agreements effected that end. When such agreements are annulled there is nothing to protect the railway companies or the public against the grave evils of rate cutting and rate wars, except the self interest of the companies, and possibly certain provisions of the interstate commerce act, which requires notice of raising or lowering of rates. How far this will operate to protect them I am unable to say In view of the importance of stable rates and the evils of rate cutting, I regard the practical effect of the decision as an unmixed misfortune, not only to railway companies but to the public, unless it shall be the means of bringing congressional relief. That could be and ought to be in the form of an act that will authorize the making of rate agreements and of pooling, subject to the right and power of the interstate commerce commission to set them aside if found against the public interest. The heart of the anti-trust act is the prohibition expressed in the following language: 'Section 1. Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restrain of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal, and punishable by fine and imprisonment as a misdemeanor; and the circuit courts of the United States are invested by the act with jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of it.'"

GOV. WOLCOTT WILL ATTEND.

No Massachusetts Troops for Grant Monument Dedication in New York.

Boston, March 26.—From present indications Massachusetts will send none of her militia to the formal dedication of Grant's tomb at Riverside park, New York. While a general invitation has been extended by Gen. McAlpin of New York to the other states of the union to send on their soldiers, no formal invitations have been received here. Gov. Wolcott has received an invitation from Mayor Strong of New York to attend with his staff. His excellency will accept the invitation and take over enough of his bodyguard to make a showing. The governor said this morning that he did not feel called upon to communicate in any way with the general court on the subject of representation.

Boston City Loan Awarded.

Boston, March 26.—The $1,000,000 city of Boston temporary loan in anticipation of taxes has been awarded to F. S. Moseley & Co. at 3.07 per cent. interest and $5.60 premium.

Calumet & Hecla Dividend.

Boston, March 26.—The Calumet & Hecla Mining company directors have declared a dividend of $5 a share.

Superior Intelligence.

A young lady living in Philadelphia is the proud possessor of a handsome red Irish setter, which she claims is as intelligent as he is handsome. One afternoon this young lady started out accompanied by a friend and the dog for a walk, and found, when some little distance from the house, that she had forgotten her rubbers. Not wishing to return for them she called the dog, and, pointing to her friend's rubbers, said: "Go home and get them." The dog looked at her intelligently a moment, then ran down the street and turned the corner. "Well," said the admiring friend, "if that dog isn't just the smartest I ever saw!" Presently the setter returned, wagging his tail and holding in his mouth, not his mistress' rubbers, but the foot-scraper which he had pulled from the corner of the steps.—Philadelphia Record.

700 WERE MASSACRED

SULTAN FORCED TO TAKE ACTION

Orders That the Guilty Ones Be Apprehended and Brought to Justice---The British Minister Will Watch the Proceedings.

Constantinople, March 26.—Further and probably more accurate details of the recent massacres of Armenians at Tokat, in the Sivas district of Anatolia, have been received at the Armenian patriarchate here. The first report of the affair was issued by the government. This declared that fifteen Armenians and three Mussulmans had been killed. Later information was received at the embassies showing that fully 100 defenseless Armenians had fallen victims to the fury of the Moslems at Tokat, and this number, it was thought, was probably correct. The news received last evening at the patriarchate shows that both statements were incorrect and that the number of victims was fully 700. It is stated at the patriarchate that these figures were obtained from reliable persons in Tokat and the vicinity, and that the number of victims stated is without doubt correct Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, made a most vigorous protest against the massacre in a note to the porte, and as a result of his action the sultan has ordered the dismissal and immediate arrest of the Turkish officials in Tokat who are suspected of complicity in the massacre, and the appointment of a special commission to try them. It is believed that the British ambassador will watch the trial closely to see that it does not prove a farce.

ANTI-PORTRAIT BILL.

Three Important Amendments to the Ellsworth Measure in New York Senate.

Albany, March 26.—Ellsworth anti-portrait bill, reported favorably by the senate committee, contains three important amendments. The first makes the bill apply to those who circulate prohibited papers as well as those who publish them. The second provides that no action can be maintained for violation unless complaint is made by the person whose portrait is published or by the latter's attorney. The third provides that the law shall not apply to publishing portraits of fugitives from justice. Senator Malby, chairman of the codes committee, believes that these amendments will remove most of the opposition to the bill, as no one whose portrait may be printed will be likely to prosecute unless malice is shown.

Murderer Butler's Voyage.

San Francisco, March 26.—Murderer Bulter, alias Ashe, will occupy cabin No. 32 on the steamer Mariposa, which sails for Australia next week. Everything will be taken out of the room Butler uses except the two berths and the settee. The square windows will be grated and when the door of the cabin is left open a latticed frame of strong material will occupy the space opening into the passage. There will be several kinds of safeguards in the shape of feet manacles, leather mittens and handcuffs, but these will be used in a way calculated to cause the least annoyance to the prisoner. Night and day a constant watch will be kept.

Grand American Handicap Winner.

Long Branch, N. J., March 26.—T. A. Marshall of Keithsburg, Ill., who was the winner of the Grand American Handicap, which was decided at Elkwood park yesterday, made a clean score of twenty-five birds. His share of the prize money is $500. This is insignificant, however, compared to the honor of winning the greatest shooting match in the history of the sport. Dr. W. F. Carver of Chicago and Henry Koegle of Newark, who shoots under the name of "Henry See," had a good show of tying Marshall. They killed as many birds, but in each case one fell dead out of bounds.

Ships Damaged by Storms.

Philadelphia, March 26.—The steamer Dalmatia, here from Dantzic, encountered heavy gales on passage, sustaining damage to her bridge, stanchions and decks. The steamer Strathlyon, here from Cardiff, reports that in a gale she had a starboard boat, her engine room skylights and the starboard end of her bridge carried away, besides sustaining other damage about the decks. The steamer Energie, here from Bremerhaven, lost one blade of her screw on the passage.

Equitable Aid Union Trouble.

Erie, Pa., March 26.—Judge Noyes of Warran has refused to grant a motion for a receiver for class B of the Equitable Aid union. The movement to get the class into the hands of a receiver was prompted by the members of class A, which is already in the hands of a receiver The members charge President Morgan with betraying the affairs of the order to a rival institution, into which, they claim, he is trying to force the Equitable Aid union members.

Libeled for Salvage.

Halifax, N. S., March 26.—The British steamer Orthia, which was towed into this port Tuesday by the British steamer Indralema, has been libeled by the latter steamer for salvage. The amount claimed is $25,000.

To Allow Pool Selling at Trotting Meetings.

Albany, March 26.—The assembly codes committee will this afternoon favorably report the bill to permit the selling of pools at trotting meetings. The town fair amendment has been incorporated in the bill.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

PERSONAL ESTATE TAXES.

Important Measure Favorably Reported to the Assembly at Albany.

Albany, March 26.—One of the most important bills of the session has been favorably reported to the assembly. It is the scheme for graduated transfer taxes advocated by State Comptroller Roberts. The measure provides that where a personal estate is subjected to a transfer tax of 5 per cent. and the value of such estate exceeds $500,000 an additional tax shall be imposed on the entire estate so taxed at the accumulating rate of 1 per cent. for each additional $250,000 or major fraction thereof, except that if the entire estate exceeds $3,000,000 it shall be subject to taxation at the aggregate rate of 15 per cent. Where a personal estate is subject to a transfer tax of 1 per cent. and the value of such estate exceeds $1,000,000 an additional tax shall be imposed on the entire estate so taxable at the accumulating rate of ½ of 1 per cent. on each additional $250,000 or major fraction thereof above $2,500,000, except that if the entire estate exceeds $4,000,000 it shall be subject to taxation at the aggregate rate of 10 per cent.

HIS PETITION GRANTED.

Pilgrim Fathers' Records To Be Given into Mr. Bayard's Custody.

London, March 26.—At the end of the hearing of the petition of United States Ambassador Bayard on behalf of the president and citizens of the United States, asking for the custody of the manuscript deposited in the library of Fulham palace, containing the records of the early history of the Pilgrim fathers and their voyage to America in the Mayflower, the chancellor of the district of London ordered the delivery to their representatives of the United States, upon the condition that persons desiring certificates therefrom may have them at a reasonable cost, and also that certified copies of the manuscript shall be deposited in the library of the Bishop of London, from which the originals are are taken.

GREATER NEW YORK.

The Charter Passed Yesterday Will Become a Law.

Albany, March 26.—The Greater New York charter, which was passed by the senate yesterday without amendment by a vote of 39 to 9, now goes to the mayors of the cities of New York, Brooklyn and Long Island City for their approval. Mayor Gleason of Long Island City and Mayor Wurster of Brooklyn will approve the measure, and it is certain that Mayor Strong of New York while non-committal, will do so likewise. The charter will then go for signature to Gov. Black, who heratily favors it. The names of those who voted against the bill are Ahearn, Featherson, Foley, Grady, Guy, Martin, McCarren, Mullin and Munzinger, all democrats with the exception of Mullin.

Anti-Kinetoscope Bill.

Albany, March 26.—The bill introduced in the senate yesterday to prohibit pictorial exhibitions of pugilism or boxing in the state of New York is as follows: "It shall be unlawful to exhibit in any place whatever in this state, by means of any picture, pictorial prints, scenes or performances, or by any illustrated exhibitions whatever, any representations of any pugilistic or boxing contests or of any pugilistic encounters of any similar kind or character. Any person who violates this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in a county jail or penitentiary for a term of not less than six months nor more than one year and by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000, or by both said fine and imprisonment."

Expelled for "Obvious Fraud."

New York, March 26.—The board of directors of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum exchange, at a meeting last night, expelled for "obvious fraud" William E. Allen of Allen & Fosdick, stock brokers. The firm was accused of "bucketing" the orders of Mrs. J. D. F. Nash of Bridgeport, Conn., and retaining $47,000 in securities deposited by her as margin.

Germany To Send Troops to Africa.

London, March 26.—The Birmingham Post publishes a dispatch from Berlin which says that Germany is making preparations to send 3,000 troops to Southwest Africa in April.

METALLIC SUBJECT

Wolcott on Japan's Action in Adopting the Gold Standard.

INTERESTING AND FAR-REACHING

Japan Simply Attempting To Preserve the Economic Advantages She Now Enjoys—Should Hasten International Agreement

Washington, March 26.—Concerning the recent action of Japan in adopting the gold standard, Senator Wolcott, who but lately returned from abroad after interviews relating to the proposed international monetary conference on behalf of this government, this morning said: "The monetary situation in Japan is not only interesting, but most far-reaching, and perhaps not generally understood. The result which Japan seeks is to make permanent the depreciation of silver in relation to gold and to preserve thereby the advantages which this depreciation naturally gives to Japanese agriculture and Japanese industries, and it is not in any sense an attempt to equalize values. There was a time in the history of the United States when we might have taken a step identical with that which Japan now proposes. If during the years of our civil war, when our money was worth but 50 per cent. of the gold dollar, we had declared that henceforth our dollar should be of the value of fifty cents only in gold, our legislation would have been parallel with that which Japan evidently intends. We chose to follow a different path. The action of Japan accords in a measure with that of Austria a few years since and with the action projected in Russia, with this difference: Austria forced the permanent depreciation of its money, measured in gold, to the extent of some 16 per cent.; Russia will establish a reduction of about 33 per cent. in the value of its rouble, while Japan proposes to permanently depreciate its exchange, relative to gold, so as to lower the value of the yen to about forty-eight cents on the dollar. The action of Japan must not be construed as an attempt to establish and maintain a gold standard; it is simply an attempt to preserve the economic advantages which she at present enjoys, because of the gold premium which exists in Japan, and this at the expense of the great commercial countries of the world, which have heretofore maintained the stability of their coinage as well as their financial integrity. Of course, at the present price of silver, measured by gold, the result of the action of Japan would be to drive all its silver out of that country. It is premature, however, to attempt to forecast the full effect of her action in this respect. The course of Japan must, in my opinion, only serve to hasten some agreement between the leading commercial nations of the world, looking to a settlement of this question upon an international basis."

HYPNOTISM AND INSANITY.

Interesting Testimony in the Suit of Mrs. Case Against Relatives.

Rome, N. Y., March 26.—In the action of Mrs. Emma D. Case, of Utica, vs. Edward D. Case et al., which is on trial in the supreme court here, some interesting testimony has been brought out. Mrs. Case is suing for $10,000 damages, claiming that her brother-in-law, Edward D. Case; her brother, Edward Dopp, of Rochester, and Drs. Earl Fuller and Albert J. Browne of Utica, conspired to place her in the Utica state hospital for the insane, in order to secure her property. The plaintiff is a spiritulist, and her witnesses were mainly members of that sect. For the defense the testimony has been largely given by insanity experts. Dr. Mahon, superintendent of the St. Lawrence state hospital, who was assistant physician in the Utica hospital when Mrs. Case was an inmate there, testified on the cross-examination that he had practiced hypnotism on both patients and attendants in the asylum, and that he had perfect control over them. He said that he considered hypnotism of value in treating the insane. He said no one else in the Utica state hospital practiced hypnotism, but he knew of physicians in other hospitals who did.

His Accounts in Suspicion.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 26.—A committee has been appointed by the Rockingham county delegation to visit county treasurer Arthur L. Emerson of Chester and make an investigation regarding the funds of the county in his possession. It is not yet openly asserted that there has been any misapplication of funds, but certain facts that have come to light threw suspicion upon the treasurer's accounts. He has been requested to appear before the delegation four times, but has failed to appear and has given no reason for his non-appearance.

Sullivan Challenges Fitzsimmons.

Boston, March 26.—The following was prinetd out by a morning paper: "I have deposited $1,000 in cash with a temporary stakeholder on behalf of John L. Sullivan, and challenge Robert Fitsimmons to a fight to a finish, with gloves, before the club giving the largest purse, $5,000 a side and the championship of the world, within nine months from date.

"FRANK V. DUNN."

$10,000,000 for School Buildings.

Albany, March 26.—The Austin bills, authorizing New York city to issue $10,000,000 in bonds for new school buildings and providing for the issue of $2,500,000 in bonds for new high school buildings in New York city, will be reported favorably in the assembly today by the cities committee.

THE RESERVES TO BE.

There was such manifest opposition on the part of the majority of the citizens of the State to the bill introduced in the Senate to disband the State Naval Reserves, which was prompted by a misdirected effort for economy, that the measure met with decisive defeat when called up for a vote yesterday in the upper house of the Legislature. The Naval Reserve is of equal importance with the militia, even though it is a new adjunct to the State's protective forces, and is a great credit to the State's patriotism. During the consideration of the bill a petition was read in support of the Reserves which was signed by Craig A. Marsh, ex Judge W. A. Coddington, General Sterling, W. K. McClure, J. B. Coward and other Plainfield citizens.

THE NEWS' NEWS.

Yesterday the News volunteered the information that Mr. Emmons is still street commissioner in North Plainfield, but since it is a fact that Mr. Emmons retired in favor of GeorgeConover nearly two weeks ago, the item is a trifle stale and typical of the paper in which it is printed. If Editor Runyon's recuperation is one of retrogration it would be well to assign the editorship of his paper to the other end of the concern, who displayed such fine learning in editorial paragraphs during the absence of the proprietor. As a brilliant writer he is a jewel that needs no setting.

HOSPITAL HELP.

A year ago the officials of Muhlenbdrg hospital were greatly hampered in their good work by the lack of funds, but with the profits of last year's Kirmess and the several gifts and bequests received in the last few weeks much of this burden has been lifted. However, many improvements have been made about the institution and as all have been expensive the need of financial support is imperative for its proper conduct at all times. It redounds to the credit Plainfield that nearly $4,000 has been presented to the hospital within a short time.

Presented With the Gavel.

The regular meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W. was held last evening. Three applications were received and three candidates were elected. The representatives to the Grand Lodge, recently held at Trenton, Past Master Workman Newcorn and Spicer, made their reports and presented the lodge with the silver and ivory gavel awarded at the Grand Lodge for having initiations at all the meetings during the last year. A handsome plush case was ordered for the gavel. The meeting closed with the programme arranged by the good and welfare committee.

Wallace Hearing Adjourned Again.

The hearing of Lawrence Wallace, the alleged fire-bug, was begun at Elizabeth this morning. The witnesses sworn were Roundsman Frederickson and Chief George W. Grant, of this city, and Constable Seeland, of Elizabeth. The hearing was then adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Eleven Signed the Pledge.

The meeting at Reform Hall last evening was one of the best thus far held. There were good speeches and several vocal and instrumental selections. At the close of the meeting eleven signers were secured to the pledge. This makes in all thirty-two for this month. A special programme is being arranged for next week.

An Appeal Case.

The appeal case of Stebor against Chase is before Judge Bartine at the Somerset county court at Somerville today. Mr. Chase is represented in the case by City Judge DeMeza and the lawyer for the other side is S. S. Swackhamer.

Will Probated.

The will of the late John Berry was offered to probate this morning in the Somerset court. William A. Woodruff and Mrs Harriet Bailey are named as executors and John H. Nan Winkle as counselor.

When the Clock Strikes 2.

Van Emburgh & Son will place on sale to morrow, Saturday, March 27th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon (not sooner) one lot of fine Percales, one yard wide, at the ridiculous price of 6½ cents per yard.

HOPE CHAPEL ELECTION.

The Annual Meeting of the Society Held Last Night.

The annual meeting of the members of Hope chapel was held last evening when all of the various societies presented their reports for the year. Rev. G. Kennedy Newell presided and Robert Gow was the secretary. For the Sunday-school, John Cose reported that at present there are 600 scholars in the school.

Miss Anna Gray, for the Young People's Society, stated that fifty books had been added to the library, and the Men's Mutual Aid Society has added a number of Bibles to the chapel. Other reports were received from the social committee, relief committee and the advisory committee. The following new members were elected for the advisory committee: Mrs. Page, Mrs. S. Smith, Mrs. Neil Head, David Bowden, Mr. Holland and J. Dunham.

During the year there has been added to the membership of the chapel thirteen, and there has been a loss of four by death. The chapel has also lost several members who have moved away.

All reports were encouraging and showed increase in every department.

Christian Hansen was re-elected for another year as treasurer.

White's Store on Fire.

The roof of White's dry goods store caught on fire at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

It was caused by the friction of the elevator ropes near the roof.

It was soon extentinguished by the clerks.

The public is invited. No admission will be charged, but an offering will be made.

A Speaker of Thirteen Years.

The vice-president of the children's auxiliary of the Village Improvement Association of Cranford, a lad of thirteen, will come will come with the president, Mrs. Griffin, and speak at the children's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall, tomorrow morning, at 10:30 o'clock. Many children will join the Plainfield auxiliary at this meeting and wear the badge a pin costing five cents only. Cost of membership is 10 cents. All children are welcome, whether members or not.

FINE CHINA PAINTING.

EXHIBITION OF MRS. COLLES T. POND AND PUPILS NOW ON.

Some Creditable Specimens of Handwork by Plainfield Women Who Have a Taste For Art—Few of the Exhibits Mentioned.

It is seldom that the people of this city have the opportunity of attending a china painting exhibit of such rare merit as that afforded by the one which was opened yesterday afternoon in the Babcock building by Mrs. Colles T. Pond, a thorough student in the art. Mrs. Pond has several scholars who have been preparing for the exhibit during the past few months. In the collection furnished by Mrs. Pond there are some fine specimens in china painting which includes royal blue china with raised gold and cartouche of dainty roses, a vase with purple asters and a salad bowl with fround ferns. Mrs. Pond's work in painting fruits and roses is especially fine.

The largest exhibit presented is that furnished by Mrs. Thomas Minford, which is very large and beautiful, and among the pieces which are attracting favorable comment are three large floral sets, a punch set and a mantel set. Mrs. Minford's work shows great care and rare talent in the art. She is a deeply interested student and produces fine work.

A very attractive bit of work is a rose bowl supported by three cupids. This is the work of Mrs. Charles Lyman and is exceedingly rare.

Mrs. Stephen Krom has in her collection a vase which is very beautiful and valuable. On the vase is painted a landscape scene of Bayou Teche, on the Mississippi. In early years Mrs. Krom resided at this place and the picture is an ideal one. One side is a winter scene and the other side is a summer scene.

Miss Lillian Fritts has among her collection a pretty lemonade set which is greatly admired by all. A violet tray, the work of Mrs. Littell, shows carefulness and taste. Mrs. Thiers has produced a very beautiful jardiniere which is richly painted with appropriate colors. Miss Utter presents a loving-cup very pretty and dainty, while Mrs. L. W. Randolph has in her collection a chocolate pitcher which is artistic in design and beautiful in color. A dainty bureau set in blue by Miss Langdon attracts considerable attention by the lovers of art. Mrs. Seymour Smith presents as a masterpiece a claret pitcher which is rich in color and effect, and Mrs. Samuel W. Clark's work on a dainty lamp is beautiful. A cracker jar by Mrs. William O. Worth shows excellent taste in design and color.

All of the above-mentioned women are students under the direction of Mrs. Pond and they have succeeded in producing a display of valuable work. Everyone has exhibited rare talent for the work in which they are engaged and they were highly commended by the large number of people who attended the exhibit yesterday. The exhibit will be continued today and tomorrow and no doubt many will avail themselves of this rare opportunity of seeing such an exhibit.

FACTS TWISTED OUT OF SHAPE.

Two Instances of the Faking Propensities of The News.

Not a great while ago the News published an item which startled the community. It said that the members of Grace M. E. church had decided to build an addition to their church to meet the growing demands for more room. From a theoretical standpoint it was all very nice and everyone was in hopes that such was to be the fact but like a great many other things published in the above paper, it was pure fancy. Another demonstration of this sort of news was given last evening when the above paper announced with a big head line that the pastor of Grace M. E. church was going to have his salary raised. This was also very nice and the many friends of Rev. Mr. Johnston would be glad to hear that this is fact, but it is not, for the official board of the church have not so decided, notwithstanding the statement of the News. The fact is the board have decided to contribute toward the rental of a parsonage, which is no more than all other churches in the denomination do. It is no new thing, and the misleading way in which the News published the item has made no end of talk.

Verdict for Thatcher.

There has been much interest in the result of the contract case of Thatcher against Thorn in the court of Justice Newcorn. Judgment has been rendered by the Justice in favor of the plaintiff for the amount of $18.50 and costs. Judgment was also rendered in the contract case of Holmes against Hill for the plaintiff for the full sum and execution was issued. The contract case of the Consolidated Fastener Company against Chapot was adjourned for two weeks, pending settlement. The case of Nichols & Company against Chapot, on contract, was adjourned for the same reason. Summons were issued in the contract case of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, against Woolston, returnable April 1st.

WOODHULL & MARTIN

We ask you to call and look over our new Carpets. We say new carpets for we had to buy an entire new line. We have what is beyond all question the largest assortment, and best selected patterns ever shown in Plainfield. Carpets are cheaper at present than they have ever been, and much cheaper than they will be if the tarriff be revised. If you need carpets, we suggest that you make some sacrifice (if necessary) and buy this spring while prices are down.

We had to buy new Oilcloths and Linoleums also, and prettier patterns in better goods you never saw. We bought Mattings on the water and the stormy weather has delayed them somewhat, but we don't regret that so much, for we bought them at wonderfully low prices. They are coming in every day now. We make and hang shades, poles and etc. Make over and relay carpets and etc. All work done skillfully and promptly.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Lillian Staats is spending a few days with friends in New York City.

Miss Lavina Hammond, of Westfield, is visiting Miss Sadie Giles of Front street.

Mrs. Lillie Griggs, of Newark, is visiting the family of William Vail, of West Dunellen.

Among the new aspirants for the postmastership here are said to be Charles Corriell and Thomas Todd.

The Junior League of the Presbyterian church, were entertained in the church parlors, last evening. There was singing and recitations by the members, followed by the serving of cake and lemonade.

The dance of the Jr. O. U. A. M. in the Town Hall, last evening, was well patronized and it was a most enjoyable affair. Prof. Naylor furnished the music and the dancing was continued until an early hour today.

George Conklin, one of the young men taken from here to the New Brunswick jail and incarcerated on Sunday, on a charge of stealing coal from the Central Railroad Company, was released on bail, yesterday. His father went over and produced the necessary bail bond and the boy was allowed to go free for a time at least.

A resident remarks that Dunellen is noted for three things, viz: Its health, its wealth and its poorly lighted streets. In the latter respect, some of the sparsely settled streets leading up to the mountain are far better equipped with street lights than the main thoroughfare. This is particularly so from the post-office corner east.

The many friends of Mrs. J. W. Griggs will regret to learn that she is about to leave Dunellen and take up her home in Springfield, Mass., where her husband is now employed as head salesman in a large wholesale clothing house. Mrs. Griggs will meet her husband in Plainfield tomorrow at 6 p. m. and together they will take passage on the west bound Baltimore and Ohio express for Springfield. Mrs. Griggs dislikes leaving Dunellen very much, but it is her husband's wish.

The Dunellen Fire Company, incorporated Feb. 19th, under the State laws, held its first regular meeting last evening in the Town Hall. The report of the special committee on Firemen's Relief Association was to the effect that before the members could derive any benefits application must first be made to the State officers, who would investigate and if the company filled all the requirements it would be admitted to membership in the State Relief Association. Furthermore it will be necessary to have a regularly-elected Chief of the Department before the State authorities will act. The report was accepted with thanks and the committee continued. The committee on fire alarm made no report, and it is not known whether or not the new system is satisfactory. The committee on constitution and by-laws submitted its report. They were taken up, read section by section, amended and finally adopted as a whole. The membership of the company is limited to fifty. Three black balls against an applicant makes him ineligible for membership. The collection of dues and fines was the next order of business, and in this respect it was reported that $3.80 dues had been paid in and $4.15 for fines. The secretary was authorized and instructed to send a list of the officers and members to the Borough Council for confirmation, and the meeting adjourned.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Baker store is yet vacant. The executor has had two or three parties looking at the building and fixtures, but they have not leased it yet.

It is understood that within the next ten days, weather permitting, the work on the cellar for the new building of the Young Men's League will commence.

There is said to be a gang of roughs who hang about the Fanwood depot and grounds pleasant nights and who make themselves obnoxious by their language.

The heavy machinery that was carted to the mountain crusher on Sunday a week ago by George Rickert, has been placed in position, and everything is in readiness now to start up the works.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A barn dance was given by Miss Eva Manning, last evening, which was attended by thirty couples from this and surrounding places. Dancing was the feature and the large, commodious barn furnished a pleasant place for the event. Music for the occasion was furnished by O'Reilly, and refreshments were served about midnight. Those who attended from this city were Wm. Cadmus, Jedediah Smalley, Herbert Martin, Edward Randolph; Miss Sadie Randolph, the Misses Saxton.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—A missionary meeting will be held in Warren chapel this evening.

A PASTOR SURPRISE

Mt. Zion A. M. E. Members Make Rev. J. E. Groves an Unexpected Call.

A pleasant surprise was tendered Rev. James E. Groves, of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, last evening. The surprise was complete. An address was delivered by Mr. Samuel Till appropriate to the occasion. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Grobes, Mr. and Mrs. McNeally, Mrs. A. Peters, Mrs. G. Jones, Mrs. S. Marsh, Mrs. C. Peterson, Mrs. T. Dunham, Mrs. G. Heywood, Miss S. King, Miss L. Gee, Miss S. Washington, Mr. P. Simmons, Mr. J. Bonner, Mr. G. Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. S. Till, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lare, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Downs, Mr. and Mrs. L. Coles, Mrs. R. Vorhees, Mrs. J. Fisher, Mrs. L. Brown, Mrs. H. Jones, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. M. J. Mitchell, Miss H. Langford, Miss S. Taylor, Miss J. Curtis, Mr. T. Johnson, Mr. F. Kelso, Mr. D. Martin.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

Mrs. Stephen Mapes is visiting in New York.

Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has an initiation tonight and collation afterwards.

There will be a progressive euchre party and informal dance at the W. A. C. next Tuesday evening.

The picture play, "Miss Jerry," will be given in the W. A. C. hall tonight. The proceeds will go to the Children's Country Home.

Miss Dema Stillwell, the belle of Hunter, N. Y., who has been visiting the family of C. A. Smith, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. J. B. Rogers, of Broad street, will return home next week after a prolonged visit with her parents in Saugerties, N. Y.

A large crowd of the Christian Endeavor members went to Roselle last evening to hear the lecture by Edward C. Lobenstine. The lecture took place in the Roselle Presbyterian church, and was the third in a series of the Missionary Extension course.

Rev. J. A. Merrill, of Plainfield, addressed a full house last evening in W. C. T. U. hall on Prospect street. He presented the subject of woman's right of suffrage in a very eloquent manner. Rev. Mr. Merrill was formerly a pastor here and has a large circle of friends, who turned out last night and gave him an enthusiastic welcome.

The rooms of the Social Club were resplendent last night with pretty women and handsome men, who were present to participate in the last formal dance and reception of the year. The ballroom was brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated with potted plants and palms. The attendance was the largest of this season's dances and the event proved to be the most pleasurable. After the ball was ever refreshments were served and the guests departed.

A BOOK SOCIABLE.

Participants in Congregational Sociable Represented Literary Work.

Forty young people assembled in the parlors of the Congregational church last evening for the "Book" sociable of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. Although the idea of representing books was not a new one, it proved very successful and all who were able to come spent a very pleasant evening. Nearly everybody made some attempt to represent a book, and while the attempts were not very elaborate, some of them were particularly taking. After an hour in which the guests chatted and tried to guess the names of the different books which the others represented, games were played and some of the members gave musical selections. Refreshments closed the sociable. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Julia Belknap, chairman; Miss Eda Beekman, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, Miss Mary Chase, Miss Pond, Miss Captola Conover and Miss Maud Belknap.

Is This Your Hope?

It is the hope of every person suffering from weakness or disease that he or she shall sometime be well. Hope never deserts any man or woman. You may be ill, you may suffer, but there is still hope. Why is this? It is because some great grand man has devoted his life to your welfare. He has studied, he has investigated and he has discovered, as Dr. Geeene has, the road to speedy recovery. You can consult Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, personally or by letter, free, and can be treated at your home as well as if you personally visited the doctor. If you are suffering, write to him at once.

"NEW PLAINFIELD ENTERPRISE."

SENSIBLE SHOESHOP.

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business, but am after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me; want to renew old acquaintances, and get aquainted with everybody I don't know.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text: "The Word of God Grew and Multiplied." Acts xii, 24. March 28, 1897.

Lesson I.—Christ's Ascension (Acts i, 1-14). Golden Text—Luke xxiv, 51, "While He blessed them He was parted from them and carried up into Heaven." The golden text for the review, "The word of God grew and multiplied," describes the work of the Holy Spirit through the apostles after the ascension of Christ. We must keep before us the great fact that it was and still is the purpose of God to bless the whole earth through Israel (Ps. lxvii, 1-7; Isa. lx, 13; Jer. iii, 17, 18; Rom. xi, 12, 15); but, Israel having rejected and crucified their King, the kingdom is postponed until the King shall return (Luke xix, 11, 12; Acts iii, 20, 21). In the meantime we live in "the mysteries of the kingdom."

Lesson II.—The Holy Spirit Given (Acts ii, 1-3). Golden Text—Acts ii, 4, "They were all filled with the Holy Ghost." Although these disciples had been daily under the teaching of the Lord Jesus for several years, yet they were not qualified to be His witnesses, but had to wait until filled with the Holy Spirit, for He alone could accomplish in and through them what the Lord required. No wisdom or power of man can accomplish the work of the Lord, but only the Spirit of the Lord (Zech. iv, 6). When filled, they spake as the Spirit gave them utterance (Acts ii, 4).

Lesson III.—A Multitude Converted (Acts ii, 32-47). Golden Text—Acts ii, 39, "The promise is unto you and to your children and to all that are afar off." When the strangers at Jerusalem from all parts of the world heard these unlearned men speaking in all languages and declaring the wonderful works of God, they were amazed, and said that the disciples were full of wine. Peter, then standing forth, declared in the power of the Spirit the facts of the case, and from the Scriptures preached Christ unto them with the result that about 3,000 believed and were baptized, and the Lord continued to add daily those being saved (verses 41, 47).

Lesson IV.—The Lame Man Healed (Acts iii, 1-16). Golden Text—Acts iii, 16, "His name, through faith in His name, hath made this man strong." The disciples seem to have frequented the temple, probably for the purpose of teaching, even as Jesus had done (see chapter v, 20), and on this occasion the Lord through them gave health to a man over 40 years old who had never walked a step (verse 2 and chapter iv, 22).

Lesson V.—The Boldness of Peter and John (Acts iv, 1-14). Golden Text—Acts iv, 12, "There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." As the power of God is increasingly seen the devil's anger increases, and the apostles suffer imprisonment and threatening.

Lesson VI.—True and False Giving (Acts iv, 32, to v, 11). Golden Text—I Sam. xvi, 7, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." With such great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus that the grace of God was upon them all, and many sold their property and put all the proceeds in the common fund that none of the believers might lack anything; for then, as now among the Jews, those believing in Jesus would probably be cast off by their friends and find themselves destitute of temporal things. God's hatred of deceit is seen in His judgment of the liars.

Lesson VII.—The Prison Opened (Acts v, 17-32). Golden Text—Acts v, 29, "We ought to obey God rather than men." Satan's rage increases, and again the apostles are imprisoned, but no walls or bolts or soldiers can hold them unless the Lord is willing that they should be held; so He sends an angel, who delivers them and sends them to the temple to continue teaching the words of life. When again arrested in the temple in the morning and brought before the council, Peter again preaches Christ crucified and risen, and, although beaten for it, when let go they continued daily to teach and preach Jesus Christ both in the temple and from house to house.

Lesson VIII.—The First Christian Martyr (Acts vi, 8-15; vii, 54-60). Golden Text—Rev. ii, 10, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." The power of the Holy Spirit is as necessary to serve table as to preach the gospel, and if one is willing to serve whole heartedly in humble service he will be led forth to greater things. The wisdom and spirit which they were not able to resist was not any wisdom of Stephen, but that of the Holy Spirit in Stephen, even the wisdom and Spirit of God. Stephen's sermon, like Peter's, was chiefly quotations from or references to Scripture, and having given his testimony he went home to be with Jesus. He is the first recorded as seeing Jesus after His ascension.

Lesson IX.—The Disciples Dispersed (Acts viii, 1-17). Golden Text—Acts viii, 4, "They that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word." The last words of Christ ere He ascended were, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," and "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Mark xvi, 15; Acts i, 8), yet up to the time of our lesson the witnesses do not seem to have left Jerusalem.

Lesson X.—The Ethiopian Convert (Acts viii, 26-40). Golden Text—Acts viii, 35, "Then Philip opened his mouth and began at the same Scripture and preached unto him Jesus." Perhaps none of the scattered abroad had gone to Ethiopia, but the Lord had His chosen ones even there and will somehow reach them also.

Lesson XI.—Saul, the Persecutor, Converted (Acts ix, 1-12, 17-20). Golden Text—I Tim. i, 15, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Things impossible with men are possible with God, and there is nothing too hard or wonderful for God (Luke xviii, 27; Jer. xxxii, 17).

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That every vehicle used to convey or transport ashes or house refuse in any of the streets of said City, shall be furnished with a good and substantial tight box thereon, so that in traversing the streets of said City, no portion of such material may be in any way scattered, thrown or allowed to fall on any of said streets; and all such vehicles when used in carting ashes or house refuse shall have the box thereof provided with a good and sufficient cover of cloth or boards closely fitted, so as to entirely prevent the escape or flying about of any of the contents therefrom; and every person using any vehicle for any such purpose without it being so fitted shall be deemed guilty of violation of this section, and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine not exceeding five dollars for each and every offense.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A PEOPLE OF FEW WORDS.

"Let your speech be yea, yea, and nay, nay," says the good book, "for whosoever is more than these cometh of evil." The Shakers abide by the spirit of this rule. Their words are few, simple, sincere and direct. They waste no energy in idle talk; they use it in thinking and doing. And what ever they do they do with their might. They are content with nothing short of the essence and principle of the things they investigate. They take pains and are patient. And thus the doors of many strange truths open to them. In this way they discovered what may almost be called the unity of disease. A venerable Shaker says of it: "It is said that one man's meat is another man's poison. That is but half the truth. Any man's meat is any man's poison, under certain conditions. If the grain never got further than the hopper we should never have bread; and if bread never got further than the stomach we should never have strength. When the stomach is torpid, helpless and inflamed the food lies in it and rots. This fermentation produces poisons which may, and often do, disorder every other organ and function of the body. This is indigestion or dyspepsia, with many symptoms and disguises. Cure it and you cure nine-tenths of your complaints." These words were uttered many years ago. Since then they have found a remedy, now known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is made from medicinal plants cultivated by them. It is a food and digests other foods. Taken while eating it rests the stomach and nourishes the system. The pain and distresses of dyspepsia disappear before it. It prevents fermentation and soon restores full power to the digestion. It succeeds in the worst cases. It is worthy the name of the people whose name it bears. Any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents.

FIGHTING IN CRETE

European and Turkish Warships Fire Upon the Insurgents.

CHRISTIANS ALMOST IN FULL CONTROL

Rout Turkish Troops, Capture Malaxa and Burn the Town and May Now Advance on Keratidi—Situation Most Alarming.

Canea, March 26.—The fighting in the vicinity of Malaxa continued all yesterday afternoon. It was especially desperate at 3 o'clock in the village of Tsicalaria, where the insurgents set fire to a number of Turkish houses. The insurgents are now occupying part of Malaxa. The European war ships shelled them last night, the firing lasting about ten minutes. The insurgents, however, held their ground close to the ruins of the blockhouse from which they drove the Turkish garrison Wednesday night, and did not seem to greatly mind the bombardment. When the Turkish troops evacuated the blockhouse they set fire to it in order that it might not furnish a shelter to their enemies. It was, however, badly wrecked by the fire of the rebels.

No Match for Insurgents.

It is evident here that the Turkish troops here are no match for the insurgents. A body of troops made an attempt to gain the heights of Nerck-Ouru, where the Keratidi blockhouse is situated. With this position and the one at Malaxa in their poessession the insurgents would be able to completely blockade Canea from the land side. The troops had gone only a little distance when they were attacked by insurgents, who drove them back. Later another attempt was made to reach the heights, but this, too proved unsuccessful. A body of insurgents made an attack upon the Turkish cordon at Halepa. The Turks had a number of mountain guns, and the fire from them prevented the insurgents coming to close quarters. It was this alone which saved the Moslems from defeat. Montevardia and Halepa are both within range of the guns of the insurgents, who continue to shell both places.

Malaxa Fired by Insurgents.

Last night part of Malaxa was blown up with dynamite, and the rest of the town is burning. The Turkish warships in Suda bay bombarded the insurgents, but their fire appears to be wholly ineffective. Malaxa is one of the towns mentioned by the foreign admirals in their proclamation, issued on Tuesday, that must not be attacked by Greek troops or insurgents. The admirals declared that the fortifications, which were needed to "maintain security and quiet," must not be fired upon, otherwise they would use force against the attackers. It was the disobedience of the insurgents to this proclamation that led the foreign warships to bombard them. These vessels fired ninety shells, three of which fell within the fort.

May Now Destroy Keratidi.

After the place had been evacuated by its garrison, which numbered sixty-four men, the troops scattered in any direction that led to the coast in order to escape from their pursuers. One of them reached Nerok-Ouru and eighteen managed to make their way to Suda. The others have not been heard from, and it is supposed they were killed. The Mussulmans here, and they comprise almost the entire population, are in a state of great excitement. They fear that the insurgents, elated by their capture and destruction of Malaxa, will attack Keratidi.

MIGHT SEARCH OUR VESSELS.

One Effect of the Blockade Upon American Trade with Crete.

London, March 26.—In the house of commons Right Hon. George N. Curson, under foreign secretary, said in reply to an inquiry on the subject, that British and American merchant vessels and ships of the same class of other nationalities, consigned to agents at ports in Crete, were liable to be searched should they attempt to reach their destinations despite the blockade of the island and would also run the risk of being prevented from delivering their cargoes, at the discretion of the admirals commanding the foreign warships in Cretan waters. The blockade, Mr. Curzon said, was a measure of police enforced with the consent of the sovereign powers.

Greek Blockade Runners Captured.

Canea, March 26.—The Austrian cruiser Satellit has arrived in Suda bay, having in custody a Greek steamer with sixty volunteers on board and a Greek sailing vessel laden with ammunition intended for the Cretan insurgents. These vessels were captured by the Satellit while they were attempting to run the blockade.

England To Take a Negative Part.

Constantinople, March 26.—It is stated here that in the event of a blockade of Greek ports by the warships of the powers the admiral commanding the British squadron is under instruction to acquiesce therein, but the British fleet will take no part in the actual blockade.

Raines Liquor Law Hearing.

Albany, March 26.—The Raines law amendments will have a hearing before the senate taxation committee next week. Senator Higgins, the chairman of the committee, believes the committee may be able to act finally on the amendments next week.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The extraordinary interest displayed in cycle racing in Australia was never better shown than at the meet recently held in Melbourne by the Australian Native's Association. The turnstiles registered the attendance at forty thousand. The big race of the tournament was the Great Wheel Race, a two-mile handicap in heats, in which the prizes aggregated $2,250, of which sum the winner received $1.750. The tournament lasted from 10 a. m. until midnight. All the cracks of the country competed, together with a number of foreign champions.

Camp life for cyclists during the vacation period promises to become, sooner or later, the proper thing for the devotees of the pastime in this country. Several clubs in London have established permanent camps for their members, and these have been exceedingly popular during the season. The idea of cyclists' camps in this country originated from the experience of the London clubs. It is very likely that the example of the club camps will be followed in this country this season, some talk to that effect having been made by the leading organizations of New York city.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

A match game will be rolled this evening on the Ulrich alleys between the Potter and Cleveland bowling teams. An effort is being made to arrange a series of games between these two teams and they may be started at an early date.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Board of Trustees of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club held a meeting last evening. It was decided to get the golf links in condition for opening on April 10th, if possible. The annual meeting of the club will be held on April 5th.

LIVELY MORNING BLAZE.

A BARN, OWNED BY EX-COUNCILMAN JOHNSON, BURNED.

Used by Fred W. Hand in Yard Now Owned by W. D. Manning—The Loss Very Nearly Covered by Insurance.

About 9 o'clock this morning Fred W. Hand, of South avenue, noticed that the barn in the rear of his house was on fire, and as soon as possible he went to Box 28, which is near by, and sent in an alarm. Only a few minutes elapsed before the chemical engine and other fire department apparatus appeared on the scene and did good work in confining the fire to the barn, which stands in the centre of the wood and coal yards which belong to W. D. Manning. The barn is owned by ex-Councilman Johnson, and Mr. Hand had stable room in it.

After sending in the alarm Mr. Hand went back and rescued his horse. His only loss was a set of harness Mr. Manning had a quantity of hay in the barn, and this was consumed. The barn was insured for $150, and it is not thought that the entire loss will be much over $200.

The supposition is that the barn caught fire from the sparks of a passing locomotive. There was no one around the yard at the time, and had not Mr. Hand been home the result of the fire would probably have been much worse. One tank was emptied from the chemical engine, and then the apparatus was sent back. Several lines of hose were laid from the nearby hydrants and an immense quantity of water was used before the fire was extinguished. The recall was sent in about 10 o'clock.

W. C. T. U. Parlor Meeting.

Invitations have been sent out by the W. C. T. U. for a meeting to be held in the Crescent Avenue church parlor, Tuesday, March 30th, at 3 p. m. Mrs. M. B. THE ACCUSERS MISSING

A SURPRISE AT THE HEARING OF LARRY WALLACE YESTERDAY.

Boundsman Frederickson Tells What He Saw at the Benner House When Wallace Was Caught—Case Adjourned.

At the hearing of Lawrence Wallace, charged with attempted arson, at Elizabeth, yesterday, Prosecutor F. C. Marsh conducted the examination of the witnesses, and failed to shake any of their testimony under severe questioning. Lawyer Edward Nugent, who appeared in behalf of Wallace, cross-examined only one witness. County Detective Keron advised with the prosecutor during the hearing.

Policemon Frederickson, of this city, was the first to tell his story. He told how, on the night of March 19, he had gone to the new roadhouse of John Benner in Fanwood, with a man name Vollner. Sheriff Kirk told him to go. Vollner said to him that Lawrence Wallace intended to set fire to the building that night. After they had laid their plans, Frederickson and Constable Seeland secreted themselves at a point near the rear of the house to watch if Wallace should come from that direction. About 9 o'clock Wallace came through a patch of woods and went toward the house. He fell in the yard, and when he got up Frederickson noticed that he carried something in his hand. Then Wallace went to the house and got down on his knees beside the stoop. He was in such a position that Frederickson could not see what he was doing.

After he had been in that position about five minutes Vollner came out of the house suddenly and pounced on Wallace, at the same time calling the officers. Frederickson and Seeland ran up and found Wallace on his knees, with Vollner holding him. The officers grabbed Wallace, and as they raised him to his feet Frederickson saw a small blaze in the corner. He could not tell what was burning. As the officers started to walk away with Wallace Vollner exclaimed:

"Here's all the evidence we want," and he picked up a bottle containing some kerosene, and a pasteboard box in which were some shavings.

Frederickson did not see Wallace strike any matches.

Prosecutor Marsh asked Frederickson a number of searching questions, but failed to shake the testimony. The witness said that Vollner picked up something that was burning, then threw it down and stamped out the blaze. Under cross-examination the witness denied that Wallace made any attempt whatever to get on the stoop or to enter the house.

Constable Seeland said he was summoned by Sheriff Kirk to go go to Fanwood and catch a firebug. He got out of the sheriff's buggy at the corner of the county road and a cross road in Fanwood, and waited for two men, who he was told would pass that way. He afterward understood one was Wallace. When the two passed him he followed them. They walked leisurely to the Benner house. Neither staggered.

When they got near the Benner house he lost sight of them, and went toward the house, meeting Vollner, whom he styled "the detective." Afterward he went with Frederickson, and his testimony corroborated Frederickson's, except that he, Seeland, did not see the blaze when they lifted Wallace to his feet. Some one struck a match, though.

Chief of Police Grant produced the box filled with shavings that was found where Wallace was on his knees, and also the bottle, together with three matches he and Sheriff Kirk picked up there later in the night. Chief Grant thought the matches had been burned, but Prosecutor Marsh called his attention to the fact that none had been lighted.

This ended the hearing, so far as this sitting was concerned. Prosecutor Marsh asked for an adjournment, as he said two voluntary witnesses had fail to appear, and the justice ought to hear the testimony of at least one before giving his decision in the matter.

The two missing men are William Adams and Charles Vollner, alias Bloodgood, alias Jones, alias Arthur Sinclair, the two chief witnesses against the prisoner, and there is a suspicion that they have absconded to escape arrest for conspiracy. Both men are ex-convicts, Sinclair having been convicted of forgery in Newark and sent from there to State Prison. After he was released he professed to have experienced religion and was taken in hand by worthy Christians of Trenton, who helped him along in various ways. County Detective Keron, however, who closely followed his career, says Sinclair's reformation was only a sham.

Lawyer Nugent made no objection to a postponement of the hearing for a short period, and Justice Hall set the time for Monday at 9 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. CYCLE LEAGUE.

ENTHUSIASTIC WHEELMEN ARRANGE RUNS FOR THE SUMMER.

Plainfielders Active in the League Which Was Started Last Lear—Dates and Destination of Their New Scheduled Runs.

Everything points toward an active season for the wheelmen of New Jersey. Last year the Y. M. C. A.'s of this part of the state took an initiative step toward organization and united effort and this year the associations have enlarged their scope and promise to give their wheelmen an unusually active season. An informal league was organized last year at Westfield by representatives of five of neighboring associations. Plainfield was one of the first to take up the matter and push it forward to a successful completion, Thomas U. Cuming, captain of the cycling division of the Plainfield association, taking an active part in the organization of the of the league.

Another meeting was held in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. in Elizabeth, Thursday evening, to reorganize the league for active sport for the coming season. The league is known as the Y. M. C. A. Cycle League of Northern New Jersey. The meeting was called to order by S. E. Houston, of Summit, president of the league last year. G. H. Thurston, of Elizabeth, was chosen president for the coming year and D. W. Littell, Jr., of Plainfield, secretary. Representatives from the associations of the following cities and towns were present:—Plainfield, Summit, Rahway, Passaic, Madison and Elizabeth. Montclair was represented by letter. It is understood that Orange, New Brunswick and Morristown will join the league at once. The Plainfield delegates were Thomas U. Cuming and D. W. Littell, Jr.

The principal business of the meeting was the arrangement of the schedule of runs. They were arranged as follows:—May 6, Rahway; May, 20; Passaic; June 3, Plainfield; June 17, Madison; July 1, Montclair; July 15, New Brunswick; July 29, Morristown; August 12, Orange; August 26, Elizabeth; September 9, Summit. As can be seen the runs will be held on every other Thursday evening.

All the runs are to arrive at the entertaining association's rooms by 9 o'clock.

THEY'RE NOT SO WARM.

SUMMIT BASKET BALL TEAM DEFEATED BY PLAINFIELD.

Came Here With a Reputation as Being Fierce Players But the Local Team Walloped Them Around Quite Easily.

The Summit basket ball players did not turn out anywhere near as fierce as they were reputed to be and while the team from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. had to put up a good game to win, there was little doubt after the first ten minutes of play as to who was likely to beat. The game was an interesting one, however, and the visitors braced up enough in the last part of the game to make it exciting. The Plainfield boys out-played their opponents, as the latter admitted, and it was by only superior team play and passing that Plainfield secured the victory. The Summit players had a tendency to throw the ball wild and several of them materially interfered with each other by blocking their attempts to throw the ball.

The Plainfield team took the lead at the start by some well-timed throws. They continued in the lead until the end. The score at the end of the first half was 8 to 5 in favor of the local players. The final score was 14 to 9.

There was very little real rough playing on either side although seven fouls were called on the Plainfield team during the game and two on the Summits. On the home team, Long and Egan each threw two goals from the field and each of the others one-Nichols, of Summit, made three goals on fouls, Wagner two goals from the field and Jones one.

The home team was composed of Long, E. Moraller, Egan, G. P. Smith and Moraller. The Summit team was Jones, Wagner, Nichols, Houston and Ahern. C. E. A. Heyward acted as referee.

Mrs. Ellis' Talk.

Mrs. Ellis, who will address a parlor meeting at the Crescent Avenue Church next Thursday afternoon, is the woman who conducted a series of evangelistic services in this city several years ago, when so many young people were converted and joined the church. She is a talented speaker and every woman should hear her talk on "Motherhood," next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Fresh vegetables that are really fresh are one of the specialties that Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers, have for sale. Strawberries are included.

SPRING VACATION HERE.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSED UNTIL MONDAY, APRIL 5TH.

The Principal Thought Among the Young Fellows is Athletics, and Teams for Various Sports Being Made Up.

The spring vacation at the Plainfield High school has begun. Yesterday, all the public schools of the city closed down until Monday, April 5th, when work will be resumed.

All is activity among the members of the athletic association. The concert with its financial assistance gave the needed boom to the association. The candidates for the baseball team are out every pleasant day, and the contest for the positions is quite a lively one. It will be the first time for many years when the High School will be represented on the diamond.

The athletic team promises to do some excellent work for the school. All the members of the bicycle squad have started to train and are doing the preliminary road work necessary before getting down to hard work.

There promises to be a rival claimant of honors in throwing the hammer, in which George Proctor Smith has heretofore stood alone. Carroll Carroll L. Runyon has been practicing in that event and, in the latter part of last year, threw the hammer a distance of 98 feet, 8 inches. The State Interscholastic record is 96 feet, 6 inches, now held by G. P. Smith, of this city. In his first attempt, this year, Runyon threw the hammer 95 feet, 5 inches, which he can easily improve with a little practice.

There has not, for recent years, been any long distance runner in the High School, but now Charles Titsworth is training for that position.

A meeting of the Athletic Association was held on Wednesday afternoon in which it was decided to purchase a discus and to add throwing the discus to the regular events of the association. There was a movement on foot among the baseball enthusiasts to have the association pay half the expenses for suits for the baseball team. The matter was brought up for discussion and it was decided that the association was not in a position at present to bear such a heavy expense.

The Kappa Delta Phi held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon in the High School building. The programme consisted of a debate on the question, "Should the Arbitration Treaty Between England and the United States be Ratified by the United States?" The affirmative speakers were George Proctor Smith and Henry Eggerding, while the debaters for the negative were William A. De Long, Jr., and William B. Van Alstyne. The debate was decided by a committee, composed of Sydney R. Titsworth, William A. Fisher and Arthur W. Lederer, in favor of the affirmative.

The election of officers was the only business of importance to come before the meeting. The election resulted as follows: President, Lindley M. Hillman; vice-president, Arthur W. Lederer; secretary-treasurer, William B. Van Alstyne; critic, William A. DeLong, Jr.; sergeant-at-arms, George Proctor Smith.

UNDER THE COLORS OF N. J. A. C.

Plainfield Athletes Who Will be Among the Crack Amateurs.

Four of the best athletes of the Plainfield High School are all expecting to compete this summer under the colors of the New Jersey Athletic Club. The athletic committee of that organization understand that what they want is the younger element of athletes who are to be the champions in a few years. Sulzer, the crack short distance runner of Pingry's School of Elizabeth, and Manvell, of the same school, who has such a reputation as a quarter and half-miler, are members of that club and will represent it in all events outside of school meets.

The Plainfield young men, who have become or soon will be athletic members of the New Jersey Athletic Club, are Lindley H. Hillman, Carroll L. Runyon, George Proctor Smith and Walter T. Serrell. Hillman and Runyon will be in the bicycle squad. The former has learned how to ride on the club's unbanked track and is a hard man to defeat. Runyon will train on that track this summer and is a good reliable rider with lots of endurance. Smith will enter in the pole vault, throwing the hammer and putting the shot. Serrell will train for the running broad jump and possibly the quarter mile.

Ladies' Aid Elect.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel, at a recent meeting, elected the following officers: — President, Mrs. S. R. Struthers; Vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Higgins; Secretary, Mrs. McComas; Treasurer, Mrs. Page.

HUBS CRASH TOGETHER.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AVERTED BETWEEN FIRE APPARATUS.

Drivers Townley and Fiering Just Escaped Colliding, Owing to Another Wagon Blocking Their Way on a Corner.

A serious accident was narrowly averted yesterday afternoon between two of the fire department apparatus while responding to the alarm of fire from White's dry goods store.

Driver Townley was coming toward Park avenue from Alerts house at a high rate of speed and Driver Fiering was coming toward the same avenue from the opposite direction. Just before Park avenue was reached both drivers noticed that Michael Powers with his horse and wagon was standing right in their way. The crowd yelled to him to get out of the way, but he did not seem able to move his horse one way or the other. It then looked as though a collission between the two apparatus was inevitable. It required the most careful driving to escape, but it was impossible to pass each other without striking. The chemical engine and Alerts wagon came together and the crowd stood motionless, for they expected to see someone killed. The whole affair only required a few seconds, but the escape was most fortunate. The only damage resulted to Alerts wagon. One cap was knocked off the wheel and the cap on the rear wheel was twisted out of shape. An axle was bent considerably. There was no damage to the chemical. If the roadway had been kept clear no collision would have occurred.

The fire broke out in the cupola on the top of the building occupied by White. This cupola contains the working machinery for the elevator, and it is covered on the outside with sheet iron. H. C. Corsa and Thomas Gorman were at work painting the roof and cupola with tar. Close to the latter there was a small pot of fire, which was used to keep the tar warm. The workmen did not watch the fire as closely as they should and presently they detected the smell of smoke. Mr. Corsa at once sent word down stairs to have an alarm of fire sent in. He saw that he could not do anything, for the fire had warmed the tar to such a heat that it was boiling and had set fire to the tar paper beneath the iron The department responded quickly and very soon the fire was extinguished. The damage was trifling and can soon be repaired.

Previous to the arrival of the firemen Mr. White ascended to the roof and with the aid of a hand fire extinguisher succeeded in confining the flames until the firemen could arrive. When the latter reached the roof they used their own extinguishers.

CHINA AND THE CHINESE.

In Chinese Costume Miss Yates Gave Her Experiences in That Country.

A missionary talk by a worker who has been in the field is nearly always interesting, but the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church was last night favored with one of unusual interest, that on "China and the Chinese," by Miss Elizabeth Upham Yates, who was formerly in the Chinese mission work. Miss Yates wore a very handsome Chinese costume, but said she had made no attempt to dress her hair in the Chinese fashion, as she had not with her the arrangements needed for the erecting of that marvellous coiffure, nor the time to spend in doing it, before the meeting.

Miss Yates began her talk by describing the work of one day, a Sunday, in the Chinese mission; prayers in the morning with the Chinese servants, a hard task during her early struggles with the language, the chapel services, and the various Bible classes and their attendants. The latter part of the talk was devoted to the manners and costumes of the Chinese; the practice of foot-binding among the women, and the rule made by the missionaries that the girls who are educated in their schools must unbind their feet; the work of the medical missionaries, specially among those addicted to the opium habit; the household arrangements for cooking and sleeping, and the style of dress; the decidedly personal questions the Chinese always ask one, such as "How old are you?" and many other interesting items. Always a clear and charming speaker, Miss Yates' talk was given in a most entertaining manner, and at the same time presented to her hearers an unusually realistic picture of a very interesting people.

The Misses Phebe Durfee and Laura Lovell, daughters of Leander N. Lovell of 112 Cresent avenue, have issued invitations for a tea to be given Friday afternoon, April 2d., from four to six o'clock.

A CYCLE FIRM OF PUSH.

FRANK L. C. MARTIN READY FOR THE SEASON'S TRADE

Many Improvements Have Been Made in the Store—Extensive Line of Wheels Handled—A Fine Repair Department.

The bicycle has come to stay, and so has the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company. As the first bicycle agent in Plainfield, Mr. Martin started in a simple way; now he has one of the finest and most complete stores in the state. The store is located in the same building as last year, on Park avenue, near Fourth street. Everything is ready for the spring trade and the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company is prepared to handle all its customers in a prompt and up-to-date manner.

There have been a number of improvements made in the store. The repair department far outgrew its old quarters and has been removed to a building opposite, formerly used as a carriage factory. John Vetterlein, who is one of the most expert machinists in the city, is in complete charge, and is assisted by a corps of efficient workmen. The front of the store is devoted to the storage and rental wheels. Separated from that part of the store, by a railing, is the exhibiting space for the new wheels. In the rear is the office, which is under the charge of J. D. MacIntyre. George M. MacIntyre, one of the firm, is the manager of the Plainfield store, and his private office is to be found near the entrance. He has complete charge of the ordering and supply departments. The store has been painted and decorated in an artistic manner and the interior presents a very pretty appearance.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company is now agent for the Cleveland and Crescent wheels which have been their leaders for the last two years, and also the Dayton, Barnes White Flyer, Rambler, Westfield, Silver King and Silver Queen. The prices of the wheels range from $100 to $50 in price. A complete rental department is run in connection with the establishment and a new scale of prices has been put in operation. The scale is published in their ad.

Mr. Martin is in Plainfield every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, while on Monday, Wednesday and Friday he is at his store in Newark.

CHILDREN TO ASSIST.

LOCAL PRIDE TO BE STIRRED UP IN THE JUVENILE LIFE.

An Auxiliary of Young Workers to be Organized by the Town Improvement Association—The Work in Cranford

A children's auxiliary to the Plainfield Town Improvement Society was organized this morning, and will doubtless prove very popular among the children. About twenty two were present at the meeting in Y. M. C. A Hall, called to consider such an organization, and the idea was hailed with with great enthusiasm. A number of women from the older society were present, and looked on with much interest and amusement.

The object of the organization was explained by Mrs. Pierre Mali. It is designed to teach children to be good citizens; to have a pride in the appearance of their city, to respect other peoples' property. to do everything in their power to keep the streets clean, and to be kind to dumb animals. Children joining such a society would have to promise not to throw papers and fruit skins in the streets; not to mutilate fences; not to chalk up the sidewalks, nor to wantonly hurt any animal.

Mrs. Griffen, president of the Children's Auxiliary of the Village Improvement Association, of Cranford, was present, and spoke to the children in a very interesting way about the work in general and the Cranford work in particular.

She said that in order to cleanse and beautify our cities and towns the best way was to turn a stream of enthusiastic children loose upon them.

Herbert Halsey, the young first vice president of the Cranford Association, also said a few words about the management of the meetings, the various committees and their work, and their plan of dividing the city into districts, each under a captain and several members, who are responsible for the order of their own district.

It was decided to organize an auxiliary in Plainfield immediately, and under the direction of Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. D. W. Pond, the children adopted a constitution and the motto, "Cleanliness, Health and Happiness." Nearly all present signed the pledge not to litter the streets, mutilate property, nor injure dumb animals, and then the society adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, March 30th, at 3:45, when they will meet again and elect their officers.

$200 FOR FALSE CHARGE

THAT IS WHAT DAVID BLOWER WANTS J. W. VANSICKLE TO PAY.

The Butcher Accused the Colored Man of Being the One Who Bunco'ed Him Out of McVey's Leg of Lamb Tuesday.

He took nobody's leg of lamb and he intends to make it warm for the man that says he did, so avers David Blower. He was formerly the colored bootblack in Lemuel Perry's barber shop, but is now employed at the residence of Gen. James Negley, of West Seventh street.

Readers of The Press will remember the story of the fore-quarter of lamb that was so easily removed from the butcher shop of J. W. VanSickle by an unknown colored man. Now it seems that Mr. VanSickle identified Blower as the man who obtained the quarter of lamb, and Mr. Blower says that his character is hurt to the amount of $200. Suit is to follow and there promises to be lots of excitement

According to the statement of Blower and his witnesses, Van Sickle told McVey, to whom the lamb belonged, that he thought Blower was the guilty party. McVey left word at Perry's shop to have Blower stop in and see him. Blower did so and then, it is said, Van Sickle and Patrolman Robinson, who was standing near by when the colored man, who ever he was, took the fraction of the lamb, both identified Blower as the one who played such a game on the North avenue butcher.

Now Blower says that he is entirely innocent of the charge and that he can prove an alibi, as he goes to work for General Negley at 6:15 in the morning and that the alleged offence was not committed until almost seven o'clock.

Blower was indignant at the charge and was very much wrought up over the matter. It was a stain on his character that must be removed. Thereupon the angry Mr. Blower hurried to Joseph R. Runyon, of the law offices of C. L. Moffett, and secured that gentleman to act as his legal adviser in the matter.

It was decided that a suit should be brought in one of the local justice's courts for $200 for damages to the character of Elower, and Mr. Runyon will take the necessary steps at once.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS.

First Methodist Society Hold Their Annual Meeting.

The teachers and officers of the Sunday school of the First M. E. church held their annual meeting, last evening, in Vincent chapel. The principal business of the evening was the election of the officers for the Sunday-school for the opening year. All the old officers were re-elected as follows:—President James R. Jackson; secretary, Nelson Y. Hull; treasurer, Arthur E. Crane; librarian, Louis M. Dunavan. George R. Cornwell and and G. M. Rittenhouse were appointed assistant superintendents.

The missionary society of the Sunday-school held an election also and chose Samuel Bingaman as president and James R. Joy as vice-president.

Annual reports were received from the secretary, treasurer, and librarian and from the missionary society. The latter reported that the Sunday school had contributed $200 during the past year for the support of the missions.

Make Room For All.

It has been suggested that, inasmuch as the re-union of the New Jersey Brigade, which is to be held in this city, April 9th, is to be a city affair, it would be a good idea if Music Hall could be secured for the afternoon exercises. Many have expressed their desire to attend the exercises and it would be impossible to accommodate all who would like to go, at Reform Hall.

For a Kindergarten School.

The one-story building on West Fifth street, near Central avenue, formerly occupied by W. H. Rogers, the bicycle dealer, is now being painted, papered and thoroughly renovated. It will be opened on April 5th as a kindergarten connected with the public schools.

A Social Time.

After the business meeting was transacted last evening at the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe I. O. R. M., a social and entertainment was enjoyed. Among the features of the entertainment was the playing on the guitar by J. I. Hewitt and the recitations and songs by ex-Patrolman Hartpence.

MARKETS ARE FIRM

The Alarming Surprises of the Week Met with Little Loss.

INDICATES SOLID TRADE SITUATION

In All Industries the Number of Mills and Hands at Work Gradually Increasing---Business Men Now Confident of Better Times.

New York, March 27.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just ending will, to-day, say: Rarely have markets sustained such surprises as they have received of late with so little loss. Foreign conditions and London alarms, the collapse of the iron ore combination, the destructive floods in the Mississippi valley, and the decision of the supreme court against railway associations, have been used to the utmost, but not even in railroad stocks has the result been important. Were all associations of railroads to cease, it would yet be in the power of capital controlling important lines to stop serious rate-cutting if it chose. With confidence that better times and larger business are coming, men are less disposed every day to throw away good investments, and the very fact that prices of products are low is regarded as a guarantee against much further decline. In all industries, also, the number of mills and shops and hands at work gradually increases. The railroads have been subjected to so much loss of late by cutting of rates, in spite of all associations, that the possibility of open and unrestricted competition, instead of agreements which restrict only the more honest, may well have a sobering influence. The earnings for March thus far compare favorably with the full returns for February. Tonnage eastbound is not quite 5 per cent. below last year's, and a shade more business activity would change all that. Stocks were heavily sold after the supreme court decision and the withdrawal of some western roads from various associations, but railway shares average a decline of only $1 per share, showing that there are men of faith as well as men of fear. Industrial and manufacturing stocks generally are stiff, in the belief that heavy purchases of cheap materials will ensure profit when business moves forward.

Cereals, Iron and Steel and Products.

The grain markets have lost without reason the gain they made without reason the previous week. Wheat supplies are running out, but nobody believes there is coming a famine before June, when the harvesting of southern wheat will begin. Western receipts were over a third smaller than last year, but the better prospect for the crop of winter wheat has more weight. Atlantic exports, flour included, were nearly as large for the week as last year, but when Europe buys in corn the equivalent of 6,400,000 bushels of wheat at less than 60c. the price of wheat is not easily advanced above 80c. Cotton was helped upward ⅛ by the flood, but has lost half the gain, although manufacturing is more hopeful. Without change in prices, goods were in better demand, and sales of 500,000 pieces of print cloths result in a stronger tone. The final dissolution of the lake ore pool has been expected ever since the Carnegie-Rockefeller deal and assures lower prices for ore the coming year, though perhaps not lower than in 1895. The demand is steadily increasing. Bars are still demoralized and at the lowest point, but for plates, sheets, wire rods and wire and all nails the demand is growing larger. The demand for rails continues enough to strengthen prices, although some from speculative purchases are offered below the present prices of mills. Tin is a shade lower, with larger arrivals, though the distribution has been considerable, and lead is decidedly stronger, but copper is weak.

Wool and Boots and Shoes.

Speculation in wool has recorded larger sales for four weeks than ever before. Americans have also bought largely at London, where the market is excited and has advanced. With heavy supplies here, these large imports, and new wool coming in May, there may be found overloaded dealers. Prices here are still advancing. The wool manufacture is steadily increasing, but cautiously, as it is too early to anticipate results from changes which may be made in duties. Sales of boots and shoes increase, many more large orders having been taken by some manufacturers at prices lower than have been asked, while those who abate nothing get comparatively little new business. Shipments for March have been less than in 1895, and in 1893, but larger than in other years. Hides are generally strong without much change, and leather is stiff, though the business in nearly all grades is inactive. Money markets are easy. Failures for the week have been 291 in the United States against 259 last year, and 50 in Canada against 39 last year.

To Pay Reichstag Members.

Berlin, March 27.—In the course of the progress of the estimates toward their third reading in the reichstag an amendment proposed by the radicals providing for the payment of members of the house was adopted by a vote of 179 to 49.

Carriage Business Increasing.

Amesbury, Mass., March 27.—The carriage business is on the increase and large shipments have been made in the past few days.

Prorogued Until 1898.

Concord, N.H., March 27.—The legislature has been prorogued until the last Wednesday of December, 1898.

You Can't Do It

It isn't possible to boil any oatmeal long enough to break the starch-cells, and so render it digestible. Starch is not converted into digestible material until 250 degrees is reached, and 212 degrees is the maximum boiling temperature. Oatmeal can only be made digestible by dry heat, and is the only oatmeal in which the starch is rendered soluble by bursting the starch granules. This makes it the only safe oatmeal for infants, children, and those of weak digestion.

Be sure and get the package with the big H O on the end.

BLOW TO THE CUBANS

Luis' Conviction a Serious Setback to Filibustering.

MAY STOP THE PRACTICE ENTIRELY

Following So Closely on the Conviction of John D. Hart the Friends of Free Cuba Are in Gloom.

Baltimore, March 27.—Those interested in the welfare of the cause of Cuba believe that the conviction of Dr. J. J. Luis on the charge of entering into a conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws of the United States by having taken part in fitting out the filibustering expedition which sailed from here on the James Woodall on July 9, 1895, and which landed in Cuba fifteen days later, has caused gloom among those friendly to the cause of the patriots in this country, following, as it does, so closely upon the heels of the recent conviction on a similar charge of John D. Hart of Philadelphia. They take a rather gloomy view of the situation, believing that communication with Cuba's natural base of supplies, the United States, already difficult, will be rendered almost insuperable. Much sympathy is felt for Dr. Luis, who is a finished scholar and a sensitive, high-strung man, to whom prison life would prove particularly irksom. The only feature of the case cheering to Dr. Luis and his friends is the fact that Judge Morris has consented to hear next Monday a motion for a new trial, which they hope will be granted. They say that the evidence againt Dr. Luis, which, they claim, was very weak, citing the fact that the jury took thirty hours to reach a verdict as proof of the assertion, will be further undermined by testimony in rebuttal, and they believe that acquittal will ensue. The penalty of the crime is a fine not exceeding $3.000 and imprisonment for not more than three years. Dr. Luis is in jail, the court refusing to accept bail pending motion for a new trial.

Released from Cuban Prison.

Havana, March 27.—Caesar Esquerio Montero, who was born at Key West, was arrested here two weeks ago as a political suspect. He was released unconditionally yesterday, but will return to Key West soon. The American consulate ignored the fact of his arrest, and his release was due entirely to the initiative of the Spanish authorities.

What Was the Trouble?

Health Broken Down, Heart Troubles, Torpid Liver, Consumption, Rheumatism

Whatever It Was, Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured by Its Power as The One True Blood Purifier.

Discouraged people are numerous now—some because of lost business, others because of lost health. All may find fresh inspiration and valuable suggestions in the following:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: For 12 years I have been a commercial traveller, and owing to the hardships of my life, long railroad jumps, all kinds of exposure, and sudden changes of climate, etc., my health gave way Physicians did not help me and I was given up to die. My illness developed a Complication of Diseases.

I was without ambition or appetite. All strength had left me. One doctor said I had heart disease, another torpid liver, a third said it was lung trouble and another consumption, and so on. I have no doubt, symptoms of all these complaints and even that of rheumatism, judging from the stiffness and pains in my joints and legs at times, were manifest. I was unable to attend to business, was confined to my room and frequently lay in a comatose state for hours. I was so feeble, and so little encouragement was offered, that I began to wonder

Where I Would be Buried.

Finally, as a last effort to help myself, I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The effects of a few doses of the medicine seemed almost magical. The depressed feeling left me, and when one bottle had been taken, I had regained an appetite, and strength was coming back. After finishing the third bottle I was able to go about my commercial duties. I continued to improve, and to satisfy my mind that I had fully regained health, I submitted myself to a doctor for examination. He pronounced me 'sound as a dollar.' Three months later, I passed a rigid examination for insurance. I have since been in the best of health, notwithstanding my travels, and I give

All the Credit to Hood's

Sarsaparilla, as each season since I have taken several bottles. It keeps my blood in good circulation, gives me a keen appetite and leaves no room for that tired feeling which naturally finds easy prey among those of my calling in the summer months after an early spring hustle. I consider Hood's Sarsaparilla the means of saving my life, and I gladly speak in its favor." A. J. LEITCH, home address, Cass House, Saginaw, Michigan.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits."

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug stor.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Testimonials free. Hall's family pills are the best.

Superintendent H. M. Maxson, of the Plainfield Public schools, addressed the High School yesterday morning on the Cretan question.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A violet reception will be given next Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Maude Eleanor VanDyke, of East Front street.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Mabelle Phillips, of Madison avenue, is home from Wellesley College for her spring holidays.

Mrs. Hall, of the West End, expects to move away from town in a short time. Her many friends will miss her greatly.

GREECE PROTESTS.

Says the Blockade of Crete Is Contrary to Sentiments of Humanity.

Athens, March 27.—The government has handed to the representatives here of the several powers a note protesting against the blockade of Crete. The note declares that in view of the bonds uniting the Greeks and the Christians of Crete the bloakade, which is depriving the island of the means of provisioning itself, is contrary to the sentiments of humanity inspiring the powers. The president of the boule, on behalf of that body, has sent to Mr Gladstone a message of gratitude for the stand he has taken in behalf of Greece and the Cretan Christians. The message says in part: "All your glorious life has been full of combats for justice and liberty. Now that the Hellenic nation has risen to fight in favor of Crete, which is bedewed with blood, you come to uphold anew the rights of an oppressed race."

Hanotaux and Salisbury's Conference.

London, March 27.—It is reported here that at the two conferences held in Paris yesterday between Lord Salisbury and M. Hanotaux, the former being on his way to Cimiez to act as lord in waiting in attendance upon the queen, it was decided that the proposed blockade of the Piraeus, the port of Athens, and Volo, Thessaly, should be enforced if Greece refused to assent to the establishment of a neutral zone extending one mile on either side of the Greco-Turkish frontier.

Greeks Sail for Home from New York.

New York, March 27.—One hundred and fifty young Greeks, after bidding an affectionate farewell to friends and countrymen, at 11 o'clock last night marched aboard the French line steamer La Champagne, and at 5 o'clock this morning started for Greece, where they will offer their services to King George as soldiers.

GREATER NEW YORK OFFICERS

The First Mayor's Patronage Will Be Nearly as Great as the President's.

New York, March 27.—The first mayor of Greater New York will have almost as much patronage at his disposal as the president of the United States. He will serve four years and receive a salary of $15,000 per annum. The principal offices, with the salaries attached, which the mayor will have to fill are: City chamberlain, $12,000; corporation counsel, $15,000; four police commissioners at $5,000 a year each; a fire commissioner at $7,500; three dock commissioners, one at $6,000 and two at $5,000; two commissioners of charities at $7,000 and one at $2,500; president of the board of health, $7,500; three health commissioners at $6,000; commissioner of correction at $7,500; president of the tax department at $8,000 and four commissioners at $6,000 a year each; forty deputy tax commissioners at $2,700 a year each; three park commissioners at $5,000 a year each; two building commissioners at $7,000 a year each and one at $3,500; president of the board of improvements, $8,000 a year; commissioner of water supply, $7,500; commissioner of highways, $7,500; commissioner of street cleaning, $7,500; commissioner of sewers, $7,500; commissioner of public buildings and lighting, $7,500; commissioner of bridges, $7,500; two commissioners of accounts, salary $5,000 a year each, and a chief of the bureau of statistics at $3,500.

Freak Election Bet.

Owosso, Mich., March 27.—Thomas Leadbeater, a local pugilist, has been sentenced to one year at Ionia penitentiary for the malicious destruction of property. Leadbeater made a wager with a friend, the terms of which were that if McKinley were elected he was to demolish Fred Bartell's saloon, and in the event of Bryan's winning the friend was to do the work of destruction. The bet was paid a few weeks ago by Leadbeater, who smashed the windows of Bartell's place and destroyed a $100 mirror.

Judge Dixon Critically Ill.

Jersey City, March 27.—Supreme court justice Jonathan Dixon is lying at his home on Jersey avenue in a critical condition. A week ago he contracted a heavy cold which developed into pneumonia. Yesterday and last night he was very low, but seemed a trifle improved this morning by reason of having obtained sleep and taken nourishment.

MAY BE REWARDED

Gold Democrats' Service in the Last Election Not Forgotten

FORMAN'S VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE

Believed That He Is To Be Allowed To Retain the Internal Revenue Commissionership---Claude Johnson May Remain, Too.

Washington, March 27.—The visit paid to President McKinley yesterday by Commissioner Forman of the internal revenue bureau has been considered significant in view of statements that he would be allowed to hold his office undisturbed as a recognition of the services of the gold democrats in the late campaign. Mr. Forman ran for governor of Illinois on the Palmer and Buckner ticket, and shortly after the election was appointed to the internal revenue commissionership by President Cleveland. He said after his call on Mr. McKinley that he had no information that he would not be disturbed. Another case where it is said the gold democrats will be rewarded through the retention of one of their number in office, is that of Claude M. Johnson, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing. His position is under the protection of the civil service regulations, but this is not considered as conclusive evidence that he will be allowed to remain. Secretary Carlisle had a talk with President McKinley and Secretary Gage concerning Mr. Johnson. He asked the chief's retention on the grounds that Mr. Johnson's work in the late campaign contributed largely to republican success in Kentucky.

TWO ATTRACTIVE BERTHS.

Professorships of Mathematics Among the Most Alluring in the President's Gift.

Washington, March 27.—Two of the most attractive official positions in the gift of President McKinley to fill existing vacancies are the so-called professorships of mathematics in the navy. These offices are practically life positions. The appointee receives a salary of $2,400 upon assuming office and which is progressively increased to $3,500 after fifteen years' length of service. It is also within the power of the secretary to determine the nature of the examination which the candidate shall have to pass. The qualifications are not of the most rigid character, for one of the officers of the corps of mathematics has been a professor of English at the naval academy; another has been professor of drawings; a third is librarian of the navy department, and another is an electrical expert at the navy department. For many years the professors of mathematics in the navy have been veritable handy men, and it is within the province of the secretary of the navy to prescribe such a fixed examination that he will be able to secure an expert along any special lines.

ARBITRATION TREATY.

Senators Losing Interest in the Discussion and Less Time Is Devoted to It.

Washington, March 27.—The debate on the general treaty of arbitration is losing interest among senators, and much less time than formerly is devoted to its consideration. Mr. Gray of Delaware, speaking in oppasition to the Chilton amendment, which for three days has been under consideration, said he favored the treaty as negotiated by Mr. Olney, but inasmuch as the committee amendments have been agreed to, he did not think that any further change in the text of the convention was necessary. During the course of the debate yesterday afternoon it was suggested that perhaps it would be best after all to return to the plan suggested by Lord Salisbury and submit to arbitration only matters involving the question of pecuniary damages. This suggestion was declined by Secretary Olney. During the debate in secret session the question of the committee vacancies came up. In the discussion the republicans insisted that they must be given a clear majority on every committee or that the elements opposed to the republicans should combine and take the committees themselves. The republicans declared that unless they were given a majority on the committees they would not accept the responsibility for legislation. No conclusion was reached, and the senate adjourned until Monday.

NAVAL DILEMMA.

Trouble with the Contractor Over the Brooklyn Dry Dock.

Washington, March 27.—The navy department is again in a dilemma about the great dry dock just completed at New York, the only one of sufficient dimensions to dock the first-class battleships. Day before yesterday Secretary Long authorized its acceptance by the government subject to a few trifling details of work yet to be done by the contractor. Through some friction between officials and workmen these deficiencies still exist and to complicate the matter the department is not able to secure from the contractor, who still has possession, the necessary permit to prepare the dock for the new battleship Iowa. It is essential that this vessel should be docked at the earliest possible moment as her official trial trip is set for April 5, and her builders are under penalty for delay. This morning the department had accomplished nothing in its efforts to unravel the snarl.

Senator Platt's Eye Not Discolored.

Washington, March 27.—Senator Platt of New York, whose face was slightly cut yesterday by being struck by a door suddenly pushed open by a page as the senator was about to enter the senate chamber, shows but little trace of the accident to-day. His eye is not blacked.

TRUE CHRISTIANITY.

There are many Christians who believe that socials, fairs, festivals, concerts, pantomimes and other worldly entertainments are occupying too much time and attention of church members who should be engaged in more direct work of saving souls. A prominent Plainfield religious worker believes that this is especially true of Plainfield and he asks to have the following words uttered by Bishop Foster on the subject printed in The Press:

Just now four out of five on church rolls are doing nothing, almost absolutely nothing; and God's blessed cause is not made one whit stronger in numbers or influence by their living. The church of God is today courting the world. Its members are bringing it down to the level of the ungodly. The ball, the theatre, nude and lewd arts, social luxuries, with all their loose moralities, are making inroads into the sacred enclosure of the church. As a satisfaction for all this worldliness, Christians are making a great deal of Lent and Easter and Good Friday and church ornamentations. It is the old trick of Satan. The Jewish church struck on that rock; the Roman church was wrecked on it, and the Protestant church is fast reaching the same doom. Our great dangers, as we see them, are assimilation to the world, neglect of the poor, substitution of the form for the fact of godliness, abandonment of discipline, a hireling ministry, an impure Gospel, which, summed up, is a fashionable church. That Methodists should be liable to such an outcome, and that there should be signs of it in a hundred years from the primitive meeting in the "sail loft," seems almost a miracle of history; but who that looks about him today can fail to see the fact? Formerly Methodists attended class and gave testimony of experimental religion. Now the class-meeting is attended by very few and in many churches it is abandoned. Seldom the stewards, trustees and leaders of the church attend class. Formerly, nearly every Methodist prayed, testified or exhorted in prayer meeting. Now but few are heard. Formerly shouts and praises were heard; now, such demonstrations of holy enthusiasm and joy are regarded as fanaticism. Worldly socials, fairs, festivals, concerts and such like have taken the place of the religious gatherings, revival meetings, class and prayer meetings of earlier days.

WOMAN'S VOTE NOT WANTED.

Though the advocates of woman's rights are ardent and persistent in their pleas with the sterner sex to be put on the same plane in mental work and decision in public affairs, their views were ignored rather summarily in the Methodist conference at Trenton, yesterday. A vote was taken on the question, "Whether women shall be admitted as delegates to the General Conference," and without any discussion whatever the proposition was defeated by a vote of 103 to 68. Of all the places where there should be a favorable feeling for woman's participation in affairs now exclusively in the hands of men, the church, it would seem, should incline that way, in view of the fact that it is the energy, the sincerity and the time devoted by women that makes the Christian societies survive the perfunctory visits of the majority of men. It is not to be presumed, however, that the rejectment of woman's desire to serve in the higher official church body will dampen their ardor in the work.

TOUGH ON ROLL.

Considerable amusement was created during the evening session of the house of assembly at Trenton last night, when a resolution was introduced to have 10,000,000 copies of J. Martin Roll's photograph printed and placed in each trolley car in the state. The resolution was declared out of order. There are members of both parties in this county who consider the resolution a good one. It would be one way of keeping in memory a man who is soon to retire—against his own wishes—from public life, and who will never again be heard from.—Elizabeth Leader.

Junior Superintendents Confer.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Junior Christian Endeavor Union of this county was held Thursday afternoon in the Central Baptist church, Elizabeth. There were superintendents present from Plainfield, South Plainfield, Rahway, Cranford, Roselle and Elizabeth. The subject of the meeting was "Missions Among the Juniors," and after a long and interesting discussion it was decided to try if possible to organize Junior Christian Endeavor societies in the colored churches in each city in the county. It was also decided to hold the May meeting on the afternoon of the date that the County Christian Endeavor Union hold their annual meeting.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

E. E. Anthony, of West Front street, is suffering with an attack of lumbago.

Mrs. Henry Smith, of Grove street, has gone to Brooklyn to spend a few days with friends.

James Flynn, of Third and William streets, is confined to his home suffering from a severe cold.

Miss Elizabeth U. Yates will speak on missions at the Monroe avenue M. E. church tomorrow night.

Miss Moffett, a returned missionary, will speak in the Congregational church tomorrow morning.

Miss Lillian Clickener, of Manasquan, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Van Middlesworth, of Liberty street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson, of Netherwood avenue, will give a sociable at their home next Tuesday night.

Miss Alice Miller, of East Fifth street, has gone to her home in Oswego to spend the spring vacation.

The Misses Davies, of LaGrande avenue, are spending a week with their brother, in Petersborough, N. Y.

Miss Anna W. Crane, of Brooklyn, who has been the guest of Miss Emma V. Fish, of Franklin place, has returned home.

The second week in April the members of Monroe Avenue church will give a reception to Walter McGee on his return from a trip abroad.

Great Sannap William Newcorn goes to Little Falls, N. Y., the first of the week to address a preliminary meeting for the formation of a new tribe in that city.

George Proctor Smith, of Putnam avenue, went to New York today to attend the meeting of the executive committee of the National Interscholastic Association, of which he is a member.

George Brady, of Boycefield, who had an injured eye removed by Dr. Ard at Muhlenberg Hospital recently, was able to leave for his home Thursday. The operation was successful and in a short time Mr. Brady will have a glass eye.

A WEDDING RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. William Symons Given a Pleasant Welcome.

A delightful wedding reception was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. William Symons, at their home No. 406 East Third street. The bride and groom arrived yesterday in this city from Rutland, Vt., where they were married on Wednesday night in the Methodist church. The officiating clergyman was Dr. Gates, who was a classmate of Dr. Barnes, of this city.

The choir of the First M. E. church of this city, of which the groom is a member, presented him with a very handsome chair, and there many other gifts both costly and useful.

Those present at the reception included Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Davis, Miss Lucie Palmer Davis, Robert Davis, Alvah Davis, Mr. and Mrs George Firstbrook, Mr. and Mrs. George Firstbrook, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kissam, Mrs. Samuel Lunger, Mrs. Charles Gaskill, Mrs. Lizzie Firstbrook, Miss Lizzie Firstbrook, Mrs. Wm. Hewitt, Miss Alice Jenkins, Miss Edith DuBoise, Miss Lizzie Stafford, Miss Cora Sheppard, Miss Della Randolph, Miss Etta Thorn, Miss Julia Shinn, of this city, Miss Viola McAllister, of Bellville; Charles Sprague, James Stafford, J. Hewitt, Charles Hewitt, J. D. McKay, Lorenzo Townley, also of this city. Music for the occasion was furnished by Messrs. Hewitt and Davis, and this added greatly to the enjoyment of all.

The groom is employed at Potter Press Works as an electrician and he is a valued employee. Mrs. Symons is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander, of Rutland, Vt., and she is a highly esteemed young woman who has many accomplishments.

The Best on Earth.

The title of "The Best on Earth" is well-applied to the Hanan shoe, for which Willet & Son are the sole agents in this city. A shoe that requires no "breaking in" is the Hanan brand. It feels as easy the first day you wear it as it does the last day, and that is indicative of the fact that nothing but the best material is used. It is stylish all the time because it holds its shape. To wear one pair means a convert to the superior merits of the Hanan brand.

A Mission Meeting.

At the Congregational Church, tomorrow morning, the annual offering for Home Missions will be made. The address will be given by Miss M. Dean Moffett. No more interesting speaker addresses the churches than Miss Moffett. Her work in the East in the great cities and in Oklahoma enables her to speak of what she has herself seen. She is a relative of the well known missionary in Africa, Dr. Moffett.

Electric Bitters

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

INDIA INVITES HELP.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES NEEDED IN THAT FAR EAST LAND.

Mr. Scudder, Who Has Lived and Worked Among the People of That Country, Tells of Their Queer Life and Customs.

It is seldom that a missionary lecture attracts a very large audience but such was the case last evening at Trinity Reformed church, where Mr. Scudder, a native missionary of India, gave an illustrated lecture concerning the manners and customs of the people of his country. The views used by Mr. Scudder are the finest ever seen and portray very accurately the subject which is so dear to his heart. It was with the greatest interest that the audience listened for two hours to a talk brimful of facts which not only gave them a clear idea of the general conditions of affairs in India, but also startled them as to the needs of the people.

Mr. Scudder began his lecture by telling something regarding the people in India and of their condition, and the manner in which they live. He showed their depravity in many forms and explained the difficulty experienced in getting the natives to listen to the missionaries. He spoke of the high and low caste, and related many interesting things concerning the distinction in a social way between these two classes. Superstition, he held, was even worse than idolatry, for in the former respect the natives are very hard to reach.

The excellent work being done by the Reformed church was set forth, and many pictures were shown of natives who had been converted and, in contrast to those who had not been, there was a striking comparison. In showing the foundation of the work in India several views were showed of Reformed churches located at different prominent places where there are large settlements, and the structures in each case are in keeping with the churches in this country. In smaller places an improvised structure is arranged and answers very well the needs. At the latter places a teacher can be supported for the sum of $5 a month and good work is done by the native missionaries who are converted and have a desire to labor for the salvation of their people.

Mr. Scudder spoke at some length regarding the impurity of the people of India and how immortal they are, especially among the so-called priests who pretend to be so good.

A deserving compliment was paid to the American missionaries who try their best to save souls from being lost and he urged the people of this country to give more money for their support. He said that he was trying to return to his native land, but the Board of Missions did not feel as though they could send him. Another discouraging factor was that the Board felt as though they must reduce the expenses and wherever possible the appropriations had been cut. He hoped that the people would be led to give more largely of their means.

There were many things related by Mr. Scudder which would be read with deep interest by many but space will not permit their being published. The lecture was an exceptionally interesting one and all present felt as though they had been drawn nearer to the cause of missions by hearing it.

A collection was taken far the cause at the close of the lecture, and, after the singing of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," the evening of profit and pleasure came to an end.

PARKS PLAYED WELL.

The Big Four Important Factors in the State Whist Congress.

Thursday evening the third annual congress of the New Jersey Whist Association opened at the rooms of the Jersey City Club. The event of the congress was the match for the challenge trophy which was presented to the association by the Park Club. Twelve of the fourteen clubs in the association were represented by their teams. The opening matches in the contest for the cup were played on Thursday evening according to the Mitchell-Howell system. The four teams scoring the greatest number of points and thereby qualifying for the semi-finals, were those from the Jersey City Club, the Princeton Whist Club, the Roseville Athletic Association and the Park Club, of this city. The Park Club was represented by its champion four, Messrs. Rogers, McCutchen, Howell and Townsend, who put up their usual scientific game. The Parks were only included in the four teams qualifying for the semi-finals after a hard struggle with the Montclair Club. In the regular contest the two teams tied. Twelve hands were played and the result was still a tie. Last evening twelve more hands were played and the Parks won by eight tricks.

Last evening the semi-finals were played. Princeton defeated Roseville by three tricks and the Parks defeated the Jersey City Club team by one trick.

This evening the finals will be played between the Parks and the Princeton team.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A social dance will be given by the members of Miantonomah Tribe, I. O. R. M. next Wednesday evening.

—A regular meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association, will be held in their rooms on Monday evening, at which time the nominations of officers will be made.

—The membership contest at the Y. M. C. A. is getting more interesting as the end of the contest draws near. The Apollo wheel which is to be presented to the member getting the highest number of points is a beauty and the member who gets it will have a prize.

—The local Y. M. C. A. boys were as successful at bowling as they were at basket ball, last evening, and defeated Summit in two games by a good margin. The first game was the more exciting. Clarence Sutphen did the best work for the local team, while Clarence Rittenhouse seemed to have an off-night.

—Andrew Vanderbeek, who for some time past has been conducting a package express business in this city, has disposed of the same to A. E. Hoagland, the North avenue expressman. The latter has secured Louis Milligan, of West Fourth street, as driver. Mr. Vanderbeek will enter the employ of A. M. Griffen, the hardware dealer, of East Front street.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Bon-fires, garden spading and sowing seeds are just now in order here.

Miss Susie Hubbard has been visiting her sister Mary, at Netherwood.

Miss Lavinia Hammond, of Westfield, was the guest yesterday of Miss Sadie Giles.

Herbert Moore and family will occupy L. Titsworth's new house on Prospect avenue, April 1st.

Walter Vliet and family will on April first remove to the house on Front street now occupied by Wm. Wilhelm.

Rev. Frank Fletcher took a day off Thursday and went to the metropolis on business connected with his church work.

A Sunday-school class meeting was held in the lecture room of the M. E. church, last evening, conducted by Mrs. S. F. Custard.

Rev. Charles Waldron, pastor of the South Market M. E. church in Newark, will preach in the M. E. church here tomorrow morning.

A half-dozen men and a team are still busy ranking out the old dead trees and stumps from in front of the Milliken property on Front street.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club will hold their regular monthly shoot this afternoon. The shooting will be at inanimate targets only.

The usual Sunday evening services in the churches will be omitted tomorrow, and the two congregations will join with the New Market church in a grand temperance rally in the New Market Baptist church. Mrs. J. T. Ellis will be present and deliver an address.

Dunellen has a pound-keeper, but he's like some of the other officers—you can generally find him when you don't want him. Yesterday a half-starved horse grazed along the main thoroughfare for several hours unmolested except by an occasional stone thrown by a street urchin.

Chief Fairchild, of the North Plainfield fire department, was in Dunellen yesterday and made a careful inspection of the fire department headquarters and apparatus. The Chief expressed himself as much pleased with his visit, and he seemed to be very favorably impressed with the chemical engine and truck.

The four Dunellen lads who were arrested and locked up in the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick, a week ago, for committing depredations about the Greenbrook tank house, were all released from custody yesterday, after being reprimanded. It is to be hoped that their late experience will prove a lasting lesson to them, for they were starting out while yet in their teens.

Surprises are numerous these days, but the surprise that greeted Harry Vail, of Front street, when he returned home from the firemen's meeting, on Thursday evening, was complete in every particular. Some twenty odd relatives and friends from Plainfield, Westfield and Hasbrouck Heights gathered at the home of Henry Vail and went over to Harry's house, only to find him out. So they took possession of the house and played games and sang until 11 o'clock, when the serving of refreshments brought the festivities to an end.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

John Johnson is removing from the Plains to his house at Netherwood.

Some mean person administered a dose of poison to Township Assessor John Robinson's valuable hunting dog yesterday. Arsenic on meat was the dose.

Carman Hatfield, of Brooklyn, was in town yesterday looking after the improvements that are being made to his dwelling house opposite Emery's Hotel.

Some miscreant is going about the town tearing down and mutilating many real estate signs. In the courts this kind of business comes under the head of malicious mischief, and quite a heavy penalty is attached to it.

Another evidence of the growing popularity of the place, is the fact that real estate dealer Thomas Paff has rented the Caroline M. Ross place on Park avenue to Joseph Steindler, of East Sixty-first street, New York city, who will locate his family here for the summer.

The surveyors were here again yesterday in the interest of the trolley extension. They went over the route already staked out, and made a few slight changes. Should the company decide to proceed with the work of building the road, but little if any grading would become necessary, for the tract through which the proposed line is to run is as level as a barn floor.

FRENCH SCHOOL OF ACTING.

Miss Hall's Description of Dramatic Efforts in the Gay Capital.

The topic of Miss Caroline Minturn Hall's second talk given at the residence of Mrs. John F. Harman, yesterday afternoon, was: "Moliere in Paris at the present day, and the French Classical School of Acting."

Miss Hall pleasantly described the methods by which the act of acting is taught in Paris at the Conservatoire or National School of Music and Declamation. One day on visiting the school she was amused at seeing one of her teachers being corrected quite as severely, by higher powers, as she had been wont to correct the speaker herself. From the Conservatoire the prize scholars graduate into the Odeon, a Government theatre The prizes are taken by open competition. The trial before a jury of critics occupies an entire day, and the pupils are naturally subjected to the higher criticism of the daily press of Paris, which sometimes expresses its inability to distinguish as to which are the funniest, the tragic or the comic scenes enacted by the pupils. Miss Hall read and recited from "Le Depit Amoureux," "Le Medecin Malgielin" and "Leo Femmes Savantes."

Among those present were Mrs. Warren Ackerman, Mrs. and Miss Clapp, Miss Frances Kenyon, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Miss Tweedy, Mrs. J. L. Ludlum, Mrs. S. Krom, Mrs. M. H. Eaton, Miss Talmage, Miss Marion Henderson, Mrs. Wadsworth, Mrs. Pfieffer, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Thomae, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. VanBoskerk.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ELECT.

Officers Chosen For a First Baptist Church Auxiliary.

The annual meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

President, Mrs. Dewitt C. Brokaw; First Vice President, Miss Laura J. Runyon; Second Vice President, Miss Susie Woodland; Recording Secretary, Miss Bertha Needham; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Frank Jones. The following committees were also appointed: Work—Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. E. Van Name, Mrs. Chas. Conover, Miss Helen Spear. Lookout—Miss Ida Yerkes, Mrs. Budd Vail, Miss Laura J. Runyon, Miss Mamie French. Literary—Miss Julia Shinn, Mrs. George Batchelor. Collectors—Mrs. E. Van Name, Miss Ida Lewis, Miss Margaret Harold, Miss Hattie Shreve, Miss Grace Yerkes, Mrs. F. M. Slater, Mrs. L. Simpson and Miss Mamie French.

The society at present has a membership of 105 and is constantly growing. Sewing meetings are held every two weeks and the efforts of the members are divided between the home and foreign work. The annual reports, as published in these columns a few days ago, were presented at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

WESTFIELD

THE THREAT NOT MEANT

PRINCIPAL EDWARDS' WORDS DID DOT REFLECT HIS INTENTIONS.

He Says He Did Not Really Intend to Deprive Scholars of Pads if They Persisted in Not Using Pentecostal Hymnal.

The story printed in The Press last night concerning the order of Principal Edwards, of the Westfield public school, with reference to discipline for not having a certain hymnal, caused considerable comment, mostly of an adverse kind.

Principal Edwards was seen yesterday afternoon and admitted that the children had reported him correctly. He said that while he wanted them to bring a Bible and a copy of the Pentacostal hymns he perhaps put the request a little more forcible than he might have done.

"I said in chapel," said he, "now suppose some children didn't bring a Bible and a hymnal, do you think they ought to be allowed to have any pads? To enforce this, as far as possible, I did say that to those who failed to comply with the request I would withhold pads."

Mr. Schoonover, a member of the Board of Education, was interviewed yesterday and said that his child came home and informed him of the new order.

"I didn't know what to make of it," said he. "I thought that perhaps the the teachers' committee had given him authority to do so. Any way it's all bosh! He can't withhold the pads. The Board of Education buys them and the principal has no option in the matter. I don't think it is right, but I suppose the matter will be brought up at the meeting of the Board of Education."

Hiram L. Fink, a member of the Board of Education, had not heard of it and said he did not think Professor Edwards had made such an arbitrary ruling.

"He is not that kind of a man," he said, "he is never arbitrary." Professor Edwards has been here only this school year and is well liked by the public generally as well as by the pupils.

Paul Q. Oliver is in Trenton on business.

Central Council, No. 31, Jr., O. U. A. M., initiated two members last evening and entertained some boys from Winfield Scott Council, of Elizabeth and Twilight Council of Scotch Plains.

A picture play entitled "Miss Jerry," something entirely novel to Westfielders, was given in the Westfield Athletic Club hall last night. The play was given for the benefit of the Children's Country Home, and the friends of the home enjoyed a rare treat for their money. The play was originated by Alexander Black, who read the lines last night himself. The scene of this play is laid in New York and the text is bright and spicy. The play was illustrated by over 250 beautiful pictures. There was an unusually good and appreciative audience and the committee made over $100 on the play.

Cranford, N. J., March 1, 1897.—I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills for rheumatism and headache with satisfactory results. My mother has been relieved of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we find it an excellent spring medicine. Miss Minnie A. Neipp.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable.

"NEW PLAINFIELD ENTERPRISE."

SENSIBLE SHOESHOP.

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business, but am after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me; want to renew old acquaintances, and get aquainted with everybody I don't know.

PAINTS WITH HIS MOUTH.

Armless Bertram Hiles Wins Prizes for His Decorative Designs.

The achievements of Bertram Hiles, an Englishman, surpass in earnestness and perserverance those of all other armless artists. Hiles is a young man who is making his mouth play a double part in his existence. With its aid he is taking prizes in drawing and art designing, and making not only a living for himself but a reputation for the excellence of his designs and compositions.

Without arms of his own Hiles, the Magazine of Art says, paints beautiful women with exquisitely modelled arms, and does work that any one in possession of all their muscular capacities might be glad to lay claim to.

Hiles had arms, but when eight years old was the victim of a tram-car accident and lost both. Before this event he had developed so strong a passion for drawing that the loss of both arms in no way diminished his determination to become an artist. So Hiles educated his mouth until it grasped a pencil, for brushes were beyond his wildest dreams then. First he learned to write, and then to draw firm lines.

The muscles not only of the mouth but of the neck required training, and it was between five and six years before such control of them had been obtained as permitted Hiles to work with a free touch. From that time Hiles has continued to progress, and has not only obtained a number of English medals and prizes in the decorative industries but won a scholarship at the National Art Training School tenable for two years. Hiles has visited and studied in Paris, and now is earning his living in England, combining decorative art with pictoral work.—New York World.

A Fatal Omelet.

Ignorance of cooking it not often the direct cause of a man's death, but such an instance is related by Miss Edith Lichel in a recent volume entitled, "The Story of Two Salons." In the time of the French revolution one Monsieur Condorcet, upon whose head as an aristocrat a price was set, sought refuge with a friend, Monsieur Suard, who bade him return at nightfall, when means of escape would be provided.

Unhappily Condorcet, being unable to exist without tobacco, went into a tavern to buy some. Still prostrate from fatigue, he thought he would take advantage of this opportunity to get some dinner and ordered an omelet.

"How many eggs do you wish to be used?" inquired the landlord, who had been eyeing him suspiciously.

The innocent Condorcet was at his wit's end. He reflected upon the size of the ordinary omelet.

"Twelve," he boldly replied.

His fate was sealed. None but an aristocrat could be so ignorant or so extravagant. He was arrested and led away to prison, from which he never emerged.

How Two Famous Songs Were Written.

"Marching Through Georgia," the favorite of military bands, and sometimes called "The American Marseillaise," was written in Chicago in 1865, by Henry C. Work, a remarkable song writer. He was a printer, and often composed the words of a song at the case as he set up the type, and then if he had access to music type, he would also compose in his mind and set up the music, these pieces seldom requiring more than two or three alterations. "Marching Through Georgia" was thus composed, without ever being put in manuscript. Mr. Work wrote "Wake, Nicodemus," "Father, Dear Father, Come Home," "Loss of the Lady Elgin," and among two or three hundred others "My Grandfather's Clock," which brought him a handsome return.

"My Old Kentucky Home" is said to have been suggested to Stephen C. Foster on hearing an old negro speak with love and longing of his home in Kentucky. Several of Mr. Foster's best songs were composed on pieces of brown wrapping paper in the back room of a little grocery store in New York.—Lady's Home Journal.

The Festive Peanut.

Everyone eats peanuts and scarcely anyone knows anything about them. The peanut crop is one of the most profitable of the south. The yearly production of peanuts in this country is about 4,000,000 bushels of twenty-two pounds each, the bulk of the crop being produced in Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina. These 4,000,000 bushels constitute but a small proportion of the peanut crop of the world, as the exportation from Africa and India to Europe in 1892 amounted to nearly 400,000,000 pounds, half of which went to Marselles to be made into oil.

Peanut oil is used for lubricating and for soap, and is a good substitute for olive oil, lard, cottolene and butter. The residue from oil making, known as "peanut cake" in Europe, is highly valued as a cattle fodder and is also ground into fine flour and used as human food.

Never Forgot His Prayers.

Mr. D. L. Moody, the evangelist, told a story in Philadelphia the other day about his life before his conversion when a boy of seventeen. He said that while he was a pretty bad boy in his unregenerate days, deep in the follies and errors of the world, he never broke so far away from his early religious training as to forget to say his prayers every night. "I used to sleep with my brother," he said, "and if either one of us happened to jump into bed without first getting on his knees, the other would swear at him vigorously, and kick him out on the floor."

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. WILL NOT FAIL TO CURE

Dr. Greene's Nervura the Greatest and Grandest Remedy in the World.

State Prison Chaplain and Eminent Clergyman Pronounces Dr. Greene's Nervura a Priceless Boon to Humanity. It Cures the People.

Rev. D. C. Easton, Chaplain of the New Hampshire State Prison.

Never before in medical annals has any medicine received such wide-spread praise and endorsement from physicians, druggists and all classes of the people as is bestowed upon the great curer of disease, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It purifies and invigorates the blood, making pure, rich, red blood, and it is therefore the grandest of blood medicines. It gives life, strength, energy, power and vigor to the brain and nerves, and hence is the greatest nerve tonic, brain invigorant and nerve restorative ever before known in the world's history. It banishes headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism, and has thus demonstrated itself to be the surest and quickest pain reliever in existence. It cures stomach, liver, kidney and female complaints with a positive certainty which is unequaled and unrivaled, and which has caused weak, nervous, tired out, sleepless, run down and debilitated sufferers everywhere to recognize Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as indeed the King of Medicines.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the best medicine possible to take because it cures the people—it is the giver of health and strength—it makes the sick well.

Here is the advice to use Dr. Greene's Nervura from Rev. D. C. Easton of Concord, N. H., Chaplain of the New Hampshire State Prison, and Past Chaplain G. A. R. Departments of N. H. and R. I., who is the most prominent clergyman and Christian worker in New England. He says:

"Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has been used in my family with satisfactory results. I am now using it myself, and have also personal friends who have been cured by it and assert that it is a priceless boon for suffering humanity."

Use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy now and get well. Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the perfect pills for biliousness and constipation. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing disease, can be consulted free, in person or by letter. There is no charge whatever for consultation, examination or advice, and the price of the medicines is so low as to place a positive cure within reach of all.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

Discussion Under Five-Minute Rule Develops Lively and Heated Contests.

Washington, March 27.—The consideration of the tariff bill under the five minute rule for the purpose of amendment, which it was expected would be strictly business, opened with the liveliest political contest of the session, lasting for nearly three hours. It began promptly on the reading of the prefatory paragraph of the bill, to which Mr. Dockery, dem., Mo., offered an amendment, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to admit free of duty any article the production and price of which was controlled by a trust in the United States. Mr. Dingley, rep., Me., chairman of the committee on ways and means, made the point that the amendment was not in order at that place, and Mr. Dalzell, rep., Pa., that if it were in order as to time, congress could not devolve on the secretary a judicial duty such as that of determining whether or not a trust was in control of a certain article. This precipitated a debate based on democratic charges that republicans favored trusts and did not want to legislate against them. All of the leaders on both sides and some not recognized in that rank took part. Charges and counter-charges were bandied back and forth, and the record of the past seven years was searched to show the action of both parties on the subject of trusts. After nearly three hours of this skirmishing, the question ostensibly being the point of order, Gen. Henderson, rep., Ia., appealed to both sides to put an end to it, saying that if it was the desire to get through the bill in the time allotted for its consideration "a mighty bad start had been made all around." The point against the amendment was sustained by the chair (Mr. Sherman, rep., N. Y.), and appeal against his ruling was sustained—158 to 104. Many other amendments having the same objects, to put articles controlled by trusts on the free list, were offerred, and on objection by Mr. Dingley all were ruled out of order. Mr. Dingley stated that when the time came to deal with trusts the republican party would do so, and that after passing the tariff bill if anything remained to do for the public interest it would attend to that. In the course of the first day's labor several changes of duty were made, among them being an increase of half a cent in the duty on carbonate of amonia; an increase of from 25 to 40 cents a pound of the duty on sulphuric ether, and increasing the duty on the products of pig lead from 2½ to 3 cents a pound. At 5:15 p. m. the housed adjourned until to-day having disposed of nine and one-half of the 123 pages of the bill.

M'KINLEY TO ATTEND.

Will Be Present at the Grant Monument Dedication in New York Next Month.

New York, March 27.—Gen. Horace Porter, who has charge of the arrangements in connection with the Grant memorial celebration, stated last evening that President McKinley had given assurances that he would be present on April 27, the day set for the dedication of the monument, without fail and deliver an address. Gen. Granville M. Dodge, grand marshal of the parade, also received a telegram from Adjt.-Gen. Tillinghast stating that the entire National Guard of the state, or about 13,000 men, would be ordered out. The brigade commanders also inform Gen. Dodge that nine-tenths of their commands will be in line of march. With the detachments from other states an unsurpassed military demonstration is assured. The plans have been formulated for the platforms and grand stands to be erected in the vicinity of the tomb. On the stand nearest the tomb will be President McKinley, the members of the diplomatic corps, the orators of the day, and the most distinguished invited guests. It is from here that the speeches will be made. Facing the presidential stand, and within easy hearing, will be the second and larger stand. Here will be accommodations for congressmen, legislators from the various states and others. Nearby will be the stand for the invited guests. On a bridge, which is to be erected over the eastern driveway of Riverside drive, it is planned to have a chorus of 1,000 voices and a band under the direction of Frank Damrosch. Admiral Bunce has written as follows from the flagship New York to Gen. Dodge: "All the available ships of the naval force under my command will take part in the celebration. I propose to leave here early next month for Hampton Roads, where I shall assemble as many of the ships of the squadron as possible, and I shall sail from there with them on April 19 and reach New York on the following day."

DOESN'T WANT PRIZE-FIGHTERS

Grafton Postmaster To Be Removed Because of His Pugilistic Tendencies.

Washington, March 27.—President McKinley has decided to remove postmaster Stephen W. Poe of Grafton, W. Va., on account of his pugilistic tendencies. Charges were made against Mr. Poe by citizens of Grafton that just prior to the November elections he engaged in a prize-fight under the regular ring rules and in the eighth round put his opponent out by a scientific blow. It was represented to the president that the Grafton Leader, edited by Mr. Poe, printed a full account of the fight. It is expected that Mr. Poe's successor will be soon named.

Internal Revenue Collector Named.

Washington, March 27.—The president has sent to the senate the nomination of Ferdinand Eidman of New York to be collector of internal revenue for the Third district of New York.

Second Secretary of Paris Embassy.

Washington, March 27.—The president has nominated Edgar Thomson Scott of Pennsylvania to be second secretary of embassy at Paris.

CANADA IS HOSTILE

Retaliation Against the United States Urged in all Quarters.

PARLIAMENT WILL SURELY ACT

Three Measures Aimed at Us Already Drafted and Much More Unfriendly Legislation Expected Before the Session Adjourns.

Ottawa, Ont., March 27.—Members of parliament from every quarter of the Dominion report a decided feeling of exasperation in their constituencies in regard to the attitude of the governing party in the United States, and the announcement of a tariff bill that will reduce materially the duties on goods imported mainly from Great Britain and retain the present duties on those goods coming from the United States has been received with general favor. A prominent liberal member from Ontario, who has heretofore been solicitous for closer relations with the United States, says that his constituents are very pronounced in favor of a retaliatory tariff and an alien labor law against the United States, with a discriminating tariff in the interest of British manufacturers.

Much Unfriendly Legislation.

Mr. Cowan of South Essex, who may be said to represent the sentiment of the border constituencies, gives notice of three bills, one respecting alien labor, one providing for changes in the immigration laws, and the third regarding the wrecking laws. From the present sentiment in parliament it is safe to say that all three, which are more or less retaliatory in their nature, will pass without very active opposition, and unless the ardor of members in the expression of anti-American sentiment is restrained there is no knowing how many other bills of a like tendency may be introduced before parliament is prorogued. The feeling seems to have taken deep root that the United States believes that Canada can be coerced and bull-dozed into the American union, and this feeling has aroused a spirit of resentment that bids fair to lead to much unfriendly legislation during the present session.

Discussing the Speech from the Throne.

In the house last night Mr. Russell, liberal, Halifax, moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne, and in regard to the tariff said that differences of opinion existed and there were those who believed the tariff was a tax, and it should bear as lightly upon the people as possible. In his own opinion Canada had been on the wrong track for eighteen years—ever since the protective tariff was adopted. To get back to the proper sytem of low taxation the government would have to go cautiously or otherwise the industries of the country would suffer. Mr. Russell also asked that all interested in prohibition of the liquor traffic would read the report of the result of the inquiry into the liquor question published in the Atlantic Monthly a couple of months ago by President Elliot of Harvard university. Sir Charles Tupper, leader of the opposition, in his speech contended that Premier Laurier's settlement of the Manitoba school question had not given one concession to the Roman Catholics, and accused the premier of appealing to protestants on the one hand and to Roman Catholics on the other. As for the policy of high protection he was more in favor of it today than ever. Canada would now be in a more prosperous condition than it ever was, he asserted, but for the unsettled state of tariffs in other countries, which, he said, were now causing mills to be closed in Montreal and elsewhere.

Kentucky Senatorial Situation.

Frankfort, Ky., March 27.—The senatorial situation this morning is unchanged. Dr. Hunter's friends say that on the next ballot their candidate will be elected, but his opponents assert that the vote he received yesterday—sixty-two, two short of the necessary number—was the utmost strength he could develop, and that from now on the number of his adherents will gradually dwindle. The republican state central committee denies the story that it has prepared an address condemning Gov. Bradley for his course in the senatorial contest.

The Terry Divorce Case.

Paris, March 27.—The divorce case of Antonio Terry against his wife has been postponed until after the Easter vacation of the court. Mr. Terry is an American citizen worth about $5,000,000. It is said that if he wins his suit he will marry Miss Sibyl Sanderson, the well known American singer, who is now in St. Petersburg.

Cause of Woodbury Explosion Unknown.

Woodbury, N. J., March 27.—The cause of the explosion yesterday afternoon at the Repauno Nitro-Glycerine works on the Delaware river front below Lincoln park, by which three workmen were killed and several others injured, it is not known.

This Is Encouraging News.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—State factory inspector James Campbell says that there are 100,000 more people employed in Pennsylvania now than there were six months ago.

Shaw Monument Exercises.

Boston, March 27.—President McKinley will not be able to attend the Robert G. Shaw monument exercises in this city owing to the press of public business.

Edmund Charles Tea Dead.

Paris, March 27.—Edmund Charles Tea, the celebrated French painter and etcher, is dead. He was born in Paris March 31, 1841.

POTTER'S BOWLERS LOST.

Cleveland Cyclers Went in to Win and Accomplished Their Purpose.

The Cleveland Cyclers didn't do a thing to the Potter bowling team last evening on the Ulrich alleys. The former team had blood in their eyes and they were determined to win the game. The utmost excitement prevailed throughout the evening, and each side yelled themselves hoarse. There were no high scores made, but the Cyclers bowled so well that their opponents could not touch them, and when the totals were footed up it was learned that they had 294 more pins than the Potter team. Below will be found the scores:

Cyclers.		Potters.
Young	145	Shannon	145
Hand	165	Evans	101
Babcock	139	Henry	100
Overbaugh	140	Connett	104
Frey	118	Shirley	115
Bittle	135	Millington	86
Sutphen	131	Gleason	111
Hui	40	Carty	148
Overbaugh, H.	140	Whalen	142
Tunison	191	Malcolm	104
	1450		1 56

The scorers were L. Scheelein and Bert Sutphen, and the umpires were Peter Blimm and C. Sutphen.

A Plucky Driver.

Charles Bierman, a driver for Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher, started away from Mr. Endress' Liberty street shop, on his morning delivery yesterday. At West Seventh street and Spooner avenue some defect was noticed in the harness. The driver tried to get control of the horse and although he was thrown from his seat and under the wagon he held pluckily to the reins and thus averted a most disastrous runaway. Besides the harness the shafts on the wagon were wrecked.

Fact and Comment.

It is a strange fact that the right hand, which is more sensible to the touch than the left, is less sensible than the latter to the effect of heat and cold. No such distinction, however, can be remarked of the eyes, which are equally sensitive to the effects of hard usage and neglect, and cannot be too watchfully cared for. How to care for them properly you will learn without expense by a call at Collier's.

We ask you to call and look over our new Carpets. We say new carpets for we had to buy an entire new line. We have what is beyond all question the largest assortment, and best selected patterns ever shown in Plainfield. Carpets are cheaper at present than they have ever been, and much cheaper than they will be if the tarriff be revised. If you need carpets, we suggest that you make some sacrifice (if necessary) and buy this spring while prices are down.

We had to buy new Oilcloths and Linoleums also, and prettier patterns in better goods you never saw. We bought Mattings on the water and the stormy weather has delayed them somewhat, but we don't regret that so much, for we bought them at wonderfully low prices. They are coming in every day now. We make and hang shades, poles and etc. Make over and relay carpets and etc. All work done skillfully and promptly.

SMALL TAX OR BIG LOSS.

THE CITY'S POSITION IN REFERENCE TO A LIBRARY APPROPRIATION.

It is Said That if the Taxpayers Do Not Provide Suitable Accommodations the Babcock Bequest Will Revert to Estate.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—As a citizen of Plainfield sincerely interested in her progress and the welfare of her citizens, I desire to call attention to the petition of the Directors of the Public Library published in a recent issue of your valuable journal.

The estimable gentlemen who constitute our Common Council are called upon to face a very great responsibility By their action they must decide whether Plainfield is to take her place with that class of communities who believe in public libraries or with the class who believe in getting along without a public library.

The question is whether we shall support the library supply what is obviously needed or permit it to be subjected to embarrassments of a very serious character. In a narrow sense, the question is whether an inconsiderable tax ought to be levied for the purpose of erecting a building which is unmistakably necessary. Without the proposed building the books now in the library are in danger of loss by fire and cannot be fully used and enjoyed by the public; and, what is most important, the bequest of Mr. Babcock is rendered nugatory.

One of two courses must be pursued. Either the city of Plainfield must erect a suitable building or give up the money and property donated for the purpose of founding the Babcock Scientific Library.

It is, of course, possible to decide that the bequest of Mr. Babcock, amounting in all to $25,000, shall be declined and the money and property returned to his estate. But certainly no one is so far down in the scale as to favor thas course. The Board of the Public Library acted according to the enlightened sentiment of the community when they accepted the generous gift.

What, then, shall be done? The Common Council must choose between two alternatives. It must levy the tax in pursuance of the act of the legislature, by which the tax is authorized, or it must decide that Plainfield is either unwilling or unable to accept the gift. Certainly the sentiment of our citizens is in favor of the acceptance of the bequest in the spirit in which it was made. We are not governed by the rules and doctrines that control communities where libraries are unknown. Our people and our institutions are intelligent, progressive and committed in every way to things which make in favor of civilization.

The suggestion that our taxes are higher than they ought to be has no foundation except in the ignorance of those whose opinions are valueless. The government of Plainfield has always been prudent and conservative. It is not too much to say that no city in the United States has had a better government. Its Common Council is composed, as it has been during nearly its whole history, of men of indisputable character and ability. If the taxes has increased to some extent during the past few y ars, the improvements and benefits have also increased. The moneys which have been collected by taxation have been wisely expended; there has not been the semblance of extravagance or waste of any kind. If the new building for library purposes is erected it will be an investment which will produce abundant returns. It will be for the real good of the whole community and will continue to exert an influence for good as long as the city lasts. To build it will be to unmistakably promote the public welfare, to add to our character and reputation as a city and to perform a duty which we owe to ourselves and which ought not to be ignored.

Citizen.

REV. A. E. MAIN TO CONTINUE.

Seventh-Day Baptist Congregation Engage the Present Pastor Again.

A congregational meeting was held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening for the purpose of calling a pastor, as the term of Rev. A. E. Main, the present pastor expired. The members decided unanimously to call Mr. Main for one year, beginning with April 1st.

Mr. Main has served the church as pastor for the past five months and has given the utmost satisfaction. In recognition of his earnest work the members evidenced their appreciation by giving him a call for another year.

SOME BILLS IN PERIL.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE NEAR FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

The Important Judiciary Amendments, Too, May Be Defeated by the Inability of the Lawyers to Agree on Them.

Only a few days remain of the legislative session of 1897, and its final adjournment will take place on Wednesday afternoon. The session has not yet been prolific in important laws, and about the only questions of prominence awaiting action are the appropriation, borough government, bicycle baggage and marriage license bills and the proposed amendments to the Constitution.

There is a dark prospect for the passage of judiciary amendments to the Constitution in the House. The Voorhees plan has been attacked by a number of eminent lawyers, who prefer the Johnson amendments. Such prominent lawyers as Courtlandt Parker are opposed to any change at all in the present Constitution, they being in favor of leaving well enough alone. It has long since been demonstrated that it is impossible for the lawyers to agree on this subject.

Looking back over the session, it is seen that some of the most important bills passed are these: The Equal Taxation bill, the Delaware Dam bill, the Newark and Jersey City Fall Elections bill, the bill to close the polls at 5 o'clock, the bill to authorize the purchase of turnpikes, and the bill permitting Essex county to spend $375,000 for a new county building. All of these, except the Fall Elections bill, have received the Governor's signature.

Of the bills that have been killed, the Jury Commission bill, the Railroad Commission bill, the Salary Reduction bill, the bill to abolish the naval reserves, the Township School Law repealer, the Farr 5 Per Cent Interest bill, the bill to compel trolley companies to vestibule their cars in winter, the Anti-Trust bill, the Anti-Cigarette, Dollar Gas and Three Cent Fare bills are the most important.

LIVES WERE IN DANGER.

JAMES DAWE AND FAMILY AWOKE IN STIFFLING SMOKE.

Were Just Able to Escape From the House With a Few Clothes Before the Interior Was all Ablaze—The Loss and Insurance.

A serious fire, in which several lives were endangered, was discovered yesterday morning about 5 o'clock in the house occupied by James Dawe and family, and owned by John O'Keefe, of this city. The house is located on West Sixth street and Plainfield avenue. Mr. Dawe and his wife and two children went to bed leaving everything all right as they supposed. Before 5 o'clock one of the children was awakened by coughing. This aroused Mr. Dawe, who was almost suffocated with smoke, as was also his wife and children. With great difficulty the family was able to get some of their clothes and escape. In the meantime a neighbor was aroused and went to Dr. Simpson's office, where he secured a key to send in an alarm from box 34.

The department was unusually quick in responding at that hour of the morning. Alert hose wagon was the first to arrive and the chemical engine was close behind, while the others came in quick succession. When the firemen arrived they learned that they had a very bad fire to fight, but they succeeded in keeping the flames in the house. Nearly everything in the house was burned or soaked with water and the loss is almost a total one inside. The fire started in the basement where the stovepipe was hung too close to the wainscoating. In this way the wood work was set on fire and it had been burning about two hours before it was discovered. It had burned through the floors and side walls to the second floor, and in the basement some heavy timber had been burned to a crisp. In fact everything below the second floor was burned inside. The loss will probably be about $200 and Mr. Dawe had his goods insured for $500 with J. C Pope & Co. The house was insured by the owner for $1,400 and it has not yet been learned what his loss is. It is thought to be very slight, however.

Mr. Dawe and his family were obliged to go to the house of a neighbor as soon as they escaped from their burning house, and they were unable to take anything except what they had on.

The house is of the balloon pattern and is provided with no cut offs. That it was saved is a miracle, but the firemen did good work in confining the fire to the interior. Four streams of water were used for over an hour before the fire was extinguished.

TOWN SOLONS AT ODDS

WESTFIELD OFFICIALS HAVE A VERY LIVELY SESSION.

Committeemen Endicott and Emree Form a Duo to Rule, and Leave Committeeman Hardin to Act All By Himself as Minority

The meeting of the Westfield township committee last Saturday evening proved one of the "warmest" meetings, it is said, for the past eight years. A small sized hornet's nest was stirred up. It was supposed to be a special meeting for the transaction of special business. Just as the meeting was under way, L. G. Cohen, one of Westfield's most prominent and intelligent citizens, appeared before the committee and sprung a disagreeable surprise. He was permitted to address the august body and this is what he said: "Gentlemen, I wish to ask the committee to engage special counsel to vigorously prosecute the suits at law, pending against ex-Collector, A. K. Gale and the present assessor, John M. C. Marsh, to recover the money which the township has illegally paid over to them."

"But," asked Mr. Embree, "can we get the money?"

"You may rest assured of that," said Mr. Cohen, "ex-Judge Davidson, who was foreman of the grand jury said, 'that if the money was not forthcoming you could take the body and in that case the money is usually forthcoming.'"

Mr. Cohen says that if the committee takes no action before the next grand jury is convened he will go before that body and ask for a presentment, as was done in the spring of 1896.

No action was taken in the matter and as soon as Mr. Cohen was through he left the room, as, he said, "for more congenial atmosphere,"

Routine business was resumed and then began the internal friction. Either Mr. Endicott or Mr. Embree would make a motion, the other would second it and one would put it to a vote and both would vote for it, leaving Committeeman Harden out in the cold, if not entirely ignoring him.

The question of leaving the present rooms was brought up, which was doubtless the real object of the special meeting. Mr. Embree said his reasons for leaving were personal as well as economical ones. It was decided te take the rooms of Mr. Grogan at $10 per month. Mr. Hardin refused to take any part in the proceedings, on the ground that the action of the committee was illegal.

The road money was also a bone of contention. Mr. Endicott and Mr. Embree wished to divide the township into three districts and the money into three parts, and each committee be responsible for the roads in his district. This was also objected to by Mr. Hardin, as illegal, and the matter went over.

Mr. Hardin got in another shot at his colleagues then by taking up the matter of township counsel.

"How much did you pay Mr. Bergen last year?" he asked.

"$100."

"The annual report says $250."

"Have you made any proposition to have him as counsel this year?"

"No."

"I wish to go on record right here," he continued, "as being opposed to having as our legal adviser one who is as intimately affiliated with the Union Water Company as is Mr. Bergen."

The committee let the matter drop then and adjourned.

Mr. Grogan, when seen yesterday, said that the committee could not have his place unless it signed a lease for a year.

It was rumored about town yesterday that the committee had decided that their meeting of Saturday night was illegal and would call another special meeting for some evening this week, before the first of April, setting forth in the notice the object of the meeting.

The taypayers are keeping an eye on the committee and nothing but favorable comments are heard for the open stand Mr. Hardin has taken, and they are ready to back him up in the matter.

Fixed the Street Themselves.

Property owners along West Third street have been clamoring to have some crushed stone sprinkled on that thoroughfare. During the recent thaw and rain storm the street was next to impassible, so some of the residents gathered up stones and clam shells from their premises and filled in some of the dangerous spots.

Attention, Property Owners!

Mr. J. D. Moon will give an exhibition of the Monarch Fire Extinguisher on Tuesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, on the vacant lot next to the Babcock building. 3 27 2

ANOTHER WHIST VICTORY

PARK CLUB FOUR CAME OUT ON TOP IN STATE CONGRESS.

They Had a Hard Contest, Though Against the Crack Princetonians and the Averse Sympathy of Other Players.

It was a narrow escape, but the whist players of the Park Club made one great effort and the cup was theirs, for a while at least. There has been a great improvement among the whist players of the State during the past year, and the other clubs, besides the Park's, have been making great progress in the game, so that the Park's found no easy thing to win at the whist congress of the State Association, held last week. By careful work, the Park's won their way into the finals which were played on Saturday evening. The other team was from the Princeton University Whist Club.

The Princeton players were careful and steady in their game and took the lead from the hitherto victorious Park's at the start. The sympathy of the crowd of over a hundred whist experts who were in the contest for progressive pairs, was with the Princetons, as they wished to see the Park's meet their match, but they didn't.

Up to the last round the Princeton team was ahead by four points, and then the Park team played as they had not played before. It was a strong game in which they are famous, and it succeeded, for when the final score was announced the Park's were found to be two points ahead of their opponents.

The teams represented were: Park, George T. Rogers, Samuel Townsend, S. St. John McCutchen and Joseph H. Howell; Princeton University Whist Club, Messrs. Leavitt, Howe, Henry, H. Van Dyke, B. Frank Carter, Edwin S. Lewis.

The result of the games was as follows: First round, Princeton 4, Park 3; second round, Princeton 7, Park 4; third round, Princeton 2, Park 8. Total score, Princeton 13, Park 15.

At the termination of the games President T. E. Otis, in a few well-chosen remarks, presented each of the winners in the Park four, Progressive four and the pair contests with a solid gold medal. The design is the ace of spades, the State Association emblem, surrounded by a wreath. The medal is engraved with "New Jersey State Whist Association, 1897," together with the name of the contest in which it was won. The spade and name of the association was in black enamel.

As the victory in the congress counts for two, the Park's now have nine victories to their credit, out of fifteen necessary to win the trophy as their personal property. All the clubs have challenged and the order in which they will play will be decided by lot. The next game will be played in this city on next Monday evening when the Park's will play whoever is first on the list.

PRIZE WINNERS AT EUCHRE.

Saturday Night Club Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden.

The Saturday Night Euchre Club was very pleasantly entertained last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dryden, of Watchung avenue. The entire membership of the club was present and the guests were Miss DeCamp, of Chester, and Dr. Anderson, of this city.

The first ladies' prize, a chafing dish, was awarded to Mrs. Peter Schultz, while the second ladies' prize, a cut-glass bowl, was presented to Mrs. W. R Codington. H. C. Van Emburgh won first honors for the men, a sterling pencil-holder, and a sterling match case was presented to Nicholas Terhune, as second prize.

After the game a social time was passed during which dainty refreshments were served. The club will be entertained Saturday evening, April 10th, by Mr. and Mrs. DeLong, of Sandford avenue.

Donators Thanked.

At the February meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital a resolution was adopted to thank all those who had made donations to the Nurses' Home, particularly Messrs. Packer, White, Thorpe, Gavett and Stevens. Also The Press and News for the use of their columns. Through an oversight this notice was not sent to the papers at that time.

NOW TO DEEPER STUDY

CHILDREN ADVANCED IN SEVENTH DAY BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Nine Children Promoted From the Primary to the Main School With Appropriate Exercisers for the Occasion.

Nine children of the primary department of the Sunday-school of the Seventh Day Baptist church were graduated into the main school, Saturday afternoon, with very impressive exercises. The review of the lessons for the quarter lasted for a short time and then the graduation ceremonies were held.

All the members of the primary department united in singing several selections. The graduating class recited Scripture seletions and then showed their knowledge of Bible geography and history. A large relief map of the Holy Land, made of sand, was brought forward and the children located the prominent cities telling some incident relating to each and then located the rivers, boundaries and well-known land marks.

Each of the children was then presented with a diploma and the right hand of fellowship was extended by D. E. Titsworth, superintendent of the Sunday-school, who also spoke a few words of welcome to each one. After an ernest prayer by Rev. A. E. Main, and more singing, the exercises closed. They were made very impressive by those in charge.

The exercises were conducted by Mrs. Joseph P. Mosher, superintendent of the primary department and her assistants, Miss Ida L. Spicer, Mrs. George E. Stillman and Miss Mabel Maxson. The teacher of the new class thus formed is Clarence Rogers. The children who graduated were Gertrude Anderson, Edna Randolph, Charles P. Titsworth, Wendall Mosher, Lawrence Miller, Charles Naegle, Daniel Randolph, Daniel Rogers and Fred Rogers. There are now twenty-nine members of the primary department remaining.

WORK OF VANDALISM

CHILDREN'S SUMMER CAMP HOUSE TURNED TOPSY-TURVY.

Discovered by H. H. Webb While Strolling Along the Mountain—Shutter Broken and Entrance Made Through a Window.

Vandals have worked with a good deal of frequency in the last few months on the numerous small summer lodges and houses on the mountain, and the latest piece of work of this kind was discovered yesterday afternoon by H. H. Webb, while strolling along the mountain ridge. In approaching the structure connected with the children's summer camp, maintained by the Local Union of the King's Daughters, Mr. Webb noticed that it looked in a rather dilapidated condition. He stopped to investigate and found that the boards covering the windows had been pried off the fastenings and some of the panes of glass had been shattered in an effort to get at the catch to open the window and thus gain an entrance. It is evident that the invaders climbed through the window and opened the door from the inside. The interior of the house looked as though it had been ransacked and turned topsy-turvy, though if there was anything missing Mr. Webb was unable to account for it, not being acquainted with its furnishings.

Mr. Webb fixed up the house the best that he could under the circumstances and returned to this city and notified the King's Daughters.

Pythians Silver Anniversary.

The silver anniversary of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, will be held on June 13th. At the meeting of the Lodge, Friday evening, a committee was appointed to look into the subject of celebrating it and suggest plans. The committee consisted of Joseph C. Blimm and Britton Higgins.

Two Persons Baptized.

An especially interesting service was held at the First Baptist church last evening. Five persons were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Yerkes, and special music was rendered by the choir which included a beautiful duet, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by Miss Harris, soprano, and Mrs. Ward, contralto.

Saturday Night Jollity.

The dance of the Plainfield Scandia Society in their hall in the VanDeventer building, on East Front street, Saturday evening, was largely attended. These Saturday night hops are becoming quite popular among the rapidly increasing Swedish element in the city and borough.

Thomas Taylor and family, who have been spending the winter months in Plainfield, have returned to their mountain home, near Washington Rock.

GALLOWS THEIR FATE.

TWO SOMERSET COUNTY MURDERERS SENTENCED THIS MORNING.

Jacob S. Johnson Will be Hung May 5th and Elmer Clawson a Week Later—Took Their Sentence Rather Calmly.

May will be an eventful month in the criminal annals of Somerset county, for during the month two of the four murderers confined in the county jail at Somerville will bid their last farewell to this world and end their life on the gallows in the yard of the Somerset county jail. Such was the decision of Judge Magee who sentenced the two men this morning before a court room crowded with people.

This morning was the time set for the sentencing of Jacob S. Johnson, the colored preacher of Somerville, and Elmer Clawson, the boy murderer of Harry Hodgetts. Long before the appointed time, the crowd began to assemble and filled the court room to overflowing. Judge Magee was in the chair.

Jacob S. Johnson, it will be remembered, was arrested for the murder of Annie Rogers for her money. The crime was committed on September 15, 1895, and after a trial, he was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged in the jail yard on March 11, 1896. The case was appealed and subsequently argued before the Supreme Court of the state, which affirmed the judgment of the lower court.

At 11:20 o'clock Johnson walked into the crowded court room for resentence, escorted by Sheriff Wyckoff and two deputy sheriffs. He was not handcuffed. He looked unconcerned and glanced about the room apparently careless as to the result of Judge Magee's deliberations. He listened without emotion while the charge was read and when the Judge solemnly pronounced the sentence of death by hanging in the county jail yard. The date set for the execution was May 5th, between the hours of ten and three o'clock. Johnson was then led back to his cell still exhibiting no sign of distress or sorrow.

Five minutes later Elmer Clawson was escorted into the room by Sheriff Wyckoff and his deputies. Last September, Clawson went to the home of his former employer, Harry Hodgetts, a farmer living in Bedminster township, and calling him out of the house deliberately shot him on his own threshold. He was captured and tried for murder in the Somerset county court. The court declared him guilty. The case was carried to the court of Errors and appeals, which affirmed the decision on the county court. Clawson was but eighteen years of age when he committed the crime.

Clawson was not handcuffed when brought before the Judge. He looked pale and wan, showing the ravages of the close confinement on his young life. There was a smile on his face as the Judge slowly and impressively pronounced the sentence of death by hanging He showed no sign of mental tribulation, although his hands shook as he walked.

The Judge sentenced him to be hung in the yard of the court house on May 12th, between the hours of 10 and 3.

The death watch will be set at once.

Died From a Paralytic Stroke.

Michael Coleman, of Chatham street, who was reported so ill last week as the result of a paralytic stroke, died at his home early yesterday morning. He leaves a wife and two children. He was a machinist by trade and worked at one of the local shops. His body will be removed to Worcester, Mass., for burial, and his family will reside at that place.

The Firemen Thanked.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I desire to thank the firemen of the city of Plainfield for their promptness in responding to the call, and for their valuable assistance in extinguishing the flames at my place on Friday morning.

John Johnston.

Decision Reserved.

The appeal case of Stebor against Chase was completed at the Somerset county court in Somerville, Friday afternoon. The final arguments were made in the case and the attorneys for both sides summed up. Judge Bartine reserved his decision until Monday.

Rumored Holdup.

The New York Evening Sun says today in a dispatch from Elizabeth that John Benner, owner of the well-known road house on South avenue, was waylaid by two men at Netherwood, but he whipped up his horse and escaped.

—A parlor meeting will be held under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. M. B. Ellis will make an address on the subject, "Motherhood."

STRUCK BY A LIVE WIRE.

Newark Policeman Instantly Killed---Man Who Cut the Wire Arrested.

Newark, N. J., March 29.—Policeman John Clark of the Harrison police force was instantly killed by coming into contact with a live electric wire on Harrison avenue near First street yesterday. Clark noticed the end of the wire lying on the ground and electric sparks emitting from it. Approaching it cautiously he struck the end of the wire with his club. He did not notice that the wire was dangling from overhead, and as he struck it it swayed back an struck him in the face. The wire was charged with over 5,000 volts from an electric light wire over head, and Clark never knew what struck him. He fell back dead into the arms of Sergeant Kennedy, who stood alonside of him. Deputy County Physician Albers ordered the body removed to Walsh's morgue. Investigation proved that the wire belonged to the Hudson Telephone company. It had sagged down on the electric light wire, and Owen Kelly, a lineman employed by the Newark Electric Light & Power company had cut the telephone wire and had permitted the ends to dangle down into the street. Kelly was arrested and committed without bail on a charge of manslaughter. A coroner's inquest was ordered. Clark was 35 years old. He was to have been married during the week after the close of Lent.

VICTIM OF FIENDS.

An Aged Farmer Dies of Terrible Tortures Administered by Robbers.

Beatrice, Neb., March 29.—David Jones, an aged farmer who lived near Wymore, is dead of injuries inflicted one week ago by robbers. Jones was 71 years old, a bacheler and lived alone. He was quite wealthy, and was popularly supposed to keep large sums of money about his place. About 8 o'clock at night as he was preparing to retire two masked men entered his house. One knocked him down with a blow on the head. When he had partly regained consciousness he was ordered to show them where he kept his meney. He took them up stairs and showing them $4 declared it was all he had. They then tied him to a bed, wrapped his feet in cloths, and, after saturating them with coal oil, set them on fire. He still protested, and a bundle of cloths were laid on his bare stomach and set on fire. Failing in their purpose, more of the oiled cloths were placed on the back of his neck and burned. Jones managed to get free, crawled to the barn, got on a horse, and rode to his sister's, a half mile distant, where he fell from the animal unconscious. He was only able to give a slight description of his assailants.

MINISTER TO JAPAN.

The Name of Capt. Jaques, of the Jersey Naval Reserve, Favorably Considered.

Trenton, March 29.—Francis B. Lee, editor of the Trenton Times, announces that he is personally authorized to make the statement that Capt. William H. Jaques of New York city, commander of the New Jersey naval reserve, has retired from his candidacy for assistant secretary of the navy. His name has most favorable consideration in Washington for minister to Japan, where he was in charge of the ordnance department during the Chinese war and was decorated with the order of the Sun by the emperor.

President Diaz Wants a Vacation.

City of Mexico, Mex., March 29.—It is reported here that President Diaz will apply to congress for a leave of absence for three months from Mexico with a view to making a trip to France and England this summer. His long years of active service as president have been arduous, and as his son is attache of the Mexican legation at Paris, he desires to visit him and obtain needed recreation.

starving children

There are children without food. They cry for it, and are not answered. The pity of it! But often nature cries out in other ways that her children need nourishment. Is your child thin; actually poor in flesh? Does it get no benefit from its food? Then give something which produces flesh and makes rich blood.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites does more than this. It changes the unhealthy action to one of health, thus removing the cause. It acts on the nervous system, which controls all the processes of the body, toning it up into sound and vigorous activity. It is food for growing bone and brain. It makes the thin plump; the pale, ruddy; the weak, strong; it feeds and cures.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

IN STATE OF TERROR

Warfare and Pillage Going on In Every Part of Crete.

FORCES OF THE POWERS OF NO AVAIL

Turks Threaten Complete Annihilation to Every Foreigner and Even Their Own Women and Children on the Island.

Canea, March 29.—The conditions which prevail throughout the island beggars description. Warfare, rapine and pillage is going on in every direction, and thus far the forces of the powers have been absolutely powerless to preserve order even in the coast towns. The Cretan Christians and the Greeks are firmly resolved to bring about the annexation of the island to Greece, while the Moslems appear to be equally determined to prevent such a consummation. The Turks declare that if the island is handed over to Greece they will massacre not only every foreigner, but even their own women and children, and then fight the Christians to the bitter end. Though the powers have heretofore displayed much favoritism to the Turks, it is not for a moment believed that they would countenance a massacre of the Christians.

Greece's Position Extremely Grave.

Athens, March 29.—The Greek situation is extremely grave. With the departure of Crown Prince Constantine from Athens to take command of the troops in Thessaly the die seems to have been cast. War would be inevitable if Greece recalled her army. It would march to Athens and dethrone the king. The most serious element of the situation is the undoubted fact, despite denials, that the concert of the powers is no longer solid.

HAS DISINTERESTED AIMS.

Explanation of the Course Pursued by the Kaiser in the Cretan Crisis.

Berlin, March 29.—Despite the perplexities of the ministerial situation and the calls upon his time arising from the memorial fetes of the past week, the kaiser has been able to give a large share of his attention to the eastern crisis. Nearly every day he has held protracted conferences with the chancellor or Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, minister of foreign affairs, at which the foreign situation had a prominent part. It is known that the kaiser has been again in direct communication with the sultan, and following his occasional use of the right to be his own foreign minister, has sent personal instructions to Baron Saurma von Jeltsch, German ambassador at Constantinople, and to Baron von Plessen, German minister at Athens. The ministerial press here argue with some apparent degree of justice that the kaiser, in again resuming an active role in the protracted negotiations concerning Greece, has entirely disinterested aims. If he follows in the wake of the czar, it is because of the fact that up to the present time the policy of Russia has been directed to the maintenance of the status quo in the Balkan peninsula, which concurs not only with the general interests of peace, but especially agrees with the interests of Austria, Germany's ally. But there are near prospects of the divergence of Germany from Russia's lead. Previous dispatches have already denounced the current fiction that the kaiser's policy was in any wise influenced by his personal enmity to the Greek royal family, or that he had ceased all relations with his sister, the Duchess of Sparta. There is good ground for stating that, while opposing Greece's seizure of Crete, the kaiser had in view the satisfaction Greek claims in another quarter, and that he has now suggested to the sultan the rectification of the frontiers of Greece, according to the terms of the fourteenth protocol of the Berlin treaty. It is felt and admitted in the highest quarters here that Greece cannot withdraw from Crete, abandon all her claims, and submit to the behests of the powers without some compensation. A revolution at Athens after so many sacrifices on the part of the nation would be inevitable. Crete is for the time, at all events, lost to Greece, but King George has caused the powers to be informed that the basis of a pacific settlement can be found only in the acquisition by Greece of the terrftory accorded to her under the Berlin treaty. The Greek frontier would then run from Mavroneri on the Gulf of Salonica to and including Metsovo and the lake of Janina.

$100,000 Residence Destroyed by Fire.

New London, Conn., March 29.—The handsome residence of Col. Augustus C. Tyler, commander of the Third regiment, C. N. G., and known as "The Elms," on Pequet avenue, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Col. Tyler and his family have been in the south during the winter, and the house was in the charge of the colonel's bulter. The fire started from some unknown cause in the music room. The residence of Gordon Mallory, adjoining the Tyler house, was damaged somewhat by the fire. The loss on the residence and furnishing, including a vast quantity of silverware, bric-a-brac and art works, will reach $100,000.

Death of Charles H. Porter.

Leominster, Mass., March 29.—Chas. H. Porter, of Tenny & Porter, comb manufacturers, died suddenly last evening of heart failure. He was a prominent republican and an indefatigable party worker. He was 49 years old and leaves a widow, son and daughter. He was one of the heaviest men in Worcester county, weighing 325 pounds.

"NEW PLAINFIELD ENTERPRISE."

SENSIBLE SHOESHOP.

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business but am after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me; want to renew old acquaintances, and get aquainted with everybody I don't know.

Dangers of the Grip.
The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

J. R. Bennett, of Lincoln place, is improving slowly from his recent accident, which resulted in the fracture of his leg.

Prof. Rush Rhees, of Union Theological Seminary, was the guest of relatives in this city yesterday.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured
Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indiannapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after spraining my ankle I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's 'Mystic Cure' for Rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me sound and well. I take pleasure in recommending the 'Mystic Cure' to all who are afflicted with Rheumatism." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

WATER AGAIN RISING.

Situation in the Mississippi Valley Most Alarming.

GOVERNMENT ISSUES A WARNING

Towns Submerged and Levees in Great Danger—The Worst May Occur During the Next Week or Ten Days.

St. Louis, March 29.—The forecast of the government signal service that the Missouri and the upper Mississippi rivers would rise to danger point has been well verified, and new high watermarks are being made. That stretch of low land country on both sides of the Mississippi river from the mouth of Des Moines to the hills below Hannibal, Mo., and Quincy, Ill., is under water. At Quincy the record is 15.3 feet with a rising river. This is two feet above the danger line. Great suffering has been occasioned among the farmers and the boatmen about Palmyra and West Quincy on the Missouri side. The sea of overflow has ruined every land farm from Palmyra North forty miles to Legrange. The Indian grave levee north af Quincy that protects 20,000 acres of farm land was still intact this morning, but a little more water will sweep it away. At Burlington, Ia., the river is five miles wide and has destroyed several mills on the flats.

Towns Inundated.

Pine Bluff, Ark., March 29.—Red Fork, a little town near here, is completely inundated. The water is two feet deep in houses on the highest elevations. The government levee ten miles south of here is in imminent danger and a call has been made for 200 hands. The town of Watson is also submerged.

Crawfish Threaten a Dyke.

Peoria, Ill., March 29.—The little village of Wesley is threatened with destruction, as the water is slowly creeping toward it. The residence of Edward Hughes has been surrounded and James Blair and his family have been compelled to move out, as the water is over the window sills on the first story. It is feared that crawfish will aid the high water in breaking the dyke in the Pekin and La Marsh drainage districts. The drainage district authorities made an examination of the dyke and discovered that in several places the crawfish had honeycombed the dyke by burrowing it until it is as porous as a sieve.

A FURTHER RISE PREDICTED.

Mississippi Valley Residents Warned of Danger Yet To Come from the Flood.

Washington, March 29.—The following special Mississippi valley bulletin has been issued by the weather bureau: The crest of the flood wave is still at Cairo, which shows a stationary gauge reading of 51.6 feet. There is great danger yet to come from the flood in the region from Helena southward to New Orleans. The river will continue to rise for at least ten days in the region from Helena southward to Vicksburg and to rise during a longer period from Vicksburg southward. If no break occurs before, the levees will be subjected to the greatest strain about April 10 in southeast Arkansas and western Mississippi, and should the levees break the result will be one of the most disastrous floods ever known. Weather conditions now indicate additional heavy rainfalls in the middle and lower Mississippi valleys, which will materially intensify the flood situation. Those living in districts overflowed in former years should be on the safe side and transfer stock and moveable property to places of known safety while there is yet time.

Fighting May Be Legalized in Missouri.

St. Louis, March 29.—Confidently expecting that the governor will sign the horse breeeers' bill, which incidentally permits the licensing of prize-fights, the Olympic Athletic club of St. Louis will be incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000. Many money-eyed men of the city are interested. The first event at the new club will be the contest between Sharkey and Maher, who have been matched to fight some time soon. The organization expects to offer a purse of $10,000. A battle between the leading lightweights of the world on the same night is proposed.

Antarctic Exploration.

London, March 29.—When the political activity of the admiralty has subsided, Mr. Goschen intends to return favorably to the consideration of the dispatch of an exploring expedition to the Antarctic ocean. Everybody now recognizes that such an undertaking would have the best chances of success if carried on with the active assistance of the admiralty. It is quite likely that a suitable ship will be commissioned shortly for the purpose.

Iowa To Go Into Dry Dock.

Washington, March 29.—The new battleship Iowa will leave Philadelphia this afternoon for New York to be docked preparatory to her official trial trip off the New England coast on April 5, permission having been finally granted by the contractor in possession of the new dry dock to admit the vessel, providing the navy department assumes the responsibility for any damages.

Died of Hydrophobia.

Pittsburg, March 29.—Philip James, a well known citizen of Braddock, who died at the West Penn hospital Saturday of hydrophobia, was bitten by the dog about three weeks ago. He was a trusted employe of the Edgar Thomson Steel works.

HARD ROAD TO THE MINISTRY.

When the committee on examinations made its report on candidates for orders to the Methodist Conference at Trenton last week there was no report concerning George H. Greenig. It was stated that he had been persuing his studies for sixteen years, and the question whether he should be continued as a candidate was discussed. Some of the members wanted him dropped from the list, but more wanted him continued, as being worthy and making an uphill struggle. One minister said that the applicant had been doing service for the church at a "hungry hill" charge on a "starvation circuit."

JEALOUS NEW BRUNSWICK.

Plainfield has a population nearly 6,000 less than New Brunswick, and its postal business is much less than that of this city, yet the Government provides Plainfield with very handsome and spacious quarters in the Babcock building, and pays $1,500 a year in rent. Every way the equipment of the office is immensely superior to that in the office in this city. Our office has a very humble appearance compared with that in Plainfield. But then when we get our $125,000 Government building, Plainfield's P. O. won't be in it.—New Brunswick Home News.

VANDALISM.

It is a shame that vandalism should be practiced about so worthy a place as the King's Daugh ers' children's summer camp, as told in The Press news columns today. It was only by incessant work and much self-sacrifice that the Local Union was able to establish the camp, and if the perpetrators of the acts discovered yesterday can be apprehended, they should be punished severely.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. Ida Hunt, formerly of East Fifth street, will leave for Brookline today, where she will take up her residence.

Mrs. Emma S. Brown has returned to her home on Mercer avenue, after a two weeks visit with relatives at Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Way, of Stone street, returned home this morning, after a short visit with Mrs. Way's parents at Martinville.

Miss Emma Case, daughter of Rufus K. Case, who has been spending the winter in New York, has returned to her home on East Ninth street.

Miss Phebe Lovell, daughter of L. N. Lovell, a student at Vassar College, has returned to her home on Crescent avenue for her Spring vacation.

THEATRICAL.

A real novelty in farce comedy this season is the Grand Army Veteran character sketch, introduced by John and George Gorman, in the second act of "The Gilhoolys Abroad," which is to appear at Music Hall, on Friday night. The dancing at the finish is exquisitely humorous and arouses the audiences to a pitch of enthusiasm seldom witnessed in a theatre. This feature must be seen to be appreciated.

Sunday-school Officers.

The annual election of officers of the Sunday-school of the East Third Street mission was held yesterday afternoon. It being review Sunday the review of the lessons of the quarter were conducted by the superintendent, L. W. Randolph, from the desk. Easter music was then practiced by the school. The election followed and resulted in the re-election of all the old officers as follows: Superintendent, L. W. Randolph; assistant superintendent. H. E. Needham; secretary, C. E. Hepburn; librarian, William Ulmer.

—A forty-quart ice-cream freezer has been received at Randolph's pharmacy which will be used this summer in furnishing ice cream for the famous ice-cream soda at Randolph's. The freezer is run by electricity.

—The case of Luebeck against Faber was tried in Justice Mosher's court this morning and judgment was given the plaintiff for the full amount. Lawyer Irving Brady represented the latter and Lawyer Chas. McNabb represented the defendant.

Mayor Greeted His Friends

Mayor Fisk, who returned home on Saturday last, was greeted by his many friends at the North avenue station this morning. Mr. Fisk says that he is feeling much better than he did before he went away.

A BOISTEROUS MAN.

James McKenzie Tried to Break Up a Salvation Army Meeting.

Attempting to break up a meeting of the Salvation Army in their hall on West Second street was what James McKenzie was charged with in the city court this morning. It was alleged that he made such a disturbance at the meeting of the Army, last evening, that it was necessary to arrest him. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was ordered to appear before the Judge on Saturday next for trial.

The other two offenders were colored men who mistook the sidewalk for the middle of the road, last evening, in the vicinity of Grant avenue and West Seventh street, and rode their wheels there to the danger of the life and limb of the pedestrians who happened to pass that way. Patrolman Totten was in the vicinity and he captured the dusky cyclists and ordered them to appear for trial this morning.

This morning they came, but they were afraid that conviction meant a fine, and so they fought shy of it. They had a nicely concocted story arranged but the Judge had met others of their stamp before and soon they were helplessly entangled in their story. They finally made a clean breast of the affair and were fined $2 for their offence.

Red Men Have a Jolly Time.

An unusually enjoyable meeting was held by Miantonomoh tribe of Improved Order of Red Men, Friday evening. Two candidates were elected to the tribe and one proposition was received. The committee on the dance made its report. Then the braves were entertained by the programme which the good and welfare committee had provided. It consisted of humorous stories by Michael Lehy, a piano solo by William F. Trust, songs and recitations by John R Hartpence, short talks by Past Sachems W. A. Westphaf, William Newcorn, David Morning and Francis Whiteley, guitar selections by John R. Hewitt, baritone solo by Charles L. Holdstein. The pipe of peace was smoked and the meeting adjourned.

A Noble Purpose.

If a man has a noble purpose in life he will succeed. But the man must have health and strength. Many men have started with noble purposes and have failed, because of sickness and disease. How to get back health and strength, is the great question, the great desire. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing diseases, has discovered in his medicines the sure road to health. You can consult Dr. Greene, personally or by letter, free. Write to him and be cured.

PASSING COMMENT.

At different times The Daily Press has called attention to the practice of certain cartmen in dumping ashes in the vacant place just off of Washington avenue near West Front street. This practice has been continued right along and much to the annoyance of the people who live in that vicinity. All sorts of rubbish and ashes are carted there every day and the place has become a great nuisance. Thursday when the wind was blowing so hard the papers were scattered in every direction, and the dirt from the ashes was carried into every yard in that vicinity. It seems that, in view of all that has been said about this nuisance, it is about time that some action was taken. It may be the duty of the health inspector to look after it, but the matter should be attended to without any delay.

* * * *

The little boy, Thomas Traynor, who was laid to rest Wednesday (from St. Mary's church) deserves more than a passing notice for his many virtues. The sturdy little form was familiar as he passed in the performance of duties which seemed beyond his years. There was something so remarkable in his attention to business, his imperturbable good-nature and politeness, that all observers were irresistibly interested in him and led to wonder what his future career would be. Other boys might snowball him or otherwise tease him; he took no notice nor made the least attempt at retaliation, but passed on in the even tenor of his way. How little we thought that he would be so early crowned.

* * * *

Here's a temperance lesson in a column of figures. Secretary of the State Palmer, of New York, contributes it. He wants the Legislature to pass a bill giving him the right to destroy transcripts of the sentences of 1,600,000 "drunks." His office, he says, is encumbered by the voluminous papers, and as a lot of men who have taken a drop too much occasionally would like to see the evidences of their horrible past obliterated, his request will be granted.

* * * *

A Plainfield business man has asked The Daily Press to speak about the practice which some people have in throwing fish heads, clam shells, etc., in the street. He says that it makes it very dangerous for horses, besides it is not pleasant to see the streets filled up with such things. The habit has almost grown to be a nuisance and thus the complaint is made concerning it.

WALLACE GOES FREE.

His Accusers Failed to Appear to Press the Charge.

Larry Wallace is free. His principal accusers on the charge of attempted arson failed to appear and the Justice did not consider the rest of the testimony of sufficient strength to hold him.

The hearing of Lawrence Wallace was started before Justice Ira J. Hunt, of Elizabeth, last Friday and the testimony brought out was told in The Press at the time. The absence of the two principal witnesses, William Adams and Charles Vollner, alias Bloodgood, alias Jones, alias Arthur Sinclair, was also noted. The hearing was adjourned Friday until this morning to allow these witnesses to testify.

This morning Wallace was brought up for the adjourned hearing, but again the witnesses were absent, and after waiting some time for them to appear, Justice Hall discharged Wallace and he was released from custody at once. There is no clue as to where the missing witnesses have gone, and the suspicion is prevalent that they have departed for parts unknown, fearing arrest for conspiracy.

—Miantonomoh Tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men will hold its dance on Wednesday evening in Red Men's hall.

—The meeting at the East Third Street mission, last evening, was addressed by Rev. George Bowers. Great interest was manifested.

—Some folks think Peck's is the only house in the state for laces and embroideries; not so, it is simply the best. Peck is satisfied at that.

—Edward White, the dry goods man, says that a serious fire was averted at his store by the use of a Little Giant Fire Extinguisher.

—The members of Stone Square Lodge, F. and A. M., colored, will give a reception to their wives and friends this evening in the rooms of the lodge on West Front street.

—It might be of interest to Plainfielders to know that the streets of the city cannot be sprinkled until the license for the same is granted by the Council. In the meantime the people will be annoyed.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Charles Hecht is visiting friends in New York city.

Miss Anna Titsworth has gone to Ashaway, R. I., for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Lewis.

J. H. Cramer moved Saturday into the house just vacated by W. R. Hardingham and family.

Mrs. H. A. Reed, formerly of West Dunellen, but now of New York city, was the guest of Mrs. J. R. Maltby, of West Dunellen.

William Dealaman and Fred Wilcox rode their wheels to Westfield and return Saturday. They followed the county road from Plainfield.

After remaining idle for the past three months, the stone crusher near Washington Rock was started again on full time this morning.

It is understood that at the next meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, F. H. Giss, one of their number, will be asked to enter a plea for an appropriation to fix up the old New Market road.

A young son of Mat. Eagney, who was assisting the firemen in hauling their appartus to the fire on Saturday, stumbled and fell and the wheels on the engine barely escaped running over him.

The union temperance evangelical service held in the Baptist church at New Market last evening, drew together an unusually large attendance. The simple announcement that Mrs. J. T. Ellis would make an address served to densely fill that edifice.

W. R. Hardingham, who is erecting a handsome new dwelling house for himself on Grant avenue, removed to Plainfield on Saturday and temporarily took possession of a house on the same thoroughfare, where he will reside until his house is completed.

A colored woman, who was a passenger on a well-filled street car going to Plainfield Saturday evening, created much amusement. She declared that she had ten pennies when she left home, and after the conductor collected her fare, she discovered that she only had four cents left for her return passage. The woman was exceedingly vexed. She stood up in the car and shook out her garments, but the missing penny failed to materialize. She finally exclaimed: "Well, if they won't bring me back for four cents, I'll walk." And no one seemed to doubt the veracity of her statement.

At a little before noon on Saturday the fire gong sounded an alarm of fire and the firemen and their apparatus were directed to Samuel Williams' house at the continuation of Walnut street. The house is some distance from the centre of town, but the apparatus with Joseph Maier in command, made remarkably quick time in reaching the scene of the fire. Investigation disclosed the fact that a large quantity of dry kindling wood had been stored under the back stoop, and near this had been left a bucket of wood ashes with some smouldering embers in them. The brisk wind blowing at the time fanned some of the live embers into the wood, thus setting fire to it. And when first discovered the entire heap of wood and the stoop were a mass of flames. The neighbors turned out and formed a bucket brigade, pouring a generous amount of water on the fire. But it was not until the arrival of the firemen that the fire was gotten under control. The total loss will probably not exceed $100.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Buckley visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Cotton, of Glen Cove, was the guest of Miss Adams, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Collins, of Brooklyn, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in town.

Horace Hand, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob V. Coles.

Miss May Johnson entertained her friend, Miss Bloomer, of Corning, N. Y., several days last week.

Miss Cora Miller will entertain a number of her young friends at a birthday party on Tuesday afternoon, from 4 to 7.

Miss Florence Nichol, of Swarthmore College, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nichol.

The annual business meeting of the Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church will be held at "The Manse" on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Torey, a former old resident of the village, died at her home in New York on Thursday. Interment was made in the cemetery here yesterday.

Henry Schenck, the well-known buck and jig dancer, is getting ready to accompany a colored minstrel company out from New York within a fortnight.

Yesterday being the only time when the work could be conveniently done, Lynus Walpole's pool table was thoroughly overhauled and re-covered by Chas. Krewson, of Plainfield.

About a dozen of the Springfield Cyclers rode down to the Plains on their way to Rahway yesterday afternoon. They only dismounted long enough to "wet their whistle" at the town pump.

An official of Fanwood is said to be seen daily riding his bicycle between the two places, going the entire distance on the sidewalk. This is certainly a bad precedent for an officer to establish.

The union Sunday-school service of the four Sunday-schools in Fanwood Township was held in the Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. An enjoyable programme was rendered. This will be the last of these union meetings until next fall.

The dust was exceedingly troublesome on the roads about here yesterday. This was particularly so on the county roads, and with the cold, strong, northeast wind that prevailed until late in the afternoon, outdoor pastimes were but little practiced.

Now since the weather is becoming settled, the baseball subject is being freely talked up. The Plains has supported a good team in times gone by and there is now no reason why a first-class team should not be organized with so much good material at hand.

The Sunday festivities at the Italian rookery on East Front street were not so exciting and hostile as on the previous Sunday. Running, jumping and chasing a greased pig were the order of exercises yesterday afternoon, and some company from Westfield assisted in the sports.

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

James Folsom spent Sunday in Philadelphia.

The Bayard estate will be sold at public auction next Wednesday afternoon.

The Westfield Club will hold a progressive euchre and informal dance tomorrow evening.

The estate of Charles Clark was sold at public auction this afternoon at Broad street and North avenue.

Crane & Clark, the Plainfield gents' furnishers, will open a store here in the Kurzhalls building in a few days.

Another case of scarlet fever is reported by the Board of Health. It is in the family of Alexander Hunt, of Ross place.

Dr. T. S. Harvey takes possession of his new house this week. He will remove his office from the Bank building to his residence.

The entertainment and musicale will be given this evening by the W. C. T. U., in the W. A. C. hall. A souvenir will be given each lady attending the affair.

The last special musical service of the season was rendered in the Congregational Church last evening. There were eighteen members on the programme, which were well executed by the special soloists and the church's superb chorus. The soloists were Mrs. Elizabeth Arrighi, soprano; Miss Elisa Buford, contralto; Wilfer Waters, basso and Theodore Hillies, tenor, supported by a full chorus and Karff's orchestra.

On Saturday afternoon Miss Josephine C. Muffett and Miss Marjotie Russell, two enthusiastic cyclers, started to wheel it to Plainfield. When near Fanwood where the road is good and more or less secluded the ladies, to use their own words, thought they would try some trick riding. They were doing nobly until the memory of their feats on ice came up and they undertook to cut a figure eight. That ended the tricks. "We collided and cut every other figure imaginable," said they, "except eight. We were more or less shocked and bruised. So were our wheels. We walked home and now we and our wheels are laid up for repairs."

Better Street Car Service.

According to a recent order issued by Superintendent John Adlemann, of the street railway service, the West Front street and Dunellen cars now run on twelve minutes headway, where heretofore it was fifteen minutes. This change seems to indicate a rapid and steady growth of traffic, especially in the west end of town.

—G. O. Keller, the West Front street dyer, moved on Saturday to the store on Park avenue, formerly occupied by Van Eps, the jeweler.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

NOTICE.

Plainfield, N. J., March 27th, 1897.
The Little Giant Fire Extinguisher Co:—
GENTLEMEN:—What might have proved a very serious fire at my store, was prevented by the use of the Little Giant Fire Extinguisher.
The fire originated on the roof of the building, and was caused by a can of tar, which the painters were using, boiling over, and in an instant the fire had started to burn very fiercely. I took one of your extinguishers and extinguished the fire before the fire department arrived.
I can frankly say that had it not been for the prompt use of it there is no telling how much damage would have been done.
I consider it one of the best and quickest extinguishers I have ever seen and would not be without them, no matter what they cost. It certainly is a wonder.
Respectfully yours,
EDWARD WHITE.

AN INFANT SANDOW.

When Only Nine Months Old Could Lift a Twenty-five Pound Weight.

Henry Edward William Ward, the child of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ward, of Lewiston, Me., developed very fast and at an early age began to show signs of remarkable strength for an infant.

Mr. Ward, who was something of an athlete in his younger days thought he saw the foundation for a remarkably strong man in his son and when he was about three months old adopted a gentle system of exercise, through which he put Henry every day. He also put his little son on a diet that was muscle producing and in a few weeks was delighted to notice a great improvement.

Then some light dumbbells were provided for the boy, and under the careful tuition of his father he soon manipulated them surprisingly well. Young Henry's weight was so great for a youth of his age that he did not develop much speed as a sprinter and his main strength, brought about by his dumbbell and Indian club practice, is in his arms and chest. When only nine months old he was able to lift a dumbbell weighing 27 pounds clear of the floor.

The boy is not surprised at anything, and takes his training as a matter of course. He has learned to talk rapidly, and is as bright as a new dollar. Every muscle in the little fellow's body stands out prominently, and his flesh is as hard and firm as a professional boxer's. His biceps are developed in an astonishing manner and feel like iron.—New York World.

BRANDED WITH ICE.

A Student Imagined He Was Being Terribly Burned When Initiated.

At Harvard University some years ago a great row was made over the discovery that in one of the societies it was a custom to brand some of the new members with a hot iron by way of initiation. The Chicago University students have modified this Spartan treatment by using ice instead of the hot iron. Seven neophytes, candidates for Snell Hall, were blindfolded and put through a course of good-natured horse play peculiar to college boys. Then one of them, Cleveland by name, was called forward for the branding process.

Cleveland had been a candidate for the '96 eleven, and was anxious to wear a "C" on his foot ball sweater. He was now told that his desire for athletic fame was to be gratified; that is, he was to have the "C" branded on his chest. The young athlete was stripped, his hands and feet were tied, and then a hot mustard plaster was applied to his breast, so that he might become "accustomed to the heat." Meanwhile he could hear a hot iron sizzling close at hand. When the young man was just in the right condition of terror the branding was begun. His tormentors, taking a piece of ice, inscribed on his bare breast a large, frigid "C," while the poor fellow, with teeth set, writhed in agony. Six other boys were subjected to the same imaginary torture, and they all said that the sensation was painful enough to have been the real thing.—New York Journal.

Nitro-Glycerine in a Barnyard.

A peculiar accident befell a hog belonging to a farmer residing six miles northwest of Hartford City, Ind., in the Dundee oil field. An oil well had just been completed and the shooter was sent for to give the finishing touch, says the Chicago Chronicle.

One of the nitro-glycerine cans sprung a leak and several quarts were left upon the ground. It is odorless and has a sweet, pungent flavor which seemed to be just to the liking of the hog which found the composition. The animal gulped it down with a relish and in a few minutes began to froth and snapped and snarled at everything in sight.

In the barnyard it bit at the heels of a horse, which made a vicious kick and hit the wild-acting swine squarely in the side. An explosion followed that was deafening. The hog was torn to shreds and small bits of flesh were plastered up against the barn and outhouse on every side, while the horse escaped without a scratch.

A Pair of Laconians.

Dr. Abernethy, the famous Scotch surgeon, was a man of few words, but he once met his match in a woman. She called at his house in Edinburgh one day and showed a hand badly inflamed and swollen, when the following dialogue, opened by the doctor, took place: "Burn?" "Bruise." "Poultice." The next day the woman called again, and the dialogue was as follows: "Better?" "Worse." "More poultice." Two days later the woman made another call, and this conversation occurred: "Better?" "Well. Fee?" "Nothing," exclaimed the doctor. "Most sensible woman I ever met!"

A Profitable Earthquake.

Earthquakes occasionally profit mankind as in the case of Ouzoun-Ada, a port of the Caspian, which is the starting-point of the Trans-Caspian Railway of Samarkand. The port of the town was visited by an earthquake and since then it has been found open to steamers which could not enter it before, owing to the shallow water.—Tid-Bits.

Versed in His Mother's Method.

Neighbor: "Bertie, your mother is calling you."

Bertie: "Yes'm, I know it; but I fancy she don't want me very bad."

Neighbor: "She has called you seven times already."

Bertie: "Yes, I know; but she hasn't called 'Albert' yet."—Tid-Bits.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings marring them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

NAZAIRE SURVIVORS

Sixteen of Those Aboard the Ill-fated Steamer Reach Port.

TELL A STORY OF AWFUL SUFFERING

Rescued from Their Small Boat by the Yanariva After Thirteen of Their Number Had Gone Mad and Plunged Into the Sea.

Greenock, March 29.—The report that the steamer Yanariva, a British tramp vessel from Newport News, Va., for Glasgow, had picked up some of the survivors of the foundered French steamer St. Nazaire turns out to be correct. The Yanariva arrived here last evening and reported that she had rescued sixteen of those who had been on the ill-fated steamer and who had taken to a small boat just before the St. Nazaire went down off Cape Hatteras during a heavy gale. The lookout on the Yanariva sighted a small boat some distance from her displaying a signal of distress. She bore down to the boat and soon had the survivors on board, where everything possible was done for their comfort. As soon as the rescued people were able to give the details of the disaster that had befallen the St. Nazaire they told a story that agreed in all its material details with the report of the foundering of the steamer cabled here from the United States. The boat which the Yanariva picked up had contained twenty-nine persons, but when the steamer sighted it there were only sixteen alive in it, the others having died from the effects of exposure and hunger. The survivors were exhausted when they were rescued, and if the Yanariva had not seen the boat they would all have been dead in a short time. The Yanariva saw nothing of the other boats which left the St. Nazaire.

A Most Pitiable Spectacle.

Capt. Weston, the master of the Yanariva, modestly tells a very graphic story of the rescue. He says that on March 18, eight days after he left Newport News, it was reported to him that a dark object, apparently flying a signal of distress, could be seen some distance off. He at once scrutinized it through a marine glass and thought he saw living persons in a boat. He at once gave orders to the man at the wheel to change the course of the steamer so that she would run down to the windward of the boat. When the Yanariva approached the boat it was seen that there were sixteen persons in her. The weather was rough and it was a delicate task to bring the boat under the lee of the steamer. Those in the boat could render almost no assistance in effecting their own rescue. Finally, despite the rough sea, the boat was brought alongside and lines were thrown to those in her and they were hauled on board. The survivors presented a most pitiable spectacle. Their faces were wan and haggard, their eyes were bulging from their sockets, and their scant clothing hung about them in loose folds. All were in a condition of the greatest exhaustion, and were unable to stand when they reached the deck of the Yanariva. Two of the number had lost their reason from the terrible sufferings they had endured, and they had to be restrained by the men on the steamer. The boat had left the St. Nazaire in such haste that she had not been properly provisioned. In fact, there was only a small tin of biscuits aboard.

Went Mad and Jumped into the Sea.

In an interview with one of the officers he described the capsizing or smashing of the boats when they were attempting to leave the St. Nazaire. When the boat in which the survivors were found was launched Second Captain Nicolai took command of her. The weather was extremely rough, and continued so for several days. A sail was rigged and Capt. Nicolia managed to keep her running dead before the wind. This, though a dangerous manœuvre, was the only thing possible to do under the circumstances, as to have kept the boat on any other point of sailing would have resulted in her being swamped. As it was the combing seas followed close upon the stern of the boat and every moment threatened to break aboard and fill her. The water constantly poured over the gunwales, and every soul in the boat was drenched to the skin. The water was bailed out with caps, and this exercise undoubtedly saved the lives of some of the hapless men, for otherwise they might have frozen to death. The salt encrusted on their faces and hands caused much pain. The suddenness with which it was necessary to abandon the St. Nazaire prevented any attempt being made to put a supply of water in the boat. Some of the men withstood the tortures of thirst as long as it was possible for human nature to do so. Then, maddened by the torture to which they were subjected, they drank sea water. Their agony was then worse than ever, and in a short time they went mad and jumped into the sea. The strongest of the men refrained from putting the sea water into their mouths, and prevented by force some of the others from doing so.

Hope Almost Abandoned.

Words cannot express the agony that was experienced by all. Day after day they vainly scanned the heaving breast of the ocean for sight of a sail. Gulls flying close to the sea, or the breaking top of a wave were frequently mistaken for a gleam of canvass, and finally all hands almost abandoned hope of ever being picked up. On the morning of March 18 the smoke of a steamer was seen streaming in along line in the distant horizon. For a long time it could not be determined what course she was steering, and the men were fairly frantic with fear lest she should not sight them. The steamer was too far away to allow of a signal from the boat being seen. Ultimately the topmasts, lower masts and then the hull of the steamer came up in full view, and then a signal was set. The men were now maddened with anxiety. At one moment the boat would be on the top of a sea, when the steamer would be observed, and then she would sink into the trough and the steamer would be lost to view. Finally their anxiety turned to hope and then to certainty, for it was seen that the steamer was steering for them. Those who were saved had no knowledge of the fate of those who had left the St. Nazaire in the other boats, but before they parted company with the captain's boat they frequently saw those in her dropping corpses overboard. Many of those in the boat seemed to be raving mad.

The Survivors.

After three days of the best care possible to give the rescued people with the meagre facilities of the steamer all of them were able to partake of solid food. Thereafter they progressed favorably, but have not yet fully recovered from the effects of the ir terrible experience. The survivors are: Pierre Nicolai, second captain; Germain Giraud, second engineer; P. Laurenzetti, third engineer; all belong in Marseilles. Nicolas Sauvenel, Cuban, a passenger, and twelve sailors belonging to Martinique.

PAPAL DELEGATE TO CANADA.

Mgr. Del Val's Mission One of Great Importance and Difficulty.

New York, March 29.—Mgr. Merry Del Val, papal delegate to Canada, who arrived here on the steamship Umbria yesterday, will probably not leave for Montreal and Manitoba before tomorrow. His mission is to act as arbitrator, it is said, on the complicated question that exists there between the bishops of the Catholic church and the premiers of Canada and Manitoba on the parochial schools. It is said that Mgr. Del Val comes here with the fullest ecclesiastical authority, even to the extent of deposing those of the Catholic church who may refuse to accept any decision he may make in the Catholic school question which is now agitating Manitoba and Canada. The time at his disposal for the adjustment of such an important question as the Canadian school proposition is limited, as he is said to be the pope's personal representative in London at the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria, which occurs in June. Mgr. Merry Del Val is the oldest son of the present Spanish ambassador at the vatican. He is 35 years old and was born in Spain, his mother being an English woman. He was educated by the English Jesuits while his father was the Spanish ambassador to the court of St. James. He is said to have a strong personal friend in Cardinal Vaughan and is secretary of the commission appointed by the pope for the reunion of the dissentient churches which aims at the gathering of all Protestant denominations into the church of Rome. At one time he was a member of the papal commission which denounced the ordinations of the Church of England.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Numerous Important Measures To Come Up for Consideration This Week.

Albany, March 29.—Numerous important matters will come up for the consideration of the senate this week. The anti-trust bills of the Lexow trust investigating committee have already passed the assembly, and it is expected they will be considered in the senate on Wednesday in general orders. The bill prohibiting the desecration of the United States flag or its use for advertising purposes will come up in the senate to-morrow. The bills amending the ballot and primary election laws are yet to be formulated by the senate judiciary committee. Assemblyman Bondy expects to revive the senate bill providing free transportation on the railroads of the state for state officials. To-morrow he will move that the vote by which the bill was lost a couple of weeks ago on final passage, be reconsidered. It is thought the bill will pass and be sent to the governor for his action. The assembly is well up in its work compared with other sessions. The senate can usually clear its calendars by holding a few long sessions. The following summary shows the condition of the work of the assembly up to date, compared with the session of last year: Assembly bills passed, 1896, 319; 1897, 421. Senate bills passed, 1896, 53; 1897, 104.

Dog Fight Raided.

Nashua, N. H., March 29.—A dog fight for a purse of $400 between two noted dogs owned by Lowell parties was to have occurred in South Nashua at an early hour Sunday morning. About thirty-six persons were present and the dogs were in the hands of the holders when officers surrounded the place and captured twenty-four men and one of the dogs. Officer Rogers brought John Hilland to a stop with a light bullet in the leg. The prisoners were each fined $15 and costs.

Bad Sealing Year.

St. Johns, N. F., March 29.—News from the east coast sealing fleet has been received. Out of sixteen steamers fishing in the North Aslantic eleven have been heard from, whose combined catches have been only 21,000 seals, less than a load for one steamer. This is the worse record for 100 years.

Heavy Loss by Fire at Portsmouth, Va.

Norfolk, Va., March 29.—It is now estimated that yesterday's fire at Portsmouth destroyed property valued at over $150,000. Among the property destroyed was a Catholic church, two public halls and twenty-seven dwellings. As a result of the conflagration, 200 persons are homeless.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Benjamin O. Bowers, of Franklin place, is riding a '97 Liberty wheel.

Mrs. Robert Pound, of East Second street, has purchased a ladies' Wolfe American bicycle from A. M. Griffin.

Dr. Carman of Franklin place, has just received a new Keating wheel which he will ride during the coming season.

Charles H. Hall, the popular Watchung avenue druggist, is riding a '97 Spalding purchased from W. H. Rogers.

Nathan E. Lewis, of West Eighth street, has a new Columbia wheel which he christened on his first spin by running a tack in the tire.

The roads were in excellent condition for riding, Saturday, but there were very few out to enjoy them. The strong north-west wind was too much for them for while riding with the wind at the back was all right, it was almost impossible to push against it.

The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company are offering compressed air free to their patrons now as in former years. Connection has been made with the shop on the other side of the street by pipe and the apparatus for filling the tires is to be found close by the entrance.

The Gould and Randolph Cycle Company, 326 Park avenue, Clifton building, have just received a shipment of "The Victor" wheel for '97. They claim this wheel is finer this year than ever before. Visitors or intending purchasers are invited to call. Closed Saturdays; open Sundays.

Dr. Lewis Preaching in Brooklyn.

The pulpit of the Park Congregational church, Brooklyn, has been filled during the past week by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city. The pastor of the above church has been ill and Dr. Lewis very kindly consented to assist in the pastoral work of the church. At the church last evening a very fine musical service was rendered by the choir of the church.

HOME MISSIONS.

Special Service in the Congregational Church Yesterday.

Home Missionary Sunday was observed at the Congregational church yesterday morning. A handsome American flag draped the reading desk, a generous collection was taken for the benefit of the Home Missionary Board, and an unusually interesting missionary talk was given by Miss M. Dean Moffett, who has been engaged in mission work in our great cities, in the country districts of New England, and in the west. Her talk was chiefly about the different classes of people among whom the home Missionary Society works; the people in the tenement house districts of the great cities, where they live in such fashion as is almost beyond the imagination of those in comfortable homes; the dwellers in the country districts of New England, where everyone is popularly supposed to attend church, but where many families regard Sunday as no different from any other day, and house-to-house visitors find a fruitful field; and the great, half-settled west, with its thousands who have never heard the Gospel, its outlaws, its cowboys, and its immense churchless areas. Miss Moffett spoke in a very bright and earnest manner, and thoroughly interested her large audience.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Alhambra Club Entertained.

The members of the Alhambra Club and their friends were entertained on Saturday evening by the Misses Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, in honor of their guest, Miss Florence L. Spaulding, of Bound Brook. A very pleasant evening was spent.

—At present there are only thirteen patients at the hospital. This is the smallest number under treatment at the above place for some time past.

We ask you to call and look over our new Carpets. We say new carpets for we had to buy an entire new line. We have what is beyond all question the largest assortment, and best selected patterns ever shown in Plainfield Carpets are cheaper at present than they have ever been, and much cheaper than they will be if the tarriff be revised. If you need carpets, we suggest that you make some sacrifice (if necessary) and buy this spring while prices are down.

We had to buy new Oilcloths and Linoleums also, and prettier patterns in better goods you never saw. We bought Mattings on the water and the stormy weather has delayed them somewhat, but we don't regret that so much, for we bought them at wonderfully low prices. They are coming in every day now. We make and hang shades, poles and etc. Make over and relay carpets and etc. All work done skillfully and promptly.

WORLD'S OLDEST MAN.

NOAH RABY SAYS HE WILL CELEBRATE HIS 125TH BIRTHDAY APRIL 1.

He Has Lived Eighty-four Years in New Jersey and Been a Public Charge of Piscataway Township for Thirty Years.

Few people attain to the age of a century, but to have reached a century and a quarter is beyond the hopes of almost everybody. This distinction is claimed by Noah Raby, an inmate of the poor farm of Piscataway township, which is located about six miles from this city. Raby claims that he is the oldest man in the world, and asserts that tomorrow he will be 125 years old. Whether or not he is correct in the age he claims, he is certainly a remarkable old man, as the story of his life will prove.

It was about eighty-four years ago according to his recollection, that Noah Raby, ordinary seaman, received his discharge papers from the man-of-war Brandywine, which had just finished a cruise of the principal American ports. The day after he left the naval service Raby came to New Jersey, and since that time he has spent his time within the confines of the State. For more than half a century, with more or less steadiness, Raby followed the occupation of a farm hand, and then, about thirty years ago, he settled down at the poor farm, where he has been ever since.

Here he sits in a comfortable armchair in the sitting room of Henry G. Hummer, the overseer, calmly waiting for the summons that will call him from this world where he has spent so many years. The old man is totally blind, but his eyes, though sunken, have the sparkle of perfect sight. His body is slightly bent, but the muscles of his arms and legs are as firm as many a man of forty. He has no teeth and in talking his words are emitted with a wierd whistling accompaniment.

His voice is still strong and his laugh is full and hearty. His hair is white and long, but his beard is iron gray. Raby is positive that his father was an Indian, but his features are of a pure Caucasian type and his skin is perfectly white.

The old man talks with a strong Southern accent. He has some difficulty in remembering dates, but is positive about the length of time spent in various places.

"Uncle Noah" sleeps fairly well, but has to do so sitting in a chair to prevent a rush of blood to his head. His mind is wonderfully alert, and he emphasizes many statements by exclaiming "certain, sir." His diet is very plain, consisting of bread and milk and a little boiled fish occassionally. His general health is good. When he was at his best Raby weighed 130 pounds, but now he weighs less than a hundred pounds. On pleasant days in summer he walks as far as the well in the back yard by means of a wire stretched from the back door to the well curb.

Mr. Hummer, the overseer, has known Mr. Raby more than half a century. He is firmly convinced that the old man is at least 100 years old, if he has not attained to the great age he claims. Farmers in the immediate neighborhood are familiar with the life history of this old man and have great confidence in his story. Many of them call to see him from time to time to bring him little delicacies prepared by their wives, and his birthday is never permitted to pass without many tokens of remembrance from his many friends.

Peter Working Miracles.

The devotional exercises at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon were conducted by Mrs. Powlison, and the lesson was taught by Miss Beeching. The subject was "Peter Working Miracles," and Miss Beeching used the sand map to illustrate the points of the lesson. The latter part of the meeting was devoted to a consecration service, which was in charge of Mrs. Baker. The attendance was very encouraging and the interest was great.

Operated On at the Hospital.

Miss Edna Randolph, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Randolph, of Central avenue, went to the hospital today to have a growth removed from her nose. The operation will be performed this afternoon by Dr. Ard, assisted by the medical staff. The patient has been troubled for sometime with her breathing and an operation was deemed best.

The Dog to Blame

Abner Bartlett, of Westervelt avenue, has been confined to his home for several days on account of an accident he received Friday morning while running to the fire on South avenue. A small dog ran directly in his path and tripped him up. Mr. Bartlett fell cutting his knee severely and spraining his back.

HOSPITAL'S BUSY MONTH.

REPORTS RECEIVED BY THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

Nineteen Persons Cured During the Month at the Institution—Those Who Assisted in the Production of "Caste," Thanked.

The regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held last evening. The meeting was a comparatively short one as there was not a great deal of business to be transacted. A resolution was offered and unanimously adopted, in which all those who assisted in the presentation of "Caste," for the benefit of the hospital, were thanked. This includes the stage manager and his assistants and those who gave donations of any kind. Each one will receive personally a copy of the resolution.

The managing committee, who had charge of the erection of the Nurses' Home, made a report stating that the home was completed and in use. The report also gives a list of the donors to the home and those who assisted in its erection.

During the past month the total number of patients treated at the hospital was 26. There was discharged cured 19, and 3 were discharged improved. The number of deaths were 3. One of the latter lived only twenty-four hours, while the other, Mrs. McNair, of Scotch Plains, was brought to the hospital fatally burned. In the dispensary department the number of patients treated were 40, and the number of visits 93. The past month has been the busiest for sometime and it is seldom that so many are treated during that length of time.

The balance of the meeting was devoted to the transaction of routine business and the meeting adjourned about 9 o'clock.

JOHN RISBERG RELEASED

NO EVIDENCE TO HOLD HIM FOR MARY NOBLE'S DEATH.

Mrs. Francisco Retracted Her Plea of Not Guilty and Entered One of Non Vult—She Was Remanded for Sentence.

John Risberg, of this city, who has been held as an accomplice for the death of Mrs. Mary Noble, formerly of this city, was released on Saturday in Newark and came to Plainfield yesterday. This morning he was met by a Daily Press reporter, and to him he was free to talk concerning his confinement. He said that after the most severe examination by the county officials it was learned that there was not the slightest evidence to hold him for trial. He claims that he is innocent of any of the charges preferred against him, and is inclined to feel that there are some people in this city who have not been friendly toward him and that they were very anxious that he should be prosecuted.

When all was in readiness for the trial of Mrs. Amelia Francisco in the Court of Quarter Sessions at Newark yesterday, the accused, acting in accordance with the advice of her counsel, again changed her mind and entered a plea of non volt. The jurors and witnesses were accordingly discharged and the woman, who was charged with a high misdemeanor, growing out of the death of Mrs. Mary Noble, of this city, was remanded for sentence.

It was alleged that she gave to Mrs. Noble some powders for a criminal purpose, and that as a result the woman died. Mrs. Francisco subsequently made and signed a confession. Her indictment followed, but when she was brought to court last week to plead she caused general surprise by denying the charge.

Her case was then put down for trial yesterday, but before witnesses were heard the prisoner's counsel, Frank M. McDermitt, advised her to plead non vult, and she did so at once.

Dispute About Rent.

The McDermotts, of Terrill road, were in court again, yesterday afternoon, or at least, Mrs. McDermott was. She was the plaintiff in a landlord and tenant case in the court of Justice Newcorn, and was suing John McDonald for rent she alleged was due on the rooms he had rented on the Brisbane farm out Terrill road. The defence was conducted by City Judge DeMeza, lawyer for the defendant, who claimed that the lease of the house had been made with Martin McDermott and not Mary McDermott. Mrs. McDermott explained that the farm had passed from the hands of her husband to her and that she should get the rent. The lease showed no change in ownership and the Judge decided that she had no cause for action and the case was dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. Knox, of Leland avenue, have moved to Willow avenue, North Plainfield.

ROLLED ON TO VICTORY

CLEVELAND CYCLERS DEFEATED THE LYCEUM CYCLERS.

It Was the Last of a Series of Bowling Contests and Great Efforts Were Made to Win—The Rooters Were Out in Full Force.

There was an expression of sadness on the face of the Lyceum Cyclers last evening when they had concluded their two games with the Cleveland Cyclers on the Ulrich bowling alleys, for they expected to win both games. It was a five men contest and the former team had picked their best men. When the bowling commenced there was lots of enthusiasm, but as the contest continued the exuberance of spirit seemed to dwindle so far as the Lyceum team was concerned. Their supporters did not seem to have the heart to crow for their team. On the other hand the supporters of the Cleveland team yelled for all they were worth. Notwithstanding the fact that the latter team won both games the scores were not so large, and they did not have a great deal to crow about. In the main the contests were very tame, but the Clevelands won and that seemed to be the point aimed for.

The attendrnce was very large and much interest was manifested on the part of all. The fact that none of the men have a great deal of time to bowl accounts in a great measure for the small scores. The highest score, 164, was made by Young, and this is due to the amount of time he puts in practicing. Reville made the next highest score, 163. The rest of the men put up good scores and all bowled good. Below will be found the scores of the two games:

FELL IN FRONT OF A CAR

A Young Boy Jolted Out of a Wagon and Severely Bruised.

A little lad, whose name is not known, met with a serious accident on East Fifth street, yesterday morning. The lad was standing up in a passing wagon, when the wagon was turned to one side to allow the car to pass. The sudden jolt caused the boy to lose his balance and he fell directly over the side of the wagon in front of the car. G. M. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, happened to be passing at the time, and with the assistance of Willard M. Miner, of East Sixth street, the boy was carried into one of the neighboring houses to recover. He was stunned by the force of the fall. It was some time before the lad fully regained consciousness when he was left in the house to recover from the effects of the fall.

It was afterwards learned that the lad's name was Randolph and that he lived on Spooner avenue.

Saw Moving Pictures on Canvass.

An exhibition of Edison's projectascope was given in Alpaugh's hall, Bound Brook, last night, for the benefit of the Congregational church of that city. The hall was crowded The projectascope is on the same plan as the biograph, the cinematograph, the vitascope and a dozen others of the same order. The pictures were well chosen and included a number of new ones. This was the first time that any of those machines has been in Bound Brook and the affair proved very successful. It will be repeated this evening.

Henry Woodland and family, of Duer street, will move in a few days to Craig place, and will occupy the house formerly held by Mr. Porter and family.

INFLUENCE FOR GOOD

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON'S IDEA OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

He Urges the Common Council to Appropriate the Sum Asked for by the Directors—Of Much Use to the Students.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I notice that the trustees of the Public Library have again requested the Council to make an application to provide more room for that valuable institution. As a teacher, with special opportunities for knowing the value of the library in the work of educating a community, I wish through your columns to urge the granting of their request. In the country at large the public library is coming to be considered as second only to the school in its influence for good. Almost every town in Massachusetts supports one and is proud of its support. New York State spends large sums to extend library work; the western States are well nigh surpassing the east in the same work; and in many cities, large and small, appropriations are being made for this purpose. In our case we have a library already established and it is doing unusually strong work in connection with the schools. Its resources are used extensively by teachers and pupils, and scores of its books are taken into the class room for illustrating the school work. Thus the work is made more interesting and profitable, and the pupils are accustomed to using the books and so trained to patronize the library that they may become reading men and women who will not be satisfied with a daily diet of newspaper alone. The majority of the people have but little idea of the valuable work this institution is now doing for the uplifting of the city.

The Librarian has been very efficient and untiring in thus co-operating with the schools, but the conveniences are limited and the supply of books insufficient. An addition to the library would increase the possibilities of this work which means so much to the future of our citizens and is earnestly desired by all who are familiar with its value.

It is needed not only for the regular growth of the library and the promotion of its ordinary work; but it is also needed for the utilization of the liberal bequest made by the late George H. Babcock. It is a mistake to assume that because this bequest is to be used in the purchase of scientific books it is of no interest to this city. The field of science is very broad and there are hundreds of books in that field that would be of the highest value and interest even to the pupils in our Grammar Schools, much more to those in the High School. Not only that, but the use of this bequest would set free the money now spent on science from the regular appropriation and would thus permit the expenditure of so much the more for books of literature and travel.

In addition, it does seem a pity that so large gift made to the city by a public-spirited man should be treated with so little appreciation. It cannot affect this giver, but it certainly offers no encouragement to any one else to imitate his example, and the city has not found an over-abundance of such men in the past. Sincerely yours,

H. M. Maxson.

A NEW SECRETARY CHOSEN.

George F. Brown Resigns His Duties With Borough Board of Education.

The members of the North Plainfield Board of Education met last evening in regular session. The resignation of George F. Brown, as district clerk, was very reluctantly received, and B M. Fountain was elected to fill the position. The members of the finance committee were directed to examine into the matter of a place to hold the High School commencement exercises and report at the next meeting.

The committee on supplies was instructed to secure some suitable design for the graduating class diplomas. This concluded the actual business transacted, and the rest of the evening was devoted to routine matters.

Dunellen Gun Club Shoot.

In a consignment of fish sent to Rogers, the sea-food man, last week, there was an alligator gar fish, four feet, nine inches long. It is now being mounted for Mr. Rogers by Frank Hedden.

FOREST FIRE RAGED.

THREATENED TO DESTROY THE CHILDREN'S SUMMER CAMP.

Thoughtless Children Started a Bonfire and It Spread Rapidly—Heroic Efforts of Hackman Patrick Keely Commended.

A fierce fire was raging on the mountains back of Netherwood last night, caused by some children who went off for a ramble in the woods and thoughtlessly built a fire, which rapidly spread among the dry underbrush and has covered over several miles of woodland, destroying much valuable timber.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Patrick Keely, the hackman, drove to the camp to see how much damage had resulted from the visit of the vandals. When he arrived there he found that the fire was burning very close to the building. If he had not arrived at the proper time the building would surely have been destroyed. At first Mr. Keely thought that he would come back to this city and send in an alarm of fire, but a second thought told him that before he could reach Plainfield and get the apparatus back to the fire the building would be destroyed. He then decided to remain and fight the flames as best he could. Being alone he had the greatest difficulty in saving the building. The fire was burning fiercely and he battled with the flames for several hours before he succeeded in extinguishing them so that the building was safe.

It is to be regretted that at this time of the year so much trouble should come to the summer camp for children, for in a short time the camp was to be opened. The damage wrought by the vandals will make it necessary that considerable work be done before the camp will be ready for use.

CITY WILL DO ITS SHARE

TOWARDS ENTERTAINING THE SECOND NEW JERSEY BRIGADE.

Proposed to Rent the Cycle Academy to Accommodate the Crowd That Will Want to Hear the Fine Addresses.

The attention of some of the city councilmen and the Mayor has been called to the intended visit of the Second New Jersey Brigade to this city April 9th, and they have been considering the advisability of securing the Cycle Academy for the occasion. Owing to the fact that it was the city who extended the invitation to this distinguised body of men they now feel as though the officials should take some hand in the matter of receiving and entertaining them while here for the day. It has been realized that Reform hall is too small for the event and as stated in The Daily Press there will be a large number of people who will want to hear the speeches of Gens. Sickles, Price, Russling and Stryker. It is considered a great honor to have these noted men here and every effort will be made to give them a good time and one equal to the occasion. At the next meeting of the city council it is expected that something will be done in an official way toward preparing for the coming of the Brigade. A large number of people have responded generously to the appeal for funds and the arrangements for the event are nearing completion.

OAKUM MADE LOTS OF SMOKE.

Caddie Set Fire to the Material in Galbraith & Walsh's Shop.

About 10 o'clock this morning the fire department was called out in response to an alarm sent from box 21 by Edward Martin, porter at the North Avenue station. The latter heard a young man on the avenue calling fire at the top of his voice and this led him to pull the box. The fire was in the cellar of the building occupied by Galbraith & Walsh, plumbers, and it was caused by a quantity of oakum being set on fire from the light of a candle in the hands of Wm. Maher, an employee, who was searching about the cellar for a piece of leather. The action of heat on the oakum is very rapid, and it was not long before the cellar and store was filled with smoke.

The chemical arrived quickly and a line of hose was taken into the cellar where, in a few minutes, the flames were extinguished without the aid of water.

A quantity of the oakum was burned and some of the beams were slightly scorched. The total damage will be very slight.

A Varied Entertainment.

The last of the series under the management of the University Extension course at the Irving School, will take place this evening. It will consist of a vocal and instrumental concert, ventriloquilism and sleight of hand tricks, etc. The single admission will be 10 cents. Seats will be reserved for the holders of course tickets until 7:45 p. m.

DEFIED THE CONSTABLE.

OFFICER WOULDN'T SHOW HIS AUTHORITY AND WAS IGNORED.

Claimed to Have a Writ of Attachment on Goods in Expressage—Goods Sent to Their Destination Just the Same.

A local representative of the civil law and the Plainfield manager of the United States Express Company met with rather exciting resul s, last evening, which finally ended in the household goods, which Constable Rockafellow says that he was trying to attach, being placed aboard the train and sent to their destination. The constable lays the blame on Manager E. W. Mills, of the Express Company, but Mr. Mills and a number of witnesses of the trouble say that Rockafellow refused to show his authority by which he wished to detain the goods.

John and Mary Thompson have lived at 669 Essex street. They lived in a simple way and purchased their clothing from L. Sternburg and Co., on the installment plan. Yesterday, one of their neighbors went to A. Aaron, manager of the firm in this city, and told him that the Thompsons were quietly preparing to decamp with their household effects and did not intend to notify their creditors. At hearing this, Mr. Aaron was considerably affected and set about to take steps to hold the property until he could collect the amount due to the firm by the Thompsons, which amounted in all to $22.57. The neighbor also said that a portion of the goods had been sent away early in the afternoon by express and that the rest would go out on the 8:30 train in the evening.

Mr. Aaron went to Justice Newcorn, and the latter issued a writ of attachment to hold the goods until the case of Sternberg & Co. against Thompson could be tried. The case was started to recover the amount due. The writ was placed in the hands of Constable Rockafellow to serve.

When the Constable arrived at the station, the goods were on one of the Express Company's trucks ready to be loaded on the train. One of the employes of the company was there and to him Rockafellow explained his errand and the man allowed the Constable to make an inventory of the effects.

Manager Mills and the train arrived on the scene at nearly the same time. Mr Mills ordered his men to put the goods in the express car when Rockafellow strenuously objected. Then there was trouble. Mr. Mills says that he asked Rockafellow for his authority and that the constable refused to show him any, so Mr. Mills felt justified in his determination that the goods should go.

Constable Rockafellow, finding that his protestatations were of no avail, attempted to seize the goods bodily. Now it happened that several bags of United States mail were lying on the pile of furniture. The constable started to move them when Mail Messenger Frazee rose up in all his dignity and warned the Constable not to lay hands on Uncle Sam's property unless he was looking for trouble. Then Mr. Mills ordered his men to put the goods in the car. Constable Rockafellow wanted to arrest Mills and all the other men but they pushed him one side and despite his struggles, the goods were safely landed in the car and the train pulled out leaving an exceedingly wrathy Constable behind.

With threats of vengeance, the Constable repaired to the office of Justice Newcorn to tell how he had been baffled and to get the necessary papers to arrest Mr. Mills. The Justice had a little talk with the Manager and heard his side of the story and then decided not to issue any warrants.

Mr. Aaron went to Jersey City late last evening and had a writ of attachment served on the goods.

DIED IN CANADA.

Remains of Mrs. P. J. Voorhis, Formerly a Resident of This City, Buried Here.

The death is announced of Mrs. P. J. Voorhis at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John L. Galletti, at Lachire, Canada, March 22. She was once a resident of this city, the widow of the late Peter J. Voorhis, sister of David D. Smalley, of 33 Manning avenue, and a sister-in law of Peter E. See of Somerset street. The remains were brought to this city last Thursday morning for interment in Evergreen Cemetery, beside her late husband and children, and were met at the depot by her relatives and by her former pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and taken directly to the cemetry. The deceased leaves a daughter, Mrs. Galetti, of Canada, and a son, Edward L. Voorhis, of Philadelphia.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will hold their sociable on Friday evening in Vincent chapel. The sociable was postponed from last Thursday evening.

Rates of New Tariff Bill To Take Effect April 15.

PRESENT PLAN OF HOUSE LEADERS

They Declare Such a Provision Would Be Constitutional and the Proposition Will Be Sprung To-day.

Washington, March 30.—Both houses of congress started in to-day enthusiastically with the intention of making progress and of disposing of some of the great mass of important work on the calendars, so that the day of final adjournment may be brought into sight. The tariff bill will be voted on by the house to-morrow at 3 o'clock and will pass by a party vote and be reported to the senate on Thursday. Debate is how proceeding under the five-minute rule as the bill is considered by paragraphs; but no amendments are being adopted except those proposed by the ways and means committee. The democrats offer opposition to each paragraph as read, and this will result in making it impossible to consider more than a third of the bill between now and the time for taking the final vote to-morrow. The report, which was at first characterized as a scarecrow, that the house leaders were seriously considering the advisability of making the law retroactive by providing that the new rate of duties shall take effect on April 15, proves to be correct. A member of the committee on ways and means said this morning that the committee had approved the recommendation of the sub-committee and that to-day a motion would be made to add a new section to the bill making the new duties operative as to all imports after the 15th of April. He stated that the correctness of the principle involved had been upheld by the supreme court of the United States in numerous decisions and exemplified in many state laws. There was nothing, he said, in the constitution which would prevent congress from creating a lien against imports after a certain date, for the difference between the rate of duty then prevailing and that which might be later imposed. And any importer who brought goods into this country, or any one who purchased goods from an importer after congress had given notice of its intention to create such a lien, could be held responsible for the payment of the amount involved.

Dissatisfaction Among the Majority.

The rumored dissatisfaction among majority members with the schedules of the bill was manifested yesterday when Messrs. McCall and Lovering of Massachusetts protested against the high rates of duty imposed in the woolen and cotton schedules. The former said it was the woolen schedule in the McKinley bill that had caused the reaction against the protective system resulting in the loss of the house, the senate and the presidency. Mr. Lovering declared that the manufacturers of Massachusetts did not want the high rases, but asked a tariff that would stand. The provisions of the bill were defended by Messrs. Grosvenor of Ohio, Russell of Connecticut and Dingley of Maine. The former said the woolen schedule was a reproduction of that in the McKinley law, under the operation of which that industry reached its highest degree of prosperity. Another outbreak was that by Mr. Johnson, rep., Ind., who wanted to amend some schedules which he said were not likely to be reached because of the irrelevant debate. He so persisted in talking despite the commands of the chairman, Mr. Sherman, rep., N. Y., that the committee rose and the chairman reported that the committee did so in order that the rules of the house might be enforced. Mr. Johnson disclaimed any intention of being unruly and without specific action the house went into committee again. The changes then made were of slight importance.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Senate To Consider Another Important Batch This Afternoon.

Washington, March 30.—The following nominations by the president will be favorably acted upon by the senate, probably this afternoon: Charlemagne Tower of Pennsylvania, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Austria-Hungary. William S. Shellenberger of Pennsylvania, to be second assistant postmaster-general. James D. Bill of Massachusetts, to be collector of internal revenue for the Third district of Massachusetts. Henry Clay Evans of Tennessee, to be commissioner of pensions: Anson Burlingame Johnson of Colorado, to be consul of the United States at Fuchan, China. Thomas Ryan of Kansas, to be first assistant secretary of the interior.

Valuable Historical Papers Recovered.

Washington, March 30.—A number of valuable historical papers stolen from the congressional library have been recovered in New York. The most valuable was General Braddock's journal or orderly book, written by his aide, Col. George Washington, from February to June, 1755. The original of a circular letter of farewell written by Washington to the governors of the several states on his retirement from public life is also in the collection. The papers recovered include letters from Benedict Arnold, John Adams, Lafayette, Ethan Allen, Monroe, Jefferson, De Witt Clinton, John Paul Jones and Oliver Wolcott.

The President's Public Reception.

Washington, March 30.—More than 2,000 people shook hands with President McKinley yesterday afternoon.

Get all You can

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion, and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties and the fat found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable, and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified; that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all?

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Just as Good is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

Crescent Bicycles

Enthusiastic Riders.

The enthusiasm of Crescent riders is what causes the enormous sales of Crescent Bicycles—70,000 Crescents sold in 1896.

Crescents are the handsomest bicycles made, with tested improvements that make them the strongest, swiftest, simplest and most durable.

Crescent prices are right—not a dollar added for the reputation that assures their quality—and these prices are the same to everyone—$75, $50, $40.

AGAINST FIGHT PICTURES.

Hoar's Bill Reported Favorably in the Senate---Heavy Penalties

Washington, March 30.—Senator Hoar, rep., Mass., from the judiciary committee, reported favorably the bill to prevent the use of the kinetoscopic exhibitions of prize-fights in the District of Columbia or the territories. It also prohibits mailing of prize-fight pictures or their receipt from common carriers. Heavy penalties are provided. As reported the second section is material changed and the bill in its new form is as follows: Be it enacted, etc., that it shall be unlawful for any person or persons or corporation to exhibit in the District of Columbia or the territories by means of biograph, vitascope, kinetoscope, or any kindred device or machine, any picture of such a pugilistic encounter or fight as is forbidden by the act of congress entitled "an act to prohibit prize fighting," and so forth, approved February 7, 1896. Section 2. That it shall be unlawful to send by mail or to send in any manner from any state, territory, or the District of Columbia, or to bring into this country from any foreign country any picture or pictures or other material to be used in such exhibitions as are described in the preceding section or knowingly to receive such materials from mails or any common carrier engaged in interstate commerce. Section 3. That any person who shall violate any provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000.

PROFESSORS OF MATHEMATICS.

Henry M. Paul and George A. Hill To Be Appointed by the President.

Washington, March 30.—The president will appoint Henry M. Paul and George A. Hill as professors of mathematics in the navy, thus filling two of the most sought civilian life appointments for which vacancies now exist. These names have just been certified to Secretary Long after exhaustive examination. Both men are now on duty at the naval observatory in Washington. Mr. Hill was appointed an expert computer in the Nautical Almanac office August 5, 1892, on account of his scientific attainments and mathematical ability. Mr. Paul became an assistant astronomer at the observatory July 15, 1875, after winning in a competitive examination. He accepted the chair of astronomy in the Imperial Japanese university at Tokio in 1883, but returned to duty at the naval observatory in 1888.

APPLICANTS FOR OFFICE.

45,623 Letters Received by the Postoffice Department in One Week.

Washington, March 30.—A report for the week ending March 27 last, made by the appointment division of the postoffice department on mail matter received, gives an indication of the number of applications for postoffices that are being forwarded from all parts of the country. For the week mentioned there were 45,623 letters, an increase over the previous week of 20,460. Since the appointment of Mr. Bristow as fourth assistant postmaster general the mail has increased, especially from Kansas. When he assumes his duties it is expected the applications will increase over the present rate.

To Annex Hawaii.

Washington, March 30.—Representative Spaulding of Michigan has introduced in the house a joint resolution providing for the annexation of Hawaii. This is the plan of the administration for accomplishing the result which it is feared might fail if attempted through the medium of a treaty of annexation. Senator Frye will have charge of the matter in the senate.

Rate Trust Hearing.

Washington, March 30.—The attorney-general will move on Thursday next in the supreme court of the United States to advance the New York case involving the same principles as the trans-Missouri railroad traffic pooling case, so as practically to insure a rehearing of the important points involved in the decision before the supreme court of the United States.

Former Ambassadors Coming Home.

London, March 30.—Wayne MacVeagh, the retiring United States ambassador to Italy, with his wife and daughter, will sail from Southampton for New York on April 10 on the steamship New York. Thomas F. Bayard, late United States ambassador to the court of St. James, with his family, will sail for New York either on May 8 or May 15.

Public Advertisements.

Trenton, March, 30.—A bill introduced in the senate last night by Mr. Francis provides that boards of freeholders in second class counties shall designate two newspapers, one of each party, to publish monthly statements of the county receipts and expenditures each year.

Panama Canal Scandal.

Paris, March 30.—The chamber of deputies, by a unanimous vote, has suspended the right of parliamentary immunity in the cases of deputies Naquet, Boyer and Maret, against whom the public prosecutor began proceedings on Saturday for complicity in the Panama canal scandal.

Silver Dollars and Fractional Coin.

Washington, March 30.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and treasury offices for the week ended March 27 was $401,900. The shipment of fractional silver coin from March 1 to 27 aggregated $679,989.80.

Spring Medicine

Experience teaches the importance of special care of the health.

And fixed among the important principles of hygiene and health is the acknowledged necessity of a good Spring Medicine.

Just as firmly established by the experiences of millions of people, is the positive fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is "far and away" the best blood purifier and spring medicine ever produced.

The necessity is found in the impure condition of the blood at this season, owing to the close confinement and breathing vitiated air in office, store, shop, house, schoolroom or factory; excessive eating and drinking too rich and hearty food; late hours and social indulgences. With the blood thus thick and impure, the machinery of life grinds hard.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, builds up and strengthens the nerves and tones the stomach. It oils up the machinery of the whole body; the liver takes up its work anew, the kidneys resume activity, the ache goes out of the back, the bowels are regulated, the appetite restored, the food is relished and assimilated.

Don't wait till you are thoroughly sick before you begin to take a Spring Medicine.

Lock the door before the horse is stolen.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now as a preventive and it will pay you a thousand fold in health and strength through the coming summer.

"We always take several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family every spring as a tonic and blood purifier and we find that it overcomes that tired feeling gives new life, and keeps us well all summer." WM. RINGEL, 813 5th Ave., Peoria, Illinois.

Excellent Spring Medicine.

"For a number of years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring, not for any particular ailment, but on general principle, that the system needs a tonic at this time, and I have always found Hood's Sarsaparilla a most excellent spring medicine." HAKON HAMMER, Engineer, Pottstown, Pennsylvania.

That Tired Feeling.

"I was troubled with that tired feeling all the spring. I purchased three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken about half of it I was feeling well again. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic." MISS ORA E. MORGAN, Busey, Illinois.

Builds up the Health.

"We take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a tonic in the spring. Two of our children had tonsilitis and their blood was in a bad condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla built them up, and we have taken it again this spring with much benefit." MRS. P. H. CAHOON, Pleasant Lake, Mass.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. There is no substitute for Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1, six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The One True Blood Purifier.

Prosperity

is impossible unless merit is its foundation. A century of paint making means a legacy of experience. The secret of the success of the Harrison brand Town and Country Ready-Mixed Paint is the employment of able talent, close attention to chemical principles, judicious experiments on a basis of white lead, zinc white, color and pure linseed oil. It is the brand that interests the painter because it stands unlimited brushing out, has unusual covering qualities, and resists all climatic changes. Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

WILD FOR BLOOD

SITUATION HOURLY MORE ALARMING.

Insurgents and Moslems Only Await Opportunities To Fly at Each Other's Throats—Conferences of the Admirals Productive of No Good.

Canea, March 30.—Each of the foreign admirals has asked his government to send six hundred troops in order that the insurgents may be held in subjection. There does not appear to be the slightest prospect in the near future of any improvement in the deplorable situation existing throughout the island. On the contrary the outlook appears darker now than it has at any previous time, and Moslems and Christians are ready to fly at each other's throats whenever the opportunity occurs. The conferences between the foreign admirals or their representatives and the insurgent leaders appear to be productive of no good results. Notwithstanding this, the admirals continue their efforts to arrive at some understanding with the insurgents which will lead to their laying down their arms and accepting the autonomy already proffered and refused. The latest attempt in this direction is the sending of the Russian consul at this place, who is well acquainted with the insurgent leaders, to hold another conference with them. A delegation of the insurgents arrived at Coube Sunday, and there awaited the coming of the Russian consul, who had been selected as a deputy to represent his colleagues. The Turkish officials had undertaken to inform the consul of the arrival of the rebel chiefs at Coube, but they did not do so. When the chiefs found that the consul was not coming they retired. Thereupon the Turkish soldiers fired upon the insurgents in the vicinity of the town, but the latter did not reply. The Turks then fired again, with a result that they had not anticipated. A large force of infuriated rebels swarmed down from the hills, and would probably have annihilated the Moslems had it not been for a strong detachment of bashi bazouks, who were dispatched from Retimo to the aid of their co-religionists. A general engagement took place, which lasted until darkness rendered further fighting useless. The Turks then retired to the town and the insurgents withdrew to the hills. The losses sustained are not mentioned.

CHEERS FOR CRETAN REBELS.

Irish Members of Parliament Applaud News of Their Attacks Upon the Turks.

London, March 30.—In the house of commons last night Rt. Hon. George N. Curzon, under foreign secretary, read a number of telegrams from the admiral commanding the British warships in Cretan waters. The admiral wired that the Cretan insurgents having refused to permit supplies of food to be sent to the Turkish force at Malaxa, an ultimatum was sent to them by the foreign admirals informing the insuagents that the supplies must be allowed to go to the Turks, otherwise the foreign warships and troops would resort to force to compel obedience to their demands. In the meantime, the admiral added, the insurgents captured the Turkish blockhouse at Malaxa. (Cheers from the Irish benches). The foreign admirals, the telegrams stated, then decided that it was necessary to drive the insurgents out of the blockhouse and, accordingly, the warships opened fire upon them. The firing lasted six minutes, at the end of which time the insurgents evacuated the blockhouse, but not before they had looted and burned it. (Renewed Irish cheers).

Disastrous Sealing Season.

St. Johns, N. F., March 30.—The steamer New Foundland with 15,000 seals and the Nimrod with 13,000 have just arrived. Their reports practically confirm former statements showing that two-thirds of the entire fishing fleet are without seals. Only one more laden ship, the Aurora, with 22,000 seals, is expected to-day. The remaining fifteen vessels will have but small fares, having missed the main herd of seals.

Populists To Address the People.

Washington, March 30.—The populist members of the house and senate are preparing an address to the people defining their position toward both the old parties. They object to being classed as democrats or republicans and their address will show that they are wholly separate and distinct from either party.

Government Aid for Flood Sufferers.

Washington, March 30.—A bill appropriating $250,000 to be expended in saving life and property endangered by the great floods in the Mississippi valley has been reported and passed by the senate. The house at once concurred in the bill, and the money is now available.

Gunboat Helena Earns $55,000 Bonus.

New London, Conn., March 30.—The gunboat Helena, by making on her trial trip on Long Island sound yesterday afternoon a speed of 15 8-10 knots, has earned for her builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding company, a bonus of $55,000.

STREET SPRINKLING.

Though few may realize it, street sprinkling is a problem that the Common Council will eventually have to take up in an effort to provide suitable service for such sections of the city as it seems imperative to have free from the dust blown by every passing summer breeze. The fact of the matter is that the need to have the business streets sprinkled, even at this time of the year, is evident, but it is delayed by the simple business proposition confronting P. M. French, who furnishes the service, that he cannot start his watering carts until those who are to be directly benefited are willing to pledge the necessary expense. Mr French says that it is with great difficulty that he secures enough signers who are willing to contribute a portion of the expense, an instance of which he relates in the fact that only one out of about every six of those in business on Park avenue are willing to pay their share for the service.

Now, it cannot be denied that in a progressive city, claiming, as Plainfield does, to be thoroughly up-to date, that obviating flying dust in the business streets in a season when open doors and windows are the rule, is a requirement that cannot be ignored. Whether or not there are sufficient merchants who are liberal enough to pay their pro rata share of benefit, the city must recognize the indispensibility of having the atmosphere, at least in the business section, free from the particles that are far from agreeable to have lodge on any other place than Mother Earth. There may come a time, then, that the authorities will be called upon to provide this service, and assess it in the general tax bill, in lieu of the contribution of individuals, as at present.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. H. S. Thatcher, of New street, is confined to her home with an attack of the grip.

DeWitt C. Ivins, of Hillside avenue, has returned from a several days business trip to New England.

Henry W. Brower, of East Sixth street, spent yesterday and today with his friend, William A. Fisher, of Bound Brook.

Henry B. Drake, of Duer street, was the guest of his old schoolmate, Frederick Coriell, of Bound Brook, last evening.

John J. Sharp, of 442 West Sixth street, was able to resume his labors at carriage making and repairing yesterday, after a compliment of two weeks to the house by illness.

Last Saturday evening Miss Grace Overton, of Rockview avenue, entertained a few friends at her home. The principal amusement was playing games, after which the guests enjoyed refreshments.

Thomas Minford, of Watchung avenue, who went south for health and pleasure a few weeks ago, has been registered at the Hotel Chamberlain, Fortress Monroe, and has now gone to Atlantic City, en route for home.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

Library Petitions.

Until Saturday afternoon, April 3d, petitions for the necessary alterations to the library building may be found at the following places: T. S. Armstron's, A. M. Griffen's, Mr. Hall's, Mr. Rowley's, Y. M. C. A. Library and the Public Library.

MR. JEFFERSON'S THUMB PRINTS.

A Unique Album in Which Many Notables are Represented.

Mr. Thomas Jefferson, son of Joseph Jefferson, the distinguished comedian, arrived in Baltimore yesterday from Washington with a singularly interesting autograph book. It is not that the book is so unique for the famous names it includes in its pages, but that it contains the thumb marks of several persons prominent in the political and dramatic histories of the country.

President and Mrs. Cleveland's thumb prints appear in the book and are striking examples of the singular difference that exists between thumbs, for it has been proved by scientists so interested that there are no two thumbs in the world possessed of similar marks. In the President's print the lines of the thumb are bold, positive and lengthy. It is near the first joint of the member that the circular lines begin to appear. In Mrs. Cleveland's print the lines also appear firm and bold, but the circular lines are much higher up toward the tip.

Francis Wilson shows his print in the book. According to an expert in such matters the lines indicate a nature truly humorous. There is nothing exactly positive about them, though nothing indicating weakness is revealed. But the lines are far from regular and are such as are naturally looked for in a person who constantly develops a versatile wit and droll conception of the incidents of life.

The Hon. Daniel Lamont, the Secretary of War, has impressed his thumb upon one page of the book, and his print is strong and full of character. It typifies candor, well mixed with deliberation and discretion and a jovial appreciation of the good things of this world.

In the play of "Pudd'nhead Wilson" a murderer is detected by his thumb print, upon which means of positive identification the hero of the piece is an enthusiast. This has been suggested by a scientist as the best and most certain way of identifying criminals and upheld as far more simple and direct than the Bertillon system now in general use throughout this country. Constant experiment has demonstrated that the marks on the thumb never change from infancy to old age. These marks are impossible of imitation, because they are too complicated in design, and it is impossible to destroy the marks on the thumb except by amputation. The use of the thumb-print in connection with signatures is already being advocated in Eastern States.

Mr. Jefferson is an enthusiast on the subject of the thumb print and its possibilities and importance in business transactions. Such is his earnestness that he has become known among other theatrical business men as a sort of crank. An advance agent, speaking of his enthusiasm recently, remarked: 'Jefferson has got the thumb-print idea bad. Have you heard the latest about him?'

"No," replied a friend; "what is it?"

"Why," was the reply, "every time he gets a room in a new hotel he examines the electric button to see whether a man or a woman pushed it last."

Business on Their Own Accounts.

Two Irishmen, fresh from the Emerald Isle, joined the police force, and during their first week's duty, they managed to secure a lot of cases, and, all of them being trifling offences, a large amount of money was taken in fines. They were just on the point of promotion when they resolved to leave. The superintendent was greatly surprised when they gave in their notices, and asked them what they intended doing, and if they could better themselves.

"Oh, yes," replied Pat, "for you see we are going to start a police-station on our own account. I am going to run them in, and Mike will inflict the fines."

The Photographic Social.

The season for church sociables in country towns is here again, and the search after some unique and orthodox method of attracting the members into this money making scheme has begun. The photographic social seems to be one of the latest, and every lady is requested to bring a photograph of herself taken in childhood. These are all shuffled together, and as each gentleman draws one he is expected to guess the original and rejoice in paying for her supper.

"NEW PLAINFIELD ENTERPRISE."

SENSIBLE SHOESHOP.

Four years ago I sold shoes in Plainfield. I went down into Connecticut. I made money there. I sold out. I wanted to get back to the best town on earth. I am back, and will throw open the doors for business Thursday, April first. Everything I have is new. I shall keep everything the foot can wear. All the good styles and sizes. I shall sell medium quality goods at lowest possible prices, and highest grade goods as low proportionately. I enter into competition with the best New York shoe stores, and will sell as good goods at as low, or lower, prices. Don't expect to do all the business, but an after all I can get. And why not? I shall have the best facilities for fitting special feet with special shoes, and no misrepresentation on anything. Want you to come and see me; want to renew old acquaintances, and get aquainted with everybody I don't know.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Misses Maier entertained company from Somerville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph have been visiting among friends at South Plainfield.

John Creamer and family have moved into Mrs. Taylor's house on Grove street.

The city poorhouse on West Front street is being remodeled, and when completed it will look like anything but a poor house.

The dry grass and rubbish about the round house was burned yesterday and the property presents a decidedly changed and charred appearance.

Snipe shooting is said to be good and plentiful on Frank Wynkoop's reserve. Gunners that love the sport will appreciate this simple announcement.

George Trimmer, who is building a new dwelling house on Walnut street, stored his funiture yesterday and took his family to Bound Brook to await the completion of the work.

Advices from Isaac Laing, who went to Colorado Springs for the benefit of his health, several weeks ago, state that he is doing nicely. The climate there he desibes as salubrious.

The bright mountain fires opposite Grant avenue were plainly seen from here, last night, and many persons watched the serpintine trail of fire from their windows and front stoops.

The main street through Dunellen is very dusty just at present. Yesterday's breezes sent clouds of dust scurrying through the air to be deposited in pedestrians' eyes, ears and nostrils.

Sparks from a passing train set fire to the dry, tall grass opposite the Chapot chamois factory on West Front street, yesterday, and the flames spread over half an acre of land before extinguished. There were no houses in the immediate vicinity.

W. H. Carman is mourning the loss of a valuable Irish setter dog. The animal died Sunday and had evidently been poisoned. It was only ailing for an hour. Mr. Carman was so attached to the canine that he says he would sooner have parted with his best horse than the dog.

The remains of the late Eva Giles Giddis, the bride of a few weeks of Arthur Giddis, who died at Port Richmond, S. I., on Saturday, were brought here today and the funeral obsequies will take place from the M. E. church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made at Plainfield.

A meeting of the anti-saloon advocates was held in the Presbyterian church parlors, last evening, to protest against the Scott liquor license, and with a view of having it revoked. The place, it is alleged, is an eye sore to the community, and will no longer be tolerated.

A free-for-all scrapping match took place in the lower end of the town Sunday night It was between two factions of a gang of laboring men who have quarters in that neighborhood, and was the result of an old misunderstanding. Fists were the first weapons of warfare, but finally a few fence rails were brought in requisition, and a considerable quantity of blood was spilled. The names of the fighters have been furnished the authorities, and arrests are daily expected.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

George H. Lyons and family of Front street will move April 1st to Mrs. Baker's cottage on Forest avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, of New Market, spent Sunday with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark.

Miss Cooper, of Westfield, who has conducted a class in delsarte and elocution here this winter, will give an entertainment in the hall on Thursday evening of this week.

A Junior C. E Association will be organized on Friday afternoon, in the chapel of the Baptist church. A cordial invitation is extended to all the young people whe wish to join.

The Berkley Heights stone crusher will start today or Wednesday. The cause of the delay in opening is that the necessary pump has not arrived, but it is expected in a day or two.

The road scraper, property of the township, used last fall in repairing Grand street, has b en left standing in the gutter all winter, and the prospects are it will stay there until wanted this spring. It should be under cover.

The members of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., attended service at All Saints' church, Sunday morning. There were about fifty in attendance and they marched to the church in a body. A special address was made by Rev. A. H. True, the rector of the church. There were also solos by Miss Pool.

WILLOW GROVE.

Wm. Seward, of New York, was the guest of Mr. Goodman on Sunday last.

The special music for Easter was rehearsed last Sunday at the chapel under the direction of Mr. Randolph.

Lenten services will be held in the chapel on Wednesday evening. The Episcopal clergyman, Rev. Mr. True, of Scotch Plains will have charge.

About fifteen persons from the Willow Grove Sunday school attended the union services at the Scotch Plains Baptist church last Sunday afternoon.

THEATRICAL.

Fun is promised at Music Hall Friday night when the Gormans of minstrel fame present their new musical farce comedy, "The Gilhooly's Abroad." Two hours and a half of good wholesome amusement, not a dull moment in the whole evening, new songs, new dances, funny specialties, pretty girls and the best singing company on the road.

Mrs. Fiske has achieved the greatest success of the season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, Few York, in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," her production having won remarkable popularity as well as unusual note for its artistic excellencies. The theatre is nightly thronged by enthusiastic audiences. Mrs. Fiske's time at the Fifth Avenue has twice been extended and she will probably remain at this theatre all the season. She will in any event be seen in New York throughout the season, as several theatres have been offered to her in case her present term at the Fifth Avenue cannot be prolonged. Manager H. C. Miner is shifting other attractions that were booked before Mrs. Fiske's production in order that "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" may remain indefinitely.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Commenced His Duties.

Theodore F. Swayze, of East Ninth street, began his duties in Washington yesterday as chief clerk of the U. S. Treasury Department. He left Plainfield for Washington on Sunday evening.

Miss Marguerite Schuck, of Vine street, is visiting relatives at Glen Ridge, Essex county.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

The Bayard estate will be sold at public auction tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Colonel Staar left yesterday on a ten days' visit with friends in Philadelphia.

The "Weary Willies' are once more becoming numereus in the barns around about.

Everybody is wondering what will the harvest be, as a result of the rupture in the Town Committee.

The Westfield Athletic Club will give a progressive enchre party and informal dance this evening.

The Westfield Gun Club will hold an important meeting in the parlors of the Park House this evening.

Mrs. Elliott has rented the Gardner house on Westfield avenue recently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Andrews.

The town had a deserted appearance yesterday. It was more quiet than of a Sunday. The weather was so fine the ladies hunted up the bargain counters out of town.

John C. Irwin, an official of the Beech Creek Railroad, was visiting friends here over Sunday. He left yesterday afternoon on the Scranton express, which was stopped here especially for him.

There was a big drop in eggs here yesterday. The expressman let a crate of eggs fall at the baggageroom door, breaking eight dozen. That end of the depot looked like an immense omelette for a while.

The estate of Charles Clark, which was to have been sold at public auction yesterday afternoon was again postponed. There was not a bid made. Just where it will be tried to be disposed of is not known at present.

There was an entertainment given last evening in the Westfield Club Hall, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. There was a good sized and appreciative audience and each lady was presented with a handsome souvenir.

It is rumored about town that the main reason for the Town Committee's desire to change its rooms is because Mr. Gilby, a quondam Republican, is alleged to have worked against the Republican this spring. Mr. Gilby declined to be interviewed on the matter.

Mizpah Chapter of the Epworth League will give a literary entertainment in the chapel of the Methodist Church Thursday evening, to which all are invited. Miss Gertrude MacGowan, a talented young woman of Tottenville, S. I., will entertain them with selections from Whittier's.

The Rev. Mr. Ketcham, pastor of the Congregational Church, says that the report that the musical services of last Sunday evening would be the last musical service of the season, is incorrect and unauthorized. "It certainly is the last of the kind," he said. "It was too long. We shall continue to hold our regular monthly musical service, as heretofore, but not such a one as the last one."

Miss Compton, of West Second street, is very ill at her home.

Charles Woolston, of Fairview avenue, has secured a position with Harrison Bros., wholesale paint dealers of New York. His work is in the main office of the company.

MAY BE A BIG STRIKE

New York City Builders Threaten To Aid the Steamfitters.

WOULD INVOLVE NEARLY 40,000 MEN

All Work on Buildings in the Metropolis Would Be Paralyzed and Enormous Losses Entailed on Both Sides.

New York, March 30.—Indications this morning point to a spread of the steamfitters' strike, and it is feared that more than 30,000 men may become involved within a few days. Over 1,500 steamfitters are now out and builders, it is said, have practically decided to act in sympathy with them. If all the men employed in the building trade in this city who belong to the Central Labor union should go out the trouble would involve nearly 40,000 men, and such a step would practically stop all building work, causing delays which would mean a loss to contractors of thousands of dollars and entail upon the families of the strikers themselves severe suffering. Men who are interested in the various branches of building work admitted this morning that such a contingency was probable, and they were very gloomy over the prospect. The notice which caused all the trouble ran as follows: "Inasmuch as the agreement heretofore existing between the Master Fitters' Association and the Enterprise and Progressive associations has been grossly violated by the last named association, the Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' association has declared the said agreement null and void. Therefore, each and every steamfitter and steamfitter's helper who wishes to continue in our employ is hereby directed to report at our shop on Monday morning, March 29, at 8 o'clock and there agree to and sign our new rules before going to work." At first the notice caused some amusement, then when the men pondered over it they became serious. The Master Steamfitters' association hopes to get the plumbers who are members of the Plumbers' association, but are not represented in the board, to take the place of the steamfitters. Should they prove successful in this a general strike will undoubtedly ensue.

THE FLOOD IN TEXAS.

Property Loss Will Reach Nearly $2,000,000—Two Persons Drowned.

Dallas, Tex., March 30.—An enormous body of water is pouring past Dallas to-day. Trinity river has risen fully 45 feet in the past thirty-six hours and is still rising. The overflow is doing vast damage to farm property along the river banks. John Jist and Miss Ruby Smith were drowned in a branch of the Trinity near Era in Cook county yesterday. Miss Smith's body was recovered. Railroad managers estimate the damage to property of the various lines in Texas at not less than half a million dollars. The railroads are blocked and are being patched up to send trains northward and eastward to-day. The general property loss in Texas from the storm is estimated at from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

Floods in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., March 30.—The rivers of Minnesota are rising very rapidly. The Mississippi at this point is still rising steadily. Water is flowing in from the Minnesota in a torrent. The water is running through the Bohemian flats and the residents of that locality are moving out. Much higher water is reported in the Mississippi at Little Falls, St. Cloud and Grand Rapids. There is still about a foot of snow on the ground.

Civil Service Positions Open.

Albany, March 30.—The state civil service commission announces that there are a number of vacancies in the position of medical interne, and that the number of applicants for the examination of April 10 is probably insufficient to fill the vacancies. This position is open to all graduates of medical colleges who have not more than three years' practice. The salary is $600 per annum and maintenance. Dates have been fixed for the examinations of stenographers as follows: New York and Watertown, April 3; Buffalo and Syracuse, April 10; Elmira and Plattsburgh, April 17; Rochester and Binghamton, April 24, and Albany, May 1. An open competitive examination has been advertised for the position of director of trade schools at the Elmira reformatory at a salary of $1,200 to $1,500. This examination will be held at Elmira about April 16.

Death of William Islip.

New Bedford, Mass., March 30.—William Islip, who died at Pomona, Cal., yesterday, was a native of this city. He left here on a whaling voyage in 1833, when a lad of 18 years, and went to California around the Horn. He claimed that gold was found and mined in the mountains in Ventura county in 1843, and always maintained that he saw gold nuggets brought from there as early as 1845.

Cause of Mocanaqua Fire Unknown.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 30.—Two hundred men and boys are out of employment as the result of the destruction by fire yesterday of the extensive coal breaker operated by the West End Coal company at Mocanaqua. The origin of the fire, which did damage to the amount of $50,000, is unknown.

Drowned in a Stranded Ship's Cabin.

Perth Amboy, N. J., March 30.—The schooner Era, which foundered off Port Reading on Wednesday last and was raised was brought here last evening. The body of Paul Aretzo, who went down with the vessel, was found in the cabin.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

NOW THE TIME TO TAKE IT.

Dr. Greene's Nervura the Remedy Above All Others To Take in the Spring.

Dr. Greene's Nervura, Grandest of Spring Medicines, Cured Senator Marcus Peck and His Wife. Take It Now and Get Well.

SENATOR MARCUS PECK.

Now is the time when people most need medicine. After the long, cold winter and indoor life, the system requires toning up, and nerves and blood need that most perfect invigorator, that best spring medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Senator Marcus Peck, Brookfield, Vt., one of our most prominent statesmen, who has been Senator, Representative, and is now State Road Commissioner of Vermont, tells you what at this season most vitally concerns you—how to invigorate your system, restore lost energies, get back your health and strength.

Senator Peck says: "Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has been a welcome visitor in my house for a long time past. My wife used it for nervous prostration and was greatly helped. She is using it now and derives benefit from its use. I have also used it with complete satisfaction. There are many cases in my knowledge that have been benefited, and I have no hesitation in recommending its use to others."

Take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy now, for now is when it will do you most good. It is the best spring medicine in existence and the surest cure known in the world. Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Small, sugar-coated, easy to take, sure and pleasant to act. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. No fees are charged or taken for consultation, examination or advice. The price of his health-giving medicines is always low, which fact, with the free advice and consultation, places a sure cure in reach of everybody.

Her New Alien Labor Law To Be Aimed at American Miners in British Columbia.

Ottawa, Ont., March 30.—While an alien labor law will be passed this session, it is not likely to be a government measure. The probability is Cowan's bill will be drafted to suit the views of the first minister, and when it comes before the house Premier Laurier will announce that it meets with his approval and will have his support. The effect of the proposed legislation as applied to Americans in Canada will be greatest in the British Columbia gold fields. Thousands of miners and prospectors on the Pacific slope leave their families in Butte, Spokane and other cities south of the line. The proposed law, when put into operation, will require them to bring their families to Canada.

MARITIME NATIONS INVITED.

The Presence of Ships at Grant Monument Dedication Requested.

Washington, March 30.—Secretary Sherman has sent the following cablegramme to our ministers abroad who are accredited to nations possessing navies: "The Grant municipal inaugural committee has requested the president to officially invite the maritime nations to send warships to participate in the ceremonies on April 27 next, when the Grant Monument association will formally deliver to the city of New York the tomb of Gen. Grant, erected by voluntary subscriptions, at Riverside park. It will be gratifying to this government if this courteous invitation could be accepted."

THE REPORT NOT CREDITED.

Cuban Junta Has Heard Nothing of Gen. Rivera's Alleged Capture.

New York, March 30.—The Cuban junta has received no information concerning the capture of Gen. Rivera and his staff, and Estrada Palma does not credit the report with any truth. "The Spaniards," he said, "have sent out this report in order that they might offset the news that three filibustering expeditions have been landed on the island recently." Latest reports from Rivera to the junta stated that there were between 5,000 and 6,000 soldiers in his army.

Newspaper Correspondent Killed.

Washington, March 30.—The following dispatch has been received from Consul-General Lee, dated Havana, March 27: "C. E. Crosby of New York, the representative of the Chicago Record, is reported killed while watching with field glasses a combat between the Spanish and insurgent forces near Arroyo Blanco, close to the boundary of Puerto Principe and Santa Clara. He came to the island on January 30, and is said to have graduated at St. Cyr, France."

Nominated by Gov. Black.

Albany, March 30.—The following nominations were received in the senate from the governor last night: Earl S. Batcheller of Gloversville, Homer T. Fowler of Rome and William H. Cloher, jr., of Utica to be managers of the Rome Custodial asylum. All were reappointments, and upon motion of Senator Coggeshall, the nominations were immediately confirmed.

Unexpended World's Fair Money.

Albany, March 30.—John B. Thacher, representing New York state commission having charge of this state's exhibit at the world's fair, has turned over to the state comptroller $3,669. This represents the unexpended balance of the appropriation granted the commission to carry on its work.

BOTH WILL BE SHOT

Drumhead Court-martial for Rivera and His Chief of Staff.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THEIR CAPTURE

The Latest News from Cuba and the Sentence of Luis Severe Blows to the Friends of the Patriots in This Country.

London, March 30.—A dispatch received here from Havana, in reporting the capture of Gen. Ruis Rivera, the insurgent leader, and his chief of staff, states that both of the prisoners will be tried by a drumhead court-martial, which means that they will be shot.

Havana, March 30.—Gen. Hernandez Velasco, who is operating in the hills of the province of Pinar del Rio, has sent a report to the government which has caused much elation to all classes of loyal Spaniards. He says that while his command was in the vicinity of Cabezadas, in the Rio Hondo district, Sunday they encountered a party of rebels, 100 strong, who were under the command of Ruis Rivera, who was appointed to the command of the insurgents in Pinar del Rio after the death of Antonio Maceo. The rebels occupied a strong position and fought stubbornly, but after an engagement which lasted an hour they were defeated and dispersed. Before the rebel position was captured a grenade which was thrown by the Spaniards fell among the insurgents and, exploding, wounded many of them. This caused a panic, and many of the rebels fled. Shortly after the explosion the Spanish infantry penetrated the rebel position. They found Gen. Bocallao, chief of staff to Gen. Rivera, attempting to carry the latter, who had been wounded by three Mauser bullets, to a place of safety. Both were made prisoners. Lieut. Terry, of the insurgent party, who had been badly wounded by a fragment of a shell, was also captured. The rebels also carried some of their dead with them, but left on the field ten bodies that they were unable to remove. The Spanish loss was only one man killed and one lieutenant and twenty-five privates slightly wounded.

Rivera Cool and Self-possessed.

Gen. Velasco sent Gen. Rivera, Col. Bascallao and Lieut. Terry, in charge of two companies of troops, to San Cristobal, at which place the party arrived to 8 o'clock Sunday evening. Lieut. Terry was so badly injured, however, that he died on the road. Speaking to a soldier at San Cristobal, Gen. Rivera said that he had been kindly treated by his captors. He complains greatly of the pain of his wounds, but is cool and self-possessed. He has one bullet still lodged in his thigh. He is lodged at the quarters of the Guardia civil. Gen. Velasco is still operating in the vicinity of Cabezadas. Private advices had been received here to effect that C. C. Crosby, the correspondent of a Chicago newspaper, was killed while witnessing the recent combat at Juan Criollo, near Arroyo Blanco. It is stated that he was with the rebels.

SENTENCE OF DR. LUIS.

Cubans in Baltimore Greatly Distressed over the Severe Penalty Imposed.

Baltimore, March 30.—The absolute refusal of the court yesterday afternoon to suspend the eighteen months sentence and $500 fine imposed upon Dr. Joseph J. Luis, convicted of sending an armed military expedition to Cuba, pending an appeal to the supreme court, together with the news from Cuba of the capture of Gen. Rius Rivera by a force of Spanish soldiers, has greatly discouraged the friends of free Cuba in this city, but they declare, nevertheless, that the Spaniards are on the run in the island, and that while the conviction of Dr. Luis and John D. Hart will no doubt check the efforts to send supplies from this country to the patriots in arms, the necessaries of war will be sent to them until they have succeeded in driving the Spaniards from the island.

The Judge's Remarks.

In sentencing the prisoner Judge Morris said in substance: "The traverser did what he has done with a full knowledge of the law. He no doubt thought it his duty to assist his countrymen in their struggle against Spanish rule, notwithstanding the United States law to the contrary. As to his moral obligations in the case I must leave that with his own conscience. As nothing else will avail to enforce obedience to the law I must inflict such a punishment upon him as will prevent his breaking it hereafter, and will also serve as a warning to others. I sentence the traverser to the Baltimore city jail for a period of eighteen months and to pay a fine of $500." Dr. Luis walked with a United States deputy marshal to police headquarters, whence he was returned to jail by a detective.

Cuban Resolutions Voted Down.

Boston, March 30.—In the house yesterday afternoon a quick vote on the resolutions in favor of "Cuba Libre," and memorializing congress in favor of the struggling Cubans robbed the galleries of expected speeches. The resolutions were rejected without a word of discussion by a vote of 21 to 66. Mr. Keenan served notice that today he would move reconsideration.

Suicide of Jockey Campbell.

New York, March 30.—Archie Campbell, a well-known jockey, shot and killed himself in skiff at Robbins Reef, near State Island yesterday afternoon. Despondency over illness unfitting him to ride is considered as the motive for suicide.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Rendill, of this city, has purchased a Spalding wheel of Rogers, of North avenue.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cleveland Cyclers will be held on Monday evening.

Frank Chapot, of the firm of Chapot and Sons, has bought a Cleveland racer from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Twelve of the members of the Cleveland Cyclers enjoyed their first club run, Sunday afternoon, over to New Brunswick.

Olaf Sangstad, superintendent of the Boy's Club, collided with a tandam on North avenue, Sunday morning. Mr. Sangstad's wheel was a wreck.

The Cleveland Cyclers have received a handsome picture from the Morgan and Wright Tire Company of the last year's racing team. The picture will be hung in the club rooms.

If you want to see one of the prettiest tandems, stop at the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company's store on North avenue. It is the smallest tandem made and it is certainly a beauty.

While riding his wheel on West Front street, yesterday morning, Allan Wilson, of "Tunlaw," collided with a pedestrian. The man was warned in time but he succeeded in jumping directly in front of Wilson's wheel. Both were upset but no damage was done.

C. E. Pearsall, of the Union County Standard, has purchased a Cleveland racer from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company and will be a frequent sight on the county road in good weather. He finds that newspaper work and cycling can be combined very pleasantly.

Fred Hargraves had quite a tumble while riding out Park avenue, Sunday. He had adjusted his handle bars but had failed to tighten them up securely. They turned as he was riding and he cleaned up a large section of the road in consequence. He also smashed the rim on his new wheel. He was not seriously injured.

BATTLE OF BOUND BROOK.

Monument Marking an Historical Spot to Dedicated April 13th.

Preparations are going steadily forward for the dedication of the boulder on April 13th, to mark the site of the Battle of Bound Brook, fought April 13th, 1777. The stone is being prepared by Essex A. Yawger, and is neary ready to be set up in the triangle on Main street, opposite the railroad subway, which will propably hereafter be known as Monument Square.

It is proposed that at 7:30 o'clock, on the evening of April 13th the monument be presented to the borough authorities by George LaMonte, President of the Washington Camp Ground Association, and accepted by his Honor, Mayor Coddington.

At eight o'clock dedicatory exercises will be held in the Bound Brook Hall. Rev. T. E. Davis will tell the story of the battle and Rev. J. W. Daily will give a sketch of General Benjamin Lincoln, who commanded the American forces.

About British Parliament.

Those who heard Miss Elizabeth U. Yates give her interesting lecture on the "United States Congress" at the Y. M. C. A. last week, will surely want to hear her second lecture tomorrow morning at the same place. Her subject will be "British Parliament." A very clever comment has been paid this talented speaker by the Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer, in the following words: "Miss Yates' address was as bright as it could possibly be. She kept the audience vibrating, pendulum-like, between applause of her eloquence and laughter at her sparkling humor and keen satire."

New Lodge of Red Men.

A preliminary meeting was held at Little Falls, one of the suburbs of Paterson, for the purpose of instituting a new tribe of Red Men. Great Sannap Wm. Newcorn, of this city, was present to address the meeting. There were addresses by several other great chiefs. Forty-six names were secured to the charter list, which will be kept open for several weeks, and it is expected that the list will number 100 names when closed.

Mustered Into the Naval Reserve.

Clarence Rittenhouse, Volney Green, Walter Hetfield, Jr., and Ben. Webster, of this city, went to Newark last evening and were mustered in the Ambulance Corps of the Naval Reserve. Several other young men from this city will join in a short time.

A TALKING MATCH.

The Feature of a Craig Place Social Affair.

Quite novel and entertaining were many of the features of the reception that was given by Mrs. James Harned and Mrs. DeVol to their guests and friends at their home on Craig place, last evening. After the guests had assembled and enjoyed a social chat, an informal programme was given. There were piano solos by Miss Maud Acock and Miss Mabelle Force, several vocal solos by Miss Harris, of Elizabeth, and a mandolin selection Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, accompanied by Mrs. H. J. Johnston.

C. E. A. Heywood introduced a novel Indian club drill. The Indian clubs were hollow and filled with cotton. This was ignited and all the lights in the room turned out. Then Mr. Heywood went through a number of movements, the fire giving them a weird and pleasing effect.

A talking match was something entirely new. The guests were seated around the room and to the one who talked the most in the given time the prize was awarded. The honors in that contest went to one legal gentleman who began by reciting the Declaration of Independence at his partner and after touching on Blackstone, concluded with some poetical selections.

There was a final surprise in store for the guests, for on their departure they were saluted with a shower of rice to the great enjoyment of the passersby who thought some matrimonial knot had just been tied.

Among those present were Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Needham, Ex-Mayor John H. Van Winkle, Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. James Harned, Mr. and Mrs. DeVol, Mr. and Mrs. DeVol, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Laing, Allan Laing, John H. Van Winkle, Jr., Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Julia Force, and the Misses Hilder, Laura M. Sydenham, Emma V Tantune, Maud Acock, Belle Smith, Bertha Needham, Alice Needham, Nora Williams, Josie Johanson, Louella Harris, Mabel Force and Helen Harned.

THIEVES LOOT A POSTOFFICE.

Basking Ridge Visited by Burglars Early Yesterday Morning.

The postoffice at Basking Ridge was broken in about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The thieves effected an entrance by prying the front door off its hinges, and then blew open the safe by using dynamite. The noise awakened Mrs. Howlett, who lives in the adjoining building, but she did not pay much attention to it.

Joseph L. Buck, the postmaster, said today that the thieves had secured $375 in money and over $100 in stamps. The thieves also secured several thousand dollars in notes belonging to the estate of the late John Buck, of which the postmaster is administrator. The notes had been placed in a shotbag in the safe for safekeeping, but the thieves discovered them, although they overlooked a package containing $96 in stamps. The box containing the money taken was found half a mile from the postoffice, on the road to Somerville, by Edward Dargel, and it supposed that the thieves came from that direction.

Surprised at Washingtonville.

A surprise party was given to William Demler, of Washingtonville, at his home last evening, which was attended by a number of young people from this city and the borough. The affair was gotten up by Miss Jennie Simpson and William Titus. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. The party did not break up until about 3 o'clock this morning. About sixty were present.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. H. Trewin, of Somerville, has taken up his residence in this city.

Wm. Sharkey and family, of Lincoln place, have moved to Coddington avenue.

James Bailey and family, of West Fifth street, have moved to Manning avenue.

John A. Thickstun, of Duer street, is able to be out again after a short illness.

George Thateher and family will reside in the Clifton flats on Park avenue, after April 1st.

Borough Tax Collector H. N. Spencer, of Somerset street, is suffering with a slight attack of rheumatism.

Borough Councilman H. B. Lounsbury, of Frandview avenue, has entirely recovered from his attack of the grip.

John Sharkey and family, of Warren street, have taken up their residence on Lincoln place in the house formerly occupied by Wm. Sharkey.

J. Varian and family and Miss Lydia Arnold, of New York, have taken up their residence on East Fifth street, in the house formerly occupied by Dr. Hunt.

Reception to Their Wives.

The members of Stone Square Lodge, Colored Masons, gave a reception to their wives and friends in the lodge rooms on East Front street, last evening. An informal programme was given. There was quite a number present.

EXAMINATION VAGARIES.

An Instance Where an Engineer Was Not Able to Tell What He Knew.

"There are some men who cannot stand examinations," commented one of the examining engineers of a great western railroad.

"I know one of the best engineers in Chicago who four times failed to pass the simplest kind of an examination. The moment he came before us I saw how nervous the man was. He got everything mixed up and broke down completely. Several months after he came before us again. He was as nervous as ever and failed to pass his examination. After the trial was over I heard him talking to some of the other applicants and explaining things pertaining to the models. I listened and saw that this man was thoroughly posted. He had studied deeply into the subject, was logical, sound, and extremely intelligent. He knew as much about the subject as I myself. Yet this man had hesitated and blundered; blundered and hesitated.

"'Here,' I said to him; 'if you can't stand an examination, examine me.'

"He did so, and I answered him incorrectly. He corrected me in as clear-headed a manner in every instance as could be. You see, examination hour was over. He asked puzzling questions which showed he was a fellow of brains. But as he had not passed the examination, I could not give him employment. Now, however, I am glad to say that he is one of our engineers and an excellent man. We have always found him quick, smart, reliable and steady. This only illustrates what school teachers will tell you that the brightest scholars often do the worst at the examinations, while the worst pupils frequently distinguish themselves upon such occasions."—Detroit Free Press.

THAT PRETTY WIDOW.

I see her almost every day
As she goes by—
I can but mark her modest way
And drooping eye;
Her timid touches of display—
Her manner shy.

Sometimes she almost lifts her eyes
To meet with mine,
And then her startled face denies
Such mad design;
And in that look of sweet surprise
She seems divine.

Sometimes I wonder if her lord
Was fond and true,
And if their souls in sweet accord
Together grew—
And if I should be quite abhorred
As number two.

Got Rid of Lord Russell.

Lord Russell had occasion to call on Prince Bismarck a number of years ago, and, in the course of conversation, asked his host how he managed to rid himself of callers whom he could not refuse to see, although they bored him.

"I have a very simple method," replied the Chancellor. "My wife knows them pretty well, and when they are with me she generally contrives to come in and call me away on some pretext."

No sooner had this explanation been given than the Princess made her appearance.

"Otto," she quietly remarked, "you must come and take your medicine. You ought to have taken it ten minutes ago."

All Need Revision Now.

The man with the protruding jaw threw down his newspaper and turned with ashen face to the man with the striped shirt.

"We'll have to revise the terms of my challenge to the world," he said.

"What's the matter with it?" demanded the man with the striped shirt.

"Why, we'll have to make it read that I am prepared to fight anywhere except in Nevada."

"But Nevada seems to be the only state where you can fight now," protested the man in the striped shirt.

"Yes; that's just the trouble," returned the man with the protruding jaw.—Chicago Post.

The Dog and the Wallet.

Had it not been for a little spaniel, a Pennsylvania farmer would have lost a large sum of money. He had in his possession $2,100, with which money he intended to purchase a piece of ground; but, for some reason, the negotiations fell through at the last moment, and he started for home again, with the money in his wallet. The distance was four miles, and at one place the road led through a dense wood. He was plodding along, about dusk, with the dog at his heels, when a masked man sprang out at him, and demanded his money. He struggled hard, but was felled with a blow from a club. Suddenly an idea struck him. Calling his dog, which had been gallantly aiding him, he thrust the wallet in the little fellow's mouth and waved him away. The dog instantly ran into the woods, with the robber after him. The farmer crawled to the side of the road, and rubbed himself until he was able to walk. Just then, the spaniel bounded from the woods, still carrying the wallet between his teeth. The farmer secured the wallet, ran back on the road, and succeeded in returning to town without further molestation.—Golden Days.

You Can Have Your Eye Tattooed.

The latest discovery of scientific medical men is that the human eye may be tattooed any color. It is now quite within the bounds of possibility for doctors to tattoo a man's eye bright scarlet or green. Of course, eyes are only tattooed in cases where one of them is blind, and has assumed in consequence a peculiar dead and ghastly appearance. An eye in this condition will entirely disfigure a face; but a modern oculist may color one of these dead eyes, and restore it to its natural appearance, so that nothing but the closest scrutiny can detect the difference between it and its fellow.

The operation of tattooing is performed by first treating the eye with cocaine, until it becomes absolutely senseless to pain. When all is ready, the part to be operated upon is covered thickly with India ink of the required color. The tattooing is then performed by means of a little electrical machine which operates a specially made needle.—Answers.

Peculiarly Organized.

Among personal peculiarities of organization there may be mentioned the curious case of a man in New York, of whom it is said that he can only sleep while standing. Lying down causes him great pain, and he appears to have become quite habituated to an erect posture, taking it quite naturally. Of like curious nature is the case of a Spanish baron, who can sleep only in the cabin of a steamer, or a railway carriage in full motion. For four years he has never ceased travelling by night in order to obtain sleep, and during that time he has never spent a night in a bed.

Sensitive Fingers.

Meissonier was proud of his shapely and delicate hands. He said that his fingers were so sensitive that he could, with his eyes shut, lay on the exact amount of color that he wanted on a given spot if somebody placed the point of a brush upon it.—Tid-Bits.

We ask you to call and look over our new Carpets. We say new carpets for we had to buy an entire new line. We have what is beyond all question the largest assortment, and best selected patterns ever shown in Plainfield. Carpets are cheaper at present than they have ever been, and much cheaper than they will be if the tarriff be revised. If you need carpets, we suggest that you make some sacrifice (if necessary) and buy this spring while prices are down.

We had to buy new Oilcloths and Linoleums also, and prettier patterns in better goods you never saw. We bought Mattings on the water and the stormy weather has delayed them somewhat, but we don't regret that so much, for we bought them at wonderfully low prices. They are coming in every day now We make and hang shades, poles and etc. Make over and relay carpets and etc. All work done skillfully and promptly.

WILLIAM ROBINSON RESIGNS FROM THE POLICE FORCE.

The Policeman Had Trouble With Fireman Studer About Riding on a Hook and Ladder Truck—Said to Have Been Abusive.

William Robinson, one of the new police appointments made by Mayor Fisk the first of February, resigned his position last night as the outcome of a dispute with George Studer, a member of the Hook and Ladder Company, as to his right to ride on the company's truck to the fire yesterday morning.

Sometime ago Chief Doane issued an order to the effect that only firemen or officers should be permitted to ride on the fire department apparatus, and it was Studer's endeavor to enforce this order, in ignorance of Robinson's position, who did not disclose his identity, that caused the rumpus. When the alarm of fire was sent in Robinson was near the fire department headquarters and arrived there in time to jump on the hook and ladder truck before it got under good headway. Robinson was in citizens' clothes and Studer ordered him off the truck, in compliance with Chief Doane's orders. Robinson refused to budge and there were some high words spoken between the two men. It is alleged that Robinson used rather unbecoming language in replying to Studer.

After the outgong was sounded and the truck had returned to headquarters Robinson sought out Chief Doane and told him of the fact that he had been ordered off the truck by Studer. It was learned that Studer did not know Robinson was an officer and the Chief endeavored to settle the misunderstanding by introducing the two men. Chief Done says that Studer apologized to Robinson for ordering him off the truck, explaining that he did not know that he was an officer. Instead of accepting the apology gracefully, Robinson, it is alleged, became abusive and assumed a domineering air. The Chief called him to account for his actions and Robinson went out of the fire headquarters to return later and renew the quarrel. He was cautioned to behave himself by Assistant Chief Martin and after some talk he again left, only to return a third time and threaten Studer, so it is said, with many harsh words and gesticulations. He was ordered out a second time by Assistant Chief Martin.

Chief Doane was notified of Robinson's conduct and he determined to have him disciplined. Accompanied by Studer he appeared before Judge DeMeza, and the latter said he would notify Chief Grant to have Robinson before him at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Chief was unable to find Robinson, however, and late in the afternoon Chief Grant reported the affair to Mayor Fisk. After hearing the circumstances the Mayor decided that Robinson would have to be disciplined. Later on Robinson was called before the Mayor and asked concerning the charges. Robinson admitted that he had had trouble with Studer, but was not inclined to be submissive.

The Mayor decided that his conduct was unbecoming enough to have an investigation and he told Robinson that he would suspend him until the charges were settled by a police board trial. Robinson said that he would not stand a trial, but would resign right then and there. Taking him at his word, the Mayor had the resignation written out and Robinson signed the document immediately, thus ending his career for a second time as a member of the police force.

FOR A GARBAGE CREMATORY.

Plainfield Sanitary Company Awarded Contracts Last Night.

A meeting of the Plainfield Sanitary Company was held last evening when the various contracts for the erection of the crematory were awarded as follows: Mason work, Firman Gise; carpenter work, Pearson & Gayle; excavating, T. A. McCarthy. The title has been passed and the work of excavating will be started tomorrow.

The committee having in charge the purchase of the necessary wagons and material for operating the crematary are doing all that they can to have the same ready when needed.

The company has secured office room at 187 North avenue, where someone will always be found. L. Spangenberg, of the company, will start in a few days to solicit among the Plainfield people for business.

Eddy Clak, of Philadelphia, has been secured as architect and sanitary engineer.

To Lay Out Roselle Streets.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett has secured the contract for surveying and laying out the streets of Roselle, and H. C. VanEmburgh has been employed to look after the work.

THE MOTHER'S INTEREST.

MRS. M. B. ELLIS RELATED OPPORTUNITIES OE MOTHERHOOD.

The Great Need Is That Mothers Should Become Thoroughly Acquainted With the Temperament of Their Children.

"General Lew Wallace puts into the mouth of Ben-Hur the old Eastern proverb, 'Because God could not be everywhere, he made mothers.' Nothing can be more beautiful than a true mother's love, and the responsibilities and duties committed to a mother are of the greatest." Thus began the drawing-room talk on "Motherhood," by Mrs. M. B. Ellis, National Superintendent of Legislation for the W. C. T. U., yesterday afternooon, the announcement of which created so much interest that the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church parlors were very well filled. Mrs. Ellis's talk was exceedingly interesting, and thoroughly practical. She brought forth the laws of heredity, and urged that mothers be themselves what they would have their children become. She spoke very earnestly of the great need that mothers become thoroughly acquainted with their children, giving ready sympathy in all their little interests and trials and never sharply refusing to answer their many questions. The mother has the first opportunity with her child; let her heed how she uses it. Very heartfelt were Mrs. Ellis' words on the temperance question, as she urged that everything possible be done to prevent the growth of an appetite for strong drink in children. In the latter part of her lecture she described the efforts of the W. C. T. U. to get better laws passed for the protection of the young along the lines of temperance and social purity, to make the life of the girls in our great city shops more tolerable by having seats provided for them, and in every good work which the warm mother heart could devise.

At the close of the address, a social tea was held.

LOCAL ATHLETES TO ENTER.

High School Representatives to Contest For a Princeton Trophy.

The Princeton University Track Association has made arrangements for an interscholastic meet to be held annually at Princeton. The event will be open to all schools of the New England and Middle States. The games this year will be held at the Princeton track on the morning of May 15th, the day of the Harvard-Princeton baseball game.

A silver cup worth $250 has been offered by the Princeton Association as a prize for the school scoring the greatest number of points at these games for three years, not necessarily in succession. A banner will also be awarded to the victorious school each year, and gold and silver medals will be given to the man who finish first, second and third in each event.

An invitation has been sent to the athletic association of the High School of this city to participate in the games and it is probable that Plainfield will be represented by a number of young athletes. While the chances of securing the cup are very remote, the local contestants will try to bring back some of the individual prizes.

W. E. MARTIN'S GOOD LUCK.

To Be Assistant Chief Operator in the B. & O. R. R. Office.

W. E. Martin, who for the past two years has been the manager for the Postal Telegraph Company in this city, has secured a very lucrative position as assistant chief operator for the B. & O. Telegraph Company at their office located on the ground floor of the Produce Exchange, New York City. This station has the control of the foreign freight, and Mr. Martin will have charge of forty operators. He will still retain his position as manager of the office in this city, but he has secured Charles K Latourette, an experienced operator, to be assistant manager, and he will have charge of the local office most of the time. Mr. Martin will commute to New York and will be in Plainfield every evening to look after the night work.

For the Fresh Air Fund.

Dorothy Harrington Revell, a talented woman, will give a monologue entertainment on the subject of "Switzerland," in the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday evening, April 27th, under the auspices of the Advance Circle, Kings Daughers, of the First Presbyterian church. The proceeds will go to the fresh air fund and toward the support of the city nurse. This noted woman has given the entertainment upon eight hundred different occasions.

HORRIBLE DEATH LURKED IN THIS PIECE OF WOOD

ONE MAN INSTANTLY KILLED AND ANOTHER BADLY HURT AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

A Piece of Timber Saturated With Nitro-Glycerine Explodes With Disastrous Effect—Whole Neighborhood Aroused and Startled by the Noise and Effect—Barn Set Fire and Plainfield Fire Department Called on to Lend Assistance.

The quiet village of Scotch Plains was the scene yesterday afternoon of one of the most terrible accidents that has ever occurred within its borders. It was a nitro-glycerine explosion and one man was killed instantly and another severely injured.

It was about four o'clock when suddenly a great sound was heard. It was at first thought to be a blasting on the mountain back of the Plains, but those more credulous thought differently and it was not long before the people of the village had learned the results of the explosion. It happened near a barn belonging to John Cook, which was located in the heart of the town.

A few days ago Mr. Cook decided to build a shed adjoining the barn setting in the rear of the house. He engaged Conrad Peltz and Carl Bardenstetter, two carpenters, to do the work It was while attentively engaged at their work that the explosion occurred and as a result the latter was instantly killed, while the former escaped with his life though he is badly injured.

It was not until three hours after the catastrophe that the cause could be determined upon, and in the meantime there were many wild rumors in circulation to the effect that it was dynamite, which Cook had stored in his barn, that caused the explosion and, in the absence of Mr. Cook to explain, that was the generally accepted theory. The facts of the accident are these: Last winter Bloodgood's nitro-glycerine factory, located between Westfield and Rahway, was abandoned and Mr. Cook purchased the building. The structure was torn down and the best of the timber removed to Cook's place in Scotch Plains, and stored in the rear of the house. If there was anyone who knew that the timber taken from the nitro-glycerine factory was dangerous to life and limb, they did not inform Mr. Cook.

When he decided to build the addition to his barn he looked over the timber and decided to use it. Among the timber brought from the demolished factory was a square post about six inches in diameter and twelve feet long. This was selected to serve as one of the corner supports of the roof to the shed. About four o'clock yesterday afternoon Bartenstetter and Peltz finished excavating a hole for the post and raised the timber to an upright position. Peltz climbed upon step ladder to get the post in plumb while Bartenstetter balanced it from the ground. The post was a little out of plumb and Peltz told Bartensteter to strike it with a mallet so as to get it even. The latter complied with the request with two or three sharp blows. This was followed by a terrific explosion that shattered the post into slivers at the point where it had been struck with the mallet.

The shattered post was scattered about and in a moment a quantity of hay near the barn blazed up and started a lively fire. The report was heard a mile away and the houses in the immediate vicinity were jarred precep tibly by the concussion.

It was soon learned that it was an explosion and that there was a fatal accident. Men ran here and there in their frantic attempts to do something. As quickly as possible an entrance was effected into the Excelsior Hook and Ladder house and the fire bell was sounded loud and long. Others ran all the way to Fanwood and secured the chemical engine from that place and hastened back with it to assist in putting out the fire, which by this time was well under way. The dense black smoke made it almost impossible for the men to get any where near the barn where the explosion occurred. They were urged by the knowledge that there were two men near the fire and their lives were in danger. As soon as men could get near enough they found the two men.

Bartenstetter's condition was indescribable. His features were obliterated and the flesh was in a jelly. It could be seen at a glance that the man was past hope, and the men turned their attention to Peltz in the hopes that he might be rescued. He was found not a great distance away, and while he was terribly injured he did not lose consciousness. His face was scorched, an arm was broken and his eyes were severely injured by dirt and pieces of wood which were scattered about when the explosion occurred. Both men were removed from the place of the disaster and the dead man was taken to his boarding place, not far away, while the injured man was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital in a carriage. Dr. Westcott was one of the first to arrive and he did all that was possible.

In the meantime the members of the fire department succeeded in getting the old hand engine to work, and in a little while there were two streams of water on the burning building. The engine was taken a short distance from the fire house, and water was secured from a cistern which happened to have a good supply of water. By this time everyone in the village, from the oldest man to the smallest boy, was assisting in some way to put out the fire. The old men performed valuable work on the hand engine, while the young men were working about the fire and saving the adjoining property.

The fire-bell was kept ringing so that everybody would be called to the scene of the fire. The church bells were also sounded. The firemen did not make great progress, although they were able to confine the flames to the one building where the fire started. It was evident that the latter building could not be saved and all efforts were unavailing.

After working for nearly an hour with the hand engine, Chief Hall, of the fire department, thought it best to telephone to Chief Doane, of this city, and ask him for assistance. This was done and the latter sent in a special call of six blows. The chief then sent Alerts hose wagon with a quantity of hose to Scotch Plains. No. 2 engine was also sent, but when the apparatus arrived the Scotch Plains firemen had the fire well under control and the Plainfield men were not needed.

The building where the fire started was a total loss. It contained a number of farming implements, but nothing of any great value.

The only man who witnessed the explosion was John Miller, who had but a minute before assisted the other men to carry the post and set it in the hold in the ground. The force of of the explosion tore out the end of the barn nearest to the point where it occurred and completely wrecked the interior. Immediately after the explosion there was a strong smell of acid about the vicinity

After the debris had been cleared away and the people of the neighborhood had regained their composure to some degree an investigation was started to determine the cause of the explosion. It was found that the post that had exploded was saturated with nitro-glycerine, evidently having come in contact with the dangerous fluid while in the process of manufacture at the Bloodgood factory. It needed but a severe jar to make it explode with disastrous effect. Ex-Sheriff Kyte and County Physician Westcott cut off a chip about a half an inch square and placing it on a stone struck a sharp blow with a hammer.

It went off with a report and concussion equal to that of a shotgun. A chip as large again made a noise like that of a cannon. Mr. Kyte took a piece to the Fanwood station and put it on the railroad track. As the car wheel passed over it, it made a loud noise. After these experiments it was generally conceded that the post had been saturated with the dangerous stuff and when struck with the mallet by Stetter the explosion occurred.

Mr. Cook had gone to Brooklyn with his wife and did not return until 7 o'clock last night when he was informed of the accident. He was completely taken aback, as he had no idea that he had such dangerous material lying around loose. The dynamite which he uses for blasting purposes at his stone crusher is buried in the garden.

While all this excitement was going on Mrs. Peltz, wife of the injured man, was standing nearby and though she was unable to speak a word of English, she was fearful that some thing had happened wereby her husband had been killed. Mrs. Hoskins, a neighbor, who speaks German, told the distressed wife that her husband was not killed, but that he was only injured. This did not seem to pacify her and she paced back and forth almost frantic with grief. Her son, who lives in Bayonne, where he conducts a barber business, was sent for and when he arrived he told his mother what had happened and she appeared to understand the circumstances better. Later the son went to the hospital where he saw his father.

A VIOLET RECEPTION.

PLEASING LENTEN EVENT GIVEN BY MISS MAUDE VAN DYKE.

The House Prettily Decorated With the Sweet Flower, and a Happy Time Spent by the Guests Who Were Present

One of the most pleasing events of the Lenten season was the violet reception given last evening in honor of Miss Maude Eleanor Van Dyke, of East Front street. The house was prettily decorated with violet colors, and the effect in the parlors was exceedingly attractive. There were broad bands of violet-colored ribbon festooned about the room, while scattered here and there were pretty bunches of crushed violets. The chandeliers were also arranged with the predominating colors.

Miss Van Dyke received her guests and she was congratulated by them, as the event was given in honor of the celebration of her birthday.

During the evening Miss Snediker and Robert Clark sang a duet, and Miss Snediker gave a recitation. Interspersing the sociability the young people enjoyed some dancing, and Miss Mary Van Eps favored those present with several instrumental piano selections. Charles Angleman also sang several tenor solos.

Refreshments were served about 11 o'clock, after which instrumental and vocal music was enjoyed and the guests departed for home at an early hour wishing their hostess many happy returns of the day. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderhoff, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Linderman, Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Josie M. Tier, Mrs. Charles Randolph, Mrs. Cooley, Mrs. Brooks, the Misses Cora Laire, Adelaide Baxter, Olive Newell, Jennie Quick, Bertha Jenkins, Sadie Randolph, Lou Snediker, Josie Banks, Mabel Schenck, Edith Hurlbert, Edith DuBois, Grace Clark, Mary VanEps, Nettie Randall, of this city, Miss Evelyn Kirk, of Newark; Edward Randolph, Robert Clark, Edward Clark, Charles Angleman, Herbert Martin, Richard Randolph, Mr. Crane, Fred. VanEps, J. H. Van Winkle, Jr., also of this city, and E. Van Doren, of Bound Brook.

INTEREST IN MISSIONS.

It Seems to be Very Lively With a Park Avenue Baptist Society.

A steady increase in attendance and interest was the principal feature of the reports of the officers at the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church. The opening exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. G. F. Opdyke. There were also two solos by Mrs. J. V. A. Craighead.

Mrs. Nelson Runyon, as treasurer, made her report showing that $175 had been raised during the year and that about that sum had been spent in the support of foreign missions, leaving a small balance in the treasury.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. A. W. Rand, was very encouraging. It showed that the membership had increased during the past year and that the attendance at the meetings was much larger of late than ever before.

A number of articles were read on subjects of interest in the foreign missionary field by Mrs. Ernest Thompson, Mrs. C. R. Compton, Mrs. W. H. Freeman, Miss Emma V. Fish and Miss May Thompson. A collection was taken and the mite boxes were turned over to the treasurer. The collection amounted to $6.43.

The election of officers concluded the business of the meeting. All the officers were re-elected except the vice-president The officers elected were president, Mrs. G. F. Opkyke; vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Freeman; secretary, Mrs. A. W. Rand; treasurer, Mrs. Nelson Runyon. The president made a short address on the work for the following year and then the meeting adjourned.

A Bicycle Stolen.

Last Friday evening, between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock someone stole a Crawford bicycle belonging to Asa Collier. The wheel was standing on Mr. Collier's porch at his home, No. 140 East Sixth street, and during the above hours it was removed. The wheel was insured in the American Wheelmen's Protective Association, and Mr. Collier has an advertisement in The Press today offering a reward of $20 for information that will lead to the recovery of his wheel.

FOR THE CITY'S HEALTH.

MORE SEWER CONNECTION ORDERED ALONG VARIOUSISTREETS.

New Rules to Govern Plumbing Work—The Inspector Busy Making Investigations of the Local Establishments.

Much business occupied the attention af the Board of Health at the regular meeting held last evening in their rooms on Park avenue.

The president was requested to order connections with city sewer along Front street from Plainfield avenue to Watchung avenue; on Watchung avenue, from Front street to Sixth street; on Sixth street, from Watchung avenue to Plainfield avenue; on Plainfield avenue, from Sixth street to Front street, and along all streets within the territory bounded by these streets, as rapidly as inspections can be made and the work done by Plainfield plumbers.

After April 15th a fee of $1 will be required from city plumbers when the work consists of only soil pipe and one or more sinks. For soil pipe, one or more sinks and water closets, a fee of $2 will be charged. For the same, as above, with further fixtures, the regular fee of $3 will be made. Plumbers are required to report all alterations of plumbing work to the Board of Health whether plans have been filed or not, in order that the work may be inspected.

The president was also requested to order connections with city sewer in any part of the city when it shall appear from the report of the Inspector of this Board that such connection is desirable.

It was declared that the outhouses in the thickly settled parts of the city are a nuisance and the president was directed to order that the use of such vaults be discontinued, emptied and disinfected, when in his judgment such action is desirable.

The president and secretary were appointed a committee to confer with a similar committee of the Board of Health of North Plainfield, and with power to act in any matter of importance to the city and borough.

The monthly report of the the Inspector shows that there are now only four cases of contagious disease in the city. There have been thirty-seven visits to houses where there was contagious disease. There have been thirty-two inspections made on complaints of violations to the plumbing ordinance. Five bakery shops have been inspected, and the number of inspections of water tests and sewer connections were fifty-four. The Inspector found eight cases of defective plumbing, and he made 121 house to house inspections.

CHILDREN OF LOCAL PRIDE.

A Young Auxiliary to Help Women Make a Pretty City.

About forty members of the Junior Town Improvement Association met at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon for the first time since they organized. The object of the meeting was for the election of officers chiefly, and the following were chosen:

President, Wilhelmina Patton; first vice-president, Pendleton Rogers; second vice-president, Elsie Goddard; treasurer, Charles Robert.

Charles Robert acted as chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Pond served as secretary pro tem. The members decided to divide the city into districts and then to sub-divide the districts. A captain will be appointed, and he will appoint his assistants, who will see that the work is done properly. The objects of the association have been stated in these columns before and the principal object is to make good citizens for Plainfield. The young association will assist the older association all they can and great things are expected of them. The next meeting of the association will be held two weeks from yesterday at 3:45 in the afternoon.

Business, Tricks and Oysters.

They had a great time around at the meeting of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, last evening. A business meeting of the Corps was held at first and routine business was transacted. Then the members were entertained with a number of sleight-of-hand tricks by Profs. Adams and Sherwood. The evening was concluded with an oyster supper, to which all the members were invited. It was very successful and the members were highly delighted with the evening's fun.

Quilting and Sewing.

The Woman's Association of the Congregational Church will hold a meeting in the church parlor on Thursday afternoon, April 1. The programme for the month's meetings will be reversed, as Thursday's meeting will be for quilting and sewing, while the missionary meeting will be held during the latter part of the month.

RIVERA'S SUCCESSOR

Sanguily To Command the Cuban Forces in Pinar del Rio.

AN ABLE AND FEARLESS GENERAL

Reporters Visit the Captured Cuban---His Wounds Are Serious, But He Praises the Spanish for Their Kindness Towards Him.

New York, March 31.—It is stated here that Gen. Julio Sanguily, hero of the ten years' war in Cuba, a military tactician of acknowledged ability, the peer of Gomez as a general, and of Maceo as a fighter, is to succeed Gen. Ruiz Rivera as the commander of the new army of the west, and his advent will cause a change of policy in the conduct of the campaign in Pinar del Rio, in which province the only aggressive movements of the Spanish forces are now being made. Rivera is now in the hands of the Spaniards, if recent Havana dispatches are to be depended upon. It is not likely, if he is really a prisoner, that he will be regarded as a prisoner of war, but will be tried by drumhead court-martial as a bandit and rebel and shot to death. In this event his successor will be in the saddle on the day that the sentence of death is carried into effect, unless the execution is so summary that he will be unable to reach the field in time. Gen. Sanguily is the Cuban patriot who served two years in jail charged with the crime of rebellion. He is a naturalized American citizen, and was released through the good offices of this government in February last. He claimed that he had taken no part in the present insurrection, and that his imprisonment was due to the fear of the Spanish authorities that his advice and influence might aid the cause of the rebels. He arrived in New York on the afternoon of March 5, and was received with great enthusiasm by Cubans here, although the junta did not receive him officially. After spending a few days in New York he went to Philadelphia, where his reception was warm and demonstrative. Gen. Sanguily is a native of Havana. He was born there in November, 1847, and received the rudiments of his education in the famous old college of El Salvador. About the beginning of the war between the north and south he came to the United States and went through a course of study in a Philadelphia business college. He spent several years in the United States and then returned to Cuba. Business brought him to New York where he was living when the ten years' war broke out in 1868. Sanguily was then a young man in the full flush and strength of young manhood. He immediately enlisted as a private in an expedition by Gen. Manuel de Quesada, and set sail with forty companions on board the schooner Galvanic. They made a successful landing after a struggle with the crew of a Spanish gunboat, and joined the forces of Gen. Quesada in the extreme northern portion of the province of Peurto Principe. He became successively a sergeant, a lieutenant and an adjutant to the commander of the Cuban forces and a terror to the Spaniards. When he was arrested two years ago as an enemy of Spain the captain-general determined to have him shot, and he would have been if it had not been for the attitude taken by Consul-General Williams. Sanguily was imprisoned and the lawyer who acted as his counsel was locked up in the Cabanas fortress.

HIS WOUNDS SERIOUS.

Reporters Visit the Captured Cuban General, Ruis Rivera.

Havana, March 31.—Several reporters went to San Cristobal yesterday afternoon for the purpose of interviewing Gen. Ruis Rivera, the commander of the insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio, who was captured by the forces of Gen. Velasco during an engagement near Cabezdas on Sunday. Gen. Rivera, as stated in these dispatches, was badly wounded in the fight and taken prisoner as his chief of staff, Col. Bacallao, was attempting to carry him from the field. Col. Bacallo was also captured. The reporters found Gen. Rivera, who was confined in the quarters of the guardia civil, resting more easily than he did on Monday, his wounds having been attended to by physicians. He was very reticent regarding the condition of affairs among the insurgents in the province, positively refusing to answer any questions on the subject. He spoke freely enough on other topics, and dwelt at length upon the history of the ten years' war, in which he played a prominent part. One of the interviewers asked him if he did not think it useless to cause so much bloodshed in fighing against the sovereignty of Spain. His face at once became very serious, and he replied, "Time will show; history will judge." Both Gen. Rivera and Col. Bacallao said that they were thankful for the good treatment they had received since they were captured. Gen. Rivera has presented a diamond ring that he wore to the surgeon who first attended to him after he was made a prisoner.

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the Jubilant Over Rivera's Capture.

Havana, March 31.—The merchants of Cienfuegos are jubilant over the capture of the rebel Gen. Rius Rivera, the successor of Antonio Maceo, by the Spanish troops, and have organized a public demonstration in honor of Capt.-Gen. Weyler, who is now in that city. They have also sent a cablegram to the government at Madrid praising Gen. Weyler's campaign against the rebels and expressing confidence that he will speedily put an end to the rebellion. Forty-three political suspects were exiled to the Chaffarine islands in the Mediterranean and to the island of Fernando Po yesterday.

Nearly Burned To Death on Her Lawn.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 31.—Miss Dora Decker, aged 45 years, residing near Union, this county, was burning leaves on the lawn at her home, when her clothing became ignited and she was so terribly burned that little hope is entertained for her recovery.

New York Baseball League.

Auburn, N. Y., March 31.—Representatives of Auburn, Canandaigua, Palmyra, Lyons, Hornellsville and Batavia met here last evening to organize a state baseball league. They succeeded in forming a league of six clubs which will probably be enlarged to eight.

Timothy Dexter House Sold.

Newburyport, Mass., March 31.—The famous Timothy Dexter house on High street, recently the residence of Geo. H. Corliss and family, has been sold to Alexander B. Johnson of New York for about $30,000.

Endorsed the Peace Treaty.

Providence, R. I., March 31.—The executive council of the Providence board of trade endorsed the arbitration treaty and urged its ratification by the senate.

Rockland County's New Sheriff.

Albany, March 31.—Gov. Black has appointed William Dewey of Orangetown, Rockland county, sheriff of that county. Mr. Dewey is to fill the unexpired term of the late sheriff E. S. Anness. His appointment was urged by Senator Lexow and other prominent Rockland county politicians.

To Attend Grant Memorial Dedication.

Hartford, March 31.—The house has passed a bill appropriating $3,000 to enable the governor and staff to represent the state at the Tennessee centennial exposition and also to attend the dedication of the Grant memorial at New York.

New Jersey Marriage License Bill.

Trenton, March 31.—The senate last night passed the marriage license bill, amended so as to only apply to non-residents and cutting the fee from $1 to fifty cents. The vote was 11 to 1.

SPANISH GUNBOAT CAPTURED

She Was Fast in a River and the Insurgents Attacked and Scuttled Her.

Havana, March 31.—A report, generally credited, has been received here to the effect that the small Spanish gunboat Isabel, while fast in the Sagua la Grand river last week, was attacked by the insurgents, captured and scuttled. The vessel carried a crew of twenty men and a small cannon. She ran on a bar and stuck fast. During the night the insurgents attacked her. The cannon did much execution among the Cubans, but after several hours fighting they compelled the vessel to surrender. Ten of the crew were killed. It is also reported here that a Spanish cruiser is in the hands of the insurgents. It is said that the crew of the vessel were incensed by the harsh treatment of her commander and while on the southern coast of Pinar del Rio mutined and turned the vessel over to the insurgents. The Spanish officers here deny the story but they cannot account for the fact that the vessel has not been heard from for some time.

JUDGE DAY RETICENT.

Admits However That He May Go to Cuba To Investigate the Death of Ruiz.

Canton, O., March 31.—Judge Day, who will probably go to Cuba as United States minister extraordinary to assist Consul General Lee in obtaining information regarding the death of Ruiz, returned home from Washington last evening. He said he had nothing to say in particular as to the report but said that "in case an American attorney is selected to go to Cuba, I may go, and I have the matter under consideration."

Panama Scandals Revived.

Paris, March 31.—M. Antide Boyer, member of the chamber of deputies for one of the districts of Marseilles, was arrested last night upon charges of complicity with Emile Arton, the Panama canal lobyist, in frauds and bribery. The arrest was made as a result of Arton's confession. The police searched Boyer's house where they seized a large number of ineriminating papers. The house of M. Naquet, deputy for Vaucluse, was also searched and a number of documents were seized. The Figaro asserts that a great many other arrests are imminent.

To Protect New Jersey Corporations.

Trenton, March 31.—The bill introduced to protect New Jersey corporations against a bill pending in the New York legislature has been rushed through both houses. It is claimed that the New York bill, if it became a law, would take a half million dollars of revenue from New Jersey. It was believed here that should the New York bill pass first the New Jersey bill would not be retroactive under the state constitution and hence the hurry in its passage.

Lynn Goodyear Strike.

Lynn, Mass., March 31.—Nine additional Goodyear turn workmen employed in the shoe factory of F. B. Abbott & Co. have joined the ranks of the strikers, which makes twenty-three hands in all in the Goodyear department of the factory now on strike. The strikers state that the finishing and other departments of the shop will join the strikers as soon as they finish up the cases on which they are at present engaged.

Died from Hiccoughs.

Keene, N. H., March 31.—George B. Twitchell died yesterday afternoon from hiccoughs. He was born in Petersburg, Va., in 1820. He studied medicine with his uncle, Amos Twitchell, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1843. He entered the army in 1862 as surgeon of the Thirteenth New Hampshire volunteers. He was promoted the same year to brigadier surgeon of the Third brigade.

Brooklyn Lacrosse Players Win a Game.

London, March 31.—The lacrosse players of the Crescent Athletic club of Brooklyn won a game yesterday from the Lacrosse club of Cheatham by a score of five goals to four. The game was exciting throughout and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators.

To Exterminate Glanders.

Hartford, March 31.—Both houses of the general assembly have passed a bill providing for the extermination of glanders. It provides that the Connecticut Humane society may kill glandered animals upon the decision of three veterinary surgeons.

New Company Incorporated.

Estimating a Treasure.

"So she jilted you after all!" said the sympathetic friend.

"That is what happened."

"And only yesterday you were telling me how lucky you thought yourself. You said the man who got that girl would get a prize."

Among the notables who will spend the summer at Bernardsville will be the Marquise de Mazzaretti, the widow of an Italian nobleman and the possessor of an immense fortune.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

People Fleeing for Their Lives from the Floods in the South

THOUSANDS OF ANIMALS DROWNED

Levees Swept Away and Vast Stretches of Farm Land Are Submerged---High Water Record of 1862 at Vicksburg Broken.

St. Louis, March 31.—A special from Baton Rouge, La., says that the break in the levee ten miles below Greenville, Miss., is the worst so far to occur. Thousands of feet of the levee, weakened and softened by the high waters, are melting away like sand. The break is now 3,000 feet wide and water is rushing into Mississippi with frightful velocity. The inhabitants are fleeing for their lives, leaving all behind. Cattle, horses and other live stock are drowning by the thousands and houses and barns are being washed away like driftwood. It is estimated that fully 2,000 people are already homeless and at the mercy of charity. The waters have already reached fifteen miles inland and the destruction of hundreds of more farm houses is inevitable. Several cases of drowning are reported. The historic and famous plantations of Jefferson Davis and his brother, Joseph Davis, six miles below Vicksburg, are doomed to become a sea of water and destruction. Sixty-two miles below Vicksburg is the historic plantation of Gen. Zachariah Taylor. With the threatened rise of three more feet it will be a total ruin. The household goods are being removed and the stock driven to places of safety. The little church upon the plantation, in which Jefferson Davis married Gen. Taylor's daughter, is threatened with destruction. The water has surrounded it to the depth of two feet.

New High Water Record at Vicksburg.

New Orleans, March 31.—A special dated Vicksburg, says: The high water record at this place of 1862 has been broken, the gauge reading 49.3. A third crevasse is reported in Mississippi seven miles above Arkansas City. Its waters added to these crevasses will complete the inundation of the lower Mississippi delta. The Louisiana levees are holding, but Lake Providence reports that the water is running over Pitcher's Point levee for two miles. The break at Funnison, or Perthshire, a short distance below Australia is serious and damaging. The water is going through with terrific force. President Maxwell of the Fifth Louisiana district says that unless unforseen events occur, the Louisiana levees will hold. Information just received states that the large levees at Homichitto and Isiaquena county is in a dangerous condition.

The Situation at Helena.

Helena, Ark., March 31.—The river rose here two and a half inches during the last twenty-four hours. The Iron Mountain trains have been shut out of Helena owing to back water in the St. Francis river having flooded the track across the Laguillo river bridge north of Marianna. Fifty thousand bags of sand for use here in repairing the levee were thus stopped. Work on the whole line of levees is being rapidly pushed in order to be ready for the bad weather yet to arrive. Camp Black, established by the relief committee for the care of the colored refugees, is now a village of nearly 200 souls. The rescue steamer Maude came up from below last night and reported the levee below as being in good condition and ready for eighteen inches more of water.

Schooner and Crew Probably Lost.

Greenport, N. Y., March 31.—The little schooner Charlie Hastings, which sailed from Newtown Creek, L. I., on Wednesday last for Orient, heading down Long Island sound, should have reached the latter port on Friday, but nothing has been heard of her since she sailed, and it is feared she foundered in the heavy gale of Thursday and that all on board were lost. It is the general belief here among sea captains that the schooner has gone down.

Thawed Out a Box of Powder.

West City, Mo., March 31.—An accident occurred at McDermott & Gunning's mine at Orongo, three miles north of here, yesterday afternoon, which cost Ben Brewer and Lon Gunning their lives, both being blown literally to pieces. They were miners, and while thawing out a box of powder it exploded

THE TARIFF DEBATE

Vote on the Amendments To Be Taken This Afternoon.

MEMBERS TIRED OF THE DISCUSSION

Republican Opposition To Certain Parts of the Bill Again Shown---Leaders Anxious for Its Speedy Passage.

Washington, March 31.—The discussion of the tariff bill under the five minute rule will close at 3 o'clock this afternoon and a vote on the amendments will then be taken, after which the measure will be discussed as a whole and the majority is anxious for its speedy passage. The weariness of the flesh began to be manifested when members sought to relieve themselves from the tediousness of prosy debate by vehemently applauding the speakers. Mr. Wheeler's request yesterday afternoon for an evening session was objected to vigorously. Republican opposition to the bill was again shown by a discussion of the question of putting a duty on hides. Mr. Cannon, rep., Ill., said he would like to see one imposed, but would vote for the bill as the committee on ways and means approved it. Mr. Hepburn, rep., Iowa, was more outspoken. He said the value of the hides produced in the United States far exceeded that of wool, which dwindled into insignificance beside it. He appeal to the committee on ways and means to test the sense of the house on the proposition. But Mr. Dingley refused to pursue that course, stating, instead, the reasons why the committee did not recommend a duty. The day was nearly all occupied in disposing of amendments offered by the committee on ways and means, most of which went to perfecting the phraseology or making classification clearer. An amendment putting books, maps and charts imported for the use of schools, colleges and public libraries on the free list, was agreed to; also one restoring the McKinley rates on horses and mules.

PALMER'S APPOINTMENT.

His Nomination for the Position of Public Printer Was Generally Expected.

Washington, March 31.—The nomination late yesterday afternoon of Frank W. Palmer of Illinois to be public printer had been generally expected for the past week and caused no surprise, although several other names were mentioned for the place. Other nominations sent in yesterday were: Alexander M. Thacker of Pennsylvania, to be consul of the United States at Havre, France. Assistant Surgeon James H. Oakley of Illinois, to be a passed assistant surgeon in the marine hospital service. Mr. Thacker married the daughter of the late General Sherman. Their wedding was a society event in Washington about fifteen years ago.

Three Persons Suffocated.

New York, March 31.—Three persons were killed in a fire in an apartment house in this city last evening. They were Miss Ellen Morrissey and a 3-year-old boy and his mother who have not been identified. Escape was cut off by the flames and in the top apartments on the fifth floor they were slowly suffocated to death. The fire started in the basement of the house and burned so quickly that some of the occupants had to be rescued on ladders.

The Philippine Islands Revolt.

Madrid, March 31.—An official dispatch from Manila, capital of the Philippine islands, announces that in an engagement which has just taken place between the Spanish troops and the insurgent forces thirty insurgents were killed and 1,097 surrendered. Three thousand families from the insurgent camp have reached Manila.

Municipal Trouble at Gloucester.

Gloucester, Mass., March 31.—The controversy between Mayor Cook and Marshal Parsons continues. The mayor says he has instructed the marshall to enforce the liquor law, but the latter official insinuates that his honor does not want it enforced, and claims that he is unable to obtain warrants in consequence.

Dinner to ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland.

Princeton, N. J., March 31.—An informal dinner was given last evening to ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland at President Patton's cottage. A number of invited guests from New York, Philadelphia and Trenton were present to meet the ex-president and his wife.

THE RETAIL CREDIT SYSTEM.

A singular phase of the retail credit system has recently been developed by a New York banker, who has been looking into the subject, and who proposes to shortly make it the theme of an address which will no doubt attract wide attention. He finds that the credit given to individuals by butchers, grocers and the department stores, although small, taking each account by itself, amounts in the aggregate to a sum which undoubtedly has a very important influence on the money market. This is largely due not so much to the pressure of customers as to the conditions of competition. Some of the larger stores, it appears, solicit credit customers. They make special inducements to customers to open accounts. It is stated that they have turned thousands of cash customers into credit customers, with the hope by this means to keep hold of their customers and stop their going to other stores. In addition to this, the customer buys more freely when he does not have the pay cash down. The effect of this practice is to require the big merchants to keep large credit departments and a careful watch upon those who run bills with them. The growth of this system of small retail credit and their effect on the financial situation is now being investigated by those who make a study of such subjects, and the result will shortly be given to the public.—True American.

THEATRICAL.

The only fun in town this week will be at the Music Hall next Friday afternoon and evening when the big guns of the comedy, the Gormans, will appear in their successful musical sketch "The Gilhoolys Abroad," assisted by an excellent company of comedians, singers, dancers and pretty girls. "The Gilhoolys Abroad" is the funniest and best musical comedy produced in years, and has been entirely rewritten for this season. It is overflowing with specialties and combines all the recent musical successes. Every artist has been especially engaged with a view of their adaptability to their respective parts. "The Gilhoolys Abroad" is an entertainment for dyspeptics, there being not a dull moment in the whole show. There is everything to please the eye and ear, nothing coarse or rude, but good clean wholesome fun, and plenty of it.

Mirth and melody will reign supreme at Proctor's Twenty-third street, New York, this week. First and foremost in musical attractiveness is the renowned 'cellist, Auguste Van Biene, whose pre-eminence as the most brilliant and sympathetic 'cello player of modern times is universally admitted. The mirth provoking portion of the programme is headed by George Fuller Golden, the king of eloquence and laughter, whose funny stories and up-to-date comments on the world in general have made him a vaudeville star of the magnitude. But Mr. Golden will not monopolize the muse of the comedy, as drollery and diverting specialties will be in continuous evidence from noon to 11 p. m. McAvoy & May do a grotesque and wildly eccentric comedy skit that never fails to set the house in a roar. John Tirney will be on hand with comic specialties. Slade Murray, the English comedian, will introduce his Music Hall repertoire with song and dance ingredients. Canfield & Carlton will appear in a bright comedy sketch, and Flatow & Dunn are billed for a turn of the farcial song and dance order.

—W. J. Stephenson, the North avenue, caterer, has adopted in connection with his restaurant the serving of table board. From Mr. Stephenson's well established reputation as a caterer nothing is necessary to be said as to his bill of fare.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

Miss Yates Explains Some Features of English Politics and Government.

The many who enjoyed Miss Elizabeth Upham Yates' delightful lecture on the U. S Congress, last week, found her talk on the British Parliament, in the Y. M. C. A. hall, this morning, even more interesting and instructive, since it was about a less well-known subject.

Miss Yates first described the House of Lords, the highest judiciary body in the realm, to which appeal may be had from the courts all over the Nation. This House has over five hundred members, but rarely more than thirty are present at one time, and a quorum to to transact ordinary business consists of two members and the Lord Chancellor.

The House of Commons has 670 members. These members do not necessarily reside within the borders of their constituency. If they are not approved by the people of their own borough, they may represent another. Elections do not occur at any stated time, as with us, but whenever the Queen issues a writ of election. Candidates pay all the expenses of the election; there is absolutely no public appropriation for the purpose. Bribery is prohibited; a candidate's wife cannot even give a lawn party to a set of people she is not in the habit of inviting.

The Queen has no veto power; if a bill is passed by both Houses, she is obliged to sign it. Royalty is not what it was a few hundred years ago. However, she has two undoubted prerogatives. She can call, prorogue, or dissolve Parliament at any time, and if she is anxious about the fate of any bill in the House of Lords, she can create enough Peers of her own way of thinking to insure its being passed.

READY FOR SEEDING.

All is Activity at the City Sewer Farm at Present.

All is activity at the sewer city farm at present. The time has arrived for the planting of the different crops that the street committee of the Common Council have decided are to be raised there. The preparation of the beds for the reception of the seed was one of the first things to be done on the arrival of the good weather.

All the beds, except those in constant use, of which there are three or four at present, have been ploughed and prepared for the planting, and all that is needed now is the seed. The street committee has selected corn and potatoes as the principal crops to be raised on the farm this summer, and the beds will be sown with the necessary seed in a few days. There has been some delay on the part of the local dealers in getting the seed, but it will make no material difference.

Bible Class Entertained.

The Young Men's Bible class of Monroe Avenue church was very pleasantly entertained last evening at the home of Adam Neumann, of No. 510 Madison avenue. Vocal and instrumental music together with sociability, helped to pass an evening of enjoyment.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Wm. Wilhelm today moved into Mrs. K. Maier's house on Front street.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson has returned from a visit with her sister in New York city.

A. N. Randolph has been visiting the family of John Dalrymple, at Quakertown, Hunterdon county.

C. D. Taylor and wife drove over to New Brunswick yesterday, on a trip combining business and pleasure.

W. B. Mead has leased the Samuel Skinner house on Front street, and he moved into the house yesterday.

H. L. Moore has leased the L. D. Titsworth house on Prospect avenue and took possession of the same yesterday.

The friends of George Richardson say that he has been investing in Hunterdon county horseflesh. The animal is a fast stepper.

Miss Mattie Barrett, of Rockview Farm, left for Brooklyn today to spend some time with relatives in that city. From Brooklyn she will go to Passaic.

George Day auctioned off yesterday the farming utensils and household goods of W. Meserole. The bidding was spirited and the goods brought very good prices.

The Dunellen Athletic Association hold occasional meetings, but they have not yet come to any definite conclusion concerning a paid baseball team and enclosed grounds.

Mrs. Katherine Maier, of the Park Hotel, celebrated the fifty ninth anniversary of her birth, yesterday. During the afternoon and evening many friends called and extended their greetings and wished her many happy returns of the day.

At 9:30 o'clock Monday evening an alarm of fire was sounded and the department responded with its usual alacrity. The apparatus was hauled a quarter of a mile, when it was found that the only thing burning was the dry grass and brush in the woods near Elysian Lake. The firemen went back to the engine house.

A joint meeting of the trustees and stewards of the M. E. church was held Monday evening, when the subject of calling a new pastor to succeed the late lamented S. F. Custard, was considered. It is understood that the Board of Trustees have two or three applicants in view, but no decision was reached at Monday night's conference.

A. A. Parker has about 100 choice game bantams, and other select breeds. Today on special orders he shipped a consignment of fowls to Louis Hess, Jr., at Cobbleskill, N. J., and to Wade H. D. Warfield & Co., at Sykesville, Md. He also shipped this morning by express three valuable birds to Lawrence Jones, of Louisville, Ky.

New Market is arousing from its lethargical state, and soon expects to be annexed to the main land of civilization by means of the trolley. The town is also going to have a big "blow-out," it is said, on Decoration Day, such as aquatic sports on the lake and athletic pastimes on shore. Arrangements to these ends are now being made.

The last sad rites following the death of Mrs. Eva Giles-Giddis, who died at Port Richmond, S. I., on Saturday, were enacted in the M. E church here this morning at 10 o'clock in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the deceased. Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Port Richmond, had charge of the service, and he paid a loving tribute to the departed, whom he characterized as a true Christian woman and generous to a fault. Interment was made at Plainfield.

When a person takes a careful and considerate view of things here in the borough it is no wonder that the merchants raise objections to the trolley entering the town, although they frankly admit that it would be a great convenience. Most of the larger dealers have been assiduous in their efforts to build up a paying trade, and now they say the advent of the trolley has knocked their business out to the extent of some 30 to 40 per cent. As an illustration of the popularity of the trolley, it was noticed that thirty four persons were in one car early Saturday evening on their way to Plainfield and other cars running at 12 minute intervals took away their quota of Dunellenites. Then, too, the steam cars took a hundred or so away from the town. Nearly all of these people spent more or less money in Plainfield, for one thing or another, and had it not been for the local means of rapid transit most of this money would have been distributed among the merchants here. One man went to Plainfield on Saturday afternoon especially to buy a ham, and on the way home in the car he said that by so doing he had purchased a guaranteed article, traveled five miles to do it and yet he had saved enough for five round trips on the trolley by going to Plainfield to buy. So it behooves the Dunellen merchants to hustle out their inducements and specialties before more of their customers get in the habit of going to Plainfield.

by far the best of all, and entirely free from alum, ammonia and other adulterants.

PASSING COMMENT.

H. H. Webb writes a letter to The Press explaining the condition of the striated rock now in position in the Public Library yard when it received the scratches that are observed by those who have seen the rock. He writes:

A glacier in motion picks up rocks which it comes in contact with; sometimes these rocks are ragged and have sharp edges, which, in passing over other rocks, owing to the immense pressure exerted, cut out furrows or grooves; these are called glacial striation, markings, scratches or grooves. There was a time, millions of years before the glacial period, however, when the rock referred to was in a soft condition, occasioned by heat; but surely no one will claim the rock would remain hot and in a plastic state the millions of years which elapsed between the two geological periods—i. e., from the time the rock was forced to the surface, where it was discovered, and the time it received the striation—the surface being then covered to the depth of hundreds of feet with snow and ice. The mighty power of a glacier, such as left its record around Plainfield, can hardly be grasped by figures. We may read that the pressure exerted was 10000 pounds to the square foot, but that hardly expresses it to our thorough understanding. It is only when we see rocks weighing thousands of tons which have been broken from their original position and carried hundreds of miles, or ground into powder; or when we look upon the great moraines thrown up by the glacier in its capacity as a monstrous plow, leaving monuments which will endure as long as the earth—that we gain some ideal of the mighty power of an active glacier. When we study such evidences we realize that a rock need not be soft to receive stria.

The New Jersey Central train leaving Jersey City at 4:41 p. m. runs to Jenkinstown without a stop. It is eighty miles. Frequently the train leaves four or five minutes late, on account of fog on the river, detention of ferry boats, etc., but it rolls into the eighty-mile station on time—6:08, or in eighty-three minutes. A slow up occurs across Newark Bay, where two or three minutes are lost, and again water is taken while crossing the Delaware River, just west of Trenton Junction, where two minutes more are lost. Thus it will be seen that, where regular runs are made, it is evident that considerable more than a mile a minute is covered. Many runs between Jersey City and Philadelphia are made showing on several sections a speed of forty two to forty-six seconds to the mile for five or six mile at a spurt.

Many Plainfield lawyers and others who have had occasion to attend court in Elizabeth have been patrons of the chop house owned by the late Hillman P. Ward, and will be surprised to hear that it is closed after an existence of twenty-seven years. Ward was a retired sea captain and a native of Cape Cod. It was the popular resort of business and professional men. Capt. Ward would not allow cigarette smoking in the place, and he several times summarily ejected persons who insisted on violating this rule. The bill of fare has never changed since the house was opened. It was beef steak, mutton chops, oysters, steamed or fried, potatoes, tea, coffee, bottled beer and ale. Capt. Ward died a few months ago, and his sons have decided to give up the business.

Many curious mistakes occur in the postoffice, but one which came to the notice of a mail clerk on the train between Boston and Portland last week was out of the ordinary. A letter addressed to a person at Frankfort on-the Main, in Germany, had been sent here from England, and was being carried to the State of Maine.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver, and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at L. W. WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity.

Howard Manning, of Picton street, is entertaining his sister from Newark.

Miss May Hulse, a New Brunswick belle, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Martin Snyder, of Elm street.

Mrs. J. B. Rogers, of Broad street, returned home today after an extended visit with her parents in Saugerties, N. Y.

The Union County Standard made its first appearance yesterday as a semi-weekly. It will be issued Tuesdays and Fridays.

Fred Coombs, formerly proprietor of the Westfield Hotel, but now of Cranford, has purchased the Berkeley House in Bound Brook. He will take possession about the middle of April.

The ambulence was called today and removed Mrs. Richard Bourke, of Broad street, to the Elizabeth General Hospital. It is said that Mrs. Samuel Clark will soon be taken to the same institution for treatment.

The Westfield Athletic Club gave a progressive euchre party in its hall last evening. There were about twenty tables in all were in operation, and the games were quite equally divided. At 10 o'clock the hall was cleared and an informal dance was next in order.

The Town Committee has engaged the rooms on the ground floor in the Grogan building for one year at $10 per month. The rooms are being fitted up and will be made as convenient as possible for the accommodation of the committee. The first meeting in the new rooms will be held next Friday evening.

George Peck, Jr., recently purchased of the proprietor of the Royal Blue Line lofts a handsome blue cock homing pigeon, register number 303. He was kept in the loft here and mated before being allowed his liberty. But the very first time he was let out of the loft he forsook his bride and went back to his papa. He will be returned as soon as Mr. Peck can send the requisition papers.

The Westfield Gun Club met last evening in the parlors of the Park House and took steps to perpetuate its organization and make its scope wider than a mere shooting association. The name was changed to the Westfield Gun Club and Game Protective Association. The association will be incorporated as soon as possible. The object of the club in adding the game protective feature is the greater privileges it can thus enjoy and at the same time aid the game wardens in suppressing the shooting of game out of season. It is said that as a rule, the Italians and others begin to shoot woodcock in the spring, and by the time the season opens the game is diminished. As soon as the articles of incorporation are procured a new constitution and by-laws will be adopted and the club will then once more start out on its game career.

The merchants here are very much incensed over the recent decission of Judge Beasley, in declaring the special license law to be unconstitutional. They say that it means hundreds of dollars to them. The hucksters can now come into town, or any New Jersey town, in fact, and having no rent or license to pay can undersell the local merchants. Last season the green goods dealers had a harvest under the license law as there were only a few peddlers came into town and they were unable to cut prices One dealer in explaining how it worked, said that previous to having the special license, the venders would sell strawberries from two to five cents cheaper than a local dealer could sell them and other fruit and vegetables in the same proportion. They admit, however, that it will be a boom to the venders and consumers, but that's different. The merchants would like all the boom themselves.

Rev. Henry Ketcham, pastor of the Congregational Church of Christ, has prepared the programme for special services in his church during Holy Week. The programme in part is as follows: Monday evening, April 12th, there will be a sermon by Rev. J. A. Francis, of New York. Subject: "The Barren Fig Tree, or Christ's Test of Character." The devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. George A. Francis. On Tuesday evening, April 13th, there will be consecration services led by Rev. J. L. Scudder, D. D., of Jersey City. On Wednesday evening, April 14th, there will be a sermon by Rev. Josiah Strong, D. D., of New York. Subject: "Lessons of the Cross." The devotional exercises will be conducted by the pastor. On Thursday evening, April 15th, there will be a sermon by Rev. J. A. Owen, of Elizabeth. Subject: "The Substance and Secret of Communion." The devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. W. H. Ruth, of the M. E. church. And on Friday evening, April. 16th, there will be a sermon by Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D. Subject: "It is Finished." The devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev G. F. Green, of Cranford. There will be no meeting on Saturday, but the members of the congregation will be reminded that on that day Christ lay in the grave to rise early the following morning. The music for the week is being rehearsed by the choir, and the meetings give promise of much Spiritual good.

Several houses are still vacant in the Fanwood district. at prices ranging from $25 to $70 a month.

Mr. and Mrs W. H. Turton drove over to Milburn yesterday afternoon on a trip combining business with recreation. They returned early in the evening

W. S Emery is continually making improvements about his place. He is now putting substantial new roofing on his outbuildings and fitting them up on the interior.

Probably at no time before this season has the roads about here been in better condition for bicycling, and scorching is freely indulged in between here and Fanwood.

One of the best-equipped lawn tennis courts in this part of the State is on the A. D. Shepard property. During the past few days the courts have been thoroughly overhauled and put in excellent condition.

Two local fishermen started to drive over to the Passaic river for a fishing expedition early yesterday morning, and when about half-way over the horse they were driving dropped in the shafts and died before medical aid could be summoned.

Now that the baseball season is about to open, the Scotch Plains urchin is in his glory. The boys play altogether in the streets, and although they are oftentimes in danger of being run down by passing vehicles, they simply scoff at the idea and continue in their haphazard way.

A workman, employed by John Marsh, Jr., was riding a "bike" at Park and Mountain avenues, yesterday, when he suddenly lost control of the wheel and ran headlong into a horse and wagon that was passing at the time. The rider wasn't much hurt, but the handle-bars on his wheel were twisted out of shape.

The mountain fires north from here, it is said, were started on Monday by some children who had secured some matches at home and went out to build a bonfire. The fire got the best of them, so they ran home but said nothing to their parents. The fire was still burning last night and eating its way into the thicker wooded land.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A SOCIAL END.

Pleasant Conclusion to Series of University Extension Lectures.

A fitting conclusion for the series of University Extension lectures which have been held in this city during the winter, was held last evening in the Irving School, in the shape of a concert, in which the best of Plainfield's talent participated. A large audience listened to the entertainment and thoroughly enjoyed the different numbers which were excellently rendered. The artists were Mrs. Elizabeth Hamlin Fassett, soprano; Miss Nellie Sperry Udell, violinist; Mrs. Charles L. Lewis, accompanist; Charles L. Lewis, baritone; Albert E Smith, prestidigitateur.

The programme was as follows:

"The Heart of a Sailor".....Adams
Charles L. Lewis.
Hungarian Rhapsodie.....Hauser
Miss Nellie Sperry Udell.
"She Wandered Down the Mountain Side" Clay
Mrs. Elizabeth Hamlin Fassett.
Ventriloquil and Facial Imitations.

RED HAIR A DEFORMITY.

Regarded by Some of the Scotch People With Strong Dislike.

In a sketch of the estimate mankind has put upon yellow and red hair, a writer says that among some of the Highland clans red hair was regarded with so much aversion as to be considered a positive deformity. An amusing instance of this is still kept in memory. A certain nobleman paid a visit to an old Highlander, and was introduced by him to his family, consisting of six fine, stalwart sons. The nobleman, however, happened to be aware that there were seven, and inquired after the absent member. The old man sorrowfully gave him to understand that an afflictive dispensation of Providence had rendered the seventh unfit to be introduced in company. "Ah, my poor fellow," said the sympathizing visitor, "I see—some mental infirmity!" "On the contrary," replied the father, "he is by far the cleverest of the family—there is nothing the matter with his mind."

"Oh, then, by all means, let me see him," said the nobleman and while the old man went in quest of the unpresentable youth, he prepared a kind word for the cripple, whom he expected to be produced. To his astonishment, however, the father returned followed by a fine, tall, handsome young fellow, by far the most prepossessing of the family. "Excuse me," stammered the nobleman, "but I—in fact—I—see nothing the matter with him."

"Nothing the matter with him!" mournfully exclaimed the afflicted parent; "nothing the matter with him! Look at his hair!"

The nobleman looked; sure enough his hair was red!

"Ah, that explains," he readily exclaimed to the relief of the youth, "the reason why he is by far the cleverest of the family."

An explanation of the origin of this bitter aversion may be found in some quarrel between the different clans, since there were clans in which red hair predominated.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

LEGAL FEES.

A Lawyer Paid Himself as a Stimulus to Transact His Own Business.

A would-be client once wrote to Parsons, the American advocate, stating a case for his opinion, and inclosing a $20 note. The other did not reply; whereupon the man wrote a second letter. Then Parsons answered that he had read the case and formed his opinion, but somehow or other "it stuck in his throat." Whereupon, the man, perceiving what was amiss, inclosed a $100 note, and got the opinion. Nobody does anything well for nothing, and certainly not a lawyer. Lord Mansfield was so sensible of this that when, on one occasion, he had to attend to some professional business of his own, he took some guineas out of his purse and put them into his waistcoat pocket to give him the requisite stimulus. Sir Anthony Malone, an Irish Attorney General, was so imprudent as to omit this precaution, and, as Mr. Croake James informs us, was grievously punished for it, for he was so inattentive as regards some property he bought for himself that he lost £3,000 a year by it. In future he caused his clerk to make an abstract of the title deeds of any property he bought, and lay it before him with a fee of 5 guineas, properly indorsed, which the clerk was scrupulously to account for, after which Sir Anthony made no more mistakes, as regarded, at least, his own affairs.—London Illustrated News.

How He Proposed.

"The best 'dinner yarn' that I ever heard," observed a woman at a Boston dinner party recently, "was the story of the young man who was much in love with a certain young woman, but hadn't the courage to tell her so. One evening they were dining out together, and it so happened that a hated rival took the girl to dinner. The rival's manner made the bashful lover suspect that the rival intended to propose to the girl that very evening. As the dinner progressed the lover became absolutely sure of this, and, spurred on by necessity, he resolved to put his own fortune to test, and at once. Tearing a leaf from his notebook he accordingly scribbled a line or two, folded it, and gave it to the nearest servant with a 'Hand that to the lady in blue.' (There was fortunately but one such at the table, or matters might have been complicated.) The girl received the note, opened it, and read: 'Will you be my wife?' followed by his name. He had forgotten to send the pencil, however. But the girl was as ready as the man was lacking, and she turning to the servant and said, calmly: 'Just tell the gentleman Yes.'"—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Mrs. Nansen's Carrier Pigeon.

Mrs. Nansen, wife of the famous Arctic explorer, is the owner of a remarkable carrier pigeon which, after being away from its home for nearly two years, winged its way back over a thousand miles of frozen waste and yet another thousand of ocean and frost and plain. Under its shining white wing it brought a note from Nansen, telling his wife that he was well and the expedition was doing finely.—Tid-Bits.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

TO INVESTIGATE RATE-CUTTING.

Sudden Action of Interstate Commerce Commission Alarms Railroad Managers.

Chicago, March 31.—All the eastern railroads which enter Chicago, except the Chicago & Grand Trunk, have received notices from the interstate commerce commission to forward to the office at Washington on or before April 10 all bills of lading and other evidence of shipment of grain and grain products and packing house products between April 1, 1896, and March 1, 1897. This notice created some surprise and concern among the freight officials, who had been inclined to treat lightly the published announcement that the commerce commission aided by the Chicago board of trade investigation next month intended to make a searching inquiry into the giving of reduced rates. The omission of the Grand Trunk from the list was agreed to by a mistake, although the first impression gave rise to general charges that this road had been foremost in rate cutting. Chicago officials say the evidence desired will be prepared as soon as possible, and they are afraid to be caught furnishing false statements to the commission.

DAMAGE TO SHIPPING.

Severe Hardships Experienced by a Number of Vessels in Port at St. Johns.

St. Johns, N. F., March 31.—A whole fleet of damaged shipping has arrived here during the past forty-eight hours. Among the vessels are the bark Helen Isabella, which has lost sails and deck gear, and the brigantine Jessie, which has sustained general damage. Several of the crew of the latter vessel were frost bitten. The bark Silver Sea also arrived with the loss of bulwarks, boats and rigging. She had to jettison part of her cargo. The schooner Elite had her sails carried away and was frozen in an ice floe for three weeks. Four of her men were frost bitten. All the vessels report that the ice floes are unusually heavy, extending for nearly 300 miles off the coast.

TOWN DESTROYED BY CYCLONE.

A Dozen People Killed and Many Injured in Oklahoma.

Guthrie, Okla., March 31.—A cyclone destroyed the town of Chandler, forty miles east of here, last night. A dozen or more were killed and probably 150 badly injured.

Big Mine Sold.

Duluth, Minn., March 31.—The Cambria Iron company of Pennsylvania has bought a half interest in the Magoning iron mine on the western Mesaba range, the price being put at $400,000 here, although that is not officially known. The mine will produce between 500,000 and 600,000 tons of ore yearly. Carnegie had an option on the mine, but relinquished it in favor of the fifty year contract with the Rockefellers for use of the mountain iron product, causing the smash of the Lake Superior iron ore pool last week.

Verdict for Sir Roderick Cameron.

New York, March 31.—The jury in the suit of Sir Roderick Cameron against A. W. Wright to recover $135,000 damages for the failure of the defendant to deliver to him 1,655 shares of the stock of the North Star Construction Co. rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $41,375. The jury found the stock was worth $58 per share.

Cured by Ice Cream.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 31.—Thomas Kaywood of Fresh Pond, whose life had been given up by his physician after two weeks of hiccoughing, insisted upon having ice cream. It was secured, and after he had eaten a small quantity Kaywood's convulsions ceased. The physician said that he would recover.

Can Mortgage Liquor Tax Certificates.

Newburgh, N. Y., March 31.—In a Fishkill case supreme court justice Joseph H. Barnard of Poughkeepsie has decided that a liquor tax may be subject to chattel mortgage, and the person holding the chattel mortgage is entitled to it in preference to a receiver.

Large Sale of Wool in Idaho.

Caldwell, Idaho, March 31.—One of the largest wool sales of the year has just been completed here. James E. Clinton, jr., representing Heicht, Liebman & Co. of Boston, purchased of Robert Noble 400,000 pounds of the clip of 1895. The terms are kept private.

KENTUCKY DEADLOCK

End of the Senatorial Contest Not Yet In View.

HUNTER MAKING A HARD FIGHT

Came Within Three Votes of Securing the Prize---Bradley's Friends Hard at Work -- Thirteen Ballots Taken So Far.

Frankfort, Ky., March 31.—Everything now points to a long and bitter struggle before the senatorship question is settled. Dr. Hunter's desperate play to be elected senator yesterday by attempting to enforce continuous balloting, was a failure. The Bradley coalition had a secret caucus early in the morning. Forty-eight silver democrats reported ready to vote for Bradley for senator and said nine gold democrats were willing to do likewise. The republicans present said they had enough votes to complete the work. Promptly at noon the legislature met in joint session and the sixth ballot was ordered. It resulted: Hunter, 60; Blackburn, 43; Davie, 13; Boyle, 7; Stone 1. There were 124 votes cast, making 63 necessary to a choice, six pairs being announced. The clerk was ordered to take another ballot. There was no change in the seventh ballot. An attempt to adjourn failed. There was no change in the eighth ballot. In the ninth ballot the only change was a gold democratic vote for H. L. Martin and Blackburn. Tenth, eleventh and twelfth ballots were the same as the eighth. Attempts to adjourn delayed the thirteenth ballot one hour. Nearly every member was eating apples or smoking. There were no changes on the thirteenth ballot and the joint session adjourned until noon to-day.

THE CRETAN TROUBLE.

Foreign Warships Again Bombard Christians---Blockade Not Rigidly Enforced.

Canea, March 31.—The insurgents last night attacked the town of Izzedin, which caused the warships to bombard them. Later the place was occupied by a mixed detachment of international troops.

Hot Fighting at Spinalonga.

London, March 31.—A dispatch to the Central News from Athens states that a strong force of insurgents last night attacked the Turkish troops at Spinalonga, Crete. The troops made a desperate defense of their positions, but could not withstand the determined onslaught of the Christians, and were finally compelled to retreat. There was heavy fighting throughout the engagement. The dispatch adds that a vessel lying in the harbor of Spinalonga, laden with ammunition and other stores for the Turks, was captured by the insurgents.

Crown Prince Takes Command.

Athens, March 31.—Crown Prince Constantine has formally assumed command of the Greek troops in Thessaly. He issued an order to the army in which he expresses his conviction that at this critical hour, when the fatherland was being weighed in the balance, all would do their duty, be faithful to their oath, exhibit patience and firmness and obey the law and their commanders.

Blockade Not Enforced Severely.

London, March 31.—The Canea correspondent of the Standard telegraphs that the blockade of Crete by the powers is not enforced as severely as would be in the case of actual war. Provisions are landed daily. Hitherto only half a dozen small craft, which had already landed their cargoes, have been captured.

Refused To Take Part in the Blockade.

Athens, March 31.—It is reported here that Russia has refused to take part in a blockade of the ports of Greece upon the ground that such action would now be too late to be effective in maintaining peace.

Ex-Assemblyman Kills Himself.

Corning, N. Y., March 31.—Charles Frederick Houghton, vice-president of the Corning Glass works and one of the most prominent citizens of Steuben county, who committed suicide Monday, and whose body was found yesterday, was temporarily insane when he committed the act.

Ireland Unduly Taxed.

London, March 31.—Sir Edward Clarke, has given his support to the motion made by Hon. Edward Blake for a readjustment of the taxation in Ireland. He believed, he said, that it had already been proved that Ireland was unduly taxed.

Death of Hon. Geo. L. Converse.

Columbus, O., March 31.—Hon. Geo. L. Converse, who died yesterday, represented this district in congress for many years. Though a democrat he was a protectionist and worked with Randall for a duty on wool, which caused his defeat for re-election by Hon. J. H. Outhwaite.

Will Increase Capital Stock.

Boston, March 31.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Bell Telephone company the old directors were re-elected and it was voted to increase the capital stock from $23,650,000 to $26,015,000.

Aid for the Railroads.

Washington, March 31.—Senator Foraker has introduced in the senate a modified form of the Patterson pooling bill, which permits railroads under certain restrictions to pool in the matter of transportation of freight.

Medford, Mass., Postmaster Resigns.

Medford, Mass., March 31.—The resignation of Frank T. Spinneo, postmaster here has been mailed to President McKinley, to take effect as soon as possible. Continued ill-health is the cause.

CYCLING COMMENT.

H. R. Munger, of Washington avenue, has purchased a Keating wheel from the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods company.

The present fine weather which is now being enjoyed by the lovers of the wheel and the fine roads has been the means of bringing out a great many wheels. The local cycle dealers are wearing a broad smile in consequence.

Rogers, the North avenue cycle dealer, has just received a marvelous contrivance which will want to stop and have their tires filled with air. The arrangement is outside and works automatically. It will fit the nipple on any tire without changing.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, of Duer street, while trying to avoid a collision with a carriage at the corner of West Front and Grove streets, yesterday morning, met with a lively tumble. He ran into the curb while going quite rapidly and was thrown over the handles of his machine. The front forks were completely demoralized but Honeyman escaped serious injury.

In purchasing a new wheel, the cyclist is called upon to solve several difficult and important problems, one of the most important of which is the choice of tires. The single tube tires and the clincher tires, which seems to be the best of the double tube tires, are there to choose from. Last year, the single tube tire was the preference but this year there seems to be a strong movement in favor of the clincher tire. Of course, the racing man and the wou d be racing man want the lightest that they can get which happens to be the single-tube tire, but for the real cyclist who goes out for pleasure and enjoyment the clincher-tire offers many advantages The claim is made by the manufacturers of the latter tire that it is almost impossible to have any accident to the tire which cannot be repaired so that it will last long enough to get home and thus do away with the very unpleasant alternative of walking. The inner tube can be patched or, if necessary, tied up while a hole or cut in the outer shoe can be repaired with a handkerchief or piece of cloth. A Bayonne man is a firm believer of the clincher tire after a little experience he had with one of them the other day. He was out riding and after going some distance from home his tire flattened out and he was compelled to dismount. An examination showed that a sharp stone had pierced the outer and inner tubes. Of course, his repair kit had been left at home. After emptying his pockets in an effort to find something with which to repair the puncture, he found a postage stamp. This he carefully stuck on the inner tube and then blew up the tire. The pressure of the inner tube against the outer kept the stamp in place and no air escaped while the delighted cyclist rode home in safety. For three days the stamp remained in position and then he had the tire regularly patched. He wrote to the tire company telling of the stamp and used that same stamp to carry his letter. It is needless to say that the company is proud of the stamp. While this is only a solitary instance, it shows how easy the tire is to repair which, at the present day, counts greatly with the cyclist. There are advantages of the single tube tire which should not be overlooked and the cyclist should think well before deciding on the tire he expects to ride this summer.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The state interscholastic games will probably be held at Bergen Point on Saturday afternoon, May 22.

A special meeting of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association will be held on Saturday morning at the building of the Newark Academy.

A meeting of the executive committee of the National Interscholastic Athletic Association was held last Saturday morning. It was decided to hold the national games on June 12th on Columbia Oval, New York, under the auspices of the Knickerbocker Athletic Association.

Carrier Pigeons Released.

Twenty-four carrier pigeons circled around over the North avenue station and then, getting their bearings, started off in the direction of Elizabeth. A crate of the birds was sent to this city, last night, by John D. Schweers, a well known pigeon fancier of Elizabethport. The birds were released this morning at the station by Baggage Master Garretson and started on their way after a few circles over the town.

Connecting With the Sewers.

Quite a number of Plainfield houseowners have connected the plumbing of their houses with the sewer during the month of March. The total number is almost forty.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Bartenstetter, who was killed, has not lived with his wife for a long time. She lives with some friends on Terrill road and it was not until late in the day that she heard of the accident. The dead man had been boarding with friends at Scotch Plains, and his body was removed to that place as soon as possible by some of the firemen.

Driver Townley, of Alerts' hose wagon, made the trip to the Plains in seven minutes. Chief Doane followed close after, while the engine arrived a few minutes later. The Scotch Plains firemen were very grateful to the firemen of this city for their assistance.

The condition of Conrad Peltz is slightly better. He does not seem to suffer any great pain, and he does not remember how the accident occurred. His son questioned him closely and he cannot tell anything about the explosion except that he remembers that he was thrown a considerable distance.

The old hand engine was years ago used in this city, and was known as Gazelle engine. The apparatus showed yesterday that it was equal to the occasion, and did good work.

Chief Hall says that the telegram sent to Chief Doane in his name, was done so without any authority.

TO GIVE VETERANS A GOOD TIME.

Mayor Fisk Appoints a Committee to Assist the G. A. R. Men.

As exclusively noted in last night's Press, the city officials will do their share towards entertaining the surviving members of the Second New Jersey Brigade at their reunion in this city April 9th Last night Mayor Fisk wrote the following letter to E. C. Morse, chairman of the G. A. R. committee of arrangements:

E. C. Morse, Chairman:

Dear Sir—As requested by you, I have appointed a committee from the Common Council to assist in the entertainment of the Second New Jersey Brigade on their visit to this city April 9th; the committee to consist of Elliott T. Barrows, chairman; Ralph I. Tolles and A. A. H Lievers; and have requested them to meet with you on Saturday evening next.

Chas. J. Fisk.

A joint meeting of the Common Council and G. A. R committees will be held Saturday night to perfect the arrangements for entertainment, a forecast of which was published in The Press yesterday.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Additional local news on the third page

—You'll never have a correct idea of Doane & Edsall's $2 and $3 shoes until you have bought a pair.

—Notwithstanding all reports the fee for making sewer connections remains the same and no change is contemplated.

—Health Inspector William Addis has been given the permission of riding free on the cars of the street railway while making inspections.

—The regular meeting of Trinity Commandery, K. T., will be held on Monday evening at which time the annual election of officers will take place.

—An exhibition of the Monarch fire extinguisher was given last evening in the lot adjoining the Babcock building, under the supervision of J. D. Moon, of the borough.

—An entertainment will be given this evening in the German Reformed Church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The proceeds will be devoted to the church work.

—At the meeting of the Sons of Veterans held last evening one recruit was elected to membership. The members discussed the question of going to New York, April 17th, Grant's Birtaday, and taking part in the parade. If the matter can be arranged the uniformed members will go in a body.

The Grandest Remedy.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

A Quiet Day in Court.

It was a quiet day in the court of Justice Newcorn. Yesterday afternoon, the landlord and tenant case of Edmonson against Marley was laid over until this afternoon. The contract case of Boone against Whitehead was discontinued this morning as the interested parties had come to a settlement. The contract case of Boone against Young was adjourned for a week pending settlement.

Promptly Resented.

Up to the catastrophe conversation had been conducted in tones of dove like amiability. She happened to cough slightly, and an expression of alarm crossed his face.

"You have a cold!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, but it isn't serious."

"No one can speak with certainty in a matter of that kind," replied the young man, whom she had often blamed for his extreme practicability "Any cold is serious. It may progress until it wholly undermines your health. I hope that you will take care of your health; if not for your own sake, for mine."

"For your sake?" she repeated. Her teeth slowly clenched, and she added measuring her sarcasm out syllable by syllable: "Perhaps I am not so dull as you believe. I—think—I—un—derstand!"

"Of course; I am interested in your welfare."

"You are accustomed to take things very literally."

"I never claimed to be any creature of fancies," he replied, apologetically

"And, if you have not misquoted him, my father told you the other evening that I am worth my weight in gold."

"Yes."

"I was afraid of it!" she went on restraining an angry sob. "I knew that men are mercenary hypocrites as a rule, and you are no exception You've heard that old story of fathers putting their daughters on the scales and balancing them with money for a marriage portion, and you are getting scared for fear I will get thin before the wedding. I release you. We were not intended for each other Your affinity is some girl who will consent to eat potatoes and other fat-producing foods and use cod liver oil as a bev-bev-erage!"—Washington Star.

Bismarck's Lack of Interest in Life.

Prince Bismarck's life must be a melancholy one if the words he spoke to a visitor recently give a true impression of his state of mind. He said "I feel weak and languid, but not ill My existence is no longer of any use I have no official duties, and what I see as an onlooker gives me no pleasure. Should I live longer it will still be the case. I feel lonely. I have lost my wife, and as regards my sons they have their own business. With growing age I have also lost interest in agriculture and forestry. I rarely visit the fields and woods, since I can no longer ride and shoot and move about as I like. Little by little politics begin to tire me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WOODHULL & MARTIN

We ask you to call and look over our new Carpets. We say new carpets for we had to buy an entire new line. We have what is beyond all question the largest assortment, and best selected patterns ever shown in Plainfield. Carpets are cheaper at present than they have ever been, and much cheaper than they will be if the tarriff be revised. If you need carpets, we suggest that you make some sacrifice (if necessary) and buy this spring while prices are down.

We had to buy new Oilcloths and Linoleums also, and prettier patterns in better goods you never saw. We bought Mattings on the water and the stormy weather has delayed them somewhat, but we don't regret that so much, for we bought them at wonderfully low prices. They are coming in every day now We make and hang shades, poles and etc. Make over and relay carpets and etc. All work done skillfully and promptly.
